N. D. TOWN IN ASHES

Park River, in Walsh County, is Almost Entirely Wiped Out by the Fire Demon

LOSS AGGREGATES $100,000

All But Two Buildings in Two Blocks in Business Center in Ashes.

Park River was visited Thursday by the most disastrous fire in its history, and in three short hours damage was sustained aggregating over $100,000.

The fire started in the hardware store of Loftus, Bannerman & Booth, about 8 o'clock, and is supposed to have originated from the gas plant in that place. The alarm was given and the fire department turned out, aided by every able bodied man in the city, but the flames spread with such rapidity that the department was powerless to stop their progress. The hardware store was situated in about the center of the block, and the fire spread both ways, devouring every business place in the block in both directions.

The flames then leaped across the street and claimed as victims every building in that block with the exception of the Bank of Park River and the building occupied and owned by J. Finseth & Co., both of which structures are of brick.

The night was a very wild one and there was great excitement. After it was seen that the town could not be saved and that at least the business portion was doomed, efforts were turned toward saving the stocks in the buildings, and in a number of cases the loss will be very light.

The losers of the conflagration are as follows:

Loftus, Bannerman & Booth, hardware.
Andrew Hall, barware.
C. J. Fenwick, residence.
Henry Anderson, drugs.
Ole J. Thoreson, confectionery.
J. B. Taintor, meat market.
J. J. Irwin, confectionery.
Andrew Anderson, jeweler.
Dunn Drug Co., drugs.
T. T. Thompson, groceries and confectionery.
Park River Gazette, J. Morley Wyard owner.
Stranhan & Hamre, drugs.
Dr. Haldorson.
W. T. Fellos, tailor shop.
S. O. Huseth, jeweler.
Hall & Brandt, gents' furnishings and clothing.
O. E. Hasle, hardware.
Vacant building owned by I. Davis.
C. M. Parker, who resided up stairs in building.
Building owned by C. E. Nelson, occupied by E. B. Woodward, barber.
Edward Code, confection and notions, long distance telephone station.
Vacant dwelling.
Smith restaurant.
Swarthout livery barn, stock saver.
F. H. Stolz, lumber yeard, office and sheds. One hundred cords of wood.
Duluth elevator with 2,000 bushels of flax and 3,000 bushels of wheat.

GRAND CENTRAL CHANGE.

L. MORIN SELLS TO R. MAROTTE. CONSIDERATION $11,000.

Last Thursday noon Mr. Louis Morin, who for the last four years has so successfully conducted the Grand Central Hotel of this city, turned over the keys to the property, to his successor, R. Marrotte, lately of Little Falls Minn, the deal for the transfer having been consummated last Wednesday evening.

Although negotiations have been pending for several weeks between Messrs Morin and Marrotte for this desirable hotel property, there was a slight difference as to the purchase price, and this obstacle was overcome Wednesday, when the purchaser of the hotel accepted Morrin's proposition The price paid is $11,000, and includes the saloon, stock and fixtures, bed room furniture, horses and bus, and everything else belonging to the hotel proper.

The new proprietor is a gentleman of excellent business ability, having conducted a business at Little Falls for upwards of twenty-five years with good success. The Journal, pleasant and honest, and the Journal, while it regrets to see Mr. Morin retire from active business life in this city, bespeaks for the new proprietor a successful business venture, and welcomes him to the ranks of Crookston business men, and feels certain that he will maintian the high standard of this popular hostelry, to which the retiring landlord has raised it.

For a time at least Mr. and Mrs. Morin will enjoy a much needed rest and will occupy rooms with their family in one of the residence blocks of the city. What business he will next engage in, Mr. Morin does not yet know, but his many friends in this city hope to see him remain in Crookston permanently.

CASS LAKE NOTES.

George Green, a floor walker on the night crew of the Glenmont saw mill, lost the index finger on his right hand and badly injured the second finger. A large stick became lodged in the slasher saw, and while he was trying to knock it out, his hand slipped.

James Dempsey, the logger, has purchased a half interest in the Lydick block and with M. L. Toole now owns the building. Mr. Demsey sold his logging teams to George Lydick, who is logging "dead and down."

The business men of Cass Lake are making arrangements to have a telephone exchange established and be connected with the long distanes system.

WANTED A PAPER.

AND FLAGS A TRAIN GOING AT A HIGH RATE OF SPEED.

The Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic train from east, due Wednesday night in Duluth at 8 o'clock, approached King's siding in northern Wisconsin, forty miles from this city, at a high rate of speed, says the Duluth News Tribune. The train was late and the engineer was doing some tall running to make up for the lost time. Just as the headlight of the locomotive cast a bright glare down the right of way at the siding the engineer saw a signal to stop. He had been in hopes that the train would not be flagged, for he was playing good ball at knocking off extra miles to reduce the time to the bad on the schedule. But there was the signal and the engineer brought the train to a standstill at the siding. The stop was rather a sudden one. The passengers looked out of the windows and Conductor Michael Ryan swung himself off just in time to see the man who had signalled jump onto the smoker. Conductor Ryan gave the signal to proceed, and just as the train began to gain headway he saw his new passenger rushing to the door to jump off.

"Hold on there," shouted Conductor Ryan, what's the matter with you anyway. Where do you want to go?

"Nowhere, I just wanted to get a paper to see how many years Hamilton got," and the man dropped off the step to the ground.

WOULD EFFECT POLK

NEW LAW INTRODUCTED IN MINNESOTA LEGISLATURE.

St. Paul, March 2.—Representative Johnsrud today introduced a bill in the legislature providing for the establishment of a liquor dispensary system somewhat similar to that in existence in South Carolina.

The measure provides that the question of liquor license shall be submitted to vote in all counties of less than 10,000 inhabitants upon the second Tuesday in March, 1902.

Should the vote be against licensing of liquor, it is provided that upon a petition of two-thirds of the voters a dispensary for the sale of liquor shall be established in any city of under 10,000. The liquor is to be dispensed only in packages of not less than one half pint, and before being offered for sale it must have been inspected and approved by the dairy and food commissioner. No city is to have more than one dispensary and the cost of maintaining it shall be paid from the municipal treasury and all profits accruing from its operation shall be turned into the treasury. If adopted the bill would effect every county in the state except Ramsey, Hennepin, St. Louis, Winona, Stearns and Blue Earth.

FATAL DREAM

RESULTS IN DEATH OF WILLIAM BONE OF ANOKA.

Binghamton, N. Y., March 5.—A bad dream caused the death of Wm. Bone of Anoka, Minn., yesterday. Bone was visiting at the residence of his daughter at Kirkwood, twelve miles from this city. He had been suffering from an affection of the heart, for which he had been undergoing treatment, and it was thought that he had nearly recovered.

Bone occupied a room adjoining his daughter's. He retired as usual Saturday night in apparently the best of health. Shortly after midnight a peculiar sound awakened his daughter, and, going to his room, she found him sitting up in bed gasping for breath and staring rigidly at he wall. In response to her inquiry as to what was the matter, he replied that he had seen an awful vision and fell over on the pillow. Physicians were hastily summoned, but he died before they arrived.

It is thought that he had an attack of nightmare, and the fright so shocked him as to weaken his heart, already affected, and brought on a state of collapse.

HE GAVE BONDS.

AND WILL HAVE TO KEEP FROM POUNDING PETERSON.

Red Lake Falls, March 1.—Special to the Journal.—The case of the state vs. Nicholson was up in the justice court yesterday and Nicholson, who was charged with threatening to do great bodily harm to one Hans Peterson, was held in $300 bonds to keep the peace, which were furnished. The facts in the case are about as follows: Last fall Nicholson was employed by Peterson at threshing and at the close of the season could not collect his wages. It is claimed by plaintiff that in an argument over the matter defendant assaulted him with a pair of brass knuckles, seriously injuring him and threatened to seriously injure him in case payment of his wages was not forthcoming. Public sentiment seems to be on the side of the defendant.

FOR LARGE SUMS.

SEVERAL APPROPRIATIONS ASKED IN THE SENATE.

A St. Paul special says: Thursday Governor Van Sant sent a message to the legislature, submitting the report of the commission investigating the subject of a board of control. The report was ordered printed in the journal. Bills appropriating quite a large sum in the aggregate were introduced in the senate, as follows: Grne—appropriating $20,000 to reimburse towns and cities for expenses incurred in caring for cases of smallpox where the state is liable; McGill—appropriating $31,200 for the state agricultural college sub-stations; McGill— appropriating $294,500 for buildings for an agricultural college at the state university; Thompson—establishing a college of pedagogy at the state university, and appropriating $10,000 annually therefor

EVARTS IS DEAD.

New York March 1.—William M. Evarts died at his home in this city yesterday. The cause of death was pneumonia. Soon after 4 o'clock yesterday morning Mr. Evarts suffered a relapse. He became unconscious at 6 o'clock. and breathed his last at ten minutes after 9 o'clock.

KNOX IS FAVORED

He Is Finally Chosen as the Next Attorney General of the United States.

SEVERAL SENATORS OPPOSED

The Appointee a Pittsburg Man and Former Counsel for the Carnegie Company.

Washington, March 5.—It is now positively known that President McKinley has tendered the attorney generalship to P. C. Knox of Pittsburg. It is known, further, that several republican senators from the west are opposed to Mr. Knox for this position. Their reasons for this opposition are said to be many. The principal objection they make to the selection of Mr. Knox for the head of the department of justice is that he is a corporation lawyer, and has been identified for many years with so-called trusts and combinations. Notwithstanding the fact that they realize that the selection of Mr. Knox by President McKinley is principally because they are old friends, at least, figure that it will injure the republican party in the future to have a corporation lawyer made attorney general, and they do not believe that Maj. McKinley is justified in taking this course. They are willing to admit, and have so told the president, that they concede the ability of the Pittsburg attorney, but oppose him on account of his connection with the Carnegie Steel company and other corporations with which he has been connected in the past. They point to the fact, too, that the democrats made a good deal of capital out of the alleged fact that Attorney General Griggs is a friend of the trusts, and therefore favored them whenever it was possible. Whether or not Mr. Griggs has favored the trusts in any way while at the head of the department of justice is doubted. Nevertheless the democrats made a good deal of capital out of the rumor, and republicans now fear that it would be a bad move on the part of the president to place a man at the head of the department of justice who has had nearly a thirty years' record as attorney for great corporations. President McKinley, however, is said to be determined to send the nomination of Mr. Knox to the senate, anticipating that he will be easily confirmed. It is not know at this writing whether or not republicans who oppose Mr. Knox will endeavor to prevent his confirmation. It is doubted, however, that the opposition to the Pittsburg lawyer will be carried this far.

BADLY INJURED

A BEMIDJI TEAMSTER GETS OUT SECOND BEST IN A WRECK.

A special from Bemidji to the Duluth News-Tribune says that James Nussan, who has been working in McCann & Gow's camps, met with a very serious accident. He was driving a team on the logging road when some part of his rig became unfastened and he stopped to make repairs. Before he completed the work a loaded team appeared unexpectedly, and being unable to clear the track in time to allow it to pass, the teams collided, and he was caught in the wreck and suffered the fracture of one of his legs in two places. He was taken to the hospital at Walker.

W. B. Smith, Archie Hiliard and some other parties have concluded to put in a saw mill on section 9, township 147, range 31, and now have a portion of the material on the ground. They have contracted to saw 1,500,000 feet of lumber for the actual residents in that vicinity and will have the mill in operation about April 15. It is to have a capacity of 40,000 feet per day.

It is given out as a sare thing that the Great Northern railway company will construct a line from Cass Lake northward, between Turtle river and Pimush lake, to Tenstrike, and that operations will begin as soon as the weather will permit.

A party of surveyors are said to be laying out a new townsite this side of Birdie, to be called McRae. This is within a couple of miles of the proposed city of Battle Lake.

WESTERN WASHOUTS.

N. P. AND G. N. ARE HAVING A LITTLE TROUBLE.

Minneapolis, March 5.—A special to the Times from Tacoma, Wash., says: Washouts have badly delayed trains on the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads. The Great Northern had had washouts east of Wenatchee Thursday, resulting in holding up overland trains for two days. The through passenger due Thursday night arrived last evening. Passengers and mail were transferred around the washout and baggage is coming over the Northern Pacific. Two other delayed trains will arrive tonight. It will take several days to repair the break.

The Northern Pacific is suffering from washouts near Garriston, Mont., caused by the chinook winds and melting snow. The trains due yesterday will arrive tonight.

UNWARRANTED ATTACK.

Fertile, Minn., Feb. 28.—Last evening while F. C. Barbolz and the night operator of the Northern Pacific depot were walking on the street they met a stranger who apparently had been imbibing in a quantity of fighting whiskey. Without a word of warning the stranger turned on the two men and knocked them down.

After having accomplished his cowardly attack, he turned and disappeared in the darkness. Today the boys are telling their friends how it happened, and are wondering "when we three shall meet again"

FEED QUESTION SERIOUS.

A. J. Gronna, who returned to Lakota, N. D., from Grand Forks Friday morning, says that the deep snow there has been quite a setback to the farmers, as it has made it necessary to keep all stock in stables, whereas the first part of the winter the grazing was good and no feed to speak of was necessary. In this respect the farmers of this vicinity have been greatly favored, as the snow has not been deep enough at any time this season to cover up the feed and as there were many fields that were not harvested last fall the grazing has been very good and stock has done remarkably well. The fact that the weather has been very mild has also been a great saving, as there have been very few days that were unfit for stock to be out. As a result the farmers have used but very little of the feed, either grain or coarse feed, that they bad last fall, and in the majority of cases will have enough to carry them at least through spring's work. Mr. Gronna says that the feed question near Lakota, and in fact in a great many portions of the state will be a serious one for many of the farmers, and will be an expense that will cut quite a figure.

BOTHA OFFERS TO QUIT.

London, March 1.—The Daily News says:

"We learn that Commandant General Botha offered to surrender on certain conditions and that negotiations are still in progress. It is probable that Mrs. Botha brought the proposals from her husband to Lord Kitchener."

London, March 1.—The Sun says it is officially announced that Botha, commander in chief of the Boers, has surrendered to Kitchener. War office has no confirmation of report.

Manchester, March 1.—The Mail says Botha formally surrended to Kitchener shortly before 10 this morning.

INCREASE PREMIUMS

SOME IMPORTANT CHANGES IN STATE FAIR RULES.

Several important changes in the rules of the state fair association were made yesterday by the committee on revision. In the agricultural department $1200 will be divided pro rata among the county exhibits and six cash prizes will be added for the six counties making the highest scores. The prizes will be $200, $150, $100, $75, $50 and $25. These are over and above the pro rata awards and the winner of the first added premium will therefore take down a comfortable sum in cash.

A new feature of the next fair will be the $50 cash prizes to be given to butter-makers of the county scoring the highest average. The usual $500 in prizes will be divided among individual butter-makers.

DRAINAGE BOOMERS

THEY ARE IN ST. PAUL, LOOKING AFTER THE BILL.

Four prominent boomers of Red River valley drainage are in St. Paul. They are Ezra G. Valentine of Breckenridge, M. R. Brown of Crookston, T. H. Konven of Hallock and E. D. Childs of Crookston. They met this morning and elected Mr. Valentine president and Mr. Childs secretary. They met with the appropriations committee of the house this afternoon and recommended as an amendment to the drainage bill now in the hands of the appropriations committee, that a clause requiring the locality receiving benefits from the appropriation to appropriate an equal amount to that furnished by the state. The drainage committee asks the legislature to memorialize congress to pass an appropriation in aid of the reservoir system in the Red River valley. Similar memorials have been passed by the legislatures of North and South Dakota.

ENJOYED THE TREAT.

St. Hilaire Spectator: The special train from Crookston last Saturday evening that carried two coaches of Masons and the Crookston band stopped here long enough to allow the band to get out on the platform and play one of their select pieces of music, which was very much enjoyed by our townspeople. The band boys were to give a concert at Thief River Falls that night while the Masons went up for the purpose of instituting a lodge at that place.

CUBANS FRENZIED

BY AN INFLAMMATORY SPEECH BY BRAVO.

Santiago de Cuba, March 5.—Senor Bravo, a delegate to the convention at Havana, arrived here yesterday morning on his return and was met at the wharf by an immense delegation.

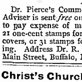
Thousands of people, largely women and negroes, took part in the demonstration. In the course of an incendiary speech, Senor Bravo condemned the proposition of the United States government and the crowd became frenzied, shouting, "Down with the Americans."

This afternoon the Cubano Libre printed an editorial attack upon the position of the American government, accusing the American of bad faith, of "an attempt to impose conditions which it is impossible for a self respecting nation to accept."

The Republican, which takes the other side, said:

"The convention has missed an opportunity to secure liberal terms and the essentials of protection."

Many meeting were held tonight to discuss the situation and there was much talk of possible trouble, but no one thinks of this kind of thing seriously.



"A New Woman."

Disease makes many a woman prematurely old. Dark-rimmed eyes, hollow cheeks and wasted form are accompanied by listlessness and loss of ambition. Home duties are a weariness, and social pleasures have no attraction.

One of the commonest expressions of women cured by Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription is this: "It has made a new woman of me." There's a world of meaning in the words. It means the sparkle brought back to the eyes; the complexion tinted with the rosy hue of healthy blood; the form rounded out anew in graceful curves; the whole body radiant with health.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong and sick women well. It dries debilitating drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. It makes new women of those prematurely aged by disease.

"Dr. Pierce's medicines are the best I have ever used," writes Mrs. C. Nelson, of Chemawa, Marion Co., Oregon. "My health was badly run down when I consulted him by letter. My limbs were cold and my head hurt me continually. I was so nervous that the least thing would startle me almost into convulsions. I had palpitation of the heart so bad that I could scarcely walk sometimes. I felt utterly discouraged, but two bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and one of 'Golden Medical Discovery' made a new woman out of me."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers, or 31 stamps for it in cloth binding. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, No. 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

R & G CORSETS

NEVER STRETCH

The moderately straight R & G No. 397 was and is the corset of comfort with the essence of style. It is straight enough for the prevailing vogue and curved enough to conform to healthful anatomical lines. In 1900 we were unable to fully meet the demand for straight-front goods and unwilling to resort to any makeshift to meet the conditions. At present, however, considerable additions to our factory facilities enable us to keep the trade supplied with real straight-front corsets at retail prices from $1.00 to $2.50, and also our 397, 197, Empire and other popular numbers. There are over seventy styles and sizes of R & G Corsets—a corset to fit every figure. R & G Corsets are the corsets that do not stretch. Every hairbreadth of stretch is taken out of the goods by means of steam-heated iron forms. This gives a permanency to the right shape and form that will stay in it until the last day you wear it. Every R & G Corset is sold with the understanding that it must give satisfaction to the wearer, or the dealer will supply a new one free of cost. If your dealer hasn't it, send us his name and we will see that you are supplied with what you want.

UNITED STATES FAR BEHIND

The Government Has Not Yet But May Take Hold of This Important Matter.

The farmers of the northwest suffer annually a great loss from damages by hail storms. These storms have a disagreeable habit of coming along about the time the grain is heading out, and of laying it low so that it cannot be harvested except with great difficulty. The combination of rain, wind and hail is also destructive of the interests of the small fruit growers, and of the green house men. Although experiments have been tried for the production of rains in arid districts throughout the United States, the other side of the question has not had proper attention, and the American farmer still looks forward to the time when the disasters occasioned by hail storms may be avoided. As yet the government has not taken hold of the matter.

In France where great loss results to the vineyards from the exceedingly hard hail storms which are experienced in that country, there have been plans proposed and put into use for averting such storms. It was thought for a time by the meteorologists that the formation of hail stones was intimately connected with the electricity present in the thunder clouds. Poles were erected and wires were placed upon them for the purpose of drawing the electricity and some of the estates were studded with these hail rods. But it was found that although associated with electric storms there is no sufficient reason for regarding electricity as the chief agent of the production of hail. Later it was decided to handle these storms as water spouts are treated on the high seas, and as it is proposed to shatter the tornado cloud in this country, by the use of explosives.

The use of specially designed cannon for this purpose has become very common. A congress was held in Padua, Italy, the latter part of November to consider the question of firing at the clouds to prevent hail. The reports presented to the congress by wine growers were all in favor of the use of cannon and their efficacy. Insurance men, whose business it is to insure crops against damages from hail attended the convention with the purpose of proving that the firing of cannon was useless. It was resolved, however, by an almost unanimous vote that the practice stopped the movement of the hurricane, that the lightning and thunder ceased, that rain or melted snow immediately began to fall, and that the clouds soon passed away. Mr. Duraud, the director of the large agricultural college near Lyons, reported that his experience left no possible doubt of the efficacy of its use. He found that the vineyards defended by the cannon were protected from the storms where the unprotected vines were nearly destroyed.

A number of cannon were presented to the congress for examination, among which the most remarkable was the powderless one made by Maggiora and Bianchi. It seems likely to revolutionize agricultural artillery. A part of the prospectus of the firm, as given in advance sheets of the report of United States Consul J. C. Covert Lyons, is given below:

In our opinion, this problem encountered almost insurmountable obstacles in the use of powder cannon. It was necessary to find an explosive not only absolutely free from danger and easily handled, but which would also produce the same effect as powder.

Acetylene gas mixed with air has, in our opinion, more than solved this difficult problem.

The cannon which permits the use of this explosive consists of a cylindrical chamber of homogeneous iron, provided with a special tube through which passes the mixture and an electric lighter. This is the chamber where the explosion occurs.

This cylinder is surmounted by a dome formed by a hollow hyperboloide placed in such a way as to direct the lines of force straight towards the clouds, but without permitting them to cross each other; on the contrary, slightly enlarging them.

The tube for the introduction of the mixture is directly attached to an acetylene gasmeter, which is fed as needed by an actylene generator and furnishes the mixture to the cannon.

A rochet, for lighting and an electric escape valve, complete the apparatus.

As will be seen from its simplicity, the apparatus may be placed anywhere and left for years without fear of accident either from the cannon or the explosive material, which is in the generator in the condition of a mineral absolutely inert and consequently harmless.

Suppose we ha d50 cannon stationed upon a given space and connected by an electric wire so as to form one or a number of batteries terminating at one station. By simultaneously closing the circuit between a little battery of piles and the electric escape valve of each cannon, through the action of a single operator, every cannon is charged automatically in a few seconds. By breaking the circuit of the escape valve and closing the rochet circuit, all the cannon or a battery of cannon, accordingly as they are stationed, are discharged at once.

This done—and it only requires about ten seconds—the circuit between the pile and the escape pipe is reclosed and the firing goes on again.

The generator, which we have made expressly for this work, permits the cannon to fire over 1,000 times consecutively without being touched, so that each cannon may be considered in a state of readiness for six months use or longer.

When the charges are used, a supply of cabure of calcium necessary for six months (about 65 pounds) is placed in the generator, and the cannon commences its work against the hail.

The inventors of this gun refuse to sell it, but next year they will undertake to insure European grape growers against all damages from hail for a comparatively small sum.

THEY WILL SUE.

SABIN WOMEN TO BE ARRESTED FOR "CARRIE NATIONING."

The raid made by Sabin women on Harris' alleged blind pig bids fair to prove like a gun, "tho' aimed at duck or plover flew wide of its mark and kicked the owner over," or words to that effect. In other words the owners of some of the property destroyed will have warrants sworn out against the women implicated, charging them with wilful destruction, and the warrants will be served early this week. Messrs. Kuhfeld and M. Simonitsch of Moorhead owned a large part of the contents of the building, consisting mostly of emtpy pop bottles and cases. These goods received the same treatment that Harris' property received, and the result is that these Moorhead gentlemen are quite heavy losers on account of the "grand opening" the other evening.

PRISON IN RUINS.

NEBRASKA'S PENITENTIARY DESTROYED BY DISASTROUS FIRE

Lincoln, Neb., March 2.—The Nebraska state penitentiary is in ruins. The fire which started at midnight destroyed the cell house and the entire main building, and the loss will not be less than $300,000, and will probably exceed that amount. The building was practically new.

The only building saved was the east wing, occupied by the warden, the chapel and a small reserve cell room.

Precautions have been taken to guard the prisoners, who were removed under extra guard without difficulty.

Lieut. Gov. Savage has arranged to have a sufficient number of the national guards sent to the penitentiary to prevent any escapes being made.

One convict, George Pfineger, lost his life. He was released from his cell with the other convicts, and had marched out with them, but had gone back to get some personal effects. Today his body was found in the ruins of his cell. Pfineger was serving a sentence for the murder of his wife.

The latest estimates reduce the probable losses to $200,000. A remarkable feature of the ruins is that the great walls of the main building, which were of thick, heavy stone, crumbled like pulp under the intense heat.

The actions of the prisoners also were apparently the least concerned of all the excited men when the fire was at its height and never was a body of supposed lawless men more tractable and orderly.

KICKED THE PIG

AND PIED THE PORKER ALL OVER THE BARNYARD.

Fertile Journal: John Rothsten, who lives on his farm five miles southeast of Fertile, was in the village Monday, and related a peculiar incident which occurred at his place recently. It seems that John had had occasion to use some dynamite for blasting purposes last fall, and as he had some of the stuff left over he stored it in the barn and thought no more about it. The other day one of his porkers was foraging for something with which to satisfy the cravings of its ever-present hunger and happened to spy the dynamite. The stuff tasted all right and Mr. Pig devoured the whole of it. It set good on his stomach, too, and in order to make his satisfaction known he grunted contentedly and scratched his side against the hind legs of a horse that was standing in a stall near the scene of the feast. The pig's intentions were the best but the act showed poor judgment, as witness the subsequent event. The horse liked not the feel of the bristles and kicked out viciously, striking the swine full in the stomach. There was a tremendous explosion, and when Mr. Rothsten ran to the barn to see what had caused the noise he found a large grease spot on the inside of the door and a few pieces of hide and bristles scattered here and there. He bethought him of the dynamite, went to look for it and discovered that it had disappeared—and the rest was easy. And thus a glutton came to grief and the pork barrel of his fathers shall know his flesh no more forever.

RICE IS HOSTILE.

HE WILL PRESENT HIS CASE TO THE PRESIDENT.

San Francisco, March 4.—Geo. T. Rice, editor of the Manila Bulletin, who was ordered deported from the Philippines by Gen. McArthur, was a passenger on the transport Pennsylvania, which has just arrived from Manila. Owing to the fact that some papers which he had expected to receive here had not arrived, Mr. Rice was unwilling to make a formal statement of his side of the controversy between himself and the military authorities. Mr. Rice will remain here about a week, when he expectes to go to his former home at Red Wing, Minn.

There he will lay his case before the state officials and congressional delegates with a view of bringing the matter before President McKinley and also bringing suit against the national government for damages. Rice claims that he was kept in close confinement for three days at Manila before deportation. He was under guard all the way across, being allowed the freedom of the deck when outside the port.

Mr. Rice went to the Philippines as a member of the Minnesota volunteers. He is 10 years old.

HE FELL DEAD.

Fargo, N. D., March 2.—George H. Weston, secretary of the Fosston Wind Stacker Company, dropped dead in the office of Hotel Webster yesterday morning. He was about 60 years of age. Heart disease was the cause.

LITERARY NOTE.

A WIFE'S POCKETBOOK.

"The American husband does not seem to be able to get it through his well meaning but halting mind that nothing on God's earth humiliates a wife more than to be compelled to ask her husband for money," writes Edward Bok of "The Wife and Her Money," in the March Ladies' Home Journal. "She instinctively hesitates to do it, and ofttimes she goes without rather than ask. Every wife should be given all that is possible for the husband to allow for household expenses and it should not be doled out to her in driblets nor given to her as a favor: but as her right, and without question. Over such a share she should have independent sway to do with as she sees fit for the wisest interests of her home and children. That is one rightful step. But there is still another. She should have an allowance of her own set apart from the family share of the income. I have no hesitation in saying that if the truth were known it is just this humiliating dependeace upon man for every little trifle that a woman needs that is making thousands of women restless and anxious for outside careers. This is the only fair excuse I have ever been able to see for the hysterical of the modern advanced woman. In that particular she is right and is absolutley justified in filing a protest. A wife is too great and important a factor in the life of her husband to be made a financial dependent."

The March number of The Forum is of extraordinary interest. Sir John G. Bourinot, chief clerk of the Canadian House of Commons, contributes an article on "British Rule in the Dominion of Canada," detailing the political history of Canada under British rule. Hon. Charles Benby, formerly United States Minister to China, writes an article entitled "What of the Democratic Party," in which he discusses the vital questions of the future and their political relation to party action. "The Growing Powers of the President," is an article by Mr. Henry Litchfield West, treating of the increasing responsibilities of our chief executive. In a contribution entitled "Labor Conditions in Switzerland," Mr. Walter B. Scaife presents an interesting summary of prevailing conditions among the workingmen of the progressive republic of Switzerland. Felix Volkhovsky, once a Siberian exile, has an article on "The Hope and Fears of Russia," which reveals many characteristics of the present Czar, not heretofore universally known. "The Nations in Competition at the Close of the Century," by Jacob Schoenhof, treats of the increasing commercial activity of the United States, and certain European nations, and the probability of Great Britain losing her commercial supremacy. "The Career of King Edward VII," by Mr. J. Castell Hopkins, gives a detailed account of the life of England's new sovereign. Other articles are: "The Superintendent from the Primary Teacher's Point of View," by Alice Irwin Thompson; "Tabloid Journalism: Its Causes and Effects," by Mr. A. Maurice Low; "Homicide and the Italians," by Napoleone Colajanni; "The Boer War: A Study in Comparative Prediction," by Mr. Herbert W. Horwill, and "The Machiavelli of Chinese Diplomacy," by Robert E. Lewis.

The March Atlantic, published on Thursday, February 28th, contains a remarkable analysis of President McKinley's character and administration written by Henry F. Macfarland, Commissioner of the District of Columbia, and the well known Washington representative of the Boston Herald. Mr. Macfarland speaks as one having authority, and his reputation adds weight to his denunciation of what he calls "the astounding Hanna delusion;" his sharp-cut analysis of Mr. McKinley's administration; his statement that Mr. McKinley has had his own way more than any other President; his revelation of unknown and generally unsuspected traits in the President's character and facts in his history, leading up to the outspoken conclusion that "it was fortunate for the republic that Mr. McKinley was at its head in the closing years of the nineteenth century." Mr. Macfarland's paper will furnish ample food for reflection and affords numerous texts for discussion.

North American Review:—Neither in the timeliness of its topics, in the ability and representative character of its contributors, nor in any of the other qualities which have raised the North American Review under its present management to the position of acknowledged primacy among the magazines, is the March number of the Review second to any of he great issues which have preceded it. The Most Rev. John Ireland, Archbishop of St. Paul, in an article of great power and eloquence entitled "The Pope's Civil Princedom," expounds the reasons why Catholics regard the temporal power as essential to Papacy for the discharge of its functions and their grounds for hoping that Rome may be restored to the church. Ex-President Benjamin Harrison, in another instalment of "Musings Upon Current Topics," discusses the Anglo-American Alliance and the Boer War. Charles R. Flint, treasurer of the United States Rubber Company, describes the "Business Situation and Prospects in the United States." Sir Charles W. Dilke presents an appreciative paper on the present "King of England.,, Henry A. Castle, Auditor for the Postoffice Department, makes certain disquieting revelations regarding "Some Perils of the Postal Service."

STATE UNABLE.

NO FUNDS FOR PROSECUTING DELINQUENT LUMBERMEN.

Bagley, Minn., March 5.—E. A. Zuver, one of the state cruisers, has found seventeen men and three teams near here, cutting and hauling timber from state lands. He applied for warrants for their arrest, but was refused by all the justices of the peace on the grounds that the county has no funds to prosecute criminal cases or pay justices their fees, lumbermen having refused to pay their taxes on the ground that an excess of taxes was levied above that provided in the organization of the county.

Mortgage Foreclosure Sale.

Default having been made in the payment of the sum of $8, which became due and payable Oct. 26, 1898, and in the further sum of $8 which became due and payable Oct 26, 1899 and in the further sum of $8, which became due and payable Oct. 26, 1900, which is claimed to be due and is due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by George W. Carhart and Marion M. Carhart, his wife, mortgagors, to Jerome W. Wheeler, mortgagee, bearing date the 26th day of October, 1897, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds in and for the county of Polk, and state of Minnesota, on the 16th day of November, 1897, at 4:50 o'clock p. m., in book 78 of mortgages, on page 248.

And whereas, the said Jerome W. Wheeler, the mortgagee and holder of said mortgage, has duly elected and does hereby elect to declare the whole principal sum of said mortgage due and payable at the date of this notice, under the terms and conditions of said mortgage and the power of sale therein contained; and whereas there is actually due and claimed to be due and payable at the date of this notice the sum of forty-two and 40-100 dollars, with interest on $26.40 thereon at the rate of 10 per cent per annum, from the 26th day of October, 1900, and whereas the said power of sale has become operative, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof,

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The southwest quarter of section twenty-eight (28) in township one hundred fifty-four (154) of range forty-seven (47), in Polk county and state of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the sheriff of said Polk county, at the front door of the court house, in the city of Crookston, in said county and state, on the 23rd day of March, 1901, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder, for cash to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Feb. 6, A. D. 1901.

NOTICE OF CANCELLATION OF LAND CONTRACT.

TO JOHN W. RAPER:

Sir: You will please take notice that the undersigned, Aggie Whitman and W. P. Whitman, hereby elect to cancel and terminate the contract for a deed to the northwest quarter (nw¼) of Section No. twenty-six (26), in township one hundred and fifty-three (153), north of Range forty-seven (47) west of the Fifth Principal Meridian in the county of Polk and state of Minnesota, entered into between herself and husband, W. P. Whitman, as parties of the first part, and yourself as purchaser, party of the second part, which said contract bears date the 10th day of April, 1900.

You are further notified that the said Aggie Whitman hereby elects to declare and does hereby declare all of the payments specified in said contract to be made by you to be at once due and payable.

You are further notified that the said cancellation and termination of said contract is upon the ground and for the reason that you have failed to perform the conditions thereof on your part to be performed in this, that you have not paid the payment upon said land which fell due according to the terms of said contract upon the first day of October, 1900, and the interest upon the entire unpaid purchase price specified in said contract which fell due upon the 1st day of October, 1900, or any part thereof excepting the sum of one hundred four and 17-100 dollars ($104.17.)

You are further notified that the cancellation and termination of said contract will take effect upon the 11th day of April, 1901.

Dated this 15th day of February, 1901.

—Mrs. Aggie Whitman,
—W. P. Whitman.

State of Minnesota, County of Polk—ss.

I hereby certify and return, that after due and diligent search, I have been unable to find the within named John W. Raper within my said county, and the aforesaid John W. Raper cannot be found within said Polk county.

Dated this 19th day of February, 1901.

Weekly Reports From the Journal's Corps of News Gatherers.

BEMIDJI.

The coldest snap of the season is now upon us. When the ground hog made his appearance on Feb. 2, he became frightened at his sun photograph, executed a hurried about face—and you know the rest.

Prof. Riggs, of Crookston, recently passed through here on his way to his claim near Grand Falls. He spent an agreeable evening with the local band during its rehearsal, and gave the boys some valuable pointers, for which they were truly thankful.

The new Richards Hotel, at Tenstrike, twenty miles northeast of this city, will be opened to the public next Saturday night. A large delegation from this city will be in atendance, accompanied by the Bemidji brass band and orchestra. The hotel is quite commodious and will accommodate a large company.

Every train that arrives here is crowded with people and it is almost unaccountable where they come from or where they go to, for they all do not remain. While you folks down in the Red River valley are enjoying a healthy influx of people, you should not overlook the fact that there are other localities in our grand state that have attractions.

It seems to be the opinion among lumbermen generally that the Brainerd & Northern extension will not reach Big Fork river in less than two years. If that should prove to be the case, that region will not enjoy the boom that many prophesy before that time, for the simple reason that supplies cannot be gotten into that region until the road is completed, as there are innumerable swamps between Blackduck and the Big Fork.

Frank Jordan, a blind man 23 years of age and a resident of Minneapolis, was found on the railroad track four miles southeast of this city Sunday night, with his feet badly frozen. He refuses to give an extended account of how he came there, except that he was walking on the track in the expectation of arriving at some point. He was brought to the city and taken to the city hotel, where he is suffering great agony, but it is thought that amputation will not be necessary. The authorities will send him home as soon as he becomes able to endure the journey.

You fellows down there in the valley seem to be gloating over the fact that you are selling any amount of land to people who are to become actual residents; that you are the only people on earth. Well, don't dispute your word, but then you should remember that up this way Uncle Sam is our worst rival, as he is advertising to give away any number of quarter sections of land to people who will carve out homes—and thousands are taking advantage of the invitations.

A man from your prairie region, while on a visit here recently, was heard to remark: "What a pity that some arrangements could not be made with the railroad companies whereby the thousands of cords of wood now going to waste within a few miles of this town could be transported to the regions less blessed with the item of fuel." He was right. Really, millions of cords of splendid wood, in the slashings where the pine timber has been cut, will never do any one any good, and it will gradually return to dust.

Bemidji has forged so far to the front during the past two years that we are not a little bit jealous of any town in this region, not even the much talked about Cass Lake, and now our citizens can sit back in their easy chairs and laugh at the sport caused by the actions of the boomers of the rivals towns of Blackduck and Tenstrike, two of the new towns that have sprung up on the line of the Brainerd & Northern extension. They are really booming, as the former now glories in the possession of six booze joints and the latter five. vEreybody, seemingly, is looking out for the welfare of the unsuspecting lumberjack.

Recently a considerable number of lumberjacks have been shifting from one camp to another, while others have settled with their employers and left this region. Within the past few days it has developed that quite a number of our business men have been swindled by having given out goods and money on forged time checks. So far none of the swindlers have been apprehended, but the supposition is that a gang of sharpers have been tmployed in the camps this winter for no other reason than that of getting onto the signatures of the various foremen, whose duty it is to issue time checks to the employes of the different logging camps. The total amount of these forgeries so far discovered will reach into the thousands, and those who are the victims are considerably worked up over the matter.

Our beautiful weather of last week took a very sudden cold Saturday night, when a regular Dakota blizzard swooped down upon us in all its magnificense and array. If it is just the same to those Dakotans, our thinly clad people would be very much obliged if they would put a ring in the nose of their blizzards and tie them out near their straw stacks, where they could feed, rather than allow them to forage upon a peaceable people up here in the woods.

Bemidji is to have another bank, and many of our citizens were in hopes that the Scandia-American bank of Crookston would make satisfarctory arrangements to continue the business of the Merchants' bank, which recently discontinued business. Wadena parties will soon reopen the bank, it is understood.

ST. HILAIRE.

Many of the men employed at the sawmill have returned.

County Commissioner Johnson was in our village last Monday.

A baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. Gunstad, Monday, March, 4th.

K. O. Gigstad was at the county seat last Monday on probate business.

The storm of Sunday morning did considerable damage to chimneys etc.

Hotel Markham is being decorated and painted by painters from Crookston.

The planing mill was shut down Monday afternoon on account of the hard wind.

The Stolvig family, who have been sick with typhoid fever, are slowly improving.

Fred Miller, Supt. of the St. Hilaire Lumber Co., spent Sunday and Monday at Crookston.

Mr. Zaiser, of Red Lake Falls, was in St. Hilaire Tuesday last on his way home from Grand Forks.

Many houses are being moved from the east side of the river over into the town proper this winter.

Dr. Argue, of Red Lake Falls, who had been doing dentist work here for a couple of days, went to Thief River Falls Tuesday to attend to his parents at that place. The doctor is doing good work, as is shown by his growing practice.

DONALDSON.

O. J. Mulvey's leg is all o. k. now.

Sjobolm is busy hauling in his wheat at present.

Mrs. Phettcher made t trip to Argyle Friday evening.

August Fogelberg was a pleasant visitor here Friday.

Frantz Youngren was doing business in town Monday last week.

Wm. Thomas has shaved off his nice beard of red whiskers.

K. J. Lind took a spin out west Thursday with the hay team of Peters'.

A. O. Raaen left Donaldson again after a short visit, for his home at Lake Park.

J. J. Lind's dog "Mollie" is dead, on account of her playfullness with her jaws.

An addition is to be made to our new restaurant in the near future. So Con says.

John and A. K. Lind, and Con Miller took in the show at Kennedy Thursday evening.

E. A. Kindler has purchased the fine quarter section of land formerly owned by Peter Lund.

C. W. Phettcher thinks he will subscribe for the Journal and give up the county papers altogether.

Fred Seeger, eight miles east of here is going to sell all of his stock and machinery at public auction on March 11th.

George Hallberg, our genial carpenter and hunter is erecting a brand new ice house at our local hotel for summer service.

A. O. Raaen, our old friend, called on us Tuesday, after an absence of four months. We were all glad to see him back, although he will only remain for a short time.

C. O. Haugeland, general merchant east of here hauled home a 1,200 lb., safe the other day. Good prospects for you Christ and a good investment.

A jolly crowd returned from Hallock Tuesday evening where they had attended court. But Erik has not come home yet, something must have happened to him.

A. F. Hallberg brought down a small hog from Hallock but was unfortunate in forgetting his fur coat on the train, so it took a free ride to Stephen from which place it was returned the next day.

Miss Gibbs ended a successful term of school last Thursday. The scholars gave a program of songs and recitations as an entertainment on the last day. Miss Gibbs returned home Friday morning.

A whole congregation gathered at the school house last Sunday and patiently waited for the Sweedish pastor. But however it was, he did not come that day, so they returned home without hearing any sermon.

Miss Bessie Nichols was the receiptent of many beautiful presents last Monday evening. It being her nineteenth birthday. She was greatly surprised when all the young folks from town came prancing into the room. A very enjoyable time was had until four in the morning. Will surprise you again next year Bess.

LENGBY.

A. J. Olson received a car load of flour Thursday.

Julius Fredrickson went down to Fosston Monday on business.

Olson and Larson received a car load of farm machinery the past week.

W. L. Hilliard took the train for Crookston Sunday, returning Monday.

A grand masquerade ball will occur in Argall hall next Saturday evening.

Prof. Aakhus left for Crookston Saturday, and intends to stay there about six weeks.

Mrs. N. O. Nelson has been visiting her parents in Brandsvold for the past week.

Mrs. Chas. Olson went to Fargo Saturday where she will visit friends for about two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Olson and Dahel Olson came over from Ebro and attended the basket social Saturday night.

A. J. Olson, manager of the Lengby brick yard, went to Grand Forks Saturday to buy some machinery for the yard here.

A general caucus will be held in Lengby, March 8, for the purpose of nominating candidates for the coming town election.

Town election meeting in Argall hall between the hours of nine a. m. and 5 p. m. March 12th.

Miss Violet Saterstrom went to Fosston last Sunday for the purpose of attending school at that place.

Most of the Indians have stopped hauling wood for the Lengby merchants and have gone to work in the lumber camps for the rest of the winter.

Farmers or others who want to get good stock or improve their old stock would do well to correspond with him about stock or eggs for hatching.

The basket social given by the Ladies Aid Society of the Synod Church was well attended, especially by the young people, the sale was good and a fair sum was netted.

The Lengby school closed Wednesday. It was the grandest affair that ever took place in that house, a fine program was rendered in the form of a contest as to who was the greatest man, George Washington, Abraham Lincoln or Henry W. Longfellow. Lincoln got the prize. The house was filled with visitors and the day will be one long remembered by all.

Two large handsome silver caps adorn the jewelry case of Saterstrom, Olson & Co., they were won by Mr. A. J. Saterstrom on his light Brahma chickens, exhibited at Fargo, N. D. at the poultry show held there last month. Mr. Saterstrom was very successful with his birds, he exhibited five birds and won 1st. prize on hen, 1st. prize on cockerell 1st. and 3rd. prize on pullet, and 1st. prize on pen, also several special premiums of considerable value and as sweepstakes he won one of the above silver cups on the higest scoring bird in Asiatic class, and the other cup on the highest scoring pen in the show, all classes competing. Mr. Saterstrom is to be congratulated upon his success at that show as the competition was very keen and it goes to show that he has birds that are hard to beat.

CARMAN.

Miss Grace McClaran is reported to be quite ill.

Miss Katie McCloran is better after a siege of La Grippe.

Mrs. H. T. Nicholson is not gaining very fast from typhoid fever, but we hope she will soon be better.

The Carman club will give a rousing entertainment in the near future and a big time is looked for.

We are very thankful to hear that our friend Mr. Compton is gaining fast and will soon be able to be out again.

Miss Kate Nicholsen is on the gain after quite a tussel with the La Grippe, and her best friends in Carman are very glad to hear it.

The I. O. C. S., a club exclusively of the feminine gender was organized in Carman by a few of the best of them, they gave a party at the home of their secretary for the members only. A leak in the private vault in which are kept the minutes of the meeting, discloses the fact that although the male portion of the party were imitations, the evening was a marked success. The mock wedding was an exceptionally brilliant affair and the boys think they are not in it.

NEILSVILLE.

The school will be out this week.

Anton Horte favored Crookston with his presence Friday.

Mrs. Martin Arneson has been on the sick list, but is reported better.

Robt. Leik, traveling for Park, Grant & Morris, sized up our town Tuesday.

W. Brekke, Henry Simon, John Paulsrad and Ole Moseby attended Sousa's concert at Crookston Monday.

Mr. Murphy, with the Bradley-Clark Implement Co., transacted business with Steenerson & Lanager Tuesday.

Julius Spokkelle left for Crookston Monday morning to take a position with Rosenthal & Falk, in the C. O. D. store.

C. C. Melsness wishes to extend his most hearty thanks to all those who helped to take care of him during his recent illness.

Mrs. J. G. Olson, who has been seriously sick with the grip and other complications for several weeks, is now reported as on the mend.

E. C. Onstad has sold his hardware stock and rented his store to John Steenerson and Elling Lanager, formerly of Climax. The new firm have taken charge.

E. C. Onstad has sold his two quarters of land in section 2. The other two quarters owned by Paul Simon and Thor Amundson respectively have also been sold.

MOSER IS GUILTY,

MUST SERVE 21 YEARS FOR WIFE MURDER.

Pekin, Ill., March 6.—Samuel Moser, who killed his wife and three children, was found guilty and sentenced to 21 years in the penitentiary.

Moser, whose father is said to be wealthy, formerly was a member of the Amish religious sect.

He became separated from his family he charges, through the peculiar beliefs of his sect, which forbid the show of affection for members of a particular family.

Moser claimed in his story of the crime that this so affected his mind that he decided to wipe out his family rather than to submit to separation.

After the deed he left the state and was arrested several months later at Salt Lake City. He did not deny the charges made, his counsel relying on a plea of insanity for his acquittal.

After a trial lasting a fortnight, the jury went out and after debating all night returned a verdict finding Moser guilty. He accepted the long sentence calmly.

HEAVY FAILURE.

JOHN F. SEARLES MAKES AN ASSIGNMENT.

New York, March 6.—John E. Searles the well known financier, made an assignment for the benefit of creditors to Henry - wight. Mr. Searles was treasurer of the American Sugar Refining company until a few years ago, and president of the Western National bank of this city, suceeding Brayton Ives. In his latest and most important enterprise, the American Coton company, he was associated with United States Senator Jones of Arkansas. The latter company controls and is said to have done a prosperous business. It is not affected by Searles' assignment.

The announcement of Mr. Searles' financial embarrassment was not surprising in banking circles. Besides a fine town residence in Brooklyn, Mr. Searles also has or had a fine summer home at Buzzard's Bay, Mass., near the Joseph Jefferson. As treasurer of the Sugar company and president of the Western National bank, Mr. Searles had gained a reputation for business sagacity and because of his reputation was asked to enter the directorates of various corporations. His friends say that he seemed to have unlimited faith in the posibilities of the American Coton company.

One of the banks with which Mr. Searles had an account is the Merchants' National of Wall street. An officer of one of the leading banks down town stated today that Mr. Searles had been in a bad way for money since last fall.

VOL. XXV CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA, THURSDAY, MARCH 14, 1901 No. 49

A ROUSING MEETING

The Mass Meeting Monday Evening Attended by Most Representative Business Men

WHO RECOGNIZE FARMING INTERESTS

Able Discussions and Some Pertinent Pointers Listened to With Great Interest.

Pursuant to notice given through the city papers a mass meeting was held in the city hall Monday evening, of which John Cromh was made chairman and J. W. Wheeler secretary. By request Mr. Hoverstad, manager of the Experiment Station, stated the object of the meeting was to consider the needs of the state Agricultural School, Experimental Stations and the State Fair Association, and to take such action as seemed advisable to bring pressure to bear upon the legislature, now in session, to assist in getting the desired appropriation. He stated that the Crookston Experiment Station had made an estimate of their requirements for the coming two years as follows:

For experiments and maintenance, $7,000 a year.

For added equipment, $10,000, to be available in 1901, $6,000 of this to be expended in the erection of a new cattle barn, $2,500 for the purchase of cattle, $1,500 for ditching and fencing.

He spoke of the interest which had been manifested at the thirty or forty farmers' institute meetings he had recently addressed, and of the importance to the agricultural interests of the state, of experimental work to be done. At the conclusion of his remarks A. C. Tuller read an interesting paper on agricultural schools and interests.

E. D. Childs then addressed the meeting, giving some valuable statistics in connection with the growth of the Agricultural School from an attendance of eighteen, when the school opened in 1898, to five hundred and forty-one at the beginning of the school year in the fall of 1900. The need of the Agricultural Station at St. Anthony Park for the coming years would require an appropriation of $250,000.

N. S. Gordon being called upon, stated the need of the State Fair Association, and called attention to the fact that they had received no aid from the state toward new buildings for ten years past. He stated that the agricultural department had been overcrowded for the past four or five years, and that they had been compelled to make the exhibits under the Amphitheatre building, in the old pool room, a place inadequate and wholly unfit for these exhibits; that if this department of the fair, as well as all of the other departments were to continue to make the successful exhibits that they have made in the past few years, that it would be absolutely necessary for the state to make suitable appropriations to construct the buildings asked for.

M. R. Brown being called upon spoke of the vast importance to the state of its agricultural interests and contrasted the appropriations for higher education with the appropriation for a practical education of the agricultural schools and experiment stations.

On motion the following were appointed as a committee on resolutions: N. S. Gordon, M. R. Brown, E. D. Childs.

The following were appointed as a committee to appear before the appropriation committee of the legislature to assist in impressing them with the importance of this interest: A. D. Stephens, William Anglim, W. E. McKenzie, C. A. Tullar, N. S. Gordon, M. R. Brown, J. W. Wheeler.

The meeting was successful from beginning to end, and gave positive expression of the intense interest taken here by every citizen and all classes of business men, in the advancement of the local experiment station, under the able management of Prof. Hoverstad. The station at this place is considered one of universal advantage to northern Minnesota, and no other enterprise or industry is more essential to these parts than successful farming.

The meeting closed after a thorough consideration of the immediate needs of the Experiment Station here, and with a full determination to obtain everything possible for its continued successful maintenance.

The following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, the primary source of all our wealth is drawn from the bosom of Mother Earth; and from the development of these resources spring all our commercial and manufacturing interests, and,

Whereas, agriculture is the most important of all our industries, furnishing food, raiment, and support for a larger proportion of our population than any other one branch of employment, and,

Whereas, in these days of special training and of combines in all channels of industry, resulting in the largest possible aggregate of returns from the smallest possible expenditures of effort and expense; a more widely disseminated knowledge and training in scientific agriculture among the masses of our farming population is the crying need of the hour, and,

Whereas, the foundation for such technical training and knowledge has been wisely and deeply laid in our state school of agriculture, with its well planned Experiment Farm and sub-stations, supplemented by its farmers' institute work, together with the magnificent state fair grounds and association, all of which are, and by right ought to be, considered each as but parts of one great whole in the advancement and education of our farmers' sons and daughters in their chosen profession.

Therefore, be it resolved, that in our judgment the most important duty before the legislature of Minnesota now assembled in St. Paul, is the proper providing of funds for carrying on the work and supplying the necessary buildings for each of our agricultural interests—the Experiment Farm and station, its sub-stations at Crookston and Grand Rapids, the farmers' institute work and state fair grounds.

To this end we believe it to be their bounden duty to grant the FULL AMOUNT asked for by the management of each of these great interests, for the erection of buildings and for their maintenance and support.

Further be it resolved, that we deprecate and protest against any action on the part of the legislature which shall look toward the cutting down of any of the appropriations for these great interests, thinking thereby to increase the appropriation to the State University proper, or to any other of the state institutions. We believe these have been given the preference in times past to the detriment of the agricultural interests, and now feel that the time has come when these shall wait while this is given its proper place at the head of the list of public institutions. And be it further

Resolved, that if the legislature should find the sum at their disposal for this purpose to be too small for the proper care of all our public institutions, then we believe it to be their duty, and we entreat them to prepare, and enact, into law a separate bill, whereby a specific tax shall be levied of sufficient amount, and for the purpose of giving to our agricultural institutions the money they so urgently need to fit them for their special duties, looking not only to the needs of the present hour,, but forward to the future. Be it further

Resolved, that we heartily endorse and commend the work being done at our substation at Crookston and express our desire to see its opportunities for good enlarged by liberal appropriations. Be it further

Resolved, that a committee consisting of M. R. Brown, N. S. Gordon, A. D. Stephens, W. E. McKenzie, J. W. Wheeler, C. A. Tuller and William Anglim be appointed to carry this preamble and resolution to the joint sub-committee of appropriations of the legislature, with our humble petition that they lay aside all political and partisan bias and grant this relief asked for.

SOCIAL EVENT

FERTILE WORKMEN ENJOY A PLEASANT EVENING.

Fertile, March 9.—One of the social events of the season was the entertainment given by the A. O. U. W. lodge of this place. Mr. Tatrae was chosen as chairman of the occasion, and introduced the first speaker, Rev. C. Clements, of Anoka, Minn., a deputy grand master of the order. Mr. Crements, without a doubt, is one of the most fluent, as one of the most intelligent speakers that has ever appeared in our village. He continually kept the large audience in good humor by his witty remarks and anecdotes, at the same time explaining the benefits of the order.

deal of praise for the beautiful selections which she rendered. She has a magnificent voice and it is a great treat to hear her. The male quartette is to be complimented on their well rendered selections. The screen work was given by the lodge, with a fine lecture by Rev. Clements on each scene, after which Mr. Wilson, grand chief of honor, delivered a short address. After the entertainment a Degree of Honor lodge was organized with about 25 members, which took until the small hours of the morning.

FERTILE MARRIAGE.

PROMINENT POLK COUNTY PEOPLE JOINED FOR LIFE.

The Fertile Journal this week contains the following account of the marriage of two of that town's popular young people:

On Sunday afternoon, March 3, at the home of the groom's parents in this village, occurred the marriage of Ernest W. Barholz and Miss Otena Larson, Rev. Oefstedal performing the ceremony. Miss Emma Gullickson acted as bridesmaid and the groom was supported by Louis Larson.

After the ceremony, which was witnessed by about sixty of the friends and relatives of the contracting parties, a wedding supper was served, and the balance of the evening was most pleasantly spent with games and conversation.

The groom is one of Fertile's best known and popular young men, having resided here for the past sixteen years. The bride has spent the past four years in our village, and has a large circle of friends and admirers. The young couple were the recipients of many beautiful and valuable gifts—tokens of the esteem in which they are held by all who know them.

Mr. and Mrs. Barholz expect to make their future home in Fertile.

STOLE WHEAT.

TWO EAST GRAND FORKERS ARE UNDER ARREST.

Tuesday morning Deputy Sheriff Hurst of East Grand Forks arrested Paddy Lynch and Joe Stanfes for wheat stealing upon the complaint of B. Tiedeman and Henry Horn two substantial farmers of Tabor, this county.

It seems that the two farmers have been missing wheat from the granaries for some time past and a short time ago Horn put up a job which it would seem was very successful. He placed a quantity of tinsel in the wheat bin that had been tapped. Several days ago he discovered that his bin had been touched again and at once drove to East Grand Forks.

He visited the various elevators and after an interview with W. H. Close, one of the wheat buyers of that place, he discovered that the wheat that had been marked with the tinsel had been disposed of at that place. A short time afterwards warrants were issued and Stanfes and Lynch arrested. Lynch was found in the country, but Stanfes was still in East Grand Forks. The two men are now in jail and will probably be given a hearing some time today. Stanfes has heretofore borne a good reputation, but Lynch has been in trouble before on the same charge and only escaped prosecution for the reason that others implicated were well connected. It is probable that there will be a vigorous prosecution in the present case.

WARM ELECTION.

BEMIDJI ENJOYS A REAL LIVE CONTEST.

Bemidji, March 14.—(Special to the Journal.)—Yesterday morning, at or before sunrise, the denizens of this spirited burg were on the war path, the occasion being election day. To a casual observer, one who was unacquainted with our manner of doing things, he might have been led to think that ere the sun sank beneath the horizon there would be many candidates for the grave. But the village election passed off good humoredly and not a single life was sacrificed.

There were four distinct tickets in the field, and each contained the names of one or more men who were perfectly acceptable to all, but it seemed that nearly every man in town was afflicted with the disease to hold an office of some description, no matter how small or insignificant. The epidemic was much more "catching" than the alleged smallpox that has been reported as afflicting this town of late. We are now competent to properly diagnose the epidemic—"office."

We have a few "booze joints" here, but they were closed as tight as a drum all day, and only one man was arrested for drunkenness, the police being unable to discover where he obtained the tanglefoot.

At the election last fall 583 votes were cast in Bemidji. Yesterday that numbed was enlarged to 623 votes. F. E. Dudley was re-elected mayor, the only man who succeeds himself on the entire ticket. The town council is believed to be in better repute than the old one, and it is hoped that things will move along much more smoothly than heretofore. There were only seven scattering votes, which goes to show that the voters were very much in earnest.

Bridgie, the new town that has just been founded on the south shore of Bartlett Lake, on the line of the Brainerd & Northern extension, is the latest addition to the numerous towns that are springing up in northern Minnesota. The surveyor's plat was placed in the hands of Silver Bros., of this city, last Friday and up to the present time 34 lots have been sold, all to persons who intend to improve them as soon as material can be gotten on the ground. The location is said to be very desirable and it is in the center of a fine farming country. It is claimed that the railroad will be extended to that point this season and if such shall prove to be the fact, the town will assume respectable proportions before snow flies next fall. Messrs. Backus and Brooks are at the head of the enterprise which assures its success from the very beginning.

Hendrum Review: The farmers' institute Thursday was very successful, a good attendance being secured. Messrs. Hoverstad and Glover are very able speakers on their subjects and kept the audience deeply interested throughout. They spoke mainly creameries, cows and corn fodder, which they recommended as the best combination on the calendar—and it undoubtedly is. They expressed themselves very much pleased with their audience here and promised another institute for Hendrum whenever their route is laid this way.

HAD HOT OLDTIME

State Game Warden Fullerton And Secretary Meeker Get Game Slayers.

ARE TAKEN TO BEMIDJI.

And Will Have Hearing This Afternoon Before United States Commissioner.

It was an eager crowd that gathered at the G. N. depot Monday evening to meet the St. Vincent train, which reaches here at 6:45. Everybody seemed anxious to get a glimpse of the men who were arrested at Thief River Falls Saturday for violating the state game laws, and who would arrive on the train from the north last evening in charge of Sam Fullerton, executive agent of the game and fish commission, and D. W. Meeker, secretary of the commission. The prisoners had been taken to Warren by Deputy State Warden Murphy and his assistants and when the state officers arrived there yesterday morning to take charge of their men, they were confronted by Sheriff Sampson, of Red Lake county, who had habeas corpus papers and demanded the release of the men under arrest. Attorney Montague, of this city, who accompanied Fullerton and Meeker to Warren as attorney for the prosecution, argued the habeas corpus proceedings for the state. After hearing the evidence the writ was annulled by Court Commissioner Sam Cook. The men under arrest are Fred and Henry Cook and George Wilcox. After having the writ dismissed the state officers placed the men in charge of Sheriff Forsberg of Marshall county, while they themselves proceeded to load the evidence seized into a Great Northern express car, billing it to the state of Minnesota at St. Paul. This move was deemed necessary to avoid further replevin proceedings on the part of the defendants.

On the way down from Warren the party, consisting of the three prisoners and Sam Fullerton, D. W. Meeker, P. O. Stephens, Scott Riddell and A. A. Glenn, met with no interception in carrying out the law, until they approached Angus. Here Sheriff Sampson of Red Lake appeared in the car where the entire party was seated and served warrants on Stephens and Riddell, the two deputy wardens who assisted in making the arrest of the poachers, charging them with assault. This led the state officers to believe that an attempt would be made to take away their prisoners, and they immediately handcuffed them and chained them together. The party reached this city without further molestation and the prisoners were turned over to Sheriff Thos. Bailey, of Bemidji, who had reached here on the five o'clock train to take the men back for trial to Beltrami county, where they did the game slaying. Sheriff Bailey placed the men in jail over night and Monday morning, accompanied by Sheriff Sullivan, took them to Bemidji.

The game seized, together with the hunting outfits and other paraphernalia, weighs nearly 1,800 pounds, and almost filled an entire express car. The invoice of the seizure was listed by the officers as follows:

Four mounted moose heads; One sack Caribou scalps; One sack taxidermists tools; One Moose carcas; Five mounted and one unmounted Moose heads; Five mounted Caribou heads; Six unmounted Caribou heads; Three large bundles of Moose and Caribou hides; Box of Moose and Caribou hoofs One Mouser rifle, valued at $250; Four Winchester rifles, and minor articles, in all amounting to more than $1,500.

In conversation with a Journal reporter last evening, Secretary Meeker stated that this capture was only the begining of raids that would be made by the commission, and although this was perhaps the largest one made for years, the officers expect to find many other cases of equal magnitude, when they start out on their crusade against game law violators in northern portions of the state.

Editor Smiley, of the Thief River Press, came down Monday on the "game train" and spent the night in the city. Smiley is of the opinion that public sentiment up north, is in favor of the prisoners.

With all the stuff captured, the state will be able to start a soup house at St. Paul, and serve moose meat for the balance of the present legislature.

Much credit is due Deputy Warden Murphy in following up his trail of the poachers, and their final arrest. Although he encountered several exciting experiences, he has established his age needed by an officer.

Deputies Riddell and Stephen left immediately on reaching here Monday night, and returned home. Tuesday morning Sheriff Sampson, of Red Lake Falls who drove over from Euclid during the night, was looking for them in vain, and felt awful uneasy when he found that the men he served with warrants on the train had ignored his authority and decamped.

For a newspaper "feller," Secretary Meeker displayed considerable courage in handling the case, and although Editor Smiley accuses him of using Moorhead "pluck water" to keep up his upper lip, the Journal is inclined to consider the Moorhead pencil pusher a competent officer.

TRIED TO ESCAPE.

A PRISONER'S PLANS NIPPED IN THE BUD'

Stillwater, Minn., March 12.—A guard at the state prison in this city has been placed under arrest charged with aiding Edward Lelsad, a convict, in an attempt to escape from that institution, and although it cannot be verified, it is said a former guard at the prison and a woman supposed to be Leland's sweetheart are under arrest as accessories.

Leland was received at prison from Minneapolis Oct. 30, 1899, to serve ten years for robbery, and has for some time been what is termed "trusty."

He was not permitted to go outside of the prison walls, but was liberated at 5:45 a. m. to wait on the table in the officers' dining room. He was also president of the Chautauqua circle at the prison. Notwithstanding this he is said to have a bad record. According to the statement of Warden Wolfer, who does not care to have the names of the parties implicated to appear in print just now, the arrested guard was paid $435 for his work.

The agreement was that the guard was to give Leland a key that would unlock the door leading from the cell room into the yard, and to give him all necessary information to perfect his escape.

The plan was concocted early in December, and the money was to be paid in January. It was paid to one guard and another became involved. Arrangements were made to supply a rope ladder at the south wall, in the rear of the warden's house, where Leland's sweetheart would have a team in waiting, also a suit of clothes.

Warden Wolfer first learned of the plot March 1, when the woman came here to see Leland. She came again to chapel Sunday morning, and later a guard was seen to meet her near the prison, and the guard record book at the prison showed that this guard had been out most of the time nights between Friday and Monday. It was also discovered that the guard had a box at the post office where he had received a large amount of mail for himself and Leland.

The office in the twine shop, where Leland worked, was searched for evidence, but the only thing found was a pack of torn notes in a waste basket. Some of these were pasted together. One from the guard and one from the woman outlined all the plans of the conspiracy and what would be done for him after he got out.

With this information an investigation was pushed with all possible speed. The parties involved were shadowed, and incriminating evidence, together with the key with which the door was to be unlocked, was soon discovered. The key had been made on the outside of the prison at the request of one of the guards, who tried it and found that it was faulty.

The impression of the key was taken by Leland with soap, and when the guard found that it would not fit he wrote Leland a note and Leland requested him to secure better material. It was then arranged that the guard would go to St. Paul and by means of a bogus telegram, telling him that his sister was lying at the point of death, the guard secured permission to leave the prison on Thursday.

He was shadowed in the Twin Cities by officers and was arrested Saturday by J. S. Glennon, cell room keeper at the prison, on an Interurban car between St. Paul and Minneapolis and was brought to the county jail in this city, where a charge of felony has been lodged against him, for which the penalty is not more than seven years, a fine of $1,000, or both. Warden Wolfer said the guard met the woman implicated in the affair at St. Paul Thursday, and was in her company part of the time. Yesterday they arrived at the prison with material with which a second impression of the key was to be made. This consisted of wax, putty and plaster paris. Confessions are said to have been obtained from two of the implicated parties.

HARRISON DEAD.

Few men in public life in this country have excelled General Harrison in ability. It is true that he made many enemies during the four years that he occupied the White House, but at the same time he displayed qualities that won him the respect of millions of his fellow countrymen. Since his retirement from the highest office within the gift of the American people he has enhanced his reputation as a statesman and his views upon the grave questions that have arisen during the past few years have commanded wide atention. As has been aptly said, he has demonstrated that a term in the presidency affords, by all odds, the most valuable education that a public man of real ability can have, and has illustrated the further fact that the clearness of view and the unobstructed vision which that experience confers are unlikely to be realized until the posibility of a continuance in power or return to it has vanished.

GETS OFF EASY.

Litchfield, Minn., March 13—The case against Richard Kadditz for shooting three school boys was dismissed by County Attorney Foster. The fathers of the three boys, Kadditz and a disinterested party held a conference at which it was agreed that Kadditz should pay the expense of keeping the Frase boy in the hospital here and the other two at Atwater and Hector. Accidental discharge of the gun was the defense.

FIRST TRAIN LOAD

A Special Great Northern Train Arrives From Iowa Thursday Morning.

IT HAS THIRTY-THREE CARS

Of Live Stock, Farming Implements and Household Goods.

The first of the many Great Northern trains which will reach here during the spring months from Iowa, southern Minnesota and points in Wisconsin, reached here last Thursday morning. The train was made up of thirty-three freight cars and two passenger coaches, and the former contained farming implements, household goods and livestock of the new settlers, while the passengers coaches carried the new comers and their families. Four of the cars were cut off when the town of Russia, in the southern part of the county, was reached, and the balance of the train proceeded on to Crookston. Here a general distribution followed. Some of the new settlers were taken to McIntosh and other points on the Duluth line, while a majority of them went out on the St. Vincent and Thief River Falls lines.

A large portion of these new people will settle on Great Northern lands, which they have purchased through Geo. Purvis, the land agent of the company at this point. One of the new comers stated to a Journal representative this morning that this first influx was only a beginner. He thought that at least 5,000 people from Iowa, and mostly from the vicinity he came from, would be added to the population of northern Minnesota during the next three months.

AMONG THE FIRST

ARRIVAL OF THE NEW RUSSIA FARM OWNER.

Among the first to arrive on the ground with the land seekers' rush from Iowa was Hon. John Yeoman, a prominent former citizen of Hartley, Ia., who recently purchased the large Russia farm in the southern part of the county. With him came a carload of farming machinery and implements, household goods and about 20 head of heavy draft horses.

Mr. Yeoman was also accompanied by his family, and expects soon to be comfortably located in one of the best residences in the Fourth ward, in this city, having purchased a residence on Houston avenue. He will devote his time to his financial affairs and his two sons will look after the farming interests in the towns of Russia and Hammond.

Mr. Yeoman states that at least twenty more families will follow very shortly from Hartley.

SETTLERS WIN.

CASS AND BELTRAMI COUNTIES GAIN A VICTORY.

St. Paul, March 13.—The settlers of Beltrami and Cass counties on the one hand, and the Minneapolis lumbermen on the other, fought their battle to a finish in the senate yesterday afternoon and the settlers came off the field triumphant. Senator McCarthy championed the settlers and Senator Wilson the lumbermen.

When Senator McCarthy's bill for the relief of those counties came up, Senator Wilson tried to amend each. He was willing that their power of taxation should be extended a little bit—that Beltrami county should have authority to levy $30,000 above the village and state taxes, but he wanted the limitation continued in the interest of the people who owned property in that county. He did not say settlers.

Senator McCarthy said that opposed to the interests of the Minneapolis lumbermen were those of 18,000 settlers who wanted to maintain schools and a county government. They had gone there to make homes for themselves and to develop the country. He admitted that in Beltrami county they had exceeded the limit of taxation imposed by law, but it was not a matter of choice. It was one of necessity. The Minneapolis lumbermen, he said, wanted to avoid taxation on their property in that county until the lumber could be removed.

The Wilson amendments were voted down as fast as they came before the senate, and the bills were all recommended to pass.

GETTING LIBERAL.

Thief River Falls News: The News has been informed by a person in a position to know that there will be two trains run each day on this branch this spring—a passenger and a freight train. Both trains will carry passengers, and it will be a great convenience to the people living on this branch. The change is made necessary by the increase in business.

FOR SALE.—A good seven room house and lot for sale, No. 311 4th. street, near the N. P. depot. Also a small barn. Those wishing to purchase will do well to call on Mrs. H. E. Cooke at once and get price as she expects to return east soon. She can be found at the residence of John Wyand.

IT'S FOR DRAINAGE

The House Recommends An Appropriation of $50,000 for Important Purpose.

MYRAN AND BERG FAVOR BILL

And Take Exception to Published Statements Regarding Their Positions.

The house in committe of the whole Wednesday morning recommended for passage the measure introduced by Representative Burg by which $50,000 is to be appropriated for the drainage of the swamps and swampy lands of this state, and providing for the appointment of a commissioner to carry on said work.

Both Senator Myran and Representative Burg, who are both energetically furthering this proposition, take exception to published statements regarding their conduct in the matter, claiming they were actuated solely by the hope of furthering the interests of this state in the matter. While of course the bill has been designed especially for the interests of the Red River Valley, yet the matter was thoroughly discussed in committee, and on showing made it was unanimously decided that the expenditure of this sum of money was actually necessary in order to reclaim many acres of land now valueless, but which can be made productive if drained.

An appropriation of $100,000 was originally asked for, but the committee decided that but half that amount could be expended during the next two years.

FINDS A FORTUNE.

MINNESOTA MAN'S LUCK IN SUPERIOR IRON MINE STOCK.

Chicago, March 9.—Two La Salle street brokerage houses took part in an interesting transaction a few days ago, and incidentally assisted one of their customers to reap a small and entirely unexpected fortune.

About six years ago a man living in Minnesota was induced to invest a little over $9,000 in 1,000 shares of stock of the Lake Superior Consolidated Iron company, one of the corporations controlled by the Rockefeller interests. The unexpected rise in the value of the stock was a long time in developing, however. In fact, the speculation promised to be a losing one for the Minnesota man, and becoming financially embarrassed, he wrote to one of the Rockefellers, stating the facts and asking that he take the stock off his hands.

In reply to this came a letter urging him to hold on to his stock if possible, but stating if he found he could not do so, and would be compelled to dispose of his holdings, Mr. Rockefeller would take the shares off his hands at the price that had been paid for them and would give the seller the privilege of redeeming the stock at the same price any time within six years. This option will expire about May 1.

A few days ago the Minnesota man came to Chicago with a letter to a broker. He related the story of the stock transaction of six years ago, and asked the broker to look into the matter for him and see if anything could be realized on the option. With the assistance of another brokerage house negotiations were begun, with the result that the option given by Mr. Rockefeller was made good, and the stock was resold for a trifle in excess of $93,000. Had the stock been held until today, something more than $101,000 could have been realized on it.

TOUCHED FOR MONEY.

EAST GRAND FORKS HACKMAN IN TROUBLE.

On Wednesday night one of the hackmen who does business on the East Side of the river came to grief to the extent of several dollars, says the Grand Forks Herald, and accused two other hackmen of being the cause of his trouble. One of them was arrested at once and Thursday was given a chance to secure bail, but was unable to do so, and was rearrested and placed in jail. The other hackman who is accused of being implicated in the matter remained on this side of the river and avoided arrest, but it is said that a warrant has been issued for him and that he will be apprehended the first time he makes his appearance on the other side of the river.

The authorities state that in the future there will be no protection for any one engaged in that kind of work, and that those who violate the law in any respect will have to suffer the consequences. This resolution will be hailed with delight by the majority of the population of East Grand Forks.

ANNUAL ENCAMPMENT.

OF THE DEPARTMENT OF MINNESOTA G. A. R.

St. Paul, March 11.—The annual encampment of the department of Minnesota, G. A. R., will be held in this city Wednesday and Thursday. More than 2,000 visitors, including the members of the G. A. R., the ladies of the G. A. R. and the Women's Relief Corps, will be in the city and the commander in chief of the G. A. R. of the United States, Gen. Leo Rassieur, of St. Louis, has promised to attend the encampment.

A number of important matters will come up before the encampment, among them the question of abolishing the office of junior vice commander. Capt. Harries, of Caledonia, senior vice commander, will probably be elected commander to succeed Gideon S. Ives, of St. Peter, and the present junior vice commander will probably be advanced to the office of vice commander.

Gen. Rassieur will arrive in the city Tuesday morning and will be met at the depot by committees representing the department of Minnesota, the various city posts and the Loyal Legion. Tuesday morning he will be the guest of Capt. Isaac L. Mahan, and will meet the veterans at the new federal building. He will keep open house at the Metropolitan hotel Tuesday afternoon.

In the evening Gen. Rassieur will be the guest of honor at a Loyal Legion banquet at the Ryan hotel and will deliver a brief address.

The encampment commences Wednesday morning at Raudenbush hall. In the evening the annual camp fire will be held at the auditorium, and addresses will be made by Commander in Chief Rassieur, Department Commander Ives, Daniel Lawler and other speakers. The camp fire is an open session, and will be one of the most interesting features of the encampment.

The annual convention of the Women's Relief Corps will be held at the Central Park Methodist church, commencing at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning. Mrs. Flora L. Wilson, department president, will preside. The state officers will hold a reception at the Metropolitan hotel on Tuesday evening for out of town delegates, and will be assisted by Commander Ives and Gov. and Mrs. S. R. Van Saat. Four hundred women are expected to be at the convention.

The convention of the ladies of the G. A. R. meets at Odd Fellows hall Wednesday and Thursday. Mrs. Colby, the national president, and Gen. Rassieur, will assist the state officers in receiving Thursday evening, when the latter will meet the delegates at the Metropolitan hotel.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

ANNUAL INTERNATIONAL MEETING NEXT SUMMER.

The Epworth League of this state is enthusiastic over the prospects of a large delegation to the bi-annual international convention of that organization, which is to be held at San Francisco July 18th to 21st. They base their hopes largely on the fact that the time of year is such that the excursionist will see the coast in its fullest bloom and at its greatest scenic advantage, and on the exceptionally low rate which has been granted for the occasion. From Minneapolis to San Francisco via Kansas City, returning via Salt Lake City and Ogden, is quoted at a lower rate than was ever before made for a convention; namely, $50,00, the ticket good returning until August 31st.

What is undoubtedly a far more desirable trip is that same as that already noted as far as San Francisco. From San Francisco the delegate has the choice of the famous Shasta route, running northward through the mountainous regions of northwestern California, Oregon and Washington a distance of 780 miles to Puget Sound, or board a steamer, making the trip to the same point via the ocean. The charge for this magnificent trip is $9.00, or slightly over a cent a mile. This will make the total railroad fare from Minneapolis, over the route outlined and back via the Northern Pacific, $59.00, while the regular winter excursion rate for the same trip is $114.50.

RETURNING HOME.

LUMBERING MEN ARE GETTING THROUGH WITH WORK.

The advance guard of the horses that have been in the lumber camps along the Duluth line of the Great Northern and other places in that direction arrived at Grand Forks Friday. A car load of the draft horses of A. F. Turner and Mr Enright came in on a freight. Mr. Turner says he never had his horses come from the woods in better shape than at the present time, and some of them are hog fat. The season has been a very good one in every way. The weather for the greater portion of the time has been very fine and the roads have been very fair. In the way of accidents the winter has been an exceptional one and very few of the farmers or others from this section who had horses there have lost any either by accident or sickness. On account of the shortage of feed raised in this vicinity last season, there were more teams sent to the woods this winter than usual, and the result has been a big saving in feed to say nothing of the wages they have earned. The O'Connor horses, and in fact most of the others will return the last of next week or before if the roads break up, which will happen if the present weather continues for any length of time without a cold snap sandwiched in.

DIED IN SILENCE.

AN OMAHA PRISONER DIDN'T SPEAK IN 8 YEARS.

Omaha, March 11.—Geo. Pfleuger, who committed suicide recently by permitting himself to be burned to death in the Lincoln penitentiary, died as he had lived—in silence.

Sentenced in 1893 from Cuming county to serve a life term, no man since that time had heard him speak. He was a stranger to the sound of his own voice.

For eight long years he worked on the chain gang, doggedly breaking stone in the prison yard, and in all that time he exchanged with his fellow convicts not so much as a kindly glance.

Thus with Spartan severity did he live up to the oath taken up to the time he was sentenced at West Point, Neb., for murdering his wife.

"As God is my witness," he said, solemnly raising his hand, "I will never speak again." And so far as known he never did. From that moment he held no converse, written or spoken, with a human being.

No reason is known for the taking of this strange vow. If there was one it goes without saying that he never disclosed it. Perhaps by way of repenting for his heinous crime he added the punishment of the state a self imposed torment.

HE WAS RUN OVER

A Young Crookstonite Losses His Life in Idaho by an Accident.

THE DEAD MAN'S PARENTS

Reside in Crookston, and are Deeply Grieved at the Son's Death.

Chief Eck Saturday received a letter from G. E. Barker, coroner at Bonner's Ferry, Idaho, conveying the sad intelligence of the accidental death of Gust Martinson, whose parents are residents of this city.

Martinson left here a short time ago to make his fortune in the far west, and the news of his death proved a severe shock to his relatives and friends. From the letter received it appears that the dead man, who was about 27 years of age, was walking along the railroad track, and in some unknown manner was struck by an engine of a freight train, and run over. The accident occurred on Wednesday and the remains were buried on the day following.

Mr. Barker states that several pieces of personal property of some worth were found on the dead man, and asks for information as to the disposition of the same. He also wants to know if Martinson's relatives desire to have his body sent here.

MAY BE AVENGED.

DOTSON'S SLAYER IS CAPTURED AT LAST.

Helena, Mont., March 8.—Jas. McArthur, ex-convict, wanted for killing Captain Dotson, twenty miles west of Helena, on Feb. 15, has been captured in the western part of the state, after a memorable chase by the nerviest officers in Montana. This may clear up one of the blackest of crimes—a case of parricide. It is claimed that McArthur killed Dotson at the instance of the latter's son, who is serving a 99 year sentence in the pen.

Upon old man Dotson's body was found what purported to be a dying confession in which he said he was guilty of the crime for which his son is being punished. This was first thought to be bona fide, but the authorities later concluded that young Dotson had hired McArthur, who recently left the penitentiary, to commit the crime and leave the confession on the body, in the belief that it might bring about young Dotson's pardon.

Those knowing young Dotson never doubted his resorting to parricide to get out of the penitentiary. McArthur's reward for the murder of Dotson was said to be a large amount of gold that had been buried by young Dotson in British Columbia.

WARRANTS ISSUED.

TRESPASSERS OF STATE LANDS TO BE PROSECUTED.

Bagley, Minn., March 8.—After assurance from the state auditor that the fees of officers and witnesses would be paid in any cases for trespass on the state's lands, warrants were issued for Patrick Foley, T. E. Thompson and Edwin Wilson, complaint having been made and subscribed in writing by E. A. Zuver, one of the state cruisers, Foley took leg bail for it, but T. E. Thompson and Edwin Wilson were taken in custody before Justice Brown, who, upon request of prosecuting witness and the defendants, adjourned the examination until March 17, defendants entering into recognizance in the sum of $300 each for their apearance when the county attorney will appear for the presecution. Trespass on state lands has been going on to such an extent that something had to be done, but the justices refused to issue warrants and bring expense on the county.

THE LOST RIVER.

WINDSOR RESIDENTS WILL ATTEMPT TO FIND IT.

A petition has been circulated and a meeting held for the purpose of opening Lost River. Lost River is a stream which flows near here and at a certain place loses itself for about a quarter of a mile, hence the name "Lost River" says an exchange. In the spring the place where the river disappears acts as a dam and the torrents of water which otherwise would go down the river, backs up into the surrounding country, doing a great deal of damage to the farmers. If this place was opened up, the damage would be stopped. At the meeting a delegate was appointed to lay the matter before the legislature and try to have money appropriated for the opening up of the river.

A SCHOOL ROW.

OVER THE DIVISION IN THE DISTRICT OF FANNY.

John Ristow, an old settler of the town of Fanny, was here Thursday consulting legal authorities in matters connected with the proposed division of the school district in the southern part of his township. The petition on the division was heard at the recent session of the county board, and the prayer granted. The new district members forthwith proceeded to organize, and advertised a school election for the selection of board members.

It is now claimed that a majority of the voters in the divided district did not favor the cutting up of same, and Mr. Ristow wrote to Attorney General Douglas for instructions to prevent the proceedings in the formation of the new district. The answer requests Mr. Ristow to confer with local attorneys, and he is here for that purpose.

LIVE NEW TOWN.

TURTLE RIVER CORRESPONDENT WRITES THE JOURNAL.

Miss Mabel Johnson visited at Farris the latter part of the week, returning Sunday.

Miss Callie Walker spent the end week vacation with her parents at Bemidji, returning Sunday.

Roy Swain, an N. P. civil engineer, and crew of fourteen men from Grand Forks, passed through the village last Sunday on their way north to survey the road beyond Blackduck. They will make Bridgie their headquarters for the present.

County Commissioner John McDougal and L. O. Fiske were guests at French's Sunday, on their way home from Bemidji, where Mr. McDougal attended a session of the county board, and Mr. Fiske made arrangements for the transportation, overland, of course, of a portable saw mill and a fleet of boats for Blackduck lake.

We learn that Peter Pezork, one of the boys at work on the railroad grade in the limits, and who took up a claim while here, was accidentally killed in a lumbering camp near Brainerd. He had a valuable claim, which will now likey go by default.

One of the pleasures we may look forward to this summer is the many excursions that will come up the river from Cass Lake. The fact that the stream is navigable for a steamboat all the way will make this a pleasant trip, and our neighbors down the river can feel assured of a hearty welcome.

The railroad company and its contractors are to be congratulated on the fine grade of the railroad between Turtle River and Bemidji. Among these contractors are Secombe and Taylor of Minneapolis, who have been working steadily since last September in this vicinity. The big cut at the head of Main street is a job in itself. They are now completing the sidetracks and will soon commence on the spur which is to run to the hoisting works on the lake.

That Turtle River is to be the terminal of the line for several months is now conceded by all. The rails, which now are about four miles out from here, will be completed to Turtle River before "All Fools Day" when the track laying will have to be suspended on account of the grading not being completed further north, and the character of the soil and the big cuts and marshes that are to be filled make it impossible for the neighbors up north to look for the iron horse for some time.

Turtle River being the present terminus of the road, there will be a big boom here in the spring. Many people passing through have to stop for a breathing spell, and if they do the spell is upon them, for the many advantages our beautiful lake and scenery offer will be so forcibly brought to their attention that they will conclude to settle with us and not go rainbow chasing further on.

AGAIN VERY GOOD.

PINAFORE DRAWS ANOTHER APPRECIATIVE AUDIENCE.

The second rendition of H. M. S. Pinafore at the opera house Wednesday was again greeted by a large and appreciative audience, many of those present having attended the first presentation. The leading parts and characters in the opera were in nearly every instance even better than at the first production, and the singing of Miss Gertie Gleason, as the captain's daughter, again brought forth deserved applause. Miss Mamie Westerberg, as Sir Joseph's first cousin, and Miss Minnie Walker, as Little Buttercup, were exceedingly good, and this must also be said of the male characters. C. F. Mix as Sir Joseph Porter, K. C. B., proved a whole lot of vocal ability and seemed to be the whole thing all through. Howard Young, the bewitching warbler, never was better, on the stage or off, and Harry Walker as Captain Corcoran won the audience by his accomplished singing. The balance of the cast, including J. H. Bradish, O. C. Rood and M. H. Bromley, were all well represented and the chorus was almost better than at the performance on the previous night.

The production would indicate that Mr. Bromley possesses great ability as a chorus trainer and musical director, as the opera was rehearsed and produced for the first time after but two weeks' practice.

SEVERAL DECISIONS.

A BUNCH OF THEM RENDERED IN PROBATE COURT.

Judge of Proate Hagen Wednesday afternoon handed down several decisions in his court, which have been under consideration for some time. Among these were the opinions in the claims of Fritz Melloch, Dan Nathan, J. H. Hiler, D. G. Flemming and Ludvig Christianson, against the estate of the late Michael Brady, who died some time ago near East Grand Forks.

The claimants petitioned the courts for an extension of time in which to present and prove their claims against the estate, after the time originally granted for filing accounts had expired. G. A. E. Finlayson appeared for the claimants and A. A. Miller for the administrator. A hearing in the matter was had Jan. 25, and counsel submitted their respective arguments in writing.

The court allowed each claim in full.

SHOT TURKEYS

BEFORE GAME LAW ALLOWED THEM PRIVILEGE.

Says the Ada Index: A bill has been introduced in the legislature to prevent the use of repeating shot guns in the hunting and killing of any game. If this becomes a law hundreds of sportsmen in this state will be compelled to lay aside their favorite Winchesters.—Evansville Enterprise.

Though there may be some merit to this bill, it was introduced in the legislature by a few "sportsmen" of Crookston, who were caught last season by a game warden shooting "young turkeys" before the game law allowed them the privilege. On occasions like this probably air guns would suit the authors of the bill.

DURANT FOUND.

SAYS HE ATTEMPTED TO OFFICIALLY DIE.

Paris, March 8.—Mr. Durant, the reported American duellist and his mother were found last evening at the Euston hotel.

When interrogated on the subject of the report of his death in a duel at Ostend, he was greatly taken aback and exhibited extreme agitation at the revelation of his scheme.

Finally resolving upon a frank statement, he explained that he had had a serious quarrel with Mlle. Maugin, his betrothed, and had determined to break off relations with her.

He said he considered the best exit from the difficulty would be to die, at least officially, and that his trouble with the Russian, which was real, offered the easiest solution of his entanglement.

Therefore he took advantage of this method of announcing his death.

He admitted that he enlisted the services of a trusted friend in Paris to secure the insertion of the death notice, and he expressed the greatest chagrin and surprise that the story had leaked out.

When pressed regarding the alleged duel he declined to discuss the matter, saying:

"I received the kindest treatment at the hands of the Russian, and I don't wish to cause pain. I had hoped the plan would succeed, intending to remain officially dead for three or four months, thus giving my betrothed a plausible reason for believing it."

REAPPORTIONMENT

AS MINNEAPOLIS WOULD HAVE IT APPEAR.

The Hennepin delegation introduced into the house Friday morning and reapportionment bill re-districting the state according to their own ideas and wishes. This bill, of course, has about as much chance of passing as would one dispensing with congressmen altogether, but it was made a special order for Saturday, at the time that the Dougherty bill will be considered. The new districts, as mapped out by the Hennepin delegation are as follows:

First—Dodge, Fillmore, Freeborn, Houston, Mower, Olmstead, Steele, Wabasha, Winona and Waseca.

Second—Blue Earth, Brown, Cottonwood, Faribault, Jackson, Martin, Murray, Nobles, Pipestone, Rock, Watonwau and Redwood.

Third—Carver, Dakota, Goodhue, LeSeuer, McLeod, Nicollet, Rice, Scott and Sibley.

Fourth—Ramsey and Washington.

Fifth—Hennepin county west of the Mississippi.

Sixth—Chisago, Mille Lacs, Wright, Stearns, Anoka, Isanti, Sherburne, Benton, Kanabec and East Hennepin.

Seventh—Douglas, Stevens, Kandi-Medicine, Lyon, Traverse, Pope, Renville, Swift, Lac Qui Parle, Lincoln and Meeker.

Eighth—Todd, Carlton, Crow Wing, Wadena, Itasca, Lake, Morrison, Pine, Aitkin, Cass, Hubbard, St. Louis, and Cook.

Ninth—Beltrami, Kittson, Red Lake, Norman, Clay, Otter Tail, Roseau, Marshall, Polk, Becker, Wilkin and Grant.

This bill makes changes from the Daughetry plan, principally in the proposed Eighth, Sixth, Fifth and Fourth districts.

PASSES THE HOUSE.

LENROOT'S BILL FOR A VOTE ON FRANCHISES.

Madison, Wis., March 9.—The assembly yesterday morning passed the Lenroot franchise bill providing that any franchise on petition of ten per cent of the voters within sixty days after its passage by the council, must be submitted to a vote of the people. The Hall memorial to congress urging the passage of the Oullum bill was also passed.

The bill providing for a fire and police pension system in cities of the third class was ordered to a third reading in the assembly.

Among the bills passed by the senate was one to prevent the desecration of the national flag and another requiring a biennial report from the attorney general.

In the assembly the bill to create the town of La Follette in Burnett county passed. The committee on state affairs reported the bill appropriating $20,000 for the Portage levee repair favorably with slight amendments.

Assembly Krumrey's bill to compel cash premiums at agricultural fairs where the society receives 40 per cent of its premiums from the state, was advanced to a third reading after some discussion, in which the opposition was silenced by Krumrey's forcible statement of the need of such a bill.

NEIGHBORS ADJOURN.

SEVENTH NORTH DAKOTA LEGISLATURE DONE ITS WORK.

Bismarck, N. D., March 9.—The seventh legislative assembly adjourned sine die at 10:30 last night. The work of the assembly had been practically completed since 6 o'clock, but both bodies remained in session awaiting the enrollment of bills passed late in the day that they might be signed by the officers of the two bodies.

It was the tamest adjournment ever witnessed in the state capitol building and there was no attendant excitement. Several bills died with the adjournment among them being the county auditor's salary bill, state medical association bill, and law governing the liability of railroads for injury to employes. This bill died in committee after several ineffectual attempts to bring it up.

The usual bouquets of thanks were passed around to the officers and employes of both houses. Senator Snure was elected president pro tem of the senate for the ensuing two years. Tonight's east bound trains carried nearly all of the members to their homes.

THE NEXT CABINET

No Change is Made and the Former Entire Cabinet Again Sworn In.

GRIGGS DECIDED TO RETIRE

As Soon As the President Is Able to Select the Attorney's Successor.

Washington, March 7.—The members of the cabinet were sworn in yesterday afternoon in the cabinet room at the White House. The ceremony was entirely informal, no one being present except the president. Chief Justice Fuller, who administered the oath, and Secretary Cortelyou.

The members stood around the cabinet table and with uplifted hands repeated after the chief justice the oath of allegiance.

After extending to each one and to the president mutual congratulations, Chief Justice Fuller withdrew.

For about half an hour afterward the members of the cabinet remained with the president discussing appointments.

The appointment of the war claims commissioners and the St. Louis exposition commissioners will be made very shortly. In addition some other important appointments are pending.

Although official announcement of the fact is withheld for the present, In order to avoid an adverse influence upon Mr. Meikeljohn's contest before the Nebraska legislature, it is known here that Col. Wm. Sanger of New York has accepted the post of assistant secretary of war to succeed Mr. Meikeljohn.

It is believed that the change will take place towards the end of this month.

Senator Chandler is understood to be slated for the chairmanship of the war claims commission and several of the St. Louis fair commissioners, among them ex-Representative Allen, of Mississippi, W. L. Chambers of Alabama, and ex-Representative Rodenburg of Illinois, are understood to have been already decided upon.

Attorney General Griggs will retain office until the president is able to select his successor.

The president today issued a new commission to Geo. B. Cortelyou as secretary to the president.

SAYS HE'S ELIGIBLE.

CAPTAIN STREATOR TRYING TO BREAK INTO CONGRESS.

Washington, March 9.—Captain Streator, famed in Chicago because of his lake front fights with the authorities, wants to enter congress as a delegate from the "territory of Lake Michigan". He went to the interior department and wanted Chief Clerk Dawson to swear him in, but the chief clerk told him that he had no authority over such maters and advised the captain visit the capitol.

Captain Streator said he brought the electoral vote of the territory of Lake Michigan with him, and he wanted to have it recorded. He said:

I am the duly elected delegate for a term of four years from the new territory of Lake Michigan, east of Chicago range 3, township 47. Territorial form of government was established there four years ago. We have a territory covering 300 acres and have 127 voters.

Neither the general government nor the state of Michigan has any control over this territory and we organized a civil government here. The voters have elected me to represent them for four years, and I am here to do it.

I can't get any satisfaction in this department, but then I don't know much about these things.

EXTENDED TO DULUTH

EASTERN MEN WOULD TAKE A HAND AT RED WING.

Red Wing, Minn., March 9.—It has developed within the past twelve hours that a movementi s under way to extend the Duluth, Red Wing & Southern a distance of 162 miles. Directors of the Southern and the Duluth, Red Wing & Sioux City Construction company have been holding a meeting here to entertain a proposition made by representatives of eastern moneyed men, who will furnish the capital to build the road.

General Hubbard, president of the Southern, is not talking for publication more than to say that the proposition has been made in good faith and that the directors will hold another meeting March 23 to further the project. If extended, the line will cross the river at this point. The status of the Red Wing companies will not be affected at the outset, and probably not at all, by the deal with the easterners.

SERIOUR RIOTS.

IN THE STREETS OF SAN JUAN BY A MOB.

San Juan De Porto Rico, March. 9.—A serious riot occurred here yesterday. Five artillerymen and Corporal Hiscock charged a mob, fired a volley into the air and rescued School Superintendent Armstrong, who was besieged in a house by a riotous crowd of probably 1,500 persons who shouted "Down with the Americans," and similar cries.

The excitement originated in a trivial school incident. The superintendent reprimanded a girl, 10 years of age, for disobedience, and marched her to the front from the rear of the school room. Her dress caught in a desk and was torn, and the girl reported to her mother that she had been kicked and abused. This excited the girl's mother, and sensational stories were circulated with the result that when the school children were dismissed a number of boys gathered and paraded thes treets. They were joined by many loafers and full grown men and it became necessary for the police to escort Superintendent Armstrong from the school house to his home. The superintendent and policemen were stoned, and as the crowd constantly increased, the Americans sought refuge in the Intendencia building. A number of persons from the crowd succeeded in entering the building, but they were ejected by employes and others.

By 5 o'clock affairs had assumed such a threatening aspect that Gov. Allen ordered the mayor to disperse the mob, notifying him to ask for government assistance if he needed it. The mayor, however, paid no atention to the governor's notification. The city police did not even attempt to disperse the mob.

At 5:30 p. m. the offices were closed and Martin C. Brumbaugh, the commissioner of education of Porto Rico, asked for police protection of his office in the hotel.

A treasury clerk, who helped to eject the rioters from the Intendencia, was attacked stoned and disarmed by the mob. Other Americans were stoned from roofs and entrances.

The insular police, who have no jurisdiction in the city except in cases of emergency, and at the call of the mayor and the governor, were not called upon until 6 o'clock. At that time the artillerymen took the initiative without orders and dispersed the gathering.

In the meantime the city police had fired about 100 shots, mostly in the air, for there were no casualties.

At 8 o'clock last night the city presented its usual tranquil appearance. Up to the hour of filing this dispatch there has been no further demonstration.

Gov. Allen deplores the unfortunate occurrences, especially the action of the artillerymen. Corporal Hiscock has been placed under arrest and is now in the guard house. It is probably that he will be tried by courtmartial.

IN LIMBO AGAIN.

REFORMATORY ESCAPES TAKEN AT BRIDGMAN.

St. Cloud, March 8.—At one o'clock yesterday morning word was received at the state reformatory from Principal Keeper F. H. Whitney, who had gone out in the country to the east of St. Cloud in search of the runaways from the state institution, that Larson and Fenholt, who escaped from the institution on Monday afternoon, had been captured at Bridgman and that he would return them to the institution this morning.

The men were observed yesterday afternoon walking along the railroad track between Oak Park and Bridgman by Geo. R. Whitney of this city, collector for the Merchants' National bank, who at once telegraphed the management of the institution of his discovery. The men were walking along the track and one of them seemed to be very footsore, and walking was very difficult for him. A guard from the reformatory was at once sent out toward Oak Park, and Principal Keeper Whitney followed an hour later. As stated, the news came at an early hour in the morning that the men were in custody at Bridgman. A Great Northern train crew had also seen the men yesterday afternoon, and communicated the fact to the police of St. Cloud, but later than the information came to the reformatory.

It is Supt. Randall's belief that the men deserted their posts out of pure homesickness on the part of Fenholt. He is much the younger man of the two and like Larson, is a native of Freeborn county and has never been away from home before.

NEW POSSESSIONS.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE MAKES BEST OF IT.

Washington, March 9.—The department of agriculture is proceeding to make the best it can out ofo ur new colonial possessions. Some time ago it induced Secretary Alger to detail Leiut. Hayne, formerly professor n the Berkeley (Cal.) Agricultural College, and later a member of one of the California regiments at Manila, to make a scientific investigation there. Lient. Hayne organized a staff of fifty men, all of them practical and experts in their particular lines, equipped them with cameras and other appliances and made a thorough survey of the climatic, agricultural, pastoral, timber and other resources of the islands. That such a force could be organized from thes imple soldiers of one regiment is an evidence of the high standard of education prevailing in this country.

At that time the Philippines were under military control, but now that the Spooner has passed and the president is about to establish civil government, the department of agriculture itself is taking a hand. It has selected from its working force two trained lumbermen with some knowledge of forestry, to be sent to the Philippine islands in compliance with a cable request of the Taft commission. The persons selected for this work are Grant Bruce, formerly a state forester of New York, and Edward Hamilton. Both of these men are xpert lumbermen with some training in forestry, and have been selected in view of their special fitness for the Philippine work.

DECORUM IN SENATE.

VICE PRESIDENT WANTS NO APPLAUSE OR DISORDER.

Washington, March 7.—Again yesterday when the senate convened, the galleries were packed with people, a majority of whom, as on recent days, being composed of visitors to the city. The executive gallery was ablaze with blue, gold and epaulettes, the visitors being members of the staff of Gov. Yates of Illinois.

Promptly at noon Vice President Roosevelt entered the chamber. As he stepped forward to his desk to call the senate to order, a burst of spontaneous applause rang through the galleries.

With evident manifestations of his disapproval, the vice president seized his gavel and rapped sharply twice for order. Glancing sternly around the galleries, be said, and the words cut through the chamber like a knife:

"If there is any applause or disorder, the sergeant at arms will clear the galleries."

CAUGHT THE CROOK

Grand Forks Police Arrest a Man Wanted Here for Horse Stealing.

THE THIEF IS BROUGHT BACK

Chief Aaron Eck Lands His Man In the Polk County Prison.

The G. F. Herald on Friday contains the following account of the arrest of a horse thief, who was wanted by the local authorities:

At an early hour this morning a man was arested at the Central hotel by Officer Sullivan for securing a livery team at Crookston under false pretenses.

It seems that on Wednesday evening a man called at oneo f the livery barns at Crookston and represented himself to be in the employ of the McCormick Harvester Co., and said he wanted a team to drive to Fisher. He was given a team and left the city. Later in the evening the owner of the team became suspicious and telephoned to Fisher asking if the man had arrived there. As he had not, further inquiries were made and last evening a telephone message was sent to the police of Grand Forks.

Officer Sullivan started in search and located the team in Kennedy's barn. He then started in search of the man who had left them there and after a short time found him at the Central hotel. When arrested the man gave his name as Frank James, and was recognized by Officer Sullivan as the person who served four months in the county jail last summer for robbing a woman of her watch and $5.

The police of Crookston were notified of the arrest and an officer will be over in the morning to take the team back, and the man also if he will go without requisition papers. Grand Forks is a poor place for a crook to steer to unless he wants to be brought to justice.

When arrested James said that all he wanted was an opportunity to get out of the country. But he will not get what he wants, but what be needs. He had left a call for 2 o'clock at the hotel, and probably intended taking an early train out of town.

The man arrested at Grand Forks Thursday was brought to Crookston Friday by Chief of Police Eck went to O. Bjoin's barn Thursday afternoon and asked for a team to drive to Fisher. He represented himself as an employe of the McCormick Machine Co., but Mr. Bjoin began to doubt the man's statement when he had failed to return by 10 o'clock., He started out to investigate the matter and soon found that James had played him wrong. Bjoin then went to police headquarters and informed Chief Eck of what had transpired, and in less time than it took to hitch up the missing team Eck had his man located at Grand Forks.

James aparently has a somewhat checkered career. He claims to have relatives at Grand Forks whom he wanted to see for the purpose of getting some money, as he was broke and didn't know how else he could get there except with a team. To a Journal reporter he stated that he had been employed at the Hotel Dacotah at Grand Forks and the Waldorf at Fargo in the past, and that only once before he had trouble with police officers, because of a ring which "some girl put on to his finger." He also admitted, reluctantly, of course, that there was a girl in the trip to Grand Forks Thursday afternoon.

The man was taken before Judge Hoit Friday and waived examination, and the hearing was postponed until Ole Bjoin, who went after the stolen team, would return and appear against him.

Much credit is due Chief Eck in locating James in as short a time as he did, and his quick work is further evidence of his terrorism to criminals.

CRISIS PASSED.

NO TROUBLE EXPECTED IN CUBAN CONVENTION.

Havana, March 8.—The Cuban constitutional convention was in secret session yesterday afternoon for a formal discussion of the Platt amendment, and the conservative elelment scored a victory. It was decided to continue the sessions of the convention and to refer the amendment to the special committee on relations with instructions to bring in a report.

It is doubtful if the convention will ever agree to accept the amendment, but the conservatives maintain that the willingness of the radicals to discuss and if necessary to send a committee to Washington, gives a more hopeful aspect to conditions, which were growing strained.

It is generally believed that the crisis, if any existed, has passed and by the time the committee reports the excitement will have died out.

Much depends on the attitude of the radical delegates. Demonstrations may occur, but an uprising is no longer feared.

AWFUL CYCLONE.

LEAVES DEATH AND DESTRUCTION IN ITS PATH.

Memphis, Tenn., March 11.—A heavy wind and rain storm prevailed here at an early hour Saturday night and much damage was wrought. Culverts were washed out and fences and some small trees in this vicinity suffered severely. Telegraphic communication with Texas and southwestern points was interrupted.

Early reports from Dallas stated that the town of Will's Point, sixty miles east of that city, was partly destroyed by a tornado. Five children were reported killed and several persons were injured.

The dead are: Two children of Rev. Mr. Cloud, one child of J. W. Williams, onec hild of J. W. White, and one unknown child.

Twenty-five buildings were demolished and the contents destroyed. The school buildings and the cotton seed oil mill suffered severely. Livestock is reported to have suffered. The town of Will's Point was demolished by a cyclone in May, 1893.

Reports from Terrell, Texas, say that the heaviest rainfall on record occurred throughout the section yesterday afternoon. Several people are reported missing or drowned.

Will's Point, Tex., March 11.—A cyclone passed through the west side of this place, demolishing everything in its track. Four persons are dead and about twenty injured.

Black clouds had been hanging in the southwest all morning. The atmosphere was heavy and at intervals there had been blustering showers of rain. Shortly before noon there was a long roar of rumbling thunder, a puff of wind and then the air was thick with flying timbers. The cyclone came from the southwest, and held to a straight north east course. Its path was about 300 yards wide. It struck the northwest quarter of the town in the residence section. No house was left whole, and those that are not irreparably ruined are in the minority. Most of them are demolished, mere heaps of debris that offer opportunity for the junk man. Household furniture and utensils are strewn farther than the eye can reach, and they mark the storm's path.

ADVICES RECEIVED.

THAT PAUNCEFOTE WILL SUBMIT PROPOSALS.

New York, March 11.—According to a special to the Herald Secretary Hay has received advices that Lord Pauncefote will submit proposals for the revival of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty and for harmonizing the points of difference between the United States senate and the British government.

Senor Silvela, the Colombian minister to the United States, has already formally submitted proposals to Secretary Hay for the acquisition of the Pan-American canal by this government and has been invited to discuss them further. Preliminary protocols were entered into some time ago with Costa Rica and Nicaragua so that these two countries during the summer will probably be merely interested spectators of the moves which the United States and Great Britain and Colombia will make. It is understood these are the ssential points which the Colombian government will urge.

A lease for a term of years, as long as the United States may desire, not exceeding two hundred years, of the territory across which the Panama canal is constructed. In return for such lease Colombia is to receive either a tax or percentage of the tonage passing through the canal or a lump sum.

Recognition of the rights of the French company, which will sell its concession with Colombia's consent, to the United States.

BRITISH SENTIMENT.

REGARDING RECENT ACTION OF THE U. S. SENATE.

London, March 11.—The reply of the British government o the note conveying the amendments of the United States senate to the Hay-Pauncefote treaty should be formally delivered by the British ambassador at Washington to Secretary Hay within a few days. The foreign office here did not originally contemplate delaying the British reply until now. The plan appears to have been to transmit the answer previous to the date on which the treaty elapsed, which, according to the British view of thec ase, would have put the onus of its lapsing on the senate. As previously set forth in these dispatches, the main object of the British government hroughout has been to make entirely new arrangements. At no stage of the proceedings has there been any inclination to accept the senate amendment.

It is understood here that the nature of the British government's reply as already been formally communicated to Secretary Hay.

Great Britain has no intention of modifying or abrogating the Clayton-Bulwer treaty without a satisfactory proquo. That treaty, according to the foreign office view of the case, remains as much in force now as tue day it was signed. The speeches made in the senate do not disturb Downing street. They are dismissed with the remark that "treaties cannot be abrogated without the consento f both the contracting parties."

There is, however an apparently genuine belief here that a satisfactory arrangement will eventually be arrived at, though it is scarcely thought it could be got into the requisite shape in time for discussion at the extra session of the senate. Moreover, there is a freely expressed disinclination on the part of the British officials to commit themselves to any further treaties until they are thoroughly assured the views of the senate hold on the matter in question.

BAD ACCIDENT.

A STEPHEN ELECTRICIAN HAS A NARROW ESCAPE.

Argyle was the scene of an accident on Saturday afternoon that came near causing the death of John Scott, engineer of the electric light plant, says the Hallock News. Scott was at work about he machinery and had just started a dynamo. In passing the machine he slipped and to prevent falling one foot was thrown sidewise and came in contact with the fly wheel that was revolving rapidly.

Mr. Scott was caught up by the machine and whirled rapidly about. A traveling man standing near quickly caught hold of him and wrenched him free from his perilous position, but not until he had suffered painful injuries. His head was severely cut, an ankle dislocated and several internal injuries suffered, the extent of which is not yet known. But for the prompt action of the traveling man, to whom Mr. Scott was exhibiting the plant, the manager would doubtless have been killed.

BEMIDJI ELECTION.

LOCAL AFFAIRS IN THE PINE TOWN BADLY MIXED.

Bemidji, March 11.—If there is another town on earth the size of Bemidji that is worse mixed up in its municipal affairs, it is to be heard from. At our village election, which occurs next Tuesday, four distinct tickets will be in the field: The Progressive, Citizens, Independent and Taxpayer's. There are three candidates for mayor, Dudley, Smith and Steldi. Dudley is the present mayor, and as things have not been conducted to suit a large number of the taxpayers, they propose to oust him and put Ted Smith in his place, the latter being a former mayor. Then arises other complications. As Smith's administration did not suit a portion of the people, that faction refuses to trust him again. Steldi is a very popular man and one of the oldest citizens. He has never held any office, and some fear that he will not develop the requisite backbone, which seems to be a very necessary article. The whole truth of the matter is that some one is responsible for having run the town into debt "head over heels," and how to put a stop to the leakage is the all-absorbing question. Thousands of split tickets have been printed and it would seem to a disinterested person that every man in town is looking for an office of some kind.

The taxpayers of Beltrami county and the pine barons are at war. The enabling act under which the county was organized has proven too small for the needs of this rapidly growing county. The pine owners have always discouraged the organization of counties in territory where they possess land, but in no other case, possibly, has a county settled up so fast as has this. Thousands of settlers have taken homesteads in the county and are now beginning to prove up on them. In order to pay the running expenses of the county it has been necessary to assess them beyond all reason, and the pine land men refuse to pay their portion and contend that more money has been expended than was lawful. But they do not hesitate to cut the timber from their lands and ship it out of the country, thereby avoiding the payment of taxes in this or any other county. As soon as the lands are stripped of the timber it is abandoned and sold for taxes—providing any one is so foolish as to pay the taxes and take the land, which is really worthless. There should be some recourse to compel those men to bear their share of the burden of taxation. They paid out $1.25 per acre for a great portion of the land and now they propose to cause the poor homesteader to foot the bills.

WAS IT SELF DEFENCE.

RANDOLPH MAY BE HELD FOR MURDER.

Bill Randolph, who recently killed "One Armed Sullivan at Rainy Lake City, may have to stand trial on a charge of murder.

County Attorney Pratt, of Itasca county, has just returned from a visit to the scene of the tragedy and intimates that he may decide to prosecute Randolph. There are conflicting stories regarding the start of the shooting, and some of them do not sustain the claim of Randolph and his friends that he acted in self defense. Mr. Pratt is quoted by a Grand Rapids paper as saying that the reputation of Randolph is nearly as bad as was that of Sullivan, and that he is inclined to think that Randolph forced the shooting himself. What steps the authorities intend to take in the matter has not as yet been learned, but if they make up their mind to prosecute, Randolph will be taken to Grand Rapids in the near future.

Randolph is still in custody at Koochiching and is reported to be rapidly recovering from the wounds which Sullivan inflicted before the former emptied a load of bird shot into the heart of his antagonist.

Sullivan, although crippled was long known as one of the most desperate men in the Rainy Lake region. There seemed to be nothing but fighting blood in his veins, and yet no father was ever more sentimental and tender with his children than he was. Bad as he was, he had good qualities, but these qualities seemed to center in his children alone.

THANKED OFFICERS.

NORTH DAKOTAN IS FORCED TO LEAVE HIS WAD.

As parents chastise naughty children so is it often necessary for the police to interfere for the welfare of citizens, says the Minneapolis Tribune.

An instance of this nature occurred early Wednesday morning. P. A. Manseau, a stranger from North Dakota, was found in the company of two men who the police thought were anxious to rob him. Much against his will Manseau was taken to headquarters by Sergt. Rankin and Patrolman Olson and told to leave his money.

The stranger was not altogether willing to comply. However, Lieut. Krumwelde counted out $320 in $20 bills and placed it in an envelope, after giving the owner $5 for incidental expenses. He was given a receipt and told to go home to bed. During the morning Manseau called for his roll. He thanked the police for exercising their discretion, and stated that he might have been robbed.

NO THREATS.

ONLY HITCH TO SALE OF ISLANDS IS IN DENMARK.

Washington, March 9.—The state department denies the statement published in a London newspaper that the United States government has addressed a note "almost threatening in tone to the Danish government, declaring that it will not permit a transfer of the Danish West Indies to any foreign power."

Denmark undestands the coutry's adherence to the Monroe doctrine. The Danish government knows precisely the amount the executive branch of the United States government is willing to pay for the islands, provided the assent of congress can be obtained. The abstacles are entirely within Denmark, and when the Danish cabinet accepts the price offered, a treaty will be arranged for submission to congress at its next session.

—John Kirsch, of the Solway Press, has decided to start a new paper at Turtle River, a new townsite on the Brainerd & Northern railroad, and may remove the Press to that point.

—The Beltrami County News, one of the representative newspapers of Bemidji, entered upon its fourth volume last week. Editor Martin is publishing an aggressive and spicy journal, and the people of his locality seem to appreciate his efforts by giving him liberal support.

—In starting out upon its sixth volume last week, the Bemidji Pioneer says: No paper can justly feel more proud of its record than the Pioneer. Not that it has accomplished wonders in itself, but that it has been a fair mirror of the progress made by the town and county which it represents. The Pioneer was born in the lap of an unbroken forest, far from railroads or the soothing touch of gentler civilization.

On another page of this issue The Journal reproduces an article on the state fair association of Minnesota, from the able pen of H. P. Hall. one of the veteran editors of the state. It is certainly gratifying to every citizen of Minnesota who takes an interest in the development of our commonwealth, to notice the rapid strides the association has made since the inception of the annual state fair, and particularly so the advancement achieved under its able management during the last few years. Every department on the fair grounds has outgrown its original capacity, and the present legislature will be asked to make appropriations to meet the demands of the institution.

Manager Hoverstad, of the local Experiment Station, has been conducting a large number of farmers' institutes throughout this section during the past few months, and at every one of these gatherings, without exception, resolutions were passed favoring the advancement of the Experiment Station here, as a result of the benefits derived from the experiments. If the farmers of Polk and adjoining counties would have the say of most necessary appropriations, the Crookston Experiment Station would prove one of the most favored state institutions in Minnesota. They fully realize the many advantages they gain from its teachings and the new ideas advanced by its management.

Says the Fergus Falls Journal: A case of far reaching importance was argued before Judge Searle in the district court at St. Cloud a day or two ago. The case is an ejectment suit by the Northern Pacific against a number of farmers in Wadena county and the point to be decided is the width of its right of way. The original land grant by the general government to the railway company gave it 400 feet of the land for right of way, but the company never fenced or used for railroad purposes more than half of the strip. The remainder has been utilized by the farmers for more than twenty years and they are endeavoring to hold it by adverse possession. There are hundreds of similar cases all along the main line, but land along the local branch is not affected, as the original grant was from Duluth to the coast.

Each congress since 1892 has authorized the issue of a small edition in addition to the one originally provided for, and if future congresses pursued the same course the winding up of the publication would be indefinitely deferred. More than a third of a century has elapsed since the close of the war to which this work pertains, and it is believed by war department officials that the printing and distribution of the volumes composing it should be brought to a definite conclusion by the issue of a final edition (if any future edition is to be authorized) which should be sufficiently large, and distributed in such a manner as to meet all reasonable demands for the future. The printing and distribution of such an edition would permit the utilization for other purposes of the lithographic stones, the electrotype plates and the space occupied by them.

Incidentally, it may be remarked that the "tax ferret" bill has been summarily killed, as it should be. It would create in this state, had it gone into effect, a tax ferret industry, operated by private parties, purely in their own interest, and there would be no preventive from this developing into a gigantic blackmailing scheme. While conscientious "tax ferrets" might add many dollars of personal property to the tax rolls, others and unscrupulous persons could, under this cloak, levy blackmail upon persons who failed to make proper returns of their personal property to the assessor, and the public treasury would be none the richer. That a considerable amount of personal property does escape the assessor is undoubtedly true, and we believe the tax commission will take due cognizance of this, and formulate a measure providing for a suitable penalty or punishment for these tax dodgers.

HANNA GETS EVEN.

Senator Hanna is revenged, and Senator Carter is waiting his reward. When that astute politician, Marcus A. Hanna, announced that if the ship subsidy failed to pass congress the river and harbor bill would meet the same fate, he knew just what he was talking about. His pet measure failed, and he accepted the situation as gracefully as possible, but at the same time set about to make his threat good and thereby revenge himself on several men who had aided in the defeat of his measure. One of these was Representative Burton, who was one of the first to make a bitter attack on the subsidy bill. He was chairman of the house committee on rivers and harbors and one of the river and harbor bill's strongest supporters. By defeating the bill Hanna not only gave Burton a setback, but included several senators and representatives in the same list.

The economic press of the country is still lauding Senator Carter of Montana for his heroism and pertinacity in talking the river and harbor bill to death. As a matter of fact it requires only the exercise of a slight physical exertion on the part of Mr. Carter, who has been known to talk thirty hours at a stretch without making demands on his stock of reserve energy. It is also true that Mr. Carter has never been beyond call when the administration needed him. He has always been in line when there was an opportunity for a vote on any measure prompted by the administration, and the conclusion is that he was the medium through which Mr. Hanna worked to secure his revenge on the ship subsidy bill. Just what his reward will be it is yet too early to tell, but there is no doubt that it will be something handsome, as it should be.

It is stated that the administration was eager to kill the bill for political purposes. The democrats who were silenced in their opposition to the Cuban and Philippine resolution by the promise of appropriations for their states and districts in the river and harbor bill will no doubt make a vigorous kick but so many of the appropriations were such obvious steals that would have reflected politically, that the administration is secretly laughing at the fate of the measure. However, Mr. Hanna has done as he promised, and the fact remains that, although he could not navigate his subsidy bill to a successful end, he is still a great power in congress.

STATE FORESTRY.

The chief fire warden of the state has asked for a raise of salary from $1,200 to $2,500 a year. At a meeting of the senate finance committee the amount in the bill to raise the salary was cut down to $1,500. It strikes us, says the Minneapolis Tribune, that this is a fair compromis. We hear there are mutterings that the whole fire warden system will be wiped out on acount of the chief warden's presumption in asking for the doubling of his salary, but this should on no account be allowed. The system should be retained and the warden given reasonable pay for his services.

The conservation of our forests—what is left of them—is something of too much importance to the state to be abandoned.

More attention should also be given to the reforesting of denuded lands. We have millions of acres of land in Northern Minnesota unfit for anything save growing pine forests; and yet the only new measure for increasing our forest area so far introduced is a bill to turn over to the control of the forestry board, for forestry purposes, the lands bid in by the state at forfeited tax sales—possibly 200,000 acres.

It is to be feared that other states will get far ahead of Minnesota in the matter of forestry if this legislature does not do something for the cause.

Chief Fire Warden Andrews has proven to be a very efficient officer. He entered upon his work with enthusiasm and has prosecuted it with zeal and industry. He has done the best he could with the means at his command. But he needs, among other things, a larger fund to enable him to detect and punish people who set forest fires. The appropriation now is only $5,000 a year, out of which must be paid one-third of the expenses of the counties under the fire warden law, the salary of the chief fire warden, his printing and all other expenses. This is a pretty small sum considering that the fire warden's services extend over a territory embracing 25,000,000 acres. The legislature should deal with judicious liberality with our forestry interests.

A SOUND IDEA.

There is no public question of so much importance to the people of these northern counties, says the St. Vincent New Era, as that of regulating the water in the Red River, to prevent the occasional and disastrous spring floods. There are a few men who, at great sacrifice of valuable time and expenditure of considerable money have for years agitated this question and in season and out of season kept it to the front and who will eventually win out—and afterward be forgotten.

Of all the settlers on homestead lands in Kittson county probably there is not a half dozen in the county that know the name of the congressman who introduced the homestead law.

But it should not be so, and we place on record, to be remembered the names of the gentlemen who, last week, went to St. Paul and asked the legislature to memorialize congress to pass an appropriation in aid of the reservoir system in the Red River valley. Their names are Hon. E. Valentine, of Breckenridge; E. D. Childs and M. R. Brown of Crookston, and P. H. Kodzeu, of Hallock.

FOR COUNTRY, TOO.

Some members of the legislature are said to be willing to vote for the primary election law if it be restricted to the cities, but who say it is not needed in the country. They are of the same class who, remarks the St. Paul Dispatch, when the secret ballot bill was pending, favored its being tried in the cities, but opposed its application to rural elections because it was not needed there. And the very next session the demand from the country carried it to all election.

The impression seems to be general that it is only in cities that a law regulating primary elections and nominations is needed; that there only men are vile and need rigid control, but that in the country bucolic simplicity and honesty still survive and primitive methods are all that are needed. The impression is a tribute to the tenacity of ancient sentimentalism that sang the simplicity, the virtue and the rugged honesty of those whose lives came in daily contact with great nature. The fact is, and none know it better than those who live or have lived in the rural districts, that nowhere, even in the cities, is politics so plenty to the square yard as there. Nowhere else do men make it more a profession, and nowhere are men more skillful in it.

Any one who has been on the inside of county politics, seen the wire pulling, watched the manipulation of delegates, seen the trading in county conventions, watched the deals made, the combinations formed and the defeat of best men by means of them, but realizes that politics is quite as verile there as anywhere, and needs as stout a curb as in the cities. And in the larger view, why is the right of voters in parties to the expression of their individual preferences for candidates not quite as valid in the country as in the cities? What is there in urban life that makes the dweller there superior to his fellow citizen in the country in the right of selecting candidates for his party? Are the country members who may be against the bill not discriminating against their constituents?

Red Lake Falls Graphic: T. H. Larke who has become well known to the people of the northwest in his capacity as assistant general passenger agent of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railroad, has been appointed general agent of the Dominion mail steamship line at Minneapolis. Mart Adson has succeeded Mr. Larke, and there are congratulations due all around. Mr. Adson is no less popular and efficient than Mr. Larke himself.

NOTES FROM EXCHANGES.

—Bemidji Pioneer: Mayor Nat Campbell of Crookston was in town yesterday getting pointers on how to run his campaign for mayor there next month. He says his choice for mayor of Bemidji is Ted Smith.

—Bemidji News: Nat Campbell, the popular mayor of Crookston, was in the city yesterday and today on business in connection with his land office practice. Nat is a candidate for re-election as mayor, and says that he has no opposition so far.

—East Grand Forks Courier: If you are looking for a bright, up to date daily newspaper, the Courier recommends with pleasure the Crookston Journal. Editor Gordon is certainly working wonders in that ancient municipality by issuing one of the best country dailies in the state.

—Bemidji Pioneer: Lewis Ellington, cashier of the Scandia-American bank of Crookston, was in the city last Friday on a business trip. He reports that prospects for a boom in the Red River valley during the coming season is very attering. and, also, that the whole of northern Minnesota will surely come in for its share of prosperity.

—McIntosh Times: With the ground work laid and the experimental work well under way the state experimental station at Crookston is fast becoming a material factor in the advancement and development of the northwestern counties of the state and should be put in a position to continue and increase the good work it already has under way.

—The Alexandria Post News condemns the Stillwater prison and advocates the building of a modern institution, upon a new site to be selected outside of the city where more ground can be had and the cell house and buildings be put up of granite from the St. Cloud reformatory. Bro. Mitchell argues that by this method the state could secure a million dollar prison for half its actual expense to the taxpayers. It is certain that the present prison is far from being creditable to the state.

—Erskine Echo: Attached to a local freight Friday was a large section of emigrants from Ellsworth, Minn., consisting of twelve carloads of stock and farm implements and one coach of passengers, which was occupied by about seven families. Geo. F. Ramsey, of Ellsworth, was at the head of the party. We understand these parties have purchased land out in the towns of Badger and Lambert. This is the right kind of prosperity that this country is looking for, and we hope we will see lots more of the same class of settlers come here and locate.

GOVERNOR IS BUSY

Looking Over His Official State To Find Something For Voters.

IN NORTHERN MINNESOTA

Comes In Contact With An Old "Wheel Horse" From Little Falls.

Gov. Van Sant is said to be busily engaged scanning his official slate to see if he cannot run across an office that will appease the wrath of some of the men who voted for him in the northern part of the state and were ignored when the time came for the distribution of plums. says the St. Cloud Journal Press. The governor came in contact with an old "wheel horse" of the party from that section a few days ago, and ever since has been wondering where he could find a stray office which he might atone for his gross display of "sectionalism."

W. F. Fuller, proprietor of the Daily Transcript, of Little Falls, a republican organ, the other day walked into the outer court of the governor's sanctuary. He recognized no one, although Private Secretary Jamison, Executive Clerk Martin and one or two others were in the room. Fuller proceeded to groom himself for a "bout" with the man inside who deals the "knock-out" blows. He jerked off his huge bear skin overcoat, threw it down on the first chair he found and placed his hat beside it. Walking to the colored sentry, who is posted at the threshold of the governor's private door, the editor presented his card, and gave it out in plain English that he wanted to see "Van" without any delay. His request was readily acceded to, and in a few seconds he found himself in the presence of the dispenser of good things.

"How do you do, governor? I thought I'd just drop in and—"

"Yes, yes; glad to see you. Let's see, your name is—"

But before he could land this blow the victim from up the country had disappeared, and when Gov. Van Sant, who by this time had concluded his conversation with the representative of the Buttermakers' association, which was in convention here then, found time to devote to a "country republican," he discovered Fuller in the small private office room adjoining his regular office. He was about to call to Fuller when he observed that the latter was in the attitude of supplication. Resting on his knees, his hands clasped in front of him and his head slightly inclined in a reverend manner, the Transcript editor was evidently invoking the favor of some high and dignified power. The bust of Senator Knute Nelson occupied a place immediately in front of the suppliant quill pusher, and when Gov. Van Sant saw this it was with the greatest difficulty that he suppressed his emotion. But he did, and presently the trying scene was over.

Emerging from the secret chamber Fuller dashed out of the office, not heeding the governor, who was again discussing important business with another visitor. W. F. donned his large coat and hat, walked over to Jim Martin's desk and asked for an envelope. The genial clerk of course handed him one, but it was smaller than Mr. Fuller wanted and he passed the envelope back to Martin, saying: "I don't want any of your small fry; I'm after big game, such as it is." Mr. Martin was not governor, and so gave Fuller the biggest envelope he could find. In compliance with Fuller's request, it was one with the governor's official stamp upon it.

"Thank you," said Fuller and he vanished. He had scarcely reached the bottom of the big entrance steps on the north side of the capitol when Gov. Van Sant, bareheaded, rushed out of the door and called for him. Fuller was in a hurry, but finally yielded to the governor's imploring request to give him time to say just a few words. By this time all the governor's other callers had finished their business and he suddenly awoke to the fact that perhaps the "stranger" from Little Falls whom he had known for a number of years, had gone away not in the best of humor.

"No, you had better go back inside; it doesn't look well for the governor of the state to stand out here bareheaded talking to a mere country editor from the part of the state where Little Falls is situated." rejoined Fuller to the governor's pleadings. And thus they parted.

In a short time Fuller stepped up to the clerk at the Merchant's hotel and asked for a pen and ink. He jotted off a short letter and turned to the crowd of guestes standing in the lobby, he asked if there was a man present who could draw the picture of a bird.

There was one artist in the crowd and when Mr. Fuller presented him with the pen and the paper upon which he had dashed off a note the artist drew what looked a little like a bird at the end of a line on which was written these words: "I am a—" The letter, with its artistic decoration was enclosed in the large official envelope which Van Sant's executive clerk had given to the editor and sent to Representative A. E. Ferris, of Brainerd, at the capitol building. When Mr. Ferris read the letter he was astonished that a man from Little Falls had after all gotten something from the governor. This missive ran like this:

"Dear Al: I am a bird (in art.) I am from Little Falls and at last the governor has recognized us. Although it is but slight and indirect—being an official envelope handed me by his executive clerk, yet it is more than any of you fellows at Brainerd have been able to get."

MORE POPULISM.

FORMER CLAY COUNTY OFFICER WANTS A SNAP.

The county commissioners ran up against a snag Saturday, says the Moorhead Independent, and it required the expert testimony of a plumber to help them out of their difficulty. Between the county dads and the plumber one leak was effectually stopped. While auditing the bills one claim for a porcelain lined sink and sundry other items was reached. The commissioners had not ordered any sinks or authorized any such work, neither could they imagine where the sink and other articles had been placed. Of course, the bill appeared on its face to be a legal charge against the county and the material and labor to have been ordered by W. J. Bodkin, former sheriff of the county. The county fathers, however, are not doing business in a shipshod manner so the plumber was summoned and asked where the $39.95 worth of material and labor were at.

"In Bodkin's house," was the answer that nearly took the breath away from the commissioners. When asked why the bill had been presented to the county for payment the plumber said: "Bodkin told me to send the bill to the county."

The records show the above facts and the minutes of the proceedings of the board, which will be published next week, will state the reason for refusal to pay this bill.

COULD NOT BE HELD.

Legal technicalities sometimes spoil conviction of criminal characters, and the case of the state against Frank James, who was arrested at Grand Forks Friday morning for stealing a team from Ole Bjoin, contained one of these points.

The prosecution concluded that the evidence against James was hardly sufficient to convict him of horse stealing, and the charge was changed to petty larceny. The defendant plead guilty to the complaint and Judge McLain sentenced the prisoner to serve twenty days in the county jail.

Sewing as a business is an exacting and exhausting occupation. Long hours, fine work, poor light, unhealthy atmosphere—these are only some of the things which fret the nerves and hurt the general health. Often there is a diseased condition of the womanly organism which causes backache or headache and the working of the sewing machine under such conditions is akin to torture.

Thousands of women who work have written grateful letters to Dr. R. V. Pierce, whose "Favorite Prescription" has cured their womanly ills and established their general health. "Favorite Prescription" establishes regularity, dries unhealthy and offensive drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter free, and so avoid the indelicate questionings, offensive examinations and obnoxious local treatments deemed necessary by some physicians. All correspondence private. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

"I take great pleasure in recommending Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for female weakness" writes Mrs Susannah Permenter, of Pauls Store, Shelby Co., Texas. I was troubled with bearing-down pains in my back and hips for six years, and wrote to Dr. Pierce for advice. I tried his 'Favorite Prescription' and six bottles cured me. I feel like a new person and I thank Dr. Pierce for my health. Life is a burden to any one without health. I have told a great many of my friends about the great medicine I took."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

CITY AND VICINITY

For Coal and Wood, Vance & Stone.

—Mrs. Louis Morin on Saturday last celebrated her birthday, and in the evening her husband presented her with a personal check for $2,000.

—The Palace hotel Friday furnished 258 suppers, mostly to new comers from Iowa, who are arriving on every west bound train.

—Alfred Marotte, son of P. Marotte of the Grand Central hotel, has arrived from Little Falls. The balance of the family will follow later.

—A. E. Goodenough arrived from Adrian, Minn., Friday with 20 new residents for Polk county, and a train load of horses and farming implements.

The Grand Forks county commissioners, at a meeting held Wednesday, decided to build a new county hospital, the present one being altogether inadequate.

—I have used Dr. Seth Arnold's Cough Killer in my family for thirty years.—Rev. J. W. Cole, Northampton, Mass. For sale by A. G. Anderson, the druggist.

—A. Craigea, of Neche, N. D., passed through here on his way home from Jamestown, and enjoyed a short visit with his brothers, who live a few miles north of here.

—John Lester, one of the new proprietors of the Star restaurant, has arrived in the city from Red Lake Falls with his family, and will make this city his permanent home.

—The Journal acknowledges the receipt of a bunch of handsome flowers from Miss Dora Elkhoff, who is at present visiting friends in Oregon, which she picked herself in the sunny western country.

—Conductor Steve Withey is sporting a $10 briar pipe. Such a high price is seldom paid for a wooden smoker, but Steve says his'n cost that much. He at one time loaned a friend an "X," and the pipe is all he got in return for it.

—J. P. Georgen, Henry Biever and William Lange were three prominent Euclid farmers who visited the Polk county capital on business. Mr. Lange will in a short time sell his farm stock and implements and return to his former home in Iowa.

—The new hook and ladder truck for the Crookston fire department arrived over the Great Northern Friday and will be added to the fire fighting equipment of the city as soon as approved by the committee on fire apparatus. The new truck is an up to date one, and costs nearly $3,000.

—Miss Kittie Huff had the misfortune Friday to severely burn her right hand while ironing clothes. She got hold of an overheated flat iron and with it set the clothes on fire. In extinguishing the flames she sustained bad burns on her hand, and had to have the injured member dressed by a physician.

—Sheriff A. Austin, of Roseau county reached here Thursday with Mrs. Gunel Arack, a Norwegian woman 35 years old, whom he took to the Fergus Falls asylum. The cause of the woman's insanity, the sheriff stated, was largely due to protracted illness. Her husband deserted her and is now somewhere in the southern states.

—The Maplebay Windstacker company's new factory in the north end of the city is nearing completion, and as soon as the machinery for the establishment arrives, it will be placed in position. The manufacture of wind stackers will begin at once, and already men are arriving who will occupy positions in the new enterprise.

—Mrs. G. L. Cronkhite, of Argyle, passed through here Saturday evening with her two daughters en route to Oklahoma, where they will reside in the future. Miss Lulu Cronkhite accompanied her mother and sisters as far as Crookston, and after visiting briefly with the Misses Emma and Grace Cronkhite, returned to Argyle Sunday morning.

—Marshal Smith, of Fosston, who was largely instrumental in the capture and conviction of Paulson, the Alma, Wis., girl murderer, returned from Wisconsin Friday on his way home. Mr. Smith was deeply grieved at learning the news of the sudden death of his old friend Robert Sutor, and arrived just in time to attend the funeral services.

—J. B. VanAllen & Son are rushing the season by having their dray wagon painted a real crimson red. Besides their special advertisement of the dray business on the wagon, VanAllen has something to mention about the poultry business. He has a number of well bred fowls, among them Plymouth Rocks, Brown Leghorns, Shanghai's and Bramahs.

—Geo. Houghtaling, a Fosston citizen found that some one shot his dog, and caused the arrest of Jens Flaten charging him with malicious destruction of personal property. The case came up for trial in the village justice court, and although three witnesses were summoned to give evidence in the trial, the jury acquitted the defendant for lack of evidence.

—The quarantine on the Grand Forks college has been removed and students are now free to come and go as they wish. There has not been the slightest indication of any appearance of smallpox among the students. It has been decided that the supposed case, which resulted in the institution being quarantined, was not smallpox at all.

—Ernest Bridger, of Fosston, who was Wednesday tried for bastardy preferred by Carrie Ryland, and held to the district court, was again arrested after he had furnished bonds, the same woman making complaint. The last charge against Bridger is seduction, under promise of marriage, and Judge McLean held the defendant in $250 bonds, which he promptly furnished.

—L. G. Campbell, a prominent citizen of Blooming Prairie, this state, and proprietor of a large flouring mill, arrived in the city on a visit with the family of C. W. Playfair. The Journal acknowledges a pleasant call from Mr. Campbell, who is an old friend of the editor. He has not been in Crookston for about fifteen years. He naturally is surprised at the many improvements and changes he finds since his last visit, and considers Crookston a typical progressive western city.

—The 11-months-old child of Joseph Thibedeau died Saturday and was buried Sunday.

—Conductor Theo. Evans and wife of Barnesville are visiting friends in the city for a few days.

—Mrs. A. D. Stephens left for a visit in the Twin Cities Saturday, and will be gone for a few days.

—If you wish to renew your loan, or take up balance on your contract for deed, see Ole Tiegen, Crookston. tf

—Jos. Paska, of Janesville, Minn., arrived in the city Tuesday and intends to make this place his future home.

—J. W. Barden, the unfortunate brakeman who was injured in the recent Thief River Falls wreck, has so far recovered as to be about again—on crutches.

—The new orchestra dispensed some really good music at the opera house Saturday evening during the presentation of "A Brass Monkey," and the boys were frequently applauded.

—St. Hilaire's real estate boomer Julius Pleth, returned from a business trip to St. Paul Monday, and talked Red Lake county dirt without stuttering before returning home.

—Edwin Eck, a brother of Chief of Police Eck, who resides in Pine Lake, Beltrami county, came up on a visit to his mother, who has been ill for some time. He will remain several days.

—Operator Munson, who is substituting for Operator Burns of the Great Northern during the latters' lay-off, made a business call to Grand Forks yesterday, returning on the evening train.

Contractor Thos. A. Harris has been awarded the contract for moving the old court house building to the corner of Robert and Ash streets, and will begin work as soon as the ground is free from ice.

—Dudley Nash, formerly city editor of the Grand Forks Plaindealer, and N. S. Davies, the accomplished scribe of the Herald, came over from the Forks Saturday morning and spent the day in the city.

—Services will be held at the United Norwegian lutheran church this evening at 7:30 o'clock. Tomorrow evening the Luther League will meet with P. L. Renne, on Main street. Everybody cordially invited.

—Mrs. T. A. Harris and Mrs. A. M. Freeman left for Minneapolis Saturday evening over the Great Northern to attend the annual meeting of the state Women's Relief Corps. Both ladies are delegates of the local lodge.

—Supt. Hoverstad, of the Experiment Farm, returned from Georgetown Saturday where he assisted in organizing a creamery association. He only remained in the city long enough to take the train for St. Vincent.

—C. C. Hoch, of the Wabasha Cafe on Second street, has purchased the saloon fixtures of the Town Pump on Main street and has secured the lease of the building. He will reopen the place and conduct the business there for a time at least.

—A. J. Dwyer, the popular logging contractor, was dead to a large number of his friends last week, all on account of an item in the Minneapolis Journal anouncing the death of A. J. Dwyer. Tony turned up in due time and said its the other fellow.

—Sam Fullerton, executive agent of the game and fish commission, seized a shipment of one hundred white grouse Sunday at the union station, St. Paul. They arrived as baggage and were shipped in from some point in the northern part of the state.

—City Attorney Gossman has appealed the case of S. L. Collins vs. the city of Crookston which was recently decided in favor of the plaintiff, and which involves about $25 damages, sustained by the breaking up of plaintiff's back on a defective street.

—The Red River Land company at Beltrami recently sold 900 acres of Polk county dirt to R. J. Jones, a wealthey agriculturist from Spencer, Ia. Mr. Jones, while not operating the land himself, will rent the new acquisition to local farmers, and have all of his possessions cultivated.

—The new society of "Buffalos," the organization of which is attributed to Vice President Roosevelt, is rapidly gaining in membership, and though the iniative steps for a lodge in this city were only taken Monday morning, there are already 732 members of the organization. The society has a plan of mutual assistance, which, however, can only be made known to the members.

—Sunday afternoon Miss T. M. Nelson, who conducts the millinery establishment on Robert street, received the sad intelligence of the death of her mother, which occurred at Garfield during the previous night. Miss Nelson left in the evening to atend the funeral and while absent from this city her store will remain closed. The many friends of the young lady extend sympathy to her in the loss of her mother.

F. H. Henry came in last evening from a trip over in Polk, says the G. F. Sunday Herald. He went to Crookston yesterday morning from this place and from there he hired a livery team to drive him and his numerous trunks to Gentilly. Mr. Henry is very fond of driving and planned on a very pleasant trip. All went well till the trip to Gentilly was about half made when all of a sudden a snow bank was encountered. One side of the bank proved all right, but the other side was rotten, and as a result the driver, Mr. Henry and the trunks were dumped in a promiscuous heap. Even this disaster did not serve to ruffle the temper of the proprietor of the trunks, and after reloading them after the loss of no small quantity of sweat, the journey was continued. Before arriving at Gentilly there were three more tip-overs, and the temper of Mr. Henry, as well as things generally, had reached a very critical stage. However, a good dinner and some heavy sales served to smooth over things till the return trip. The warm sun had not improved the roads in the least, and before Crookston was reached the trunks had been landed in the snow about 'steen times, with driver and proprietor on top or under them. This was too much for the patience of a saint, and a particular description of what transpired is held till a later issue. Mr. Henry arrived in the city last evening and looked as though he had served six months in a Philippine campaign without a change of clothes or a hair cut.

—Judge Watts and his official stenographer, Chas. Lohn, are up at Warren for a few days holding a short term of district court.

—Wm. Munch contemplates putting in a bowling alley in the basement of the building occupied by the Town Pump sample room.

—The friends of Dr. Whetstone of Argyle will extend sympathy to him and his wife in the loss of a little child whose death occurred Monday.

—Bob McDonald has opened a barber shop at Feltan and will also branch out as an auctioneer. Bob is versatile and will make a success of his new ventures.

—The last will and testament of the late Samuel Marin has been admitted to probate and Mrs. Marin, the widow of the deceased, was appointed administratrix of the estate.

—The first final proof ever entered in the local U. S. land office in favor of minor heirs of a deceased soldier was filed Tuesday. It was entered for the minor children and orphans of Peter Areas, deceased.

Conductor Hank Murray left Monday evening for Minneapolis to spend a few days with his family, who are visiting with the family of "Sandy" McKinnon. During Murray's absence Conductor Steve Withey will fill Hank's place on the St. Vincent run.

DIED IN THE CHAIR.

MISS EMMA THUNE DIES WHILE BEING OPERATED UPON.

The news of the death of Miss Emma Thune, who for the past two years has been keeping house for her brother in law, Math Cornelius, who resides in Jerome's addition, came like a shock to the numerous friends of the dead lady. Miss Thune has for a long time been afflicted with some kind of a swelling of the neck, and local physicians decided that an operation was necessary to remove the obstruction.

At noon today this was to be done at her home, and she was placed under the influence of ether. The operation appeared successful and the troublesome swelling was removed, but the young woman never regained consciousness and expired shortly after the doctors had finished their work.

Deceased came here about two years ago from Minneapolis, where she had been teaching school, to take care of her dead sister's children. She was about 30 years of age and very highly respected. Only last evening she was installed as one of the officers of the Rebekah lodge, of which order she was an esteemed member.

The funeral announcement will be made tomorrow.

McIntosh is reported to have voted for license by a small majority.

IN HONEST HANDS.

A STRANGER FORGETS HIS WAD IN THE CITY HOTEL.

If ever anyone has had reason to feel glad and be thankful to the honest, it is Pat Sullivan, whose home is at Crystal, N. D., and who has been looking up a new location up north. Sullivan arrived in the city from Thief River Falls Saturday evening, and registered at the Grand Central hotel, where he remained until early Monday morning.

Before returning Saturday evening he tucked away his wallet under the bed clothes, and when he was called for the Grand Forks train Sunday morning, he forgot all about his earthly possessions, which consisted of several thousand dollars, and were hidden under a pillow. Upon reaching Grand Forks he telephoned Mr. Maratte, the proprietor of the hotel, asking him about his misisng lucre.

Tom Downs, one of the employes of the house, investigated the location mentioned by Sullivan, and found the money. The pocketbook contained $385 in cash, one check for $800 and one each for $350 and $250. The money was forwarded to its owner by express.

DEATH OF OBERT SUNDET.

The many friends of Obert Sundet will be grieved to learn of his death, which occurred at the home of his parents, J. O. Sundet and wife, in this city, at an early hour this morning. Young Sundet, although afflicted with heart disease, was able to be up and around, and last Saturday he appeared much better and visited most of the day at the marble works on north Broadway. Death came at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning.

The funeral will take place from the home of the parents of the deceased young man Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

MORE TROUBLE ON

Sheriff Sampson of Red Lake County is Booked For Some Trouble.

FULLERTON IS COMPLAINANT

It All Grows Out of Arrests Of Men Who Violated Game Laws.

The Minneapolis Journal of Tuesday contains the following:—Sheriff Sampson of Red Lake county is in for trouble. As a result of some exciting gun play on the Great Northern train yesterday, Sampson stands charged with interfering with an officer in the discharge of his duty, and Sam Fullerton, state game warden, will make formal complaint to the governor, which may result in Sampson's removal from office.

The trouble all came from arrests made a week ago in Beltrami county by Deputy game wardens Murphy, Stevens and Ridell. They raided a taxidermist's plant in the woods, arresting George Wilcox, E. D. Cook and Henry Cook for alleged violation of the game laws. A quantity of moose meat, moose and caribou heads, scalps and skulls were confiscated. The arrest was made at night and the wife of one of the Cooks aided the men in resisting the officers. Another of the Cooks, who was not in the camp when the arrests were made, got away and carried the alarm to their friends at home, in Red Lake county.

The three wardens put handcuffs on the three prisoners and started with them for Thief River Falls. On the way they were met by three officers from Red Lake county who attempted to serve a writ of replevin and secure the confiscated property. The wardens refused to permit this writ to be served. One of the Red Lake officers pulled a revolver. Stevens turned the tables by covering the other two with his "cannon," and Murphy seized "the man behind the gun." All three were put in irons, and with six persons instead of three, the wardens went on.

They concluded it would be wise to steer clear of Thief River Falls and made for Warren where they jailed their six prisoners. A lawyer from Red Lake hurried to Warren and applied to the United States commissioner for a writ of habeas corpus. The warden wired Fullerton, who hurried to the ground, picking up a lawyer at Crookston on the way. The writ was discharged, and the wardens started to take the prisoners to Bemidji.

DISAPPOINTMENT.

American Business Men Not Pleased with Spooner Amendment.

PROHIBITS ISSUE OF LICENSE

For Cutting of Timber Upon Public Lands, in Favor of Private Owner.

Manila, March 9.—Disappointment among American business men here with the limitations of the Spooner amendment to the army bill is increasing as its provisions become better known. It is considered to be especially unfavorable in apparently prohibiting the issuing of licenses for the cutting of timber upon public lands, which, if this interpretation proves correct, will be a bonanza for the few owners of private timber lands in these islands, and the beginning of building activity in all towns will be considerably retarded. An inquiry has been cabled to Washington asking whether this prohibition on timber cutting is to be construed as included in the amendment. The forestry department of the Philippines hitherto has issued licenses for cutting timber upon public lands for one year.

The question of the sales and apportionments of land and mining rights, although importantly affecting the growth of business and the settlement of Americans in the Philippines, can wait until the regular session of congress; but lumber is in such great demand today for building purposes that it would be construed most unfortunate should the control of its production be vested in those few men who now own timber land.

There is some talk here of sending a petition to Washington for an extra session of congress, but the fear is general, however, among a certain that this action might not result in any material good. Regret is expressed here at the fact that congress does not entrust the timber, mining and land questions to the discretion of the representatives of the administration here.

The Manila oard of health has announced that on an estimated population of 300,000 for the city of Manila, the annual death rate is 34 per 1,000.

Unconfirmed information coming from natives says Aguinaldo is in hiding in the province of Isabella, on the northeastern coast of Luzon island. American troops are scouting in that section of the country.

Capt. Duncan of the Fourth infantry has captured a squad of insurgents and twelve rifles near the town of Imus, in Cavite province, twelve miles south of Manila.

Gen. Lloyd Wheaton, commander of the department of northern Luzon, reports the troops of his department to be in excellent health. Less than 8 per cent of them are sick.

KAISER ATTACKED.

AN UNBALANCED CRANK CUTS WILLIAM'S CHEEK.

Berlin, March 8.—Emperor William arrived here at 8 o'clock yesterday morning. The empress and Count von Buelow met him at the station. When they reached the castle, Prof. Bergman visited the emperor. His majesty has abandoned his intention of visiting the riding class of the officers of the Potsdam cavalry regiment.

In an attack upon Emperor William by Dietrich Welland, while the former was driving from the Rathskeller to the railway station, the emperor was struck on the cheek just below the right eye. He was not seriously injured and refrained from commenting upon the subject. The burgomaster, who accompanied a member of the staff to the station, pointed out that his majesty's cheek was bleeding.

The assailant of Emperor William in trying to escape fell under the horses of the escort riding behind the carriage. The members of the escort handed the man over to the police. During an examination at the town hall, the assailant of the emperor suffered from several epileptic fits. He replied to several questions, but did not give out any important information. The motive of the outrage was evident when the pockets of the prisoner were searched, medicament found in the pockets showing that he had been a chronic sufferer from epileptic fits.

Nothing new was discovered in connection with the examination of Welland. He apparently pretends to know nothing of the occurrence.

BY A TRICK.

DETECTIVE TELLS OF HIS CHASE AFTER DARRELL.

New York, March 9.—Loys Darrell, a sergeant in the United States cavalry, accused of the murder of Trooper Henry C. Crouch at Pinar del Rio, last June, is locked up in Castle William on Governor's island, and he will be taken on board a steamer for Cuba today. Secret Service Detective W. O. Dupuy, who caught him after a 3,000 mile chase, told the story of the pursuit and capture to a reporter:

"I found a letter written by Darrell at New Orleans in which he told how he left Cuba on a steamer. After waiting several months he got a chance to slip to South Africa on the English transport Milwaukee. He was going to Capetown to enlist, he said.

"I started at once. At Naples I made a close connection with the steamer Herzog of the German East Africa line. When we got into Capetown I found the transport had not stopped there, but had gone on 340 miles to Beira, in East Africa, Portuguese territory. His ship arrived only a few days ahead of me.

"She lay in the harbor as we steamed in, and leaning over the starboard side, smoking a pipe, I saw my man. Of course I could not take him off an English ship.

"The captain of the Milwaukee put an advertisement for a hostler in the local paper and showed it to Darrell. He applied for the place and I stood up by him and told him that he was my prisoner.

"To get the papers to take him out of that territory proved a task. I went to Delagoa Bay and found the governor a crusty fellow. He wanted to make me all the trouble he could, and did. But finally I took my man on board the same vessel I had come on and started back around the world.

"On the way the stokers of the vessel mutinied. Coming through the Suez canal I locked up my prisoner in a room and guarded the door with my gun all night, as I found the stokers intended to help Darrell ashore. The stokers are in irons now.

My prisoner was seasick all the time he was afloat, and though he did not make a confession, he talked in his sleep about his Cuban sweetheart, accusing her one minute and teasing her the next. He is not married, but tells me he has an old father and a mother in Colorado, whose hearts will break when they hear of his disgrace.

AN EARLY SURRENDER.

IS LOOKED FOR BY THE BRITISH FORCES.

London, March 8.—Replying to a question in the house of commons yesterday, Mr. Balfour said there had been communications between General Kitchener and General Botha, but the government was not in a position to make a statement.

The conviction is growing in London that negotiations are afoot for the surrender of General Botha. The sudden trip of Sir Alfred Milner, the Cape governor general, to Pretoria, is now said to be directly concerned with an approaching capitulation of the Boer forces, not only in the Transvaal, but throughout South Africa.

Negotiations are said to have been delayed by Gen. Botha's desire to consult with Acting President Schalkburger at Pietersburg and to make terms applying to the whole Boer forces. But militating against this is Lord Kitchener's doubt to General Botha's ability to control General DeWet and other leaders, as well as the internal opposition General Botha is encountering.

One of the best informed South African authorities said:

"We have little that General Botha will surrender. The question now is as to what forces he can bring with him. We have private information tending to show that Lord Kitchener and Sir Alfred Milner have declined to accept his surrender on the basis that he is merely an individual commander, rather than commander in chief of the entire forces.

"General DeWet and General Delarey, as well as the other leaders, will probably have to be dealt with individually on similar terms. If the negotiations with General Botha reach a successful termination, it will be—to use an expressive Americanism—'just one of the bunch.'"

The war office seems genuinely without definite information regarding the exact status. The great financial firms, whose interests in South Africa are almost equal to those of the government believe from their private advices that the present situation is likely to result in the surrender of Botha and the forces under his immediate command, while the other Boer units will remain in the field.

HAD A SCRAP.

HAWAIIAN LEGISLATURE OPENS WITH A ROW.

Honolulu, March 1, via San Francisco, March 8.—The first territorial legislature of Hawaii began its session in Honolulu Feb. 20, and has been in session since.

J. A. Akins (independent) a Hawaiian Chinese member from Kauai, was elected speaker of the house and Dr. Nicholas Russell of Hawaii, a white man, president of the senate.

On the third day, Secretary of the Territory Cooper was ordered out of the house and escorted out by the sergeant at arms.

Acting under the section of the territorial act which provides that he shall "record and preserve the laws and proceedings of the legislature," Secretary Cooper took a place on the floor with a stenographer, to secure a record of the proceedings.

Representative Beckley (independent) offered a resolution requesting him to leave. The resolution set forth that his presence was a violation of the rule that the three departments of government, executive, judicial and legislative, must be kept separate, and it was urged that Gov. Dole had put Cooper where he was to intimidate members by letting them see that the executive officer was taking a stenographic report.

Cooper was declared by republicans to be present as a representative of President McKinley, as he had been ordered to transmit a report to Washington, but even this plea did not deter the independents. After a long debate they passed the Beckley resolution by a vote of 29 to 9, the nine being all the republicans in the house.

It is understood Cooper has asked Washington for a ruling as to the meaning of the instructions given him to send a record.

TIERNEY IS SUCCESSFUL.

Anoka, Minn., March 8.—Judges Giddings and Pond, before whom was tried the Anoka county shrievalty case, have united in a decision awarding the office to Patrick Tierney, who qualified the first of the year. On the official count Tierney had two majority over ex-Sheriff Geo. Merrill, and the recount conducted by the court gives him 45 majority. Merrill's defeat was directly attributed to the prosecution he kept up in the capture of the Wise murderers.

CALLAHAN IS HELD.

Omaha, March 8.—Jas. Callahan, who is charged with being connected with the Cudahy kidnapping, yesterday waived preliminary hearing and was held to the district court in $7,000 bond.

THE RUSSIAN BEAR

Will be Forced to Recede From Position Taken at Manchuria.

GRAVE CRISIS ANTICIPATED.

England is Conferring With the United States Over the Situation.

London, March 9.—A crisis has arrived in far eastern affairs which in the opinion of the British government is graver almost than the troubles which originally turned the eyes of the world toward the Orient. In this crisis secret negotiations are going on between the United States and Great Britain with a view to thwarting what the British government appears to consider a determined attempt on the part of Russia to plant herself prominently in one of the richest tracts in the Chinese empire.

The conference held Wednesday between United States Ambassador Choate and Lord Lansdowne had nothing to do with the Nicaraguan canal affair. To quote from a British official the Nicaraguan controversy "was a minor matter compared with the present situation." What Mr. Choate did was to receive from Lord Lansdowne a diplomatic measure declaring that Britain was not satisfied with Russia's attitude as regards Manchuria, delivered to Sir Charles Stuart-Scott, British ambassador at St. Petersburg by Count Lansdorff and asking if the United States were prepared to take steps of such a decisive nature that Russia would have no alternative but to recede from her position.

Almost simultaneously the Associated Press understands the United States government instructed the various ambassadors to take similar steps.

The answer of Secretary Hay has apparently not yet been received in London, although the fact that America's concurrent instructions were issued from Washington are to be a sufficient guarantee that Russia's actions in Manchuria will not be tolerated by the United States.

Japan, it is understood, is ready to take sides with Great Britain and the United States. Germany, in spite of the Anglo-American agreement, is regarded as rather doubtful owing to Emperor William's friendship to the czar. France, of course, will side with her ally.

The significance of the present phase can only be appreciated by those cognizant of the lethargic attitude of the British government hitherto regarding Russian action in China. Within the past few days all this has changed. What a week or two ago was pronounced only in line with Russia's usual policy is now termed a grave and serious state of affairs.

Lord Lansdowne is using every effort to bring the powers into line in order to present to Russia such a menacing front that without any ambiguity regarding temporary or other occupant she may give up all designs upon Manchuria.

What prompts the British foreign office to take such an alarmist view of the circumstances usually looked upon as a fatalistic sequence is the apprehension that Russia, having held her own in spite of the protest of the ministers of the powers with the Chinese government and having put herself on record in the reply to Sir Charles Scott as determined at least on a temporary occupation of Manchuria, will refuse to back down. That she shall do so Lord Lansdowne considers vital both for the future of China and for the continued existence of the concert of the powers.

HONEYMOON SPOILED.

ST. PAUL WOMAN HAS MAN ARRESTED FOR LEAVING HER.

Springfield, O., March 8—Frank Rose, proprietor of the Gopher Diamond Co. of Cincinnati, and bride were given a reception that Rose did not anticipate when they arrived at Cincinnati on their honeymoon from Milwaukee. According to a special, Miss Belle Connelly, a pretty young woman of St. Paul, had Constable Kinney on hand and Rose was placed under arrest. It seems that Rose sent to Miss Connelly in St. Paul an account of his wedding and she immediately started after him for failure to keep his vows with her. She saw Attorney Michael Muller and prepared for Rose when he arrived with his bride.

Miss Connelly claims she was divorced from her husband in Chicago expecting Rose would wed her. She claims that she had charge of Rose's business during his absence. Later she says he advised her to go to St. Paul for a rest and then he joined her in Chicago, where they had a pleasant time. She little dreamed that this ended her romance. They started from Chicago together, he getting off at Milwaukee and she going to St. Paul. Rose went direct to his fiancee's, where he was married. Miss Connolly claims she had a paper purporting to be a divorce, and that Rose introduced her as his wife. This and other papers were surrendered when Attorneys Muller and Seinheimer made the settlement for the parties. Miss Connolly agreed to give up Rose then. Rose is a successful business man and has stores in St. Paul, Milwaukee and Chicago. The maiden name of his bride is not given.

HER BODY FOUND.

Warrensburg, Mo., March 8.—Wisely, colored, was placed in jail today at Knobnoster, ten miles east of Warrensburg, charged with murdering Nellie Allen, a 17 year old white girl. The girl's body, showing marks of violence, was found yesterday in the middle of the street near her mother's home.

PETERSON

WILL GET ANOTHER TERM AS COLLECTOR OF CUSTOMS.

Washington, March 7.—The recommendations for the reappointment of John Peterson as collector of customs for Minnesota, has been agreed to by the Minnesota senators, and he will soon be nominated for another four year term.

Judge Morris has urged the reappointment of Lee Wilcutts, of Duluth, as collector at that port, but Senator Clapp has not consented to the appointment yet.

It is said that there will be a new man appointed United States district attorney for Minnesota, but Mr. Evans still has more than a year to serve.

Von Bombach will be reappointed collector of internal revenue, and Senator Nelson will be conceded this appointment.

For the next thirty days the applicants for military and civic positions will be here in large numbers, with their friends, bringing pressure to bear on the president. Just what Minnesota will gather in cannot be definitely stated. There is Hiler H. Horton for Spanish claims commissioner, Dr. Northrop for St. Louis continental commissioner, and a large number of applications for positions in the regular army establishment.

E. S. Chittenden, of St. Paul, who is here with the Rough Riders, is being talked of in connection with the war department.

CARRIE WRITES.

NOTE FROM THE KANSAS JOINT SMASHER.

The following brief note was received by Editor G. T. Hagen, of the Vesterheimen, of this city, written by Mrs. Carrie Nation, and explains itself. As is indicated on the date line, the missive was prepared while Mrs. Nation was confined in the Topeka prison. It reads:

"In Jail, Topeka, Kan., March 4, 1901.

"My Loving Friend: Read psalm 144, also 10, also Isa 58, and if you read with a spirit and understanding, you will do 11 chronicle 31:1st, and the blessing of God will be yours.

"Lovingly,
"—Carrie Nation,

A BIG DITCH.

POLK AND NORMAN COUNTIES TO CONSTRUCT ONE.

A number of farmers residing in Garden and Bear Park townships, says the Fertile Journal, have begun proceedings to have a county ditch of large capacity established through the marshy region of their locality. As the proposed ditch will pass through part of both Norman and Polk counties, the proceedings necessary to have it legally established will involve considerable work and expense, but the promoters of the project have decided to push the matter to the utmost. If the enterprise is successful it will greatly increase the value of several hundred acres of adjacent land, which has during the recent wet seasons been entirely useless. The ditch as proposed will be nearly five miles in length and in some places over twelve feet deep.

MINE RELIEF FUND.

Vancouver, B. C., March 8.—Though there are ten widows and 35 children in need of relief in conection with the recent colliery disaster on Vancouver Island, and a fund of $15,000 is required, the subscriptions are coming in rather slowly, the main reason being that James Dunsmuir, the premier of British Columbia, and a millionaire, and part owner of the mine, has not publicly subscribed anything to the fund. About $3,500 have been collected to date. There is a proposal to raise a permanent colliery accident relief fund for British Columbia by creating a new provincial tax of half a cent a ton on coal. This would at once provide $10,000 a year, an amount steadily increasing with the growing output and sufficient to meet the needs of the case.

INTERESTING DOCUMENT DISCOVERED IN EGYPT.

New York, March 8.—According to a Tribune special from Boston, Rev. Dr. W. C. Winslow, vice president of the Egyptian Exploration fund, is authority for the statement that in addition to the papyrus of St. Matthew's Gospel, sent to the University of Pennsylvania and that of St. Paul's Epistle to the Romans, presented to Harvard, there are two other extremely interesting papyrii.

The papyrus of St. John's Gospel is that which contains eighteen verses of Chapter I. and fourteen verses in Chapter XX. In the first part are the words, "Behold the Lamb of God, Which Taketh Away the Sins of the World," and "We have Found the Messiah." This papyrus of St. John in book form contained about fifty pages, Dr. Winslow says, and only the outer leaves are preserved. The document is better written than the St. Matthews papyrus and is in harmony with the famous text of Westcott and Hort. The papyrus is dated 200 A. D., or a little later, and it is pronounced only a little later than the St. Matthews text. The confirmation of the text of the present version is complete.

Dr. Winslow says that the papyrus of St. Mark, although only a fragment, is most precious. The manuscript resembles the famous Codex Alexandrinus, now in the British museum, and agrees with the standard version. Its age is between 400 and 500 A. D.

Other papyrii sent to Philadelphia contain a historical table of the emperors from Augustus to Decius, a genuine "I. O. U.," as such documents are now termed for a loan, done in the year 57, when the attorney is instructed to "worry" the debtor until he pays up, as a deed for a slave.

ARMY CANTEEN.

Chicago, March 11.—Army officers at the headquarters of the department of the lakes express the opinion that the rioting at Highwood, near Fort Sheridan, during which a number of soldiers were injured, was due entirely to the abolishment of the army canteen. Gen. Otis, in command of the department, said today: "I was strongly opposed to the army canteen when first proposed, but from investigation I found that it worked so much better than I expected that I was compelled to endorse it. Under that system the profits went to buy delicacies of the mens' table. Now the men spend more and the profits go to the owners of the private gin mills."

SHERIFFS ON SALARY.

St. Paul, March 9.—The house bill, placing the sheriff of St. Louis county on a salary basis, was called up in the senate yesterday morning by Senator Daugherty and passed under suspension of the rules, with an amendment making it effective in one year. Consequently after Jan. 1, 1902, the sheriff will receive a salary of $4,000 a year, and all fees will be turned into the county treasury.

THE ST. HILAIRE REPRESENTATIVE AT DEATH'S DOOR.

Chas. G. Rapp, member of the house of representatives, of St. Hilaire, Red Lake county, is confined to his room at the Merchants hotel with a complication of illnesses that have threatened a serious outcome.

He is a sufferer from heart trouble and is also afflicted with a kind of dropsical ailment that caused two physicians to give him up a few days ago. Monday he was able to sit up long enough to eat a meal and in other ways showed signs that lead his friends to hope for his recovery.

Mr. Rapp has been a very popular member of the legislature and has acquired a good many friends since his stay at the capital.

DOES IT PAY TO BUY CHEAP?

A cheap remedy for coughs and colds is all right, but you want something that will relieve and cure the more severe and dangerous results of throat and lung troubles. What shall you do? Go to a warmer and more regular climate? Yes, if possible; if not possible for you, then in either case take the ONLY remedy that has been introduced in all civilized countries with success in severe throat and lung troubles, "Boschee's German Syrup." It not only heals and stimulates the tissues to destroy the germ disease, but allays inflammation, causes easy expectoration, gives a good night's rest, and cures the patient. Try ONE bottle. Recommended many years by all druggists in the world. Get Green's Prize Almanac. F. H. Hillard & Son.

The moderately straight R & G No. 397 was and is the corset of comfort with the essence of style. It is straight enough for the prevailing vogue and curved enough to conform to healthful anatomical lines. In 1900 we were unable to fully meet the demand for straight-front goods and unwilling to resort to any makeshift to meet the conditions. At present, however, considerable additions to our factory facilities enable us to keep the trade supplied with real straight-front corsets at retail prices from $1.00 to $2.50, and also our 397, 197, Empire and other popular numbers. There are over seventy styles and sizes of R & G Corsets—a corset to fit every figure. R & G Corsets are the corsets that do not stretch. Every hairbreadth of stretch is taken out of the goods by means of steam-heated iron forms. This gives a permanency to the right shape and form that will stay in it until the last day you wear it. Every R & G Corset is sold with the understanding that it must give satisfaction to the wearer, or the dealer will supply a new one free of cost. If your dealer hasn't it, send us his name and we will see that you are supplied with what you want.

STATE FAIR TALK

Past, Present and Future Interestingly Discussed by "Old Man" H. P. Hall.

THE FIRST FAIR PERIPATETIC

It Was Held Upon Gov. Ramsey's Farm—Important Changes Effected.

Nothing better illustrates the broad sagacity of the early pioneers of Minnesota than the fact that while the state itself is not yet quite 43 years old, 41 state fairs have already been held. In fact, the fair organization antedates the state, having come into existence during the life of the territory 45 years ago. In its early history the fair was occasionally omitted, and consequently but 41 fairs have been held in the 45 years.

It seems to be the characteristic of the pioneer to build for the future. He would not be a pioneer if he did possess some element not common to the average man. He would, rather, adhere to the aimless life of the majority of the human race, rather than take the chances of hardships and privations if he did not possess characteristics beyond the ordinary. And so, without disparaging the present generation, but merely stating a fact, I can say of the Minnesota pioneer that he was more liberal minded, broader guaged, more far-seeing, more unselfish, more ready to build for those who were to come after him to enjoy the fruits of his labors, than the population of the state today. That is why what is now the Minnesota state fair was inaugurated when there were not people enough within its borders to form a state.

At first the fair was a peripatetic affair. While generally meeting either in St. Paul or Minneapolis, it was a homeless wanderer, without grounds, buildings or money, but with managers who, having put their hands to the plow, would not look backward.

Most of the present prominent towns in southern Minnesota (the only portion of the state then settled) have had the honor of a state fair. Of course, the exhibits were not large or very numerous, the premiums were small and sometimes unpaid, but amid all the discouragement the organization existed.

The first state fair I ever attended in Minnesota was held upon Gov. Ramsey's farm, upon what is now a prominent part of St. Anthony hill residence district. As I recall it, it looks like a very cheerless affair and involved a walk (people did not ride in those days unless they drove in from the country) so long that when the visitor arrived he wondered why he had so little sense as to come.

It was not until the '70's that the state fair began to assume some semblance of an actual existence. At that time, through the liberality of the late N. W. Kittson, a lease of Kittsondale, on University avenue, now a part of this city, was secured, and a few buildings erected which could be used two years in succession. But even then the fates pursued the fair. The weather was uniformly bad. I recall one state fair week when it actually rained (poured) every day of the six. That was at Kittsondale. There were no walks or roads constructed and everybody floundered in the mud and water ankle deep. The races were called off, and as in those days a man was allowed to bet on a horse race in Minnesota, you can imagine that with no races interest in the fair was at a low ebb.

To add to the vicissitudes the late Wm. S. King, of Minneapolis, a man of more energy and enterprise than grows in these modern days, started a Hennepin county fair, to be held at Minneapolis, and eclipse the state fair in St. Paul. King located his fair near what is now South Minneapolis, and the Milwaukee & St. Paul road promptly put in a spur track to carry the crowd as well as the exhibits. At the state fair at St. Paul it was a two mile walk or drive, though finally under the stimulus of competition, the Manitoba road ran a spur over from Hamline to Kittsondale. But it took nearly an hour to go by rail and switch from the main track of the spur. For a number of years King did surpass the state fair in every way, but it was the survival of the fittest, and in the end the organization made by the old pioneers secured a new field.

During the "fair war" between the cities, Mr. King secured Horace Greely to lecture as one of the attractions for the Minneapolis fair. St. Paul stole a march on him by getting Greeley to deliver one of his general lectures in St. Paul before the library organization the previous evening. The result was a cold day for Greeley when he reached Minneapolis. If he had not been advertised, they would have cancelled the engagement. As it was he was allowed to stroll about the grounds alone until time for his lecture, when he mounted the platform. As soon as he had concluded, King took a roll of bills from his pocket and throwing them into Greeley's hands, left him alone in his glory. Horace looked benevolent over his spectacles, but the wind was icy that blew through the whiskers he wore on his throat. I walked about with him for a few minutes, and, as no Minneapolitan seemed to care for his society, I took a carriage and drove him to the Nicollet house, where I said good bye, with the assurance that everyone in St. Paul was delighted with his lecture the evening previous.

During the administration of President Hayes, the president was secured, with the other pumpkins, as an attraction for the state fair at St. Paul. St. Paul obtained him on the theory that he would be exclusive property, but, as soon as he was advertised for St. Paul, King went to work with his usual vim, and it was arranged that he would spend half a day at the state fair in St. Paul and half a day at King's fair in Minneapolis, and he did. St. Paul had forgotten that he was president of the United States, which unfortunately (according to St. Paul sentiment at that time) included Minneapolis. The state fair got a 40,000 crowd with its presidential attraction, which was quite immense 25 or 30 years ago, though the present state fair generally gets a 40,000 day every year.

St. Paul was mad over the split up of President Hayes, but it did no good. Perhaps the lesson he learned that he could not serve two masters without being censured by both led him to decline trying to get a second term.

It was not until the early organization had had a precarious struggle for existence for a quarter of a century that the Minnesota State Agricultural society reached the era of the resurrection.

HOME AT LAST.

In 1885, sixteen years ago, the county of Ramsey donated its poor farm of 200 acres to the State Fair association on condition that the state would expend $100,000 for the erection of buildings. The proposition was accepted, the appropriation made and the permanent state fair located at Hamline. It was at once a haven and a heaven for the organization.

Two years later, in 1887, the state voted another appropriation of $50,000, and there a halt was called. Each year the fair has made an advance, until the high water mark was reached, in 1900 when $18,000 was paid in premiums and as much more for attractions. That the liberal spirit of the management pays was proven by the receipts reaching $105,000. Six years ago, in 1894, the receipts were less than $33,000.

During the last six years the proportions of the fair trebled, while for fourteen years it has been without money to increase its building equipment.

While the state stands high in dairy products, it ranks very low from the standpoint of beef production, though there is no reason why the rank should not be as high in beef as in dairy production.

The state fair has done much to improve the beef production of Minnesota by securing exhibitions and sales of Herefords, Shorthorns, Aberdeen-Angus and Galloways. The amount already accomplished with the limitations of the management is something wonderful.

WHAT IS NEEDED.

After fourteen years without a dollar for improvements, save from the earnings, the fair management is now asking of the legislature an appropriation of $90,900. This is the proposed plan of expenditures:

Water supply and fire protec-
Water supply and fire protection	$12,000
Agricultural hall (steel, brick, glass, fireproof building)	47,000
Machinery building	10,000
Live stock amphitheater	21,000
Total	$90,000

Two years ago the legislature refused to give fire protection. Last August, a few days before the fair opened, the machinery building took fire and but for a fortunate direction of the wind every building would have been swept from the grounds, entailing not only the destruction of property which cost $150,000 to erect, but preventing the great fair of last fall with its $105,000 of receipts. It is no thanks to the legislature of 1899 that this result did not follow.

With such an object lesson it is not to be supposed that fire protection will be refused by the present legislature.

The state fair offers no premiums for exhibits of farm machinery, though of interest to the farmer. The implement men not only make great exhibits, but they erect their own buildings. If the state had given fire protection their buildings could have been saved last August, and owing to this negligence on the part of the state an appropriation of $10,000 is now asked to replace the buildings destroyed.

The need of a hall for an agricultural display has been painfully apparent for many years. While the fair is supposed to be for the benefit of the agricultural interests of the state the demands for space during the past fourteen years has been so great that agricultural displays are crowded into dark corners and out of the way places.

The facilities for the display and sale of live stock have been so inadequate that it is a wonder any of the famous herds have been secured to make an exhibit. They will not continue to come if a live stock amphitheater is not provided. One of these exhibits will do more to advance the beef industry of the state than ten years of effort devoted in any other direction. All know the value of the dairy interests and all know that the beef products can be brought to equal or exceed them in value.

Some ask why the fair management does not erect these buildings from their receipts. They would gladly do so if they could. Primarily they must pay their premium and expenses. It requires a large sum to maintain buildings of the extent of those on the fair grounds, which is done by the management. The grounds have been entirely refenced, many barns will be built by the management for the Shorthorns. Besides it should be remembered that all years are not "big" years, as is shown by less than $33,000 in 1894. The records of the association are open to the state officials who can ascertain to their satisfaction that the management have not the means to make these permanent improvements if they would.

It is a state institution and improving stock, dairy and agricultural products increases the value of every acre of farm land in the state.

Each year the buildings deteriorate with age, requiring more and more repairs and rebuilding, and if the receipts can pay premiums and expenses, repairs and maintenance and improvement of the grounds it will show very prudent management.

RUMORS OF DISASTER.

Dover, Eng., March 11.—A steamer which left here Saturday night for Calais showed signs of distress when two miles off the harbor and a boat has gone to her assistance. It is reported that there has been a serious collision but particulars of the disaster are not obtainable. The steamer had passengers and mail aboard.

HAD ALMOST A RIOT

Sixteen Irish Members Ejected From House of Commons by Police Officers.

REFUSED VOTE BY CLOSURE

First Time in History of Parliament That Police Appear on Floor of House.

London, March 7.—Fighting with all the desperation of men who believed they were being robbed of their rights, protesting by word of mouth, kicking and striking with hands and feet, their clothing torn into ribbons, sixteen Irish members of parliament were dragged from the floor of the house of commons early this morning and cast into the street by the police.

Never before in the history of parliament has there been such a scene of wild disorder. Never has actual force been required to back up the demands of the presiding officer.

In 1881 Parnell and his party defied the authority of the chair, but they submitted to being ejected formally by the sergeant at arms and his subordinates.

Of the sixteen men thrown out, fifteen required undivided attention of six policemen each, and one, Eugene Crean of Cork, engaged ten minions of the law, two of whom were badly worsted before they landed the burly Irishman on the sidewalk, panting, protesting, a thing of shreds and tatters, but with both hands and mouth full of a collection of blue uniforms and various colors of hair.

Although the maledictions fell upon the head of Speaker Gully, it was A. J. Balfour, the government leader, who directed closure. It is felt that this is but the opening skirmish of more determined battles. It is in line with the openly avowed program of the United Irish party to block legislation at every turn, unless it is given a fair hearing on every proposition and is also granted remedial legislation for Ireland.

In accordance with standing orders, the sixteen members thrown out this morning will not be able to enter the house for a week. However, this will give ample time for reorganization and fresh plans.

The Irishmen who caused all the disturbance are the younger set, Mr. Redmond, Mr. Dillon and others of the more experienced statesmen having departed from the chamber for the night, believing that nothing more would be done requiring their attention.

The press comments caustically upon the stirring event. The Times voices the general tenor of all the editorials when its says "parliament cannot pass over the 'hooligan' conduct of the Irish members unless it is to be degraded in character below the level of the Austrian reichsrath." It calls for drastic punishment for the offense, "all the more unpardonable because it was deliberate."

It is understood that Mr. Balfour proposes to alter the house of commons rule relating to suspensions making the punishment so severe as to make a repetition of last night's revolt against the authority of the chair unlikely.

WILL WE HAVE THEM?

DULUTH DOUBTS HILL'S SMELTER ESTABLISHMENT.

Duluth, March 7.—The report that J. J. Hill may establish a smelter on the ranges and bring his coal or coke from the far west may obtain some credence elsewhere, but in Duluth mining men laugh at it. Mr. Hill is in the business of carrying ore, and there is big money in it. Ore is easily handled and at little expense, being loaded into cars by steam shovels, dropped into ore buckets in the dock and then into vessels. Pig iron would be far more expensive to handle in every way, and it is pointed out that so long as Mr. Hill can get ore to carry he will be satisfied to do that.

The fact that Mr. Hill is known to be getting hold of mining properties on the ranges in this county, excites no extraordinary comment here. It is simply attributed to Mr. Hill's shrewdness which tells him that if the big steel combine gets hold of the mines on the ranges, it will ship the ore over its own roads, and that to be assured of having ore to haul, he must have mines. Therefore he is getting them.

It is claimed by iron men here, too, that the expense of bringing coal from the west would be so great that iron could not be made at a profit; that it could, in fact, be brought up the lakes cheaper than brought from the west. Mr. Hill's boats at the present time have all the traffic that they can take care of, going down the lakes at least, and no reason to look for more tonnage in that direction can be found. The story obtains no credence whatever here.

GAULKE IS FIRED.

AN N. D. LEGISLATIVE CLERK TALKED TOO MUCH.

Bismack, N. D., March 7.—Walter F. Gaulke, journal clerk of the house, was yesterday dismissed from his position by adoption of the report of the investigation committee which inquired into public charges of bribery alleged against Senator Lewis and Representative Leach by Gaulke.

The committee reported no testimony to show any foundation for statements made by Gaulke, but suggested the matter be dropped if Gaulke would make a public apology and retraction. Gaulke was called before the house and made an explanation of his statements which the house did not consider sufficient apology, and he was ordered dismissed.

WENT THROUGH THE ICE.

La Crosse, Wis., March 11.—The ice in the Mississippi river is in a very dangerous condition for travel, caused by a rise in the river. Yesterday seven teams, all loaded with hay, went through the ice and one team was drowned. The teams were in line when the first broke through, and all the others followed.

The drowned horses were owned by David McMann. The accident occurred at a point near Dresbach, Minn. The drivers of the teams had a narrow escape. The other teams were rescued by a crew of men working on the shore.

Mortgage Foreclosure Sale.

Default having been made in the payment of the sum of $8, which became due and payable Oct. 26, 1898, and in the further sum of $8 which became due and payable Oct 26, 1899 and in the further sum of $8, which became due and payable Oct. 26, 1900, which is claimed to be due and is due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by George W. Carhart and Marion M. Carhart, his wife, mortgagors, to Jerome W. Wheeler, mortgagee, bearing date the 26th day of October, 1897, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds in and for the county of Polk, and state of Minnesota, on the 16th day of November, 1897, at 4:50 o'clock p. m., in book 78 of mortgages, on page 248.

And whereas, the said Jerome W. Wheeler, the mortgagee and holder of said mortgage, has duly elected and does hereby elect to declare the whole principal sum of said mortgage due and payable at the date of this notice, under the terms and conditions of said mortgage and the power of sale therein contained; and whereas there is actually due and claimed to be due and payable at the date of this notice the sum of forty-two and 40-100 dollars, with interest on $26.40 thereon at the rate of 10 per cent per annum, from the 26th day of October, 1900, and whereas the said power of sale has become operative, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof,

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The southwest quarter of section twenty-eight (28) in township one hundred fifty-four (154) of range forty-seven (47), in Polk county and state of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the sheriff of said Polk county, at the front door of the court house, in the city of Crookston, in said county and state, on the 23rd day of March, 1901, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder, for cash to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Feb. 6, A. D. 1901.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Mark of Fosston, accompanied by Mrs. J. Olson of that place, took an early morning drive out here Monday. The ladies visited with Mrs. Saterstrom while Mr. Mark did business with our merchants. Mr. Mark, who is also interested in chickens, made a tour through Mr. Saterstrom's poultry plant.

WARREN.

Judge Watts arrived on Tuesday's train to preside over a term of court which convened Wednesday.

The Woodmen's dance given at the opera house last Friday night was said to be a success. There was a full house and everyone present seemed to enjoy themselves. The music for the occasion was furnished by the Argyle orchestra, and was considered very good.

Quite a number of Warren's young people were invited out seven miles in the country to the home of Jim Williams, to a dance last Friday night, of which a goodly number went, and report having had a splendid time. Mr. and Mrs. Williams spared no pains in making every one njoy themselves on this occasion. A splendid lunch was served at 12 o'clock, to which all did ample justice.

The people of adjoining states are beginning to move to the Red River valley a little earlier than usual. Six cars loaded with household goods and stock arrived here Saturday morning by one of Jim Hill's special freights, and they all came from Cherokee, Ia. They were parties that Cline, Paine & Cline sold land to last fall. Some of them are moving east of town and some west. They all seem to be well equipped with stock and farm machinery.

Last Sunday the state game warden arrived here with two loads of moose heads and carcasses which he had captured northeast of German Town. Mr. Genson and one of his neighbors from German Town drove the teams as deputies. The game warden also had three of the guilty parties with him, whom he immediately placed in jail to await further action, and he also had two deputy marshals of Thief River Falls as prisoners. It seems as though said marshals undertook to replevin the goods at the point of revolvers, but they tackled the wrong man. consequently the game warden arrested them at once and brought them to Warren and landed them safely in jail. He also captured six revolvers and one Winchester rifle. They were left in jail only a short time, when the warden gave them a little good advice and released them on the promise that they would be good hereafter, but he would not let them have their firearms, as he said they were not safe parties to handle the same. Monday the parties arrested had a hearing before a justice and Monday evening were taken to Bemidji. All the moose heads and carcasses were sent to St. Paul by express.

Fodder corn was recomended as the most suitable and economical crop for this section of the country, in that it forms a perfect food, and also yields abundantly.

The old town officers were re-elected at the town election last Tuesday. Town Board: J. Saugstad, S. C. Lytle, Albert Arness, Clerk and J. P. Andrew Elby, Assessor: J. J. Ide, Constable, T. M. Boyer; Treasurer, H. H. Thoreson.

We are pleased to state that a Norwegian Luther Congregation was lately organized here. Though informal, it may grow to a solid institution in the near future.

Gordon Mitchell, our hearty friend and wheat buyer, left for his S. D. home last Wednesday. We regret the loss of anyone who is willing and ready to take hold of any work that has a tendency to brighten this life, and in Mr. Mitchell's departure we lose, though perhaps only temporarily, just such a one, but then, what is our loss is someone else's gain.

We regret to state that we are unable to get a full report of the work done at the farmers' institute held here on the 5th last. We are saying the least in claiming that everyone who attended was well pleased with the work that was done. In spite of the bad weather the attendance was good. The main work was in the line of feeding and care of dairy stock, along with the selection of suitable stock.

The institute was ably conducted by Supt. Hoverstad and Prof. Glover. Supt. Hoverstad promised us another institute in the early part of the summer, which we all know will be greatly appreciated. The Institute resolved unanimously that the legislature be urged to make the proper appropriation for the maintenance of the experiment station near Crookston. The petition was drawn out and then signed by all present.

Dakken, the Great Northern railway land agent, was here the first part of the week completing sales of several tracts of the company's land. Mr. Dokken's headquarters are at Breckenridge.

A large number of our young people attended a "hard times" dance given under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid society at Donaldson last Friday evening. They report a magnificent time.

The village lection Tuesday resulted in the election of Hon. E. M. Engelbert, mayor; John F. Brown, recorder, and a highly efficient set of councilmen. The event took place in perfect harmony.

The first duty to be performed by the new village council will be the planning for the erection of a city hall. The structure will be one reflecting credit on those in charge, as well as to the village and community in general.

The band boys met for regular practice Tuesday evening and decided to serenade our newly elected mayor and marching over to his residence the boys proceeded to give him a rousing reception, which was well received.

Dr. Gronerud and Druggist Johnson drove to Stephen Sunday. The gentlemen speak of having discovered a musical prodigy in the little seven year old son of Dr. Mark, residing there. Dr. Gronerud is an authority on music, and was able to judge.

The Commercial hotel parlors were thrown open for the enjoyment of the young people Monday evening, the courtesy being appreciated and enjoyed by a large number. Games of various kinds and amusements galore attended the swiftly fleeing hours.

The many friends of the A. E. Davidson family gathered Friday evening and proceeded to spend a few hours at their quiet domicile. The family leaves shortly for Dashington, where they will make their future home, and many good wishes were expressed and will follow them to their new home.

As spring draws near the boom in real estate in this vicinity has assumed gigantic proportions. The unequalled quality of the soil, comparative cheapness of the land and the terms to suit the homeseeker are the special inducements drawing so many here. They will continue to arrive, for there is yet an unlimited amount of vacant land.

"Is the young man Absalom safe¼" was the subject upon which Rev. Johnson discoursed to the largest congregation that ever gathered here, last Sunday evening. The singular powers of the young and gifted minister never fail to impress the hearers, but especially eloquent was he when under the above head he portrayed the horrors intemperance and attending evils to which the young men of our country are subjected through the legalized atrocity—the liquor traffic.

CARMAN.

Miss Grace McClaren is on the gain after a long illness.

A. Compton is feeling worse again, but we hope to see him better.

Mrs. C. A. Myers, who has been very ill the past week, is slowly on the gain.

Miss Katie McClaren has accepted a position in a dressmaking shop over in the city.

A change in aldermen in the Fifth ward is all the talk now, and I guess we will have a change all right.

Mrs. H. T. Nicholson is still very sick and we all hope that she will soon be better, as she has had a long seige of it.

Miss Jennie McClaren, who has applied for the primary department of the Carman school for the next term, has the support of nearly everyone in the ward and we believe she ought to have the place.

SCHOOLS CLOSE.

DEPLORABLE CONDITION OUT AT CASS LAKE.

All the Cass Lake schools have closed, and, in accordance with a recent decision of the Cass county school board, that latter organization will maintain no more schools there. The school board has jurisdiction over the entire county, but the village of Cass Lake, having been organized since the organization act, which organized Cass county and put the entire county into one school district, and, therefore, not entitled to any school at the hands of the board. A petition is being prepared to organize an independent district for Cass Lake, but this cannot possibly be put into effect till next fall. In the meantime the village will be without schools, with the exception of one or two private affairs. It is understood that two of the teachers who have been teaching there will maintain private schools after the winter vacation is over.

ENFORCES SUNDAY LAW.

Those who have been able heretofore to get drunk on Sunday in Moorhead, says the Fargo Call, were doomed to disappointment last Sunday. The saloons were closed, tight, front and rear, and the Fargo contingent meandered back to their home city sad, silent and dejected. It is said this will be the regular order hereafter across the river on Sundays. If this is made unanimous—no one allowed to run to the detriment of the others—the new order of things will suit a large majority of saloon men.

FOR CORN RAISERS

Inducements Offered To Farmers to Try Their Skill In Raising Corn.

THE JOURNAL OFFERS PRIZES.

For the Best Twelve Stalks of Corn to be Raised In Polk and Adjoining Counties.

The Journal is a firm believer in the practicability of raising corn in the Red River Valley, and believes that a fuller trial of it as a crop will result in its more general cultivation. For many years in various parts of the Valley, crops have been raised with a greater or less degree of success. In many places and with some varieties success has been universal and satisfactory. Other persons have experienced only indifferent success, and more or less disappointment. But it seemes to be very evident that the seasons are undergoing a change as the years go, and that hazzard from frost is now very slight if the crop has been judiciously handled from the start. Of one thing we are convinced; that a large part of the failures are due to ignorance of certain points of importance in connection with the management of the land and the crop. We desire to place before our readers all the reliable information that we can in regard to the matter, and to stimulate an interest in this desirable and valuable crop, we have decided to make an offer of forty dollars cash prizes to be distributed among the corn raisers in the counties of Polk, Norman Red Lake, Marshall, Kittson, Roseau, and Beltrami, as follows:

For the best twelve stalks of some variety of dent corn, each stalk to contain not less than one good, well developed ear of corn, fifteen dollars; for the second best, ten dollars; third best, five dollars; fourth best, three dollars; fifth best, two dollars, and one dollar for each of the next five in merit.

The conditions and manner of judging specimens will be announced later. We will mention here that the plat from which the stalks are selected must not be less than one acre in area.

We shall be glad to answer all inquiries involving matters of information regarding the culture of corn, which may be addressed to the Journal giving such information upon reliable authority. And we therefore invite correspondence in regard to the subject both in regard to experience and requests for information.

VERY SUCCESSFUL

WAS A FARMERS' MEETING AT THIEF RIVER YESTERDAY.

Prof. Hoverstad of the Experiment station, returned from Thief River Falls last evening where a very successful farmers institute and creamery meeting was held yesterday. Among the prominent speakers, aside from Prof. Hoverstad were A. J. Glover, of St. Paul, and Col. R.A. Wilkinson, of this city. The creamery and dairy sentiment is rapidly growing in favor in this part of the state, and so far no opposition has been encountered against the movement wherever meetings have been held. The only thing of an unsatisfactory nature that has come under the observation of Prof. Hoverstad on his organizing trips, are demands for his assistance for organization at places which he has so far been unable to visit. A. J. Glover and Prof. Hoverstad left for St. Paul last evening to meet with the committees of the legislature who have the experiment station appropriation bill under consideration.

OLEO LAW SUSTAINED.

Washington, March 10.—Justice Harlan yesterday handed down a decision involving Minnesota olemargarine. Mr. Brundage had been found guilty of violating the state olemargarine law in a Minneapolis municipal court, and without appealing to the higher state court he went direct to the federal state courts on petition for a writ of habeas corpus. The circuit court sustained his contention that the law was unconstitutional, but the supreme court reversed that opinion, holding that the proceeding was irregular because Brundage had not accepted his remedies in the state courts.

GENERAL NEWS ITEMS.

Nelson O. Whitney, professor of railway engineering in the University of Wisconsin, died suddenly Monday of heart disease. He had been with the university ten years.

Ex-President Cleveland spent his 64th birthday, which occurred yesterday, at his home in Princeton with Mrs. Cleveland and their children. He entertained no callers. Congratulatory telegrams were received from many friends.

A disastrous fire occurred in St. Louis yesterday afternoon which swept over a portion of the city six blocks in length and two blocks wide, taking in its course the United States arsenal and barge building. No estimate of the loss has yet been reported but it was very large.

FIRE AT MINTO.

ONE MAN INJURED—PROPERTY LOSS HEAVY.

The enterprising town of Minto was visited by a destructive fire at an early hour Monday morning which threatened at one time to wipe the place out of existence. As it was, the fire destroyed half a dozen buildings and the town was only saved by the heroic efforts of the residents of the place.

The loss will run up into the thousands of dollars, but fortunately most of those who suffered loss were well insured.

Just how or where the fire started appears to be a mystery. Shortly after 3 o'clock in the morning flames were discovered in the American house, one of the largest structures in the place. The alarm was given immediately, but despite the utmost endeavors of the residents, the building was entirely consumed with all its contents, and in a short space of time the greedy flames had also licked up several adjoining structures.

The American house had fourteen roomers, but all of them were awakened and escaped with their lives, but everything they possessed was left to the mercy of the flames. There was one accident. Wensel Kahotek, a clerk who roomed at the hotel, did not awake until his escape was cut off by the flames. He roomed on the third floor of the building and jumped from there to the roof of a veranda, and from there to the ground. He was badly injured; but just how serious the physicians were unable to state. He was immediately removed to a residence and everything possible was done to comfort him. It is feared that he sustained serious internal injuries.

The total loss will aggregate $35,000, which is offset by something like $17,000 insurance.

BRAKEMAN HURT.

HAS A FOOT CRUSHED WHILE UNLOADING FREIGHT.

Brakeman Baracy made his first trip on the way freight to St. Vincent yesterday with Conductor Knight, substituting temporarily for Brakeman Keeley, who is up on his claim in the Bottineau country, and while unloading some farm machinery at Argyle, a box weighing about 500 pounds fell on his foot and badly crushed several toes. Despite his injuries Barney made the round trip and was brought back on the freight train last evening. He will be laid up for some time. Meanwhile his place will be filled by Joseph Dale, another brakeman who came over from Grand Forks last evening.

POOR PAINTS.

AND OLEOMARGARINE WILL BE LOOKED AFTER.

After a ten days inspection tour along the Fosston line, W. L. Chappel, state dairy and food inspector, of Fergus Falls, returned home last evening. While on his trip he found a considerable lot of oleomargarine, which was not properly labeled, and was being used in the cook shanties in the pineries. Another discovery the inspector made on his trip, was an unusually large amount of poor paints, which is sold to consumers by agents as the genuine article, but also lacks the proper label. These paints are disposed of at 90 cents and one dollar a gallon, and the purchasers of the cheap article are out their money, as the goods are of an inferior quality, and are not serviceable whatever. Mr. Chappel will give this matter proper attention in the future.

BEMIDJI MASONS

A FORMER LODGE IS AGAIN OPENED TO THE ORDER.

Bemidji, Minn., March 19.—A Masonic lodge was instituted here Saturday night, Tom Morris and several other high-up Masons of Crookston being present to conduct the work. This order has been organized here nearly a year, but has existed only under a dispensation. The last meeting of the old village council was marked by the allowing of about$6,000 worth of questionable claims, and the citizens have got out an injunction against the village treasurer forbidding the payment of the same.—J. W. White & Co., have sold their store building on the corner of Beltrami avenue and Third street to McLennan & Graham, who will continue their hardware business in the new stand. The buildings and lots brought $5,000.

During last week Chamberlain, S. D., people were treated to an interesting spectacle in the raiding and closing of all the gambling houses, and arrests of the proprietors and their preliminary hearing in justice court. The surprising and remarkable part of the affair seems to be that the reform movement received its birth among the gambling class themselves. Without the least warning one of the leading resorts was raided and the proprietor arrested, and he is now under bonds to appear in circuit court. Laboring under the delusion that his trouble came from persons interested in the same line of business, he swore out warrants for the keepers and closed all the other places.

The Weddell House, one of the oldest and best known hotels in Cleveland Ohio, is to be sold to satisfy a mortgage of $500,000 which was given in 1884 to John D. Rockefeller and on which $361,000 remains unpaid.

MUTINY IN MINE

Kansas Convicts Hold Fifteen Guards as Hostages at Lansing,

THREATEN TO KILL THEM

Unless Promised Better Food. Most of Them Lifers.

Leavenworth, Kan., March 20.—In the Kansas penitentiary coal mine at Lansing, 284 prisoners who went into the mine on Monday morning have mutined and are holding 15 guards as hostages.

They refuse to let the guards come to the surface until Warden Tomlinson promises to give them better food. They threaten to kill the guards if their demands are not complied with. The mines are worked by the worst class of convicts, and among those who have mutined are 20 life prisoners.

Warden Tomlinson has refused to grant the demands.

Many complaints have been made by the prisoners because of the grade of food furnished them, and to this dissatisfaction has been added allegations of mistreatment.

No outbreak was attempted, however, until those who entered the mine in the morning refused to return unless their demands were granted.

They killed the mules used in the mine and are living on this meat.

Serious trouble is apprehended if it becomes necessary to send deputies into the colliery.

All the penitentiary shops have been closed and the convicts are locked in their cells in order to have all guards in readiness to handle the convicts should they attempt to rush from the mine.

NEW ARRIVALS.

ANOTHER BATCH OF IOWA FARMERS REACH HERE.

This morning's early Great Northern passenger train was loaded down with about 35 Iowa farmers and their families, and when they got off at the depot to change trains for northern points, many of them expressed an opinion of having a decidedly chilly reception, for the early morning air today was sharp and penetrating. However, the new comers did not appear discouraged in the least at this state of climate, and as the different trains left a few hours later for Stephen, Thief River Falls, Warren, Euclid, Argyle and east on the Fosston line, they boarded the passenger wagons and left for their new homes.

For a time between trains the Great Northern passenger depot presented a rather interesting scene, almost resembling those in Castle Garden after the landing of an emigrant boat.

OPINIONS ON PLOWMAN BILL.

J. W. Wheeler: Answering your question as to what I think of the Plowman bill for the taxation of mortgages and leases would say that I have not made an exhaustive study of the bill, but from glancing over its provisions my impression is that it would be a great set back to the development of this country. As you know money loaned on land largely comes from eastern parties. Rates are now but a little over one half what they were five years ago and if this bill were to become a law it would stop every dollar of eastern money from coming into this state to be loaned on farms. It seems to me that it is only necessary for the members of the legislature to become acquainted with the provisions of the bill to insure its defeat.

A. A. Miller: House File No. 504 introduced by Mr. Plowman provides for the taxation of mortgages as real estate, makes the tax a lien on the land, and authorizes the land owner to pay the tax and deduct the amount paid from the mortgage debt. This latter clause comes very near to depriving a man of his property without due process of law. As the mortgage is to be taxed not to exceed the assessed value of the land, it in effect now relieves the owners of mortgaged farm lands of all taxation, for the reason that perhaps three-fourths of all mortgaged farms are mortgaged for more than their assessed valuation. If placed on the statute book, the proposed law could not apply to mortgages recorded before its passage. Its effect therefore would be to stop all loaning of money on real estate security, especially by nonresidents of this state. Their securities are reassessed at the place of the owners residence. They send money here and loan it at from five to seven per cent. Tax such a mortgage from three to five per cent and the owners income is gone. In Crookston last year the tax rate was 5.6 per cent. Good loans bear not more than five or six per cent. With this bill a law, one of two things is sure: either loaning will cease or the rate will be increased from five per cent to nine or ten per cent.

SHOCKING FATE

BROOKLYN WOMAN KILLED BY HER DOG.

New York, March 18.—Mrs. Carrie Cobus, living on West 18th street, met death in a shocking maner last night, being killed by her dog. Mrs. Cobus, her husband, her son and her mother live together. Mrs. Cobus was 38 years of age and subject to epileptic fits. Her dog was a fox terrier of unusual intelligence. Mrs. Elizabeth Broadhead, Mrs. Cobus' mother, said her daughter went out into the kitchen about 7 o'clock. A few minutes later Mrs. Broadhead heard the dog barking excitedly. The mother ran out and found her daughter lying on the floor. She knew it was an epileptic attack and dashing a pitcher of water into her daughter's face she ran into the hall and screamed for help.

Philip Rockefeller, living near by, heard her and ran to her assistance. They entered the room where Mrs. Cobus lay and there saw a horrifying spectacle. The pet terrier seeing its mistress in agony appeared to have gone mad. He flew at the prostrate woman as she writhed on the floor and repeatedly attacked her, burying his teeth in her throat and severing the jugular vein. When Rockefeller tried to tear the maddened brute away it clung to the dying woman with terrible tenacity. He finally got the animal loose. It then attacked the mother and the man, but they beat it off.

A physician was summoned, but Mrs Cobus had bled to death. The dog disappeared in the street.

HARD HEARTED JOKE.

A law student at Grand Forks who was fond of sweets and who was habitually carrying a supply of "jaw breakers," small candies of the form and size and about as hard as marbles, was seriously annoyed by his fellow students' persistent demands for a division of the sweets, and put up a job to get even. He procured a supply of marbles and taking them to a candy store had them crusted over with a black coating composed of sweetened lampblack, so that they very closely resembled the candy he had been using, and thus equipped he proceeded to attend the lecture. As he entered the room he was chewing one of the real candies and his fellow students immediately became clamorous for a supply, which he very generously furnished them. Some little time elapsed before the fraud was discovered, but when it was, there was a rush for the wash basin in the effort to get the black off of their lips. And the Grand Forks Herald says the perpetrator of the joke took out $3,000 more life insurance immediately.

THAT W. R. C. CONVENTION.

Mrs. A. M. Freeman, Mrs. Adelaide Harris and Mrs. Jennie Milligan, who attended the W. R. C. convention at St. Paul as representatives of the Crookston corps, returned home Tuesday and favored the Journal with a call this morning asking that the report that the Crookston corps was ignored in the convention be corrected. The paper reporting the convention got tangled up with the W. R. C. and the ladies of the G. A. R. conventions and was led into an error in its conclusions. The ladies report that the Crookston corps was amply recognized and had an exceedingly interesting time. Mrs. Milligan acted as conductor during the installation of the new state officers. At the reception held at the Metropolitan Hotel the Crookston representatives occupied a seat of honor.

MAY CLAIM ALIBI.

Attorney Tilly, representing the prisoner, says he knows of no new developments in the case of Herbert Robertson, the man accused of burning the body of a new-born infant alleged to be the child of Mrs. Emma Jasmer, the owner of a farm n Howes township, says the Fargo Forum. Regarding certain admissions said to have been made by the acused man to the neighbors soon after the burning of the straw stack, Mr. Tilly says they wil not be substantiated by sworn testimony. "Statements and sworn statements are entirely two different things" says Mr. Tilly. He says that unles maters change from what they are now he will demand a full hearing at the examination on Thursday if the State is ready to proceed then. Mrs. Jasmer is still very ill and it is not likely that she can attend the Robertson can prove an alibi.

TO EDUCATE FILIPINOS.

One thousand school teachers are are wanted for immediate service in the Philippines. A department of public instruction has been established there by the commission with a central office at Manila, under the direction of a general superintendent, at a salary of $6,000 per annum. Ten school divisions are to be established in the Archipelago each with a division superintendent. Authority is given the general superintendent to obtain from the United States 1,000 trained teachers at salaries of not less than $75 per month, the exact salary to be fixed according to the efficiency of the teacher in each case. No teacher is to be allowed to teach or criticise the doctrine of any church, religious sect or denomination, or shall attempt to influence the pupils for or against any church or religious sect in any public school. Violation of this section is made punishable by summary dismissal from the public service. A normal school is also provided for by the commission for the education of natives in the science of teaching, and an appropriation of $400,000 for each school building has been made.

ORGANIZE GRANGE.

The Meeting at Court House Monday Had Successful Closing.

TWO BRANCHES ARE FORMED

And Each One Elected Officers for Managing Affairs.

The meeting of Polk county farmers and their wives at the court house Monday afternoon, had a very successful closing. Mrs. Beard, state master of farm granges, gave an interesting talk on the benefits to be derived from these organizations, whose principal object is to obtain favorable legislation, and to advance the social and educational standing in farming communities.

A number of those present, at first thought it advisable to postpone organization, because many interested farmers remained away yesterday owing to the inclemency of the weather, and quite a number were attending the Kelsey auction sale. However, the enthusiasm of those present prevailed, and two organizations were perfected and the following officers elected for the different granges:

GENTILLY GRANGE.

Remi Fortier, master.
Joseph Sauve, Overseer.
Antoinette Laframboise, Lecturer.
Nere St. Marie, Treasurer.
A. J. Sauve, Secretary.

LYTLE DISTRICT GRANGE.

G. W. Eastman, Master.
Ed. Roberts, Overseer.
Mrs. Robert Smith, Lecturer.
J. P. Marcum, Treasurer.
Earnest Hanna, Secretary.

A number of the speakers at the meeting urged upon Mrs. Beard, state master, to extend her work into Red Lake county and she left yesterday morning for the northern towns, to ascertain the feeling of farmers toward the movement.

Upon her return tomorrow she will meet with the south grange in the Lytle district, in the township of Andover, and hold a business conference.

The meeting at the court house Monday, lasted until 7 o'clock in the evening.

TOMB NOW CLOSED.

REMAINS OF EX-PRESIDENT HARRISON LAID TO REST.

Indianapolis, March 18.—In the centre of a hollow square composed of fully 15,000 of his fellow citizens, the remains of Benjamin Harrison were yesterday interred in the family lot in Crown Hill cemetery.

Close by the grave were the members of his family, President McKinley and other visitors of distinction and the more intimate friends of General Harrison.

Back, a distance of fifty yards, behind ropes guarded zealously by a large force of police, stood with uncovered heads the great multitude who knew him not so well as did they who stood beside the freshly upturned earth, but who honored him and admired him fully as much.

It is doubtful if any public man, at least in this generation, was borne to his last resting place among so many manifestations of respect.

Of passionate grief there was little beyond the members of his family, but the tribute of respect was universal. It came from all alike, from those of his own political faith and from those who differed with him concerning what is best for the nation's good, from men who have been his lifelong friends, and from those who knew him merely by sight and to whom he never spoke. It came from women and children, from white and black, from all conditions and kinds of people.

There was no exception anywhere to the expression that the nation had lost one of its ablest men, and the greatest man of his generation in his own state.

By the open grave stood the chief magistrate of the nation and behind the ropes were all the street arabs of General Harrison's city. Every grade of human life in America between the two, was represented in the crowd, and in them there was but one feeling, that a man had died who was honest at all times with himself and others and whose ability and character were such as the nation could ill afford to lose.

The weather, like that of yesterday, was unsurpassable bright sunlight—the warm breath of spring in every breeze, and yet in the air a touch of winter that brought the blood to the cheek and a sparkle to the eye.

The services at the church and grave were simple in the extreme, all of the most excellent taste and, like the proceedings yesterday, there was an utter absence of friction in everything that was done. All was well-ordered and well performed.

PROTECT GAME.

A DEPUTY GAME WARDEN WHO MEANS BUSINESS.

Grand Rapids, Minn., March 18—Archie Phillips, of Tower, deputy game warden, is covering himself with laurels these days in Itasca county.

Last week he caused to be arrested James Murphy, a lumberman whose camps are located in the vicinity of Trout Lake, and he, upon being brought before Justice Bernard Murphy, pleaded guilty and was fined $119.50. This is the third arrest Mr. Phillips has made in this county and has collected a fine in each case, amounting in all to $250 and costs.

Warden Phillips this evening swore out a warrant for the arrest of James Sherry, another lumberman, charging him with having in his possession three moose, and a conviction will undoubtedly be secured, as the people of Grand Rapids are with the game commission at all times, they believing that to stop the slaughter of game it is necessary to use everybody alike, and they guarantee that no "Beltrami county deals" will be allowed to go.

J. F. McCormick, of Grand Rapids, has been appointed deputy game warden for Itasca and he and Mr. Phillips are working in conjunction with each other at the present time. They will make several more arrests in the near future.

NELSON CURE.

Wednesday, Oliver Haason, who for along time has been conducting the harness making business at McIntosh, filed a schedule of his assets and liabilities with Referee Ole J. Vaule of this city, and declared himself insolvent.

Haason places his liabilities at $1,231.43, and the assets foot up $556.70, including book accounts, stock and personal property exempt by law. The first meeting of creditors will take place at Mr. Vaule's office in this city on Thursday, the 21st inst.

STATE ITEMS.

John Anderson, the Hibbing man who shot another while acting as a guard in smallpox quarantine, yesterday plead guilty to manslaughter in the second degree. It will be remembered that he shot a man in a quarrel. He was indicted for murder in the first degree.

David B. Newman, of Bemidji, has been granted a pension of $8 per month.

Mrs. Potter Palmer, if current reports are true, will hereafter enjoy the most liberal allowance of pin money of all women of Chicago. Potter Palmer has made over to Mrs. Palmer for her exclusive use and enjoyment the profits of the hostelry, and hereafter she will have more than a passing interest in the welfare of the big hotel. The profits of the Palmer house over and above all running expenses are between $225,000 and $250,000 annually, and this sum of money, if placed at the disposal of Mrs. Palmer, will enable her to indulge in almost any form of social entertainment on a scale which will make her the object of envy to women the world over.

The comptroller of the currency yesterday received from the temporary receiver of the failed First National Bank of Niles, Mch., a preliminary statement of the bank's condition. It appears that the amount of the defalcation will be approximately $150,000, which had been covered up by forged loans and discounts. As the bank will be unable to resume business, a permanent receiver will soon be appointed to close up its affairs.

H. H. Drake, a rich bachelor farmer, was yesterday found in his house, five miles north of Rose Hill, Iowa, with five bullets in his body. Drake had been dead three days or more. He had relatives in the Dakotas, Wisconsin and Minnesota.

FROM WASHINGTON

Correspondence from Capitol Relating to Insular Test Suits.

RAILROAD ACCIDENT LAW.

Reports of Same Must be Made to Interstate Commerce Commission.

Washington, March 18.—The belief is steadily growing here that the supreme court will not touch the merits of the case in its decision on the insular test suits, but will hold broadly that these are exclusively political and that the court therefore has no jurisdiction. It is now asserted positively by men familiar with the methods and practices ofthe court that it is only by uniting on some such decision as this that the court will find itself able to decide the cases at all this spring. If it intends to go into the broad question of constitutional powers, it will not, it is said, be able to formulate its opinion n the matter wthout weeks and months of delay. Hence it is concluded that an early decision means no decision at all, and that a real decision means that none will be handed down until next October, when the court convenes from its summer holiday.

In support of this theory it is pointed out that every member of the court has been so busy with other matters that little time has been found for consideration of the Insular test cases, with the enormous mass of citations and the voluminous arguments submitted by counsel on both sides. In the long recess of the court, from May to October, the justices it is contended, will have a better opportunity for calm deliberation and examination. Of course, if the court should hold that it had no jurisdiction in the matter, the president would be left free to do whatever he pleased, unhampered by constitution or law. Such a decision would thus be an overwhelming victory for the administration, for then congress could proceed with confidence to legislate for the Insular possessions along the line already marked out, and which plainly define the administration's colonial policy. While the present litigation is pending, congress naturally approaches the subject of insular legislation somewhat timidly and haltingly, and largely shifts responsibility by imposing on the executive department nearly all the work which congress after a while will be called on to do.

But whether the court renders its decision before the end of the present term or not, the government's confidence in the final outcome is growing stronger all the time. Before the issues were joined in litigation, Attorney General Griggs, whose conduct of the government's case has shown him to be one of the foremost lawyers of his time, consulted some of the ablest expounders of the constitution of the country, as did also others of the president's advisers. The government, therefore, feels so sure of its ground, that if it had a choice in the matter it would prefer that the supreme court's decision should go straight to the heart of the constitutional question involved, so that congress in future could not be deterred from legislating for the insular possessions by the threats of more test litigation.

It will be interesting to note the effects of the new railroad law requiring all accidents to be reported to the Interstate Commerce Commission within thirty days after they occur. This law, which came very near being killed after it was passed, by being hidden away when the time came for the president to sign it, has been pressed upon congress for several years by Hugh R. Fuller, the legislative representative of the various railroad brotherhoods, who is constantly in Washington looking out for their interests. Mr. Fuller got it through the house last session and worked all winter to get a favorable report from the committee on interstate commerce, finding it impossible to do so until almost the last moment, because no quorum of the committee could be had. Mr. Fuller states that during the last year 7,123 people were killed and 51,743 were injured in railroad accidents, many of which might have been avoided with ordinary care and caution. He holds that if the railroads are required to make official reports of all accidents upon their lines, these will not be so frequent.

The law is very comprehensive and requires "all collisions of trains, or where any train or part of a train accidentally leaves the track," to be reported, and "all accidents which may occur to passengers and employes," and the report must "state the nature and causes thereof and the circumstances connected therewith." The Interstate Commerce Commission will require at least a month to prepare the necessary blanks and instructions and notify the railway companies.

MORE EVIDENCE.

IS DISCOVERED IN CONNECTION WITH THE WILSON DEAL.

In connection with the Thomas Wilson deal at Grand Forks, the Herald says that the police have secured additional evidence that he intended to do business on a wholesale scale. Yesterday while one of A. F. Turner's men was drawing water from a well at the rear of the Union hotel, he found a pocketbook which had been thrown in the well the night before when Wilson ran past after leaving Schroeder's restaurant. The book contained a number of papers and several checks. Two were drawn on the Union National bank of Grand Forks, one for $8 and the other for $11, both being bogus. He also had a certified check on a bank at Seattle, the date on this one being January, '97. This will make matters worse for Mr. Wilson, who has stated that he was not a professional and did not make a business of crooked work. The check on the Seattle bank was for $500.

Grand Forks Herald: Yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock Thos. Wilson, alias Patrick Jamison, was arraigned before Judge Brown and waived examination. He was arraigned on two charges, one of obtaining money under false pretenses and the other for obtaining money or property by means of a false token. Though he waived examination he afterwards admitted that he was the party who worked the $5.00 "con game" at the Savings Bank store Wednesday, and there was no disputing the fact that he passed the bogus check at the Panovitz furniture store day before yesterday.

Wilson has been in the city for some time past. He came here first about a month ago and through the Walsh employment agency he secured a position near Larimore. He staid there but a short time, however, as he and his employer could not agree. When he returned to the city he had a few dollars and all went well till he went broke. He says that he then had to do something to get money to live on, and as he could secure no work, worked the game at the Savings Bank store. That money was soon exhausted, as he was drinking heavily, and he then attempted to get a few dollars on the bogus checks.

He denies that be is a professional crook and says that he comes from a respectable family in the east, and could get money from home if he would write and explain the predicament he is in, but this he says his pride forbids him to do.

It is understood that he will plead guilty on the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, and if he agrees to this he will not be prosecuted under the other charge. The former offense will result in his getting a penitentiary sentence. He will probably be arraigned and allowed to plead within the next few days.

FORCIBLE TALK.

SENATOR RYDER'S ELOCUTIONARY POWERS WIN OUT.

St. Paul, March 16.—The only diversion afforded in the senate during yesterday's afternoon session in committee of the whole, Senator E. J. Jones presiding, was Senator Ryder's eloquent and effective plea for a favorable report on the house bill creating a drainage commission and appropriating money to drain the swamp lands in the northern counties of the state.

Senator McGovern had made a long and able argument against the constitutionality of the measure and moved its reference to the committee on judiciary, contending that if the lands in question were to be drained the expense should come from the proceeds of the sale of swamp lands granted by the federal government and not from the general funds of the state.

Senator Ryder, who occasionally arises to clinch a point or interpose an objection, but who has hitherto not attempted a set speech, was evidently loaded for drainage bear, and starting with the proposition, in effect, that the constitution should not stand between friends on a measure of such undoubted benefit to the people of his section, he spoke with convincing force for some moments.

Senator Grindeland, from the same section, backed up the senator from Polk, and when the vote was taken there was nothing left of Senator McGovern's constitutional objection.

The Sivright bill to prevent fraud in butter making was also reported favorably, as were two of Senator Benedict's bills, to prevent adulteration in liquors and in candies, and Daugherty's general bill along the same lines.

$4,500,000.

THAT'S WHAT THE NORTHERN PACIFIC WILL SPEND.

St. Paul, March 14.—The Northern Pacific has decided to expend about $4,500,000 in permanent improvements this spring. Extensive additions will be made to its Como avenue car shops and about $175,000 will be spent in extending the shops used for repairs to both freight and passenger cars. The present buildings will be enlarged, and additional machinery installed.

Additions will also be made to the locomotive shops at Brainerd. The shops at Livingstone and Tacoma will also receive attention. Many hundred thousand dollars will be expended in widening the road bed at various points, and in otherwise improving the permanent way. The improvements will be scattered along the entire line.

SORE THUMB.

A NORTHERN PACIFIC SURVEYOR HAS ONE.

G. E. Bushnell, foreman of a surveying crew for the Northern Pacific railway, met with a very painful accident at Fertile Thursday. In company with two of his men he had started from the station to go to Gary with their railroad velocipede, which is run by a gasoline engine. As the rails were covered with ice the machine refused to work, and Bushnell got off the contrivance to investigate the cause of the trouble. In some way he got his thumb caught in the cogs of the machine and had it almost severed from his hand. The party returned to Fertile and a physician was called to dress the wounded member, and the patient has hopes of avoiding an operation. It will be some time, however, before Bushnell will be able to resume his work.

PLAY BALL.

A meeting of the Western Baseball League is called and will be held in St. Paul today.

The most important business to come before the meeting is the fixing of the circuit. Louisville is being given serious consideration as a possible participant in the Western League race, and it is probable that the end of the week will see the circuit completed.

MURDERED A BABE

Herbert Robertson, of Fargo, is Accused of Slaying a Babe—Burns Body.

A MOST REVOLTING CRIME

The Child was the Offspring of Mrs. Emma Jasmer, of Howes Township.

Saturday afternoon Herbert Robertson, a farm hand employed at the farm owned by Mrs. Emma Jasmer, in Howes township, near Fargo, was was arraigned in Judge Hanson's court charged with one of the most revolting and atrocious crimes on the calendar.

The complaint alleges that Robertson is the slayer of a new born babe, which Mrs. Jasmer gave birth to on the morning of March 2, shortly after midnight. It is charged that Robertson subjected the infant to severe cold which caused death and then to conceal the awful crime buried the body in a straw stack. The story is replete with horrible and revolting particulars, the like of which has seldom been heard in the annals of crime.

It appears that Robertson has been in the mploy of Mrs. Jasmer, whose husband died several years ago, and is thought to have been the father of her illegitimate child, which was born on the fateful morning of March 2. Dr. Salvage was called to attend the woman and when he left at an early hour in the morning there was a newly born female child in the home. Robertson drove the doctor back to his home and then returned to the farm.

He states by way of defense that when he returned to the Jasmer home the child was dead, and then he made preparations to inter the remains. He says that he dug a grave near an old straw pile and brought the remains of the child out in a rough wooden box and laid it on the straw pile until he finished his task. Then a very peculiar thing happened. The straw stack caught on fire from his lighted pipe and the remains of the child were totally consumed. He states that the reason for burying the child as he did was that he wished to cover up as much as possible the story of its birth. Mrs. Jasmer lies ill at her home and has not spoken in regard to the matter.

Robertson asked for time yesterday and was given until next Thursday to prepare his defense.

Attorney J. W. Tilley has been employed to defend him.

BEMIDJI NEWS.

ITEMS OF INTEREST FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

Many of Frank M. Eddy's friends are sorry that he has been crowded out of the Seventh congressional district, as they think that it will be a hard matter to jump up another man who can carry the new Ninth district over the populistic hordes. Wonder if Halvor Steenerson would not be a strong man to put in training for the race?

The multitude of candidates who were defeated at our city election Tuesday are trying to figure out how it happened.

The Pioneer showed quite a stroke of enterprise by getting out a midnight report of the election returns Tuesday night, which was very much appreciated by the excited multitude, who were anxious to get authentic reports.

If the three McCarthy bills pass the legislature, which is almost sure to be the case, Beltrami county will continue to do business; otherwise, the county will go jump, as our county orders will not be worth the paper they are written on—as is the case at present.

If the pine barons are compelled to pay the taxes, as other people who hold town lots and homesteads are expected to do, this county will soon be flying as high as need be.

A perfect swarm of people get off the trains here every day with the intent of taking homesteads and locating in business here or in the towns north of this city.

ADIEU, VIEW.

EAST GRAND FORKS MOURNS THE LOSS OF A PAPER.

Some time during the dark hours of Friday night the Valley View, the city council's choice for the official paper for 1901, says the East Grand Forks Courier, has disappeared and this morning the former abode of the publication knows it no more, but stands vacant, short a tenant and several months' rent, but Landlord W. C. Nash says it is only $36. "My land, the former proprietor soaked me for $40 rent, and I wasn't the only one, either."

No one seems to know what has become of the layout but it smells very much like a W. E. McKenzie deal to a man up a tree. Mac has run his race at Crookston and is looking for more worlds to conquer, and has set his cap for East Grand Forks, where things came decidedly easy on several occasions before, and there are a few who are ready and willing to fall into his snare, from present appearances. If Mac's dorsal connection don't show up with the city contract then we are mistaken.

FEEL HIS LOSS.

LEGISLATORS PASS RESOLUTION OF RESPECT.

Benjamin Harrison's memory was honored in the senate Thursday morning by the adoption of resolutions. The republican members seemed to have overlooked the matter and it was left to Senator Stockwell to introduce the resolutions shortly after the session opened. They were passed, the roll of the senate being called as an additional mark of respect, and were as follows:

Whereas, Benjamin Harrison, patriot and statesman, loyal and conscientious citizen, honorable and able public official, is dead; therefore, be it

Resolved, by the senate, the house concurring, that we extend to his bereaved family our sympathy and to the citizens of our common country we commend his life as a noble example of exalted American citizenship, and that an atested copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the members of his family.

MORE CREAMERY

FARMERS OF RED LAKE FALLS DISCUSS THE MATTER.

Last Saturday evening about forty farmers held a meeting at Jens Offerdal's farm, says the Thief Lake Falls Press, to talk over the advisability of building a creamery near Ringbo. The principal question brought before the meeting was the number of cows in the vicinity, which was found to be 600. This is enough to more than pay the cost of the creamery building and machinery, operating expenses and the general workings of a co-operative concern of this kind. In investigating the prices paid for butter at different creameries in the northwest, it was found that the lowest price paid farmers for butter at most creameries during last year was never less than 16 cents per pound in summer and up to 22 1-2 cents during this winter, in cash on the 20th of each month.

A committee of five farmers, Messrs. Grandal, A. Johnson, Wm. Copp, A. Anderson and Brogedahl were appointed to solicit subscriptions of stock and guaranty of cows, and the meeting adjourned to meet at the same place Saturday, March 16.

After the creamery business was done Mr. Wall of Thief River Falls brought up the matter of county division and out of all present only one dissenting voice was heard.

A NEW BUSINESS

ANOTHER REAL ESTATE BUSINESS IN THIS CITY.

The Wiemer Bros. Land Company is a new business firm which came here from Hardin, Ia., recently and hung out their sign on the Times building on Second street. The members of this new firm come well recommended as reliable and enterprising business men, and by honest business methods expect to reap a share of the patronage in the land sales which are being consummated here daily. L. S. Snyder, an experienced real estate dealer from the Hawkeye state, has the management of the firm's business at this place and is hopeful of seeing an immense immigration into northern Minnesota from his old home during the present season. These conditions Mr. Snyder bases principally upon the fact that many farmers in Iowa have not sufficient land for their sons, and as cultivated farms are held at enormously high prices, he believes that people wanting farming property will come here where an abundance is waiting its opening at prices which can easily be secured.

A NEW TOWN.

IS PLATTED AND OPENED ON BRAINERD & NORTHERN.

Alex Thompson has just received from the government a plat of the new townsite of Bridgie. The town is situated on the Brainerd & Northern railroad, 65 miles northeast of Bemidji, and borders on Lake Bartlett, almost half way between Bemidji and the Big Forks.

The survey has been made by government Surveyor L. A. Berg and County Surveyor James Murphy, and six full blocks have been platted. The streets of the new town are 80 feet wide and up to this morning the owners had sold 34 lots to prospective builders and business men who will locate in one of the most promising new town in Itasca county.

A beautiful island, containing about five acres of land, is situated in Lake Bartlett, and is accessible by boat, and this fact, coupled with other inducements, will make it an excellent summer resort.

BROKE HIS LEG.

A NORTH DAKOTAN FALLS ON ICY SIDEWALK.

Thos. Berg, whose home is in Emerado, N. D., returned from the woods Saturday evening having been employed there during the winter months as teamster. Berg, instead of going through to Grand Forks, got off here and in passing along the sidewalk in front of Woodham's furniture store on Robert street shortly after 5 o'clock Saturday evening, he slipped and fell on the icy walk, breaking his right leg near the ankle.

The injured man was picked up by pedestrians and taken to the Scandia hotel, where he now lies and is being cared by Dr. W. H. Smith.

JOHN SHARPSTEIN ASKS HEAVY DAMAGES FROM G. N.

Attorney Barnett, of Barnett & Reese, Fargo, Saturday filed with Clerk of Court McCubrey of Clay county papers in the suit of John Sharpstein against the Great Northern railway. The complainant seeks through the courts to recover $15,000 from the Great Northern on account of injuries alleged to have been received some months ago at Cass Lake, Minn.

A NEW RAILROAD.

It is reported that the Northern Pacific has secured control of the Halvorson & Richards line at Red Lake, says the Blackduck Times. To this end a crew of surveyors have gone to White Fish lake to locate and cross section a line to intersect the Minnesota & International at or near Turtle River.

A surveying crew of sixteen came in Thursday to go to the Big Forks, and locate the road from there here.

DENIES STORY.

SHERIFF SAMPSON MAY ASK A RETRACTION.

The Minneapolis Journal correspondent from up country got a bit funny Tuesday and wrote what sounds like a nice little romance about Sheriff Sampson and the game wardens, who made the arrests north of Thief River Falls, on the train between Warren and Crookston, says the Thief River Falls Courier. He tells about Sampson exceeding his authority in trying to arrest the wardens for assault and that they had held him off with a revolver, and that Sampson got scared and left the train, and further that the governor had been reported to and that a removal from office might be the result. There is no doubt that the scribe had made a good write up of it, only it lacked that one essential of being the truth. Sampson's story develops that he did make the arrest upon a warrant sworn out in Thief River Falls, and there was no gun plays or scare-outs in the game. Mr. Sampson turned the prisoners over to his deputies and got off at Euclid for his team, which he drove to Crookston, but upon arriving there he found that his prisoners had been given a little more liberty than usual and taking advantage of it, had skipped. Sampson denounces the story as a lie out of whole cloth and may request a retraction from the Journal.

BOGUS OFFICE INSPECTORS.

A gang of swindlers have been at work along the line of the free rural delivery in the vicinity of Grinnell, Ia., and they succeeded in mulcting several unsuspecting people. The men represent themselves as postoffice inspectors and their scheme is to inspect the mail boxes and then to demand from the owners a rental of from $3 to $5. The postoffice department has sent out notices asking postmasters to warn their patrons.

Sharper With Many Checks and No Funds Falls Into Hands of Police.

HE BUNCOED BUSINESS MEN

Judge Brown Holds Him to the Grand Jury in the sum Of $300.

The party who perpetrated the five dollar "con game" on the Savings Bank store a few days ago was brought up Thursday afternoon with a sudden jerk; the cause of his arrest was an atempt to pass a check with S. Panovitz for $52, says the Grand Forks Herald Friday morning.

He entered Panovitz's store on Friday afternoon and purchased a range worth $40; in payment for this he gave a check on the bank of East Grand Forks for $52 and received in change $12 in cash. After receiving the above amount he entered Pomeroy & Garvin's store and purchased a few articles, but had not paid for many of them until young Panovitz, who had grown suspicious of the check, followed him and wanted his money back. This he received all but a few dollars and the mater was reported to the police headquarters at the city hall.

The police upon being notified of the case started an investigation and the patrolmen were notified to arrest any party who answered the description given by young Panovitz. Officer Doty noticed a party in Schrader's restaurant who was attemptin to pass a check for a meal ticket. As Doty entered the front door the crook had business in the back yard and Doty was given the chase of his life before he overtook the party.

Officer Doty took his man to the city hall and later he was brought before Judge Brown on the charge of forgery. The accused at first gave the name of Patrick Jamison, but later desired to have the name of James Wilson entered in his plea.

When he was searched it was found that he had checks of the Grand Forks banks, the East Grand Forks bank, the banks of Fargo and several of the banks of Winnipeg in his possession, several of which were filled out for various amounts.

In addition to this he had several envelopes addressed many of which were addressed to Thos. Wilson, Hamilton, Ont., which were identical with the envelope which he left at the Savings Bank store, in which he was supposed to have left a $5 note in exchange for five dollars in silver a few days ago.

When he was arraigned last evening and held in $300 bonds, he stated that he might call upon his friends in Canada to go his bonds but at the present time he did not feel so disposed. When asked why he did not draw a check for the amount of his bonds he stated that he could do that also were it not for the fact that the officers had possession of all his checks and that at the present he was not in a position to write a check upon any bank.

Reg. Smith, proprietor of the Savings Bank store, is satisfied from the description given by hisc lerk that the man arrested was the party who had perpetrated the deception upon his clerk a few days ago.

TUESDAY'S ELECTION.

LIQUOR QUESTION AN ISSUE IN SOME TOWNS.

License was an issue in only a few towns and villages in Minnesota Tuesday. Towns which declared for license were Renville, Jackson, Hector, Fertile, Battle Lake, Hayfield, Heron Lake, Pine Island, Slayton, Austin, Wells, Benson, Ada, Montevideo, Le Roy and Glenwood.

Henning, Hawley, Twin Valley, Atwater, Windom, Monticello and Spring Valley, among others, declared for no license.

The contests were generally non-partisan and there was little political significance in the vote. Below are given results:

FAIRFAX.

Supervisors, A. O. Daniels, chairman, Albert Helmich and John Sylvesterson; clerk, John Anderson; treasurer, Chris Houston; assessor, Sam Greenhalgh; constable, A. J. DeLance; justice, Fred Anderson; poundmaster, Jos. Mojou.

GODFREY.

Supervisors, chairman, J. O. Rude, G. O. Borden; town clerk, D. T. Mitchell; treasurer, P. C. Moe; assessor, K. Tedmanson; justice of the peace, T. M. Nelson; constable - years, B. Bakken; constable 1 year, Iver Norhelm.

Ada—Mayor J. E. C. Volland; councilmen, G. Gilbertson, A. J. Vangsnes and A. C. Gerber; treasurer, L. D. Dawley; recorder, Louis Hintze; assessor, Wm. Hintze; license carried by 21 majority; against incorporating as a city carried by 129.

Cass Lake. The village election produced a hot fight. James Cardle and John T. Apley headed the opposition tickets for president council. Cardle defeated his opponent by nearly three to one. The following officers were elected: President, James Cardle; trustees, O. M. Johnson, George Hansen, John Jackson; recorder, W. T. McKeown; treasurer, H. E. Reed; assessor, Martin Swanson; constables, A. Petehson, D. Cain.

Gary—G. E. Pladsen, president; Gust Groberg, Halvor Lee and T. O. Wermager, councilmen; O. T. Riskoff, recorder; D. C. Jones, treasurer; L. L. Bergan, assessor; Halvor Lee and S. E. Wickham, constables.

No license carried.

Shelly, Minn.—The following officers were elected, Supervisors; Martin Arneson, I. A. Anderson, H. Paulson; clerk, G. M. Aarestad; assessor, J. J. Aarestad; treasurer, Ole Swensen; justice of peace, Matt Johnson; constable, Jss. Hanson; The writer has been informed the principal business discussed was in regards to road tax. But as the official business was transacted in the Norwegian language your correspondent was barred from the proceedings, not being able to understand the language.

Hawley Council—S. P. Wange, president; F. J. Southwell, Andrew Johnson Wm. Kittleman; recorder, J. E. Johnson; treasurer, Nicoll Nelson; assessor, Theo. Awrey; justices, K. Kittleman, J. H. Burril; constable, Wm. Turkington; this is the third consecutive time Hawley has gone dry.

Winnipeg Junction—Carried for license.

NEILSVILLE.

Supervisors, Nils Muus, chairman; N. J. Skalet and Peter Paulsrud; Andrew Monson, town clerk; L. S. Kolden, treasurer; A. J. Gilseth, assessor; K. S. Aker, justice of the peace; and O. O. Melsness, constable; total votes cast were 95. The board of supervisors got 53 and their opponents 41. The balance of the elected officers got 95 votes each, all the votes cast.

SULLIVAN.

Supervisors, Mike Driscoll, chairman, Andrew Ellestad and Knud Hammerness; clerk, Frank Collars; treasurer, August Nelson; assessor, James Sullivan.

EAST GRAND FORKS ORGANIZES A NEW LODGE.

On Thursday evening the Scandinavians of East Grand Forks organized a lodge of the Independent Scandinavian Workmen of North America. There were 21 charter members but it is expected that within a short time the membership will attain upwards of three hundred.

The new lodge starts off with every prospect of success. Nearly all the prominent Scandinavian business men of East Grand Forks have signified their intention of affiliating with the order, and in addition many others have declared a similar intention. All Scandinavians are eligile to membership.

At the present time the order has charters in but two states, Wisconsin and Minnesota, but it is expected that this summer a charter will be obtained in North Dakota. The order is on the lines of fraternal insurance. At the present time the headquarters are at Eau Claire, Wis., but previous to 1892 they were in Chicago.

The officers elected at the meeting last Tuesday evening were:

President—E. Arneson.
Vice President—Peter Brothen.
Secretary—A. P. Odlund.
Financial Secretary—Alex Peterson.
Treasurer—H. M. Erickson.
Marshal—B. O. Panlsness.
Instructor—G. Hoest.
Inside Guard—C. Bydal.
Outside Guard—T. B. Bydal.
Physician Westeen.
Trustees—John Brandt, Ole Ellestad, P. O. Thoreson.

The lodge will meet the first and third Tuesday of each month.

ELECT OFFICERS

BEST PEOPLE ON EARTH AT GRAND FORKS MEET.

Grand Forks lodge No. 255, B. P. O. E., held an important session Saturday evening, and members of the order from all parts of the state were present. The gathering was one of the most pleasant that has been held by the order for a long time past, and over a hundred members were present.

After the routine business had been disposed of, the election of officers for the ensuing year was held, and resulted as follows:

Exalted Ruler, F. V. Kent.
Esteemed Leading Knight, J. D. Bacon.
Esteemed Loyal Knight, Geo. E. Duis.
Esteemed Lecturing Knight, C. J. Fisk.
Secretary, F. A. Brown.
Treasurer, W. B. Wood.
Tyler, M. J. Moran.
Truste, F. Dixon.
Alternate Representative to the Grand Lodge, C. J. Fisk.

Following the election three candidates were initiated and were given all there was couling to them and a trifle more. At 1 o'clock an elegant spread was sat down to, which was fully enjoyed by all present. Later there was a social session and addresses by several of the after dinner speakers of the order.

W. R. C. ELECTIONS.

THE CROOKSTON CORPS IS NOT RECOGNIZED.

The ladies of the W. R. C. finished the election of the officers for the coming year late yesterday afternoon. There were few contests and in some of the cases the election was unanimous. Beside the election of Mrs. Webster, of Duluth, to the position of president, the following were declared elected to their respective positions for the coming year:

Senior vice president, Mrs. Mary L. Voligny, of Stillwater; junior vice president, Mrs. J. R. White, St. Paul; secretary, Mrs. Emma Wicks, Duluth; treasurer, Mrs. Ida M. Johnson, of Kasota; chaplain, Mrs. Maggie Goodwin, of Austin; councilor, Mrs. Mary E. Ingalls, of Minnieska; council of administration, Mrs. Zella M. McAllister, of Winona; Miss Dora Muelberg, of Carver; Mrs. Anna Satory, of Wabasha. Mrs. Lizzie M. George of Minneapolis was chosen delegate at large to the national convention, and Mrs. Helen Goldsmith of St. Paul alternate.

DEWET MAD.

HIS SANITY QUESTIONED BY HIS FOLLOWERS.

Bloemfontein, March 16.—Prisoners who have been released by Gen. DeWet say they think he is a mad man. They aver that the terrible fatigues he has undergone and the anxieties and the intensity of his feelings have unhinged his mind. Apart from this view of Gen. DeWet's mental state, some of the peculiarities are discussed within the bounds of his camp.

He remains alone with a few trusted followers. Thus the orderlies of his subordinate commanders are frequently unable to find him in order to receive orders. His secrecy is excessive. He imparts his plans to no one.

Gen. DeWet ridicules the peace negotiations which are going on. He has declared openly to the men under his command that no terms except independence will satisfy him.

A recent utterance attributed to Gen. DeWet is that the British hated the Transvaalers. The whereabouts of Gen. DeWet during the last two or three days is unknown, nor is it known whether President Steyn is with him.

CUT GREEN TIMBER.

CAPT. MERCER SHUTS UP TWO CAMPS FOR VIOLATIONS.

Washington, March 16.—Complaint was received at the interior department yesterday from Indians on the Leech Lake reservation that green lumber is cut by dead and down contractors. It was forwarded by Capt. Mercer, who added an explanation of his own.

He stated that green timber was cut in two camps, and he immediately shut them up. In other camps only such green timber is cut as is necessary in making roads to camps. Capt. Mercer reiterates his intention to hold the purchasers of dead and down timber to the strict letter of the contracts.

Secretary Hitchcock has recently told several callers that it is his intention not to approve the sale of timber land on the White Earth reservation until the purchasers show proof that there was not collusion in the bidding.

WAS BUFFALOED.

GUS SCHMIDT FORMER PAINTER —NOW WHITEWASHER.

Gus Schmidt, who heretofore enjoyed the reputation of being one of the most artistic painters in Crookston, has lost some of his laurels while working at St. Hilaire recently. One of his friends met him one day and told him of a customer who wanted some painting done. The customer happened to be an old lady, and when Gus called to make a contract for the work she wanted done, the lady inquired of his name. "Gus Schmidt von Crookston," came the answer, and then followed a long pause. The silence was at last broken when the lady customer point-blankly told Gus that he was only a whitewasher, and an acquaintance of Brown's holzman, and as she wanted a painter, someone else would have to do the work. Gus blushed and amid stammering and a choking voice he exclaimed: "I am Buffaloed."

CROP PROSPECTS.

CONDITIONS ARE FAVORABLE FOR GOOD CROP YEAR.

What will be the wheat crop for the northwest for the year 1901? As spring draws near there is great interest manifested and the prospects and possibilities for the coming crop, and much speculation as to the probable acreage that will be sown. The experience of many years has shown the futility of early spring estimates, and many figures of past seasons put out by various estimators in the early spring and based upon superficial observation of necessarily incomplete data have fallen flat when the harvesting returns have come in. It is but a short look ahead now to seeding time and until then it is of course impossible to make an intelligent estimate as to the actual acreage. There are, however, some general facts in relation to the outlook for the coming crop, about which it is possible to speak with certainty. Preliminary conditions point to an early break up and good weather for seeding. The ground is well watered. While the winter has been mild and without heavy snows, yet the country has been blanketed by frequent light flurries, last fall was very wet, and the ground now holds enough snow, and is frozen hard enough to saturate the earth to a good depth and provide moisture for the plant in the early stages of growth. All reports bear this out and farmers coming into Crookston from widely different points say that the ground is right to hold the seed.

There is the further fact that wheat is now holding on a range about ten cents over prices of this time last year, which will influence farmers in some sections to sow more freely while in the flax districts the acreage may be doubled.

If the old rule holds good that a year of high prices works for increased production the following year, there will be a heavy flax crop. Last year was a hard one for flax growers. The early drought that killed so much wheat operated against flax as well. First came drought, then too much moisture, coupled with frost damage to northern flax. In places farmers plowed up their entire acreage, it being worthless.

FROM IDAHO.

A FORMER POLK COUNTY MAN TELLS ABOUT IT.

The Journal received Saturday the following letter from Walter Knott, at one time a citizen of Crookston, who left here recently to make his fortune in the far west. He was accompanied by two friends and in his letter he says:

I will now try and give you a fair description of this country and our trip. We did not see much en route worthy of note until we arrived at Spokane. There we stayed over one day to rest and to see the city. We found it a very nice and interesting place of about 3,500 population, and strictly up to date in every way, and everything fully as cheap as in St. Paul or Minneapolis. From Spokane we came to Kamiah over the Palouse and Lewiston branch of the Northern Pacific railroad. The first one hundred miles out of Spokane we passed through what is known as the Palouse wheat belt, several miles in width, and very productive, yielding as high as 50 bushels of wheat per acre. They also raise an abundance of the finest of apples in this belt. After we got through this wheat belt we went down through the Bear river canyon, at the rate of 75 feet to the mile, for a distance of about 15 miles. There we struck the Clearwater river, which we followed into Lewiston, where it empties into the Snake river. Lewiston is in another grain belt consisting of thousands of acres, known as the Kamas prairie, where grain is also very productive. Through this valley from Lewiston to Kamiah is a fine fruit country, producing the best of apples, peaches, pears, plums, prunes, apricots, grapes of all kinds and every variety of small fruit, also every variety of vegetables.

The climate is very mild here and the grass is all green and about two inches in height. A person can look up on to the mountains and see some snow, but the winter has been very light, some people living in tents all winter. I like the country very much and think I shall make it my home, for a time at least.

—Walter Knott.

BOSTON BLAZE.

THREE MEN MEET DEATH IN A PRINT SHOP FIRE.

Boston, March 16.—Three lives sacrificed, nearly a dozen more or less injured and many thousands of dollars damage is the result of a fire in the Daily Advertiser and Record seven story granite front building in Newspaper row last night. The dead are:

JAMES RICHARDSON, proof reader, Cambridge.

WALTER LUSCOMBE, proof reader, Salem.

JUDSON CRAMP, proof reader, Cambridge.

How the fire started is not known but it was first seen in the press room and it spread to the elevator well and darted to the top so rapidly that before the occupants of the two upper floors were aware of it, the building was on fire, and their rooms were filled with flames and smoke.

In the editorial room on the sixth floor there were but five men. All had to run for their lives. On the upper floor, occupied by the composing room, were eighteen compositors and proof readers whose situation was most critical.

Panic stricken they rushed for the windows leading to the fire escapes and all but three of them succeeded in gaining the roof of an adjoining building.

Long ladders were raised as quickly as the net work of electric wires over the street would permit, but before a ladder could be placed in position the men had dropped through the skylight in the building roof and reached places of safety. Except in the press room in the basement there was practically no fire in the building below the fifth story. No one was in the press room at the time the fire started except the fireman, who had not been seen up to a late hour.

It took three hours of work to drown the fire. The three victims, all proof readers, were suffocated before they had time to reach the fire escapes. Those who found the bodies were obliged to jump several feet to the foot of the adjoining building, and in this way quite a number of them sustained injuries.

As soon as it was seen that the resources of the Advertiser and Record for issuing the edition of their paper regularly were destroyed, offers of assistance were received from the proprietors of all the other newspapers of the city. Managing Editor Underwood says that it is impossible to estimate the loss until the actual damage to the presses is ascertained.

PARASITES IN GRAIN.

Elevator men in the northeastern part of South Dakota are greatly alarmed over a discovery made by H. H. Swift, who runs an elevator at Henry. While shipping grain he discovered in the center of a huge bin of wheat what he at first suposed to be bunches of moulded wheat, but which upon closer inspection proved to be a mass of very small parasites, which were very much alive. When placed under a powerful microscope they made the observer's flesh creep. They have eight legs, and each leg has two feelers. Although Mr. Swift is an experienced grain man, he has never before seen anything of the kind, and no one else has yet been able to classify them. A portion of the mass of parasites has been sent to the South Dakota Agricultural college at Brookings for inspection by the professors there, in the hope that they may determine their species. Whether or not similar parasites have gained a foothold in other bins of wheat has not yet been ascertained.

STATE G. A. R. OFFICERS.

W. H. Harries, of Caledonia, was elected department commander of the Minnesota department, G. A. R., at the meeting in St. Paul.

Perry Starkweather, of Minneapolis, was elected senior vice commander.

I. H. Mahan, of St. Paul, was elected junior vice commander.

Mrs. Bertha Webster, of Duluth, was elected president of the ladies of the G. A. R.

Mrs. Ada May, of Stillwater, was elected president of the Women's Relief Corps.

The Excuse

Made by many a man for taking a drink at the bar is that he needs a bracer. He feels weak, his stomach is "out of sorts" and liquor makes him "feel good." The tired man who sits on a pin leaps up with new energy, but no one would say that this energy was evidence of the strength giving power of a pin. So with the energy induced by liquors. They only spur the body on, but do not strengthen it.

Strength is made from food properly digested and assimilated. When the stomach is diseased there is a failure to extract the nutrition from food and the body grows weak. The weak body needs strengthening, not stimulating. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, so that the nutrition of food is perfectly extracted and assimilated and the body nourished into health and strength.

There is no alcohol in "Golden Medical Discovery," and it is entirely free from opium, cocaine and all other narcotics.

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is no other medicine "just as good" for diseases of the stomach and allied organs.

"Your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy have been of great benefit to me," writes (Prof.) Pleasant A. Oliver, of Viola, Fulton Co., Ark. "Before I used the above mentioned remedies my sleep was not sound; digestion bad; a continual feeling of misery. I now feel like a new man."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate the bowels and liver.

R & G CORSETS NEVER STRETCH

The moderately straight R & G No. 397 was and is the corset of comfort with the essence of style. It is straight enough for the prevailing vogue and curved enough to conform to healthful anatomical lines. In 1900 we were unable to fully meet the demand for straight-front goods and unwilling to resort to any makeshift to meet the conditions. At present, however, considerable additions to our factory facilities enable us to keep the trade supplied with real straight-front corsets at retail prices from $1.00 to $2.50, and also our 397, 197, Empire and other popular numbers. There are over seventy styles and sizes of R & G Corsets—a corset to fit every figure. R & G Corsets are the corsets that do not stretch. Every hairbreadth of stretch is taken out of the goods by means of steam-heated iron forms. This gives a permanency to the right shape and form that will stay in it until the last day you wear it. Every R & G Corset is sold with the understanding that it must give satisfaction to the wearer, or the dealer will supply a new one free of cost. If your dealer hasn't it, send us his name and we will see that you are supplied with what you want.

Entered at the postoffice at Crookston, Minnesota, as second-class matter.

The London Daily Mail in its Sunday's issue declared editorially that "the real causes of America's wonderful commercial success may be summed up in the words tariff and great alertness."

Mr. Carnegie's income from his $200,000,000 of 5 per cent bonds will be $10,000,000, and with his other receipts he ought to be able to live pretty comfortably without exercising very rigid economy in his personal expenses.

The skunk raising industry seems to be becoming more popular. Another farm is to be established in the vicinity of Sioux City, Ia., by a party who has leased a tract of land for the purpose.

A little common sense, some corn, plenty of creamery milk and fifty young pigs will make the farmer independent, prosperous and happy, if administered according to directions followed by good stock raisers. Its a good thing. Look into it.

The St. Paul Review very tersely but accurately sizes up the situation to which it refers as follows: "The new Seventh district crowd don't know Frank Eddy. Just wait until they get in the path of the Glenwood cyclone. They will learn politics that is politics"

A LeRoy, Minn., saloon keeper as a joke wrote and invited Mrs. Nation to come up with her ax. To his horror she replied that she thought she would accept a little later on, and now when anybody slams the front door he jumps several feet. It don't pay to get gay.—Exchange.

Our consignment of seeds from the department of agriculture has now arrived and we are all ready to prepare our pumpkin patch as soon as the condition of the ground will permit. At this writing, however, the weather prospect is such that we hardly expect to get at it this week.

Editor Graham, of the Waseca Radical, does us great honor in classifying us with Teddy as a drawing card for the state fair, and dignifies us beyond our own preconceived notions of our merits. But all the same, that state fair will be a hummer, and justify his predictions in that direction.

Mr. Bryan's Commoner says, in a sort of querulous tone: "The indications are that long before Tesla gets telegraphic communication through the earth, Morgan will have a railroad around it." And suppose he should—would that be a crime? In the eyes of most populistic shouters business enterprise seems to be a rock of offense.

Prof. Hoverstad, of the Experiment Farm here, and Prof. Glover, of the state dairy and food department, held two institute meetings at St. Vincent on the 9th inst. of which the New Era reports that they were well attended and that all atendants were loud in praise of the lucid and interesting lectures delivered. Handsome drawings of the animals on the Crookston farm were made use of to illustrate the lecture on stock. The Journal commends most heartily the excellent work being done by these gentlemen, which is doing so much to raise the standard of farming in this state.

The city council of Duluth is now wrestling over the lighting problem, the question being, shall a five year contract for lighting the streets be made with the Commercial Light & Power company, or shall a plant be built with municipal funds? In regard to the problem the Herald figures it out in this way: The cost of building the plant will be $120,683, and the subsequent actual cost of lighting the city will be $53.77 per arc light per annum. The contract possibility s $55 per arc light per annum, and if the plant is built there will be a loss to the city in taxes of $1.95 cents per arc light per year. Taking the Herald's figures it does not look to be an altogether one sided question as to which is the better policy.

There has been little discussion thus far in regard to the candidates for the different offices to be filled at the coming city election. Reference to the matter has been chiefly in the form of interrogatories as to who are available for the positions. But as the time approaches, interest begins to deepen, and the mayoralty is frequently mentioned in connection with the question as to who is to succeed the present incumbent. And so far as we are able to judge, no name has been mentioned which has been more favorably received than that of Capt. M. R. Brown. Nor do we know of anyone in our city who can fill that office with greater satisfaction to the people or with greater credit to the city. The record he has already made managing the duties of the office attests his ability in that direction, and we believe he would receive the support of the majority of the voters in the city if placed in nomination.

Byackduck Times: Thers is an erroneous impression given out that Beltrami county is dead broke. It is only technical. The county has in reality abundant resources and a temporary bond issue will put the county in shape to meets its obligations until its own resources can be collected, when it will be in splendid financial condition. Give the county a chance. There is no county in thes tate with more or better resources than Beltrami county.

In the town and village elections throughout Minnesota on Tuesday, license was generally triumphant, only three of the municipal corporations so far as heard from voting to remain "dry" for the year. These local elections are really among the most important held in the state, as they settle the question of home government for the majority of the people. The contests are usually non-partisan, turning entirely on local issues and the personality of the candidates.

Roseau Times: Roseau county's representative, Hon. Albert Berg, championed the drainage bill, and although opposed by Wells of Wilkin and Jacobson, who desired to have the bill recommitted, the big man from Roseau county overcome all opposition and the bill passed the house by a rousing majority. The passage of the bill stirred up the stormiest breeze of the session. Berg was master of the situation and the successful of the measure was largely due to his careful work.

The effect of the new railroad law mention of which was made by the Journal Monday will be watched ed with interest. By this law all accidents which may occur to passengers and employes, and all collisions of trains, or where any train or part of a train accidentally leaves the track must be reported within thirty days to the Interstate Commerce Commission with all the circumstances in connection therewith. It is claimed that the necessity of making these reports will result in greater vigilance on the part of the railroad companies and their employes, and reduce the frequency of such accidents to a minimum.

The Turtle River Pine Tree has recently changed ownership, C. C. Knappen, who started the paper having sold to John Kirsch & Co., proprietors and publishers of the Solway Press. The new editor of the Pine Tree starts out in his new paper with the following salutatory:

The Pine Tree has sprouted a few branches since its last appearance. Don't blame the beautiful, balmy weather, but rather look at the head and you will notice that it has changed hands. The new publishers are not looking for any applause at their first effort, but the improvement will continue from week to week until Turtle River has a newspaper that can represent it as a town of its character should be represented. "The Pine Tree, a name synonomous with this region hopes to cast its shadow athwart the threshold of every dwelling in Beltrami county. Our policy is not to be judged by the past but from the future.

A proposition to solve the problem in connection with the early adjournment of the state legislature, by taking a recess from April 5 to Feb. 1, 1902, is under discussion among the solons at St. Paul. It is claimed by some that this action would make the next February session an adjourned session, and that all business which might be unfinished April 5 would go over and then be taken up and completed. Senator Young, to whom the proposition has been submitted, says of it: "The duration of the legislature is fixed by the constitution at ninety legislative days. When a recess is taken our time goes on just the same. Ninety days after our assembling, excluding Sundays and holidays, our term is over and we have no further existence as a legislature unless the governor calls us into extra session." He holds that the phase, "during the session of the legislature" means that sessions are to be continuous. It is therefore doubtful if the promoters of the proposition will succeed in carrying the plan into execution.

The large class, 63 in number, which graduated from the state school of agriculture last week attracts attention to the rapid growth of that important state institution. It is very gratifying to its promoters and it should be a matter of pride to every citizen of the state, that since it was first established until the present time the growth of the school has been steady and healthful and the standard of its efficiency being constantly elevated until it now ranks as high as any in the United States. And this advancing standard and increasing patronage is very significant and an unmistakable evidence and promise of advancing intelligence among the agricultural classes Every pupil who goes out from this institution carries with him a clearer conception of the dignity and possibility of development in an agricultural life than be had when he entered it. This improved conception nerves him to new energy and greater zeal in lifting his chosen vocation up to the high standard that has been set before him by the faithful instructors in the school, and an ambition to reach this standard for himself. And this is indeed a leaven which is silently and insidously working its way through the different agricultural neighborhoods in our state and ennobling the ocupation.

AN UNJUST PROPOSED LAW.

A bill has been introduced into the house by Representative Plowman for an act to tax mortgages, which, if passed in the present form, is sure to operate disastrously in discouraging mortgage loans in the state. By its provisions every mortgage is to be assessed as real estate in the place where the land lies, at its full face value, and the mortgagor is to be assessed only for the value of the real estate on which the mortgage is given after deducting the amount of the assessed value of the mortgage from it. It also provides that every contract by which a debtor is obligated to pay any tax or assessment on any mortgage, deed of trust or other lien shall be null and void. So that the mortgagor who is the owner of the encumbered real estate is relieved from paying any tax upon the same except for such amount as the assessed value of the land exceeds the face of the mortgage. Now at first glance the injustice of such a provision may not be fully detected. The evident purpose of the bill is to relieve the property owner from paying taxes on the amount of his indebtedness. This in itself would not be objectionable but rather to be commended. And if all property was taxed upon a uniform basis of valuation the bill might be defended as promotive of justice. But when it is considered that the mortgage is to be assessed at its full face value, while the land is assessed at about one third its actual value, it becomes apparent that the mortgagee will be required to pay an altogether unjust proportion of the tax. Now this would leave the money loaner so small a net amount for interest that it would operate instantly as a positive prohibition upon the investment in mortgages in the state. Take it for instance in this city the rate of taxation this year is 45 mills. Loans are now being made here at from six to seven per cent. But taking the higher rate this would leave the mortgagee only two and a half per cent for his money. Nor could this be evaded by any agreement between the mortgagor and the mortgagee by which the former should bear the burden of the tax, as such agreement is by the provisions of the bill declared null and void. It is therefore difficult to imagine a measure which would operate more disastrously in this part of the state than this proposed law. We publish today a few interviews with some of our leading business men in regard to the matter.

CLUBBING OFFER.

We have made arrangements by which we are able to offer to our Scandinavian readers one years' subscription to the Vesterheimen and one year's subscription to the Polk County Journal both for $1.75. Or if the Daily Journal is preferred we will furnish it with the Vesterheimen, both for one year for $3.00. This is an unusually liberal offer and our Scandinavian friends should take advantage of it.

The Minneapolis Journal is responsible for the statement that ugly rumors are afloat about the capitol at St. Paul. It is common gossip that money is already being used to block the path of the Jacobson gros earnings bill. It is reported that inducements have been offered to certain members of the house, in which body the contest over the bill wil be waged this week.

The oposition does not ask members to vote against the bill, but to vote for its reference to the tax commission. This is a device to side track the bill in the house. If it should go through, there will be no votes cast against the bil to be explained to constituents. Those who vote to refer the bill can say that they have done so in all sincerity, believing that all maters of taxation should be handled by the commision which this legislature has created.

An unfortunate feature of the matter is that some members of the legislature who favor the bill think it should be reffered to the commission to be reported back by them to the extra session. It wil be hard, therefore, to distingush between friends and foes of the proposed increase in railway taxation.

LARIMORE ILL.

St. Paul, March 17.—A special to the Globe from Larimore, N. D., says: Hon. F. G. Larimore, a member of the state legislature, and a famous bonanza farmer of this region, is critically ill from the effects of la grippe. A consultation of physicians has been held and serious doubts as to his recovery are entertained. Larimore is well known in the Twin Cities and throughout the East.

Captain Mercer Tells of Tim-Law Violations on The Indian Reseration.

43,000,000 WILL BE THE CROP

Thirty Contractors are at Work Under the Dead and Down Timber Act.

Captain W. A. Mercer, the Leech Lake Indian agent, was at Duluth yesterday, and a News Tribune reporter succeeded in getting an interview with him relative to the conditions on the reservations. In speaking of the cutting of pine under the dead and down timber act, upon the Leech Lake the White Earth and the Red Lake reservations, he said:

"Altogether there are 49 camps and about 43,000,000 feet of pine will be cut by 35 contractors. Of this number six have been reported as having been detected in cutting some green timber. In all such cases the contractors will be required to pay the full prices for such. When it has been established that a contractor has cut into the green lumber I have either taken charge of the work myself or have put another man in charge. The public should not gain the idea, as it easily might, from incomplete statements about the cutting of green timber, that any of the contractors have cut a considerable amount of green pine. It usually only a few trees. None of them have attempted to cut anything like even a small bunch of green trees.

"Many of the contractors claim that they are coming out behind on their work, owing to the large area necessary to cover to get the dead and down timber. I presume that for this reason the temptation to cut a green tree occasionally is particularly strong. But the amount that has een cut illegally is infinitestimal. Some green trees have to be cut for roads, and it is legal to cut boom sticks from green timber. People who have noticed this kind cut under the conditions mentioned have assumed that it was cut illegally. While I do not wholly approve of the dead and down timber act, there is no doubt that a vast amount of timber is being preserved that would otherwise have gone to waste. The logging work has been of great benefit to the Indian and valuable timber which they own has been preserved.

"My idea of disposing of the pine on the Indian lands is to allow saw mills to be established upon or near the reservations, all timber to be scaled by the government, and sold under such conditions as will permit of competition in order that the best possible prices may obtain. Under this system the Indians would be afforded employment for a very long period. In regrd to work, the Indian should not be treated like a white man. It is not natural for him to work as continuously as a white man. It is also true that many of them are physically incapable of heavy physical toil. Many have consumption and other diseases which make them unfit for leading active lives of industry even if they were so inclined."

HEARING TO-DAY.

ROBERTSON WILL HAVE TO ANSWER TO INFANTICIDE.

Today is the day set for the preliminary hearing in the case of the state against Herbert Robertson of Fargo charged with the murder of an infant a few hours old. Mrs. Jasmer, the alleged mother of the child, who is an important witness in the case, is still ill at her home in Howes township, and it is a question whether she will be able to leave her room today. If adjourned it would be until some time next week. The defense wants Mrs. Jasmer present at the hearing.

MASS MEETING.

DRAINAGE OF RED RIVER VALLEY TO BE DISCUSSED.

Fargo, N. D., March 21.—The annual meeting of the Midland Canal company will be postponed until April 20, when a call will be issued for a mass meeting. Resolutions were adopted in both the North Dakota and South Dakota legislatures, and are pending before the Minnesota legislature, petitioning congress to appoint a commission to look after the drainage of the Red River Valley. If the surplus water can be controlled, it will mean a great saving to the property owners along the valley. The mass meeting will be held to select a committee to appear before the next congress with the endorsements of the legislatures of the three states to try and secure federal aid for drainage projects.

A FARMER ROBBED.

TILLER OF THE SOIL.

Last night shortly after 10 o'clock a bold robbery was committed a few miles west of Fargo, when two unknown men held up Tim Coffee and relieved him of $50.

The two men were riding in the wagon with Mr. Coffee, who was not in the least distrustful of them, and when they arrived at a spot west of Lewis' barn, they turned on him and overpowering him, took his money and fled. Mr. Coffee drove on to his home on the Sheyenne and gave the alarm. Later in the night some men who are temployed on the farm came to Fargo and informed the police. It appears that Mr. Coffee met the two robbers yesterday afternoon in Moorhead and hired them to work on his farm during the spring work. Several drinks were purchased by Mr. Coffee and during this time he inadvertantly displayed a roll of bills. Nothing was said about the money, but evidently the men were out to get the coin, for when they reached a secluded spot they suddenly forced Mr. Coffee to give it up. The robbers came back toward Fargo while their victim drove home. Diligent search was made in Fargo last night for the men, bu they could not be located. A good description of the men has been obtained and it is thought that they may be run to cover soon.

TOO GREEDY.

A PARK RAPIDS MAN CHARGED WITH PERJURY.

Receiver J. M. Smith, of the land office, has returned from Park Rapids, says the Duluth News-Tribune, where he was called to investigate a charge of making a false oath against Frank Parkinson of that place, with the result that Mr. Parkinson was arrested and arraigned before the United States commissioner at Walker, and held to the Duluth term of the United States court in May. The case is similar to that of David Blunt, who was arrested about a week ago.

Mr. Parkinson made a homestead entry on some land in the St. Cloud district in '87, that was afterwards found to belong to the Northern Pacific. The government later gave Parkinson and others in a similar predicament the right to select other land in lieu of his first entry, and in 1898 he entered on 160 acres in the St. Cloud district This he commuted, and in 1899 it is charged that he came to the local land office and made still another selection swearing, it is alleged, that he had not before used his right. He procured the land and the double entry did not appear until recently, when it was located in the general office at Washington.

NEW ISSUE OF STOCK.

$25,000,000 FOR EXTENSION OF G. N. BUSINESS.

—Ole E. Hagen,
Judge of Probate.

VERY NUMEROUS.

WERE THE SMALLPOX CASES IN THE WOODS.

The Grand Forks Herald this morning says: Andy Sullivan, son of Officer Sullivan, arrived yesterday from Bemidji, where he has been for some time. He went to work in the lumber woods in the fall, but was taken ill with pneumonia, and was compelled to go to St. Anthony's hospital at Bemidji. He did not regain his strength sufficiently to return to the woods and remained an employe at the hospital. He says there was a good deal of sickness among the lumber men, and the hospital people were kept busy. Smallpox appears to have been more prevalent in the woods than the outside world was aware of. There were many cases taken to the smallpox hospital across the lake from Bemidji, and some deaths occurred. Blackduck is now quarantined and it is said that bodies which were buried there early in the season are being exhumed for removal to a point farther from the town. Chas. Miles, formerly of East Grand Forks, has a saloon in Bemidji which is quarnatined. Andy's brother, Geo. Sullivan, is still in the woods, and John is working the Bemidji Pioneer.

AMUSEMENTS.

Duluth Herald: Last evening the Josephine Stanton Opera company made its initial appearance at the Lyceum, presenting "Dorcas," a musical comedy by the Paultons, with music by Max Hirschfield. The company is a pleasing one with bright and tuneful music and funny situations. Rough spots are always to be found in any initial appearance, but there were very few last evening and on the whole a pleasing and creditable performance was given. The company is evenly balanced and contains some clever singers. Miss Stanton appeared in the role of Hororia, the young woman who masquerades as a peddler and later as the inn keeper's wife, and both played and sang it well. Her "Rose" song in the first act was finely sung and she received a hearty encore. Her duets with George Lyding, the tenor, were also excellent. Mr. Lyding is a fine tenor and was freely encored. The chess duet in the second act is the gem of all the music and it was sung by Mr. Lyding and Miss Bertha Nilson, a soprano with a very pleasing quality of voice. A double encore was given this number.

J. Clarence Harvey, the comedian, was inimitable and kept the audience in constant laughter while on the stage.

Despite the crying of the devotees of the "Curate" or "Fireside" realists, the public's demand for romance the past year or so has so overwhelmingly swept the sands from under their feet that such an apostle of romancers as Anthony Hope must stand aghast in wonderment at the phenomenal triumph of his principles, for the great success of his greatest of all great fables, "The Prisoner of Zenda," has not only established him as the foremost romancer of his decade, but inaugurated a demand for that style of literature that has set both novelists and dramatists to writing and thinking of nothing but highly imaginative creations and idealistic consequences. In presenting "The Prisoner of Zenda" this season the management has spared neither time, labor nor expense in organizing a company that for completeness and merit equals any heretofore engaged to give life to this splendid romance. The scenic equipment is of such magnitude that a car is required for its transportation.

—Mrs. Heal, mother of Mrs. A. C. Wilkinson, who has been visiting with her daughter for some time, returned to her home in Wisconsin last evening.

—Mrs. C. E. Barker, mother of Mrs. E. C. Ferguson, is expected to arrive here from Canton, Ill., tomorrow morning, to spend several months with her daughter.

—E. J. Lander, the Grand Forks real estate dealer and capitalist, had business in the Polk county metropolis last evening and returned home after closing a profitable dirt purchase.

P. L. Renne, for a long time proprietor of the Star restaurant on Robert street, has decided to leave Crookston for good. Yesterday he purchased the restaurant of Ottum & LaFave at Fertile and he will soon leave with his family to take possession of his new business. Mr. Renne is an up to date caterer, and while Crookston friends regret to lose him as a citizen, they will all wish him abundant success, and join in congratulating Fertile on its new acquisition.

—The craze has struck Fertile at last, and that enterprising town now has an order of genuine Buffaloes. The organization of the new lodge was perfected yesterday, and Editor Knappen, of the Fertile Journal, was made the chief ruler of the horned brethren. About fifty citizens of the southern Polk county metropolis contributed their 11 or more cuts to the order, and voted W. W. Esgle, the tonsorial artist of that town, dispenser of the incre and private secretary to the chief ruler. The order is being entertained today by Bros. Alex Thompson of this city and high muc-muc Muenze of St. Paul. A special program has been arranged for the occasion of the visit of these eminent Buffaloes by the local fraternity of Fertile.

—A stereopticon entertainment will be given at the Baptist church in the Fifth ward 8 o'clock Friday evening. The proceeds will go to the church fund.

—Ed Diedrich, a well known blacksmith of this city, has accepted a position as manager of the blacksmith shop at the Keystone farm, and left for that place this morning.

—A party of former Hallock citizens consisting of Pat Daly, Louis and John Kinschiella and Mike Sullivan left Tuesday evening for Cape Nome, Alaska. Until navigation opens the men will remain at Seattle.

—If you wish to renew your loan, or take up balance on your contract for deed, see Ole Tiegen, Crookston. tf

—Mrs. Robert Purvis, who has been visiting friends and relatives at Argyle for a few weeks, came home Friday evening.

—The Crookston college commencement exercises will be held at the college next Friday evening, at which time 25 graduates will receive their diplomas. Attorney A. A. Miller will deliver an address on the subject of "The Coming Man."

—The Misses Celia and Kitty Fox of this city Tuesday received a letter from St. Cloud friends stating that their brother, Wm. Fox, was lying dangerously ill with typhoid fever at the hospital in that city.

—The planing mill in connection with the Crookston Lumber company's business has commenced running ten hours a day, as a consequence of a rush of advance work for the opening of the building season.

—Loif Jordeshauge and brother, who have been making their home in this city for a number of years, left last Thursday for their old home in Norway. They will spend a few days at Minneapolis on the way.

—Chas. Misner, one of Crookston's leading tonsorial artists, returned from Euclid last evening where he organized an auxiliary lodge of the order of Buffaloes, which is all the rage just now. He states that the new lodge starts out with a large membership.

—John Vosler, who was charged by Martha Steller with being the father of her illegitimate child, was dismissed late Saturday evening for lack of evidence to make the accusation plausible. Vosler may now bring action for heavy damages for defamation of character.

—E. G. Packard, editor of the Spirit Lake Beacon, of Spirit Lake, Ia., accompanied by H. S. Abbott, a wealthy banker of the same place, returned home Thursday after making several heavy investments in northern Minnesota farm property.

—In probate court Tuesday afternoon the last will and testament of the late Richard J. Plumb, who died at Fisher some time ago, was admitted to probate and Thos. R. Johnstone of this city was appointed administrator. Mrs Johnstone was declared sole heir to the state.

—J. W. Decker, for a long time yardmaster in the Great Northern yards in this city, has been promoted to depot agent and yardmaster at Larimore, and he left for that place Thursday to assume the duties of his new position. Alex Lakee will succeed Decker as yardmaster at this place.

Friday occurred the funeral of Mrs. L. Rivard, who died on Tuesday at her home in the town of Lake Pleasant, Red Lake county. Deceased was a resident of this section for more than twenty years. Sue had reached the age of 72 years and leaves several grown children in this city and vicinity, who mourn her death.

—G. Pickel returned from Jamestown N. D., Friday, where he went several days ago. He states that a great deal of hardship exists among the farmers in Stutsman county on account of last year's crop failure. Many farmers, Mr. Pickel says, will have to be supplied with seed wheat by the state if they want to seed their farms this spring.

Farmers are up against a new bunco game, says the St. Hilaire Spectator. They sign what they believe to be an order for a gold watch which they are to receive free, or at a nominal price, and the signature turns up at the bottom of a promissory note. It is the old story. The man who expects to get something for nothing is likely to get swindled.

—Hon. Chas. Ehhighausen, of Grafton, brother of H. G. Ehhighausen of this city, arrived here Thursday on a short visit with friends and relatives. Mr. Ehhighausen, who by the way is one of the most prominent business men and oldest citizens of the Flickertail state, was accompanied by his son, W. D. Ehhighausen, who served as first sergeant in the recent Manila disturbances, and who is now on his way to Oklahoma to seek his fortune.

—A boy about 14 years old, named Andrew Hayes, living four miles north of Bagley, brought in town Thursday a dead female bear and two live cubs, about three weeks old, the old one tipping the scales at 248 pounds. She was killed by the boy between the town and his home, his dogs discovering the bear and cubs Tuesday lying under a windfall in the swamps. He returned yesterday morning with a gun and killed the bear at the first shot.

—A Grand Forks man wanted a manager for a 640 acre farm and wrote to a friend in Michigan to find him a man. In due course an application came from a very desirable person, backed by all sorts of testimonials. The owner wrote back: "You are evidently just the man I want, but you are unmarried. I need a married man. I regret that this obstacle will prevent my hiring you." The reply came by wire: "Obstacle removed. Married today. Wife and I leave by next train." And they did.

—At the village election held at Warren Tuesday, license carried by a narrow margin and liquor men are happy.

—Marriage licenses have been issued to Louis Olson, of Galesburg, N. D., and Miss Anna Nesseth, of McIntosh. Also to Math Berrnd and Mary Iverson, both of this county.

—C. H. Wood, a former resident of McIntosh, who served Uncle Sam in his navy operations, returned home Saturday, having received an honorable discharge from service.

—M. S. Short, of McIntosh, who contemplated the establishment of a new bank at that place, has changed his mind and purchased an interest in the State bank at that thriving town.

—Parties who attended the auction sale at Euclid Tuesday state that everything sold at good prices with the exception of the horses. There seemed to be little demand for equine flesh.

It's not necessary to suffer the martyrdom of Female weakness. Mull's Pioneer Cure for Female complaint is safe and sure. A dollar draft in each $1.00 box guarantees it. 25c. For sale by S. A. Wallace.

—Thomas Casey, superintendent of schools of Polk county, has rented the dwelling house of Thomas Harris, near the court house, and intends to move his family over from Fisher the first part of next week.

—Hans Samuelson came up from Climax this morning and announced that he would have an auction sale for the purpose of disposing of a part of his farm stock and implements. The sale will take place about the first of April.

—During the past few days Superintendent of Schools Casey has been visiting a number of the country school districts. He reports educational matters in Polk county in a flourishing condition and speaks very highly of his corps of teachers.

—Miss Mary Jane Fairbairn, one of the estimable young lady teachers at the high school, who has been confined to her room for the past few days on account of illness, has so far recovered that she was able to resume her duties at the school on Monday.

—Ludvig Easthy, a single man 35 years old, whose home is in Lessor township was brought to the city Friday and examined as to his sanity. The examining board found that the man's mind was demented and ordered him sent to the Fergus Falls asylum.

—The final hearing of claims and accounts in the Joseph Hollan bankruptcy case was held before Referee Vaule Tuesday and the insolvent merchant, who formerly conducted business at Thief River Falls, presented a petition for discharge from the court.

—The thirteenth commencement of the state school of agriculture was held Saturday. The graduating class was one of the largest in the history of the institution, 63 in number, among them being 13 young ladies. James Frank, of Warren, is one of the fortunate graduates.

—Judge Montague delivered a very able address before the college class Friday on the subject of "Character." Judge Montague is a forcible and eloquent speaker, and his address was one that will be remembered by all who had the pleasure of hearing him, as a masterpiece of oratory.

—Conductor Lockman, who for a long time has been punching tickets for Jim Hill on the Thief River Falls run, left Sunday morning for his homestead out near Bemidji. He took with him a carload of household goods and livestock, which he expects to utilize in opening his farm.

—G. H. Klein and Geo. W. Bryan, two railway conductors on the C., M. & St. P., who live at McGregor, Ia., were in the city Saturday on their way home from the northern part of the state. Each of the two men secured a good chunk of farm land up in Marshall county before returning home.

—Railway Mail Clerk Benoit who had the misfortune to fall on an icy sidewalk nearly three months ago and break one of his ankles, has made his first turn on the Duluth run and is taking an eight day lay-off. While the injury received is still somewhat tender, he is able to attend to his duties again.

—The democrats of the Third ward are urging J. E. Carpenter to become a candidate for alderman at the coming election. Mr. Carpenter has so far refused to commit himself on the subject and it is thought that he is averse to the proposition unless he can see a clear case of winning. J. E. don't relish defeat.

—Richard M. Hayes, formerly of Blue Earth, Minn., is the latest acquisition to the legal fraternity of Crookston, and has established a law office over the Merchants bank, in the rooms formerly occupied by the late Dr. Thomas. Mr. Hayes' family will arrive in about six weeks, and he will then consider himself a full-fledged Crookstonite.

—Last Sunday afternoon Mr. Ernest H. Bridger and Miss Jennie Clyde, of this place, were quietly married at Bemidji, Rev. Watson of that city officiating, says the Thirteen Towns of Fosston. Both parties have resided here for some time and their many friends with them a pleasant journey over life's pathway. Mr. and Mrs. Bridger returned Monday afternoon and have taken up their abode at the Commercial hotel.

—Rev. Mr. Baker, the evangelist from Ohio who has been conducting revival services at the Methodist church during the past two weeks, preached his farewell sermon Sunday night and departed for Brownsdale, Minn., where he will conduct similar work. Mr. Baker's efforts while in this city have been mainly directed toward leading the church membership to a fuller understanding of the Bible, and a clearer conception of the spiritual life, and in this work he has been eminently successful. Both the pastor and the members of the church speak in the highest terms of Mr. Baker's ministry here and regret very much that his engagements would not permit him to remain here longer. The meetings will be conducted by the pastor, however, every evening this week except Saturday. The public are cordially invited to attend.

—Miss Lottie Anglim will visit St. Paul friends for a few weeks and left for that city Sunday evening.

—Chas. Misner left Monday for the West Baden (Ind.) mud baths and will be absent for a few weeks.

—Carl Schneeburger, a resident of Fairmount, N. D., arrived here Sunday and is looking for a suitable farm with improved buildings, etc.

—Mrs. J. McCaffrey and children left Saturday evening for La Crosse, Wis., where they will visit relatives and friends for a period of at least three months.

—Mrs. H. Murray, wife of the popular conductor, accompanied by her little daughter Margaret, returned this morning from a visit to friends in Minneapolis.

—John Olson, of Onstad township, was in the city Saturday and began replevin proceedings against Jno. Hanson for the possession of a team of horses which plaintiff sold to Olson last fall.

"Stop that cough right away with Mull's Lightning Cough Cure. It heals disease of throat and lungs. It's pure and good for children. 25c. For sale by S. A. Wallace.

Died—At Gentilly, Sunday morning, Mrs. Elizabeth Dufault, aged 65 years. The funeral services were held at the Catholic church at Gentilly Sunday morning at 9 o'clock.

—Chas. Thomas, the barber, left Sunday for Florida and will be away probably a month. During his absence he will settle up some matters connected with his mother's estate.

—Erny Peterson, the newsy on the Duluth line for upwards of a year, has been called in by the news company "Shorty," as he was commonly known by the traveling public, will be greatly missed on this line.

—Halvor Steenerson, A. D. Stevens, F. H. Hamel and Chas. Wisner were passengers for St. Paul Sunday night Mr. Steenerson will proceed to Faribault to visit his son, who is attending school in that city.

John Anderson, charged with murder in the second degree, having shot a woodsman near Sparta, while employed as a quarantine guard, withdrew his plea of not guilty in district court at Duluth, and pleaded guilty to manslaughter in the second degree.

—Manager Peterson, of the electric light plant in this city, states to the Journal that the cause of the Montreal house fire could not have originated from an electric light wire, as the building was not supplied with electric lights.

—Miss T. M. Nelson, the milliner on Roberts treet, who a week ago was called to Alexandria, Minn., to attend the funeral of her mother, returned Monday and is again to be found at her store, which has been closed during her absence.

—Derward Collins, living east of the city, has sold his farm to Iowa parties. Mr. Collins will go to the Pacific coast where he may decide to locate. His many friends in this city hope he may conclude to return and again take up his residence here.

—Ernest Rolsch and Chas. Holt returned Monday from Hot Springs, where they have spent nearly two months for the benefit of their health. Both gentlemen are greatly benefited by their hot water baths and speak highly of the Springs as a summer resort.

—Dan Dow, the Grand Forks Foundry man, is in the city today on business connected with the placing of the machinery of the Maplebay Windstacker factory. Work on the building is being rushed with all possible speed and the factory will soon be in running order.

—Sheriff Forsberg of Marshall county returned this morning from Fergus Falls where he delivered Ole Wold, a farmer from the northern county, to the insane asylum authorities. Wold is the man who stirred up a great muss at his home by creating a suspicion of poisoning his daughter last fall. He was examined as to his mental condition and found to be demented.

—The many friends of Miss Ida Stone will be delighted to learn of her return home this morning after a long illness at Thief River Falls, Wis., with typhoid fever. She has practically recovered her health, but has not yet gained her strength. She stood the journey well, however, and her hopeful condition relieves her family of a great anxiety concerning her. Her mother, Mrs. N. P. Stone, who ministered to her in her sickness, returned with her.

—A. Marotte, proprietor of the Grand Central hotel in this city, has received information of the death of his mother in law, Mrs. Delima Gravel, of Little Falls, and left for that place to attend the funeral. The deceased was a pioneer resident of the city on the falls, having arrived there nearly forty years ago. She was 84 years of age and leaves nine grown up children. Before returning Mr. Marotte will make arrangements for the removal of the balance of his family to this city, and they are expected here the fore part of next week.

—G. F. Carpenter returned this morning from his trip to the south, upon which he started about four weeks since. He was accompanied on his trip by Mrs. Carpenter and the children, but Mrs. Carpenter, learning of the death of her father, Capt. L. S. Hancock, during her absence, hastened home and went on to Euclid to visit her mother last week. Aside from the sad information that reached them, the family had a delightful journey to the land of the sunny south. They visited Mr. Carpenter's parents in Florida during their asence.

—M. McKay, a prominent builder and contractor of Duluth, is in the city today on his way to the Grandin farm, over in Traill county, N. D., where he has a contract for building large barns and stables for the company to accommodate the additional live stock which has been brought from the Dalrymple farm at Casselton recently. Mr. McKay has not been in Crookston since 1881, and expressed great surprise at the city's growth and the many substantial business blocks which adorn the grounds which on his former visit were covered with trees. The Duluth contractor is spending the day here in renewing old acquaintances and will leave on the evening train for Grand Forks.

—Miss Blomsness, of Warren, who has been visiting Mrs. Gus. Schunneman for a week, returned home this morning.

—The apearance of wild geese going northward, is reported by the Grand Forks Herald, and indicates the naer aproach of spring.

FOR SALE.—A good seven room house and lot for sale, No. 311 4th. street, near the N. P. depot. Also a small barn. Those wishing to purchase will do well to call on Mrs. H. E. Cooke at once and get price as she expects to return east soon. She can be found at the residence of John Wyand.

—R. L. Abbey, who was last year employed by the E. D. Childs Co., in the management of their creamery, and who has spent the winter at his home in Canada returned Tuesday accompanied by his bride whom he secured during his absence. Mr. Abbey's many friends in the Fifth ward are extending their congratulations.

—The Minneapolis Tribune has a force of solicitors out through the state hustling subscriptions to that bright and wide awake journal. Crookston has been invaded by F. E. Collins, C. A. Rolfe and A. E. Melin for the past few days, and the result of their efforts has been rewarded by several hundred subscribers for the paper.

Price, $20 per acre if taken before seeded. Every foot tillable land, and $1,000 worth of improvements; 160 acres plowed, balance in stubble field and pasture.

Call at Journal for particulars.

DIED IN OREGON.

A FORMER POLK COUNTY RESIDENT PASSES AWAY.

John Gleason Monday received a telegram from Hood River, Oregon, announcing the death of Mrs. W. C. Sproat, mother of Mrs. John Gleason, which occurred yesterday. The deceased was 71 years of age and with her family was a resident of Polk county for more than twenty years. Only about six months ago the family left East Grand Forks for Oregon to make Hood River their future home. Deceased was highly respected, and the many friends extend to the surviving relatives sincere sympathy in this hour of bereavement.

BADLY INJURED.

A FARGO RAILROAD MAN BADLY SQUEEZED.

Parties arriving here from Fargo this morning report that during the night Car Foreman Paul Mathey, of Fargo, who is employed by the Great Northern company, was seriously and perhaps fatally injured. Mathey was riding on top of a box car in the yard and in attempting to descend on the side ladder of the car, while the train was in rapid motion, his body struck one of the guard posts on Broadway and he was badly squeezed. Our informant did not know how serious the man's injuries were, but he had to be taken to the hospital.

ORGANIZE A GRANGE.

About seventy-five of the most prominent farmers of Polk county assembled at the court house Monday for the purpose of organizing a grange. County Commissioner Fortier was chosen temporary chairman and County Commissioner Eastman was selected temporary secretary.

A number of ladies who are deeply interested in the formation of this organization were present and talked interestingly on the subject.

The meeting took a short recess at 4 o'clock, and when they reconvene, before the final adjournment this evening, one or two granges will be organized and officers elected.

One of the granges is to be located at Gentilly, and the other in the Lytle school district.

NOTES FROM EXCHANGES.

Deer River News—"Bull Dog" Reagan, known as a tough character—as his name implies—dropped off the "rods" here last week and was allowed to remain until his vote was cast, then he was given a night's lodging in the coop, and ordered to depart on the next freight for Cass Lake.

St. Hilaire Spectator:—The citizens of towns of Wyandotte and Emardville will meet on the 16th inst. in mass meeting to discuss the advisability of constructing a creamery or cheese factory. All who are interested in the same should be present at the meeting which will be held in the school house of District No. 148.

—Thief River Falls News: J. B. Cyr, the barber, was arrested on a warrant issued by Judge Tarrant Monday for keeping his barber shop open Sunday. The complaining witness was B. G. Walker and Mr. Cyr admitted guilt and was fined $1 and costs, making a total of $2.50. It is understood that barber shops in this city will hereafter be closed on Sundays.

Pioneer: Beltrami county will take its seat at the table of the Ninth Congressional District along with the counties of Becker, Clay, Kittson, Marshal, Norman, Ottertail, Polk, Red Lake, Reseau and Wilkin, according to the re-apportionment bill endorsed by the legislature. Whew! How cold it is getting. We feel populistic chills creeping over us already from this sudden change of climate.

Grand Forks Herald: To an outsider it looks as though the Webster family was pretty near the whole push over at Fisher. In the elections held there on Tuesday last for both village and township, C. U. Webster, senior, was chosen as village recorder, township clerk, assessor and justice of the peace, and also a member of the village committee to call caucuses next year, while C. U. Webster, Jr., was elected a constable on both the township and village tickets.

—Grand Forks Herald: Judge Hassell Friday performed a marriage ceremony, the contracting parties being David Lutz and Miss Celia Opsata, both of whom said they were from Minneapolis. They drove to the city yesterday from Crookston and returned last evening on the train. It is expected that the parents of the two are still in the dark regarding the matter, but this may be a supposition. Judge Hassell performs a marriage ceremony in such a happy manner that it is worth the while of a couple to come from a distance to have the job well done. He warrants his work to last.

Representative Rider introduced a resolution in the house Monday for the purchase of a gold medal for Miss Mae Orynil, teacher of a public school at Itasca Lake, who is reported to have rescued a child from a burning building at the risk of her life, but Mr. Laybourn gave notice of debate in order to allow time to verify the report, and the resolution went over.

The postoffice department will issue about next autumn a complete postal appropriation act. There is already a large demand and numerous inquiries are reaching the department. It is announced, however, that the contracts cannot be advertised for until after July 1 next, and it will be some time after that before the pamphlets will be available for free distribution at all postoffices in the country.

OLD SETTLER GONE.

Christopher Gunness, 93 years of age died Saturday at his home in the town of Keystone, a few miles east from the city. Mr. Gunness was one of the pioneers of the Red River Valley and has a very large family of children. He has four sons and a number of daughters, all of whom reside in Polk county, where the family is very well known. The funeral was held from his late residence at Keystone yesterday afternoon, and services were conducted in the Marais Presbyterian church east of Mallory.

A DULUTH TRAGEDY

Deputy Sheriff Magie Dangerously Wounded By a Desperate Criminal.

SHOT THROUGH ABDOMEN

Convicted of Grand Larceny, A Prisoner Makes Use of His Gun.

Duluth, March 16.—Deputy Sheriff Frank Magie was fatally shot at 2:30 yesterday afternoon by a desperate prisoner named Joseph Goldstein. The man had just been convicted of grand larceny and was being taken from the court house back to the county jail. At the rear door of the court house Goldstein, instead of turning over toward the jail, made a break toward Sixth avenue east. Deputy Magie knocked him down and in the fight that followed Goldstein pulled a gun and shot the deputy through the hand. Magie sprang up in pain and the prisoner shot him through the head, the bullet entering the forehead and passing upward.

Deputy Sheriff Edward Chalk had suspected trouble with Goldstein and when Magie led him out of the court room he followed. He jumped into the fight and a third shot from the desperate man's revolver cut across his abdomen, cutting a hole in the vest.

Magie was simply spouting blood from the terrible wound in his head, but even with that he got up and started after Goldstein, who by this time was running down Sixth avenue. The plucky deputy only got a few steps, falling in a pool of blood. Deputy Chalk was without a revolver and he dashed back into the sheriff's office yelling for a gun. Deputy Sheriff Newton Randall asked him what the trouble was and on being told that Magie had been "killed," he and Sheriff Sargent and Deputy Sheriff William Randall grabbed up their guns and started after the fleeing prisoner.

Goldstein, seeing that he was being pursued, brought his gun into play again, firing three shots at Newt Randall. A running fight followed. The sheriff's force fired a fusilade after the prisoner, who turned down Fourth avenue east and down to the lake front. Randall was rapidly gaining on him and so was Sheriff Sargent. A bullet from the latter's revolver went so close to Goldstein's head that he dropped down behind a pile of boards and threw his revolver into the air and stuck his hands up where the sheriff's force could see that he was willing to surrender.

He was taken back to the county jail and placed in a dungeon.

Deputy Magie was picked up by persons that heard the shooting and carried back into the sheriff's office. He bled so profusely that the entire floor of the room seemed to be one pool of blood.

Dr. Wm. H. Magie, brother of the wounded deputy, was summoned hastily and took him to St. Mary's hospital, a few blocks away, where he was immediately placed on the operating table and the physicians began dressing his wounds, in faint hope that they might save his life, which at a late hour yesterday was extremely doubtful.

No person seems to know where Goldstein got the revolver, but there was every indication that the revolver and $3.00 in money was handed to the prisoner by some unknown person as he was coming down the stairway from the court room.

It is reported that it was handed to him by a woman, who has been in the court room frequently during the trial.

Joseph Goldstein is one of the most desperate and dangerous criminals that has ever been taken in custody in this city. Last fall he robbed a gambling house in Virginia of $300 and got away to Hibbing, where the proprietor of the house tracked him. He was at the bar of a saloon treating a large crowd when the Virginia man entered. Goldstein saw him in a twinkling, and pulling a gun, he held the entire crowd up while he backed out of the door and made his escape, only to be captured on the Bowery in this city some weeks later by Detective Troyer

He is also supposed to have blown open a safe at Mountain Iron last fall, but this was never proven against him.

He served sixty days in the county jail for stealing the money at Virginia and when released was frequently seen hanging around the Bowery, and the detectives finally fixed the robbery of the saloon of Alex Steele on him. Some cigars were stolen and Goldstein took them over to a colored woman in Superior and said that a man named McCarthy had sent them. Detective Troyer caught Goldstein and later caught McCarthy at Proctorknott.

The would be murderer has been known here as Frank Baker, or "Blackie Baker," but his real name is Joseph Goldstein, and he has the reputation of being a clever pickpocket and an all around desperate criminal. He has served time in Toronto, Boston and Albany.

When Sheriff Sargent and Deputy Sheriffs Newton Randall and William Randall were bringing the man back up the hill there were threats of lynching and the sheriffs hustled the man into the jail and down to the dungeon in a hurry.

A TOWN IN ASHES.

Cloverport, Ky., March 15.—In the biting air of the early morning the citizens of Cloverport looked on, powerless, while fire destroyed $500,.00 worth of property and left 1,000 persons, half the population, homeless. Every business house was burned and the distress of hundreds of women and children was relieved only when trains loaded with supplies arrived from Louisville and Henderson. At noon the fire was still burning in spots but the remaining structures were scattered and no further spread was expected.

By the bursting of a natural gas pipe in a kitchen just after midnight, the building was set on fire. The burning embers were carried to the immense tobacco warehouses of the American Tobacco Company. Efforts to save them were abandoned to fight the fire, which was springing up on all sides. The tobacco company's plant, consisting of two stemmeries and one million pounds of tobacco, was soon destroyed.

Louisville and Henderson were asked to send assistance, but no help arrived until 4:30 a. m., and by that time the fire had about exhausted its material. Every business house was gone, together with all provisions and clothing. Over half of the residences were destroyed.

Relief trains were made up at Louisville and Henderson and brought 5,000 loaves of bread and a large supply of clothing. The coaches will be placed at the disposal of the homeless until they can find other temporary homes.

FOUND A JOB.

FRANK HAMILTON WILL FOR A TIME SHIP TWINE.

Frank H. Hamilton, who was taken to Stillwater recently for the murder of Leonard Day, has been assigned the same position in the penitentiary as that occupied by Edward Leland, who attempted to make his escape from the prison a few days ago.

Hamilton has been placed in charge of the twine shipping department and will look after matters pertaining to the sale and shipping of twine manufactured within the penitentiary. He will be allowed the use of a well furnished office, of which he is to be the sole occupant. His chief duties in connection with the work will be the making out and checking off bills, as well as looking after the twine shipping generally.

Capt. Alexander, of the Hennepin county jail, intimates that Warden Wolfer will take especial interest in Hamilton's welfare, and that he will treat him like one of his own sons. He is to be allowed all the outdoor exercise that can be obtained within the confining walls of the penitentiary, and no effort will be spared in making everything as pleasant for him as possible.

SHOT DEAD.

TWELVE YEAR OLD BOY KILLS HIS BROTHER.

A message from Vining, near Fergus Falls, gives the particulars of an accidental shooting there which has resulted in the death of Theodore Peterson, the 12 year old son of Iver Peterson, who resides about a mile and a half west of that village. The boy had been out shooting rabbits in company with his elder brother, Christ Peterson, a young man of about twenty, and when their ammunition was nearly exhausted the older boy asked Theodore to return home and bring a fresh supply. The latter did so, and, returning with some cartridges, came forward to hand them to his brother. The older boy drew back his rifle as his brother approached and as he did so the trigger appears to have caught in his coat and the weapon was discharged, the bullet entering the younger boy's body just below the heart, causing death in about two minutes. The case is a very sad one, and the afflicted family have the sympathy of the community.

DEADLOCK STILL ON.

BELIEVED IT WILL BE BROKEN IN EIGHT DAYS REMAINING.

Lincoln, Neb., March 16.—Six ballots were taken without result in the Republican senatorial caucus Thursday night. Immediately following adjournment the members held a conference to discuss the advisability of changing the rules so as to permit nominations by majority vote. No decision was reached.

Significant changes were made in the vote, the most important gain being that of Edward Rosewater, who on the fifth ballot ran up to 23. The final ballot resulted: Thompson 37, Rosewater 22, Meiklejohn 20, Hinshaw 8, Currie 7, Harlan 4, Crounse 3, Martin and Kinkaid 2 each. There is a more sanguine feeling tonight that the deadlock will be broken in the eight days remaining of the legislative session. During the day a message was prepared signed by a number of members, to be sent to Chairman Hanna, of the Republican national committee, asking him to communicate direct with the members if he had any suggestions to offer on ending the deadlock.

LAID TO REST.

A LAST LOOK AT THE BELOVED COUNTENANCE.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 18.—Beneath a canopy of black placed on the rotunda of the capitol building, the casket covered with the silken folds of the stars and stripes, surrounded by thousands of blossoms, while over all swung the great battle flag that flew from the warship Indiana during the naval battle of Santiago, the body of ex-President Harrison laid in state for nine hours Saturday.

During that time fully 50,000 people passed by the coffin to take a last look at the distinguished dead, and when at 10 o'clock the capitol doors were finally closed and the people told that no more could enter, there were several thousand more waiting patiently in line. The body lay in state from 1:10 o'clock in the afternoon until 10 o'clock at night, and not once during the hours was there a break or a halt in the lines which passed rapidly by on the right and left of the casket.

SOME WARM WORDS

Are Exchanged Between Lord Wolsely And Lord Lansdown Yesterday.

CREATED QUITE A SENSATION

Wolsely Admits Having Underestimated Fighting Power of the Boers.

London, March 16.—The house of lords was unusually crowded yesterday in anticipation of the reply of Lord Wolseley, the former commander in chief, to the criticisms of the former war secretary, Lord Lansdowne, now secretary for foreign affairs.

Lord Wolseley said it almost seemed as if the personal attack was made to divert attention from the question at issue, and to throw upon the commander and chief blame for the mistakes made by the government. Until the recent debate he had never had reason to suppose that he did not possess the full confidence of Lord Lansdowne and the cabinet.

He had made every effort to improve the auxiliary forces. In February, 1896, he recommended that additional troops be sent to South Africa and recommended strengthening the Natal garrison and the defensive occupation, not of the town of Ladysmith, but of Biggarsberg range, which was 25 miles in advance of Ladysmith. He never considered Ladysmith and its surrounding hills to be tenable.

In common with all the other authorities, he had underestimated the fighting power of the individual Boer.

Lord Wolseley concluded by saying: "I have said as little as possible consistently with any justice to myself. The noble marquis made strong personal statements which were not supported. I have made my reply, which is also unsupported. I cannot, however, leave the matter thus. I feel I am amply justified in moving that all the papers be laid on the table. I am prepared to prove by my official documents all I have said.

Lord Lansdowne, in replying, said he thought Lord Wolseley had hardly comprehended the purport of his former speech when he said it was a personal attack on himself. After thus breaking his windows, Lord Wolseley could hardly expect that he (Lord Lansdowne) would not retaliate on his conservatory. Proceeding, Lord Lansdowne questioned the correctness of some of Wolseley's statements. He reminded the latter that after the Glencoe disaster he had suggested that the British fall back beyond the Tugela river. If the suggestion had been given earlier it might have saved one of the worst disasters of the war. Gen. Buller had written a private letter to Lord Wolseley suggesting that 40,000 men might be necessary for the campaign. Lord Lansdowne did not wish to expose his misjudgment of the enemy, but Lord Wolseley should bear his full share. Lord Wolseley suggested among other things the occupation of Delagoa bay and an appeal to the colonies.

Lord Salisbury said he thought it undesirable that all the papers referring to the debate should be circulated. He was not aware that any personal charges had been made against Lord Wolseley.

Lord Roseberry enumerated Lord Lansdowne's charges against Lord Wolseley and said they were personal in the judgment of the mass of the house and many in the street. He alluded to Lord Wolseley's historic career, now closed, and defended the singlemindedness of his purpose in seeking to improve the war office system.

Wolseley's motion was defeated 62 to 38.

FIVE YEARS.

THAT'S THE SENTENCE GIVEN FRED FORRESTER.

Duluth, March 18.—Frederick Forrester, lately a leading actor in the Frederick Warde company, who pleaded guilty to assault in the second degree, was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary. Owing, however, to the omission of his counsel to make a plea for leniency for him, he was recalled, and his case will be taken up again tomorrow, when the general expectation is that a reformatory sentence will be substituted. When Forrester was asked by the court if he had anything to say why sentence should not be passed upon him, he asked for the mercy of the court on account of his relatives and friends, to which Judge Ensign replied that he thought those considerations should have had more weight with him (Forrester) than with the court. When sentence was passed Forrester was visibly affected and looked appealingly to his attorney, as if he expected him to do something for him. After a consultation between Judge Ensign and Forrester's counsel, the prisoner was recalled and Attorney Wilson made a strong and able plea in his favor, with the result that the court said it would take up the matter on Monday.

OFFICES CLOSED

DIVISION ENGINEERS ON THE G. N. REMOVED.

The offices of Division Engineer Richards of the Dakota division of the Great Northern and Division Engineer Dickman of the Northern division, the latter says the Herald, of whom has his offices in Grand Forks, have had their offices closed. Maj. Dickman left the city Friday evening and Mr. Richards left Saturday night for St. Paul, where where they will be given another assignment for the present. It is expected that they will be returned to their old posts in the near future, as there is a large amount of work to be done, and the reason of the new assignments is not known at the present time to the local officials of the Great Northern. Both men were very popular with the railroad men here and it is hoped they will soon be returned to their former positions. Their crews went with them.

IDAHO'S WAGES.

WOOD CHOPPERS RECEIVE $2.50 PER DAY.

A resident of this city who recently wrote to a party in Boise City, Idaho, inquiring as to the amount of wages paid laboring men, particularly wood choppers, this morning received the following reply:

Boise City, March 12.—Dear Sir: Answering with regard to wood cutters and wages, I do not cut wood any more, for I have sold out my business. The man that is cutting wood now at the same place wants ten wood choppers right now, as quick as he can get them. He cannot get them here in Boise, for men here are not very plentiful. He pays $1.25 per cord for cutting and a good wood chopper will cut two cords per day. Some choppers cut at much as two and a half cords per day. Ordinary wages here are from $1.50 to $2.00 per day and board; miners, $2.50 and $3.00, and some $4.00 per day. Sheep herders $40 to $50 per per month and board. Fifty cents per thousand for cutting logs, $3.00 per day for log driving and $2.00 per day for cordwood driving. Wood cutting will continue until the 1st of July, at which time the drive begins.

SHOT IN THE LEG.

BELTRAMI BOY'S NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH.

The 10-year-old son of I. J. Elwood, of Beltrami, had a narrow escape from instant death Sunday afternoon. In company with a neighbor's son, Percy Hill, who is 12 years old, he went out along the river bank and each of the boys provided himself with a 22-calibre rifle, with which they expected to shoot jack rabbits. On their way home the boys exchanged weapons, and when reaching Elwood's residence, young Hill attempted to hand his companion's rifle back to him and take his own. In some manner the weapon, which is a hammerless, was discharged, the bullet taking effect in young Elwood's right leg between the knee and ankle. The wound was dressed by a physician of Beltrami and this morning I. J. Elwood brought the boy to Crookston for a thorough examination. It was found that the injury was in no wise dangerous and Dr. Dunlop did not even deem it necessary to extract the ball, which is lodged in the boy's leg. It was a close escape, however, from fatal injury.

NOT FATAL.

THE DULUTH DEPUTY SHERIFF WILL RECOVER.

Duluth, March 18.—The favorable condition of Deputy Sheriff Magie, who was shot by Joseph Goldstein Friday afternoon, was even better last night than in the morning and each hour indicates that unless complications ensue, Mr. Magie will soon be himself again.

The wound in the head, which penetrated only the outer table of the skull, is causing but little trouble, but the injury of the hand is more serious and painful. It is the right, instead of the left hand, as at first reported, and the bullet passed through it just above the second finger and between the metacarpal bones. Mr. Magie was resting easily last night and is regarded as out of danger.

CONTROVERSEY.

OVER LOCATION OF REVENUE CAN'T AGREE ON LOCATION.

Washington, March 14.—There may be some friction between North and South Dakota senators over the location of the revenue collector's office in the new district. The North Dakota senators concede that South Dakota should, perhaps, have the office, but they want it at Aberdeen, where it would be convenient for North Dakota patrons.

The South Dakota senators on the other hand are supposed to favor Sioux Falls, which has the only public building in the two states and is well located so far as South Dakota collections ar concerned. In addition, it is said, the treasury department has endorsed Sioux Falls, but nothing will be done until all the North Dakota senators have been brought together.

OLD RAILROAD TICKET.

A railroad ticket, good for a ride on the Northwestern from Council Bluffs to Cedar Rapids, which was issued in 1884 at Council Bluffs, was recently presented to a conductor on one of the trains on that road and duly honored. It was presented by a man who said it was purchased by a relative and kept among his effects and unearthed after his death, and appearing to be good for a ride from Council Bluffs to Cedar Rapids, he had presented it. It was good for what it called for, and the man had a free ride.

TO REVISE TAX LAWS.

Gov. Van Sant, Attorney General Douglass and State Auditor Dunn, after considering the matter all the afternoon, decided upon the following as members of the much discussed tax commission: H. W. Childs, St. Paul; W. J. Hahn, Minneapolis; G. S. Ives, St. Peter.

Among the appropriation bills now before the legislature, says the Red River Valley Review, there is one in which the people of the Red River valley should take an interest in—that for the maintenance of the Crookston Experiment Farm. This institution is just beginning to be of value and it would be a mistake should it not receive a sufficient appropriation to continue its experiments on the lines now conducted.

—The star route mail delivery between here and Red Lake Falls has been equipped with a new rig and will in future carry passengers.

NEW GAME BILL.

REQUIRING WARDENS TO SECURE WARRANTS

Senator J. H. Smith has introduced a bill which Game Warden Fullerton says will nullify all the game and fish laws of the state. "If this bill becomes a law," he said, "the legislature might as well abolish the game and fish commission and my office and recall the $25,000 appropriation for preserving game and fish, for there will be nothing for us to do."

The bill requires warrants for arrests for violations of the game laws. The result would be that the game wardens could not touch hunters even if they were caught with game in their possession. Another provision prevents prosecution for the illegal killing of moose, caribou and deer unless the whole body is found.

Still another clause permits the shipment of game birds into the state. This would render prosecution absolutely impossible, for there never was a game warden who could tell by looking at a bird whether it was raised in Minnesota or Wisconsin.

HOME AGAIN.

DEPUTY GAME WARDEN MINUS COAT AND SHOES.

E. J. Murphy of Felton, brother of Chief of Police T. L. Murphy, came in Thursday morning from Grand Forks, says the Moorhead News. Ed Murphy is the game warden who, with P. O. Stevens of Detroit and Scott Ridell of Hallock, made the big haul of moose and caribou heads and hides up in Beltrami county last Wednesday.

The Twin City papers have had accounts of the arrest of the hunters and of the game which was confiscated, amounting in value to nearly $1,200, but Ed's account of his experiences is interesting, especially as he himself is a fugitive from "justice," landing in Moorhead without overcoat or overshoes.

INTERESTING TITLE CASE.

The Minnesota Title Insurance and Trust company, has just paid a loss of $140 damages from loss of title on 9.47 feet of land on W. Lake street near Motor ave., Minneapolis. Title seemed to have been good. The famous John Kelley case has just been settled by the same company. They paid Mr. Kelley $1,000 and he quit-claimed the title under dispute. This matter has been in litigation for five or six years. It has cost the Title company alone $2,000 in lawyers' fees to aid the insurance company loaning the money on the property under dispute. The settlement was a compromise and the status of the case is the same as it was when started. The case has been won once by each side besides one disagreement and has been referred back to the supreme court on technicalities. Kelley borrowed money of the Connecticut Mutual Insurance company, and represented that he was a single man. It turned out that he was living with a woman on the property mortgaged, although not legally married. He used the money, $4,000, to build a business block on the premises, and set up a claim that the mortgage was not good because on a homestead and his wife under common law marriage did not sign the mortgage. He admitted that he had used the money, but he paid no interest and he would not give up the property.

NOTICE OF CANCELLATION OF LAND CONTRACT.

TO JOHN W. RAPER:

Sir: You will please take notice that the undersigned, Aggie Whitman and W. P. Whitman, hereby elect to cancel and terminate the contract for a deed to the northwest quarter (nw¼) of Section No. twenty-six (26), in township one hundred and fifty-three (153), north of Range forty-seven (47) west of the Fifth Principal Meridian in the county of Polk and state of Minnesota, entered into between herself and husband, W. P. Whitman, as parties of the first part, and yourself as purchaser, party of the second part, which said contract bears date the 10th day of April, 1900.

You are further notified that the said Aggie Whitman hereby elects to declare and does hereby declare all of the payments specified in said contract to be made by you to be at once due and payable.

You are further notified that the said cancellation and termination of said contract is upon the ground and for the reason that you have failed to perform the conditions thereof on your part to be performed in this, that you have not paid the payment upon said land which fell due according to the terms of said contract upon the first day of October, 1900, and the interest upon the entire unpaid purchase price specified in said contract which fell due upon the 1st day of October, 1900, or any part thereof excepting the sum of one hundred four and 17-100 dollars ($104.17.)

You are further notified that the cancellation and termination of said contract will take effect upon the 11th day of April, 1901.

Dated this 15th day of February, 1901.

Mortgage Foreclosure Sale.

Default having been made in the payment of the sum of $8, which became due and payable Oct. 26, 1898, and in the further sum of $8 which became due and payable Oct. 26, 1899 and in the further sum of $8 which became due and payable Oct. 26, 1900, which is claimed to be due and is due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by George W. Carhart and Marion M. Carhart, his wife, mortgagors, to Jerome W. Wheeler, mortgagee, bearing date the 20th day of October, 1897, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds in and for the county of Polk, and state of Minnesota, on the 16th day of November, 1897, at 4.50 o'clock p. m., in book 78 of mortgages, on page 248.

And whereas, the said Jerome W. Wheeler, the mortgagee and holder of said mortgage, has duly elected and does hereby elect to declare the whole principal sum of said mortgage due and payable at the date of this notice, under the terms and conditions of said mortgage and the power of sale therein contained, and whereas there is actually due and claimed to be due and payable at the date of this notice the sum of forty-two and 40-100 dollars, with interest on $26.40 thereon at the rate of 10 per cent per annum, from the 20th day of October, 1900, and whereas the said power of sale has become operative, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that, by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The southwest quarter of section twenty-eight (28) in township one hundred fifty-four (154) of range forty-seven (47), in Polk county and state of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the sheriff of said Polk county, at the front door of the court house, in the city of Crookston, in said county and state, on the 23rd day of March, 1901, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder, for cash to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated Feb. 6, A. D. 1901.

AMISH ARE COMING

A Recent Illinois Murder May Result in a Colony Coming Up this Way.

LOOKING FOR LARGE TRACTS

And Are Negotiating With Grand Forks Real Estate Dealers.

One of the big real estate firms of the city, says the Grand Forks Herald, has received several letters from representatives of a community of rich Amish farmers who at present reside in Tazewell and McLean counties, Ill. Negotiations have been opened for the purchase of large tracts of land in this state, and it is thought that the deal will be closed in the near future. The negotiations have progressed so far that a representative of the prospective purchasers will be here in a few days and look the situation over.

The story in connection with the desire of the Amish farmers to remove from their present location is rather a peculiar one in many respects. It will be remembered that the newspapers have had long accounts of late of the murder committed by Sam Moser some time ago. He killed his wife and family and the defense that is put up is that of insanity caused by the persecutions of the new Amish church.

This defense has created a great stir in Illinois, and the Amish farmers have decided that it would be best to seek a new location for the colony somewhere in the state of North Dakota. The colony, which occupies the greater part of the counties of Tazewell and McLean, is immensely wealthy and the farms are among the best improved and most valuable in the state. The members of the community are almost without exception very wealthy and from a financial point of view it will be a very fine thing for North Dakota if the real estate dealers succeed in interesting them in North Dakota lands.

It is understood that it is desired to close the deal as soon as possible, as to longer remain in Illinois will be very unpleasant owing to recent events.

Speaking of the matter yesterday, a man who is interested in inducing the Amish farmers to locate here, said:

"I consider that it will be a big thing to get the Illinois farmers here. They are all well off and will bring a great deal of property to the state. They are good, thrifty farmers, as has been proven from the condition of their farms in Illinois.

"In connection with the endeavor to induce them to come to this state, and especially to this section of the state, I would suggest that there would be a good opportunity for work by an organization for that purpose in Grand Forks, and for that matter for any city in the state. Other cities of other states are doing it are doing it and I do not see why good results could not be obtained in this case. People will come here whether there is an endeavor to get them here or not, but when an entire colony has determined to move and especially when that colony is as rich as the one referred to, it is certainly worth a big effort to give every possible inducement to encourage a location in this state.

"It is true that there are no lands in this immediate vicinity upon which to establish a community of that size, but here are plenty farther west, which are tributary to Grand Forks."

FAIR MANAGERS.

PREPARATIONS FOR THE EXPOSITION NEXT FALL.

The board of state fair managers were in session at the Merchants hotel in St. Paul yesterday. Vice President Chester R. Smith of St. Paul presided. Those present were Managers Underwood, Cosgrove, Sawyer, Currier and Smith; Secretary Randall and Treasurer Wilcox.

The morning session was spent in the preparation of the premium list for the coming state fair, and for the arrangement of purses for the races. Chester R. Smith will this year have charge of the new department of amusements. This department has hitherto been handled under several departments, but Mr. Smith will have the complete charge of all arrangements.

The superintendents of the various departments were named yesterday afternoon. The list is as follows:

A. Horses—J. C. Currier, Mankato.
B. Cattle—William M. Liggett, St. Anthony Park.
C. and D. Sheep and Swine—J. C. Mills, Preston.
E. Poultry—Leslie Parlin, St. Paul.
F. Dairy Products—B. D. White, St. Paul.
G. Horticulture and Floriculture—J. M. Underwood, Lake City.
H. Honey, Apiary and Sugar C N. Cosgrove, Le Sueur.
J. Vegetables—Grain and Farm Produce—N. S. Gordon, Crookston.
K. Woman's Department—Thos. H. Shevlin, Minneapolis.
Assistant Superintendent Women's Department— Mrs. George W Dodds, St. Paul.
L. Exposition Building—Thomas H. Shevlin, Minneapolis.
M. Machinery, Farming Implements and Carriages—W. G. Sawyer, Partridge.
Amusements—Chester R. Smith, St. Paul.
Gates—N. C. Cosgrove, Le Sueur; assistant superintendent, R. H. Cosgrove, Le Sueur.
Police—J. M. Underwood, Lake City.

Privileges—W. J. Munro, Morris.
Farmers' Institute—O. C. Gregg, Lynd.
Grounds—E. W. Randall, Hamline.

CUPID WEEPS.

A NORTH DAKOTA COUPLE DECIDE TO SEPARATE.

Tuesday afternoon a neatly gowned woman having an air of nervous anxiety, and a man walked into the court house and asked the way to the judge's chambers, says the Fargo Call. The person whom they accosted was a wise guy and he mentally sized the situation up that it was a five to one shot that they were looking for a marriage license, "These fond hearts," he thought, "are looking for some one to tie the nuptial knot, and I am going to help this Cupid business along by steering them direct Hymen's altar."

"Which court are you looking for?" he asked them. "Go up to Judge Roberts if you want a marriage license. The other court is where you get the divorce, you know."

"If you please, we would like to see the 'other' court," the man said, and then they both spoke at once: "We've come for a divorce."

"This is the first time we ever tried to get a divorce and we don't know the way of the law in such matters,' said the woman with a sly glance at the man standing close beside her. "We thought to come down today and settle it up forever," she said, and there was just the suspicion of tears in her voice as she added: "We can never be happy together again."

They said they lived near Kindred and that they had no charges to make against each other. "She is the best woman I ever knew," said the man, "but somehow everything seems to have gone wrong, and it seems that fate has turned the blue lights on the world and shut off the sunshine. I've had hard luck and haven't been able to provide very well for her, I guess, and if she thinks she can be any happier apart from me, I am not going to stand in the way of it."

When informed that they would have to see a lawyer, they turned away and came down town. They entered Attorney Cole's office and held a conference. Some time later they came out and separated, the man going back to Kindred and the woman going to the home of a friend in the city. It is said that a reconciliation can be affected in a few days. If this cannot be done, divorce proceedings will begin at once.

OPEN TUESDAY.

CROOKSTON'S NEW ABSTRACT FIRM HAS BEGUN WORK.

J. H. Stair, of the abstracting firm of Stair & Stiberg, will arrive in Crookston next Tuesday and open the offices of the firm upon his arrival. Mr. Stair will finish up his work in the Forks this week and take up work for his firm without a break. Stair & Stiberg have rented neat quarters in the Rickett block and the prospects for their making a success at this place are very flattering at the present time, as there is a big land business being done by the real estate dealers of Polk county this season, and that means business for the abstractors. Mr. Stiberg will not arrive in the city until the first of the month.

The firm should be well patronized from the start, as both the members have had a long and valuable experience in the business and thoroughly competent and reliable in every way. The new firm will be prepared to turn out the best of work from the beginning, and the Journal predicts for them a successful business career.

ARE QUITTING.

FEAR OF WATER DRAWS LUMBERMEN HOME.

The logging season is rapidly drawing to a close. A few more days of thaw and most of the smaller loggers will break camp. The headquarters camp of the Stillwater Logging company at Solway has been the first to close for the season. Men are coming in from the camps in all directions. They could have worked longer, but the lumberjack has a horrer of wet feet, and many of them prefer to quit before the snow becomes soft. Horses are being shipped out of here every day, going back to farm work in agricultural districts. This has been a pleasant winter for both men and horses in the woods, and they are coming out in fine shape. The loggers who have iced their roads may be able to continue operations for some weeks longer, but most of the work to be done from now on must be done between flurries of snow. All of the loggers are pretty well along with their work, but few will reach the full limits of their contracts. S. C. Bagley, who is logging by railroad, intends to get out 21,000,000 feet.

WOULD BE ABSURD.

RESTORATION OF SELF GOVERNMENT TO THE BOERS.

Durban, March 15.—The proposal made by Sir Henry Campbell Bannerman to give the Boers self government directly order is restored is regarded here as absurd, as it is believed that such a course would simply promote anarchy and prevent a lasting peace. It is held that gradual progress toward establishing self government is necessary. The colonists are becoming weary of sacrificing their interests to a party.

Gen. Baden-Powell's police force is getting into shape. It is organized on new and untrammeled lines. The men are hardy and capable. Forts will be built in the best situations capable of resistance. The force will be complete in itself and will receive no extraneous aid from any other department.

HAS MORE TROUBLE.

Anoka health officials have their troubles too. The members of the board have handed in their resignations to the mayor to take effect immediately. Trouble has been brewing for some time which culminated over a bill for wood purchased for a quarantined family, by the health officer, who claims to have the legal right to make such purchases.

IN THE PEST HOUSE.

Is Where a Bemidji Lumberman, Who Left Quarantined Camp, Landed

BOARD OF HEALTH AFTER HIM

And Local Authorities Get Onto His Tracks and Cause Arrest.

Several days ago a man named Geo. McLean, who had been employed in the lumber camps out at Bemidji during the winter, entered the law offices of Steenerson & Loring, of this city, and left a claim against S. A. Gray for collection. The claim was for labor and was at once forwarded to an attorney at Bemidji, who presented the same to Mr. Gray for payment. This let the authorities and the board of health in the pine town onto the track of a person they had been looking for in vain for several days, and Sunday, upon instructions from Health Officer D. B. Newman of Bemidji, Mr. McLean was arrested at the instance of the local board of health and ordered placed in the pest house, a short distance northwest of the city. When placed under arrest McLean protested against being locked up but the officers were in possession of facts sufficient to hold him. He had been under quarantine for smallpox at Gray's camp, together with eighteen or twenty other persons, for several weeks past, the isolation of the place having been ordered by the state board of health, but in an unguarded moment took leave of absence without the permission of the officers. For this violation he was placed under arrest and is now confined in the pest house to await the arrival of Bemidji officers, who want him returned to the camp in quarantine and held there until the same is raised.

WHITE HOUSE FIRE.

CAUSES CONSIDERABLE EXCITEMENT IN WASHINGTON.

Washington, March 16.—An alarm of fire turned in from the White House about 10 o'clock last night for flames in the inaugural reviewing stand at the northwest corner of the grounds surrounding the mansion, caused considerable excitement in that section of the city. The White House, Pennsylvania avenue and the state, war and navy department buildings were brilliantly illuminated for a brief time before the fire was extinguished. The damage was nominal.

TWO CENTURIES.

FORM BIRTHDAY OF PAIR OF N. D. TWINS.

In a small town in Billings county, North Dakota, says the Medical Record, twins were born, one a few minutes before midnight, Dec. 31, 1900, and the other a few minutes past 12 o'clock on the morning of Jan. 1, 1901. The town is divided whether the boys should be considered twins or simply brothers and when the birthday should be celebrated.

The "anti-twinners" seem to have considerable justification for their view for the children not only have been born on different days, months and years, but one in the nineteenth and the other in the twentieth century.

MADE A DISCOVERY.

Editor Bryan is making progress. He says he has discovered that the advertising end of a newspaper should not be neglected. That fact will impress itself more and more upon him as he proceeds along the thorny path.—Minneapolis Times.

BEMIDJI FIRE.

Bemidji, March 18.—Fire gutted the two story building occupied by Street & Crawford as a law office Friday, and the fire department had to make a fierce fight to save adjoining business places. The damage was about $1,000, fully insured.

STATE NEWS ITEMS.

Five cases of smallpox are, under quarantine at Wells, Minn.

Fairmont, Minn., is to have a $20,000 opera house, which will be built by a corporation formed for the purpose.

A lodge of the Independent Scandinavian Workmen has been organized at East Grand Forks with a charter membership of 21.

Josiah Fairchild, one of the best known real estate men in St. Paul, died in that city last Friday afternoon. He was 70 years of age and had been engaged in the real estate business in St. Paul since 1879.

A convention of farmers of the St. Croix valley, Dakota, Ramsey, Hennepin and Washington counties, will be held at Stillwater Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. Members of the legislature have been invited to attend.

Mrs. Geo. A. Pillsbury passed away at 3:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the family residence in Minneapolis, after a month of illness. She was stricken with paralysis three weeks ago and has had several light shocks since that time, failing rapidly until death came very peacefully at the time stated.

Harry Doane, who was released on parole in 1895 from the St. Cloud reformatory and violated his parole by going to Kansas, has just completed a sentence there for theft and has been brought back to the state by Agent Whittier, and turned over to the authorities at Stillwater, where he will now be compelled to serve nearly three years more.

JOKE ON UNCLE.

AN ENGLISH ENGRAVER'S HUMOROUS REVENGE.

The "jackass bill" is the name applied to the 1880 series of treasury notes of the $10 denomination. The government was made the victim of a practical joker in the bureau of engraving and the staid, serious money of the country has become the vehicle of a puzzle picture.

The donkey shows as plainly as a life like portrait when the bill is turned upside down. On the face of the bill is an American eagle in a little engraving to the lefto f the seal, and between the names of J. W. Lyons, register of the treasury, and Ellis H. Roberts, treasurer of the United States. There is nothing peculiar in the eagle until the bill is turned upside down and the eagle becomes a donkey, perfect in outline.

The story that comes from Washington is to the effect that an Englishman working in the bureau of engraving was discharged. Having been given the usual month's notice, he decided upon a cold blooded revenge upon the imperial eagle of McKinley.

He was working on the new plates for the $10 bill and by a deft handling of the lights and shadows of the eagle he produced the donkey. From an artistic point of view his work is excellent. It is the perfection of puzzle creation. The head and neck of the eagle, which has a peculiar left twist, furnishes the head of the donkey. The light shading at the base of the wing becomes a perfect eye from the other viewpoint. The thighs of the eagle form the ears.

COWARDLY ACT.

DOG POISONER KILLS VALUABLE CANINES.

Grand Forks has a cowardly sneak who hates man's best friend, and as a result a number of valuable dogs have found their way to dog heaven within the past few days. The latest victims of the unknown crank are W. B. Wood and Charley Dameral's fine hunting dogs. The Herald says:

The dog owners of the city are greatly incensed over further work by the dog poisoners. During the past winter there have been a number of dogs poisoned in various parts of Grand Forks, but night before last the poisoner did a bigger job than at any previous time, killing the fine bird dog of W. B. Wood of the Hotel Dacotah, and two fine pointers, the property of Charles Dameral. Matters have reached such a stage now that a determined effort will be made to locate the guilty parties and if they are found they will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law. Some of the best bird dogs of the city have been poisoned, and the losses will be keenly felt by the owners when the hunting season arrives. There have also been a number of pet dogs killed which were very highly prised by the owners.

TOUGH ON TOPERS.

HABITUAL DRUNKARD BILL FAVORED IN HOUSE.

London, March 16.—In the house of lords today, Lord Salisbury warmly supported the Bishop of Winchester's habitual drunkards' bill. He said he was entirely in sympathy with the measure, which fixes higher penalties than in the case of simple drunkenness, especially in the case of a person drunk when in charge of a child. The bill provides that habituol drunkenness should be treated as persistent cruelty and entitle a wife to divorce. The sale of liquors to inebriates is forbidden. Lord Salisbury said he hoped that be or the government might succeed in passing the bill. What was ordinarily called temperance legislation was diminishing the power of obtaining intoxicants. This class of legislation was directed against the persons guilty of intemperance, but it also affected the large body who were thereby restricted in their natural liberty by the desire of legislators to deal with inebriates, which seemed to be unjust. The bill passed its second reading.

HIBBING FIRST.

LEADS IN SMALL POX CASES IN MINNESOTA.

The reports received by the Minnesota board of health show that during the two weeks ending March 11, there were 328 new cases of smallpox in 72 communities in the state. The reports of the local boards made for the first half of last month showed a total of 521 new cases. Many of the new cases reported during the past two weeks were isolated ones, and in only a very few communities of the state was there any indication of a smallpox epidemic. Hibbing heads the list with 24 new cases. The other places from which reports were received indicating favorable conditions were: Minneapolis and Elmore each 16 cases; Bemidji 14; Montgomery and Lake City, each 13; Pine Lake, 12; Lake Crystal, Elgin and Delano, each 11; Woodland, 10. Five new cases were reported from St. Paul.

STOVE EXPLODES.

Litchfield, Minn., March 16.—The residence of G. H. Chapman was completely burned yesterday morning. The house was occupied by Mr. Poole, who lost all his household goods, his loss being partly insured. The fire was caused by the explosion of an air tight stove.

BIG FIRE AT FISHER.

Village Came Near Being Wiped out of Existance Early Monday Morning.

LOSS FOOTS UP TO ABOUT $35,000.

Only $10,000 Insurance Carried, but Buildings Will be Replaced by Substantial Structures.

The town of Fisher, 12 miles north of here, experienced a destructive fire early Monday morning. As a result a large portion of the best business part of the town lies smouldering in ashes. Shortly after midnight flames were discovered issuing from an unoccupied room in the rear of the lower part of the Woodman hall building, adjoining the warehouse of Larson Bros.. The flames soon spread to several adjoining buildings, and for a time it looked as though the whole business portion of one of the oldest towns in northern Minnesota was doomed to destruction by the fire demon.

Although the fire department responded promptly to the alarm, it was soon evident that nothing could be done to prevent the spreading of the flames, as the heavy wind which prevailed at the time, together with the combustible frame structures which were on fire, would furnish proper food for the destructive element.

Telephone message for help were sent to Crookston and East Grand Forks, but the local fire department knew it would be impossible to render any aid to our threatened neighbors, even though it could respond with its apparatus, as the town had no water works for fire pressure. The flames spread with fierce rapidity and H. B. Laughlin's general merchandise store, Ole H. Ollie's saloon, the Woodman hall and Larson Bros. store building were bound to be licked up by the fire fiend. A number of other buildings were set on fire a number of times, but by the heroic efforts on the part of the fire department and citizens, who were ready to fight the raging elements, they were all saved, although some of them are more or less damaged, and a few of them are badly scorched.

The entire populace for a time seemer frantic from fear of seeing the entire town wiped out, as the flames spread from building to building, and no assistance could be rendered by outside fire companies.

The loss sustained cannot be accurately estimated at this time, but it will reach many thousands of dollars. H. B. Laughlin's loss, which is total, amounts to $13,000, with but slight insurance.

Larson Bros. claim a damage by fire and water of $1,100.

The loss on the Woodman hall is not known, but will greatly exceed the insurance, which is only $500. Other losses aggregate many thousand dollars, and it is safe to place the total amount at $35,000.

The long distance telephone exchange was also wiped out and communication by that agency has been cut off all day.

The buildings reduced to ashes last night may be replaced early in the spring by more substantial structures, and none of the business firms affected by the flames are expected to discontinue on account of the loss sustained.

The origin of the fire is a mystery, as there had been no light or heating in the place where it started for several months. The opinion prevails that it was the work of an incendiary.

WILL REBUILD.

Fisher, Minn., March 26.—(Special.)—The Fisher fire early yesterday morning is the first one the town has experienced in twenty years, and that any part of the business portion was saved from destruction is solely due to the heroic fight put up by the fire department and the citizens alike. No volunteer company could possibly have done better work than did the Fisher fire fighters, and the manner in which they checked the destructive elements would do credit to any city fire department. Of course, everybody had turned out to assist the firemen, but upon the latter fell the duty of handling the streams of water which were playing on the burning buildings. The burned houses were all frame structures and went rapidly up in smoke. The heat from the burning Langhlin building badly scorched the opera house block and Hamilton's store across the street on the south, and became so intense as to crack the heavy plate glass windows in the bank in the rear of the large block. On the north side of the fire and within six feet of the burned saloon building, the flames were got under control by the trojan efforts of the fire laddies. Had the wind been in he southeast direction there would have been absolutely no chance to save any part of the entire block, as the water supply, which is furnished from a 1,500 barrel cistern and the Great Northern water tank, was just about giving out when the flames were brought under check.

The little Waterous engine, which, with about 1,200 feet of hose is the only fire apparatus the town has at its disposal, did excellent work, although some time elapsed before the engine was brought into service owing to the lack of fuel. Another point in favor of preventing the spreading of flames was thes leet and snow covered condition of roofs, caused by the rain that fell Sunday afternoon. As it is three buildings are completely burned to the ground and five others are badly scorched and otherwise damaged. The following is an accurate list of the losses sustained, and amount of insurance carried:

Royal Neighbors, paraphernalia, $150, no insurance.

Larson Bros., wagons and farming implements, $1,200, no insurance.

Even Olson, harness and shoes, $100, insured.

Hamilton Bros., general hardware, agricultural implements, $1,000, insured.

Robert Bryson, household goods, no insurance.

Ole Hole, saloon fixtures and stock, $500, no insurance.

H. P. Langhlin, stock of general merchandise, $14,000; building $5,000, insured for $8,000.

Mrs. F. S. DeMers, on building occupied by Hole's saloon, $500, no insurance.

Citizen's Bank, plate glass, $100, insured.

Modern Woodman building and paraphernalia, $800, no insurance.

Jas. Linsky, household goods, damaged by moving, $100, insured.

W. H. Austin, manufactured cigars and factory fixtures, $200, insured for $100.

Louis H. Hammond, barber shop and tools, $200, no insurance.

Despite the fact that the loss falls very heavy upon most of the losers, none of them have shown the white feather, and the ruins, which were still smouldering at 8 o'clock last evening, will be cleared away and substantial two story double brick buildings will replace the destroyed structures as soon and weather and conditions permit.

The business men of Fisher who have been spared from loss by the conflagration show the right kind of spirit by encouraging their less fortunate neighbors in offering them substantial assistance where it is needed, and in helping them to again open up under more auspicious conditions.

The Journal is pleased to note that the Bulletin escaped by a very narrow margin, but it required the vigorous exercise of all Editor Sheire's fighting qualities for twelve hours to stave off the threatening elements.

SUDDEN SUMMONS.

JUDGE BARTHOLOMEW OF BISMARCK DROPPED DEAD.

Bismarck, N. D., March 26.—Citizens of Bismarck were shocked Sunday morning to hear of the death of ex-Chief Justice Bartholomew at his home in this city. There had been a slight snow in the night and the judge had gone out a few minutes before 8 o'clock to clear off the snow from the side walk. After completing the work he came in through the rear portion of the house, and in the dining room suffered an attack of heart failure. He fell against the door and the noise attracted the attention of his daughter, Miss Freddie, when she entered the room, the judge fell into her ams and expired in an instant.

The funeral will occur Wednesday and will be largely attended. The judge had formed a large circle of friends here during his eleven years' residence in this city as a member of the supreme court.

Since being succeeded on the supreme bench by Judge Morgan the judge has been engaged in some important litigation and was to have gone to Fargo tomorrow to appear before the supreme court in the Gans-Beasley sheep case, and the Mercer county tax case.

Judge Joseph M. Bartholomew was born in the village of Clargsville, McLean county, Ill., June 17, 1843, a son of George M. and Catherine Heffner Bartholomew, natives of Indiana and Virginia, respectively.

He served as a soldier during the civil war and was mustered out as first lieutenant of his company Nov. 14, 1865.

Socially the judge was a 32nd degree Mason and a prominent member of the Grand Army of the Republic. He had always affiliated with the republican party and had taken a most influential and active part in public affairs. He assisted in organizing the state, and became one of its leading and distinguished men, holding a high position in the hearts of the people. He was widely known and was very successful. With a thorough and comprehensive knowledge of the fundamental principles of law, he combined a familiarity with statutory law and a sober, clear juugment, which not only made him a formidable adversary in legal combat, but gave him the distinction of being one of the ablest jurists in the state.

BRIDAL PARTY CAUGHT

FLATTERED THEMSELVES THEY HAD EVADED THE RICE.

The following from the Minneapolis Journal will be read with interest by the many friends of the bride in the case, who it will be understood was formerly Miss Delia Brooks, whose parents reside near this city:

Under the heading "Missed Rice and Shoes," the Journal told last Saturday how Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Walker, who were married a week ago, evaded the farewell reception planned for them by their loving friends at the Union station.

Mr. and Mrs. Walker took the Interurban car to St. Paul and thus fooled their friends, for the time being. But the girls and boys they left behind got even with them the next day.

Leaving Mrs. Walker in St. Paul, "Clint" came to Minneapolis Thursday. He went into the Burlington office on Nicollet avenue to make different arrangements about transportation he had purchased the day before. As he entered the office "Jim" Bell, son of James E. Bell, the miller, was coming down Nicollet avenue in his automobile, and caught Mr. Walker in the act.

Not realizing that he had been detected "Clint" squared the transportation tangle and boarding an Interurban car as stealthily as he had come from St. Paul, went back to that city and his bride.

In the meantime Mr. Bell, Jr., was making hay. He put on a full head of electricity and fairly tore around the central part of the city, acquainting the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Walker with the latest maneuver of the happy couple and outlining to them a deeply laid scheme for revenge. Then he worked the telephone.

Before the Burlington train left St. Paul Thursday evening it was boarded by two score young people from Minneapolis who at once surrounded a blushing pair and fairly deluged them with ten pounds of rice and more old shoes than have been brought together in all the marriage ceremonies in Minneapolis for the last year.

Then the seat in which sat Mr. and Mrs. Walker, the cynosure of all eyes, was liberally placarded with signs informing their fellow passengers that they had been married the day before and were on their honeymoon.

The fun was kept up until the train pulled out.

"He laughs best who laughs last," said Clint, waving his friends adieu from the rear platform.

RUSH OF SETTLERS

Another Train Load Arrived Over Great Northern This Morning.

MANY OF THEM REMAIN HERE,

While Others Will Seek New Homes in the More Western States.

The stream of immigration which started a couple of weeks ago, continues to flow into the northern part of Minnesota, and the Wednesday's Great Northern passenger from St. Paul, had six coaches filled with new settlers of all nationalities coming from Iowa, Wisconsin, Indiana, Illinois and Southern Minnesota, who are seeking homes in the northwest. About 150 of these got off at this place and left for points on the north and east bound trains a few hours later, while a majority will take up land in Montana, Washington and Oregon.

The men and their families are mostly young people, and many of them have relatives and friends in the northwest. The new comers are well impressed with the prospects of the great wheat states, and many of them have been induced through letters and visits to locate in a country where fertile soil can be had at a great deal less expense than in the older states. Many of them are possessed of means and are coming with household effects and equipments for developing the uncultivated soil in their new localities. This latter assertion is borne out by the statement of a prominent railroad official, who stated that the Wisconsin Central railroad alone had 135 Great Northern box cars loaded with immigrants' moveables belonging to the new settlers, who are arriving daily to take up their abode in the northwest.

The Twin Cities are crowded with people who are ready to leave as fast as accommodations are afforded them, and last evening's Minneapolis Tribune in speaking of the regular settlers' excursion, which left St. Paul this morning, says:

"In connection with the regular settlers' excursion, which goes out Wednesday, it is expected that the day will be the biggest in the way of transporting western emigrants of any this season, and the approaching rush has brought into use every available passenger coach on the road."

The settlement of a large number of Dunkards in North Dakota, helps considerably to swell the emigration into the northern section, and a Chicago Dispatch today states:

"Possessed of homestead rights, household effects and equipments for land development, between 1,750 and 1,800 persons left Chicago last night over the Wisconsin Central road for the agricultural regions of North Dakota. Six special trains are required to carry the party and belongings. The prospective settlers come north from Ohio and Indiana, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Maryland, Illinois and other states, and among them were between 300 and 400 members of the German Baptists, commonly known as Dunkards. All the Dankards will settle in the Devils Lake, Mouse River and Turtle Mountain regions."

WIDOWS' PENSIONS.

MANY WILL BE RESTORED TO LIST BY RECENT LAW.

Our last congress just adjourned has passed a law whereby soldiers' widows who remarried, and since have lost their second husband by death, or by divorce, not the fault of the widow, can now apply and obtain a pension the same as if they had always been a widow since the death of the soldier husband. The following is the full text of the law:

"That section 4708 of the laws of the United States governing the granting of army and navy pensions be, and the same is, amended to read as follows:

The remarriage of any widow, dependent mother, or dependent sister entitled to pension shall not bar her right to such pension to the date of her remarriage, whether an application therefor was filed before or after such marriage, but on the remarriage of any widow, dependent mother or dependent sister having a pension, such pension shall cease; provided, however, that any widow who was the wife of any officer or enlisted man in the army, navy or marine corps of the United States during the period of his service in any war, and whose names was placed or hereafter shall be placed on the pension roll because of her husband's death as the result of wound or injury received or disease contracted in such military or naval service, and whose name has been or shall hereafter be dropped from said pension roll by reason of her marriage to another person who has since died or shall hereafter die, or from whom she has been heretofore or shall be hereafter divorced, upon her own application and without fault on her part and if she is without means of support other than her daily labor as defined by the acts of June 27, 1890, and May 9, 1900, shall be entitled to have again her name placed on the pension roll at the rate now provided for widows by the act of July 14, 1862, March 3, 1873, and March 19, 1886, such pension to commence from the date of the filing of her application in the pension bureau after the approval of this act. And provided, further, that where such widow is already in receipt of a pension from the United States she shall not be entitled to restoration under this act. And provided, further, that where the pension of said widow on her second or subsequent marriage has accrued to a helpless or idiotic child, or a child or children under the age of 16 years, she shall not be entitled to restoration under this act unless said helpless or idiotic child, or children under 16 years of age be then a member or members of her family and cared for by her, and upon the restoration of said widow the payment of said child or children shall cease.

Sec. 2. No claim agent or other person shall be entitled to receive any compensation for services in making application for pension under this act.

ABOUT EDDY

HIS CHANCES FOR ELECTION IN THE NEW DISTRICT.

Referring to Congressman F. M. Eddy's chances of election from the new district in which the redistricting places him, from the standpoint of a disinterested spectator, the Litchfield Standard remarks as follows:

"Some of the new counties which have been forced into Congressman Eddy's district by the reapportionment bill are already throwing metaphorical rocks at him. But wait until Frank gets into the next fight, polishes his steel rimmed spectacles, yanks off his moss grown surtout and pulls his antique derby down on his noble forehead, and there will be another song to sing. Some of the new constituents of the gentleman from the Seventh district are not on to his cyclonic campaign methods. He is a centennial on wheels, and the sooner the new members of his congressional family realize the fact the better for them. Long before every campaign, there is a howl against Eddy, but it is history we tell when we say that when the hayseed from Glenwood emerges from the fray he may be out of breath, but his heel is in the eye of his prostrate foes and they are wondering how it happened.

PERILOUS EXPERIMFNT

5,000 TON STEAMER TO TOW A RAFT TO CHINA.

Tacoma, Wash., March 28.—The Robertson Raft company, which is located at Westport, on the Columbia river, about sixty miles below Portland, in a few weeks will complete work on a raft containing 6,000,000 feet of logs, which, as soon as it is finished, will be towed to San Francisco. This is the largest raft that has yet been constructed on the coast, but will be a small one compared with another the same company is about to construct to be sent across the Pacific ocean to Shanghai.

Edward Wolfson, of Portland, who was in the city yesterday, has just returned from Westport, where he saw the raft on which work is being done. In an interview he said:

"The Robertson Raft company will build a 10,000,000 foot raft for shipment to Shanghai, China. This will be the lahgest raft ever built, and if it arrives at its destination in good shape will mean a small fortune to Capt. Robertson. This last raft Capt. Robertson thinks he will be able to get off about the middle of next year. It will take a 5,000 ton steamer to tow it and the trip, it is estimated, will occupy about sixty days. A vessel this size will be able to carry enough fuel for the trip, and the logs when they arrive at their destination will be worth about $30 a thousand feet.

"The cost of towing will be about $20,000, so you can see there will be an enormous profit in the undertaking.

"There is a great deal of risk in sending such a large raft across the ocean, but at the same time the voyage is undertaken the water will be calm, and in any event Capt Robertson figures if he gets one in three rafts across he will make enough money."

FOULLY MURDERED

A Cattle Buyer is Shot Down in Cold Blood at Grand Forks Junction.

MURDERERS STILL AT LARGE

After the Killing, the Dead Man is Robbed of His Valuables.

An atrocious murder was committed about 9 o'clock yesterday morning at the Great Northern junction, a short distance north of the yards at Grand Forks. The full particulars, or the names of the parties who are connected with the bloody tragedy could not be ascertained at this writing (3:00 p. m.) but as near as is known they are as follows:

A cattle buyer, whose home is supposed to be at Cummings, N. D., a small town on the Great Northern about 30 miles south of Grand Forks, reached the junction with a carload of cattle some time during the night, and had his car set out to be transferred during the forenoon. About 9 o'clock three men entered the car, and after exchanging a few words with the cattle buyer, one of them drew a revolver and fired a bullet through his body, killing him almost instantly. Two of the three men then went through the murdered man's pockets, and, taking what money he had on his person, jumped from the car and disappeared in a southerly direction, while the third one notified the police of what had happened. He described the two men as being about 22 and 25 years old respectively, each having a two weeks' growth of red whiskers. They are both about 5 feet 5 inches in height, one of them wearing a heavy pair of driving shoes and a dark heavy overcoat, while the other one was attired in a grey duck coat with velvet collar, and a pair of blue overalls. He claims to have no acquaintance with the murderers, at least he does not know their names, but the authorities are holding him as a witness, if not as a party to the terrible deed.

A posse of officers and men started out in pursuit of the criminals, and telegraph and telephone messages have been sent out in all directions, and it is not likely that the men will escape.

The dead man's body has been taken to Thompson, where an inquest will be held this afternoon.

The murderers are said to be men who until recently were employed as track men on the Brainerd & Northern railway at Bemidji, and went from there to Grand Forks only last evening.

Great excitement prevails at the Forks and if the guilty parties are caught they may be subjected to very rough handling.

Grand Forks, March 27.—3:40 p. m.—The murdered man has been identified as Alex Anderson, whose home is about eight miles from Larimore. Anderson has been lumbering out near Bemidji and was returning with his horses, which were loaded into a car in which he was murdered. He wanted to transfer at Grand Forks, but the train failed to stop there, and he concluded to make the transfer at Cummings. While sidetracked at the Junction the murderer, who is still at large, with his accomplice, entered the car and shot Anderson. The other man who gave notice to the police of the occurrence, and who is held by the Grand Forks authorities, gave his name as Edmund LaTrace, and claims that he was asleep when the murder was committed, and that he pistol shot awoke him. After robbing the dead man, the murderers jumped from the car and have so far escaped arrest.

Anderson's remains will be brought back to Grand Forks tonight, where the inquest will be held, instead of at Thompson as was at first reported.

DEFECTIVE PAGE

PERFECT HARMONY

Marked the Deliberations of the Republican Convention Saturday Night.

A FULL TICKET WAS NAMED

Representative Men Nominated for All Offices—Ticket is a Good One.

At the hour appointed for the republican convention Saturday evening there was a full representation of the different wards by the delegates who had been selected, and the desire to select the best men for nomination to the different positions was universally apparent. The meeting was called to order by Secretary Sathre, and the published call stating the purpose of the convention was read. On motion A. A. Miller was elected temporary chairman and F. M. Brown temporary secretary.

Motion was made and carried that the chair appoint committees on credentials, permanent organization and resolutions, said committees to consist of three members each. Complying with such instructions M. R. Brown, A. Eiken and M. E. Harbin were appointed as committee on credentials; John Wyand, J. C. Sathre and J. H. Maybury as committee on permanent organization, and N. S. Gordon, C. A. Hitchcock and G. H. Palmer as committee on resolutions.

After a short recess taken for the purpose of giving the committees time to make up their respective reports, the meeting was again called to order and the committee on credentials reported the following named persons to be entitled to seats in the convention, as delegates from the wards named, respectively:

First Ward—A. O. Busterud, A. G. Anderson, N. S. Gordon, Felix Fournet, G. J. Rolfstad, H. J. Peterson.

Second Ward—A. McAskill, J. H. Maybury, C. A. Bratrud, T. G. Thompson, J. Carter, Geo. Palmer.

Third Ward—Aug. Munn, M. R. Brown, John Wyand, E. M. Lancaster.

Fourth Ward—A. A. Miller, H. Robertson, J. C. Sathre, A. D. Stephens, Chas. Hitchcock, C. C. Strander, M. E. Harbin, L. Ellington, A. M. Childs, Andrew Eiken, Gust Johnson, John McLean, F. M. Brown, August Alstrom. Frank Mageau, N. J. Nelson.

Fifth Ward—C. A. Myers, T. Stewart.

The committee on permanent organization reported with a recommendation that the temporary organization be made permanent.

The committee on resolutions presented the following:

Your committee on resolutions respectfully make the following report:

Resolved, that it is the sense of this convention that we should place in nomination a ticket composed of good, honest, competent men, who are of undoubted integrity; who can in each and every instance be depended upon to faithfully perform their duties if elected, and who will uphold the good reputation af the city of Crookston.

—N. S. Gordon,
—C. A. Hitchcock,
—G. H. Palmer.

All of these reports were unanimously accepted and adopted by the convention.

On motion duly carried the convention proceeded to an informal ballot for mayor, which resulted in 31 votes being cast, of which M. R. Brown received 14, A. D. Stephens 9, G. S. Chesterman 6, John Cromb 1 and Tom Morris 1. The announcement of this result was followed by a little good natured sparring between the two leading candidates, M. R. Brown and A. D. Stephens, each of whom insisted that the other was the proper man for the nomination, and the one who could secure a victory for the ticket. After this the convention made M. R. Brown its unanimous choice. To the announcement of this action Mr. Brown responded, saying a nomination was one thing and an acceptance was another. That he would accept on no other condition than a general pledge of support by the convention and by the business men of the city. Receiving such he would consent to accept, although he had no desire for the office.

The name of C. A. Hitchcock was then presented to the convention as a candidate for alderman at large, and he was unanimously nominated by acclamation.

The next office in order to be considered was that of city treasurer and Hugh R. Robertson presented the name of A. M. Childs to the convention as a candidate for nomination to this office, and A. D. Stephens presented the name of Hugh R. Robertson for the same position. A. P. Hanson's and L. Ellington's names were also presented, and a ballot resulted in 18 votes for H. R. Robertson, 10 votes for A. M. Childs, 4 votes for A. P. Hanson and 1 for L. Ellington. On motion of Mr. Childs Mr. Robertson was declared the unanimous nominee of the convention.

M. R. Brown then presented the name of A. M. Childs for nomination as city clerk, and the suggestion was unanimously adopted by acclamation.

For the office of assessor two names were presented, M. E. Kirsch and E. Lancaster, and a ballot resulted in 10 votes for Mr. Kirsch and 19 for Mr. Lancaster, and the latter was declared the nominee of the convention.

Geo. H. Holt and John McLean were nominated as justices of the peace and A. A. Glenn and James Greenhalgh as constables.

The nomination for alderman of the different wards were then presented to the convention and ratified by unanimous vote as follows:

First Ward—A. O. Busterud.

Second Ward—John Sandberg.

Third Ward—Short term, J. A. Wyand.

Third Ward—Long term, G. S. Chesterman.

Fourth Ward W. E. Slocum.

The chair was instructed to appoint a city committee for the ensuing year, and the announcement of same will be made later on.

By a rising vote the convention then pledged its hearty support to the ticket thus placed in nomination, in which it was joined almost unanimously by the crowd of interested spectators, and adjournment was made.

The ticket is a good one and unquestionably as strong a one as could have been put up. It will commend itself to the hearty approval and support of the best class of our citizens, and we believe will succeed at the polls. The ticket as thus constituted will be found in full in another column of the Journal.

A BUSINESS CHANGE.

BEN CLEMENTS SELLS OUT TO R. J. FERGUSON.

A deal was consumated Monday by which R. J. Ferguson, who formerly owned a confectionery store on Robert street, and recently operated the photograph gallery in the O'Brien block on South Broadway, becomes the owner of the confectionery store and candy factory conducted by Ben Clements on Second street, in the Wallace block. Possession was given the new proprietor immediately after the deal was perfected and Mr. Ferguson will continue the business under his own supervision hereafter. He will also conduct his photograph business and has secured a first class artist from Chicago, who will look after the galley as soon as he arrives.

Mr. Ferguson stated to the Journal reporter that both places will be run in an up to date style, and that the care of neither one of the places will interfere with the care of the other. The Journal is glad to note Mr. Ferguson's enterprise and wishes him success.

MORE FAST TRAINS.

G. N. PASSENGERS NOS. 7 AND 8 WILL BE FLYERS.

An important change in the Great Northern's passenger train service will go into effect next Monday morning, on the line runing through St. Cloud, Fergus Falls and Crookston. Passenger train known as No. 7, which leaves St. Paul every evening at 8:30 and reaches Crookston at 7:00 o'clock the folowing morning, will become a fast local train from Grand Forks, to Havre, Mont. Master Mechanic Winney of this division, and Superintendent Williamson of the Dakota division, spent several days at St. Paul last week in the interest of this change, and returned Saturday morning, after acomplishing their mission with the Great Northern passenger traffic management. To these gentlemen is largely due the change, which will prove of greater accomodation to the traveling public west of grand Forks, than it has heretofore enjoyed on that line of the Great Northern.

There will be no change of time made in the arival and departure of the train at this point, but people west, beyond Grand Forks, will learn with pleasure of the new time card which will be issued within a few days.

WASN'T HIM.

FARMER THOUGHT HE HAD PAT CROWE.

An excited individual came to the police station Monday and asked to be shown the photograph of Pat Crowe, the Cudahy abductor, for whose apprehension a big reward is offered. The man stated that he lived not far from the city and said his name was Tygeson, and that a person whom he suspected of being the much wanted kidnapper was at his place.

Chief Eck dug up Pat's likeness and when the farmer had glanced over it he concluded that he was mistaken, and that the man he suspected has as little resemblance to the original Crowe as a jack rabbit has to a black crow.

The culture of flowers is delightfully interesting and has a refining and elevating influence on those who engage in it. Parents do well to encourage their children in a love for this occupation. And in no way can this be done more effectually than by studying the beautiful Floral Guide published by James Vick's Sons of Rochester, N. Y., which is sent free to everyone asking for it and making mention of the plants which interest them most. The Guide is a handsome volume of 130 pages, printed and bound in magnificent style, with over three hundred rich half tone engravings of various species of plants. It contains concise information concerning the habits of various plants and complete directions for the successful planting and raising of flowers and vegetables of all kinds. If you cultivate your garden for pleasure, this book will add to your enjoyment; if your garden is your livelihood, you will find useful hints for increasing its profit earning capacity.

CAMPBELL NAMED.

Citizens' Convention Places Him in Nomination for Mayor.

THE MAYOR SAYS THANK YOU

And Accepts the Unanimous Call Amid Continued Applause.

The city hall was filled Friday evening with citizens and taxpayers, who came to hear the deliberations of the citizens' delegates, who had met in convention to nominate candidates for city offices.

Attorney A. R. Holston called the convention to order shortly after 8 o'clock, and after he had stated the purpose of the gathering J. O. Sargent was nominated for temporary chairman, and was chosen unanimously. To perfect the temporary organization, Freedolph Westerberg was named as secretary, and the convention proceeded to business.

A. R. Holston moved the appointment of three committees, permanent organization, resolutions and credentials, and the temporary chairman named the following:

For Committee on Permanent Organization—J. Bergquist, Nels Anderson, W. G. Engstrum, W. C. Hall and T. C. Hutchins.

Resolutions—W. A. Wilson, A. R. Holston, C. D. Billings, James J. Phillips, W. Lawrence.

Credentials—O. R. Miller, Erick Hagen, Louis Bergquist, James P. Leo, J. E. Carpenter.

A recess of twenty minutes was then taken to allow the committees to prepare their reports, and when the convention again convened the committee on credentials reported the list of delegates entitled to seats in convention. The committee on permanent organization favored the temporary organization, and it was so voted by the convention.

The committee on resolutions stated that a set of them had been prepared, but that some changes were thought advisable, and asked the privilege to present them later on, and have them published in the city papers.

Attorney Holston then took the floor and in a ringing speech nominated Nat Campbell for mayor. He eulogized the present executive of the city of Crookston for his public spirited motives, and referred to several of the mayor's acts in the past, which were of general benefit to the city. Among them were the Bryan meeting last fall, and the drainage convention in January, both of which gatherings here were largely due to the efforts of the man he had named to again guide the destinies of the Queen city of the Red River valley.

Upon motion the nomination of Mr. Campbell was unanimously adopted, and he will be the citizens' candidate for the office of mayor in the present campaign.

A committee of three escorted his honor to the rostrum of the convention hall, and in accepting the nomination he stated that he would favor public ownership of city institutions, paving of the streets of the city, public parks and library, and promised to support movements in that direction. At the conclusion of his speech of acceptance Mayor Campbell was roundly applauded. The nomination of an alderman at large was next in order, and the chairman of the convention, J. O. Sargent, was unanimously declared the nominee for the place, after J. F. Creamer declined to accept the honor.

For treasurer A. P. Hanson received the undivided support of the delegation, and was declared the nominee.

C. D. Billings then nominated W. A. Lanctot for city clerk, and his motion was duly seconded and also unanimously carried.

Far assessors I. U. Jennings and M. C. Malone were placed in nomination, and the first ballot gave the latter gentleman 14 votes to 11 for Jennings. Malone was declared the regular candidate.

The nomination for two constables resulted favorably for Jake Andrist and Chris Greenhalgh, they having received a majority of the votes over Freedolph Westerberg, J. G. Phillips and W. A. Wilson.

Justices Holt and McLean were honored by the convention by being again placed in nomination for the places they both have so faithfully filled in the past.

The [illegible]tian then endorsed the nominees for aldermen in the different wards, as reported by the caucuses the previous night, and after naming the ward committees for the next year, the convention adjourned sine die.

TAX SALES ILLEGAL.

LaCrosse, Wis., March 25.—A discovery of the utmost importance to the citizens of LaCrosse has been made by Frank Winter, a local attorney. He found that since 1893 the words "County of LaCrosse" have been left out in the notices of unredeemed tax sales, which makes every tax certificate issued since that time invalid. There is an amount of something like $40,000 involved.

THEY RUN AWAY.

RUNAWAY BOYS FROM GRAND FORKS CAPTURED HERE.

Late Saturday night Officer John Kyle arrested four young boys, who were without money, and made the best of their stay in this city by walking the streets to keep from freezing. The boys were taken to the police station where they gave their names and respective ages as follows: Edward Mullally, 15; Frank Lavallee, 14; Chester Rontly, 14; Jos. Lavallee, 13. They told the police that they came from East Grand Forks, and that Chief of Police Hurst, who was over here, had seen them early in the evening and requested them to return with him on the freight train. The boys promised the East Grand Forks chief that they would comply with his request, but when the freight train started off the youthful quartette of runaways gave him the slip and returned to the city, where they were afterward gathered in by the local police.

Chief Eck notified the parents of the boys, and asked what should be done with the boys. He was told to hold them until the afternoon Duluth train would reach here and then return them to their respective homes. This the officer did, and Sheriff Sullivan escorted the youths back home.

The boys are of good families and their escapade is considered a youthful prank.

ANOTHER SMALLPOX CASE.

Friday's freight train from Bemidji had a passenger on board who gave his name as Joseph Palmer, and who reported to the police here on his arrival that he felt very sick. A physician was called and after a thorough examination of the stranger it was found that he had a well developed case of smallpox. He was ordered to be taken to the pest house and no time was lost in getting him there.

Palmer had been employed as lumberman in the Gray camp near Bemidji, and was one of the parties who until a few days ago was placed under quarantine by the state health officer of that town.

The quarantine was raised from the camp, as there were no further apparent signs of the disease, and the men departed for their respective homes, as the camp broke up in the woods. Palmer, whose home, he says, is in Wisconsin, boarded the freight train at Bemidji feeling well, and he had no idea that he was affected with the disease when the first symptoms of sickness overtook him.

The authorities here have taken every precaution to keep the pest from spreading, and as the pest house is located at an isolated spot outside the city, no fears are entertained of any further cases.

FARMERS INSTITUTE.

Pres, Thief River Falls: An interesting farmers' institute was held in this city the first of the week. On Monday afternoon the first session at the city hall was addressed by Prof. T. A. Hoverstad and A. B. Glover, of the state agricultural service, and by R. A. Wilkinson and F. S. Hazleton, of Crookston. Dr. Cummerford and H. E. Mussey also spoke briefly. The subject was cattle and dairying. The evening session was held at the M. E. church, where a pleasing program was rendered by the school children. Tuesday morning the subject of dairying was resumed and Mr. Hazleton gave an interesting talk on horticulture. The institute was also addressed by Ira C. Richardson on the care and stacking of grain. About a hundred farmers were in attendance and great satisfaction s expressed at the interest displayed. The agricultural annual will be distributed from the store of Swenson & Aos to those holding cards.

HOW IT WORKS.

The effort of any newspaper to build up a town is practically nullified unless it is backed up by the business men of the town. A stranger turns from the news columns of a paper to its advertising columns, and if he fails to find there the business cards of the merchants and professional firms, he comes to the conclusion that the editor is not appreciated, in which case it is a good place to keep away from. No town ever grew without the active assistance of its papers. Nor can papers grow and build up their localities without the assistance of the town. Business men should realize this and remember that in lending support to their local paper they are not only building up their own business, but are helping to support that which is steadily working for the growth of the town.—Press and Printer.

—The Vosler-Steller case, which was on trial in the Crookston justice courts a week ago and dismissed by Judge Holt after listening to testimony for three days, is to be reviewed and tried again. This time the attorneys for the woman, who prefers the charges against Vosler on the grounds of bastardy, will try the case before Justice Webster, of Fisher, and the papers were served on defendant Monday by the constable of that town.

A CASE OF SUICIDE

An Aged Lady Crazed With Headache, Plunges Into Well

TEMPORARY DERANGEMENT.

Decided as the Cause of the Dead Woman's Awful Deed.

The Warren Register gives the following account of what is supposed to have been a suicide:

As a result of a nervous headache which produced temporary insanity, Mrs. Anna Jane Dawe lies dead at the home of her son who resides three miles southeast of Stephen. Death resulted by drowning.

It appears that early Tuesday morning the deceased, who was in her 68th year, complained to her daughter of a severe headache and remarked that she could not bear up under it any longer. About 2 o'clock in the afternoon the younger Mr. Dawe went to Stephen accompanied by his wife, leaving his mother and father, Mr. John Dawe, at home.

The old gentleman after taking his usual afternoon nap woke up to find his wife missing. He went to the outside door to look for her and saw her cape lying alongside the well, but never dreampt that his wife was at the bottom of it. He next went over to his neighbor, Matt Hanson, and not finding his wife there related the circumstance of the loak. Mr. Hanson came back at once with him and they found his wife in the well head downward in five feet of water, the body not finding room at the bottom of the well on account of the ice formation, which left the lower limbs projecting upwards, and by which she was pulled out with a rope. The well is about 12 feet deep, but ice formed clear up to the top and afforded her a slippery slide into eternity.

Dr. Wattam, who represented the coroner, went up there and after examining several witnesses concluded that an autopsy was unnecessary, her death having resulted from suicide by drowning while temporarily insane.

Deceased has a number of grown up children and was here on a temporary visit to her son.

MAY MOVE.

THE GRAND FORKS HERALD TO CHANGE LOCATION.

The Minneapolis Journal makes a statement as follows:

"North Dakotans in the city bring a report that a movement has been started by several Fargo business men to induce Geo. B. Winship, editor of the Grand Forks Herald, to move his entire newspaper plant from Grand Forks to that city. The rivalry between Fargo and Grand Forks has always been keen, and if the former town succeeds in this attempt, it will have scored a victory that will be the talk of the Dakotans for some time to come.

"The Herald has been the conspicuous success of North Dakota newspaperdom. Mr. Winship has been a resident of Dakota since the latter sixties. It has been the ambition of his life to develop his paper into one of the foremost journals of the northwest. One of the inducements held out to him is that he can cover the Grand Forks territory from Fargo, and at the same time add enough more to it at least to double the circulation of his paper. Trains out of Fargo will enable a morning paper to cover every section of the state, while that cannot be done from Grand Forks. It is also reported that in case the Herald and Winship move to Fargo the big job printing and book binding plant of Walker Bros., and two other smaller institutions, may be consolidated with the Herald, making one of the largest institutions of the kind in the three states. The fact that Mr. Winship's real estate interests at Grand Forks are now in shape to leave him foot loose has encouraged the Fargo boomers to make this effort to relieve their rival city of one of the principal institutions."

ANENT THE HERALD MOVING.

After quoting the Minneapolis Journal report of its contemplated removal to Fargo, the Grand Forks Herald says in regard to it: "The Herald is glad to learn that it is so highly appreciated by its neighbors. Its ambition has been to be the best newspaper possible under the circumstances in which it was placed, and it has been the recipient of frequent words of commendation. But the Herald had not been aware that it had arrived at a position of such commanding importance that its location here or there would be regarded as a decisive victory by either of the two great rival cities of the state. We bow our most respectful acknowledgments, and beg that our blushes be spared, and assure our many readers that when any such arrangement as that suggested is consummated they will be duly notified of the fact. Until further notice the Herald will be issued from its present office in Grand Forks, where cash will be accepted for old or new accounts. Now is the time to subscribe.

ANOTHER ONE.

FERTILE FARMERS WANT ANOTHER CREAMERY.

A meeting of farmers residing in the vicinity of Fertile was held at the village hall Tuesday afternoon for the purpose of discussing the advisability of organizing a farmers' co-operative creamery association, says the Fertile Journal, for the purpose of building and operating a creamery at or near Fertile.

The first question that came before the meeting was in regard to the number of cows that could be depended upon to furnish cream to the proposed new creamery. The committee which had been appointed at a previous meeting to look into this matter reported that they had had promises of support from the owners of about 200 cows.

Not all of the farmers present at the meeting expressed an opinion, but some of those who did were in favor of going a with the project at once, while others thought it would not be to t interests of the community to build another creamery here just o this time, as it was getting rather lot in the season.

MORE GRANGES.

RED LAKE COUNTY WILL ORGANIZE A NUMBER.

The Red Lake Falls Courier of Thursday says that Commissioner Remi Fortier of Polk county drove over from Gentilly with Mrs. S. G. Baird of Northfield, state master of the Farmers' Grange, who had been previously advertised for a lecture at the city hall. Some twenty representative farmers were present and expressed considerable enthusiasm in the work of the order, whose only purpose is the bettering of the condition of the agriculturist. No local organization was perfected, but the management of affairs were left with Paul Rieck, and another meeting will be held some time in the near future, when Mrs. Baird will return and institute the lodge.

The grange, while a new thing in the northwest, is one of the oldest orders in existence and much good has been derived from it in past years by farmers, both south and east. The state master has spent several weeks in northern Minnesota and her work has borne fruit in numerous places including Crookston and many other Polk county towns.

ANOTHER POACHER.

IS ARRESTED BY GAME WARDEN FULLERTON.

Executive Agent Fullerton, of the game and fish commission, arrested Dell Linden of Blackduck for violating the game laws. Linden has probably operated on a more extensive scale than any other man in the state, says the Times.

Linden had a well established tannery in the woods at Grove Lake, about 30 miles from Grand Rapids, and has been engaged in the slaughter of deer and moose for at least two years. When arrested he had in his possession at the tannery 137 deer skins, 14 moose hides and 19 sacks of hair which he has collected from other skins that he had tanned. All of these were confiscated.

He is accused of employing half a dozen assistants and Mr. Fullerton believes he has been destroying more than two hundred animals a year. He sold the carcasses at near by lumber camps, and he was then manufacturing moccasins and mittens.

He was taken before a justice of the peace and tried on the charge of having a deer skin in his possession. He was given the maximum fine of $100 and costs. A logging contractor named Milau, who, it is supposed, has been purchasing his meat from Linden, was arrested and tried in Grand Rapids and fined $65.

E. G. FORKS RODENTS.

The public generally have become so accustomed to reading and hearing about the trials which East Grand Forks is subject to, that it will occasion no surprise that another one has developed. This time however it is outside the realm of morals. An army of rats has become established there and is causing great disquiet among the citizens of that burg. The most strenuous efforts have been made to rid the town of rodents, but with so little effect that there is now serious consideration of special municipal legislation for the extermination of the pests.

BAD SNOW STORM.

Duluth, Minn., March 25, 3:30 p. m—(Special.)— The snow and sleet storm of yesterday and last night has not disturbed railroad traffic, but the street railway system and telephone connections have been greatly disturbed. On one avenue down which most of the trunk lines of the telephone company ran, more than fifteen poles went down carrying a mass of wires, blocking street traffic and causing many narrow escapes. The snow is very heavy and is still falling lightly.

WEALTHY LADY DIES.

Chicago, March 22.—Mrs. Lottie Orr of Sioux City, known as the wealthiest woman in Iowa, died at the Chicago hospital in Chicago of anaemia. Most of her large fortune, estimatd at several millions, will go to her son, Wm. Orr of Omaha. Mrs. Orr came to Chicago several weeks ago for treatment.

SHELLY THRIVES.

Points of Interest Concerning This Prosperous Red River Valley Village.

A GREAT SHIPPING POINT.

Wheat Receipts Exceeded by few Towns.—Live Stock an Important Item.

There is much to interest the visitor in Shelly and from the time he sets foot in the village till he takes his departure, he is struck by the enterprise and progressiveness of its citizens.

Beginning with practically nothing five years ago, with the advent of the eat Northern, it has become one of the best little towns in the valley. Few places can boast of as many neat and attractive residences, good churches and excellent schools. There are four large elevators and in an average year the grain shipments from these approximate 350,000 bushels, and the production is only limited by the capacity of the farmers to cultivate the soil. Stock raising is an important industry and the shipments are yearly growing larger.

There are several large general stores hardware stores, a bank, drug store, harness shops, hotel, etc., everything to supply the needs of the inhabitants, the visitor and the surrounding country.

Among the industries worthy of mention are the following:

Shelly Signal: The Signal has not yet completed its first year, but is hale and hearty and Editor Johnson is putting up a good country paper and always has his "weather eye" out to see that his town keeps well to the front and misses none of the good things that ought to come their way.

The Bank of Shelly was organized about three years ago, but is already on a solid financial basis and under the able management of Cashier Anderson is enjoying an enviable reputation.

A. O. Anderson conducts what is known as the "Double Store." Mr. Anderson is one of the pioneers of Shelly, establishing his business there before the coming of the railroad. His trade has thrived and he has been twice compelled to double the size of his building, and if the thing keeps up, another addition will be in order. Everything in the general merchandise line is carried, including dry goods, clothing, etc. Mr. Anderson is a deservedly popular young man.

Oberson & Co. own the Shelly meat market and keep the people thereabouts well supplied with everything in their line. They draw on the adjacent farmers for their stock and many a dollar has found its way into the farmers' pockets for a fat heifer or steer. They also buy hides. Their market is a model of neatness and fair treatment has won for Oberson & Co. an excellent trade.

P. J. Eie & Co. also conduct a large general store, carrying an immense stock for a town the size of Shelly. This store also doubled its floor space about two years since. The postoffice is located in this building.

O. Bekkedahl started a general merchandise store two years ago and has been very successful, having had to increase his capacity shortly after engaging in business.

The Shelly drug store is in charge of C. A. Hawkins, as nice a boy as ever graced a drug counter, always accommodating. He stands high with the Shellyites.

D. W. P. Cleveland looks after the pains and aches of his fellow citizens. The doctor is one of the very oldest settlers, having practiced his profession at Caledonia and Shelly for the past twenty years. Just now the doctor has a hobby—the raising of Belgian hares.

Aarestad Bros. are the proprietors of the only furniture store and were among the first to locate in Shelly. They carry a complete line of furniture, picture mouldings, etc., and also handle burial supplies. Messrs. Aarestad are both genial gentlemen and well liked.

The Shelly hotel, which has been vacant for upwards of a year, will be open for business about April 15th. It will be under the management of A. Alrick, who formerly conducted a restaurant at McIntosh. Mr. Alrick is having the place thoroughly overhauled and refitted and will give the people of Shelly and the traveling public a good hotel.

The Shelly livery stable is owned by T. S. Anderson and always has good rigs at the disposal of the public.

There are two lumber yards—the Valley Lumber company and the Shelly Elevator, Stock and Lumber company. Both carry large stocks.

Johnson Bros. deal in confectionery, tobacco, etc.

A. O. Jahr and L. M. Odegard also deal in cigars, tobacco, etc.

The one jewelry store is in charge of A. Varnson.

O. S. Arneson and Malm & Maring conduct harness shops.

Soren Stola does a general draying business.

Brekke & Borg have a blacksmith shop.

Shelly has the usual number of secret and beneficiary orders, and altogether it is a splendid town to live in and become a part of.

BEMIDJI ITEMS.

FURTHER DETAILS CONCERNING THE POACHERS.

Game Warden Fullerton, who was here at the trial of the Cook brothers and Wilcox, which resulted in a fine of $25 and costs, seemed satisfied with the decision of the court. W. F. Street appeared for the state. Mr. Fullerton says that he has been aware of the fact that the game laws have been defied for years throughout the northern part of the state, but until recently it has been almost an impossibility to bring the culprits to justice from the fact that it was a very hard matter to get through the country on account of the lack of traveling facilities, but since the country is becoming settled there is a much better chance to get about. Besides, the actual residents have been extremely ambitious to obtain "fresh meat," and they are entitled to it if anyone is, but they, or at least a portion of them, have gone so far as to kill game for profit. Such depredators will be brought up standing, but if a lonely settler should happen to snare an occasional deer for the use of his family, the crime will probably overlooked. However, according to Mr. Fullerton, the indiscriminate slaughter of game will be discontinued if it be in his power to prevent it. He is quite right, and he will have the aid of every true sportsman in this entire region.

Workmen began Friday morning upon the foundation of a double front building, to be two stories, and eighty feet deep. It is located opposite the Hotel Markham and is to be ready for occupancy within sixty days. Besides, several other buildings of less pretentions are under course of construction.

The lumberjacks are commencing to accumulate, and the booze joints are soon to reap a rich harvest. The most enticing games are spread out for their inspection, and for others for that matter, and their hard earned wages of the past winter will find their way into the coffers of the sporting fraternity.

A citizens' protective committee, whatever the words may signify, was recently organized, which is to have, ostensibly, for its motto: "The protection of the city's moneys and credits." Already an injunction has been served on the treasurer of the city forbidding him to cash certain city orders that were issued by the city authorities just superceded. It is claimed that extravagant prices had been paid for divers city improvements, which very probably has been the case, and if there is any way to prevent the taxpayers from being systematically robbed, the scheme will be adopted.

Our people are very anxious to hear from the legislature in regard to the three relief bills that vitally effect Beltrami county. If the pine barons would be good and pay their taxes, honestly due the county, the people could jog along and do business as it should be done, and we would soon be free from debt.

BEMIDJI ITEMS.

Bemidji, March 22.—Business men formed a protective association for the purpose of correcting administrative abuses and to guard the interest of taxpayers. A large fund has been collected to prosecute all cases of boodleism. James McNair is president, John Graham, secretary, and Charles Nangle, treasurer. E. F. Crawford has been retained as attorney. The first act of the association was to serve an injunction against the village treasurer paying some $25,000 worth of orders authorized by the last council.

The new village council has appointed the following officers for the coming year: Chief of police, Phil. Blanchard; patrolmen, F. W. Sprague, S. C. Bailey and Arthur Brase; attorney, P. J. Russell; board of health, Dr. Adamsa., A. Mandeau and S. W. Miller; janitor, William Carlisle; scavenger, H. L. Heffran; superintendent of waterworks, John Ludington.

FROM BEMIDJI.

ITEMS OF INTEREST CONCERNING A BUSY TOWN.

The report in the Journal of the 21st inst., carried down by irresponsible parties regarding the burning of Street & Crawford's office here, was only in part true. Mr. Street's old office, which adjoins the one recently erected, is an old time affair. There was a fire in the upper story of the new building, which had been lighted for the purpose of drying the plastered walls, and as the man in charge of the work was careless in looking after it, a spark must have gotten underneath the stove and caught and burned a hole through the floor. Considerable damage was sustained, but no such an amount as $1,000. The building was not occupied at the time.

Saturday afternoon our salubrious weather "took another cold" when snow and sleet began to fall, which continued nearly all of Saturday night. The ground is blanketed to the depth of six inches with sleet and snow, which makes walking a rather uppery proposition.

Many of our sailors, captains, commodores, admirals, etc., are busy at the present time "fixing up" the different types of water craft that are to soon go into commission. That Bemidji can boast of a most beautiful lake no one will doubt who has ever visited this place, and our people expect to entertain thousands upon thousands of tourists this season in a manner that will leave little to be desired.

S. O. Bagley (you'all know the Grand Duke of the Clearwater), says that he is quite well satisfied with his logging operations so far, and that he expects to keep right along at the business during the greater portion of the summer, and possibly as long as his lamp continues to flicker, and all his friends hope for his continued success.

Our city has been afflicted during a portion of the winter with a concern under the cognomen of the "Empire Theatre." It has been the home of questionable vaudeville performances, fistic encounters, wrestling matches, etc. The new city council recently passed an ordinance taxing such concerns the knock-out license fee of $150 per month, and if that sum does not cause the doors to be closed forever, the ordinance will undoubtedly be amended and codified until the proprietors of the questionable joint will be glad to hie them hence to fields where they may be more welcome.

During the early part of the winter T. B. Walker gave it out that he would erect a mammoth saw mill on the south shore of Lake Bemidji, about one mile from the business portion of the city, and did, in fact, cause a considerable amount of material to be placed on the proposed location. Later he was politely invited to step up to the county treasurer's office and liquidate his accumulated tax bill, which he absolutely refused to do. Afterward he asked the county commissioners to cut the bill in twain, which they refused to do—right back. They concluded that if Mr. Walker owed a tax bill it was their duty to see that he paid it. Results, so far: Nary saw mill and Mr. Walker is trying to convince the legislature that he is not compelled to pay taxes on his pine lands in the state.

But time at last sets all things even,
And if we do but watch the hour,
There never yet was human power
Which could evade, if unforgiven,
The active watch and vigil long
Of him who treasures up a wrong.
—Byron's Mazeppa.

LARGEST SHIP YET.

Newport News, Va., March 26.—The Korea, which was launched last Saturday at the Newport News Shipbuilding company's works, bears the distinction of being up to date the largest steam vessel ever built on this side of the Atlantic. With a length of 572 feet 4 inches and a beam of 63 feet, she will displace 18,600 tons on a draft of 17 feet. Some idea of the size of the Korea may be derived from the fact that from the top to the bottom of the bare hull is a distance of 40 feet, while the distance around her rail is nearly a quarter of a mile. She is to be fitted with engines of 18,000 horse power, sufficient to propel her at a speed of from 18 to 20 knots. The Korea will accommodate 1,400 passengers, of whom 200 will be first cabin passengers. She is designed for the Pacific Mail Steamship company to ply between San Francisco and Hong Kong.

Entered at the postoffice at Crookston, Minnesota, as second-class matter.

An unprejudiced but careful observer is very likely to obtain an impression that the "Citizens" blanket which was supposed to cover that bed which was made up by the convention last Friday was utilized in a attempt to conceal some demo-pop occupants who were not very sound asleep.

It is given out by the U. S. treasurer department that since January 1 the surplus has grown from about $18.000,000 to more than $36,000,000. an increase of about $233,000 for every business day. Only one item of extraordinary expenditure is expected between this time and the end of the fisca year, June 30, and that item is only $2,500,000. This favorable conditions have led to some consideration of the policy of buying bonds to cover into the sinking fund, and it is not impossible that such a purchase will be made by the government in the near future.

It is stated that a bill will be introduced to give Mrs. Harrison a pension of $5,000 a year, because Mrs. Grant and Mrs. Garfield have been so pensioned. The St. Paul Dispatch in commenting on the proposition very justly says: "Whatever reasons existed for the pensioning of these two widows does not exist in the case of Mrs. Harrison. Her husband did not die in the service of the country, as did Mrs. Garfield's, nor has he rendered the country the great service that the husband o fMrs. Grant did. Mr. Harrison was a private citizen when he married Mrs. Dimmick. And besides, he made ample provision for her. It is time to begin drawing lines in this pensioning of widows, and this seems to be as fit a place as any."

The late General Harrisons wealth is variously estimated, some people putting it as high as half a million. Those who are best informed, however, say that he was worth about $250,000 or $300,000.' His fortune consisted largely of real estate, located largely in Indianapolis, Ind., and of $100,000 in personal property. In addition to this he owned a fine summer home in the Adirondacks. The personal properte included about $30,000 stock in various properties, most of em organized in other stocks. He was the owner of about the same amou o bonds. Gen. Harrison last year paid taxes on $174,840, of which $88,194 was on real estate.

Editor George, of the Olivia Press, hands out the following:

"If a man wants to fill his cup of anguish until it runneth over and slops down on one side, just let him try to please everybody for awhile. If he goes into politics he is called a thief, and if he steps out he is called unpatriotic. If he lays up his money against a rainy day he is called miser, and if he casts his dough upon the waters people say he expects it to come back in the shape of a whole bakery. If he stands up for his rights he is shot at, and if he don't stand up for them he is trodden on like the husband of a female suffragist. The only way a man pleases everybody is when he turns his face to the wall and expires; then the people hang around him and say things about him that would make him scream with joy if his poor deaf ears could only hear."

The New Prague Times says:

"Many people complain that the newspapers do not pull for the town as they should. How many people do any pulling for the newspapers? There are a few who actually pull for the newspaper, but a great many work against it. It is a nice thing to have a newspaper to fight your battles when you get into trouble, and when you have done something you know was wrong it is real kind in you to come to the editor and ask him to say nothing about it. It is entirely a one sided affair in most instances. There are men in New Prague—business men too, who have never spent five cents with us, but whenever they want a favor they hop around and with their unadulterated gall, ask for it."

These remarks are equally applicable and equally true here in Crookston, and are heartily commended to all to whom they apply, as a subject for meditation.

Minneapolis Times: A sleeping machine which allows you to take forty winks while you wait is an original British invention. When closed up it looks very much like a slightly enlarged weighing machine. Drop a penny in the slot and a nice, comfortable leather couch wrapped up in its own sleeping bag drops before you. The benefit of this at railway stations is manifest; those long waits between trains can be passed quickly and the sight of a station filled with incumbent figures will have as quieting an effect upon the "hot pulse of travel" as a "Don't Worry Club." Next to seeing any one yawn there is nothing so contagious for slumber as seeing any one else asleep. The chief danger will be that tired wanderers will oversleep and not get out of the way for the next relay. Please remember that this is a British invention yet, and takes a British penny to get effect. It goes by precedent and two cents. Any common American penny will not give you a chance to trifle with it.

The board of supervisors of Webster county, Ia., recently entered into an agreement with some experts (they call them ferrets down there) by which the latter were to receive 15 per cent of all the money they secured from tax dodgers. Since this arrangement was made one man called at the treasurer's office and settled his back tax by paying $10,000 into the county treasury. Another one is known to have paid in $7,500, and various other parties have responded to the notices sent ..em, until the fund accumulated from that source is said to aggregate over $75,000. The contract seems to have been a profitable one for the tax ferrets and for the county too.

The East Grand Forks papers have become wonderfully harmonious of late, or at least two of them have. In looking over the last week's issue of the remains of the late Crookston Tribune, now known as "The Tribune" and of the Valley View, both of which are ostensibly published in the city named, we notice that six out of the eight pages issued by each of those papers are precisely alike with the exception of the heading and the date. And the other two pages are mainly alike, but vary in a few minor items. For instance, the following editorial taken from the Valley View does not appear in the Tribune, though from what we know of the latter's experience there would seem to be a great deal of harmony between the two at this point also: "We have been burried once and vanished once, but we are still here and can realize how funny it seems to a man to read his obituary in one of the "yellow" journals who never take the trouble to look up a news item, but who report the affair as best suits their own interests."

We think no argument is needed to establish the fact that the republican ticket which was placed in nomination by the convention Saturday night is the one which is entitled to the support of all voters who have the best interests of the city at heart. So far as the head of the ticket is concerned, it is entirely superfluous to draw any comparisons. Capt. M. R. Brown is an old time resident of our city, has moneyed interests here which identify his own prosperity with the prosperity of the city, is a man of sound business judgment, has already served the city in the capacity of mayor sufficiently to establish a record in that line, and has demonstrated beyond question that he is in possession of an excellent spinal column. As to the merits of the respective candidates for treasurer, we are very willing to concede that both candidates are above criticism in every respect, and we have no disposition to make any disparaging comparison between them. It is very gratifying to have the assurance that which ever one of them is successful at the polls, the city's funds will be in perfectly safe hands.

The legislature, of this state is being urgently appealed to for a large appropriation for a normal school building at Duluth. The normal school system is of inestimable importance to the educational interests of our state, and undoubtedly should be fostered and developed to its utmost possibilities. But it is our conviction that the development should be in the direction of elevating the standard rather than in increasing the number of these useful institutions. The purpose of the normal school is to fit those who purpose becoming educators for their chosen vocation. It is intended exclusively to be a training school for teachers who have availed themselves of all the high school can do for them before they apply for admission to it. And its course of instruction is intended to supplement the high school work. An indispensable prerequisite for admission into a normal school should be a graduation certificate from a state high school. And it would seem as though, if this were made imperative, we already have a sufficient number of normal schools in the state, and that the appropriation asked for could more properly be directed toward strengthening and raising the standard of the high school.

LESS MILES.

NEW LINE BEING SURVEYED FROM DULUTH.

Grand Forks, N. D., March 27.—Joe Wall, formerly of the Northern Pacific engineering force operating from this city, is now working for the road in northern Minnesota. He writes that he is now helping to survey a route from Winnipeg to Bemidji. The Northern Pacific bought the Brainerd & Northern last year, and it has been the general impression that the road would be extended north for some distance. A party left Bemidji several weeks ago and is now 98 miles north of that place. The camp outfit and supplies have been hauled by teams, but in the swampy country which has now been reached the horses must be abandoned and the outfit must be packed and taken in skiffs. The proposed extension will shorten the distance between Duluth and Winnipeg some 200 miles. It is generally believed that the Northern Pacific will not build clear through to Winnipeg, but will connect with the McKenzie-Mann road at some point near the boundary. The country through which the survey is being made is heavily timbered and well watered. There are few settlers there at present, and a new line would do an immense business in carrying settlers and their effects in and ties and timber out.

PROTESTS COMING.

Internal Revenue Collectors Objecting to General Staff Reduction.

MADE TO LESSEN EXPENSES.

Clergical Force Reduced in Order to Prepare for Lower Receipts.

Washington, March 27.—Sweeping reductions are to be made immediately in the internal revenue department of the country. In anticipation of the war revenue reduction act, which takes effect July 1, Commissioner Yerkes has ordered every collector of internal revenue in the country to make a reduction in his force of division deputies and in several instances there will be dismissals in office employes.

Minnesota will fare reasonably well. Collector Von Baumbach has received instructions from Washington to reduce his division deputies from ten to seven and his office force from ten to nine. Stamp agents will continue at Minneapolis and Duluth. These reductions are to take effect next Monday, April 1.

Through the Minnesota senators Collector Von Baumbach has protested against this reduction, and insists that it will impair the service if the force is thus to be cut down. The protests, however, will prove unavailing. When seen this morning Commisioner Yerkes was in consultation with several members of internal revenue from nearby states, and also the deputy collector from his home state, Kentucky.

Senator Nelson has already received several telegrams from Collector Von Baumbach and Senator Clapp has also wired asking for a modification of the Minnesota reduction. It was stated by Commissioner Yerkes that the deputy collectors who will be retained must be selected by the collectors of the various districts, and this will leave the entire matter of coming reductions in Collector Von Baumbach's hands.

The news of the reduction was only given out late Saturday, and there is already a great rush being made by the various deputies, each one of whom, of course desires to be retained.

LEGISLATIVE ITEMS.

Friday, April 12, will be the last day of the present session of the legislature. It was so decided by the conference committee on the subject late Saturday, and reported and agreed to by the two houses. Final adjournment takes place at noon, and the constitution forbids the passage of any bill on the last day. Therefore, Thursday, April 11, will be the last day of actual legislation.

Introduction of bills is forbidden by the constitution during the last twenty days of a ninety day session, and it will be proportionately shortened for a shorter session. After April 1, no bills may be brought in, except accompanied with a special message from the governor.

There are bills enough now in the hands of committees and on the general orders to furnish all needed entertainment and profit for the rest of the session. The house has passed the 600 mark in new measures, while the senate has about three fourths as many.

THEY DID KICK.

ANGUS FARMERS WANT ANOTHER DEPOT AGENT.

A delegation of prominent farmers from Angus, Polk county, were in the city Tuesday, says the Grand Forks Herald, to confer with Superintendent Simms of the Minneapolis & Northern Elevator company regarding the agent of that company at Angus, Joe Cowden. It seems that the farmers are very desirous that he should be transferred to some other place, as they figure that they have not been getting a square deal in the past. Supt. Simms will take the matter up and it is probable than Mr. Cowden will be removed, as the farmers who are protesting are the most prominent and substantial of Angus. Among those who were here were S. Clover and C. McLennan of the machinery firm of Clover & McLennan, D. M. and Harry Miller, John and Wm. McLennan, Andrew Anderson, F. R. Stevens, A. T. Campion and Lionel Snelling.

VAN'S STAFF.

GOVERNOR MAKES A FEW NEW APPOINTMENTS.

Gov. Van Sant on Tuesday made the following staff appointments:

Col. Roland Hartley, Cass Lake, inspector general.

Brigadier general, Henry J. Gjertsen.

Col Christian Brandt, St. Paul.

These are reappointments.

Col. J. C. Montfort, of St. Paul, will be commissary general, with rank of brigadier general.

J. O. Donovan, of Tracey, is appointed an aide de camp, with title of colonel.

STATE NEWS ITEMS.

The June encampment of the G. A. R. will be held at Wadena.

The house Friday passed the cigaret bill, which prohibits the sale of cigar- has had many supporters but the opposition was so strong that many it would not be passed.

In the senate special order Friday afternoon Senator Thompson in the chair, the Hickey house bill to reduce the rate of interest on state land contracts from 5 to 4 per cent was passed after being amended in effect to make the former rate apply on all contracts paid up within ten years.

The ice field at the head of Lake Superior is said to be much smaller than usual at this season of the year, and extends out only three or four miles. This gives an assurance of an early opening of navigation, as even now the ice would offer little resistance to the large steel freight boats on the lake.

Senator Young explained the object of the bill to be to preserve to the state the investment which the state lands offered. This could only be done by lowering the rate of interest, otherwise the contracts would be paid up and the state would have a surplus in its school fund which it would have to reinvest probably at a much lower rate than the 4 per cent. These contracts had originally drawn 7 per cent, but the rate had been reduced from time to time for this same reason. He did not care who held the contracts, whether farmers or speculators, it was the state he was concerned with.

The primary elections bill passed the Wisconsin assembly Friday after one of the bitterest fights ever witnessed in the legislative halls of Wisconsin, by a vote of 51 to 48.

Sick men were gotten out of their beds and funerals postponed in the fight against the bill. Assemblyman Evans, although in no condition for business because of weakness from his recent illness, was so worked on by the opponents of the bill that he came out from Milwaukee in the morning to vote against the measure. Assemblyman Herman Miller postponed his son's funeral until the next day to come here at the call of the opponents of the bill to vote against the measure. The assembly chamber was overcrowded for the hearing and there were many women in the audience.

NOTES FROM EXCHANGES.

—Erskine Echo: They have got a smallpox scare at Fosston now, but they know how to handle any small thing like that.

—Tenstrike Tribune: Thos. Young and Geo. Arrier, of Crookston, were visitors in our city this week, looking over the country with a view to locating in business. The boys are both thoroughbreds and Tom is the champion base ball booster of the state and could steal a game from a league team with the assistance only of a cross-eyed pitcher and a yellow dog mascot.

—Pine Tree: Turtle River being the present terminus of the road, there will be a big boom here in the spring. Many people passing through have to stop for a breathing spell, and if they do the spell is upon them, for the many advantages our beautiful lake and scenery offer will be so forcibly brought to their attention that they will conclude to settle with us and not go rainbow chasing further on.

—Warren Sheaf: Wednesday evening while Ole Sundin, who is employed as drayman for the St. Hilaire Lumber Co., was leading one of his horses to water the animal got to feeling his oats and while making an extra fancy flourish with his front foot struck Mr. Sundin over the eye, inflicting a serious wound and knocking him senseless. He was taken to the Scandia hotel, where medical aid was summoned. After a time he regained his senses and had the wound dressed. He is able to be about, but will be compelled to nurse his eye for some time to come.

The editor of the Rural Northwest, of Portland, Ore., says: "The writer can well remember when it was the universal belief in Minnesota that the northern half of that state, excepting a narrow strip along the western boundary, would never sustain enough population to be worth figuring on. During the past ten years the population of what was then supposed to be barren wastes, from an agricultural standpoint, has grown more rapidly than any other agricultural district in the United States." Yes, and every year increased knowledge of Minnesota to confirms the belief that it is one of the greatest all 'round states in the Union.

—Grand Forks Herald: Farmers from Polk county living from 18 to 20 miles from the city who were in Tuesday say that the country in that direction is flooded and that it will take some time even if the frost was out of the ground before there could be any seeding done, as the land would not be in a fit condition to work. It will be remembered that last fall there was much heavier rains in that direction than there were here and the ground froze up full of water. None of the water resulting from the snow that has fallen this winter can soak into the ground, as it is full already, and there will be a small sized flood, in fact there is already, and should heavy rains set in a great many of the coulie bridges would go out. The conditions in this vicinity are very much better and all that is necessary to permit of the farmers getting on the fields is a few warm days to take the frost out of the ground for a sufficient depth.

MANY ARE KILLED.

A Terrific Tornado Sweeps Over Jones Valley in Alabama.

GREAT DAMAGE TO PROPERTY.

Georgia, Tennissee and Other tates Also Visited by Severe Storm.

Birmingham, Ala., March 26.—In a tornado, which yesterday swept over Jones valley, in which Birmingham is located, 25 lives are estimated to have been lost. Immense damage was done to property. Between 9 and 10 a. m. the storm raged with great violence. Seven were killed at Irondale, about fifteen in the city of Birmingham and the others in suburban towns.

The storm did its worst damage in the neighborhood of Avenues I and J, from Tenth to Thirteenth streets, wrecking scores of buildings. The entire fire, and police departments are taking the dead and injured from the debris and sending them to undertaking shops and hospitals.

At Pratt City, the roof of the brick high school was blown away and the first Methodist church was wrecked.

Dozens of Negro cabins were demolished. The commissary of the Tennessee Coal and Iron company was blown down. Great damage to growing crops and farm houses in the vicinity is reported. Brighton and North Birmingham, were considerably damaged.

At Irondale the extent of the damage is not yet known, but it is stated that five stores were demolished in the business district and several people were killed.

Chattanooga, March 25.—The hurrican which swept Alabama is said to have struck the Chattanooga, Rome & Southern railroad near Lynville, G., a small station south of Rome, and destroyed several miles of tracks. The Southern officials say that all wires on the Alabama Great Southern division are down.

Chicago, March 26.—Heavy rains have caused floods in the lowlands south and southeast of Chicago, and the suburban towns of Grand Crossing, Drexel, Woodruff, Dauphin Park and Burnside are inundated. Many people are imprisoned in their homes, and sidewalks, fences and out buildings have floated away.

At Burnside the streets are under a foot of water. A dyke at Eighty-seventh street and the Illinois Central railroad tracks has given away, and fully two feet of water poured over the surrounding country, basements within an area of four miles being flooded.

Mattoon, Ill., March 26.—A terrific hail and wind storm passed over this large hail stones fell, doing great damage to property and early crops. The wind knocked down many chimneys and carried away outhouses.

HOW IT WORKS.

The effort of any newspaper to build up a town is practically nullified unless it is backed up by the business men of the town. A stranger turns from the news columns of a paper to its advertising columns, and if he fails to find there the business cards of the merchants and professional firms, he comes to the conclusion that the editor is not appreciated, in which case it is a good place to keep away from. No town ever grew without the active assistance of its papers. Nor can papers grow and build up their localities without the assistance of the town. Business men should realize this and remember that in lending support to their local paper they are not only building up their own business, but are helping to support that which is steadily working for the growth of the town.—Press and Printer.

OUR TOILING FRIENDS.

The unsuspecting farmers,
Who didn't hear our call,
But paid enormous prices
For ranges plain and small,
Repented when we showed them
The error they had made.
In buying of a peddler
The forty dollar grade,
And paying over sixty, yes, seventy,
While careful buyers bought
Finer, larger, stronger ones
For what a "feller" ought.
Profit by this lesson, friends,
And keep "yer dorg" about,
Or the peddlers'll "git yer"
"If yer don't watch oud."

—A bill has been introduced in the legislature which is of interest to saloon men. It empowers boards of county commissioners to revoke the licenses of liquor dealers who sell to habitual drunkards, spendthrifts, improvident or incompetent persons when they have a wife, family or others dependent upon them for support.

—Dr. Crane, of Grand Forks, was called to Euclid Monday where Emil Dahl, who resides a few miles from the latter place, had met with a serious and painful accident. Dahl was shoeing a horse when a nail flew up and struck him in the eye. The sight will not be completely lost, though it will never be perfect again. The injury was a most painful one.

—Auctioneer Chas. Hitchcock returned from Russia Monday where he conducted the Smith & Walsh auction sale Monday. He says that about $4,000 was realized from the sale, and the articles disposed of consisted of horses, scrapers and farm stock. The partnership which heretofore existed between Smith & Walsh has been dissolved, and the latter will soon pack up the remainder of his goods and leave for the Klondike.

—Hon. A. B. Funk, a leading republican politician of Spirit Lake, Iowa, arrived in the city this morning to look after some of his extensive real estate interests in this section of Minnesota. Mr. Funk some years ago was speaker of the Iowa legislature, and is very closely identified with the movements of the republican party in his state. He owns everal thousand acres of agricultural lands in northern Minnesota, which he is rapidly disposing of to new home and land seekers.

Blackduck Times: W. F. Noble, a locator had an experience Monday he does not care to repeat. Coming along the right of way shortly after daybreak about a mile this side of Tenstrike, he saw an animal on a tree that he took to be a young bear, and proceeded to go after it with a club. The bear turned out to be a big lynx, which came off the tree and scrambled into the top of another one lying on the ground, and showed fight. In the scrimmage Noble received a badly scratched hand, when he let the lynx have the ground and got away as fast as possible.

—M. E. Kirsch and wife have returned from a week's visit with friends in the Twin Cities and at their old home at Wabasha.

—Attorney L. E. Gossman, of this city, left Tuesday evening for Duluth, to be absent several days attending the Forester convention.

—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Andrist of this city mourn the loss of their infant child, the death of which occurred last Monday. The little one was only six weeks old.

—M. Losey, who is now with the McCormick Machine company, returned Saturday from a week's trip through Norman county in the interests of his firm.

—Edward Miller, an old time hotel man of Wadena, is in the city with a view of locating here, and opening another hotel if he can make satisfactory arrangements.

—Miss Sue Lowe, who spent a few weeks' vacation with friends at Minneapolis, returned Tuesday and is again at her post of duty as bookkeeper in the "hello" office.

—Supt. of Schools Thos. Casey has removed his family from Fisher to this city, and is now comfortably located in the Tom Morris dwelling, just north of the court house.

—Sheriff Sullivan Saturday returned from Bemidji with a prisoner named George Sargent. Sargent was arrested two years ago charged with wheat stealing. He gave bail for his appearance when wanted, but afterward jumped his bail, and nothing was learned of him until a short time ago. He was arrested last evening in Gray's camp near Bemidji.

The entertainment given at College hall last evening by a number of the children of St. Ann's parish proved a splendid success both socially and financially. Those of the young folks who took part in the program ranged in age from four to fourteen years, and were ably drilled for their respective parts by the Misses Julia and Nellie Tieharge and Rose Obrie. To these ladies is due most of the credit for the success of the entertainment, which netted the parish the handsome sum of about $60. The attendance was very large, the hall being filled to overflowing. The program is to be repeated at the opera house, if satisfactory arrangements can be made.

—John Bergquist intends visiting Sweden and Norway during the coming summer, and expects to be absent for several months.

—Edgar Amundson, brother in law of Prof. Sathre, after visiting in this city since last fall, returned to his home in Denver, Col., Tuesday.

—The ladies of the Congregational church will hold their annual Easter sale of things useful and ornamental at the People's Furniture store next Tuesday, April 2.

—Chief of Police Eck rises to remark that anyone caught riding a bicycle on the sidewalks of the city will be arrested and dealt with according to the ordinance forbidding the practice.

—Robert. N. Mitton, of Wahpeton, N. D., one of the best known hotel men in the northwest, came up from his home on Monday and tried to dispose of a quarter section of land which he owns near this city. Twenty years ago Bob's father conducted the Commercial hotel in this city.

—According to the latest advices received from St. Paul, Representative Rapp, of St. Hilaire, who has been dangerously ill there at the Merchants hotel, is somewhat improved, but by no means out of danger. His physicians hope, however, to pull him through and are giving him every attention and care possible.

—Capt. Frank Zarracher is a grandpa. At least this was a piece of news he received Saturday from his son in law, J. F. Hettier, who is superintendent of schools of Traill county, N. D., with headquarters at Buxton. A telegram stated that a little daughter had arrived during tho night, and that everyone connected with the event was doing nicely.

—Deputy Game Warden E. J. Murphy, of Felton, who made the arrest of the Thief River Falls poachers, in company with Deputy Warden Glenn of this city returned from Bemidji Friday where the appeared as witnesses for the state in the prosecution of the men. Mr. Murphy left for home on the night train well satisfied with his official work and its outcome.

—It is currently reported that Conductors Murray and Withey of this city have about concluded to remove with their families to Fargo, because they are unable to secure suitable dwellings here. It is a well known fact that there is a great need of more residences here, and unless some person or concern will erect some during the coming summer, rents will take a skyward course

—The young ladies of St. Mary's church are preparing for a lady minstrel entertainment, which they expect to put on the boards soon after Easter. From those who have the management of the show in hand it is learned that something of an unusually interesting and entertaining nature may be expected. The Journal will give a more extended write-up of the play later on.

—Deputy United States Marshal [illegible] came up from St. Paul this morning for the purpose of summoning witnesses for the Bisazza trial, which will be called up in the federal court at Fergus Falls next Tuesday. The authorities are of the opinion that they have all the necessary evidence to convict the erstwhile Crookston merchant. The full penalty for his offense is two years in the penitentiary.

—Polk county's handsome and gorgeous new court house is lacking but one item, to make it the finest and best furnished in the state—that is window curtains in the various offices. As it is now the officers and clerks who are located on the sunny side of the building are compelled to cover their windows with old newspapers, maps or any other old thing that may be at hand in order to shade themselves.

—Fargo will have a fire festival this year and it is to be a grander and more gorgeous affair than ever. This much was decided at a citizens' meeting held at the city hall. The date for the celebration will probably be June 5, 6 and 7, and this is thought to be the most suitable time. It was thought advisable to hold it a day earlier this year, as the 7th comes on Friday and the next day would be more convenient for the crowds to get home than on Sunday.

—The board of county commissioners, who met Friday for the purpose of discussing the seed grain loan question, adjourned the same day without taking any action in the matter Various reasons are given by the commissioners for not granting any of the application presented, and unless more pressure is brought to bear upon the subject, Polk county farmers who are shy seed grain will have to seek it from other sources than through the county fathers.

—J. G. Fleming, one of Polk county's well know educators, will open a school next Monday four miles north of the city, between here and Fisher.

—A. E. Brush, the Angus farmer, has left at the Journal office a very fine sample of thoroughly cleaned seed wheat of the variety known as No. 163, of which he has a supply for sale. This wheat has gained a high reputation for its many good qualities and is well worth a trial by anyone who has not yet used it.

—A damage suit has been started at Grand Forks as the result of a peculiar incident. Some time last fall Samuel J. Amble was in one of the saloons of East Grand Forks. Nels Thompson, a friend, stepped in and in jest tripped Amble, who fell to the floor and sprained his ankle severely. During the entire winter he has been laid up and he has now retained Tracy R. Bangs as counsel and an action has been started to recover $2,500 damages from Thompson, who is well to do.

—Miss Phrona Kirsch visited with friends and relatives at Erskine Sunday.

—The auction sale on the farm of Chris Hanson last Saturday was very successful and everything sold brought good prices.

—J. G. Flemming, who conducted a three months' school term out near Erskine, finished his work last Friday and returned to this city.

Miss Celine Lalonde, who has been away for about three months, visiting with friends at New York and Montreal, returned to this city last Saturday, having had an enjoyable trip.

—S. P. Elseth and son of Climax returned Wednesday from a long trip to Washington, Montana and Oregon, where they went to look up a new location. Mr. Elseth has concluded to locate in one of the three states named.

—Rick Sampson, who formerly conducted a meat market on North Main street, has decided to leave Crookston, and went to Bemidji Monday, where he expects to open up a butcher shop in the near future.

—Rollis correspondence in Warren Sheaf: Miss Lena Treftlin, of Crookston, on learning of the shooting of her brother, made a hasty trip to the home of her parents at Moose River. She returned to Crookston on Thursday.

—Mrs. A. J. Streeter and Mrs. Elsie Spendley entertained at a farmers' tea last Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Streeter. Covers were laid for ten and the rooms were handsomely decorated with natural flowers.

—Chief of Police Hurst of East Grand Forks last Saturdsy evening brought over two disreputable women, who were sentenced to do thirty days in the county jail for violating the wine room ordinance in the wicked west end town.

—The many friends of Prof. Jesse C. Childs in this city will be pleased to learn that the school board in Fargo where he has taught during the past two years, appreciate his services so highly that they have re-elected him for another year with an advance in salary to $110 per month.

—Thos. Malone, of this city, principal of the Lake Park schools, left last Monday tor esume his duties and reopen the schools, which have been closed several weeks on account of smallpox. When he reached there last night he was informed that the quarantine had not been raised, and he returned to this city to await the time when the smallpox difficulty is over.

—It now looks as if Mae Oryall was going to have her heroic act remembered and rewarded in an appropriate manner, says the Shevlin Advocate. Representative Samuel Rider one day last week introduced a resolution into the legislature for an appropriate and suitable medal to be awarded to the young lady for her heroism in rescuing the Whitney baby from the burning house at Itasca Lake a few weeks ago. Even our busy solons recognize a real heroine when they find one.

HOME AGAIN.

A CROOKSTON VOLUNTEER RETURNS FROM MANILA.

Otto Rasmussen, one of the boys who volunteered under the recruiting officer, Lieut. Decker, formerly of this city, to go to the Philippine islands and aid Uncle Sam in protecting his new possessions and restore peace in that country, returned a few days ago and has resumed the position he occupied in Bang's restaurant before leaving here.

Rasmussen was a member of the Thirty-fourth regiment, Co. G., and was stationed at Laog, about 500 miles north of Manila. During his 18 months' stay there he was sick for more than three months and received his discharge on account of his illness. The climate, he says, is not as much to blame for the illness of the American soldiers in the far off land as is the water which they have to drink.

DIED IN NEW YORK

MRS. T. W. WELTER OF BELTRAMI PASSES AWAY.

The shocking news reached T. W. Welter, a prominent business man of Beltrami, Monday morning that his wife, who has been visiting her parents in the state of New York, had died suddenly the previous night.

Mr. Welter was not aware that his wife was dangerously ill until he received the sad intelligence of her demise. He left on the evening train for New York, and may decide to bring the remains to Beltrami for burial. The many friends of Mr. Welter in this city and vicinity extend sympathy to him in his bereavement.

MORE SCARE.

SMALLPOX EPIDEMIC FEARED AT MOORHEAD.

A Crookston young lady who is attending the state normal school at Moorhead, has written to her parents that a smallpox epidemic is feared in that city, and that the dormitory of the state school has been placed under quarantine. The young lady further states in her letter that the entire school will be quarantined and expresses fear that the city may be placed under the same restriction.

It will be remembered that a few days ago a well developed case of the dreaded disease was discovered in Concordia college at Moorhead, and that the patient was removed to his home and the place quarantined. Apparently many of the students in the institutions, who are attendants from outside places, are anxious to return home rather than be subjected to confinement, in case quarantine should become inevitable.

GOT A DECREE.

FISHER LADY SEPARATED FROM A CRUEL HUSBAND.

Judge Watts Tuesday afternoon, in chambers, heard the divorce case of Sarah Skinner against her husband, Wm. Skinner, brought by the plaintiff on the charge of cruel and inhuman treatment. Evidently Judge Watts thought the prayer of Mrs. Skinner should be granted, and he gave her an absolute divorce from her husband, besides allowing her the costs of the trial and $25 attorney's fees.

The marriage of the divorced couple was unhappy from the beginning, and lasted but a very short period, the ties which were legally dissolved by the judge yesterday having been bound some time in January of this year. A month later Mrs. Skinner came to this city one evening and instituted proceedings against her husband on the grounds above stated.

Mrs. Skinner came here from Chicago, having found Mr. Skinner through a marriage advertising bureau, and she claims that she married him on the strength of statements he had previously made to her and which proved false. The couple resided at Fisher, but the divorced lady will now return to Chicago.

DIED IN ARIZONA.

MOORHEAD YOUNG LADY JOINS THE GREAT MAJORITY.

The many friends of George L. Hall, who until recently had headquarters in this city as district manager of the Mutual Life Insurance company of New York, will be sorry to learn of the unexpected death of his intended future wife, who died at Phoenix, Ariz., last Friday. Mr. Hall left for that place immediately after receiving the sad intelligence, and the Fargo Call this morning says:

"The remains of Annie Gunderson are on their way to Moorhead. A telegram from Geo. L. Hall of Phoeniz, Ariz., announced that he was about to start upon the sad journey. He was presumed to have reached Phoenix at 2:40 Monday morning, and undoubtedly finding all in readiness, he took the return train on the journey home. Mr. Hall telegraphs that death was from Bright's disease and requested that funeral arrangements be fixed for Sunday afternoon at the Episcopal church.

GOT SOAKED

TWO BELTRAMI CITIZENS HAVE AN ADVENTURE.

I. J. Elwood and Lenus Johnson of Beltrami passed through here Monday on their way home from an eventful land inspection trip. Near Russia they encountered what they supposed to be a small and harmless stream, and in attempting to cross it their team became unhitched as the horses swam over, leaving the buggy and its occupants in about six feet of water. Both men managed to get to shore, the stream being a narrow one, but the horses had started off without the driver and it fell to Johnson's lot to capture them. He succeeded after a mile chase around a circle, and just on the top of an unprotected bridge. The horses were badly frightened and as Johnson got hold of the lines one of the horses administered him a kick which sent the man sprawling into the chilly stream. He was uninjured, but in his own words, "as thoroughly soaked as a drowned rat," and had himself hung out in the sun for an hour or two to get thoroughly dried before returning home on the evening train.

AND STILL ANOTHER.

THIEF RIVER FALLS HAS A CASE OF SMALLPOX.

A telephone message from Thief River Falls to the Journal yesterday afternoon states that that town is no longer behind its neighbors in the way of style and up to date events.

Timothy Craig, a well known cruiser and lumberman, arrived there from Bemidji this morning with a well developed case of smallpox, but only in a mild form.

The sick man has been placed under quarantine in a farm house several miles away from the town and there has been nobody exposed to the disease. No fears are entertained for further developments of the pest.

GAS EXPLOSION.

SEVEN MEN FATALLY AND NINE SERIOUSLY INJRED.

Connellsville, Pa., March 26.—In a terrific explosion of gas which occurred yesterday in the new Gate mine of the Eureka Fuel company, in the Klondike coal fields of this county, 16 men were so frightfully burned that seven died on a special train by which they were borne to this city.

The remaining nine were carried to Cottage Station hospital, where half a dozen surgeons worked for several hours on their blackened, bruised bodies, cutting away the bruised flesh and dressing the wounds. All the men were foreigners and none of their names could be learned.

Twenty-eight men went into the pit this morning. The mine had only been in operation a few months, and there had not been the slightest indication of gas.

The deadly vapors had gathered, however, in a portion of the mine during Sunday, and after the men had scattered through the workings it became ignited in some unknown manner.

A terrific explosion ensued. Rescuers went into the pit as soon as possible, in view of afterdamp, and in a short time brought twelve of the men out uninjured. The other sixteen were, however, in a pitiable condition. Seven of them were dying and the others were burned and cut in a frightful manner.

A special train was hurriedly made up, and, pulled by a fast engine, the victims were soon on the way to this city. Seven were dead when the train arrived.

These were taken to their desolate homes. At the hospital it was found that several of the injured had lost their eyes and ears. Several required the amputation of legs or arms, and it is doubtful if any of them will recover. The mine took fire and is still burning.

MUTILATED HERSELF

USED SCISSORS TO CUT OFF HER OWN TOES AND NOSE.

Toledo, O., March 26.—Mrs. G. Brunschneider, residing near the city limits, occupies a ward at St. Vincent's hospital, and is in a critical condition as a result of horrible injuries self inflicted.

About 5 o'clock Saturday evening, armed with an ordinary pair of scissors, she cut off all the toes of her left foot, both her ears close to the head and about an inch of her nose. She then cut out a portion of her right cheek, inflicted five gashes in her left cheek and finally began on her arms.

Beginning at the forearm she removed every vestige of skin, laying bear the muscles. She also lacerated the right arm in a horrible manner. Nothing was known of the affair until her husband, who was absent during the night, returned home in the morning and found her in bed in a semi-conscious condition.

A urgeon was called at once and she was removed to St. Vincent's hospital. Her recovery is doubtful. The woman is about 50 years of age. It is thought that she was temporarily insane on account of domestic troubles.

SUBMARINE STREAMS.

A few months ago Mr. H. Benest, an English geographer, published an interesting study of streams of fresh water flowing beneath the surface of the sea. Disaster to ocean telegraph cables first called attention to this subject. On several occasions, about 1895, a new and well made cable between Cape Verde and Brazil broke. Sounding were made to discover whether these breakings were due to the state of the sea bottom, and it was found that the place in question was near the submarine mouth of a subterranean river: the alluvial material transported by the fresh water stream encountered the cable and finally succeeded in breaking it. The fact is that a river that flows into the lagoons of Yof, on the coast of Senegal, is finally lost in the sand. It undoubtedly has taken its invisible course to the sea, and it is this river that has been discovered in the deep hollow of more than 1,300 meters (4,270 feet) that is traversed by the Brazilian cable. Also, while the cable was being repaired at a point 24 kilometers (15m iles) from the shore the repair ship was surrounded one day by orange skins, calabashes, and bits of cloth which could not have come from the mouth of the Senegal river, 140 kilometers, (ninety miles) distant.

EDDY IS HOME.

SATISFIED WITH THE NEW SEVENTH DISTRICT.

Congressman Frank M. Eddy of Glenwood was in the Twin Cities Tuesday en route for home. He left his family in Washington and will return after attending to some business matters at Glenwood.

"All is quiet now in Washington," said Mr. Eddy. "All eyes there are on Nebraska. It will be a great shame if that legislature does not send two republicans to Washington. If it fails, the next legislature is likely to return democrats.

"I see that after this term I will be in the district of a different latitude from the old seventh. Well, it is a splendid district, one of the best in the state.

"The primary election bill is a good thing, but it must be amended in one particular to be effective in our district. The date set for the primaries, Sept. 1, is too late, fall work then being at its height. The middle of July would be a better time in our district."

ARE NOW ALL OURS

All Philippine Islands Now Ceded to the United States.

$100,000 FOR NEW ONES.

Copies of Treaty Just Exchanged Between United States and Spain.

Washington, March 25.—The Spanish minister, Duke d'Arcos, Saturday received from Secretary Hay a treasury warrant for $100,000, and the United States received the final cession of "any and all islands of the Phillippine archipelago lying outside of the line described in article 3 of the treaty of peace between Spain and the United States of Dec. 10, 1898." At the same time a protocol was signed by Mr. Hay and Duke d'Arcos exchanging ratifications of the treaty of cession:

The specific purpose of the transaction is to add the islands Cagayan-Sulu and Sibitu to the possessions of the United States.

The ceremony attending the exchange of ratifications and the payment of the $100,000 warrant was interesting. The Duke d'Arcos arrived at the state department at 10 o'clock. He had with him the Spanish version of the treaty, handsomely engrossed and bearing the signature of the queen regent of Spain and the Spanish royal secretary.

Mr. Hay received the minister in the diplomatic room. The officials long in charge of the execution of treaties and ratifications were called in.

The American text of the treaty, bearing the signature of President McKinley to the ratification, already had been prepared.

The queen regent's ratification was handed to Mr. Hay, and he in turn presented Duke d'Arcos with the ratification executed by President McKinley.

The treaties in each case were handsomely bound, that of Spain being in red with the royal arms in gold, while America's was bound in blue, bearing the national coat of arms. A brief protocol was then signed. It recited the formalities of ratification of the treaty, signed at Washington Nov. 7, 1900, providing for the cession of any and all islands of the Phillippine archipelago, etc.

The treasury warrant for $100,000 had been prepared in advance and was handed to the Spanish minister. There was an exchange of felicitations over the close of the transaction, and Duke d'Arcos departed with his $100,000 warrant and the ratified treaty.

MAN BORROWED $25.

TO PAY BANKRUPTCY FEE AND LISTED IT AS LIABILITY.

St. Paul Dispatch: An individual rushed into the office of the United States court late yesterday and inquired if that was the place where petitions in bankruptcy were filed. He was informed that it was. He then wanted to know if a man named Walter Gravelle had filed a petition. The answer was in the affirmative.

"How much does it cost to go through bankruptcy?" he asked.

He was told that the fees were $25.

"Well, I'll be blanked," thundered the fellow.

Asked to explain, the man said that Gravelle had borrowed $25 from him a short time before the filing, and that undoubtedly he would make use of the money in paying the court's expenses.

A glance at the petition showed that Gravelle had included the item, $25, among the liabilities.

The visitor bolted out of the office, muttering imprecations.

"The idea of a man borrowing $25 for the purpose of going into bankruptcy," he said. "If that ain't the limit, I don't know it."

SOLDIERS ARE WELL FED.

Col. Wm. R. Grove, commanding the Thirty-sixth volunteers in Manila, in a communication to Col. Woodruff, says: "I have the honor to state that the quality of the rations and sales stores furnished the Thirty-sixth infantry by your department has been of a uniformly superior grade. Although we have been almost constantly moving, there has never been a time when we were without rations, when they could be carried by or be brought to us, a fact which must be a source of gratification to the department. The quantity of the rations, as now supplied, has been to my experience sufficient and well proportioned, and the sales stores have usually been obtainable in liberal quantities. I have no criticism to make nor suggestions to offer." Reports from other officers are to the same effect. It is also reported that health conditions among the troops are now excellent.

NEW PEACE MAKER.

The latest contribution to the peace making propositions which have been made public is by a scientific gentleman who proposes to harmonize the canine and the feline race by inoculating the dog and cat with serums from one another's blood. In this way the hostile dog principle will neutralize the hostile cat principle and there will be peace in the two families.

NOW AT MOORHEAD.

THAT CITY HAS A CASE OF GENUINE SMALLPOX.

Saturday afternoon, says the Fargo Call, a case of well defined smallpox was discovered in the family of Mr. Moe, a farmer living about five miles from Fargo on the Sheyenne river. A young man is ill with the disease and how many have been exposed is a matter of conjecture, as he has been attending Concordia college in Moorhead until recently when he went home to recuperate from what he thought was an attack of the grip. Every one of the family were vaccinated yesterday and a strict quarantine will be enforced. It is not thought that there is much danger of the disease spreading at the college for the reason that the young man left several days before the eruptive stage of the disease began. The developments will be watched closely on both sides of the river and prompt steps will be taken to prevent the disease from spreading.

Moorhead has a bad case of smallpox at present and the home of John Lamb has been quarantined. Mr. Lamb's daughter is the only one who is known to be affected with the disease, but it was reported yesterday that one other member of the family had developed some symptoms of the disease.

The health officers are of the opinion that there is no danger of an epidemic, as the people generally have been vaccinated and extra precautions have been taken to keep those infected from coming in contact with the public.

In view of the prevalence of smallpox about the country, it is to be expected that Moorhead and vicinity may have a few isolated cases.

PROHIBIT MILK.

BELIEVE IT TURNS HUMAN BEINGS INTO QUADRUPEDS.

The Loo Chow Herald, whose name will at once distinguish it as a Chinese publication, recently published a proclamation which in a condensed form is as follows:

"Man should not rob animals of their own proper food; and, of all animals, the cow is the most valuable to man. The sellers of milk blacken their souls for gain; but those who drink milk do so in the foolish belief that it is good for them. Before taking any medicine, we should carefully investigate its properties, and who does so in the case of milk? Milk is the natural food of babes and young animals, but when adults drink it do they not thereby endanger the life of the suckling calf, and arouse bitter resentment in the souls of the calf and its mother? Beasts have not the power of speech, and so cannot tell men that by drinking cow's milk they will become like quadrupeds. If men must have a strengthening drought, there are a thousand better things than milk; so why select that? Besides, the term of life is fore-ordained and it cannot be prolonged by drinking milk.

"Everyone who reads this warning is especially enjoined to abstain from milk in the future. Children whose parents will not allow them to drink milk will not be stunted in growth, but will have their lives prolonged and be immune in epidemics. So it is proclaimed in the Hall of Good Counsel."

EARLY THUNDER.

LIGHTNING PLAYS HOVOC IN SEVERAL PLACES.

Phenomenal thunder and lightning storms raged in Wisconsin and Minnesota early Sunday morning. At New Richmond there was a steady cannonading for two hours.

The Omaha depot at Broadman, Wis. was struck by lightning and burned. Much damage was done to telegraph and telephone systems in the two towns. At Clearwater, Minn., a barn was struck and nine farm animals killed.

Lightning set fire to several barns near Stillwater and four head of cattle were killed on the farm of Joseph Josephson, near Maple Island, Minn. The storm was the severest known for so early in the season.

MICHIGAN FLOOD.

Portland, Mich, March 23.—A huge ice gorge in the Grand river a mile below this place backed up the water until, at 2 o'clock Thursday morning, it was found necessary to sound the fire alarm to summon aid for residents on Water street, who were penned in their homes. Mrs. Mary Marcy was taken from her residence in a row boat after calling frantically for help from an upper window, with the water nearly up to her head. E. L. Watson was also rescued from a dangerous position by a boat crew. After several hours of hard work all families living on the street had been removed to places of safety on high land. If the gorge breaks suddenly it is feared that the electric light plant dam will go out, as well as the waterworks. Every cellar on the west side of the principal business street is flooded and damage will be heavy.

Considerable counterfeit money is in circulation at present, and every now and then a worthless silver dollar makes its appearance. Last Saturday evening a stranger attempted to pass One of these on Assistant Ticket Agent Gus Alstrom, of the Great Northern, but Gus had his weather optic open all the time and he discovered the lack of genuineness at a glance and informed the stranger that only for his innocent appearance he would not let him off. The stranger claimed to have obtained the fake dollar piece in a Crookston business house.

AT IT AGAIN.

RESERVATION LOGMEN CALLED TO HALT.

Cass Lake, March 20.—Capt. W. A. Mercer, Indian agent and superintendent of dead and down logging operations on the Leech Lake and Cass Lake reservations arrived here Saturday and immediately suspended all logging operations in the vicinity of Cass Lake. Nine camps in all were closed down.

It appears that loggers have violated their contracts, and, instead of cutting dead and down pine, according to law, they have cut a very large percentage of green pine. A settlement is pending and full market value will be demanded for all green timber cut.

LEPROSY IN THE PHILIPPINES.

Marine Hospital Surgeon Perry, quarantine officer for the Philippines, has forwarded to Washington an official report on leprosy in the Philippines. He says:

"Leprosy is widely prevalent over the entire archipelago, but the greatest number of cases exists in Southern Luzon and the southern islands. It is quite prevalent in Cebu, the number of lepers being estimated at 2,000.

"The total number of cases in the islands is estimated at 20,000, but the actual number is not known and a census is difficult on account of the majority of cases being in the rural districts.

"The cases in Manila and surrounding country are isolated in a substantial hospital under the auspices of the Manila board of health. There is also a leper hospital at Cebu.

"An attempt at segregation and isolation of the lepers in the islands has been made by the army officials, and several months ago orders were issued from headquarters directing that a hospital in each district be set aside for the isolation of the lepers that could be apprehended, and a board of army officers was detailed recently to investigate several islands for the purpose of selecting a suitable one for a leper colony, the intention being to deport all cases of leprosy to this place for segregation and isolation."

TESLA'S TELEGRAPH.

Nikola Tesla, the inventor, is in Pittsburg placing a contract with the Westinghouse Electric company for the manufacture of certain chemical devices to be used in his experiment on wireless telegraphy across the Atlantic ocean. Mr. Tesla states that the success of his latest enterprise is more assured now than ever before, and within the next six months his invention will be given a practical test. He hopes to establish the proof that it is not beyond the range of possibility to establish communication across the ocean without the aid of wires.

PETROLEUM IN S. D.

Coleman, S. D., March 23.—Drillers who were sinking a deep stock well on the Thomas Smith farm near here think they have discovered indications of oil. The water is so impregnated with the oil that it is unfit for drinking and stock refuse to touch it. The odor of petroleum coming from the water is unmistakable. The find has created much excitement and an effort is being made to secure a drill that will make a deep boring and test the matter. Indications of oil have been noticed in other wells in this section. In the Smith well they are more pronounced than in the others.

ORANGES ARE SPOILING.

San Francisco, March 23.—Advices obtained from orange growing sections in Southern California show that the plight of the orchardist is desperate. The loss sustained through the failure of the railway companies to handle the spring crop readily, already is $1,000,000, and is growing greater each day. Not less than three million boxes of choice oranges are awaiting shipment, and no cars are available. Millions of oranges are rotting in the packing houses for want of cars to transport them across the continent, and fruit, it is claimed, has been dumped in the desert by the carload. The crop this year has been the heaviest ever known in California, but insted of the growers making money, they have lost heavily. Notwithstanding the assurances of the railway officers that there would be no dearth of cars, the fruit still awaits transportation, and there seems to be no way to avert the disastrous condition of things.

NAME NOT PUBLISHED.

Fisher Bulletin: A Crookston young man sat down the other day and wrote two letters, but in addresing them got them mixed. As a result a shirt manufactory in Minneapolis got an invitation to attend an entertainment, while a certain young lady was shocked by receiving the following: "Please send me a sample of the stuff your shirts are made of."

A cup of hot coffee is an unfailing barometer if you allow a lump of sugar to drop to the bottom of the cup and watch the air bubbles arise without disturbing the coffee. If the bubbles collect in the middle, the weather will be fine; if they adhere to the cup, forming a ring, it will either rain or snow, and if the bubbles separate without assuming any fixed position, changeable weather may be looked for.—Chicago Times-Herald.

NOT SO IN MINNESOTA

FOOD COMMISSION SAYS COWS ARE VALUABLE.

Oshkosh, Wis., March 22.—H. C. Adams, of Madison, state dairy and food commissioner, made the astounding and flat-footed statement at the session of the farmers' institute that "the average farmer spends more time thinking about cows than children. There is money in cows; there is no particular profit in children. There is money spent in a school house. A farmer will give a dollar and a half for a scrubby calf, and watch with utmost anxiety and care its growth and development from calfhood to motherhood, who will not stick his head inside of a school house when the plastic minds of his children are being shaped for all time, except when he goes to a caucus. Farm life has its hardships, its privations. In the struggle to live and become independent he is about as apt to thing about educational questions as a soldier is on the picket line."

These remarks were made in connection with Mr. Adams' address on "Education," in which he took occasion to score the condition of the district schools of Wisconsin. "The country district schools," he said, "are not good enough. Everybody knows it. It is a conceded fact in every discussion of every educational body. It should be part of the work of the farmers' institute to make them better."

WANT TEACHERS

BELTRAMI COUNTY WILL HAVE TO IMPORT EDUCATORS.

Where is Beltrami county to get teachers for her public schools? This is the question agitating the mind of Prof. Dunwoody and others interested in the cause of education here, says the Bemidji Pioneer. There will be hardly one-fifth of the needed educational talent available within the county. Teachers will have to be imported to a larger number this year than ever before. The stringent examinations imposed by the state board are wise, but are a serious drawback to frontier counties, where small funds do not tempt an immigration of instructors. At the last county examination held in this county there were only 36 applicants for teachers' certificates, and of these only 18 succeeded in running the state board gauntlet. The superintendent will have to issue a great many permits, and yet it will be difficult even then to supply instructors for the 70 and over school districts in the county.

THRESHING IN S. D.

Colman, S. D., March 23.—Owing to the heavy crops last year and the scarcity of machines and farm laborers in the fall, much of the threshing in this section was not done. This work is now being finished up. As there was very little snow during the winter, and the stacks were not damaged, the grain comes from the machines in as good condition as in the fall. Seeding, which was interrupted by the late cold spell, has been resumed. The ground is in good condition, having been well soaked by the late fall rains.

GRADUATES IN DEMAND.

Winona, Minn., March 22.—The desire for normal graduates as teachers in the schools of the state seems to be on the increase each year. It is already manifest this season by inquiry for members of this year's graduating class. Over twenty such inquiries have so far been received. By the time commencement arrives probably nearly all the members of the large class will have position assured them.

BUILDING AIR SHIPS.

Pioneer Press: Fred G. James has returned from the Pacific coast, enthusiastic over the possibilities of the Stanley air ship at San Jose, Cal. The length of the ship over all will be 228 feet. The body of the cylindrical portion of the ship will be 116 feet in length and 56 feet in diameter. The ship is due to start May 1.

A book that will prove of sterling value to flower lovers and vegetable growers is Vick's Garden and Floral Guide for 1901, a copy of which has just reached our desk. The volume is one of the most expensive and handsome ever issued by seedmen, being well printed on fine paper; is handsomely bound and stamped in gold and natural flower tints. Its 130 pages contain information of great value to persons interested in the subjects it treats of. The habits of various plants, time of planting, hints on culture and other matters are fully explained so that the amateur gardener will find it most useful, as will those who conduct gardens for profit. By writing to James Vick's Sons, Rochester, N. Y., stating what plants you are most interested in, you will receive by return mail a copy of the Guide free. James Vick's Sons are an old established firm of national reputation and are acknowledged authority on all kinds of gardening.

A great many women are subject to spells of dizziness, spots before the eyes, and a ringing noise in the head. These symptoms are commonly associated with liver "trouble" as the result of a diseased condition of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and the allied organs of digestion and nutrition. It cures through the stomach diseases seemingly remote from that organ, but which have their origin in a diseased condition of the stomach and digestive and nutritive system. Hence, cures of heart, lungs, liver, kidneys, and other organs are constantly effected by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

There is no alcohol in the "Discovery" and it is free from opium, cocaine, and all other narcotics.

Some dealers may offer a substitute as "just as good" as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. There's more profit in substitutes for the dealer. There's more health in the "Discovery" for you. Don't be imposed on.

"It is with the greatest pleasure I write you the benefit my mother has received from your 'Golden Medical Discovery,'" says Miss Carrie Johnson, of Lowesville, Amherst Co., Virginia. She suffered untold misery with uterine disease and nervousness, and had a constant roaring and ringing noise in her head. After taking six bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery she was entirely cured."

Mortgage Foreclosure Sale.

Default having been made in the payment of the sum of $8, which became due and payable Oct. 26, 1898, and in the further sum of $8 which became due and payable Oct. 26, 1899 and in the further sum of $8, which became due and payable Oct. 26, 1900, which is claimed to be due and is due at the date of this notice upon a certain mortgage, duly executed and delivered by George W. Carhart and Marion M. Carhart, his wife, mortgagors, to Jerome W. Wheeler, mortgagee, bearing date the 26th day of October, 1897, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds in and for the county of Polk, and state of Minnesota, on the 16th day of November, 1897, at 4:50 o'clock p. m., in book 78 of mortgages, on page 248.

And whereas, the said Jerome W. Wheeler, the mortgagee and holder of said mortgage, has duly elected and does hereby elect to declare the whole principal sum of said mortgage due and payable at the date of this notice, under the terms and conditions of said mortgage and the power of sale therein contained; and whereas there is actually due and claimed to be due and payable at the date of this notice the sum of forty-two and 40-100 dollars, with interest on $26.40 thereon at the rate of 10 per cent per annum, from the 26th day of October, 1900, and whereas the said power of sale has become operative, and no action or proceeding having been instituted, at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof,

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, viz: The southwest quarter of section twenty-eight (28) in township one hundred fifty-four (154) of range forty-seven (47), in Polk county and state of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the sheriff of said Polk county, at the front door of the court house, in the city of Crookston, in said county and state, on the 22nd day of March, 1901, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash to pay said debt and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and twenty-five dollars attorney's fees, as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated, Feb. 6, A. D. 1901.

THE MARRIAGE BILL

Amended by the Senate and Finally Passed by that Body.

PHYSICIANS MUST CERTIFY

As to Mental Soundness of Applicants for Marriage License.

Senator Chilton Friday called his marriage bill from the table and after offering an amendment, asked that the vote by which it was lost the other day be reconsidered.

The amendment strikes out the requirement that the physician be well acquainted with the party who has applied to him for a certificate of health. Instead, he is to certify that he has examined the applicant and found him or her to be in sound mental condition and not afflicted with epilepsy, imbecility, feeblemindedness or insanity.

Senator Sweningsen said that if the bill passed he did not believe there would be a marriage in his county.

Senator Wilson believed the bill to be an excellent measure. It imposed no great hardship upon anyone and would afford a much needed protection to society. It would be much better for the human family if such laws were enforced everywhere. Where one of the parents was afflicted with any of the disabilities it was almost certain that the children of the union would be similarly afflicted. The people of the state were now put to a great expense in caring for the children of such unions, and they were increasing rapidly. Something should be done to prevent the propagation of idiots and imbeciles.

Senator Fitzpatrick denounced the bill as the worst form of class legislation. He wanted to know what right the legislature had to interfere with the divine laws of Providence. Surely marriage was the desirable condition for all people who had reached maturity and should be encouraged. The people against whom this bill was aimed had the same right to life and happiness that others had.

Senator McGovern opposed an amendment making the permission for feeble-minded women to marry after 45 years of age apply also to men. This was adopted. The bill was passed by a vote of 34 to 17.

WISCONSIN'S GOLD FIELD.

A Milwaukee report says: "Frank A. Ogden has closed a deal by which he buys 20,000 acres of land in Douglas county. He owned 5,000 before. The tract is on the so called copper range, where great excitement prevails at present over gold and copper discoveries. His land is on both sides of a shaft 200 feet deep, sunk by Boston capitalists, from which has been taken rock assaying $30 gold and $11 copper per ton. It also bears silver and nickel. Mr. Ogden says that on his land are found out croppings of the same rock, and there can be little doubt he thinks but what the veins, of which ten have been crossed in a tunnel 800 feet long at the bottom of the 200-foot shaft, traverse the whole district. The metal is free and yields readily to stamping; no smelting is necessary. The Boston people are already arranging to erect a stamp mill. The indications are that the mineral belt extends from the Michigan peninsula, where there are some famous copper mines, entirely across the uppermost counties of Wisconsin and into Minnesota. On the Ogden lands is also much timber, some of which the owner has sold. Mr. Ogden has lately visited the region of excitement and exhibits rich specimens especially in copper, as far as a layman may judge by color.

MAY STAND ON HER RIGHTS.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 23.—It is stated on the authority of intimate friends of Mrs. Harrison that she is considering the propriety of standing upon her rights as the widow of Gen. Harrison, taking one-third of the estate and thus rejecting the provision made for her in the will. As the bequests now stands she gets $15,000 in cash, a life interest in $125,000, the North Deleware street home, the property in the Adirondacks in fee simple and has control of $10,000 for the education of Elizabeth, and is not made responsible for any loss in the management of that fund. The remainder of the estate, which is supposed to be worth about $250,000, is divided equally between Mrs. McKee, Elizabeth Harrison and Russell Harrison's children, the father holding it in trust for them.

Under the laws of the state a widow can elect or stand by the will of her husband, can take a child's part or she can take one third and do with it as she pleases. If she refuses to stand by the will and demands one-third of the estate, she will receive about $125,000 to do with as she pleases and would thus reduce the shares of each of the other children to about $80,000, and she and Elizabeth together would get $205,000 and the shares of Mrs. McKee and Russell Harrison would each be reduced about $20,000. Ex-President Harrison left about $40,000 life insurance.

WASHINGTON LETTER

ANENT CANAL MATTERS AND A LITTLE BRYAN GOSSIP.

Washington, March 25.—Some time ago it was reported that the control of the Panama canal had been turned over to an American corporation created under the laws of New Jersey. Later, this was denied, probably because it seemed likely that the country would resent the idea that it might be forced to buy this [illegible] th[illegible] combined influence of certain Wall street men.

As a matter of fact, however, there is little doubt that the deal did go through in some shape or other. If direct proof were wanting, plenty of indirect can be found in the curious course of canal legislation and in the remarkable articles that are given to the press from time to time.

The latest of these is found in a circumstantial story sent from here broadcast over the country, in which it is asserted that, "if the view of the administration is supported by the next congress, the president will be given the discretionary authority to acquire either the Nicaraguan or the Panama canal route. The advantages of the Panama route are then pointed out to the extent of a column or more.

The truth is that the administration has no such views on the subject. Possibly some minor official may have, but neither the president nor any important member of his cabinet has suggested anything of the kind. This can be asserted on the highest authority. Whatever idea the president may have on the subject, he will adopt his unvarying rule of declining to influence legislation either directly or indirectly.

The truth is that the president has no predilections in favor of either of the routes. His time is so fully occupied that he is unable to study the rival advantages and prefers to rest all on the report of the Nicaraguan commission and the judgment of congress as based thereon. Both Nicaragua and Columbia are prepared to give anything the United States may demand, so that the question becomes one of cost and engineering. While the Panama canal can probably be finished the more cheaply when once the rights to it are acquired, it becomes the more costly when the expense of purchasing it from its owners is added in. In regard to the engineering advantages, only engineering experts can give advice.

The whole story as sent out is obviously a mere concoction of the Panama lobby that has headquarters in Wall street and a branch station at the newly established Columbian legislation in this city.

The visit of Mr. J. W. Bryan to the east, especially his presence in Washington for a few hours has excited some gossip on the [illegible] of his possible candidacy in 1904, but as a matter of fact the democratic leaders are not occupying themselves to any great extent just now with the discussion of possible candidates for their party in 1904. The thing which concerns them most at this time is the question of getting the party into shape to afford some hope of success to whomsoever they may nominate. Bryan's chief object for the future is to aid as much as lies in his power in holding the party to the general line of policy with reference to national questions to which it is now committed. He is the central figure of antagonism to the idea advanced by Cleveland and those of the Cleveland school for the regeneration of the party along new lines. In the antagonism of this idea, the candidacy of Bryan is not held in contemplation by Bryan and his friends, and it is believed that it would materialize only if necessary to prevent the element opposed to the present party policy from getting control of the convention. Meanwhile, the democratic leaders are too much concerned about immediate questions of party organization and legislative program to give much time to the consideration of things as remote as the 1904 convention.

IS A SWIFT OSTRICH.

HAS A RECORD OF PACING MILE IN 2:22.

The swiftest bird in the United States is said to be an ostrich belonging to an ostrich farm at Jacksonville, Florida, and known as Oliver W. He is the fastest running bird known and paces a mile in 2:22. He is often seen along the Jacksonville road attached to a light buggy in which are seated the manager of the ostrich farm and the keeper of the birds. When he sees the buggy taken out he comes lunging toward it at full run with both wings spread. Oliver once took part in a match against a trotting horse and a cyclist. The horse was one with a record, but Oliver W. won.

NEW WAY TO PAY DEBT.

Cleveland, Ohio., March 23.—From the frozen fields of the north, Rev. E. A. George, pastor of the Trinity Congregational church of this city, will try to get the gold to pay off the debt on his church. He will be a member of the Good Enough Mining company's expedition, which is to start May 1. He hopes to return with enough gold to pay off the $17,500 debt on his church. The mines are 45 miles north of Cape Nome.

The village election at Glyndon passed off very quitely and resulted in a victory for the no license people. The contest on this question has become a bitter one and the no license people are jubilant over the result. This is the third consecutive time Glyndon has gone dry.

SAYS CHINA IS CIVILIZED.

Chicago, March 22.—Wu Ting Fang, Chinese minister to the United States, delivered the convocation address of the University of Chicago at the Studebaker theater Tuesday afternoon, on "Chinese Civilization." He said:

"There has lately been a great deal of newspaper talk about civilizing China. I give credit to those people who advocate such a course for their good intention, but China has already a civilization of her own.

"If the people of the west would study the civilization of China instead of trying to pull it down they would save themselves a great deal of trouble. They will find that the proper course to be pursued in putting China on the road to prosperity and happiness is not to shake the foundations of her social and political fabric, but to allow her to incorporate such elements of [illegible] zation as she can assimilate."

STRANGE DISEASE.

VETERINARY DEVELOPS A CASE OF GLANDERS.

A case of disease has recently developed in Wells county, N. D., which will in all probability prove fatal to the person, and his prominence in this county makes the case a sad one. Dr. J. G. Smith, a veterinarian of wide acquaintance throughout his part of the state, residing at Bawdon, has recently developed a case of glanders which he is supposed to have contracted from animals while examining them. Several days ago Mr. Smith suspected that he was affected with the disease and commenced taking precautions. Notwithstanding his treatment the disease has developed alarmingly and it was necessary to put his head in a cast of plaster of Paris. Inasmuch as glanders is supposed to be incurable, Mr. Smith's case is supposed to be fatal, but of long duration. Dr. Smith is well liked, well educated and very successful in his profession and his friends and acquaintances are indeed sorry to learn of the sad fate which has befallen him.

DOES IT PAY TO BUY CHEAP?

A cheap remedy for coughs and colds is all right, but you want something that will relieve and cure the more severe and dangerous results of throat and lung troubles. What shall you do? Go to a warmer and more regular climate? Yes, if possible; if not possible for you, then in either case take the ONLY remedy that has been introduced in all civilized countries with success in severe throat and lung troubles, "Boschee's German Syrup." It not only heals and stimulates the tissues to destroy the germ disease, but allays inflammation, causes easy expectoration, gives a good night's rest, and cures the patient. Try ONE bottle. Recommended many years by all druggists in the world. Get Green's Prize Almanac. F. H. Hillard & Son.

SUSPENDED BY SMALLPOX

Des Moines, Ia., March 22.—The Polk county court house was closed Wednesday on account of smallpox among the deputies of Treasurer John McKay. All business in the courts was suspended until April 8, and the grand jury was discharged until that date.

Chas. Morrow, collector of delinquent taxes in the county precincts, is down with smallpox and three other officials are dangerously ill. A number of prisoners in the jail beneath the court house carried the smallpox germs into the building. The payment of taxes is deferred thirty days for the first time in history.

FLOOD THREATENED.

LaCrosse, Wis., March 23.—The water in the LaCrosse and Black rivers is on the rise and much damage is expected. The bottom lands between this city and midway are overflowed and the water has nearly reached the tracks of the Milwaukee and Northwestern roads. The banks of the LaCrosse river are overflowed north of the city and if the freshet continues residents in the lower part of North LaCrosse will suffer great damage.

LUCKY PURCHASE.

Corry, Pa., March 22.—A fortune for $7. This was the good luck of Peter Greenhalgh of Venago. Crawford county. When Jacob Blystone, an old resident, died, an old safe, apparently worthless, was knocked down to Greenhalgh for $7. The buyer made an examination of the safe with the intention of repairing it, and was surprised to find $4,250 in gold and paper money.

BRYAN OFFERS $6.

Lincoln, Neb., March 25.—Under the heading "Six Dollars Reward," W. J. Bryan replied in last Friday's Commoner to the letter of Grover Cleveland to the Crescent club of Baltimore, on the subject of "Return to Democratic Principles," Mr. Bryan offers the ex-president six dollars for a clear interpretation of what he means.

—D. B. Tousley, a Red Lake Falls citizen, who returned from the lumber camps yesterday afternoon, was informed when he reached Crookston, that his residence had been destroyed by fire a week ago. But on telephoning to Red Lake Falls he learned to his great relief that the house that had burned was directly across the street from his residence, and that his family were undisturbed by the fire.

HAD DRUNKEN FIGHT.

TWO COWS INDULGE IN THIS DIVERSION.

A remarkable story comes from Bronson, Florida, regarding the unexpected effect of sugar cane skimmings upon two cows belonging to J. A. Hawkins, a leading farmer of that section. Hawkins is a temperance man and therefore instead of making beer from the cane "skimmings," as his neighbors did, he gave it to the cows.

The other day he poured a lot into the trough in the yard. Shortly afterward two of his pet cows began drinking it and as they liked it they kept on drinking until they became exhilerated. After a short rest they indulged more greely and got fighting drunk. The big dark red one began bellowing at the white one and plunged at her with lowered horns. The other, almost too heavily laden to walk straight, resented this and was eager for the fray. They met with a terrific shock that threw the red one down. Rising, she plunged at her antagonist, ripping her side for a foot. The other, bellowing with rage and pain, charged back, this time cutting the red one's fore shoulder and ploughing into her neck.

From this time on the fight was terrific, both animals seemingly frenzed with rage. Back and forth they staggered, plunging at each other, cutting terrile gashes in their hides. Soon the white one sank down bellowing, but game to the last. The red one gored her repeatedly and then ran trampling over her prostrate form bellowing with rage and hardly able to keep up herself.

By this time Hawkins came out, but was for some time unable to drive off the infuriated animal. She was almost dropping from exhaustion and loss of blood but fought fiercely anyone who came near her. The white cow died soon after and the other was roped and taken into the stable. She was terribly gored, but will recover.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

MORE HAZING BRUTALITY.

At the Drake college in Iowa City, Ia., the practice of hazing has been carried to an extreme that ought to arouse the indignation of the entire state. Wm. W. Sentman, of that place is credited by a Minneapolis newspaper reporter with relating the following instance: A student named J. Clough was seized by a hazing committee who rushed him into the dissecting rom, carved a corpse that lay on the dissecting table, removed the liver and cut it into slices. These slices the young men informed Clough he would have to eat. He refused to consider the proposition, whereupon he was seized and an effort made to compel him to eat the liver. A fight ensued in which Clough, who was a powerful young fellow proved too strong for his tormentors. As a last resort the students forced Clough into the filthy coffin from which the cadaver had been taken, and made to lie there for ten minutes. Then he had to make a speech. This is the second hazing of a similar character that has occurred in the college within a month. There is a tendency toward bolder methods on the part of the hazers as a result of non-interference by the authorities. Something should be done to put a stop to such practices, not only there, but elsewhere. Nothing but harm can result from such disgraceful affairs as this."

R & G CORSETS NEVER STRETCH

The moderately straight R & G No. 397 was and is the corset of comfort with the essence of style. It is straight enough for the prevailing vogue and curved enough to conform to healthful anatomical lines. In 1900 we were unable to fully meet the demand for straight-front goods and unwilling to resort to any makeshift to meet the conditions. At present, however, considerable additions to our factory facilities enable us to keep the trade supplied with real straight-front corsets at retail prices from $1.00 to $2.50, and also our 397, 197, Empire and other popular numbers. There are over seventy styles and sizes of R & G Corsets—a corset to fit every figure. R & G Corsets are the corsets that do not stretch. Every hairbreadth of stretch is taken out of the goods by means of steam-heated iron forms. This gives a permanency to the right shape and form that will stay in it until the last day you wear it. Every R & G Corset is sold with the understanding that it must give satisfaction to the wearer, or the dealer will supply a new one free of cost. If your dealer hasn't it, send us his name and we will see that you are supplied with what you want.

HARRISON AGAIN

Elected to the Mayoralty of the Windy City by Large Majority.

ELECTION WAS A HOT ONE

29,000 is Thought to be About the Size of His Majority.

Chicago, April 3.—The election yesterday was one of the most exciting in the history of the city and the poll of votes was unusually large. In some of the precincts there were collisions, which fell little short of riots. It was apparent by noon that Harrison was polling a strong vote, the result of which had a tendency to brace up the Harrison supporters and weaken the opposition. The result was a victory for Carter Harrison, he being elected mayor by about 29,000 majority. The supporters of Judge Hanecy are at a loss to account for the terrible discrepancy in their figures, it having been claimed by them that he would be elected by about 8,000. Pandemonium reigns in the city and the supporters are in high feather.

Harrison carried 26 wards and Hanecy 9. The council is republican.

FARGO CARNEGIEIZED

HAS ACCEPTED $20,000 DONATION FOR LIBRARY.

At the meeting of the city council in Fargo last night, Mr. Baker, as president of the library board stated that Mr. Carnnegie had offered to donate $20,000 for the establishment of a free public library in the city of Fargo on the conditions that the city furnish a site for the building and to provide a sum of not less than$2,500 yearly for the maintenance thereof. Mr. Baker said that the library now had more than 1,800 volumes; 1,400 of which had been secured by the efforts of Mayor Johnson and 400 had been donated by the citizens of Fargo. Great interest had been shown in the institution and what the library most needed now was more room and more books.

Mayor Allen appointed Aldermen Lewis, Roberts, Anheier, Mr. Spaulding and Mr. Baker as a committee to draft appropriate resolutions of acceptance and thanks. The committee withdrew and in a short time made the following report which was unanimously adopted:

Whereas, Mr. Andrew Carnegie has generously offered to donate to the city of Fargo, N. D., the sum of $20,000 for the purpose of building a free public library, for the use of the inhabitants of the said city, on the condition that the city furnish a suitable site, and make provisions for the annual maintenance of $2,500, per annum,

Be it resolved, that the city council accept and and it does hereby accept said offer and agrees to comply with the conditions thereof at the earliest time possible, under the law, providing for the raising of funds with which to maintain public libraries.

Be it further resolved, that on behalf of the people of the city of Fargo, this body tenders to Mr. Carnegie its sincere thanks for his generous gift, and assures him that it is highly appreciated by the citizens of Fargo, and that the auditor be directed to forward to Mr. Andrew Carnegie a certified copy of these resolutions.

The council also tendered a vote of thanks to Mr. Spaulding and Mr. Baker for their efforts in behalf of the library.

Under the law the [illegible] one mill cannot be levied until July, but the formal acceptance of the offer will assure Mr. Carnegie that this will be done at the proper time.

SCRAP AT McINTOSH

IN WHICH THE PARTICIPANTS ARE BADLY USED UP.

The report reaches us from McIntosh that a warm altercation occurred there Monday between K. O. Bolstad and Charlie Wood, the net results of which, so far as the details are related, are a large sized window too badly shattered for further usefulness, and sundry and divers cuts, gashes and bruises on the anatomy of the respective parties thereto. Our informant says that Mr. Bolstad, who is the landlord of the West hotel in the thriving little burg, ordered Mr. Wood out of the hotel on Sunday for some reason not explained to our reporter, and this treatment produced a feeling on Mr. Wood's part that led him to desire revenge for the insult. The parties met upon the sidewalk yesterday morning, and almost immediately there was a mix-up of fists, arms, legs and feet, in which it was impossible to distinguish and identify separately the members belonging to the different bodies respectively. And in the melee Mr. Bolstad advanced to the rear through a large glass store window, which was unfortunate in being in such close proximity to the field of carnage. County Attorney Rowe was notified of the affair and will visit the scene and look matters up tomorrow.

CAMPBELL WINS

WAS ELECTED MAYOR TO SUCCEED HIMSELF.

The city election held in this city Tuesday was favored with unusually fine weather, and considering the interest manifested by the friends of the candidates for mayor, it passed off without a jolt or incident which would cause bad blood.

The following are the full returns of the days contest, so far as completed by election boards:

THE WINNERS.

N. Campbell—Mayor.
C. A. Hitchcock—Alderman at Large
Hugh R. Robertson—Treasurer.
W. A. Lanctot—City Clerk.
E. M. Lancaster—Assessor.
Geo. H. Holt—City Justice.
John McLean—City Justice.
J. E. Greenhalgh—Constable.
A. A. Glenn—Constable.
Aldermen—John Matheson, First Ward.
J. E. Morrissey—Second Ward.
G. S. Chesterman—Two years, Third Ward.
P. J. Lachapelle—1 year, Third Ward.
W. E. Slocum—Fourth Ward.
M. Sullivan—Fifth Ward.

SHIRT WAIST UNIFORMS.

The Minneapolis postoffice has been considering a summer uniform for its carriers similar to the one to be used in the Detroit office and there is no doubt that it will be adopted. The Detroit letter carriers are to be clad in shirt waists during the hot weather. The change was brought about by the postmaster in co-operation with the letter carriers' association. The pattern chosen is dark gray of negligee shape, with opening for suspenders so they will not show outside. A black necktie and gold buttons will be worn. The hats will be of straw with bands matching the shirts.

NOW ON SALARY BASIS.

As a result of the efforts of Senator Nelson a change has been made in the compensation of deputy United States marshals. The deputies were frequently accused of arresting people without cause under the fee system. After today the deputies will receive a salary in Minnesota. The marshal is allowed three deputies under the new arrangement and they will give their entire time to the government.

$1,000,000,000 CAPITAL.

Trenton, N. J., April 3.—The United States Steel corporation yesterday filed articles with the secretary of state amending its charter and increasing its capital stock to$1,000,000,000. The states fee for filing the papers was $220,000.

An amendment permits the corporation to mortgage or pledge its real property or any of the stock of any other company by the affirmative vote of two thirds of the stock represented in person or by proxy at any meeting.

PATRONIZE HOME ENTERPRISE.

Crookston Greenhouse will hold its first sale of potted plants and cut flowers on Friday and Saturday of this week. These plants and flowers are raised in Crookston and the large variety together with the fact that a home enterprise ought to be encouraged by the citizens should bespeak for Mrs. Vandermark your patronage. The sale will be conducted at the Crookston Furniture store on Friday and Saturday. Call and examine the stock. d2.

TEXAS HAS A BLIZZARD.

Fort Worth, Tex., April 2.—One of the worst blizzards of the season is prevailing in northwest Texas in the panhandle. Reports from up the Ft. Worth & Denver road say snow began falling early this morning, and at 9 o'clock was nearly four inches on a level at Quanah. The thermometer registered 25 above at the Texas line Above that point the blizzard is much worse, the snowfall being accompanied by a fierce wind. The storm will have a bad effect on the cattle interests in the panhandle.

SOLDIER BOY HONORED.

Washington, April 3.—The president today appointed Calvin Titus to be cadet at large at West Point. Titus was the first soldier to scale the wall at Tien Tsin. Corbin today cabled McArthur at Manilla to send young Titus home on the first transport that he may take the entrance examination.

IS THE CHAMPION

Of the World's Buttermakers is the Verdict of the Paris Exposition Jury.

A MINNESOTA BOY WON

First Prize Against all Nations and Previously in all Competitions

The world's best butter is made by a Minnesota man from the cream product of Minnesota kine fed on Minnesota grasses, says the Minneapolis Journal. A jury composed of Frenchmen returned this verdict at the Paris exposition. The American member of this jury was absent at the time and the award was made solely upon the merits of the article. Upon such eminent authority as that of Major Harry E. Alvord, chief of the dairy division of the United States department of agriculture, it may be said this was the only instance during the entire exposition in which the highest honor was awarded to an individual exhibitor for a dairy product.

Samuel Houghdahl, New Sweden, Nicollet county, Minn., is the name and home of the world's best butter maker. In Yankee parlance, he carried off the grand "sweepstakes" at the world's fair of 1900. In the more classical language of the official awards, his tub of creamery butter, made in the little plant at New Sweden and transported in warm weather thousands of miles by railway and steamship, went up against the products of the crack butter makers of Denmark, Norway, Sweden and all the old world countries and was awarded the "grand prix d'honneur." One Frenchman gasped and said, "This is truly remarkable." Another thought Hougdahl's feat was of the greatest importance to butter makers all over the world. If the victories of peace are no less than those of war, Kansas may have her Funston, Georgia her Hobson and Iowa her Calvin Titus. Minnesota is quite content with her matchless buttermaker.

Mr. Hongdahl is a butter maker who has come to the front and remained there. He is a fixed star. Since he won his first prize in sweepstakes at the national convention at Topeka a few years ago he has kept on winning. His was the highest score in state contests for several years. The national butter makers' trophy came next and then he went to the Omaha exposition and swept up the best prizes there. He won at the Trans Mississippi fair and in the Genessee Salt contests and several other sharp competitions. All told he has won five gold medals and scores of cash prizes.

Minnesota's great butter maker is 34 years old and has been in the business since his seventeenth year, when he was selected by the government of Norway from many applicants to study butter and cheese making at the Vardalens Meieri—a combined butter and cheese factory. He was head butter and cheese maker at Suaasens Meieri for about five years and his product was shipped to England and brought the high prices paid for Danish butter. By reason of his skill, the New Sweden creamery is known in every first class butter market on the globe, and Nicollet county and the state at large are his beneficiaries.

AN APRIL FOOL JOKE

WAS PLAYED ON GRAND FORKS OFFICIAL.

The Plaindealer says: Chas. Allen of the county auditor's office had a most disagreeable April fool's joke played upon him by Auditor Ackerman. Shortly after arriving at the office he was presented with a folded paper. Doubting and dubious as to its contents, Mr. Allen hesitated in regard to opening the document. On finally doing so his feelings can better be imagined than described when it proved to be his appointment as deputy auditor. It is said he would not be averse to having such a joke sprung upon him every two years.

EDEN WAS IN CHINA

PROF. BURTON THINKS HE CAN FURNISH PROOF.

Denver, Col., April 2.—Prof. James E. Burton, a former student of Cornell university, who is here on his way to Ithaca to become a member of the university, announces that he is going to try to prove that the Chinese race were the first to inhabit the earth, and that the Garden of Eden was located in China. He was for four years connected with the department of antiquities of the Egyptian government.

"I have made a very careful investigation of the matter," he said in explanation of his theory, "and am convinced that Adam and Eve were Chinese. The boasted civilization of Egypt comes by of Assyria from central China, and proves that our civilization was really from the Chinese and not from Assyria and Egypt as has been generally held heretofore by scolars.

"From China also must have come the stories of the creation and the fall of man for while these have been attributed to Assyria, all the arts, sciences and letters originated in China, and the location of the Garden of Eden must have ben in China."

Mr. Burton says that his work with the spade in Egypt will support him in all these staements.

HIS VETO PREROGATIVE

EXERCISED BY GOV. VAN SANT FOR THE FIRST TIME.

Gov. Van Sant's first veto was read to the house Monday and the message was laid on the table. The executive disapproves Mr. Stewart's bill, House File 285, to provide for a uniform system of accounting at different state institutions.

Giving his reasons for the veto, the governor says that the provisions of the bill cover ground already covered by the board of control bill. That bill provides a uniform method of accounting. The board of control system will go into effect Aug. 1, and so it is hardly necessary to start a new method that will go out of existence on that date, only being in force four months. The present system of accounting at the different institutions is reasonably satisfactory and requires no immediate change, in the opinion of the governor. "The bill under consideration also creates additional officers for the different institutions," says the governor. He deems it inadvisable to add officers to the present force, especially for so short a time.

Nothing was done with the veto except to lay it on the table, on motion of Mr. Roberts.

SINGULAR CASE

MIND BLANK 17 YEARS—DID NOT KNOW HIS FAMILY.

Allegheny, Pa., April 2.—Seventeen years ago C. Washburn was injured on the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific road near Chicago. He came to Allegheny after being discharged from a hopital.He married an Allegheny woman and the couple have four children. Several nights ago one of the daughters dropped a lamp in the room in which Washburn was sitting. He fell to the floor groaning, "Oh, my head!"

The next day Washburn regained consciousness. "Was I much hurt in the wreck?" were his first words.

The physicians have decided that Washburn's mind had been a blank for 17 years. He did not know his wife and children, and indignantly denied ever meeting them.

OWNS THEATRE

PRESIDENT M'KINLEY IS THE PRINCIPAL STOCKHOLDER.

Canton, Ohio, April 2.—It has developed that President McKinley is one of the principal owners of the Grand opera house in this city. The capital stock of the Grand is $60,000. The controlling interests of this are held by President McKinley, his brother in law M. C. Barber, and the children of Mrs. Barber. The children got possession of stock in the Grand by the death of their uncle, Geo. D. Saxton, brother in law of the president, who was a stockholder, and who by will left his property to the Barber children. Mr. McKinley owns $15,000 of stock in the Grand Opera House company. The shares of the stock have for four years been far below par, and are held at about 60 per cent of their face value.

SERVED HIM RIGHT

WHIPPED MAN FOR TEACHING HER BOY TO SWEAR.

Topeka, Kan., April 2.—Mrs. W. H. Smith, wife of the station agent at Virgil, Kansas, has been annoyed recently by her 8-year-old son coming home and ripping out vicious oaths. She learned from that a set of loafers at the corner grocery were schooling a class of small boys in the art of swearing, so she decided to stop it. Accordingly she armed herself with her husband's razor and a horse whip and started out Sunday night. She found the loafers all hunched in their favorite haunt, teaching some small boys to cuss. She lit on Geo. Haan, the ring leader, and gave him a severe horsewhipping. He started to strike her when she pulled out her razor and ran him out of the place. Mrs. Smith was arrested and gave bond for her appearance. The better element of the town has sided in with her and a war on loafers is threatened.

AGGY LIKES U. S.

And Has Taken the Oath of Allegience to the U. S. Government.

SAYS HE WAS MISLED

But Has Now Learned Something of Our Governmental Policy.

Washington, April 3.—Secretary Root has just made public the following cablegram, received at the war department yesterday morning at 8 o'clock:

"Manila—Adjt. General, Washington—Since arrival at Manila Aguinaldo has bee at Malacanan, investigating conditions in the archipelago. He has relied almost entirely upon the instructive advice of Chief Justice Arellano. As a result yesterday he subscribed and swore to the declaration on page 11 of my annual report.—McArthur."

The oath referred to is as follows: "I —— hereby renounce all allegiance to any so-called revolutionary government in the Philippine islands and recognize and accept the supreme authority of the United States of America therein; I solemnly swear that I will bear true faith and allegiance to that government; that I will at all times conduct myself as a faithful and law-abiding citizen of the said islands and will not, either directly or indirectly, hold correspondence with or give intelligence to an enemy of the United States, nor will I abet, harbor or protect such enemy; that I impose upon myself these voluntary obligations without any mental reservations or purpose of evasion, so help me God."

Four asterisks in the cablegram mark the passage withheld from publication, about which the officials will say nothing now.

Notwithstanding the taking of the oath by Aguinaldo be still will be held as a prisoner by Gen. McArthur. It is possible he may be granted more liberty of action, but he will not be afforded complete freedom for the present. The action of Aguinaldo in taking the oath, it is believed by the war department, will have a far-reaching effect in the pacification of the islands.

REPUBLICAN COW.

Braddock Republican: S. E. Brindle, of Williamsport, a Democrat, is the possessor of a republican cow that believes in reciprocity. In 1894, when cattle were cheap and had to go begging for a buyer, Mr. Brindle bought this animal for $5. She was not then a year old. Since that time, being grateful for good care and a good home, she has grown to cowhood and has contributed her share to the family's supply of milk, butter and calves. A few days ago, after hearing of the second inauguration of McKinley, being overjoyed at the good news, and also being desirious of showing her owner the benefits of a republican administration, brought forth a pair of twin calves, and instead of being worth only $5, as their mother was, they will, at the age when she was sold, bring about $20 each.

CAUGHT A STOWAWAY.

The Rochester Fruit and Produce company, of Rochester Minn., unloaded a car of Port Lamon bananas last week, and in doing so handled the fruit several times, and in their shipping a few days after, nothing unusual was observed,but upon the arrival of a large bunch of fourteen hands to a merchant in Chatfield, and hanging the same in the window, in a few moments the clerk discovered a young boa-constrictor snake,, three feet and four inches in length and three inches around its body in the largest place, coiled around the stock and fruit. Great fright was given those present at the time, but the reptile was captured and placed on exhibition, and is seen by large crowds daily.

QUITE A VETERAN.

Mr. James Shoat of Harrisman, Tenn., is 100 years old and remakable in other ways. At 80 he was blind, now he sees, and affirms that next fall he will go to school and learn to read. He has 215 living decendants, including a dozen children.

U. S. PURCHASES BONDS.

Washington, April 3.—The secretary of the treasury has bought in New York $2,000,000 of short term bonds for the sinking fund.

WILL RAISE FRUIT

J. P. BULLAN WILL MOVE TO WASHINGTON.

town of Onstad left Tuesday for town of Onstad will leave tonight for Washington on the Northern Pacific via Winnipeg Junction, Mr. Bullan having decided that a change of climate would be of advantage to Mrs. Bullan's health. The former went to Washington some time ago on a prospecting tour, and became enamored with the Yakima country. He purchased a fine tract consisting of about 25 acres of land, one and a half miles from North Yakima, and came home to close out his business here. This he has succeeded in doing in a very satisfactory manner, and has sold his farm and also his stock and machinery. Henceforth, instead of devoting his energies to raising wheat and dairying, as he has done heretofore, he will engage in fruit raising. His new possessions are provided with abundant irrigation facilities and the fear of a drouth will no longer disturb him. He has five acres of prunes on his place which are in bearing condition, and five acres of alfalfa, which grows profusely out there. Mr. Bullan and family have hosts of friends here who, while reluctant to see them go, wish for them abundant health and prosperity in their far western home.

LIGHT AND WATER

EAST GRAND FORKS TO ISSUE BONDS FOR SAME.

At a mass meeting of prominent taxpayers of East Grand Forks almost unanimous expression of feeling was given in favor of issuing bonds for a waterworks system and electric light plant. It is estimated that the two plants will cost upwards of $26,000. Of this amount $4,000 is expected from back taxes, and $7,000 will be collected from saloon licenses, which will be collected this spring. It is proposed to raise the balance, amounting to $15,000, by the issuance and sale of municipal bonds.

WANTS AGGIE TO LECTURE.

Boton, April 1.—What to do with Aguinaldo is the question now puzzling the administration. George Milbank, a theatrical man, has sent this offer:

"Elihu Root, Secretary of War—In the event of Emilio Aguinaldo becoming a ward of this country, would you consider an offer of $50,000 for a lecture tour by him of 100 nights in principal American cities? Will supply sufficient bonds to insure fulfillment of contract."

Mr. Milbank offers to provide bonds for Aguinaldo's safe conduct—as a business proposition purely.

FOR DOCK AT CASS LAKE.

Conductor James Nolan, who is president of the Cass Lake Boat company, is figuring with the local contractors for the construction of a large dock at Cass Lake which will be built in the very near future and will be completed before the rush of people to the lake to fish, etc., in the spring. On the dock a large band stand will be erected as well as a pavilion that will accomodate at least 200 people. It is the intention to have everything for the convenience and comfort of those who are figuring on speading an outing at Cass Lake this spring and summer, and for this reason the dock is being built.

KILLED BY TRAIN.

Hastings, Minn., April 1.—William Goodthunder, a young Indian from Prairie Island, aged about 24 years, was instantly killed about half a mile below East Hastings Saturday night by being struck by an east bound train. A letter was found in his pocket received from A. C. Walker of Morton, dated March 24, and 15 cents in coin. He also had a bundle containing two woodchucks. Coroner F. W. Kramer viewed the body and had the remains brought to this city by an extra freight train in charge of Conductor J. Hayes.

CLOSE CALCULATION.

"Hairpins have gone up, huh,"said the notion store woman to the boy who said he wanted two cents' worth for his mother.

"Don't I git eight for two cents any more?" he asked.

"No, only six."

"All right; gimme six. Pa had ma by the hair when I came away, and I guess she can make six hairpins do by the time the racket is over and I git home."

A PAT ILLUSTRATION.

"Thomas," said the teacher of the class in physiology, "can you give a familiar instance of the power of the human system to adapt itself to changed conditions?"

"Yes'm," responded Tommy Tucker. "My Aunt Abigail gained 100 pounds in flesh in less'n a year, an' her skin didn't crackle a particle."—Chicago Tribune.

NEW GAS PLANT

Being Installed in the Steam Laundry and Will be Operated Tonight.

MOST BRILLIANT OF LIGHTS

Is What is Claimed for it By the Inventor of the Process.

Mr. Clark Robinson of Iowa is today installing his uewly invented gas plant, which he has christened the "Twentieth Century Gss Plant," in the steam laundry, and expects to have the light in operation this evening. This is a recent invention and Mr. Robinson received the patent which will protect him in the exclusive use of tbis product of his genius this morning. The gas is not the acetylene gas, but is manufactured from gasoline by mixing with it under the necessary pressure 85 per cent of oxygen, and the gas thus produced is forced through pipes to all desired parts of the building and the light is furnished by the latest improved burners.

The use of this gas is not attended with the slightest danger, as only a little of the gasoline is kept inside the building, and that is at all times entirely submerged in water, so that a fire might occur in close proximity to it and no danger be incurred. The patent is owned jointly by the inventor, Mr. Clark Robinson, and J. M. Yeomans, the gentleman who recently purchased a portion of the Rassia farm. About thirty of these plants have been installed in different places in Iowa, and they are in each ease giving perfect satisfaction. It is claimed that the light is the most brilliant and at the same time the cheapest yet produced. The small fire which occurred at the laundry yesterday delayed the completion of the work of installing the plant, or the lights would have been in operation last evening.

The accident was not in any measure attributable to this apparatus, but was due solely to the presence of some gasoline which had escaped from the supposedly empty tank which had been inverted, and a small quantity of the volatible fluid had escaped and made its way unnoticed to the vicinity of the tinner's furnace, which was in use at a little distance away, and was ignited uy the flame, but no explosion occurred.

PRISONER WANTS WORK

DID NOT RELISH SOLITARY CONFINEMENT.

Des Moines, Ia., March 30.—Patrick E. Price, formerly of Plymouth county, now of Anamosa state prison, has just been given the right to do hard labor instead of to lie idle. Oddly enough, Price requested Warden Butler to be allowed to work and the privilege was denied him. Attorney General Mullen has ruled that under the law he must be set to work.

Price was sent to the penitentiary a short time ago for larceny. He was sentenced to eighteen months. The judge omitted the words "at hard labor," and they did not appear in the mittimus. Under these circumstances Warden Butler kept the man in solitary confinement. He tired of it and requested the warden in writiag to be allowed to toil. The matter was laid before Attorney General Mullen, who ruled that inasmuch as the Iowa law forbade solitary confinement, Price should be allowed to work regardless of the wording of either sentence or mittimus. He held all punishments must be by hard labor rather than by solitary confinement.

GOOD PRICES

PREVAILED AT SALE OF SHORTHORN CATTLE.

The twenty second annual sale of Shorthorn cattle from the Browndale herd of Minneapolis was held Tuesday afternoon at the sale stable, and forty five animals were sold at auction at an average price of $330 each.

Some of the stock in the herd was disposed of and the prices received for the auimals ranged from $150 to $1,460.

The animals were sold for breeding stock and were purchased by stock owners in all parts of the country. More than two hundred bidders were present, coming from Missouri, Ohio, all parts of the northwest and from Canada. The sale was considered most satisfactory, the number of animals sold and the average price being about the same as last year.

NEW SAW MILL

BEMIDJI IS TO BE FAVORED BY HEAVY CAPITALISTS.

Several weeks ago William Kaiser, representing the Muscatine Lumber company, the noted sawyers and box manufacturing company with millions of capital at Muscatine, Ia., was here looking over the resources of this section, says the Bemidji Pioneer. He was much impressed with what he found and of all places in the north he thought Bemidji was most suitable for a location.

He has just submitted a proposition to the people of this village which should make the whole country love him. He seys thet if he is given a free site of forty ecres on the south side of Lake Bemidji and is guaranteed low taxes for five years, he will at once begin the construction and will operste a two bsnd saw mill here, to supply his company with box msterisl.

T. B. Welker has recently announced his intention of giving up the site donated him by the townsite company, which site will be offered by the latter to Mr. Kaiser. This new venture would be of greater benefit to our people than that promised by Mr. Walker. It means a mill capable of sawing over 100,000 feet per day, and all kinds of timber, popple, blackjack, pine and hardwood. The smallest of timber can be used in the box timber industry. This will be of especial importance to the settlers around here, no matter how small their timber or supply, for they will find a profitable market.

A gathering of citizens Monday night accepted the offer made and it is hoped that the deal will be closed at once.

HAD A PRECEDENT

FIRST HATCHET CRUSADE IN 1856 AT ROCKPORT, ME.

In the Epworth Herald Rev. Chas. A. Crane relates the following "hatchet gang" incident, from which it appears that Mrs. Carrie Nation is not the originator of this method of dealing with the non-legalized saloon. About fifty years ago a "hatchet gang" did mighty work in the cause of temperance in Rockport, Me. One morning in July, 1856, about three hundred women of that place, all armed with hatchets, marched down to Dock square to attack places where liquor was illegally sold. Most of these places were barred, as the proprietors had been fore warned. But the women understood their business. Almost every place visited yielded up casks, jugs and bottles. As these were emptied into the street the sight excited the groans of the thirsty drinking men who were present in great numbers. The women kept at their work until 3 o'clock in the afternoon, when they met in the public square, congratulated each other and then went home. Neither the selectmen nor the officers molested them, and their victims stood like boys who had been thrashed, and were watching the same operation on their brothers.

The case was taken to the courts, the friends of the women rallied to their support, money was liberally contributed, and the public sentiment seemed to be with them. They were acquitted at the first trial and also at the second, which was had through appeal. One of the witnesses in the case testified: "There were many women there, and almost all of the men in Rockport—all who could walk or move on crutches. The selectmen, ministers, deacons and policemen were present. None forbade what was done, but all was peace and harmony. They appeared to be happy, and shouts came up from the gentlemen. The justices of the peace were there. We determined to carry it through and destroy all the liquor."

From that day Rockport has had the reputation of being a very dry town. This precedent may have given Mrs. Nation the suggestion of her crusade.

CAPTURE FORETOLD

BY STORY WRITER IN HARPER'S WEEKLY IN 1899.

Is an imaginative story writer responsible for the capture of Aguinaldo? Did Duffield Osborne furnish the idea for Gen. Funston to modify and execute?

In Harper's Weekly of Dec. 23, 1899, had a story describing a mythical capture of the Filipino leader by essentially the same plan that Gen. Funston followed. In Mr. Osborne's story one Lieut. Farley did the trick. He picked a small party of American soldiers. A former actor exercised his skill at "make-up" and transformed them into Filipinos. They bound the lieutenant and carried him as a prisoner before Aguinaldo. Then Aguinaldo was seized and taken to the coast, where a United States boat was waiting to take the party to Manila.

Mr. Osborne's tale was a thrilling narrative, but Gen. Funston's exploit shows that fiction is no stranger than truth. Or has Mr. Osborne the gift of prophecy?

RHAPSODICALLY STATED.

The following effusion was evolved in some poetic brain and is plunging its way through the country newspapers:

Sing ho for the cow, sing hi for the little brown hen; such a couple wes never on earth below to feather the nests of men. With the golden product of good Queen Bess no 'udder' can compare, while the snowy fruit of the cackling 'beaut' brings a solace for every care. Men risk their lives for the golden ore laid deep in a frozen clime, when these faithful servants bring them more and peace at the self same time. With pasture in plenty and bugs galore they will never lack for feed; their stock is at par at grocery stores for the things that the farmers need. Then three times three for the bovine "she" and three for the female fowl; at the farmers' door where they fed before no wolf has a chance to howl. No poet's dream ever hatched a theme more worthy of poet's pen, than the kindly queen of the prairie green and the busy, cackling hen.

THE N. P. WILL BUILD

ROAD TO RED LAKE THIS SUMMER.

The Red Lake Transportation company, a corporation largely represented by Halvorsen & Richards, the railroad contractors, has sold its railroad in Beltrami county to the Northern Pacific.

The Red Lake line, starting from the lake, runs toward the Minnesota & International in a southeasterly direction, and will make a connection with that road at some point not yet determined upon. The Minnesota & International is a branch of the Northern Pacific which is being extended northward from Bemidji a distance of 25 miles, the terminus of this season having been fixed at Blackduck. This line is under construction by Halvorsen & Richards.

The line from Red Lake which has been sold to the Northern Pacific is a logging road about twelve miles long and its extension to the Minnesota & International branch will put a large section of country in direct communication with Brainerd, and consequently with Minneapolis. The road has important logging contracts, and will handle about 15,000,000 feet this year for Minneapolis concerns. The purchase gives the Northern Pacific a line to Red Lake, where a boat is in service to transport freight and passengers to the west side of the lake.

H. SPENCER FAILING

THE GREAT SCIENTIST UNABLE TO WORK.

London, March 20.—The health of Herbert Spencer remains very poor. In a pathetic letter he says he cannot work, can write only a few lines and reads little. His days are spent on a lounge near a window looking out on the sea at Brighton.

His income is drawn mainly from the sale of his books in America, his copyrights there having yielded him $4,730 in the last six months.

The works of four leading scientific writers in England in the last quarter of a century now have a steady sale in America, whereas the demand for them has fallen off here. The Appletons have paid within the last six months royalties amounting nearly to $10,000 to Herbert Spencer and $10,000 to Herbert Spencer and the heirs and executors of Darwin, Huxley and Tyndall. The sales of Spencer's and Darwin's books lead those of Huxley and Tyndall.

SEWING DEPARTMENT

HAS BEEN ADDED TO SCHOOL FOR FEEBLE MINDED.

A sewing department has just been completed in the school for feeble minded at Faribault. This is of considerable importance to the inmates of the institution, ss well as the state, for the sewing to be done will be for home use and the work will aggregate in money value almost $5,000. The inmates of an institution like the school for feeble minded get restless at times and those who are put to sewing will look upon the change with pleasure. Ten sewing machines have been put in the building and all are run by electric power. A farm cottage for 31 inmates has also been erected and will be ready for use in the near future. A new store room has been added to the institution.

MARRIED A CAT

BELIEVES HER DEAD LOVER IS REINCARNATED IN HIM.

Miss Edith Wagner, of Waukesha, Wis, has been married to her Maltese cat. Her family has just been advised of the extraordinary wedding. Miss Wagner is a believer in the transmigration of souls. Some years ago she was engaged to be married to a young man named Edward Hamblin, but before the wedding day he died of typhoid fever. On his death bed Mr. Hamblin told his sweetheart thst he knew he was going to die, but thst he would always be near her. Not long after his death a fine Maltese cat appeared at Miss Wagner's home and remained there. Miss Wagner was convinced that the soul of her dead lover dwelt in the feline. Some time ago she went to New York state, and while at Binghampton decided to marry the pet. She took out a license in due form giving a name that served for the cat, but when she tried to arrange for the performance of the ceremony difficulty was encountered. Several ministers positively refused to officiate and she finally went into the country, where she succeeded in finding a justice of the peace who performed some sort of a marriage rite.

BLIND MAN ELOPED

WITH A WIFE'S SISTER, FROM KIMBALL, S. D.

Kimball, S. D., March 29.—Totally blind, married for 24 years, the father of children and a prosperous restaurant keeper, B. Coffee, of this place, has eloped with his wife's sister, Mrs. Clara Richards, a married woman with a family of grown children, who recently came from San Francisco on a visit to the family here. The sister had been here but a short time before the wife became aware that improper relations existed between the visitor and her husband and ordered the sister from the house.

The blind husband seemed to have become infatuated with the sister, who was anything but prepossessing in appearance, and objected to her being forced to leave. The wife was firm and threatened to call in the officers. Mrs. Richards finally left, but did not return to her California home. A few days after her departure Coffee, on an excuse of business, visited a neighboring town. That was over three weeks ago and he hss not yet returned. Investigation showed that he had joined Mrs. Richards and the two had proceeded to Sioux City, stopping at the Leader hotel for a short time as man and wife. The couple soon disappeared from there, leaving their baggage and an unpaid board bill, but are supposed to be in hiding in that city.

Before leaving Coffee mortgaged his household furniture, so that his family is left in destitute circumstances. Mrs. Coffee is prostrated with grief at the action of her husband and sister.

PHYSIOLOGY IMPROPER

MASSACHUSETTS SCHOLARS TO BE INSTRUCTED ORALLY.

Somerville, Mass., March 29.—Because they are considered in part "improper" for the perusal of small children, works on physiology will no longer find a place in the schools here except on the teacher's desk. School Committeeman Sanborn, who leads the movement, has introduced an order that "in the primary and grammar schools, instructions in physiology and hygiene be entirely oral and that hereafter a single text book of the subject be furnished for the use of teachers only, and it is hereby required also that instructions be given regarding the proper care of the body, rather than the structural formations."

GETS 38 YEARS

FULL LIMIT FOR FOUR CHARGES GIVEN GOLDSTEIN.

Duluth, Minn., March 29.—Goldstein, the professional thief who shot Deputy Sheriff Magie, was sentenced yesterday. He gets the limit for four charges—two of assault with intent to kill, one of grand larceny in the first degree and one of resisting an officer, in all 38 years. He will be taken to Stillwater at once.

Dr. J. H. Pierce, convicted of criminal practices, yesterday morning put up $4,000 cash bail pending an application for a new trial. He came here two years ago from Stillwater penniless and has accumulated a fortune since in his medical practice.

AMERICAN PICTURE

USED IN NEW CANADIAN FOUR DOLLAR BILLS.

Ottawa, Ont., March 29.—The officials of the finance department admit that the picture on the face of the new Canadian four dollar bills is that of the American Soo lock. The finance department sent to Montreal for a picture of the Canadian lock at the Soo. In reply they received a picture of the American lock and used it. The officials say they were misled by noticing the Canadian Pacific steamer Athabasca in the lock and assumed in consequence that the picture was all right. The department of railways and canals was not consulted.

BRIG GEN FUNSTON

The way his Title now Reads as Stated by Latest Advices from Capitol.

BRIG. GEN. LLOYD WHEATON

Promoted to Lieutenant General to Make Room for him.

Washington, April 1.—The following important army appointments were announced from the White House Saturday:

To be major general United States army:

Brig. Gen. Lloyd Wheaton, vice Miles, promoted lieutenant general.

To be brigadier generals in the regular army:

Col. Jacob H. Smith, Seventeenth United States volunteers, vice Daggett, retired.

Brig. Gen. Frederick Funston, United States volunteers, vice Wheaton, promoted.

The announcement of the appointments was made after a conference between the president, Secretary Root and Adjt. Gen. Corbin, and at the same time the long expected list of appointments of majors and captains in the paymaster's, quartermaster's and commissary departments and of the chaplains was made known. The list included two majors and twenty-five captains in the paymaster's department; twenty-one captains in the commissary department; thirty-seven captains in the quartermaster's department, and seventeen chaplains.

All of these appointees are in the regular army under the recent act of congress enlarging and reorganizing the army, and without exception the staff appointees are from volunteer officers.

The chief interest, however, centered in the three high appointments of a major general and two brigadier generals, and more particularly in the selection of Gen. Funston after his gallant exploit in capturing Aguinaldo. Following the announcement Gen. Corbin sent the following to Gen. McArthur:

"Washington, April 1.—McArthur, Manila:—The following appointments made: Wheaton, major general; Smith and Funston, brigadier generals. Secretary of war joins me in congratulations to all. —"Corbin."

BLOODY DEED

N. D. MAN KILLED THREE CHILDREN AND HIMSELF.

Devils Lake, N. D., April 1.—Emil Segenlin, a well to do farmer living eight miles northeast of town, killed his three children and stabbed himself to death about 1 o'clock last Friday.

He went to the barn accompanied by his two daughters, Della, aged 7, and Lilly, aged 5. As he did not come to dinner, his eldest daughter, Esther, aged 9, was sent to call him. It is thought that before she reached the barn the father had killed Della and Lilly, and immediately killed her. Esther was strong and evidently offered resistance, as she was stabbed in several places and horribly mutilated. Both of the other children were killed with a knife.

Segerlin was sent to an asylum about ten years ago, but was soon allowed to return home, apparently recovered. He was a hard working man, well thought of and in excellent financial condition. There is no doubt but that he was insane when he committed the deed. Mrs. Segerlin, an invalid, was in the house and unharmed.

MARRIED HER STEP-SON

AND IS NOW BEMOANING HER LACK OF JUDGMENT.

Sioux Falls, S. D., April 1.—On Friday of last week the following item appeared in the local columns of the Argus-Leader:

"Ed. Becker and Mrs. Clara Becker were married by Rev. A. P. Leach. The groom is from Cleveland, Ohio, and the bride's mother is Mrs. John Anderson, 632 North Summit avenue. Mr. Becker, who is a mattress maker, will go into business in this city."

The sequel developed Saturday. Mr. Becker was the stepson of the woman whom he made his wife. Up to a month ago he lived at Cleveland, O. He learned that his father had died and left his widow some money. Becker came to Sioux Falls about a month ago, made love to his stepmother and married her. On his way to Sioux Falls he passed through Sioux City, and was without a cent to his name and secured lodging at the police station. To the police he revealed a part of his plans, which he afterwards carried out by marrying his stepmother.

A few days after the marriage Becker persuaded his step-mother-wife to convert her property into cash and let him have the money to purchase the stock necessary to open a mattress factory. He went to Sioux City last Tuesday to purchase the stock and his wife followed him Wednesday, but when she reached Sioux City she learned he had not purchased any stock, but had taken the first train for the east. In Sioux City he announced that he was going back to Cleveland to open a factory. Mrs. Becker is still in Sioux City, where the officials are assisting her in an effort to locate her step-son-husband.

BLANK CARTRIDGES

TWO FARGO STAGE HANDS ARE INJURED.

Last evening during the last act of "Fra Diavolo" at the Fargo opera house, Alfred Nansen and Henry Cook, who were employed on the stage behind the scenes, were treated to a little entertainment which was not on the bills: In this act "Fra Diavolo" receives his just deserts, and just before he dies he gains a revolver and blazes away at his captors. It is customary to use blank cartridges for these ceremonies, but the Josephine Stanton Opera company had recently purchased a lot that were not blanks. The property man supposed they were, but that was before he tried them. The cartridges were filled with small bird shot, and when "Fra Diavolo" got in his deadly work he did it with good effect. This part was enacted last night most realistically, for Alfred Nanson and Henry Cook each received a charge of shot in their anatomies which required the attention of a surgeon.

They were standing in the wings and when the shots were fired they were made the unwilling recipients of the little leaden souvenirs. Each had about a dozen shot for the doctor to pick out of their arms and bodies. The wounds were not dangerous, but for a time were quite painful.

There was considerable consternation behind the scenes when it was found that the cartridges were loaded, and those had not been fired were examined and found to be like the others, filled with fine shot. They had been purchased at Winnipeg and had not been tried before. It is needless to add that the property man will get another consignment of ammunition before the company shows again, or provide stage hands with a suit of armor.

WILL HONOR FUNSTON

HE IS RECOMMENDED FOR BRIGADIER GENERAL.

Washington, March 30.—General McArthur gives the following endorsement of Gen. Funston's clever act:

"The transaction was brilliant in conception and faultless in execution. All credit must go to Funston, who under the supervision of Gen. Wheaton organized and conducted the expedition from start to finish. His reward should be signal and immediate with Gen. Wheaton, who recommends Funston's retention in the volunteers until he can be appointed brigadier general of the regulars. I hope for a speedy cessation of hostilities throughout the archipelago as a consequence of this stroke, as a result of conferences now in progress, it is probable Aguinaldo will issue an address advising general surrender, directly, and accept American supremacy."

The Kansas congressional delegation has also decided to ask President McKinley to appoint Funston a brigadier general in the regular army as a reward for the capture of Aguinaldo. The members of the delegation now in the city will call on the president this afternoon for the purpose of urging such action. In view of Gen. McArthur's recommendation, they think the appointment is sure.

CANCER IS A PARASITE

SO DECIDED BY PROF. GAYLORD OF BUFFALO, N. Y.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 30.—"Cancer is caused by an animal parasite, which we have identified and isolated in the New York state cancer laboratory," said Prof. H. R. Gaylord of the University of Buffalo, who has charge of that laboratory. He continued:

"In reviewing all the material and evidence accumulated in the laboratory in the last three years, I conclude:

"That the organism of cancer is a protozoon, and that the observations of Pfieffer in 1891 were essentially correct.

"That it can be injected into an animal and recovered from the organs and blood of the animal.

"That from an animal so infected others may be infected, according to their susceptibility.

That the organism can be demonstrated in the tissues of those animals and that under proper conditions those organisms and cultures, especially when growing in the peritonial fluid, retain their virulence and are capable of producing carcinoma or cancer in animals."

AGED BRIDAL COUPLE

THE GROOM IS 71 AND THE BRIDE IS 82.

Indianapolis, March 30.—Elizabeth Borden and John Bloomfelter of Harrison county were married yesterday. Mrs. Borden is 82 years old and her new husband is 71. The two have been acquainted and neighbors for half a century. Mrs. Borden has been married three times and all her husbands and children are dead. Mr. Bloomfelter has been married twice and no member of his family survives him. Both have considerable property. Mrs. Borden was in her childhood a playmate of Gen. William Henry Harrison.

BARBERS MUST REST

SUNDAY IF UMLAND'S HOUSE BILL BECOMES A LAW.

The sale of the patent "safety" razor will experience a sudden boom if the bill introduced in the house Saturday by Representative Umland becomes a law, says the Minneapolis Times. At the present time the commercial traveler hurrying to the city on a Saturday night late train loses not his peace of mind as he feels the growth of unsightly whiskers on his chin, for it is not hard to find a barber who will remove the stubble even on Sunday for perhaps a slightly increased rate.

If any shaving is done it will not be done in the barber shops, for Mr. Umland's bill provides that all curtains, screens and other obstructions will be removed from the windows and doors of the barber shops on Sundays. Failure to do this will be a misdemeanor, and the barber will, for each offense, pay an increased fine. If fines will not stop him, a straight jail sentence is provided.

ANTICIPATE TROUBLE

SETTLERS AND SQUATTERS ARRAYED AGAINST EACH OTHER.

Fargo, April 1.—United States Marshal Haggart received a telegram late Saturday afternoon relating to trouble among the settlers on Ft. Buford reservation. The land is to be thrown open for settlement in July, and it is said now that settlers and squatters are arrayed against each other and that the homes of the latter have been destroyed and their lives threatened. The marshal has communicated with the department at Washington and awaits instructions.

NOMINATED A DEAD MAN.

The prohibitionists of Southampton L. I., who control the town, met in convention last week to nominate candidates for office.

Lorenzo Bellows was nominated inspector of elections by a gentleman who used these words:

"He is a man who is not seeking the office. He does not want it, and I doubt if he would consent to have his name mentioned here if he knew about it. We want to fill all our offices with such men."

A committee was appointed to notify Mr. Bellows of the honor conferred upon him. After an hour's absence, they returned considerably dejected.

"Mr. Chairman," said the head of the committee, "we saw the widow of our candidate for inspector of elections, and she informs us that he couldn't serve. He has been dead a year."

MAJ. ANDRE'S DIARY.

London, April 1.—The diary of Maj. Andre, after lying hidden for a hundred years, has been discovered in England by Lord Gray, while he was going over a lot of old family papers. Lord Gray's great grandfather was a commander of British troops in America and Andre served on his staff. The diary is a story of the campaign day by day, during the years 1777, 1778. It is accompanied by maps, apparently drawn by Andre himself, and with a skill that would make him the equal of military hydrographers of today.

The diary ceases too early to throw new light upon the motives that prompted the tragic ending of his career.

NEW INVENTION.

Lisbon Gazette: Dr. R. R. Johnson, of this city, has demonstrated his skill and ingenuity in the facial line by inventing and making a flexible rubber plate to supply that natural deficiency for a young girl in the country. The doctor took a plaster cast of the roof of the mouth, including the cleft palate, made a metal mould and developed the flexible artificial palate, which is held in position by a gold plate fitting the roof of the mouth. This style of artificial palate has never been used in practice nor is it described in the books, hard rubber substitutes only having heretofore been used. This substitute closely resembles, and will answer every purpose of the natural palate, excepting as to sensitiveness.

STUDENTS DELIGHTED.

The party of Agricultural college students who returned a few days ago from visits to the Minnesota Experiment Station and President Hill's stock farm are loud in their praise and expressions of delight over the interesting sights they saw, and express themselves enthusiastically as to the value of the visits from an educational standpoint. At Mr. Hill's stock farm they saw the herds of North Dakota buffalo and elk to the best possible advantage. At the time of viewing the buffalo the animals took it into their heads to take a run, so that the boys came away prepared to write and tell their friends just about what a buffalo stampede is like. The boys say that that sight alone was worth all the trip cost.—Fargo Forum.

NEW COUNTERFEIT.

Washington, April 1.—Chief Wilkie, of the secret service, has announced that a new and improved issue of the counterfeit $5 silver certificate, series 1899, portrait of the Indian chief Onepapa, discovered on Oct. 23, 1900, has appeared in circulation. The check letter and plate number has been changed from B 20 to A 32.

A LITTLE BLAZE

A GASOLINE EXPLOSION CALLS OUT DEPARTMENT.

At about 11 o'clock Friday morning the fire department was called out on an alarm sent in from C. D. Billing's laundry, on North Main street. A tinsmith who had been engaged in repairing a leak in one of the pipes connecting with the gasoline tank in the boiler room of the laundry, got too near with his plumber's stove, which was burning, and it didn't take long to ignite the combustible fluid and cause a slight explosion. The fire was put out without the aid of the fire department, and the tinsmith who caused the excitement went through a window. When last seen he was on his way to Marin, or some other point south. The damage is nominal.

RETRIBUTION.

The Marshall County Banner says: "In the early history of Warren and Argyle, the entire county seat paraphernalia consisted of a large safe, which was brought to Argyle from Warren by a few of the faithful first settlers, and a county seat was established, but the Warren rough riders of that day hauled it back again, without saying "If you please" or "thank you" to the authorities of Argyle. In reference to this act many a man has said, "Don't you think that was a real mean trick?" Their punishment was a long time coming, but it came at last one day this week, and that at the hands of one of their own men. The mills of the gods grind slowly but exceedingly fine. Without any noise, silently and peaceably, W. F. Powell, the popular machine man, had the "county seat" brought back to its land of birth—Argyle, and no one dared to stop him. Will the court house follow in the same quiet and peaceable manner in the near future? Who can tell?

TO HELP BELTRAMI CO.

St. Paul, April 1.—The house committee having in charge the senate bill to help out the bankrupt condition of Beltrami county by removing the taxation limit, has decided to report a compromise amendment. By this amendment the levy is limited to $50,000 a year exclusive of the levy for the school fund. This gives the county a great deal more than it had before and yet puts a restriction on extravagance. The school levy is limited to ten mills, which is deemed sufficient to carry the schools of the county. The lumbermen that were opposing the bill are satisfied with this compromise and so are the people supporting the bill as it was.

MARCH SCHOOL REPORT.

Supt. Hitchcock's report for the month of March shows the total enrollment of pupils in the city exclusive of the Fifth ward, which is known as the Carman school, and is in a special district by itself, to be 1,259. Of these 184 are attendants at the high school and the rest are divided among the Central and the ward schools. The average daily attendance for the month has been 980. Six teachers are employed in the different departments of the high school, twelve in the Central school, four in the Fourth ward, two in the second ward and one in the Third ward.

MINERS MURDERED.

Phoenix, Ariz., March 30.—It is reported that a party of gold seekers was massacred by Ceris Indians on the island of Tiburon, in the Gulf of California. Two weeks ago six Mexican prospectors left Tepopa, on the west coast of Mexico, in a small boat and went to Tiburon island in search of gold. Pedro Parquila, one of the party, has reached the main land in a small boat, and reported a fierce fight with the Indians.

The moderately straight R & G No. 397 was and is the corset of comfort with the essence of style. It is straight enough for the prevailing vogue and curved enough to conform to healthful anatomical lines. In 1900 we were unable to fully meet the demand for straight-front goods and unwilling to resort to any makeshift to meet the conditions. At present, however, considerable additions to our factory facilities enable us to keep the trade supplied with real straight-front corsets at retail prices from $1.00 to $2.50, and also our 397, 197, Empire and other popular numbers. There are over seventy styles and sizes of R & G Corsets—a corset to fit every figure. R & G Corsets are the corsets that do not stretch. Every hairbreadth of stretch is taken out of the goods by means of steam-heated iron forms. This gives a permanency to the right shape and form that will stay in it until the last day you wear it. Every R & G Corset is sold with the understanding that it must give satisfaction to the wearer, or the dealer will supply a new one free of cost. If your dealer hasn't it, send us his name and we will see that you are supplied with what you want.

R & G CORSET CO.

363 BROADWAY NEW YORK

Polk County Journal,
BY N. S. GORDON.

☞ Subscription $1.50 per year in advance

Entered at the postoffice at Crookston, Minnesota, as second-class matter.

The Free Press published at Fergus Falls for which the subscription price has heretofore been 50 cents a year, announces that the price is to be advanced to $1.00 a year the first of May.

At the municipal election in Fargo Monday, 1,472 votes were polled, besides the usual percentage of defective ballots, which were thrown out. It was an aldermanic election only, and this vote was unusually large for such an election in that city. Hot contests raged in every ward.

The Sauk Rapids Sentinel says editorially.

"John Bull is not ahead of Uncle Sam on the war business. Just as often as John Bull declares the Boer war ended Uncle Sam announces that the incident is closed in the Philippines. De Wet is crazy and Aguinaldo dead. The latter is a very live corpse and John Bull is no doubt glad that there is but one crazy De Wet."

The election which was held in Grand Forks Monday is reported as having been an unusually quiet one, and that a very light vote was polled. There was only one ticket in the field and consequently nothing to give interest to the occasion. Only 106 votes were cast, which were divided among the different wards as follows: First ward 14, Second ward 16, Third ward 23, Fourth ward 13, Fifth ward 17 and Sixth ward 23.

It is not yet a settled matter, of course, but the prospects for an early spring were never better here than at the present time. The showers of Monday and Sunday night will possibly retard the proper conditions for seeding to some extent, but if no more rain falls, it is a question of but a very few days before seeding will commence quite generally. With a continuance of the present favorable weather, too, the river will soon be cleared of ice and the saws at the mill be set in motion. A sufficient quantity of logs are at hand to keep the mill busy until the drive reinforces the supply, and it is expected that all previous sawing records made by the mill here will be eclipsed this season.

The Chicago municipal election, which was held Tuesday, was more hotly contested than usual. The fight was over the mayoralty, Harrison, the present incumbent, being the democratic nominee, and Judge Elbridge Hanecy the republican nominee. Mayor Harrison is openly charged by the Inter-Ocean with having squandered over $27,000,000 of the city's money during the past four years, and it is very evident that vice and lawlessness have not been discouraged or restrained during his term of office. The issue is now sharply drawn between lawlessness and law observance, and the sympathies of the better class of people all over the country are strongly with the republican nominee. But neither side has positive assurance of success. Both sides, however, claim to be sure of victory. The republicans claim the city by from 8,000 to 30,000 plurality, while the democrats claim the plurality in favor of Harrison of from 30,000 to 40,000

Mrs. Evangeline Heartz of Denver enjoys the distinction of being a member of the Colorado assembly, and the only woman in it. She was chosen as a representative from Arapahoe county at the election held last fall and has won the highest esteem of the other members of that body. In recognition of her superior abilities, when a bill was under consideration in the assembly a few days since, in the discussion of which the speaker wished to participate, he called Mrs. Heartz to the chair, and she presided over the body in a manner that elicited much praise from the members. The debate is described as being an exciting one, but she was credited with firmness and good judgment in all her rulings.

PURE JEALOUSY.

The following deliverance of the Fergus Falls Free Press indicates a severe attack of visitation of the "green eyed monster," as no other hypothesis will satisfactorily explain it to a person who is familiar with our present prosperous condition:

Considerable counterfeit money is in circulation at present, and every now and then a worthless silver dollar makes its appearance. Last Saturday evening a stranger attempted to pass one of these on Assistant Ticket Agent Gus Alstrom of the Great Northern, but Gus had his weather optic open all the time, and he discovered the lack of genuineness at a glance and informed the stranger that only for his innocent appearance he would not let him off. The stranger claimed to have obtained the fake dollar piece in a Crookston business house.—Crookston Journal.

We are pleased to learn that Crookston has some kind of money. The other day a traveling man said there was not a cent in the place. To maintain the veracity of the traveling man we must conclude that the counterfeit money was slipped in after he shook the mud of Crookston off his feet.

Counterfeit money is away ahead of no money. It has been many years since we have taken the trouble to find out whether the large amount of money we handle was genuine or counterfeit. The republican principle of confidence works to advantage in the handling of money. A counterfeit dollar with confidence behind it is the best dollar in the world.

The trouble with the Crookston people is that they lack confidence in all kinds of money. This is owing to the fact that they see so little of it, and they treat all as a curiosity. If you give a Crookston man a dollar, and the shock does not place him in a horizontal position, he carefully feels of the money, then smells of it, and if you turn your head he slips it into his pocket and skips.

DEFINING OUR POSITION.

Crookston's municipal election for the year 1901 is now a thing of the past. Its outcome is no longer a matter of speculation and conjecture, but a determined fact. It is not as we would have had it, but it is as the majority of the voters of the city have decreed, and we bow to the decree and acquiesce in the verdict. The strongest desire of the Journal is the city's prosperity, and in this direction it is laboring to the best of its ability and according to its best judgment. Although disappointed, we have no sore head to nurse, or any spirit of revenge to gratify in retaliating on those whose opinions differ from ours, and who succeeded in thwarting our efforts to place our candidates in office. Crookston's interests are ours, and we have no disposition or intention to either sit down and pout and make faces, or to throw blocks in front of the wheels of progress when they are in motion. Nor shall we stand by with folded arms and withhold from the powers that are in control our aid in advancing the city's interests. So far as Mayor Campbell makes an effort and displays a disposition to work for the elevation and advancement of our city, the Journal will endorse and assist him. But we believe that all good citizens should unite with us in the demand for a more strict enforcement of the laws, and a reformation in the moral conditions that prevail. Our children, our homes and our reputation abroad all demand an improvement in the moral conditions of our city. And any policy that has a bearing upon these moral conditions, and whose natural tendency is to depress rather than elevate, will meet with our denunciation and opposition. In all matters pertaining to the business enterprises and improvements, we will do our best to aid and encourage them to the utmost along proper and judicious lines, just the same as though our favored candidate was the executive. And to our readers we say, now take hold together and if the outcome has been contrary to our judgment, work the more earnestly and avert the unfortunate consequences which we believe are liable to follow, and in this way prove our sincere loyalty to our city.

LAND OFFICE REPORT.

The Crookston land office business for the month of March sums up as follows.

151 homestead entries, 65 final homestead proofs, and 34 cash entries. The total receipts of the office during the month amounted to $11 872.23. During the same month last year there were 158 homestead entries filed 29 final homstead proofs and 29 cash entries, the total receipts being $11,059.98. During the quarter just closed the total receipts of the office were $24,469.15 against $20,471.57 for the same quarter in 1900.

FARGO LAND OFFICE.

The monthly and quarterly reports of the register and receiver of the Fargo landoffice was forwarded to the general land office at Washington Monday.

The report for the month ending March 31 shows the following transactions:

7 cash sales	$507.30

4 timber culture proofs	24.36
2 reservoir filings	4.00
7 cancellation notices	7.00
Total transactions for the month	$1,311.72

The report for the quarter ending March 31 shows the following:

84 homestead entries	$1,196.78
119 homestead proofs	902.54
13 timber culture proofs	99.13
22 cash sales	2,001.03
2 reservoir filings	4.00
18 cancellation notices	18.00
Total for quarter	$3,221.48

HAS BEEN THERE HIMSELF.

At a press association held in New York, Editor Klock of the Kingston (N. Y.) Daily Freeman read a paper and delivered himself thusly upon the subject of the adversities of the average editor.

A child is born; the doctor in attendance gets $10, the editor notes it, and gets 0. It is christened, and the minister gets $5, and the editor writes it up, and gets 00. It marries, and the minister gets another fee; the editor gets a piece of cake or 000. In the course of time it dies; the doctor gets from $5 to $100, and the minister perhaps gets another $5, the undertaker $25 or $50; the editor prints a notice of death and an obituary two columns long, a set of resolutions of some lodge or organization to which the deceased belonged, and receives 0000, and then has the privilege of running a free card of thanks and a lot of poetry besides.

THE LOST RIVER.

Long Standing Mystery now Solved by Discovery of Subteranean Lake.

A FASCINATING STORY.

Furnished to an Eastern Paper by a Minnesota Correspondent.

The following account of this mysterious stream, which is located in Beltrami county and in the eastern part of Polk county, was furnished by a Minnesota correspondent to an eastern paper and will be of interest to our readers, notwithstanding the fact that it bears evidence of emanating from an imagination of sufficient power to supply any small omissions of facts which would interfere with the continuity of the narrative:

This river, about which but little is known except, perhaps, by persons residing in the immediate vicinity, flows along through the woods and through the meadows near Windsor, in the northern part of the state, taking a dive into the bowels of the earth in several places, and then reappearing half a mile or so further on.

The Indians have long regarded the stream as the abode of the Evil Spirit, on account, possibly, of the roaring of the water as it plunges into the earth at the points where it disappears from sight, and although it is filled with fish, and noble game comes to drink of its waters, the red men keep aloof.

Nothing can tempt them to venture upon the stream, and as for shooting deer while the animals are drinking there, why, the most daring brave in Minnesota would turn white with fear were such a thing ever suggested in his hearing.

At the points where the river disappears into the earth are large holes or chasms, into which the water rushes with a noise like thunder as it seethes and boils in leaving the solid bed and plunges into space.

Time and again various persons have sent pieces of wood whirling into the maelstrom, only to have them appear later on at the point where the stream emerges from a cave in a hillside.

WATER ALWAYS WARM.

During the winter the surface of the water where it flows on top of the ground freezes over, but no matter how cold the weather or how solid the river is frozen, there is always warm water issuing from the cave, showing that the cold does not penetrate into the earth as far as does the stream, and showing, also, that inside the earth there is heat of some kind, intense enough to warm the water which passes near it.

Up to the present time no attempt has ever been made to solve the mystery of the strange river, and it is not likely that the attempt would have been made this time were there not a move being made to open the underground passageway for the benefit of the settlers, whose land is almost invariably overflowed in the spring, when the hole in the ground is not large enough to accommodate all the water which comes rushing down the stream and which spreads all over the adjacent country, causing much loss every year.

Carl Johnson, a young settler, with an investigating turn of mind, living on the bank of Lost River, near where it makes its first and greatest plunge into the earth, is the man who has solved the mystery of the stream, and on the report he has made the legislature has been asked to appropriate enough money to pay for the opening of the subterranean passages and thus free the settlers from a danger that constantly menaces their little farms.

CAPTURES STRANGE FISH.

Johnson is one of the men who at different times has sent pieces of wood through the underground passage. At one time, simply out of curiosity, he tied a short piece of line, with a hook at the other end, to a piece of timber which he cast into the torrent. An hour or so later the timber emerged from the cave half a mile away, and on the hook was a small fish, blind and almost white, resembling to some extent a perch.

This capture determined Johnson to make a further investigation. Several days ago, accompanied by Axel Peterson, a friend, he began the work of solving the mystery of the stream, and the following narrative, related by himself, shows how well he succeeded in his undertaking.

The most remarkable part of the whole story is that Johnson is alive to tell the tale, for he was very near death several times and encountered horrors that were sufficient to turn the brain of a less courageous man.

Johnson and Peterson first went to the cave in the hillside, half a mile below where the river enters the earth, and tried to work their way up stream. They had proceeded but a few rods when they were halted by a solid wall of stone and earth through which the water gushed like mad. It was impossible to reach the aperture, on account of the rush of hot water, and they were afraid to attack the wall with picks, not knowing what sort of a flood they might let loose if they succeeded in breaking through it.

TO ENTER THE EARTH.

Leaving the cave they retraced their steps to the point where the stream falls into the earth. With them they carried long poles and ropes, wishing to determine if possible the depth of the chasm into which the river was falling.

In this they were unsuccessful, and for a time both men were on the point of giving up their quest. Johnson, however, is made of stern stuff, and finally decided to have himself lowered into the rush of waters as they took their plunge downward into the unknown depths of the earth.

In vain Peterson endeavored to persuade his companion to give up the plan, but Johnson, saying he was all alone in the world, with no one looking to him for support, declared he would make a try at it, anyway, just for luck.

Tying a long rope around his waist and giving the other end to Peterson to hold, he entered the river a short distance above the point where it drops into the earth, and began wading directly toward the chasm.

Just as he reached the spot where the water drops straight down, Johnson endeavored to shout something to Peterson, but the thunder of the storm drowned his voice, so he raised one hand over his head and began waving it at the man on the bank, who, thinking Johnson was drowning, let go the rope in his excitement.

"When I felt myself at the place where the water dropped into the earth I felt mighty shaky for a minute, I can tell you," says Johnson, in relating the adventure.

"But, as I felt myself pulled down, down, down, I had the good sense to hold my breath, else I should, in all probability, have been drowned. The drop was not a long one—about 15 or 20 feet I should say, and then my feet touched bottom.

"All this time, of course, I was being carried further and further into the earth, but that did not bother me to any great extent, for at the time I did not realize that Peterson had let go of the rope around my waist.

"My head, after I had been borne along for a rod or so, came out of water and I at once opened my eyes. What I saw now seems like a dream, and it is hard to make myself believe I was really there, instead of having read about it in a book of fairy tales.

"Instead of there being simply a tunnel, or underground passage, as I had supposed, there was a lake, upon the edge of which I stood and gazed in wonder.

"This lake, possibly half a mile wide, with a strong current flowing directly throught it, from north to south, and I judged correctly. I later found that the inlet and the outlet were the hole through which I had come and the cave where we first tried to proceed up the river.

"I was standing in a vast cave, only just high enough in some places for me to stand upright in, and at other points the earth and rock roof was many feet above my head. The ceiling, if I may call it the ceiling, sloped away to the edge of the lake on all sides, except in one place, which I subsequently found was the outlet.

"Considerable light entered the cavern through the hole into which the water of the river was pouring, and by this I was able to see about me.

"The air was warm, even hot at one side of the cave, and this was caused, I discovered, by the presence of a large number of boiling springs, close to the edge of the lake. The water here was so hot I could scarcely hold my hand in it for even a moment.

Near these springs were a group of stalactites, hanging from the ceiling of the cave, and a pretty sight they presented, their sharp points coming to within a few feet of the water.

"Almost under them were several white objects, which, upon examination, I found to be human bones. They were probably the bones of a man who had been drowned in the river and had been carried into the underground lake.

"The finding of them gave me a decided shock for a few minutes, and if it had been possible for me to have run away I think I should have done so, but as I saw no way of getting out just then, I remained as calm as possible, and continued my investigation.

"While wading around a big rock that projected out into the lake I felt something strike my foot, and on reaching down grasped a smooth, slippery object that twisted and turned in my hand as it tried to free itself. It was a fish, possibly six inches long, of the same variety as near as I could judge as the one I caught some time ago, when I sent a piece of timber to which I had tied a fish line, through the underground passage.

HAS PLENTY TO DO.

"Had it been possible I would have brought the fish out with me, but I and all I wanted to bring myself out, let alone carrying anything with me.

"After trying in vain to walk clear around the lake I was forced to quit, because in several places there was no beach at all—the water came close up to the walls of the cave, and seemed to be of great depth. Just how deep it was I cannot, of course, say, as I had no means of measuring it, but was so forbidding looking that I kept out of it.

"On a little rocky ledge near the inlet of the lake, where the water was ice cold, I found a big plank that had evidently floated into the cave in high water and been left high and dry for my especial use, it seemed. Using this plank as a support I ferried myself half swimming across the lake to what seemed to me the outlet.

"There was but little expenditure of muscle needed in crossing the lake, as the current bore me along almost as fast as I wanted to go and when I neared the southern wall of the cavern I could hear the roaring of the water as it forced its way out.

"There was but little light at this side of the lake, and several times my courage failed me, for I realized that if the outlet were too small for me to escape through, I would probably die where I was, as it was impossible to get out the way I came in.

SLAMMED AGAINST A WALL

"I cannot tell just exactly how it was, but somehow or other the current caught me right when I neared the hole through which the water, now warm and pleasant, was issuing from the big cave, and before I could do anything to help myself I was slammed up against a wall of rock and hard earth in a way that made my teeth rattle. For a moment I thought I was lost for sure.

"While the upper half of my body was on the plank my legs were deep in the water, and the suction of the stream as it poured through the opening in the wall almost dragged me down. By hard work I managed to push myself to one side, where the undertow was not so great, and in this way rested while I regained my breath and my nerve.

"It seemed to me as if I had been underground for a week, and at last I began to get frightened in earnest. I made up my mind that I had to get out, and get out quick, too.

"By feeling around with my feet I located the hole through which the water was issuing, and made a bluff at trying to determine the size of it, It seemed large enough for me to go through, so I determined to try it.

"Taking a long breath I dropped from my plank and tried to sink rapidly to where I knew the hole was. The force of the current pushed me up against the wall, and for a few seconds I thought I could not get away. At last I got my feet down where I could use them, and the rest was easy sailing.

"By pushing against the wall with both hands, and downward at the same time, I finally managed to get squarely into the exit, through which the water was pouring in a solid stream.

"The hole was much larger than I had supposed, even after having looked at the place from the other side, and I found no difficulty in getting through it. I really had nothing to do except guide myself the best I could, for the force of the water carried me along.

"When I finally let go of the rock and pushed myself into the hole, it was as though I were being shot out of a gun—in less time than it takes to tell it I was jammed through the solid jet of water and thrown way out into the little cave from which the water issues.

"Fortunately for me, the water was shallow at this point, and I was rolled and tumbled along for a good many feet before I could get my head sufficiently clear to arise and wade to the shore.

"Peterson was waiting for me, or rather he was waiting to recover my body, for he believed I had been drowned. When I came out alive he was the most astonished man I have seen for many a day, and wanted me to tell him all about my experiences while underground.

"He had built a big fire on the bank of the river, and had it not been for this I probably would have frozen, for the change from the heat of the underground lake to the cold of the outdoors, as it were, was great, and before I realized it I was shivering and shaking like a good fellow. Incidentally, I want to remark that if I ever go through the lake again it will be in the summer time.

MANY CURIOUS THINGS.

"It seems strange to me that no one has ever known of this underground lake before. There are many curious things down there and I'd like to go back again. I only hope the legislature will do something toward taking the cover off—of course, the expense will be great, and a whole lot of earth and rock will have to be removed, but it will pay, for then there will be no more chances of overflows in the spring.

"I don't blame the Indians for believing the place is the abode of the Evil Spirit. It certainly is a gloomy place to be alone, especially when you run across the bones of a dead man, as I did.

"How many years they have been in that cavern probably never will be known. They may be the bones of a prehistoric man, for all I know, or care. I have not lost any bones and don't want to find any more."

It is more than likely that steps will be taken in the near future, even if the legislature declines to appropriate money for opening the place, to have a thorough examination made of the underground lake.

Scientists who have been told of the find say that such lakes and caverns are not uncommon in various parts of the country, and that nearly all of them possess the same general characteristics.

This is the first time, however, that such a lake has been found in Minnesota, and it has aroused much curiosity on the part of persons who have heard of it.

Providing nothing is done in the matter by the state, Mr. Johnson will, during the coming summer, endeavor to open a shaft down into the cavern, erect a windlass over the shaft, and after putting boats on the lake, open a resort for visitors, many of whom, no doubt, will be attracted by the novelty of going down a mine in order to reach a lake that has never seen the light of day.

SUMMONS.

State of Minnesota, County of Polk.—ss.

In District Court.

E. E. Hall, Plaintiff, against J. A. Husebye, Defendant.

The State of Minnesota to the above named defendant:

You are hereby summoned and required to answer the complaint of the plaintiff in the action above entitled which complain has bee filed and is on file with the Clerk of this court, at his office in said county and to serve a copy of your answer to said complaint on the undersigned at his office in the city of Crookston in said Polk county within twenty days after the service of this summons upon you exclusive of the day of such service and if you fail to answer said complaint within the time aforesaid the plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

—Miss Mae Houston of Fairfax was the guest of Miss Maybelle McCabe over Sunday.

—O. L. Olson, an experienced dry goods and grocery clerk of Fisher, has accepted a position in Schraeder's store on North Main street.

—F. W. Flanders of Warren came up from St. Paul Monday and made the Journal a pleasant call while waiting for his train home.

—Chas. Wentz, who came here from Grafton some time ago to attend the Crookston college, has taken a position in Wallace's drug store.

—The people who have been confined under quarantine for several weeks past in the St. James hotel were given their liberty Monday, the quarantine having been raised.

—Architect Strasburger has removed his office to the opera house block and is now installed in the room formerly occupied by the probate judge.

—The trustees of the Presbyterian church wish to announce that they have reinforced the heating apparatus of the church and no one need fear a chilly atmosphere in the auditorium tomorrow.

—The work committee of the Ladies' Aid society of the Congregational church desire that all who are to donate articles to the fair send them to Mrs. Fred Hall, 228 Houston avenue, not later than Saturday afternoon of this week.

—Judge Montague is in receipt of a letter from one of his attorney friends in the east, in which the writer seeks to locate a former Polk county citizen. He says: "If he is alive, let me know his address. If dead, I know he is in heaven, for he was a Frenchman."

—Mr. Carl Bergman arrived from Chicago Monday to take charge of Ferguson's art gallery. Mr. Bergman has the reputation of being a very fine artist and will have full charge. Mr. Ferguson's time will be taken up in conducting his fruit and confectionery business.

—Prof. A. M. Dunton, of the Fertile school, is at work arranging the details for the joint field day meet to be held in Red Lake Falls. Crookston, Fertile and Red Lake Falls schools will take part in the contests. Arrangements will be made for a special train to run from here.

—Deputy United States Marshal P. O. Stephen passed through here last evening from off the north line, having in his possession three mounted moose heads which he seized in one of the towns in Red Lake county. Since the recent raid was made at Thief River Falls it is not safe to own a mounted head of the forest king in these parts.

—Beltrami County Advocate: While digging a well on his well about two miles south of town, when about 30 feet below the surface, John Longeway dug out several specimens of wood in as perfect a state of preservation as if had not been buried more than a year. One of these specimens is now on exhibition in the show case at the Excelsior, which is worth your inspection.

The Press (Thief River Falls) makes the following pathetic utterance and appeal: "Persistent rumors of a passenger train on this branch are circulated in the comunity. If your Uncle James opens his heart to that extent, the suffering public can only be grateful. It is not always wise to monkey with millionaires. but—O, Uncle Jim, won't you be good?

—Frank Gerrish, who has been acting as assistant in the office of the chief dispatcher of the northern division of the Great Northern road at Grand Forks, has been promoted to the office of chief dispatcher to succeed C. T. Kittridge, who died a few days since. Mr. Gerrish is spoken of as one of the most popular young men in the employ of the company, and his many friends will no doubt be pleased to learn of his promotion.

—Stephen has invented a new health regulation, says the Warren Register. The village trustees recently having a case of smallpox, confined the patient in the village lock-up, but this action displeased the unvaccinated citizens of the town so much that they came together after dark and moved the lock-up with its patient out on the prairie. Warren might profit by imitating this new quarantine regulation. The next time the depot agent waves that red flag of his, which is the adopted signal for smallpox, the citizens ought to abide the signal and move the old shack out to the city dump.

—Cass Lake Times: We have long known that the brain of the local editor of the Crookston Times was as fertile as the soil upon which he lives, but we did not think him "soft" enough to swallow the fake bit of sensation which appeared in that paper on Monday of this week. There is not a shadow of truth in the report and the people of Cass Lake are not pleased with any paper which allows such lying, sensational articles to be published. If the Crookston Times has a correspondent here it is quite time to cast him out where the bears will get him, failing to do so the management of that paper must shoulder the consequences.

—Miss Nellie Young returned to her school in the country Monday morning after spending Sunday at home.

Marriage licenses were issued Tuesday to Philip St. George and Essie Finnell, and also to Frank Holuh and Annie Chapek.

—C. A. Tullar of Warren was an over Sunday visitor in the city, on his return from St. Paul, and awaiting his home bound train.

—Bemidji sends quite a delegation to attend the session of the United States district court, among them being D. H. Fisk, Tom Newby and Dr. Blakley.

—The Hallock News says: Farmers expect seeding operations to be in full blast by the latter part of next week. The ground is fast becoming dried and ready for the seed.

—Mrs. E. Collins, who recently purchased the Conette property on Lincoln Avenue, has now occupied the residence and will make this city her permanent home.

—Reports from Euclid say that "Carl Yonson," which was presented there by home talent a few nights ago, was a decided success, the characters being very well taken.

—Miss Dora Elkhof, of the Journal force, has returned from a two months' pleasure trip to Washington, Oregon and Idaho. On her trip Miss Elkhof met many old acquaintances and former residents of this city, among them the Utzinger families, Jacob and Conrad, who are now located in Astoria, Oregon.

Zan Farley, proprietor of the Hotel Crookston barber shop, has secured the services of A. J. Young of St. Paul as an assistant. Mr. Young has a reputation as a skilled workman, having won first prize in an open shaving contest held by the state barbers in St. Paul last summer. He is also an expert in ladies' and children's hair dressing.

—The Shelly Signal says: "The following was sprung by one of the "smart set" a few nights ago: 'If Postmaster Moen should go out wolf hunting and be unfortunate enough to be eaten up by the wolves, what time would it be?' Of course the conundrum was given up and the said member of the s. s., with a mischievous wink, said: 'Ate P. M.' And yet he was allowed to go home unmolested."

Grafton Record: If Fargo people want the Herald, why don't they take it? It is worth every cent Mr. Winship asks for it, $4.00 a year; but the whole printing office, sign and all, will come higher. If there is any danger of losing it, Grand Forks citizens should take a stronger grip by giving the paper bigger and better support; they can't afford to lose the Herald—it will be like pulling teeth, and a good many people can't stand the pain.

—A man who detested nick names named his sons with the special purpose of preventing them being called by anything but their right names. He called the first Edmund, the second Edward, the third Edgar, the fifth Edson and the sixth Egbert. The result was they were known respectively as "Eddie," "Chuck," "Bim," "Snorkey," "Muggins" and "Pete," and every mother's son of them answered proudly to his nick name.

—The Marshall County Leader explains as follows: The Warren Register claims that our citizens got together after dark and moved our city lock-up out onto the prairie, because they feared a smallpox patient was confined therein. It beats the world how some papers delight in making it appear that other towns near by are anything but well regulated. The Register evidently wishes to convey the idea that Stephen is subject to mob law and that a vigilance committee takes charge of affairs. For the benefit of the aforesaid newspaper, with very light accent on the news, we will say that the old jail building was moved in broad daylight, by a party who had secured a contract from the village to do so. It will be used, in case of an emergency, as a pest house.

—The Owatonna Journal has a decided opinion about Limburger and expresses it in this way: "Limburger cheese laid away in cupboards and refrigerators will drive away ants, says a well posted newspaper man. No doubt of it; it will drive dogs out of a tan yard; it will drive a spike through a brick wall; it will drive a mule through a barbed wire fence; it will drive a herd of cattle over a precipice; it will drive a tramp away from a meal of victuals; it will drive a negro from a chicken roost or a man into insanity who stays five minutes within ten feet of its savory presence; yes, sir, it will drive away "ants" and also uncles, and if I had any cousins that it would not drive away I would be tempted to disown them, and yet some men would sit and eat the stuff and profess to like it.

—The Bagley Independent says: "J. P. Nygaard, ex-sheriff of this county, and more recently a member of the corps of estimators employed by the government in the Indian territory, has resigned his position under the government and says there is not any attraction in that country for a native of Minnesota. The timber to be estimated is all on the mountain sides, the weather always bad, the chuck scarce and everything from a cook stove to a pint of milk has to be packed in on burros. Jake says he has slept out several nights and suffered terribly with the cold, although being well provided with bedding. Mr. Nygaard is no hog, and knows when he has enough, and declares he will settle down either at Halstad, Minn., or in this county and make the best of life.

—John Sangstad has completed a successful term of school at Eldred.

—Will Finleyson is down from Angus and purchased a fine team of horses.

—Geo. W. Penmon, of Rock Rapids, Ia., is here negotioting for some of our farming lands.

—A marriage license was issued today to Chas. A. Carlson and Miss Lyuia Lindholm, both of Crookston.

—Martin Benson is a new student who will take the commercial course at the Crookston college. His home is at Newfolden, Marshall county.

—Mrs. McCloud, Mrs. Clement's mother, and Miss Bessie Clements, went to St. Thomas Monday for a few days' visit with relatives.

—Mrs. Wm. Pape of Northland was examined Monday as to her sanity and the board decided that she was not a fit subject for an asylum, so she was taken to her home.

—Services will be held the balance of this week in the Episcopal church every day at 10 o'clock in the morning and 7:30 in the evening. On Friday three services will be held.

—Letters testamentary in the estate of Chris Greenhalgh, deceased, have been admitted to probate and Mrs. Lavina Greenhalgh, widow of the deceased, was appointed administratrix of the estate.

—The attention of our readers is invited to the Kiewel shoe store ad in another column of the Journal. It contains an announcement which is of interest to everybody who wears shoes.

—Sheriff Bailey came down from Bemidji Tuesday, bringing with him Dyer Davis, who will board with Jailor Barness until next September, there being no term of court in Beltrami county until that time.

—Julien Lalonde, a farmer living in the town of Crookston died Monday, aged 37 years. Deceased leaves a wife and two young children to mourn his demise. Mr. Lalonde had a wide circle of friends in this city and vicinity who will learn with much regret his death.

—Seven prisoners who are confined in the Beltrami county jail at Bemidji succeeded in securing possession of a case knife, and proceeded to saw off the window bars which prevented their escape to liberty. After a week's labor had been directed toward the desired end, and when they began to feel quite hopeful of success, they were discovered at the work by Sheriff Baily Monday, and the game was up.

—Prof. and Mrs. John Moore returned Tuesday from a three months' trip to California. In telling of the trip Mr. Moore says he cannot speak too highly of California as a place to live, and thinks it is nearer than any other place he ever visited to what he presumes the Garden of Eden is like. Their time was spent in the southern part of the state, visiting all the principal winter resorts. Mr. and Mrs. Moore's many friends will be very pleased to have them back again.

—James Montague returned from Fargo Tuesday. While there he wrote for the civil service examination. This being a general examination a large number of candidates were answering Uncle Sam's questions.

—A town in the valley that cannot boast of from one to twenty land offices is a very poor one. Euclid isn't one of the poor kind, a new office being opened there this week, just to let people know that they can get cluy near the burg, provided they have the price.

—The contract for excavating the basement for the old court house, which has been purchased by the Odd Fellows lodge, and who will remove it from its present location to the corner of Ash and Robert street and entirely remodel it, has been let to Geo. Castle, who will begin work at once.

—The Modern Woodmen will give a grand ball at their hall Easter Monday evening, to give the new hardwood floor, which has just lately been put into the building, a thorough test. Tickets for the occasion are sold for one dollar each, and can be procured from any member of the lodge.

—H. A. Mason, an old time business man and resident of Crookston, is in the city. He is now on the road for a Minneapolis concern, but has lost none of his old time vigor and enthusiastic admiration for the Queen City. He says that over all his territory, Crookston is the best advertised city in the valley, and he predicts that in ten years we will be head and shoulders above our rivals, Grand Forks and Fargo.

—Another train load of land seekers and excursionists from southern Minnesota and Iowa arrived on the early G. N. passenger yesterday morning, and a great many of them stopped over here. The hotels are nearly all crowded today in consequence of the large transient trade, and the landlords are wearing broad smiles upon their countenances.

FORBIDDEN USE OF MAILS.

Washington, April 1.—The postoffice is investigating an advertisement published in Sioux Falls, S. D., offering to raffle the farm of Clarke L. Coates of Sioux Falls. If the advertisement is found to have been sanctioned by Coates, the remedy of the government will be the issuance of a lottery order forbidding the use of the mails. Pending the investigation the postmaster at Sioux Falls has been ordered to refuse to receive any mail deposited by Coates relating to the advertised offer. The authorities refuse to say whether any mail for Coates has been ordered to be withheld from him.

TAKES BIRD'S EYE VIEW OF US.

The Red Lake Co. Courier looks at us this way.

"With the advent of spring comes the old-time Crookston scrap over the mayoralty election. The McKenzie Stephens gang who have held sway there for years prior to the election of Nat Campbell, have headed their ticket with the only original M. R. Brown, while Campbell has proved a favorite with his followers who have re-nominated him. And now the battle wages warm. Little Mack, who has been shouting Campbell daily for the past year, has gone back to his first love, and Knappen is for any and everything that is anti-Times. The Journal, too, dips in its little say, and unless indications mistake, the readers of the Queen city papers will be treated to a whole lot of hot stuff, laden with the editor's personal spites, before another week rolls around.

FIRE AT FARGO.

Monday evening shortly after six the Fargo fire department was called to Front street to extinguish a blaze in the Fair store, owned by L. T. Moon. When the firemen arrived the whole interior of the store was black with smoke, although the flames were confined to a comparatively small place in the rear. After some good energic work the flames were subdued. The loss from the flames will scarcely exceed $2.50, but the damage by smoke and water will be several thousand dollars. Mr. Moon caries a stock of merchandise which at this time of the year is worth nearly $12,000, which is insured for less than $6,000. The loss is amply covered by the insurance. The damage to the building is slight. The origin of the fire is unknown.

NOTICE FOR PUBLICATION.

Department of the Interior, Land Office at Crookston, Minn., March 7, 1901.

Notice is hereby given that the following named settler has filed notice of his intention to make final proof in support of his claim, and that said proof will be made before the Register and Receiver of the U. S. land office at Crookston, Minnesota on April 16th, 1901, viz:

Ole P. Sessaas H. E. 17079, for the e½ sw¼ and lots 6 and 7, Sec. 6, Tp. 147 N., R. 45 W.

He names the following witnesses to prove his continuous residence upon and cultivation of said land, viz:

Ole O. Balstad, Fertile Minn., Haftor B. Haftorson, Melvin, Minn.; Ole Tarvestad, Fertile, Minn.; Hans Holmvik, Beltrami, Minn. —SYLVESTER PETERSON, Register.

FOSSTON'S SCHOOLS.

A manual of the Fosston schools is now being prepared under the direction of the board of education and the principal, and will be issued from this office in the course of four or five weeks, says the Fosston Thirteen Towne. It will be a book of forty or fifty pages and will be an outline of the school work from the first to the eighth grades, together with a manual of the four high school grades. It will also contain many valuable suggestions for the teachers, and a large amount of general information. The issue of the manual is made necessary from the fact that the Fosston schools will be raised next year from the rank of graded school to a state high school and entitled to the state aid of $800, which is likely to be increased to $1,000 by the present legislature.

MINNEAPOLIS HAZERS.

Sunday's Minneapolis Tribune says: It leaked out last night that 25 of the young men of the Central high school were enjoying the biggest hazing affair that they have promoted for some time. The young men in question slipped out of town quietly yesterday morning with a fellow student in tow, who was to be shown an example of genuine western hazing. The boys were bound for Buffalo lake, where the victim was to be given something to think of for some time to come. Nothing has been heard from the company yet, as the affair did not become known until last night. The victim, they asserted, was "too fresh" with the member of a certain "frat."

MARRIED HER PUPIL.

Pittsburg, April 1.—Agnes McCall, a teacher in the Sixth ward public school, Allegheny, has resigned her place because the school directors learned that she was married. The board of education long ago adopted the rule that no married teacher may serve. Miss McCall is 38 years of age. A year ago she and Frederick Taylor, a 17 year old pupil, were married secretly in Washington. Since then she has paid careful attention to the boy's education and supplied him liberally with spending money. Young Taylor will leave school, but will study at night under his wife's direction and work in his father's office during the day.

HE HAS OUR SYMPATHY.

The editor of this paper lost a five dollar bill last Thursday noon somewhere on Front street between Bockue' store and the Norwegian church. Some of my friends may be somewhat suspicious as to how I happened to have such a large sum about my person at one and the same time, but I can assure them it does not happen often, and the loss is all the more keenly felt. If the person who found said five dollar William will return it to the editor, his or her picture will be printed in the next issue of this Christian journal.—Baldwin (Wis.) Independent.

FATALLY ASPHYXIATED.

Sioux Falls, S. D., April 1.—Mrs. Joseph Holland and her 11 year old son were asphyxiated by coal gas, the bodies being discovered Saturday morning. Holland was discovered by the neighbors in time to save his life. The family came here from Buxton, N. D., ten years ago.

N. S. GERVAIS,
"THE BOSTON"

NEXT P. M. GENERAL.

WILL BE G. G. CORTELYOU, THE PRESIDENT'S SECRETARY.

Washington, March 30.—The next postmaster general of the United States will be George B. Cortelyou, at present secretary to President McKinley. It has been decided by Mr. McKinley to give Mr. Cortelyou a cabinet office, and the latter will accept the place with satisfaction personally to himself and to this great department. It is not necessary to explain why Mr. Cortelyou will be acceptable to this high office, to the department of which he will be the head and to the people of the country.

Postmaster General Smith is by no means forced to resign his present position. Mr. Smith is anxious to represent this government at the court of St. James, considered at this time one of the highest diplomatic positions within the gift of the president of the United States and one which Mr. Smith will undoubtedly be able to fill with great satisfaction to the McKinley administration. It is conceded that Mr. Cortelyou will make a good postmaster general.

R. L. COUNTY OFFICERS

ARE TO FIND THEMSELVES UP AGAINST THE REAL THING.

The Minneapolis Tribune is authority for the statement that Executive Agent Fullerton will make charges against the constables and sheriff of Red Lake county, who recently interfered with the game wardens, and endeavored to replevin game seized by Agent Fullerton and his wardens at Thief River Falls.

Wm. Beazie, one of the constables, has written a letter to Agent Fullerton apologizing for his conduct and stating he would be glad to aid in the enforcement of the game laws hereafter.

SMART LITTLE GIRL

GIVES ALARM OF FIRE AND SAVES HER HOME.

Camden, N. J., March 29.— Held in the arms of a fireman, who threw about her his great coat as a protection against the cold which her night clothes did not afford, Mamie Brogan, 6 years old, led the engines this morning to a fire which threatened her home.

The child, pinched with cold and almost speechless from terror, appeared in the fire house at 8 o'clock. "Fire!" she whispered, and pointed toward Kaighn avenue. Her feet were bare and her little body was covered only by her "nighty." She had run from her home, four blocks away, to give the alarm. The fire was started by children playing with matches. It was extinguished in a few minutes.

PAROLE BILL PASSED

ONLY NEEDS GOV. VAN SANT'S SIGNATURE NOW.

Deming's parole bill, which is now conceded to have been prepared in the interests of the Younger brothers in Stillwater prison for murder, was passed by the senate Thursday by a vote of 40 to 17. None of the opponents made any fight against it, as the victory was practically won several days ago when the measure was considered in a committee of the whole. In explaining his vote, Senator Schaller stated that Minnesota had achieved much honor throughout the union for the prompt manner in which the horrible outrage at Northfield had been punished, and he wanted the state always to be known as a bad place for outlaws to venture into. So he voted "no." While in favor of exercising clemency, Senator Miller declared that he objected to holding up criminals of the Younger class to the youth of the state as heroes, as was being done by speakers in the legislature, and for that reason he voted against the bill.

AGGY COMFORTABLE

UNDER GUARD IN PALACE IN MANILA.

Manila, March 30.—Aguinaldo is now detained in a comfortable room in a wing of the Malacanan palace. He is in charge of Captain Benjamin H. Randolph and Lieutenant Gilbert A. Youngberg of Battery G, Third artillery.

When Aguinaldo was captured he wore a plain dark blue suit, with the coat closely buttoned at the throat, and a wide white helmet with a leather band. He takes his capture philosophically. He is generally cheerful, but sometimes moody. His health during the past year has been very good. It is uncertain what attitude he will now assume.

Some visitors are permitted to see Aguinaldo, but newspaper interviews with the prisoner are not allowed.

Since Aguinaldo has been domiciled at the Malacanan palace persons not provided with special permits have been refused admission to the grounds.

FOR CONSCIENCE FUND.

Hon. H. H. Gray of Luverne, Minn., received through the mail an envelope bearing a Deadwood (S. D.) postmark, containing a $10 contribution to the conscience fund. An attached letter contained but one word—"conscience." The letter had originally been addressed to Darlington, Wis., Mr. Gray's old home, which leads him to think the sender to be an aged man and the debt an old one, for it has been twenty years since he left Darlington.

SHARPS AND FLATS

Well, Legislators, how do you like to be Jacobsonized?

Hi, there, Mr. Carnegie! Please may Crookston have a library?

A large number of young lady students at Lake Forest University have the Mumps.

There is now but one ex-president of the U. S. living. It is unhealthy to be an ex-president.

The "Board of Control" bill ought to be amended so as to place the legislature under its control.

W. J. Bryan, in the "Commoner" accuses Grover Cleveland of being "invincible in peace" and invisible in war."

Editor Rice, who was fired back to his native soil by Gen. McArthur, knows what it is to be benevolently assimilated.

A young girl in Pennsylvania committed suicide because she was unable to pay a debt of $7. The wise person lets the "other fellow" do such things.

A man traveling in Iowa was robbed of $21,000. Journal readers are cautioned not to aquire the habit of carrying around more than $15,000 in their clothes.

At present Jacobson is holding his kopje against the corruptionists, who are taking refuge in the tall timber. Hitherto they have been "taking things easy."

J. J. Hill denies that the recent issue of $25,000,000 Great Northern stock was for the purpose of "getting next" the Minnesota legislature. They come cheaper than that.

There seems to be more gold mining companies than land companies. You are not in it unless you have a few shares in "The Great International Consolidated Holdemupandskinem Gold Mining Company" of Bitter Creek.

Mark Twain has been called upon to retract the the double back action, twin screwed roast be administered to the missionaries in China, some time ago. Twain now knows how Satan feels when a Methodist missionary gets him on the hip.

To the end that the public service may not be impaired in any branch, we rise to suggest that all our "dead and down" politicians who have been rejected by the people, and who cannot make a living, be placed on the pension list instead of being appointed to fill important positions. These "dead duck" appointments, such as World's Fair Commissioners, give the whole community a tired feeling.

A printer working in Emporia, Kan., went house hunting and found difficulty in securing a desireable place because he had three young children, says the Fargo Forum. Then he advertised for a house, adding by the way of a joke that he was prepared if necessary to kill two of the young ones. The advertisement appeared in a weekly paper and the next morning his wife presented him with twins.

DID IT HIMSELF

GOVERNORS REFUSED TO SIGN DEATH WARRANT.

Leavenworth, Kan., March 30.—After begging and imploring three governors to sign his death warrant, Taylor Cook, a convict at the state penitentiary at Lansing, hanged himself in his cell.

In 1889 this man turned into a human fiend by jealousy, murdered his wife with an ax near Greenwood, and hacked her body into threads. Cook was sentenced to be hanged, but in Kansas they do not hang, the governor never signs the warrant, and the condemned man was sent to the penitentiary for life.

"Please sign my warrant," he asked Governors Morrill, Leedy and Stanley. When asked once why he did not take his own life, he replied it was a sin. But finally, with a sheet of wire used in holding up bunks, he strangled himself.

SEED GRAIN LOANS

MARSHALL COUNTY HAS MANY APPLICATIONS.

The county commissioners met Friday and Saturday to act on seed grain applications, says the Warren Sheaf. Loans to the amount of $5,217.50 were allowed and quite a number of applications rejected. Some applications have since been received by the auditor, too late to be considered according to the provisions of the law. The county has lost considerable money on the two former seed grain loans, and it is a question whether the present law was really necessary. The low rate of interest, only 4 per cent, made it an inducement for those who were well able to procure their own seed grain, to make application under the law. The commissioners of Polk and Otter Tail counties rejected all applications and refused to take advantage of the law.

TEXAS STORM SWEPT.

Dallas, Texas, March 30.—There was a terrific rain and hail storm over northern Texas yesterday afternoon. The damage at Dallas from water in cellars and stores is estimated at $100,000.

WASHINGTON LETTER

MARYLAND ELECTION LAW IS CONSIDERED AT LENGTH.

Washington, Mar. 30.—"There is nothing to be gained" said a Republican Senator, recently, "by misrepresenting the new Maryland election law, as some people seemed disposed to do. The law itself is not unfair, being modeled on that now prevailing in Massachusetts. It differs from the Mississippi and South Carolina laws in that its provisions apply to white and black alike and do not provide for any "grandfather" or other clause designed to exclude illiterate negroes and permit illiterate white men to vote. Possibly the enforcement of the law may throw an advantage to the whites, but this is not yet certain.

"The criticism of the new law should be based on deeper and more potent grounds. The question at issue, partisianship aside, is merely whether it is right and proper for any State, northern or southern, Republican or Democrat, to be allowed to disfranchise a large percentage of its citizens without paying for it in reduced representation in Congress and in the electoral college.

"This applies to Massachusetts as well as to Mississippi. The Maryland law, which is undoubtedly constitutional, is just exactly the same as though the Republicans in Illinois should pass a law giving a high-class education test for voters in order to disfranchise the illiterate laborers of Chicago. It may be assumed that more of these are Democrats than Republicans, and that, therefore, such a law would be to the political advantage of the Republicans. The Pennsylvania legislature might pass such a law affecting the illiterate coal miners and very soon, if this thing were permitted to go on, we should have large numbers of citizens disfranchised to enable one party to regain or retain control. It requires no strong prophetic vision to see that strong party organization in other States will soon devise plans to strengthen themselves by disfranchising their opponents if they know that no one will punish them.

"At present the question is presenting three interesting phases. The effect disfranchisement has on the basis of representation to the lower House; the propriety of accepting Senators in Congress who have been elected by legislatures selected after large numbers of voters were disfranchised, so that the legislatures would be favorable to certain men; and the public policy of permitting political parties to disfranchise many of their opponents to maintain their dominant position in the States. These are no longer sectional questions.

"On the other hand, the restriction of the sufferage to those who can read and write will undoubtedly have a stimulating effect on education. The Republicans in Maryland have already started a campaign on this line. [illegible] ey will teach the illiterates of their party mostly democrats, in the same case, it will be seen that by vigorous educational movement the Republicans might actually gain largely under the workings of the law, and all the more that the blacks generally are eager to learn, while the illiterate whites are to read and to master the intricacies of the ballot. As there are more since who cannot read, and 18,000 whites 26,000 negroes, mostly republicans, quite content with their condition.

"Few statesmen object to educational tests which will permit a community to be ruled by its most intelligent citizens but many do object to permitting these intelligent few to exercise a disproportionate share in national affairs by dint of their disfranchised voters. Are the States of the great west, they ask, where the percentage of illiteracy is little or nothing to have less power in government councils than Maryland or Massachusetts or any other State, which equals them in population only by counting in its illiterate citizens whom it will not permit to vote? This is the real crux of the matter and not the question of party success."

MARRIOTT.

STARVED HIS CATTLE

IS THE CHARGE AGAINST ONE MICHAEL CLEARY.

Ten head of cattle starved and eight cows reduced to walking skeletons from lack of food, is the charge made against Michael Cleary of Mendota township, by Humane Agent Moak. Cleary was arrested Friday and his trial was set for this afternoon before Justice of the Peace Tripp of West St. Paul.

In the latter part of January Mr. Moak was notified that Cleary had twenty or more cattle, which he had compelled to pick a living as best they could during the fall and winter, and that the animals were starving. Accompanied by Dr. Hoyt, Mr. Moak visited Cleary Jan. 23, and says that he found seventeen cows that had no feed nor water for two days, crowded into a small shed. One cow was dead. Cleary explained, according to Mr. Moak's story, that he had sprained his ankle and had hired a man to tend the cattle. The man had evidently neglected to do this. Cleary said he had three stacks of hay and would see that the cows were properly cared for in the future.

It is claimed, however, that Cleary again left the cattle to shift for themselves. The neighbors complained that he turned them out at night to seek food on the hills or in barnyards, and then shut them up in the morning as if fearing to have them seen. Often the cattle would lie down close to the windward side of a house for shelter, and eat the straw with which it had been banked.

A short time ago the cattle, maddened with hunger, broke from the shed, and bellowing, rushed toward St. Paul. When they reached the residence of Anton Olrickson, a dairyman at 850 Delaware avenue, they stopped, and he watered and fed them.

The matter was reported to Mr. Moak and he visited Mr. Cleary last Thursday. The shed was in as bad condition as ever, and four cows were dead on the floor. Only eight cows remained, and these are said to have been so weak they could scarcely move about. The neighbors state that five dead animals were removed during the month.

A complaint was sworn out immediately and Cleary arrested on the charge of cruelty to animals. Cleary was formerly a prosperous dairyman, and is of more than ordinary intelligence, having been educated for the priesthood. He lives in a small shack, carefully secured with a Yale lock, about two blocks west of the Dodd road. The use of the house and pastur is given to him free by D. Seymour, who runs the brick yard at Mendota. Cleary states that he has no means, and is encumbered with debts. A chattel mortgage of $100 on the cattle is duly recorded.

The neighbors know little of Cleary, but say he is eccentric, because he walks over the hills during the night, carrying a lantern and accompanied by a large black dog. Cleary has employed an attorney and will fight the case.

TOOK SCHOOL FURNITURE.

The trustees of the school district of Cass county came up a few days ago and despoiled our modest school houses of all the furniture and closing our schools. We hear, however, that one of the schools was kept in a building belonging to C. C. Hastings, and that when the school officers came and demanded the furniture he locked the building and refused to let the officers in, and they went back with but part of the furniture. It looks "to a man up a tree" that there is something radically wrong in this matter; we have always believed that Cass Lake was a part of Cass county, and to strengthen that belief the tax gatherer of Cass county has compelled us to contribute to the wants of the county, inclusive of the funds levied to support public schools. If Cass Lake is not in Cass county, when the benefits are to be distributed, she ought not to be when taxes are due, and such actions as taking the furniture away from us bodes no good to the fomenters of dissension and strife. The people of Cass Lake are justly indignant at such treatment and will not forget the insult.—Cass Lake Times.

ANENT WOLF BOUNTIES.

The state seems to be up against the real thing in this wolf bounty business says the St. Paul Dispatch. There are claims on hand for the slaughter of 6,000 wolves, amounting to $20,797.35, and before August 1, it is expected that the claims will aggregate from $25,000 to $30,000. Lyon county alone presents claims to the amount of nearly $3,000, for 1,125 slaughtered wolves, seven eighths of which are cubs. The older wolves seemed to have been allowed to escape. The new bill make a material increase in the bounties, so there will be a corresponding increase in the expense. The present appropriation of $6,000 a year ago will pay about 20 cents on the dollar.

SUSPECTS RELEASED.

M. L. Jacobs, the traveling salesman who, with his wife, were arrested at Onawa, Ia., as suspects in the Cudahy kidnapping, have been released for want of evidence. They were arrested at the request of a detective named Gladwin, who has been working on the case. The sheriff of Onawa telephoned Sheriff Power of Omaha that Jacobs was a man of unquestionable character, and the detective being unable to furnish any evidence of his guilt, himself and wife were discharged.

TEAM RE-CHRISTENED.

The Warren Sheaf is responsible for the following: "Another large land deal has just been made whereby Banker Lamberson becomes the owner of all the farm lands formerly owned by ex-Mayor W. F. Powell, of our city, together with all stock and machinery on the place. Mr. Lamberson gets three choice quarter section farms just south of the city in the town of Farley, and one in Marsh Grove township, 640 acres in all. The fine large black team, of which Mr. Powell has been so proud, and justly so, Bryan and 16 to 1, has been rechristened McKinley and Sound Money, and will no doubt head the procession when President McKinley visits our city.

WILL CIRCLE THE GLOBE.

Victoria, B. C., March 29.—Frank Saxby, a prospector who has been in these parts for about a year, is having a large Indian war canoe decked over and in company with one companion will attempt to circle the globe in it, going first to Hong Kong via the Pacific islands. The canoe is a very large one, such as British Columbian Indians use in their travels up and down the coast, and when properly handled can stand almost any kind of weather.

$60,000 FOR ONE ACRE.

It is claimed that Perry Harrison, vice president of the Security bank of Minneapolis, refused an offer of $60,000 for an acre of ground in Minneapolis, at Second street and Third avenue South. The offer is said to have been made by eastern investors. The property is considered valuable for railroad and trackage purposes.

A BRYAN DELIVERANCE

IMPERIALISM STILL A BOOGY OF HIS BRAIN.

Lincoln, Neb., March 20.—W. J. Bryan said today regarding the capture of Aguinaldo:

"While no one can predict with certainty the effect of his capture, it is possible it may put an end to the war for the present, but the objection to imperialism is not removed by the surrender of those who have been opposing it in the Philippines. Imperialism is wrong because it changes every theory of government. We cannot administer an empire in the orient and maintain a republic in America."

CORN BOOMING.

Forty-four cents was the price paid for May corn yesterday on the board of trade, being the highest since the memorable bull campaign of 1894, when corn was forced up to 56 cents. Yesterday's close was 43⅞ cents, a net gain of 1 cent over the previous day. A broad demand caused the advance. Although the market has advanced steadily for several days on large cash sales and small receipts, the demand in no wise slackened yesterday and was in such volume that immense sales in the way of profit taking were swallowed up on a steadily rising market.

RUSH ORDERS FOR FLAGS.

Chicago, March 30.—American flags, nearly two tons of them, have been contracted for in Chicago, with "rush orders," that on July 4 the red, white and blue may flutter from every school house in Porto Rico, teaching the lesson of Independence day to the young and old alike in the island. The plans of the government are that by the end of the year the flag will be a familiar sight in the towns and villages of the Philippines.

MURDEROUS TRUNK LID.

The 1 year old child of Louis Johnson, of La Crosse, Wis., an employe of the La Crosse Telephone company, was instantly killed in a peculiar accident Wednesday. He was playing in an empty trunk, when the heavy lid fell, striking him in the neck, which was broken and partly severed from the body, killing him instantly.

BECAME A BENEDICT.

Fargo Forum: As a result of a quiet wedding which occurred in Crookston last evening, County Commissioner W. G. Newton became one of the army of benedicts. The event was in the nature of a surprise to the groom's friends. The ceremony was performed at the home of Mrs. Alida Newton, South Crookston. The bride was Miss Alma Nelson. After the ceremony, which was solemnized by Judge McLean, the wedding party sat down to a wedding supper and later the happy pair left for Fargo, where they arrived last night.

CAPT. DECKER COMING HOME.

Nat Campbell received a telegram fromC tpt. S. M. Decker Saturday which was dated at San Francisco, and announced his safe arrival there at 11a . m. Friday, without having experienced a day's sickness during his absence in the Philippines. The captain's many friends here will give him a warm reception on his arrival, which will probably occur in due course of time, as soon as he can be mustered out, as he has served his time out.

DON'T ELIMINATE THE GIRLS.

An inventive genius has omething on tap that he says will eliminate the telephone girls. There are many fellows who thought they could get along without the girls, but they couldn't. and we presume this genius will sooner or later discover that we cannot and we do not want to eliminate the girls. We are in favor of the girls all the time.—Stillwater Gazette.

And Bro. Easton is a married man, too. Well, they know how to appreciate the fair sex.—St. Cloud Times.

TO BE DISMISSED.

Washington, March 29.—There will be a scattering among the census employes soon. Director Merriam has announced that 2,000 of the 2,500 clerks will be dismissed July 1, and has written to the congressmen asking them to select their favorites who will be given employment for two or three years. Most of the employes are young ladies and from all parts of the United States.

WARREN WANTS NEW DEPOT.

The Warren Register asks the following very pertinent question: Why don't our city fathers call up the Great Northern officials and make them explain why our depot accommodations are not made to conform with the requirements of the law in such cases. We are entitled to two waiting rooms, and our city guardians should see that we get them.

MACHINE VOTING.

Madison, Wis., March 29.—The use of voting machines in Wisconsin is likely to be legalized by the legislature, the senate having yesterday ordered a third reading of the Hall bill passed by the assembly, providing for their use.

HAD NARROW ESCAPE.

Newport News, Va., March 30.—The Augusta hotel, at Hampton, burned yesterday and is a total loss. The house was crowded with guests, some of whom had narrow escapes. A bad panic was barely averted Several persons were injured, but none fatally. The fire originated in a millinery store below the dining room and rapidly spread.

Uncle Jo's Column

I was readin' in the Journal the other day about that offer of forty dollars in prizes to corn raisers. If I was livin' on my farm now I'd take that fifteen dollar prize. Anyway, I'd try for it and I believe I could get it, too. That's a first rate scheme of the Journal to get the farmers interested in raisin' corn, too. I should most have thought, though, that you'd oughto have made the farmers that are goin' to try for the prizes send in their names in the spring as soon as they made up their minds to go in on it, so you'd know who they are. I'm comin' round there to the Journal office and see them samples when they come in, anyway. I do like to look at nice samples of things that grow in the field and in the garden.

—(o)—

There is one thing about it I am sure of though, that there won't be any prizes taken by men who let all their barnyard manure go to waste. The land that raises them prize stalks will have to have some manure of some kind on it, and if it don't get the manure it won't get any prize. There's one thing I'd like to whisper to the farmers, and that is, don't just figure on the size of them prizes and then figure the cost and trouble of raisin' an acre of corn against it, and say it won't pay. If you raise an acre of corn and do it right, it'll pay you a big return whether you get a prize or not. And that acre will be worth a good deal more for cropping for the next five years than if you raise wheat on it, and I tell you what, if the farmers all round the country felt as I do about it, there'd be so many competin' stalks of corn that them two Jersey cows of Mr. Gordon's would have corn fodder enough to live on for two weeks next fall.

—(o)—

And now my mind has got to work on farmin', there's another thing I want to speak about. And that's potatoes. Now, farmers are buyin' potatoes round here that are shipped in on the railroad, and givin' 65 cents a bushel for 'em. Some of the farmers are buyin' lard too, and I'll declare I heard one farmer that's got quite a big farm inquirin' into Keller & Ryan's for butter the other day. And then there's lots of meat bein' shipped in here from St. Paul, both pork and beef, and some of the farmers are buyin' that same meat too. Now that's all wrong. This Red River valley is capable of raisin' everything that's needed for eatin,, except fruits, and tea, and coffee, and some of the etsetery like that. And if we farmers figured our business right we wouldn't be buyin' these imported things so much.

—(o)—

I'm thinkin' the Iowa farmers that are comin' in here so thick this spring will farm a little different from what we are doin', and I think we farmers had better get our eyes dug open and watch their smoke a little while. Now I hope my farmer friends won't misunderstand what I say about potatoes and go and plant their whole farm in potatoes, and go to work and buy all the calves they can get hold of, and all the pigs they can find and so on, but I think every one of them ought to raise a good patch, say not less than an acre, of potatoes on some place on the farm where the water won't stand on them, no matter how much it rains, and they oughto raise all the corn they can manure the ground for and take care of it in good shape. And they ought to raise some wheat, and some oats and some barley, and some flax, and some timothy, and diversify their farmin' operations as much as they can, usin' all the good sound common sense they can muster in dividin, their farm up among the different crops accordin' to conditions.

—(o)—

Then they ought to get just a few grade shropshire ewes and a good buck. Mutton is awful good meat for eatin' in the summer and its so handy to have a sheep to kill. There ain't so much meat in a sheep but what a family can use it up all right even in warm weather by saltin' part of it right down. The gospel of diversifyin' is what the farmera need to have preached to em. And they need to have it preached good and loud and strong. So that when they set down and get to thinkin' wheat is goin' to be a dollar a bushel this fall and we'll put the farm into wheat, the word "diversify" will ring through their ears like the tones of a big dinner bell.

UNCLE JOE.

PROBLEM CHANGED

HOW CAN WE CATCH HIM? AND WHAT SHALL WE DO WITH HIM.

Washington, March 28.—The war department has not had time as yet to consider the exact status of Aguinaldo whether he is to be tried, and what punishment, if any, is to be meted out to him. But there are certain general principles which are said to be clearly established and the first question asked is as to whether Aguinaldo is to be tried as a militry or a civil offender If he is to be regarded as having committed treasonable acts or fomented an insurrection against the United States government , then the trial would be of a civil character, for these are political offences against the authority of the United States government and are offences under the articles of war to be tried by military court martial or comission. It is hardlyexpected that the rigorous procedure for treason would be adopted. If it should be, section 5,332 f the revised statutes provides that "every person guilty of treason shall suffer death, or, at the discretion of the court shall be imprisoned at hard labor for not less than five years and fined not less than $10,000."

Another section provides for inciting insurrection, short of actual treason, and specifies the punishment as follows:

"Every person who incites, sets on foot, assists or engages in any rebellion or insurrection against the authority of the United States shall be punished by imprisonment not more than ten years or a fine of not more than $10,000, or both."

The foregoing, however, are present offenses against the authority of the United States. It is presumed that Aguinaldo will be held for the present at least as a military prisoner.

A BIG SALE

HULETT MERRITT OF DULUTH A MILLIONAIRE.

Word reached Duluth yesterday, but could not be confirmed last night, says the News-Tribune, that Hulett Merritt of Passadena, Cal., has sold ten thousand shares of Lake Superior Consolidated Iron Mines. It is said that he and his father, Louis Merritt, hold between 10,000 and 12,000 shares of this stock, which they acquired about nine years ago. The value of 10,000 shares of this stock on a basis of yesterday's close is $1,710,000, or $171 a share. The par value of 10,000 shares is $1,000,000. This is a clean up that recalls the golden tales of the Klondike. The stock has earned nearly $1,000,000 in the past four or five weeks.

Hulett Merritt has turned his attention during the past five or six years more to regular business matters than to mining propositions. He is said to have extensive interests in California, and he is at the head of the Itasca Mercantile Co., which does a large business in northern Minnesota, having stores carrying general stocks at Grand Rapids, Mountain Iron and Hibbing.

INHERITFNCE TAX BILL

FIVE PER CENT MEASURE PASSED HOUSE THURSDAY.

The Washburn inheritance tax bill was passed by the house Thursday. The measure has been drafted to avoid the fatal defects of the old law, and it is believed it will prove to be valid in every particular. The old law excluded real property, and the courts held that such a distinction could not be made. The Washburn bill includes all forms of property. The old law exempted corporations from its workings; the Washburn bill also avoids that exception. The bill also makes no exception between lineal and collateral heirs, a fault which had to do with the nullification of the old law. The bill exempts legacies of $5,000 or less. It imposes a tax of 5 per cent on bequests of all kinds in excess of that amount, except in lineal and colloteral heirs, which are taxed 1 per cent.

UNIQUE COLONY

"STRAIGHT EDGE PEOPLE" DOMICILED ON STATEN ISLAND.

New York, March 29.—Twenty acres of land have been leased on Staten Island by "The Straight Edge People," who now live in a unique social settlement at 240 Sixth avenue. Wilbur F. Copeland is their chief. He has gathered about him eleven other men who try to take the golden rule for their creed, and live with the least expense to themselves and the greatest advantage to others.

They keep twelve rooms in order cooperatively. One man makes the beds, another scrubs the floors, and others dust the furniture and wash the dishes. The company publishes a little weekly known as the Straight Edge, and runs a printing office and a small bakery.

VETERINARY BOARD

GOV. VAN SANT ANNOUNCES APPOINTMENTS.

Gov. Van Sant has announced the appointment of the following board of state veterinary examiners:

M. H. Reynolds, St. Anthony Park.
S. H. Ward, St. Cloud, reappointed.
C. E. Lyford, Minneapolis.
B. Lambriehts, Montevideo.
H. Hela, Cokato.

Ray W. Jonea of Frazee has been appointed an aide de camp on the governor's staff, with the rank of colonel.

STAMP FLIRTATION.

In reply to a correspondent who wants to know the rules for a stamp flirtation, we would say that the first rule is that a stamp on a letter designedly anywhere excepting on the right hand upper corner of the envelope indicates that the writer is a fool.—Cooperstown Sentinel.

CYLINDER EXPLODES.

New York, March 29.—The compressed air cylinder in a car of the Metropolitan Street Railway company burst with a tremendous report yesterday. The bottom and sides of the car were torn out and windows in many nearby stores and houses were broken. One man was slightly hurt.

HOBSON WILL MARRY.

Greensboro, Ala., March 29.—Captain Richmond Pearson Hobson, U. S. N., is engaged to Miss Emiline Grigsby of New York. She is a Kentuckian by birth. Her brother, Braxton Grigsby, was a member of Roosevelt's Rough Riders and was wounded in the battle of San Juan hill.

THIRD OF BODY GONE

BUT LIVED TWO YEARS—IS NOW DEAD.

Alfred Taylor, one of the most interesting patients in the Pennsylvania hospital, a man to whom the house physicians pointed with pride as a living testimony of the efficiency of modern surgery, died recently of hemorrhage.

Taylor submitted to one of the most remarkable surgical operations performed in recent days. For nearly two years he had served as orderly in the hospital, with nearly one third of his body missing. From the point of the jaw to the hip bone the line of his body on the left side was almost straight. Surgeons removed his arm, shoulder blade, collar bone and portions of his ribs. Once only before had a similar case been recorded in the annals of surgery.

The operation was performed in April, 1899. Taylor was the victim of a bone disease that made the operation necessary. He came to this country from England. For nine years he served in the British navy, and for eight years in the merchant service. In the summer of 1895, while carrying a box on his shoulder, he felt a sharp pain. An examination revealed a small, bluish lump on the upper edge of the scapula. In six months it had grown to the size of an egg. Taylor went to the Polyclinic hospital, where the growth was cut out. It returned almost immediately, and he was admitted to the Pennsylvania hospital, where it was again removed.

Taylor returned to his work, and while at sea the growth came back again. With his arm and side terribly enlarged Taylor worked while suffering intense pain until a few days before the third operation was performed. Little hope was given him when he again presented himself to the Pennsylvania hospital. "One chance in a hundred" was the verdict of the surgeons.

Taylor did not flinch. He was ready for the operation, which was performed by Dr. Robert G. Le Conte. For hours the patient was under the influence of ether. Next morning he surprised the surgeons and attendants by eating a good greakfast. Within a week from the time he was cut to pieces he surprised them by getting out of bed and going down into the yard, where he was found complacently smoking a pipe. Since then his case has been the subject of many lectures, and he had been examined by nearly 500 medical men.

Taylor would have been 51 years old next month. Last week he was taken ill, and confined to his bed for two days. Saturday he was on duty as usual, but Sunday he again went to bed. The next day he was taken with hemorrhage, which caused his death.—Philadelphia North American.

HEART FAILURE

OLD PIONEER OF FARGO DIES SUDDENLY.

Thursday night at 9:30 R. D. McLeod was found dead on Fourth street North, near First avenue, Fargo, lying prone upon the ground with his body partly submerged in the water which flooded the ground between the sidewalk and the middle of the street. Scarcely five minutes before that time he had been seen by Officer Peter Bart walking up N. P. avenue. McLeod then turned and walked up Fourth street, and nothing more was seen of him until he was discovered by Ben Gilbertson and Mr. Magnuson of Moorhead. The body was taken from the water and the alarm given at once. Dr. Carpenter was upon the scene of the death a few minutes later, but life was extinct. From the very short time he had lain in the water, it was reasoned that death was due to heart failure and not to drowning, as was first supposed. Officer Bart is of the opinion that it was less than five minutes from the time he saw Mr. McLeod turn up Fourth street that the body was discovered and the alarm given. It is thought that while walking along in the middle of the street a sudden attack of heart disease overcame him and he fell into the shallow water. Mr. McLeod was about 60 years of age and physically was not strong.

The remains were placed in charge of Wasem & Gaard, and were conveyed to their morgue to await the action of the coroner, if it be thought necessary.

WALLERT HANGED

SIBLEY COUNTY MANS PAYS PENALTYO F CRIME.

Henderson, Minn., March 29.—(Special.)—Shortly after 3 o'clock this morning Theodore Wallert, the convicted murdered of his wife and four children, was executed by hanging to pay the penalty of his crime. The convicted man never faltered when the last moments of his life on earth approached, and when led to the gallows by the sheriff and his deputies the only remark he uttered was that he deserved the death penalty which was about to be administered to him. His body was cut down after the physicians in attendance had pronounced life extinct.

This is the first hanging in the history of Sibley county.

Wallert was 41 years of age on Washington's birthday. He was born in Germany, coming to the United States in 1889.

Until a year and a half ago, when he moved to Sibley county, he was a resident of Renville county.

The victims of Wallert's murderous rage were his wife and her four children. They were known by the name of their father, Steinborn. The victims of a father's cruel knife, besides Mrs. Wallert, were: Gusta, 20 years of age; Helena, 17 years; Anna, 13; Reinhold, 11 years.

The crime for which Theodore Wallert paid the penalty on the gallows goes down into the annals of the state as one of the most brutal and bloody in the history of Minnesota.

Without one extenuating circumstance, without the least cause, with no provocation except the imagination of a man of an ugly temper that he had been wronged, the murder has few equals in criminology.

One after the other he stabbed and slashed and mutilated until life was extinct in the bodies of five human beings. As they rushed from their peaceful slumbers in the dead of the night they fell into the arms of the frenzied man, crazed at the sight of blood, to meet a horrible death.

The scene of the tragedy is a little farm house three miles north of Arlington, Sibley county, Minn. The murder was committed about 2 o'clock on Aug. 20, 1900.

INSANE DEPORTATION.

TO THEIR HOMES SAVES STATE MANY DOLLARS.

The state is being saved over $100,000 biennially through the system now in force of deporting insane patients from state institutions to the homes from which they originally came. This is the substance of a statement taken from the biennial report of State Agent Gates which is now in the hands of the printers.

"After two years more experience," said Mr. Gates, "we see no reason to change the estimate made two years ago that the average cost to the state of maintaining each insane person will exceed $1,000. Other states place their cost at a much higher figure. Upon this basis, the amount saved to the state by the deportations made during the period will be $107,000."

There have been deported during the past two years 110 cases. These included one vagrant boy, one reformstory inmate, one feeble minded man, and 107 insane patients. The majority of deportations were to other states and 22 were to European countries.

The report of the state agent closes with a reference to the present appropriation as follows:

"The present appropriation of $5,000 per annum is sufficient for the deportation of the insane, but will not permit the deportation of paupers. The same amount will be required for the next two years, and if it is desirable to deport the paupers, an additional appropriation will be necessary."

NAME CHANGED

SING SING CHANGED TO OSSINING BY THE GOVERNOR.

New York, March 28.—The name of Sing Sing, so far as the village proper is concerned, is no more. Gov. Odell signed the bill Tuesday changing the name from Sing Sing to Ossining. The name Sing Sing had become synonymous with prison, and the outside world looked upon the village as merely a penal colony. Manufacturers could not be induced to go there owing to the fact that the impression had become general that all goods manufactured in Sing Sing were "prison made goods."

Other villiges in Westchester county during the last ten years have shown the largest increase in the history of the census bureau, but Sing Sing village showed a decrease of 1,313 in population. These conditions aroused the people, an dresulted in the petition to the legislature for the change of name.

Sing Sing was incorporated on April 2, 1813, and was the first village in Westchester county to be incorporated under the state government. Sing Sing prison was erected in 1824. By the provisions of the act which changes the name from Sing Sing to Ossining the prison property is still within the boundary lines of the village, as heretofore. It is the purpose of the citizens to erect a railroad station on the prison grounds so that prisoners may be brought to the prison without coming to the Ossining station.

PADDED THE RETURNS

AND ARE UNDER ARREST IN CONSEQUENCE.

Washington, March 29.—Director Merriam, of the census bureau, has received news of the arrest of three additional persons in St. Mary's county, Maryland, who, it is alleged, are implicated in the census frauds recently discovered in that county.

Two of these persons, Joseph Ching, a lawyer of Leonardtown, and a former enumerator, named Goyter, were brought to Baltimore yesterday morning. The charge against the former is that of aiding and abetting enumerators to make fictitious returns of the population, while that against the latter is padding the returns.

The investigation, the director says, shows that Goyter had returned 178 more persons than were in the district.

CHARLIE IS MORTIFIED.

Ionia, Mich., March 30.—At the annual banquet of the Albert Williams club last night Senator Charles A. Towne of Minnesota was the chief speaker, his subject being, "The Spirit of Democracy."

"The Filipinos will continue to fight," he declared, "even though Aguinaldo has been captured. Funston's aid is the outcome of treachery and a shame to America."

Geo. Hallberg returned from Rydens Wednesday last week.

T. C. Hickey is going around with a very sore chin at present.

H. H. Hullhert, from Peterson, Ia., was here last Tuesday with some more new settlers.

Oscar Youngren passed through town Tuesday enroute to his brother's farm east of here.

Axel Miller, our restaurant man, has been somewhat ill, but is up and around again.

Geo. Rippenhark returned from Argyle Thursday where he had been visiting the doctors.

Our land agent, Mr. Whittmore, has got his office in good shape now and is doing a lot of business.

Mrs. C. W. Davis returned Tuesday last week from Argyle, where she had been seeking medical aid.

Hallberg is getting all kinds of telegrams to be ready with his commodious livery rigs nowadays.

T. W. Dargan is erecting a nice little dwelling house alongside of his father in law's boarding house.

By a mistake somewhere the Donaldson news did not appear in the week ago edition. Don't know whose fault it is, the editor or the manager.

Geo. Seeger has purchased the Wagoner farm and rented his to Briton Flint. Seeger is a very energetic fellow and will surely prosper in his new place.

A. O. Biomesness had the fire loss he sustained last November adjusted last Tuesday. His loss consisted in the window lights in the front of his store building being cracked by the intense heat.

Gust Loff, our bonanza farmer east of here, moved down to his farm on Wednesday of last week, which is located close by the river in the town of Tiea. He thinks the woods are too nice to be forsaken, so he rented his place east and bought the one mentioned.

ADA.

Andy Remack came in from the lumber camps at Bagley Monday.

Charley Hummanson returned from Iowa last Saturday with a lot of land seekers.

J. D. Cassady spent Saturday and Sunday in Ada the guest of Mr. Humason.

Will Smith of Des Moines, Ia., stopped off here Tuesday morning on his way to Hallock.

The school closed Friday afternoon for a week's vacation and will open again next Monday.

Lewis Blorm is now able to be out and around again after a severe attack of typhoid fever.

A clerks' union was started last week with about fifteen members, and a few more to come in.

Misses Harvey, Thacker and Enderice spent Saturday and Sunday at Crookston visiting Mrs. Sylvester Peterson.

Miss Enderlee is spending her vacation with her sister at St. Hilaire, and Miss Franklin with her sister at Lockhart.

The exhibition given by the members of the Athletic association at the opera house Wednesday evening was well attended.

Sandy McDonald was appointed marshal at the last meeting of the village council and P. O. Melberg as street commissioner.

Gust Kulavder came down from Walker Wednesday and stayed until Friday evening, after having visiting with friends and relatives at this place.

The wedding bells are ringing in the neighborhood of Ada and this time it is Charley Storsly and Miss Sorenson who are the happy contracting parties. The wedding took place at the bride's home in the town of Hegue Tuesday afternoon.

WARREN.

Mr. Tullar returned from the Twin Cities Monday.

Dr. Frank returned from Duluth Friday morning.

Henry Clark of Angus was in the city on business Friday.

Mr. Franson came back from Minneapolis Saturday morning.

Miss Alice King of Angus was a caller in the city Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Main of Stephen spent Sunday with friends in the city.

Miss Helen Franklin came down from Argyle Friday night.

Fred Flanders came back from the Twin Cities Monday morning.

Mrs. Spalding, Letla Cross and Lucial Shaw drove to Argyle Saturday.

Mr. White of Minto has accepted a position in the Great Northern depot.

Bertha Longhridge left Saturday for Stephen, near which place she will teach a term of school.

Mr. Williams arrived home Saturday from a few days' visit in the southern part of the state.

Miss Fiora Lamhertson came up from Minneapolis Thursday to spend her spring vacation at home.

Wm. Farmer of Ardoch, N. D., who has been visiting friends in and about Warren for the last two weeks left for his home Tuesday.

One of our genial land agents, Mr. Cline, killed his first wild goose last Saturday. This was the first goose he ever killed and the first one even killed here this spring and Frank feels quite proud over the exploit.

The friends of Miss Bertha Longbridge gathered at her home last Friday night and gave her a surprise. The evening was spent in dancing and playing games. A good time was enjoyed by all present.

Our old friend and fellow townsman, G. W. Barnes, arrived from Sunnyside, Wash., last Saturday. He expects to make Washington his home but is not quite sure yet whether he will move his family this spring or wait until next fall.

From all appearances spring has come at last and we have had fine weather during the past four or five days and today the ice is going out of the river. We have heard some farmers talk of commencing farming operations in earnest next week if the weather continues fine.

ST. VINOENT.

Joe Ryan is reshingling his place of business this week.

Lots of wild geese are seen flying northward these days.

Mr. Konzea of Hallock paid our village a visit last week.

Mrs. A. M. Ecklund of Hallock are visiting at Mr. Cowan's.

The water is rapidly rising in the river and the ice is expected to break up at any time.

Farmers will begin their seeding the beginning of next week if this fine weather continues.

Mr. and Mrs. C. K. McKenzie of Northcote, who have been visiting here, returned home last week.

Today, Tuesday, is village election. There are three tickets in the field and quite a lively interest is taken as to the results.

HALLOCK.

What has become of the Buffaloes? There seems to be nothing left but those beautiful badges and buttons.

Now, as ducks and geese have been seen, there is no doubt but that winter is passed and gone and summer is before us.

E. Calmer arrived home last week from the State Agricultural School at St. Paul where he has been in attendance this winter.

A great number of pedestrians are seen taking advantage of these fine moonlight evenings. Why not, when here are poetry, youth and spring?

Capt. Donaldson, the hustling real estate man of Kennedy, is seen on our streets quite often. The captain has already disposed of many sections of land this spring.

Confirmation services will be held in the Swedish Lutheran church next Sunday forenoon. In the afternoon there will be communion. The choir will render a few songs.

It is said that Hallock will experience a boom in the near future. The prophecy seems to be justified by the number of land offices which are being established here. The last agency established here is Sampson & Barrett, with Mr. J. E. King as agent. It is conceded that emigration is headed this way.

$5,000,000 FOR PATENT.
FOR NEW USE OF PETROLEUM FOR HEAT AND LIGHT.

Salt Lake City, Utah, April 1.—Five million dollars is the price paid by the Standard Oil company for the United States rights to a patent controlled by Salt Lake men.

The invention is a process for converting crude petroleum into gas, which produces a light more brilliant than the electric arc and heat of great intensity.

It is understood that the oil trust will not use the invention for lighting purposes, as that would diminish the demand for its product. It will sell the apparatus designed to use the gas as fuel, however. This is said to create an intense heat at a small fraction of the cost of coal.

APPROPRIATIONS

Are Liberal as Recommended By the Appropriation Committee.

$16,000 FOR CROOKSTON

Experiment Station and $80,500 for Agricultural School

The committee on appropriations completed its labors Monday morning and at 11 o'clock submitted to the house the estimates made on state expenditures for the next biennial period. The omnibus bill was brought before the assembly with a report from Chairman Jacobson, and at his request was immediately given a second reading and made a special order for Wednesday. This gave the members a day and a half to review it.

The total is approximately $2,700,000. Minnesota's institutions have been growing rapidly during the last two years, and it was found imperative to make an allowance of $400,000 more for running expenses than in 1899. In addition the amounts set aside for improvements and new buildings represent an increase of about $200,000 over the sums named by the last legislature. The total is about three-quarters of a million in excess of the aggregate allowed in 1899. Nevertheless, it is not expected that it will be necessary to add to the tax levy. Four years ago the rate was fixed by legislative act at 1.7 mills. At the last session there were economies which made it possible to reduce this rate two-tenths. The estimates proved too liberal and State Auditor Dunn found himself in a position to make the levy 1.4 mills for the first year and 1.3 during the second. The conditions today are so favorable that the rate will probably be set at 1.3 mills.

The university has little cause for complaint. The total alloted to buildings is over a quarter of a million. The new main building at the agricultural school was not provided for, but the failure of the friends of the institution to obtain it is not taken to heart, because it was designed for future use; present necessities are fairly met by the available accommodations. The maintenance fund of the university is increased $35,000 per annum.

The Soldiers' Home receives an appropriation for a new dining hall, and practically everything it asked for. At the state fair there will be erected a $25,000 building for agricultural exhibits, and connections will be made with the St. Paul water system, so that in the future there will be ample protection against fire.

Provision is made for the Agricultural school by appropriations as follows:

To be available year ending July 31, 1902.
Veterinary building	$25,000
Dairy hall	3,000
Blacksmith shop	3,000
Building for killing and curing meats	7,500
Building for swine breeding	3,000
To be available year ending July 31, 1903.
Building for agricultural chemistry	25,000
Girl's dormitory	12,000
Miscellaneous	2,000

The sub-stations are given the following amounts:

Grand Rapids, available during next two years	$ 9,000
Crookston	16,000

The Agricultural society is given the following amounts:

For erection of agricultural hall, available this year	$25,000
To connect fair ground water system with that of St. Paul	12,000

EYELESS GRUNTERS

SIGHTLESS SWINE AT GRAFTON GET INTO TROUBLE.

There is more trouble for the blind piggers of Grafton. On Saturday evening the sheriff of Walsh county made a raid on the suspected places with the result that four arrests were made and "evidence" found in each place. The parties whose places were raided were: Jake Koler, Chas. Listoe, H. Gustafson and Linda Lewis—the latter a woman. In the case of Koler and the woman Lewis, this is the third offense, and means that with those already under the ban there will be six buildings vacant and under the charge of the sheriff for one year in Grafton. This makes a clean up of the Grafton blind pigs.

HEART RENDING

MISS MAGGIE RIGGERS BURNED TO A CRISP.

A most distressing tragedy occurred at Ada yesterday forenoon, the result of which cast a gloom over the entire city and its surroundings, and resulted in the death of an estimable young lady.

Shortly after 9 o'clock in the morning flames were seen issuing from the establishment of Miss Maggie Riggers, and the alarm was turned in at once, to which the fire department responded promptly. A storm door sheltering the entrance to the millinery apartments was forced open and the spectacle which presented itself to the firemen was of a most horrifying nature. The inner door of the building had been opened and between it and the storm door lay stretched in death the owner of the establishment.

BURNED TO A CRISP.

The scene was one that will not be obliterated from the memory of those who faced it, during their entire life.

The interior of the building was burning fiercely when the fire department reached the place, but the flames were soon brought under control, however, but not until the little room was badly gutted by the flames. As stated above, the owner, who was the only occupant, was burned to death and the origin of the fire will forever remain a mystery.

The indications are that the unfortunate young lady was in the act of arranging her trousseau preparatory to attending Easter services. When found she was only partly dressed, and the supposition is that she struck a match to heat a curling iron, and that the burning sulphur of the match struck some combustible article in the store, instantly setting the whole interior into a burning mass. In her frantic efforts to subdue the flames she became exhausted and ran to the door to make her escape, but she was too far overcome by the heat and smoke to loosen a hook on the storm door, which fastened on the inside, and the poor girl fell a victim to suffocation. Her lifeless body was burned beyond recognition, and the flesh on the arms and face literally fell from the bones as the men who came to assist attempted to take her from the floor and place the body on the bed.

Miss Riggers was about 32 years of age, and has conducted her millinery establishment at Ada upwards of twelve or thirteen years. She was the daughter of a highly respectable German family who reside in Norman county, and was highly esteemed and beloved by every one who enjoyed her acquaintance.

Besides her parents she leaves several brothers and sisters, among the latter Mrs. Louis Hintze, wife of the mayor of Ada, and Mrs. M. M. Nygaard of Farris.

Nothing has ever occurred in Norman county or the village of Ada that prompted deeper and more general sorrow than the fatal accident of Sunday morning.

The funeral arrangements were not completed this afternoon, but the interment will probably be held tomorrow.

LOST HIS SUIT

M'CORMACK FAILS TO GET VERDICT AGAINST COMPANY.

The case of J. L. McCormack vs. the C. M. & St. P. Ry. Co., which was on trial in the United States court at Fergus Falls last week, went to the jury about 11 o'clock Saturday morning, and a sealed verdict was returned late in the afternoon, but as court had adjourned for the day, the verdict was not opened until Monday morning. Mr. McCormack was struck by a train and severely injured while crossing the company's tracks near Graceville, and his suit was for $25,000. After hearing the evidence the jury came to the conclusion that the accident was not due to any negligence on the part of the defendant, and returned a verdict in favor of the company. The costs, which are quite heavy, will be charged up to the plaintiff.

The Serr case, another $25,000 damage suit, is now on trial. Mr. Serr was struck upon the head by a chunk of coal while at work in the Northern Pacific coal pits at Winnipeg Junction and brings suit against the company, alleging that the accident was due to faulty machinery and that as a result of it he is troubled with fits and convulsions.

The petition of Ole E. Sonstelie, et al, asking for the formation of a new school district to be composed of sections 17, 18, 19, 20, S½ SW¼ Sec. 7, town 147, range 41, and S½ Sec. 13, N½ Sec. 24, E½ SE¼ Sec. 24, the E½ NE¼ Sec. 25, town 147, range 42, was on motion laid over until the next meeting of the board.

The application of Christian C. Lokken for $25 damages caused by the laying out of the Erskine county road, was laid over. T. Smeby' application for the same amount on the same grounds was also laid over.

Upon motion J. B. Merrill, of Fisher, was granted an auctioneer's license, as was also E. C. Cook, of Fertile.

A resolution by Commissioner McCarty for the construction of a bridge across Badger Creek, in the town of Knute, was referred to the bridge committee, which is to report back at the next meeting.

Commissioner Eastman's resolution authorizing the construction of a bridge across Sand Hill river, in the town of Reis, was referred to the bridge committee, to examine location and report back at next meeting.

The ditch committee was authorized to make necessary repairs on the two bridges across the Vineland ditch on a resolution introduced by Commissioner Fortier.

The application for bridge across ditch No. 7 in section 24, Tabor township, from Frank Sherack was referred to the ditch committee.

Commissioner Eastman introduced the following resolution:

Whereas, the road and bridge fund of Polk county is delinquent $6,000, and the law limits the levy for road and bridge purposes to one mill per annum, now therefore be it

Resolved, that all applications for aid in repairing roads in the various towns, be and are hereby rejected.

Marin & Nolan were awarded the contract for constructing a bridge ~~across Hill River~~, in the township of Garfield, their bid being $240. The board fixed the bonds of the firm at $300, and the work is to be completed by June 1.

The town of Huntsville was allowed $600 for the building of a bridge across Marnis river, providing the town itself pay the balance of the cost of said bridge.

The application of Dominique Le Blanc for a bridge across ditch No. 15 was referred to the bridge committee.

Gilbert Strommen asked for a division of school funds belongings to school districts Nos. 238 and 254. The matter was laid over to the next meeting.

Almirn Marin was allowed $150 to relinquish all right to the bridge across the Gentilly-Kertsonville ditch.

Wyman Partridge & Co's application for cancellation of certain personal taxes assessed at Climax, was rejected.

It was resolved to divide the school funds of district No. 77, in Polk county, consisting of $670 and $131, with district No. 258, which was recently formed out of territory belonging to district No. 77. The division is to be made on the basis of the assessed valuation of real estate in 1900, and district No. 77 is to receive 47 per cent of the fund, the balance of 53 per cent going to district No. 258. The June and November settlements were ordered to be divided on the same basis.

A resolution was passed requiring all bidders for the work to be done on the Gentilly-Kertsonville ditch to furnish bonds and a certified check for the faithful performance of their contract, before the same is let.

SAWS RUNNING

MILL STARTED ON ITS SEASON'S RUN THIS MORNING.

The Crookston lumber factory commenced business this morning, and the saws are running merrily. The prospects for a good season's work have never been better in all the history of this important industry in our city. Speaking of the prospect, Manager Shute said:

"Indications for an exceedingly large output this season have never been better, and it is the intention of the Crookston Lumber Company to cut 30,000,000 feet, before shutting down for the winter.

"We have sufficient logs on hand to run at least until June 1, without having to rely on any of this years cut and as there is an abundance of water in the streams now, there is no reason why lumber manufacturers should be subjected to the same obstructions as last year, which compelled our mill as well as others to shut down for want of logs. This year work promises to be twice as great as last season's cut, and I have no doubt that it is necessary that it should be, inorder to meet the demand for building and construction lumber.

"With the great influx of new settlers which have been arriving daily for weeks past, it seems certain that building operations will be greater than for many years past. New business houses and dwellings will be needed in cities and towns which reap the trade from the new comers, and that means a large quantity of additional lumber and pine building material, which is turned out at our mill."

"The night shift which will be put on as soon as possible after the mill is started will be kept on during the entire season, and the mill be kept running 22 hours out of 24 during work days."

The fact that a force of 500 men who will earn good salaries during the coming summer, at the lumber company's mill, is good news to every citizen in Crookston and particularly so to every business house. The distribution of over $6,000 a week to laboring men, who will spend nearly every dollar of it among 100 business houses, including hotels, merchants, and boarding houses, in a city the size of Crookston, means a great deal to every one of them, and the sound of the big mill whistle, which will call the men to work, when work begins, will be a welcome tune.

FLASH LIGHT FLASHED

AND SEVERAL PERSONS ARE INJURED.

An explosion occurred at Lisbon, N. D., last evening which might have resulted much more seriously than it did had there been a large number of people in the immediate vicinity.

It had been the purpose of the Catholic society of that city to put on the piece, "Turn of the Tide," in that city last evening, in the production of which it was necessary to use a flashlight. Shortly before the doors of the opera house were opened it was thought advisable to test the working of the light to see if it was in perfect order. As a result, through some unknown cause, a terrific explosion occurred and confusion reigned supreme. When the flying debris had cleared away it was found that Rev. Father McDonald of the local Catholic church had been seriously injured, having sustained a broken arm and was otherwise shaken up. Miles Moore was quite seriously injured by flying slivers and Roy Severance was rendered entirely deaf. The explosion was heard for blocks around. The injured were at once cared for by local physicians and at a late hour last evening were reported as resting as comfortable as could be expected.

FILLED WITH LEAD

A Notorious Horse Thief is Killed by a North Dakota Sheriff s Posse.

FOUR COMPANIONS CAUGHT

One of the Latter a Prominent Business Man in Western North Dakota

Dickinson, N. D., April 9.—As a result of an attempt to arrest a band of horse thieves in the Bad Lands, 130 miles northwest of here, Jack McCarty, alias Jim McPeak, lies in the morgue here with several bullet holes through his body and the balance of the gang is safe in the county jail.

For some time it has been known that wholesale stealing of range horses was going on and it was evident that the work was being done by an organized gang. On Jan. 1 last John W. Goodall, one of the shrewdest and most determined men in this section, assumed the office of sheriff of Stark county. Goodall had scarcely been inducted into his office when he began working on clues, one of which led up to the tragedy and capture of all but one of the gang on Friday night.

Goodall organized a posse of frontiersmen in whom he had absolute faith, and all of them crack shots and expert horsemen.

Armed with warrants, the posse, well equipped and mounted, proceeded on Thursday from Glendive, Mont., to the ranch of Clark and Chappelle, 60 miles northeast of the Band Lands, which was supposed to be the rendezvous of the gang. The posse quietly surrounded the ranch and called upon Clark, Chappelle, Jack McDonald and Jack Jones, who were there, to surrender. They were taken entirely by surprise and quickly complied with the command, and without resistance.

McCarty and others were away and it was decided to await their return. About 6 o'clock McCarty was seen coming to the ranch mounted. He rode up and Sheriff Goodall ordered him to halt. Instead of complying with the command McCarty put spurs to his horse.

The posse immediately opened fire with Winchesters, endeavoring at first to scare him. This did not work and then a volley was fired which gave him his death wound. McCarty, after falling, raised up and attempted to fire with his Winchester, but this was quickly seized. He then drew his six-shooter, but this, too, was taken away. McCarty lived ten hours after he was shot. He refused to make any statement as to his true name or ancestors, and died cursing the officers.

The arrest of Chappelle will cause great surprise, as he is prominent and well known in western North Dakota, and eastern Montana.

Clark escaped from the sheriff at Glendive and is still at large.

McDonald is a well know cowboy and for several years was deputy sheriff of Billings county. Jones is a cowboy and his relatives live at Brewfield, South Dakota.

BEMIDJI SETS PACE

THE TOWN OFFERS ADVANTAGES TO ENTERPRISE.

The city council at their meeting Monday evening expressed themselves as being in favor of exempting Wm. Kaiser of Muscatine, Ia., from paying taxes for a period of five years, should Mr. Kaiser build a mill here as proposed, says the Bemidji News. Mr. Street appeared before the council and stated that if the council would do this, the mill was practically assured, the townsite company having donated a forty acre site between the lakes, across the B. & N. railway bridge.

Mr. Kaiser has a large box factory at Muscatine, and the proposed mill here will saw lumber for same, a factory of this kind using all kinds of lumber, including jack pine, bass wood and popple. The proposed mill will have a capacity of from 15 to 20 million for the first season, and will be enlarged as the demand increases.

The movement on foot between the business men and citizens to draw capital and enterprise here is a move in the right direction.

FOR SALE.

For sale, at once, a large quantity of household goods, all in good condition, including cooking and heating stoves, easy chairs, lounges, couches, cooking utensils and tableware, rugs, carpets and other articles. Come at once, as owner leaves the city next Thursday. Call at the Vine block, upstairs, South Broadway.

REDISTRICTED

Population by Counties of the New Congressional Districts

AS RECENTLY ESTABLISHED

By the Reapportionment Bill Which Was Passed By the Legislature

The new districts, under the reapportionment bill which recently passed the legislature, are compact and it is claimed are apportioned with regard to population as nearly equal as possible if the political complexion of Minnesota's republican delegation in congress is to be maintained.

The following is the population of the districts by counties:

First district—Dodge, 13,340; Fillmore, 28,238; Freeborn, 21,838; Houston, 15,400; Mower, 22,355; Olmsted, 23,119; Steele, 16,524; Wabasha, 18,924; Winona, 35,686; Waseca, 14,760; total, 210,164.

Second district—Blue Earth, 32,263; Brown, 19,787; Cottonwood, 12,069; Faribault, 22,055; Jackson, 14,793; Martin, 16,936; Murray, 11,911; Nobles 14,932; Pipestone, 9,264; Rock, 9,668; Watonwan, 11,496; total, 174,174.

Third district—Carver, 17,544; Dakota, 21,733; Goodhue, 31,137; Le Seuer, 20,234; McLeod, 19,595; Nicollet, 14,774; Rice, 26,080; Scott, 15,147; Sibley, 16,862; total, 183,106.

Fourth district — Chisago, 13,248; Ramsey, 170,554; Washington, 27,808; total, 211,610.

Fifth district—Hennepin, 288,340.

Sixth district—Benton, 9,912; Cass, 7,777; Crow Wing, 14,250; Douglas, 17,964; Hubbard, 6,578; Meeker, 17,753; Morrison, 22,891; Sherburne, 7,281; Stearns, 44,464; Todd, 22,214; Wright, 29,157; total, 208,162.

Seventh district—Bigstone, 8,731; Chippewa, 12,499; Grant, 8,935; Kandiyohi, 18,416; Lac qui Parle, 14,289; Lincoln, 8,966; Lyon, 14,591; Pope, 12,577; Redwood, 17,261; Renville, 23,693; Stevens, 8,721; Swift, 13,503; Traverse, 7,573; Yellow Medicine, 14,602; total, 184,357.

Eighth district—Aitkin, 6,743; Anoka, 11,313; Carlton, 10,017; Cook, 810; Isanti, 11,675; Itasca, 4,573; Kanabec, 4,614; Lake, 4,654; Mille Lacs, 8,066; Pine, 11,546; St. Louis, 82,932; total, 156,943.

Ninth district—Becker, 14,375; Beltrami, 11,030; Clay, 17,942; Kittson, 7,889; Marshall, 15,698; Norman, 15,045; Otter Tail, 45,375; Polk, 35,429; Red Lake, 12,195; Roseau, 6,994; Wilkin, 8,080; total, 190,052.

The republican majorities of the several districts, based on the vote for lieutenant governor and congressmen, are as follows:

	1898	1900
First District	6,463	6,175
Second District	4,402	6,740
Third District	3,589	4,342
Fourth District	3,531	4,726
Fifth District	3,435	8,210
Sixth District	964	2,214
Seventh District	4,292	7,611
Eighth District	1,874	6,445
Ninth District	788	1,558

CITY COUNCIL

MET TO CLOSE UP YEAR'S BUSINESS SATURDAY NIGHT.

The city fathers met in adjourned session Saturday night to close up unfinished matters and canvass the election returns. All aldermen were present except Alderman Rosenthal.

The finance committee reported back a long list of bills recommending their allowance, and another list without recommendation, all of which the council decided to be correct and ordered their payment. Among these was the balance due the Water Works Power & Light company for services rendered prior to the time they were notified of the council's decision to abrogate the contract. The monthly pay roll was also passed upon and ordered paid. Among the bills audited and ordered paid were those which had been incurred in consequence of the smallpox quarantine upon the James hotel, amounting in all to $539, all of which were audited and allowed.

The council then proceeded to canvass the vote of the recent election, which resulted in finding the several candidates' votes as follows:

Mayor—Nat Campbell, 447, M. R. Brown 438.

Alderman at large—J. O. Sargent 383, C. A. Hitchcock 463.

City treasurer—A. P. Hanson 414, Hugh Robertson 435.

City clerk—Wm. Lanctot, no opposition, 745.

Assessor—M. C. Malone 363, E. M. Lancaster 477.

City justices—Geo. H. Holt 699, John McLean 629.

Constables—Jas. Greenhalgh 544, Jake Andrist 374, A. A. Glenn 412.

Alderman, First ward—John Matheson 91, A. O. Busterud 83.

Alderman, Second ward—J. E. Morrissey, no opposition, 149.

Third ward, long term—G. S. Chesterman 49, J. F. Koelmel 46.

Third ward, short term—P. J. Lachapelle 49, J. Wyaud 41.

Fourth ward—Thos. Harris 140, W. E. Slocum 184.

Fifth ward—M. Sullivan 28, E. D. Childs 26.

The report of the canvassing board was accepted and the returns ratified.

A petition from J. A. Wyand and others for opening McDonald avenue was upon motion deferred.

The committee on streets and alleys reported favorably upon opening a highway in the Second ward along the Red Lake river running east and west, and the report was accepted and referred to the city engineer to ascertain the cost of procuring right of way.

The pavement petition which has been circulated among property owners for conditional signature was returned without the necessary number of signers, and Ald. Childs moved to reject the petition entirely, as paving at this time seemed inopportune. If the streets of the city were to be paved now it would cause a great deal of trouble, in making water, light and heating connections in future. Besides he thought many of the taxpayers and property owners signed the conditional petition, knowing that paving was impossible this year. He wanted to leave the paving matter to the new council.

Ald. Cromb was of the opinion that Ald. Childs' remarks contained a good many facts, but he thought a start should be made in the paving matter now, as no stone could be secured until next winter anyway. Upon motion the petition was referred back to the signers.

A resolution was introduced recommending the extension of Main street, to begin at the northerly terminus of said street where it intersects the southerly boundary line of block 21, in Davis' addition, and then runs north through block 2, to Grant street on the north, and Stearns street on the east. Resolution adopted.

A resolution urging the Broadway extension, beginning at the northerly terminus where it intersects the southerly boundary line of block 1, in the Davis addition, and runs northeast in the same direction through block 1, to Grant street on the north and Stearns street on the east, was also adopted.

A petition for a sidewalk in Cromb & Sletten's addition along lots 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 and 8, block 9, was granted.

Ald. Childs, of the legislative committee, reported that all the bills before the legislature had been favorably acted upon by the house and were now in the hands of the senate committee. There was no reason why further action had not been taken in the matter, as all opposition to the different measures now pending had been removed. The board of public works bill had not passed he said, notwithstanding the report of the Times to that effect, as the bill could not be prepared in time to be presented in proper shape.

Ald. Cromb stated that complaints had been filed against Street Commissioner Jerome for chopping down shade trees in the Fourth ward, contrary to instructions, and Mr. Jerome explained that the trees cut down were dangerous to the public, and one particular tree was chopped because it was decaying. To this remark Dave Turner, a resident of the ward, took exception and in terse terms called down the street commissioner. It was the sense of the council that no trees be cut down in future without the consent of the council.

In a communication Mayor Campbell mentioned the probable recommendations for changes, at the next meeting, and hoped to see the new council work in harmony with him.

The St. Franciscan sisters of the Little Falls hospital notified the city that M. Gronk, a city charge, had left and gone to Breckenridge.

The St. Paul county hospital presented a bill of $44 for the care of Chas. Rauch, while the latter was ill in that city. The bill was refered to the relatives of the man.

Dave King, another city charge, was ordered deported to his relatives in North Dakota.

A bill of $15 of F Ranembuehler, for keeping clean the hay market, was allowed and ordered paid.

The council then adjourned to meet again Tuesday evening, at which time the newly elected members will be installed.

LAST VETERAN OF 1812.

Only one pensioner of the war of 1812 is now on the rolls.

Born in 1800, he has lived through the entire nineteenth century. This wonderful old soldier is Hiram Cronk, of Herkimer county, N. Y. he enlisted in 1814 in the "mass militia" and served with distinction throughout the war.

At the age of 101 years Mr. Cronk is still hale and hearty and, all things considered, remarkably active. He lives within a short distance of his birthplace. Except for his absence during the war he has seldom left the vicinity.

He has habitually used tobacco since a very early age, but has recently threatened to discontinue it, fearing, as he says, that the use of the weed may become a habit with him. The veteran has every attention and bids fair to live for some time yet. He makes his home with his youngest daughter, a mere chit of a girl of 80.

EXCHANGED CONFIDENCES.

"And now, my boy, don't have any secrets from your father. What are your college debts? Don't be afraid to tell me the sum total, to the last cent."

"I won't father. The whole amount is $5,327.50."

"I thank you for your confidence, my boy, and I will be equally frank. You may pay those debts the best way you can."—Chicago Tribune.

26 INDICTMENTS

The United States Grand Jury Finds That Number of True Bills

BISAZZA CASE ON TOMORROW

Jury in the McCormick Damage Suit Are Still Out

The McCormick case, which has been on trial in the United States court at Fergus Falls since Tuesday noon, went to the jury at 10 o'clock Saturday morning. The greater part of Friday was devoted to listening to the testimony of the railroad men who were in charge of the train which struck Mr. McCormick, and late in the afternoon Mr. Root, attorney for the C. M. & St. P. Ry. Co., made a last effort to have the case taken from the jury. Judge Amidon of Fargo overruled his motion and Messrs. Root and Spooner summed up the case for the defendant and plaintiff respectively, Judge Amidon charged the jury at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, but the verdict had not been returned up to late Sunday morning.

The balance of Saturday was devoted to arguments in the case of J. L. Clough vs. the town of Farley. Mr. Clough purchased some drainage bonds issued by the town, and it later developed that there had been an error in the township organization, the tract of territory in which the officers who issued the bonds resided and in which the money was expended being outside the township limits. Mr. Clough alleges that he is an innocent purchaser and asks that the bonds be paid. Judge Amidon has taken the case under advisement.

The case of Frank Seer vs. the Northern Pacific, another $25,000 damage suit, will be the next to come to trial.

The grand jury returned a batch of 26 indictments Friday afternoon, these with the Bisazza indictment completing its work for the term. The jurors were discharged with the thanks of the court.

Among the indictments returned on Friday afternoon was one against Mr. Jerdee, the Hawley man who is charged with using cancelled stamps, and another against Thos. Newby, who is charged with cutting timber on government land. The balance are all parties who are accused of various violations of the Indian liquor laws and of illegal timber cutting.

The district attorney immediately entered a nolle pros in the cases against Oh-win-waince and Brownaince, two alleged violators who have been in jail since last fall, the winter's imprisonment for the offense for which they are charged.

Osmun Lunde, indicted for taking a keg of beer into the reservation, was the first man arraigned. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to spend 60 days in the Becker county jail or pay a fine of $100.

A LONG FAST

GRACEVILLE FARMER ABSTAINS 22 DAYS FROM EATING.

Graceville, Minn., April 8.—Twenty-two days ago John Lindquist, a farmer who imagines some one is trying to kill him, left his home during a violent blizzard. Although a search was kept up for several days no trace of him could be found. He was thinly clad, and it is supposed that he was frozen to death. Today when Edmund Colwell of Barry, went into his field to burn a straw stack he found Lindquist in a burrow in the straw very much emaciated and with his feet and lower limbs frozen. Lindquist claims he had been in the stack for 22 days, during which time he has not had a morsel to eat.

He obtained drink by crawling to a near-by slough. He has lost over 50 pounds in weight during his fast. At present he is in the hospital. His feet or portions of them have to be amputated.

POOR BILL PASSED

BOTH HOUSES HAVE NOW APPROVED THE MEASURE.

Mayor Campbell received notice by wire Monday of the final passage of the poor bill. Having now run the gauntlet of both the house and the senate, it only lacks Gov. Van Sant's signature to make it a law. This is a measure of great importance to every city in the state in those counties which are caring for their poor under the general state law, as we have been doing here in Polk county. It protects the cities from the injustice of being obliged to support non-resident persons who are dependent upon public aid, and places the burden where it properly belongs. Great credit is due Alderman Childs for the success of this measure, he having been its original promoter, and the one who has done more than all others to secure its passage. John Gleason has also done some very efficient work in the interests of the bill.

JACOBSON'S BILL

WILL NOT BECOME OPERATIVE FOR FOUR YEARS.

It will be three years at least, and probably four, before the state can receive tax returns under the Jacobson bill. It must be submitted to popular vote at the next general election, and cannot become effective, if carried, until Jan. 1, 1903. The taxes for 1903 are not due until the close of the year. Reports of gross earnings are required to be made to the railroad commissioners during January, and the companies are not drawn upon until after that report is made. They are not in default until March 1. Consequently, no action can be brought to test the case until March 1, 1904. The railroads will doubtless refuse to pay and will carry the case to the supreme court. A final decision is not to be expected before 1905.

There is little doubt that the act can be enforced so far as the roads organized since Minnesota's admission as a state are concerned. It will be much more difficult to enforce it as against the territorial roads . But Attorney General Douglas, who drew the bill, is very hopeful of ultimate victory.

ANOTHER CARRIE

A NORMAN COUNTY FARMER'S WIFE ON THE STUMP.

Ada, Minn., April 5.—Curiosity has been aroused by the appearance of the following bills on the streets: "Mrs. R. C. Corbett will lecture on the Kingdom of God on Earth and the Second Coming of Christ, at Ada, Minn., April 10. All Questions Settled With the Sword of the Spirit. What We are Going to Do to Save Mankind. Wednesday Evening, 8 O'clock."

Mrs. Corbett is the wife of a farmer living east of town and this is her first appearance. She is not connected with any of the churches here and no one seems to know what her message is.

STILL MISSING

NO TRACE OF EMIL BOECHER, WHO KILLED HIS SISTER.

A telephone message last evening from Mayville states that the coroner's jury called in the Boecher case returned a verdict that death was caused by the accidental discharge of a firearm.

Up to a late hour nothing had been discovered of the whereabouts of Emil Boecher, who caused the death of his brother and sister. A careful search has been instituted but not the slightest trace of the missing boy has been found. It is feared that overcome with remorse over the accident, he has done himself harm. The search will be continued until he is found.

THE BURLINGTON ROUTE.

"It is well known that the Burlington Route is selected by the government, and has been for many years, as the route for its through mail service between Chicago and Council Bluffs. The overland mail and the through mails from Europe across the continent to Asia are sent by the government over the Burlington. This service is performed in special trains, but there is no written contract for the service with the government. It simply has selected and retains what it considers the best, quickest and safest route for its trans-continental mail; nor is any subsidy paid. The Burlington receives only the same rates in force by the general law for the carriage of all mails in the country. In a recent debate in the house of representatives at Washington upon the question of paying a subsidy to a line of railroad between New York and New Orleans, for keeping up a fast mail service in the south, Mr. Loud, of California, chairman of the committee on postoffices and postroads, in giving his reasons for voting against this subsidy to the southern railroad, paid the following high tribute to the Burlington: "If subsidies are proper, you should not restrict them. If there is any railroad in the country that earns extra compensation from the government, that railroad is the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, from Chicago to Omaha, which runs phenomenally fast trains, carrying nothing but mail, but that company does not ask for a subsidy."—Railway Age, March 29, 1901.

RICH DUSKY MAIDENS.

Kansas, Mo., April 5.—Tams Bixby, president of the Dawes commission to the Five Civilized Tribes, says there is much of truth in the stories that there are hundreds of marriageable heiresses in the Indian Territory. He said:

"There are probably 3,000 young women in the Indian Territory who soon will come into possession of lands worth probably $8,000 to each heiress. To become a partner in the wealth of one of these Indian heiresses, a man must become a member of the Choctaw and Chickasaw tribe. He must pay a wedding fee of $1,000 to the tribe.

"When a man becomes a member of the tribe he is entitled to his part of the land so that when the allotment is worth $8,000 to each individual, there would be $16,000 in the family."

TEN YEAR OLD DRUMMER.

The youngest drummer in the United States is Harry Dugan of Bangor, Me., who is only ten years old. He is the son of P. T. Dugan, a dealer in harnesses and "horse jewelry," and has traveled all over Maine on his own hook, selling goods for his father, always with the greatest success. He never misses trains, is never cheated, and always gets lots of orders. He has been on the road two years.

FROM THE SOUTH

AN ANGUS FARMER RETURNS FROM VIRGINIA.

Wynkoop Lemen, who for the past 20 years has been one of the prominent business men of Angus, Minn., has returned from a winter spent in [illegible]. Mr. Lemen stopped for brief periods in a number of the middle states on his return, and said that he was surprised at the amount of talk he heard regarding the Red River valley. He says that hundreds of the substantial farmers in the states he visited seemed greatly interested in this section of the country, and that many of them were planning to remove to this section.

Mr. Lemen has spent nearly every winter for the past ten years in Virginia, and says that there has been a marked change in the estimate held of this section of the country by the people there during that time. Years ago Dakota considered on the borders of civilization, and the mere mention of a North Dakota blizzard would make their hair stand like that of a porcupine. It was thought to be a state where there were no social, educational or religious advantages, and that the people were forced to undergo great hardships. This feeling has all changed during the past few years, and as the advantages of the country become better known there is a general desire on the part of all to come west, where greater returns are received for labor and capital invested than in the older states, where a small piece of poor land is worth a fortune. Mr. Lemen says he is more pleased with the Red River valley at the present time than ever before, and that he is glad to get back.

HAS RECORD FOR MARRYING.

Chicago, April 5.—The Rev. W. L. Meez, the "marrying parson," of Auburn, Ind., performed his seven hundred and fiftieth marriage ceremony last night. He officiated at the marriage of his grandson, W. L. Eaton, and Miss Esther M. Gauger, daughter of J. A. Gauger, No. 4241 Drexel boulevard.

The Rev. Mr. Meez is the originator of the "Meez Matrimonial Association," whose members are those he has joined in wedlock in his 40 years' experience as a marrying parson. The association was formed Aug. 20, 1896.

COSTLY HONEYMOON.

Assumption, Ill., April 5.—After having been married just fifteen days, Richard Keirn, 84 years old, and his young wife have agreed to separate. He has given her $4,000 in cash and deeded her property valued at $20,000, while she relinquishes all further claim to his estate. Their separation was the result of a family quarrel, for which the wife summoned him into court and had him fined $3. This angered him so that he refused to live with her any longer, and arranged the separation upon the terms given.

EASTER SUNDAY

HOW THE DAY WAS OBSERVED BY THE CHURCHES.

Yesterday was observed generally by the churches of this city in a manner as nearly as possible in harmony with the wonderful event of which it was the anniversary. The weather was beautiful, encouraging to its utmost a liberal attendance at the various places of worship. And in nearly, if not indeed in every instance, the churches were well filled by the congregations which gathered, as it is to be hoped, in a sincere appreciation of the occasion and of the glorious hope which the commemorated event brings to humanity. The churches were all beautifully decorated with plants and flowers, the music had in each case been carefully arranged and prepared, and the exercises were all appropriate and inspiring.

At the Methodist church the Knights of Malta attended the morning service in a body and were addressed by Rev. F. A. Lawson from the text, "Come, see the place where the Lord lay."

At the Episcopal church in the afternoon the Knights Templar attended in a body and listened to an impressive sermon delivered by Rev. H. M. Green.

At the Congregational church in the morning the services were in the nature of a sacred concert, and were conducted mainly by the Sunday school.

At the Presbyterian church the theme was the "Triumphant Life," and the music was especially adapted to the occasion.

At the Baptist church the theme presented by the preacher, Miss Frye, was "The Resurrection."

We have not definite reports from the other churches, but it is stated that in each case large congregations were in attendance. And it is thought probable that a larger number of Crookston's population were in attendance at religious services some time during the day than ever before.

HOBSON'S JOB FINISHED.

Santiago de Cuba, April 8.—The collier Merrimac, which was blown up and sunk in the harbor by Constructor Hobson while Admiral Cervera's fleet was inside in 1898, was successfully destroyed Saturday by a ton of dynamite. Hitherto it has been extremely dangerous for a vessel to attempt the narrow entrance to the harbor, but now that the wreck has been destroyed it is perfectly safe. A great crowd of people on shore witnessed the blowing up of the hulk.

Muscle

Does not make the man. "The blood is the life," the vital force of the body. So it not infrequently happens that the man who looks to be a picture of physical strength falls a sudden victim to disease. A proper care for the blood would prevent many a serious sickness.

The cleansing of the blood is perfectly accomplished by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It drives out the impurities and poisonous substances which corrupt the blood and breed disease. It increases the activity of the blood-making glands, and so increases the supply of pure blood. It builds up the entire body with good sound flesh.

There is no alcohol in "Golden Medical Discovery" and it is entirely free from opium, cocaine and all other narcotics.

The dealer who offers a substitute for the "Discovery" does so to gain the little more profit paid by inferior medicines. There is nothing "just as good" for the blood as "Golden Medical Discovery" therefore accept no substitute.

"I took five bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery' for my blood," writes Mr. William D Shamblin, of Remy, Cherokee Nation, Indian Territory. "I had 'ring worms' on me and I would burn them off and they would come right back, and they were on me when I commenced using 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and they went away and I haven't been bothered any more."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation.

END OF INSURRECTION

IS EXPECTED TO OCCUR BEFORE THE FIRST OF MAY.

Washington, April 4.—Important proposals contemplating the surrender of all the insurgent forces in the Philippines have been made to this government by Aguinaldo. These proposals are stated in a dispatch from Gen. McArthur.

Aguinaldo wishes an opportunity to communicate with friends and former subordinates still in the field, and this will be allowed him under the supervision of Gen. McArthur. The president does not intend to bargain with Aguinaldo. He is a prisoner of war. If he exerts his influence the United States will welcome his aid and will consider his conduct when determining his future.

"Aguinaldo's taking the oath of allegiance," said one member of the cabinet, "emphasizes the importance of his capture. It makes more clear that the insurrection has about reached its end and foreshadows the early complete general acceptance of United States sovereignty and authority. Only a comparatively small number of Filipinos are still in arms, and the effect of Aguinaldo's action on them is obvious. From now on we will press forward organizing the best government we can, suited to the needs of the Philippines."

Manila, April 4.—It is probable that Aguinaldo, the revolutionary chief, will soon issue a manifesto to the Filipinos calling upon them to lay down their arms and accept the sovereignty of the United States as he has done. If this done it is believed that the remaining leaders in the field will surrender before May 1, after which peace will be proclaimed. The rebels that do not come in before May 1, it is thought, will be declared to be outlaws and will be treated accordingly.

SUMMER HOMES

GRAND FORKS RESIDENTS WILL BUILD AT BEMIDJI.

Last week Herman Wolff, Ole Bang and J. Larson-Orback returned from a trip to Bemidji, where all three will erect cottages for the use of their families this coming summer, says the Grand Forks Herald. The work on the buildings will be begun as soon as possible and will be ready for occupancy as soon as the weather would make it desirable to go to the lakes for a spring outing. The gentlemen will have a large private boat, and will be in every way equipped to enjoy all the pleasure possible during the summer. They intend to spend a great part of their time there this season, and their families will remain at Bemidji during the entire hot season.

One of the gentlemen stated that there were a very large number of summer cottages going up there this summer, and that the builders were from all parts of the northwest. The entire town side of the lake will be dotted with small but convenient dwellings, and it would seem that the coming summer would be the most lively in the history of both Cass Lake and Bemidji. Many boats are being built for rent, and the facilities to handle pleasure seekers are being greatly increased.

QUITE A CENSUS FACTOR.

Sioux City, Ia., April 5.—Louis Millette, a prosperous farmer of Salix, Ia., is the head of a rather remarkable family. He is under middle age and his wife is not yet 37 years old, yet there have been born to them 17 children, all of whom are alive and well. The last addition to the family came yesterday, a pair of baby girls. A year and a half ago Mrs. Millette gave birth to twin boys. Nearly all of the 17 children are boys. The mother is a handsome woman and looks more like a 20 year old girl than a matron of a family of 17 children.

A FATAL SHOOTING

Fourteen-Year-Old Boy Kills His Sister and a Brother.

GIRL DEAD AND BOY DY G

The Shooting Thought to Be the Result of an Accident.

Word was received late last night from Blanchard, Traill county, N. D., which told the story of a frightful tragedy which occurred near that town yesterday afternoon. Charles Boecher, the 14 year old son of Herman Boecher, a German farmer, shot and instantly his 10 year old sister and mortally wounded his brother, who was 6 years of age. The shooting is thought to be the result of an accident although the boy Charles has disappeared and no particulars of the affair can be learned. The shooting occurred when the father and mother were away from home, and it is supposed that Charles was cleaning his gun preparatory to going goose hunting. The parents are prostrated with grief over the awful affair and are making every effort to find the missing son that he might return and vindicate himself. The 6 year old son who lies near death's door is unable to give any particulars as yet, although it is hoped that he will recover consciousness and tell about it.

BUTTER CONTESTS

TO BE HELD MONTHLY IN THE CITY OF ST. PAUL.

Minneapolis, April 8.—The state dairy and food commission will institute in a month the first of the Minnesota educational prize butter contests to be held regularly once a month. Commissioner McConnell has already engaged a cold storage building in St. Paul where the contests will be held. Prof. Haecker of the state agricultural school, an eminent authority on butter making, has been engaged to act as judge. He will be assisted by gentlemen whom he may appoint from time to time.

Notices will soon be sent to every creamery in the state and towards the end of the month these will send sample tubes of butter for inspection. When all have been received Prof. Haecker will score the exhibits. Every month prizes of $5, $3 and $2 will be awarded for the three best samples of butter.

In addition to the prizes given all butter will be sold after the contest and the money received remitted to the contestants. The contents will be held every month and at the end of the year Gov. Van Sant will present a gold medal to the butter maker having the highest average during the twelve contests in the year.

The system of contests is a new feature in Minnesota, never having been tried before in the west. The idea of the dairy and food commission in establishing the series of contests is to encourage the manufacture of better butter. Minnesota is already noted for the fine class of butter turned out, but it is Commissioner McConnell's wish that even better results may be secured. He also wishes to place the Minnesota butter makers on a better basis to compete in the national contests

There are about 800 creameries in Minnesota and it is expected that the major part will contribute samples to the exhibits. Commissioner McConnell is certain that the tests will be of much benefit to Minnesota butter makers and that the establishment of contests as a permanent feature is an assured fact.

UNIQUE APPLICATION

RECEIVED BL NORTH ST. PAUL SCHOOL BOARD.

The North St. Paul school board held an election of teachers last week and among the applications for positions which they considered was the following:

"Should a vacancy occur in your corps of teachers, I wish to be considered an applicant for same. The matter of grade and salary is minor importance. I would willing accept any one, or two, which the school boa[illegible]ght impose upon me, but prefer [illegible]econd grade, as in that the teac[illegible] has a snap, you know. Being near the city there is always a chance to find some amusement to while away the tedious hours. What attitude does the board take to a practical girl who enjoys having a good time where social affairs offer themselves? You will readily see that I know my business when I confide to you that I am 37 years old, but don't let this leak out, as there might be some bachelor or widower in your town. The reason I ask about the school board, is that where I tried teaching the last time they objected to more than one dance a week, aside from socials and husking bees, etc. They seemed to think that a teacher was a kind of mill to grind out brains for stupid children. I come from a rural district, but that is no discredit. So did Old Abe. I shall be pleased, but not surprised, to hear of my election, for a live up to date teacher will be appreciated by a progressive school board. I enclose no recommendation, as the superior intellectual ability of the applicant will surely be recognized by your board, without any 'props' as we might say.

Yours fraternally,

The applicant was not elected, but the application was placed on file for refrigerating purposes when the weather becomes sultry.

FOOD LAW VIOLATIONS.

Inspector Chappel of the state dairy and food department will spend the coming week in the Red River valley district, says the Pioneer Press, following up numerous reports of violations of the pure food laws. For several years past the northwestern part of the state has been neglected by the department and the law has been disregarded until the inspectors charge it has become a habit. Another investigation will occur in Waseca county and reports of violations there will be examined by Inspectors Vromann and Haughdal.

HOMEWARD BOUND

SHRINERS RETURNING FROM THE HAWAIAN ISLANDS.

A string of Great Northern sleepers passed through here, bound for the coast to accommodate the returning shriners of the country on their return home.

On April 15 the Great Northern will carry through this city to St. Paul from Seattle a special train having one of the most distinguished parties that ever passed through here. One hundred and sixty members of the order of the Mystic Shrine, representing as many temples throughout the United States, acting as escort to the imperial potentate are returning from Honolulu, where they instituted the first shrine in the Hawaiian islands.

They will land at San Francisco and spend a day or two after their long sea voyage, and will go thence Portland, where the shriners will be entertained by the local members of the order. From Portland they go to Seattle. From this point they will start for St. Paul, stopping at Spokane and Fargo enroute, arriving in St. Paul on the morning of the 15th inst.

The company will run a special train of Pullmans comprising six sleepers, two dining cars, two commissary cars, and one baggage car.

TERRIBLE FAMINE.

Odessa, April 5.—Famine and typhus are raging throughout the governments of Kherson and Bessarabia and portions of the governments of Kieff and Taurida. The mortality is nearly a third of the population.

AN ASSURED FACT

The Great Northern Extension North From Lakota to be Built.

BE COMPLETED THIS SUMMER

Several New Towns Along Proposed Line are Already Laid Out.

Attorney Geo. D. Kelly, one of the prominent practicioners of Lakota, who is spending a few days at Grand Forks, says that great interest is taken in that part of the country in the prospects for immediate work on the new railroad from that place northwest, tapping a very rich country, which would then be more or less tributary to Lakota. Mr. Kelly says that the Great Northern right of way agents are on the ground at the present time and have been for some time past and have purchased the greater part of the right of way. The farmers who will be benefitted have been very liberal in making concessions, as the road will greatly increase the value of their lands, as the cost of marketing their product will be materially lessened when the new road is put through.

F. H. Stoltz, who has a large number of lumber yards throughout the state, has control of all the new townsites along the route of the branch, and the fact that he is from Larimore coupled to the fact that a large number of substantial business men of Larimore are buying town lots and going into business where the townsites are laid out, gives color to the statements that work on the new road will be commenced in the near future.

One new town has been struck with quite a boom, the town of Lunde, 26 miles from Lakota, which already has a good hotel, a machinery supply, house, a general store and other business projects, including a lumber yard. Everything is being hauled in by team at the present time, but it is confidently expected that trains will be running into the town sometime during the summer. There are a number of other places along the proposed route which are also being settled rapidly and will all soon be flourishing villages, as the country that will be tapped by the new road is one of the richest in the entire state.

$20,000,000 PROFITS

MADE BY ROCKEFELLER IN ONLY THREE WEEKS.

Duluth, Minn., April 8.—Even a man of such wealth of John D. Rockefeller cannot disregard the increase in his riches by the addition of $20,000,000 in one investment in three weeks. This happened to his holdings in the Lake Superior Consolidated Iron mines, which is to be taken in by the steel trust at once. Mr. Rockefeller holds about 90 per cent of the stock in the Consolidated and a few days ago it was dull at $65 a share. Now it is selling actively at $150. There are 265,000 shares issued and the selling value makes the property worth not far from $45,000,000.

SINGULAR FATALITY

ROCK CRASHED DOWN BLUFF AND KILLED WOMAN.

An unusual fatality occurred at Fountain City, Minn., early Friday morning. A large rock became loosened from the bluff's side and crashed down through the residence of Henry Bobler. It struck Mrs. Bobler, who was in bed with her husband, and carried her down causing her death. Mr. Bobler was injured only slightly.

●●WISE AND OTHERWISE●●

Well, here I am in Minnesota, according to agreement, just from the hills and dale of my country home in the far east. Many hopes and aspirations of future nams and fams have come to me, even if pa did scoff at the idea of my going west to seek my fortune. He said girls with ideas never did amount to anything, and if I was ambitious to get rich, I had better keep out of newspaper offices, and tend to my regular knitting. But I told him I had plenty of courage, and a little genius, perhaps, besides two big feet, and felt sure I would "get there in spite of obstacles.

When Mr. Gordon said "yes, that is just the kind of writing I've wanted some one to do for the Journal for a long time, and you may try an article for next Saturday's issue," I naturally was somewhat elated. So here I am with a pencil over my ear and a blank (dont leave out the 1) book under my arm, ready to write up the people of Crookston in the most approved style, viz: Praise and compliments for those who never get them anywhere else, and due respect for the glitter and tinsel of my fellow creatures. It may take a week or so to get the run of your town and find out who the real society people are, and to find out the exact locality of fashion and "Upper Tendom." Should I make some mistakes or fail to bring the right persons to the [illegible] please attribute it to ignorance and not to design.

I know how galling it must be to a lady whose husband is a legislator or a member of the city council to be spoken of as plain Mrs. Jones, when there should have ben a prefix to her name, or better still, an explanatory sentence after it. And how mortifying it must be to one who has given an elaborate party to one hundred and twenty five guests to have some stupid reporter say "There was nearly one hundred present." I know how these thing go and shall endeavor to keep these points in mind, so that the people will not hesitate to give me a "free pass" to their yellow teas, receptions and whist parties.

I do hope the public and I will be mutually pleased with each other and that lots of things will happen, so that I may have plenty to keep my pencil busy every week. I am inclined to think that next week will be all right, for this morning at the Palace I heard some swell ladies discussing the Dimity ball for Monday evening next, and by some hook or crook I must be there.

I am surprised that a city the size of Crookston can support so many weekly and daily papers, but it only shows the progressive spirit of its citizens I suppose. Speaking of newspapers reminds me that there is as much difference in editors as in anybody else, and the character of the man shines out in his editorials and the makeup of his paper like a gleam of sunshine, or glowers like a thunder cloud on a sultry summer's day. There is one kind of editor who never has anything to say and so never says it, but fills up his paper with clippings from other papers, forgetting to give the credit to his exchanges. Its a harmless sheet and nobody ever gets pleased or riled over its contents. Then there is the editor with an eye to business. He wants everybody's favor, especially the wealthy, and so his paper is a sort of patent plaster, made up of soft soap and putty in equal proportions. Its a regular bulletin board whereon are found the same names so repeatedly that it makes us all tired. There is a third class of editors who aim to edify their patrons and promote the good of all. They are fearless for the right and considerate of the feelings of others. They dare to rebuke wrong doing, even if found in circles of fashion and wealth. They are ready to bestow merited praise wherever it belongs, and their paper is welcomed and appreciated in every home where it is found.

WANT SUMMER SCHOOLS.

Applications have come to the office of the state superintendent of public instruction from al[illegible] county in the state, asking that summer schools be established there. No action will be taken until the legislature passes on the bill appropriating $10,000 for the maintenance of summer schools.

First Assistant Nelson stated yesterday that if the bill should pass, plans would be made for about fifty schools, begining on July 10 and continuing four weeks. Should the bill not pass, not more than thirty-five schools can be conducted on the present appropriation, and one school will have to serve several counties.

SPINAL CORD CUT.

New York, April 5.—Weston Shaw, a 16 year old boy of Inwood, was working in Far Rockaway tinning a roof, when he slipped and fell 25 feet, striking on his spinal column, crushing three of the dorsal vertebrae and breaking the spinal cord. Dr. M. F. Lee of Inwood performed an operation in which he took out entirely the crushed vertebrae and a mangled section of the spinal cord about four inches in length.

Six weeks have passed since the operation and the boy still lives. His lower extremities from the waist down are paralyzed, but all the organs of his body are normal, his appetite is good and his mind is clear.

Entered at the postoffice at Crookston, Minnesota, as second-class matter.

The primary election bill, which has passed both houses of the legislature, is strictly a republican measure, and was especially recommended by Gov. Van Sant in his inaugural message. It will make nomination of candidates for all town, city and county offices by the actual sentiment and vote of the people.

A Kansas printer in making up the forms one day in a hurry got a marriage and a grocer's notice mixed up so they read as follows: "John Smith and Ida Quay were united in the bonds of holy sauerkraut which will be sold by the quart or barrel. Mr. Smith is an esteemed codfish at ten cents, while the bride has nice pig's feet to display."

Mayor Campbell's message contains some good points which it is well for us all to consider. Especially its closing paragraph, which is an appeal to the people to stand by him in his efforts to upbuild our city and enforce its laws. Whether we have absolute confidence in his professed determination to do this or not, we should second every effort made in this direction and lead him all possible encouragement in the matter.

It has come to us as a matter of information, from what we believe to be a reliable source, that it is being given out by some of the so-called republican leaders, that the Journal was paid $50 for its support of the republican ticket at the recent election, and that after that it "flopped" and supported the citizen's ticket. We wish to deny this assertion emphatically at both points. We understand that a liberal fund was raised for campaign purposes, and we presume was all spent according to discretion of those who had it in charge. But the Journal did not receive a single cent of it for its support.

The primary election which originated in the house and passed the senate Thursday by the overwhelming vote of 45 to 12, will undoubtedly become a law. The house must necessarily pass upon the bill in its amended form, but the amendments are not of a radical nature and will not excite serious opposition. It is believed the bill provides a very effective remedy for some of the evils which now exist in connection with primary elections. Under this law all nominations of candidates for office will be made at these primary elections, or caucuses, as they are more generally called, instead of at conventions made up of delegates elected by the caucuses. It applies to all officers below the state officials.

Fergus Falls Free Press: The Crookston Daily Journal had a very interesting article in its issue of Tuesday entitled "The Lost River." From the amount of imagination used by the writer we think it would have been far more appropriate if the article had been headed "The Lost Bottle." It is a well known fact that when a Crookston writer loses his bottle his imagination works to perfection, and this accounts for the appearance of this very interesting letter. It is unnecessary to state that this article was written on election day, when the saloons were closed.

We are very sorry Bro. Sawbridge should so interpret the appearance of the article in question and associate it with such an irrelevant article as a bottle. Still, people are very apt to involuntarily associate the things to which they are most attached with other things that come under their observation, and conclude that the influence which is most potent with them must be the dominant influence with others. So we will not hold it against you, Brother Sawbridge, that you are inclined to measure our crop in your own half bushel, or rather your own bottle.

The Journal is a republican paper, because its proprietor believes sincerely in the declared principles of the republican party, its good faith in such declaration and its disposition and ability to maintain those principles. The Journal aims at all times to stand for that which is for the interest of the city, our state and our nation. Its opinions, either private or editorial, are not in the market or for sale. Its advertising space is always open for use by any responsible parties who desire to use them for any goods, commodities or measures which are not immoral or degrading in their influence, and at a fair price. But the Journal is an implacable believer in and advocate of the republican doctrine of reciprocity. And we know of no correct business principle which binds the Journal to advocate and support the personal ambitions of men simply because they claim to be republicans, when these men are at the very same time withholding their patronage from us and giving it to our competitors in business. And to a few who think you have us blindfolded and that we are under obligations to begin to dance as soon as you begin to fiddle, without any reciprocity obligations on your part, we have simply to say, you have not sized us up right. If we as a republican paper are under obligations to support you as republicans when you need it, you certainly as republicans are, or should be, under some obligations to give us your patronage.

Uncle Jo's Column

Well, we've had another election and it's all over and settled, and I don't see any use kickin' over the results. I didn't have much to say about matters this time, but it didn't come out just the way I voted, I can tell you. However, I ain't goin' to lay down now and sulk and pout about it. What I'm goin' to try and do is to brace these fellows that are elected up to doin' their best, now they're in there. I had rather they'd do a great deal better than I thought they would than to be doin' things all the time that are costin' the city a whole lot of money without doin' good, and makin' a laughin' stock of us for the people outside.

—(o)—

I liked what the Journal said about the election the other day. That was about the right kind of talk. The man that will go to work and do all he can to bring about the disastrous results he prophesied just because his man wan't elected ain't a true loyal citizen. But there are men right in this city that would now rather see Mayor Campbell do a whole lot of fool things and make himself ridiculous and see him throw things wide open and bring a reproach on the city, than to see him brace up and straighten out his back bone and make up his mind that all these violations of the law have got to stop and moral conditions improved, and the city made so orderly and quiet, and so many good things done, that we'd want to elect him again next year. But that ain't the way I look at it. I'd a heap rather find I was mistaken in my predictions than have the city suffer as we folks thought it would if the election didn't come our way. And if I can do anything to help Mayor Campbell make the city better, let him call on Uncle Joe.

—(o)—

Twenty-two years ago this spring Crookston held its first city election, and one hundred and twenty-seven votes were cast for Mayor E. C. Davis getting eighty-two votes and Frank Ives got fifty-five. Let's see, I guess K. D. Chase, A. Yvernault, D. Jacobess and E. M. Walsh was elected aldermen and W. D. Hurlbut was clerk. Wm. Anglim run against him, and Hurlbut only got one more vote than he did. W. M. Ross and W. H. Jennings run for treasurer and Ross beat Jennings 16 votes. Wm. Norcross was elected city marshal, and Tom Harris was elected assessor. He put in 21 days assessin' the city and got $42 for it. H. E. Cooke and William Sargeant were elected justices, and Cooke resigned in a little while and Henry Shepard (poor old fellow, he died a little while ago) was appointed to take his place.

—(o)—

That was the first year they begun to talk about a bridge over the river here. You see, they had a ferry runnin' then and we had to go across on the boat, and 'twant very handy, and they begun to talk about a bridge. So the council took it up along in August and they decided to issue $1,000 worth of bonds and donate 'em to the county to help build one. But they found afterwards they couldn't issue bonds quite so easy as that, and they got up a petition and held another meetin' and voted the bonds, and then that wooden bridge was built, and I don't remember what did become of the old ferry boat.

—(o)—

I see Larsen & Carpenter have got in a whole carload of cream separators. I spose they are the "Merit Always Wins" kind. They seem to be kind of stuck on the "Merit Always Wins" kind of goods anyway. Well, that's a pretty good motto to keep held up before a man's eyes, too. It's a good thing to have a good motto if a person is sincere about it and means it. But I got switched off from them separators. They are an awful good thing for a farmer to have that keeps a few cows. And if I was back on the farm and makin' butter I'd have a cream separator sure. I don't know as they save so much work as other invented things do, but it gives the folks a chance to put the cream away in closer quarters and ripen it up ready for churnin' without exposin' it to the odors and dirt so much, and then it make sweeter butter, and you have the milk for the calves while it is sweet.

—(o)—

There's lots of funny folks in the world, that is they seem funny to me. But I spose they don't think they are funny. I guess maybe we all seem queer to somebody. But now there's some folks can't tell which is their right hand until they wiggle their fingers and see which hand wiggles easiest. And then agin' some folks have to think which hand they hold their knife in when they're at the table eatin'. And then I heard about another way that I think is the cutest of all. There's a young lady goin' to the High School that when they are talkin' physical culture lessons and the teacher tells them to right or left, she has to go to winkin' right hard to tell which is her right eye. You see she can wink the right hand eye real easy, but she can't hardly wink the left hand eye at all. So she goes to winkin', and she knows that the eye that winks easy is the right hand one.

—(o)—

I heard a man say the other day that somebody is cuttin' the trees that stand along the edges of the streets. I haint been 'round to look it up and see if it is all right or not. But I think we ought to be pretty careful about how we let folks cut the trees down. And I don't see as anyone has any right to cut trees that belong to the city without permission from the council anyway. I think trees look real nice standin' 'round on the sides of the streets where they ain't in the way.

—(o)—

Here a little while ago I noticed everybody was travelin' in the middle of the streets because the walks were so slippery. But I don't see anybody walkin' in the middle of the streets now. Everybody is willin' enough to keep off of our pavin' now. That makes me think, I spose these new aldermen will pitch into that pavin' question now and we may expect to have our streets all fixed up nice. But I hope they'll have the sewer connections all made, or most of them anyway, before they put down a nice pavement, so it won't have to be dug up all the time when somebody wants to get to the sewer.

—(o)—

When the Journal boy brought my paper 'round the other night and I opened it up, I must confess I was a little bit surprised. When I first looked at it I thought the Journal had gone over to the other fellows and deserted us republicans. So I turned to see how the paper explained itself and why we was to vote for the boys on the citizen's ticket. And I couldn't find anything said about it and I saw right through it all then. The other fellows didn't arrange to have their advertisin' done and them boys did. I know how it is here, there's a whole lot of the folks that want a paper to be sayin' somethin' nice about 'em all the time, and if they want to run for office, the paper must pitch in and give 'em its best licks to help 'em along, and then they'll go right to the other paper when they want to advertise or have anything done that they expect to pay for. But of course, if the paper is a republican paper and they are republicans, the paper ought to help 'em anyway, and mustn't mention the other fellows. But I could see Mr. Gordon didn't look at it that way. He'd got tired, I spose, of doin' such kind of work without pay, and the citizen boys wanted to have him advertise for 'em, and he did it. I don't blame him either. There's lots of folks think the difference between "tweedle-dum and tweedel-dee" is just that one is you and the other is me.

—(o)—

And now some of these fellows that belong to the Times crowd are circulatin' a story that the Journal got a lot of money from the republicans for supporting the ticket, and then a lot from the other boys for sellin' out us they call it. But I guess I got it all straight that these same republicans that expected the Journal was goin' to throw up its hat and tear its shirt so to speak to host 'em into office went down to the Times office and had their printin' and other work done there. And I don't believe Mac did it for 'em any cheaper than the Journal would either. I don't believe in this style some of 'em have of thinkin' "the Journal has got to support me because I am a republican, but I'll go any old place I want to to get my work done." And I guess I've got it all straight that these fellows that got the Journal to advertise 'em had to pay the regular advertisin' rates and no more either. So I don't see who has any right to kick about it.

AGENT SHARKEY OF THE N. P. GETS A PROMOTION.

Chas. A. Sharkey, the accommodating and genial agent of the Northern Pacific at this place has received notice of his promotion to the position of traveling freight agent for the company. At the time this information was received here Mr. Sharkey was absent from the city, being in attendance at the Bisazza trial at Fergus Falls, and it is not positively certain whether he will accept the flattering offer or not.

His many friends in the city, and business men of Crookston in general, would much regret to see Mr. Sharkey resign the position he has so ably filled for a number of years as agent for the company, although they would like to see him advanced to the best the Northern Pacific has to offer to its employes by way of appointment.

In case of his acceptance of the new position, W. E. Handy, cashier of the company at this place, will probably be chosen as Mr. Sharkey's successor.

TO START ASSOCIATION

EASTERN POLK COUNTY TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.

Supt. Thos. Casey has received an invitation to meet with the teachers in the eastern part of the county at Fosston on the 20th inst., to assist them in organizing a teachers' association for eastern Polk county. Mr. Casey is very much in sympathy with the movement, but was unable to accept the invitation for the date named on account of its coming on Saturday, which, under the system he has adopted for managing his work, he is obliged to spend in his office here. He will, however, do his utmost to encourage and assist the association in the future.

Huhn was badly wounded in the skirmish at Meriquina on Feb. 23, 1899, receiving a bullet through both lungs. He was not expected to recover at the time, but survived his injuries, despite their seriousness.

—Thief River Falls News: While en route to this city from the lake, Jos. Duchamp's team broke through the ice in the river about 12 miles from here. He left them in the river to help fertilize the water for Crookston and Grand Forks people, together with a set of new harness and a sled loaded with hay. The water was quite deep where the accident occurred. This will make a big hole in Mr. Duchamp's winter earnings.

The Jewell Nursery company of Lake City, Minn., is out with a very unique circular, the appearance of which on our editorial table reminds us that this firm was established in 1868, and has by fair dealing and discreet judgment built up an immense business in the line of fruit, shade and ornamental trees and shrubbery of all kinds, and their reputation for square dealing is not excelled by any similar concern in the country. We heartily commend them to our readers who are in need of anything in their line.

—Emil Neils of Grand Forks came over Saturday evening to spend Easter Sunday with his uncle and aunt, O. D. Billings and wife.

—Hank Krause, one of Euclid's progressive young farmers, left a few days ago for Idaho, where he will seek a fortune before returning.

—Attorney Olson, of Warren, formerly a law partner of J. E. Carpenter of this city, spent Easter Sunday with friends in the Polk county capital.

—John Nelson, John Carlson and A. J. Rossberg, of this city, have rented the Westerberg building on Main street and will open a grocery store in the near future.

—Jacob Soes, for many years druggist in Anderson's drug store on Robert street, left Monday for his old home in Denmark, where he intends to remain for good.

—Editor Seymour, of the East Grand Forks Courier, was here Monday on business before the board of county commissioners. Burt says that business is booming at the west end in his line.

—Mr. and Mrs. Ole Pederson, who have made this place their home for the past six months, says the Bagley Independent, left Wednesday for Crookston where they will remain during the summer.

—A bursted water pipe in the second story of the Rolsch block raised havoc last night with the occupants on the first floor. The water soaked through the ceiling and did considerable damage in the pool room, and also the Rolsch saloon.

—Mrs. Lena Toupin, an old French lady of Mentor, was adjudged insane before the judge of probate Monday afternoon and ordered to be sent to the Fergus Falls asylum. Sheriff Sullivan accompanied her down there on last night's Great Northern.

—M. McKay, a Duluth contractor and builder, is in the city looking over the field for a location. Mr. McKay spent several days in Crookston two weeks ago and was so well impressed with its prospects that he has concluded to establish himself here.

—Several of the witnesses from this city who will appear in the Bisazza trial at Fergus Falls were excused by the court Saturday afternoon long enough to come home and spend Easter Sunday here. They state that the case will not be called before tomorrow morning.

—Parties arriving on the Great Northern from Moorhead this morning state that farmers have commenced seeding in the vicinity of Halstad and other points along the line. The splendid weather during the past few days has put the ground in excellent condition for spring work.

Messrs. Carpenter and Larsen Monday shipped twelve carloads of farm machinery, mostly binders, to their different sub-agencies throughout this and adjoining counties. Evidently machine men apprehend a big crop this year, and present prospects would warrant their expectations.

—Julius Pleth, the St. Hilaire real estate boomer, passed through here Saturday evening on his way to St. Paul. To a Journal reporter he stated that his page advertisement in the St. Hilaire Spectator had brought him 16 sales within the past two days. Thus it will be seen that advertising pays.

The tender on the east bound Great Northern passenger jumped the track near Ada Monday. The accident was caused by the softening of the road bed on one side, and delayed the train a couple of hours. No damage was done, and aside from jarring the passengers a trifle, no injury resulted.

—The McIntosh butter factory is nearing completion and will be ready to start up the latter part of this month. A. A. Farnham, manager and butter maker for the Fertile factory, came up from there this morning and left for McIntosh on the Duluth train, to inspect the machinery in the new enterprise.

—Tom Sirrs, the popular traveling salesman for the Phil Armour Packing company, with headquarters at Grand Forks, received word a few days since that his father, who resides at Barney, Ont., was lying at the point of death, and he left for that place at once. His position on the road is temporarily filled by C. W. Just, also in the employ of the packing house.

—Engineer Sieberts and wife, who reside on Hunter street, welcomed their daughters, Mrs. Mahoney of West Superior and Mrs. Titus, of Havre, Mont., home for a visit Saturday evening. Mr. Mahoney has been compelled by ill health to give up his position in the elevator at Superior and Mrs. Mahoney will remain until he decides where he will again engage in business.

—Jim Green was notified Monday that a grey timber wolf was skulking around the premises of W. C. Nash of East Grand Forks, says the Grand Forks Herald this morning, and shouldering his little gun he sallied forth on a war of extermination. Funeral services were held over the remains of Mr. Wolf an hour later in the Nash barn yard. The animal was large and a very fine specimen of the wolf tribe. And Jim is looking for more scalps.

Bagley Independent: In the contest case of John Carlson and Chas. A. Nelson vs. Severt Dokken, which came up for hearing before U. S. Commissioner Brown last Tuesday, J. A. Hendrick of Fosston appeared as counsel for Carlson, B. S. Bennett for Doken and James Smith of Crookston for Nelson. After trying the case for several hours Mr. Dokken dropped out, and from records in the case, Mr. Nelson's prospects are not very good. Of course, a motion may be made for a new trial or appeal taken, but Mr. Carlson no doubt will win out.

—Fine photographs in all styles from $1 to $20 per dozen at Skrivseth's art studio, near Commercial hotel, Broadway.

—An ice jam in the Red River at Georgetown forced out the new bridge at that place yesterday. The bridge was constructed only last summer at a cost of nearly $2,000, and the loss falls heavily upon the taxpayers of the town.

—Abstracters Stair & Steberg have secured a five years' lease of the building at the corner of Main and Second streets, which is now occupied by the Iverson sisters, and will take possession July 1st. This will give them one of the most desirable locations in the city.

—W. J. Magner, formerly traveling freight agent for the Great Northern on the Breckenridge division, was a visitor in the city Monday between trains, on his way to St. Paul. Mr. Magner is now engaged in business at Mispah, where he has a general store and an interest in a saw mill.

—Louis Morin, who has been up in North Dakota and Winnipeg for a week or more, returned Monday on the Northern Pacific. Mr. Morin says that the farmers up north are all engaged in seeding, that section of the country having escaped the recent rains. The ground is in excellent condition for spring work and the prospects for a big crop north of here were never better.

—C. B. Wilson, of St. Cloud, and his brother, James F. Wilson, of Provo, Utah, are spending some time in the city and vicinity looking up real estate bargains. They have great confidence in the future of the Red River valley and frankly admit that Crookston is the hub of this part of the state. They have serious notions of settling here permanently, and the Journal sincerely hopes that they will do so. We cannot get too many such men here.

—Derward Collins sold his farm 3 miles northeast of the city and will leave in a few days for a prospecting tour to the Yakima valley and other western points. If he finds a location which suits him he will probably settle down there and grow up with the country.

—The Owl club met with Elmer Ellington last week and the boys had a lively time. They get down to business, however, with surprising accuracy when they reach that part of the program, and not even the announcement of refreshments seems to divert their attention from the necessity of conforming to the rules of order. The refreshments were not neglected, however, and all hands enjoyed the occasion.

passed through here this morning on their way home to Michigan. They were Wm. Closs, Jerry Poobard, Peter Doring and Jos. Bruno, all members of the 30th U. S. volunteers. At Grand Forks the boys separated from a party of twenty-four other soldiers, who went by way of Fargo, only to meet again at St. Paul. They left Manila on Feb. 16, making the voyage on the of the men were mustered out at San steamer Hancock, one of the fastest boats on the ocean, and on April 3 all Francisco. Their home is at Hancock, Mich.

—Grand Forks Herald: E. C. Bates and F. S. Lycan returned Sunday from a trip to Florida and many of the large eastern cities. They have been absent several weeks and returned in the best of health with faces tanned to a hue resembling that of a harvest hand that has worked a couple of weeks under the August sun, hatless. They reported a delightful trip, in which golfing, bicycling and sea bathing all figured prominently. Messrs. Clifford and Titus, who accompanied them, are still in Minneapolis, where they are attending to business matters and will not arrive till tomorrow. John Birkholz is still in New York, but will return in a few days.

BISAZZA ON TRIAL

The Insolvent People's Store Proprietor up Against the Real Thing.

HIS PLANS WERE MISCARRIED

Fragments of a Torn Letter Indicate Proposed Trip Around the World.

The Fergus Falls Journal of yesterday has the following account of the Bisazza case which is now on trial in the United States court in that city:

"The next case called was that against Spiro Bisazza, the bankrupt merchant of Crookston, who is charged with concealing goods with the intention of defrauding his creditors, at the time he went into bankruptcy. Assistant District Attorney Purdy, in outlining the case for the prosecution, stated that evidence would be introduced to show that Mr. Bisazza had failed to account for some $10,000 worth of goods, a portion of which he had doubtless converted into money, but just how much thes tate was unable to say. He proposed to show to the jury a large consignment of valuable goods which were seized while en route to Seattle. The goods were shipped in the name of O. H. Peterson but it was proposed to show that they were portions of Bisazza's stock; furthermore it would be shown that Bisazza purchased tickets under the name of John Johnson when about to leave for Seattle himself. Another very damaging piece of evidence which would be presented was a letter which Bisazza had written to a relative but which he had torn up on being captured. This letter, when placed together, showed that in going to Seattle he was really planning a trip around the world; that he expected to sail from San Francisco on a certain date and arrive ultimately at Delmazia, not far from his former home in Austria.

"The goods which were received are now on exhibition in the little court room, one-half of which has been fenced off in order that they may be properly displayed. The court room looks like a miniature store, the 'grand opening' having occurred yesterday.

Ole Vaule, who returns from Fergus Falls this morning, reports that the case is just about half concluded.

The outcome of the trial is watched with considerable interest, not alone here, but all over the northern part of the state, as the facts connected with Bisazza's failure are of an unusual character, and may serve as a lesson to others who are now in business and expect, some day or other, to escape paying their honest debts.

GENERAL NEWS.

The foundations are now laid for Mrs. Bain's new hotel building on Main street, which will be 50x70, full two stories high, says the Blackduck Times. Work will be pushed on the building as fast as possible. It is only an evidence of the faith that the people have that Blackduck will be a good town.

Andrew Carnegie desires to be the special ambassador of President at the coronation of King Edward VII. and Senator Allison of Iowa is said to be pressing his appointment upon the president.

WE BEG to direct your attention to our new Spring Fashions. You will find in them an interesting display. In fact we venture to assert that so comprehensive is our line that any man who prides himself on his appearance, and who does not owe himself a grudge, will do himself an injustice if he buys any article of clothing before seeing what we have to show. And now a word as to prices. When it comes to prices there is a distinguishing line between stinginess and economy. We do not advocate qualities so low that reasonable service is not to be expected, but we will refund for any purchase if equal quality can be bought anywhere for less money.

ENGLISH SOLDIERS HAMPERED

By the "Red Tape Tactics" Practiced While in Actual Service.

Attorney James E. Maybury is in receipt of a letter from John S. Barnes, who is well known in northwestern base ball circles, he having for a number of years been the manager of the Minneapolis team. Barnes is now in South Africa and in his letter he has something to say which is not altogether complimentary to English military officers. The Journal, by permission of Mr. Maybury, is permitted to print the following extracts from the communication:

Cape Town, March 10.

Dear Jim:—Here I am for four months and can't get a step farther unless I join the English troops, and I am too strong for that. I have been running a show here and had two good American boxers, Jack Everhart and George Gardner, with me. There never will be another country like this as soon as the Boer war is over. But there is the sticker. It is liable to last five years, and it may be over in a week.

The English boys are good, brave soldiers, but the majority of the officers are not up to date. They will not start a battle in the morning until they have had their bath and get their one-eye glass properly adjusted. They carry their bathing apparatus along with them. There must be 300,000 English soldiers here at the present time. I candidly believe that 100,000 of the old Fort Snelling boys would clean up the trouble in less than 60 days.

The Boers are a cunning and crafty lot of men, but if they had to fight men of their own calibre it would soon be over with them. The Australians and Canadians are fine and daring fighters, but the red tape of the London war office would defeat any army they are behind. There are also a lot of American boys here fighting for the English, and I suppose there are many of our Americans fighting for the Boers. A friend of mine whom I first met in Santiago with the American Rough Riders, who is now with the English army, just arrived from the front and tells me that he was out scouting with about fifty others. The scouts were hiding behind some boulders, and expected the Boers were engaged at the same game about five hundred yards away. While stationed there a Boer peeped around a rock, and bang—off came his head from the old Rough Rider's rifle. The captain in command of the English scouts became enraged at this and demanded to know who fired the shot that killed the Boer. The American soldier answered that it was him who shot. The officer reprimanded the scout, telling him that he "had committed a serious offense. You should have waited until I commanded: 'Ready, fire!'"

The Rough Rider claims he could have killed ten Boers that day, but with the "ready-fire-order," the Boer in question was the only one he killed in ten months. This is only an illustration of how the English officers protract the war. However, the English are sure to win in the long run. They may change their tactics some day and let their soldiers fight like the Americans do, and then it won't take long to finish the job.

I long to see the end of the trouble. When the war is over the country will eclipse Cape Nome, Cripple Creek, Klondike or any other country that I know about. Your friend,

—John S. Barnes.

PAID FOR HIS SMARTNESS.

A certain young man in Duluth got on a West Duluth car a few days ago with a $20 gold piece in his pocket. It was probably the first time that the young man ever had one in his possesion, at least he acted in a manner that would confirm such a suspicion. He was scarcely on the car, when the conductor started to take up the fares. The first person he asked for a fare was the young man, whose gold piece was fairly burning a hole in his pocket, and who was evidently pleased over the surprise was going to spring on the conductor. As the conductor held out his hand the young man flipped into it the coin and with an indifferent air he remarked:

"I don't suppose you can change it. I'll pay the fares of everybody on the car."

The conductor had one of those innocent smiles that mean a great deal, when he glanced over the car and commenced jerking the bell cord until he had rung up twenty fares. About the time he had rung up twelve or thirteen fares the young man's chin dropped a little and he stammered out:

"W-w-w-what! You are not going to change it, are you?"

"Sure," responded the conductor. "What do you want for change, quarters, dollars or gold pieces?" and he produced from an inside pocket a book well stuffed with bills.

The by-play had been watched with amusement by the remaining nineteen passengers who had their fares paid by the young man and the latter was greeted with a burst of laughter as the conductor gave him $19 in change. The young man rode a block further and left the car, but he carried with him the memory of a glad smile on the faces of nineteen other people.

PAID TAX TEN YEARS

ON BUILDING THAT HAD NEVER BEEN BUILT.

Sioux Falls, S. D., April 0.—A peculiar and at the same time amusing incident occurred at the last meeting of the city council, when the application for a refunding of taxes on a block of ground on one of the principal residence streets, was called to the attention of the council. The owner of the block is a woman, and from the records it was shown that for ten years past she has been paying taxes on the land and also on the house supposed to be located on the land. Investigation proved that there had never been a sign of a building on the property. In fact, there had never been two boards nailed together on the property until within the past few months, when a sidewalk was placed in front of the land. The owner now petitions for a refunding of the amount of taxes which she has paid for ten years on improvements which never existed. During the ten years there have been six or seven different assessors, yet none of them discovered the fact that they were assessing something that did no exist.

AGUINALDO AT WORK

ON HIS PEACE MANIFESTO TO THE INSURGENTS.

Manila, April 5.—Aguinaldo has the assistance of Chief Justice Arellano and of Mr. Fisher, Gen. McArthur's private secretary, in preparing his manifesto. The work is not completed and the tenor of the contents is not divulged.

Chief Justice Arellano had a long conference with Aguinaldo. He says Aguinaldo is realizing the futility of further resistance, and is desirous of sparing the Filipinos additional distress, trusting to the justice and generosity of the American people. The chief will urge the insurgents to cease fighting and accept American sovereignty.

SUGAR BOUNTY BILL

WILL BE ASKED FOR BY GOVERNOR VAN SANT.

Gov. Van Sant has interested himself in the payment of the sugar beet bounties accrued during the last two years. A bill carrying an appropriation of $19,923 was killed in the house Tuesday and a new bill cannot be introduced without the governor's request and he has decided to ask for the introduction of another bill for the same amount. It will be introduced in the senate by Senator Wilson.

INCREASE IN WORK

THE REGISTER OF DEEDS OFFICE GAINS 33 PER CENT.

The volume of labor in the register of deed's office for the month of March this year has increased over 33 per cent over that of the corresponding month in 1900, as is shown from the following report of documents recorded and fees received:

March 1901.

No. of Deeds, 185.	Fees	$192.00
No. of Mortg. 162.	Fees	268.50
No. of Sat. 132.	Fees	70.00
No. of Assign. 55.	Fees	30.25
No. of Patents, 36.	Fees	30.50
No. of Misc. 66.	Fees	88.95
Total	536	$619.95

In the above should also be included the recording of 44 town treasurer's bonds, for which no charge has been made, as was done the previous year in the same month. This would have added $22 additional fees to the income of the office. The work and returns of the office for March 1900.

No. of Deeds, 127,	Fees	$123.75
No. of Mortg. 106,	Fees	140.50
No. of Sat. 108,	Fees	58.75
No. of Assign. 43,	Fees	29.90
No. of Patents, 10.	Fees	7.50
No. of Misc. 62.	Fees	69.40

SEVENTY FIVE YEARS OLD.

In honor of the 75th birthday of The Youth's Companion the publishers have issued a handsome "75th Birthday Souvenir." It contains a series of striking maps and suggestive facts, showing the vast growth of the nation and of the nation's foremost family weekly since the day in April, 1827, which saw the first number of the first volume of The Youth's Companion come from the press.

From no subscribers in 1827 it has a list of 545,000. During 1901 it will publish more than 225 stories and articles by the most popular writers of fiction, eminent statesmen, scientists, educators, travelers and explorers. These articles wil be embellished with over 500 illustrations. In 1827 a boy brought the paper for a weeks edition to the office on a wheelborrow. Now each weeks edition requires 11 two horse drayloads of paper.

—Ald. P. J. Lachapelle, who was elected to fill out the unexpired term of W. E. Rowe at the recent election, was the first member of the newly elected officers to qualify. He appeared at the city clerk's office Monday morning and took the oath of office.

UNKIND COPPERS

GIVE ARTISTIC FARGO TAILOR THE WOODEN EAR.

Shortly before midnight last night says the Fargo Call, when the rain was the busiest, the police found a man clinging to a post in listless fashion. He was drunk, and proved to be a French tailor named DeWolf, and the following was the tale of woe he sprung on the coppers:

"I am Bernard DeWolf, an' I am zee magnificient artistic tailor. I make zee wearing apparel for—what you call?—oh, oui, zee swell gentlemen. I have been on zes other shore of zee river messieurs, an' zee wine, he make me—vat you call?—oh oui, crazy in zee head. Sacre tonner! zee great French tailor, DeWolf, have what zee American call vheels in hees hat. Sapristi, I am sorry for me. Be zee kind, good gentlemen, vat you are, an' take zee great DeWolf to hees hotel. I do not wish to live in your hastile, one, two, three, maybe four days. See, I have five francs—what you call?—oh, oui, one dollare. Take zee monee, an' I will go. No? Oh, mon Dieu, I cannot look into my face for very shame, zat I zee great DeWolf should be arrested."

The police gave him the wooden ear and he was taken down to the cool shelter of the city hall basement to be on hand to tell the court about it this morning.

WHIPPING POST IN USE

ADOPTED IN INDIANA FOR CORRECTION OF JUVENILES.

Indianapolis, April 6.—Police Judge William C. Daly has adopted the whipping post for the incorrigible youth of Indianapolis. Three boys inaugurated the system this morning, and Judge Daly will continue to have the lash applied, believing it to be a better policy than making the parents pay fines.

Jimmie Heidelberg, twelve years old, was thrashed by his father in the police matron's office. Judge Daly suspended sentence in the boy's case if the parent would promise to administer the chastisement. During the morning two other boy's, both colored, felt the force of the official lash.

"This is a permanent institution," said the judge. "I am going to stop this juvenile cussedness, and offenders will be made to feel the force of that remark."

QUIT THE RIVER

LUMBERMEN WILL HAUL LOGS BY RAIL IN FUTURE.

The number of logs carried by the railroads on comparatively long hauls is growing, says the Minneapolis Journal. The Backus-Brooks and the Scanlon-Gipson companies experimented on railroad transportation with about 7,000,000 feet of logs last season. These were hauled from the neighborhood of Walker to Minneapolis. The plan was found to be feasible. One proposition that was demonstrated satisfactorily was that the sinkers and strays in river transportation about make up the difference in rate between rail and river. There is also a saving in interest in favor of rail transportation, and the fact that the logs can be brought to mill so much faster by rail, enables the manufacturer to figure more intelligently regarding the profits on his logs.

BLAMED THE COWS

BUT HAD TO PAY THE FINE FOR SELLING POOR MILK.

Victor Greenstein claimed that if his milk was poor it was the fault of his cows and the police should arrest them if his cans were found to contain thin milk, says the Minneapolis Tribune.

The dairyman had been arrested charged with violating the ordinances, and Prof. Drew gave Judge Holt his analysis of three samples taken from Greenstein's cans. The law requires that there shall be 3½ per cent of fats to the solids and a certain percentage of solids, and the samples fell below, so the dairyman came under the ban of the law.

"Could you tell from your analysis," asked Judge Holt, "if the milk had been watered?"

"Not certainly," was the reply. "There might be such a thing as poor cows and bad feed to bring about the same results at times."

"What's the matter with your cows?" asked Judge Holt, who is something of a farmer himself.

"I don't know, judge," was the reply of the dairyman. "I deliver my milk just as it comes from the cows, and I milk them myself."

"Do you mix night and morning milk?"

"No, judge, your honor. I have fresh Holsteins and I don't know why the milk shouldn't be good."

"You had better get rid of your cows," replied Judge Holt. He knew something about fresh Holsteins, and there was no compassion in his voice as he fined Greenstein $10.

Chas. Raine was not a dairyman, but brought in milk from the farmers and he knew nothing about it, only collecting one and a half cents a gallon for hauling the milk to town. But one of his cans held milk below standard, and he had to suffer for the fault of the dairyman.

"You had better not haul any more milk for that man," said the court. "The least I can do is to fine you $10 under the statute."

They both paid the fine and went their way to finish the day's delivery.

A SIMPLE DANE

FRIGHTENS NUMBER OF GRAND FORKS LADIES.

Grand Forks has a "Jack the Frightener," of whom the Herald Saturday said:

From time to time all kinds of "Jacks" have bobbed up in this city and other places. For the past few weeks there has been a man doing the scare act in the residence portions of the city, and in several instances the ladies were very badly frightened. For some time past the police have been watching for the man, and last night he was arrested at the Great Northern depot by Officer Lowe, and when taken to the police station was identified by a number of women. He gives his name as Pete Torkleson, and says he is a Dane and has been in the city for the past four months. He has a brother on Oak street and has been stopping there for some time past. He is rather tall with a sandy beard and complexion, and has been in the habit of walking about the city and entering houses unannounced. When the lady of the house would appear he would mumble a few questions in broken English and then move along to the next house. He has never done any harm yet, and when questioned last evening stated that he meant no harm, but that he wanted work and was trying to find it. He promised after being lectured that he would frighten no more women, and was then discharged. The police are of the opinion that he is a little bit "off," but that there is no harm in him. Nevertheless there have been a number of women very badly scared by his antics, if he is the one who has done all the scaring and will not be permitted to trouble any one any more.

$50,000 TO STATE U.

Yesterday afternoon John B. Gilfillan, of Minneapolis, gave the University of Minnesota $50,000, the income of which is to be used to assist needy students to enter and pass through the university.

SENATE PASSES IT

Primary Election Bill Carried By a Large Majority of 45 to 12.

SUCCESS NOW ASSURED.

Only Unimportant Ammendments Made Which Will be Accepted.

The Dunn primary election bill was passed by the senate Thursday morning by an overwhelming vote. Of those who have been fighting the proposed reform so bitterly both in and out of meeting for several weeks past only twelve had the hardihood to vote against it on the final vote, and of these twelve eight were democrats.

It was the fourth day of fighting on this bill. Numerous amendments were proposed, but he debate was generally spiritless, the opposition contenting itself with disuitory firing now and then, which plainly indicated that it was in full retreat.

After disposing of a large number of obstructionary measures, the question of final passage was reached about 12:30. Long before the vote was announced, all realized that the primary election law had plenty of votes and some to spare.

The bill stands practically as it came from the house, and the slight amendments will undoubtedly be accepted by that body and the bill become a law. It will not take effect, however, until Sept. 1 next. It developed unexpected strength as the discussion over it progressed and finally passed by a vote of 45 yeas and 12 nays. This outcome was very gratifying to the promoters and will undoubtedly be endorsed by the voters of the state generally.

COMING HOME

FARGO'S MAYOR RETURNS FROM THE OLD COUNTRY.

Fargo N. D., April 4.—Mayor Johnson is expected home in a few days. He landed at Portland, Me., yesterday and will reach here about the latter part of this week, or by Monday at the latest. His trip to northern Europe in the interests of immigration along the Soo line in this state has been an unqualified success, and it is expected there will be at least 20,000 new settlers within the next year as the direct result of his efforts.

The infanticide case has again been adjourned till April 10. It is reported that the attorneys for the defense are planning a shrewd move to have Herbert Robertson, the defendant, marry Widow Jasmer, who is said to have been the mother of the infant. If this is done it will prevent her from testifying against Robertson, and the other testimony is of such a nature that conviction may be difficult to secure. Threats of prosecuting Mrs. Jasmer as an accomplice may induce her to consent to the marriage.

IN ONE GRAVE

INSANE MURDERER AND HIS VICTIMS BURIED.

Devils Lake, N. D., April 4.—Seldom such a sad spectacle occurs as was witnessed here in the burial of the three murdered little Segerlen children. Scant sympathy is expressed for the father, though his deed was that of an insane man. The mother, an invalid unable to walk, is nearly crazed with grief. The funeral services were conducted from the Methodist church by Rev. J. M. Murcheson. The father and his three children were buried in the same grave. Investigation shows that the man struck each of the three children in the head with a hammer and also inflicted knife wounds on each. After their death he placed them side by side in a stall cleanly bedded, stood in a position so that he would fall near them, and then severed his head from his body with the same knife he had used on his children.

A NEW FIRM

WHICH WILL MAKE A STRONG TEAM FOR BUSINESS.

Thursday a deal was consumated by which Elias Steenerson and James E. Maybury became copartners in business, under the firm name and style of Steenerson & Maybury. The new firm will engage in the law, loaning, real estate and insurance business, and a successful future cannot fail to crown their efforts.

Mr. Steenerson is one of the best known, as well as most enterprising and successful business men in this city, and through his fair and straightforward dealings has won for himself many friends in business circles in this community.

His new associate, Mr. Maybury, is a comparatively new comer in this city, having arrived some time last September. During his short residence here he has won for himself a most enviable reputation as a successful attorney and enterprising gentleman. As for his integrity and honesty, the writer most heartily commends him to the business men of this city and Polk county, as he has known him for more than twenty years. Although still a young man, he will prove a worthy business partner to Mr. Steenerson, and the Journal bespeaks for the new firm a prosperous future.

KANSAS BURIED

UNDER TWO FEET OF SNOW ROADS IMPASSABLE.

Atwood, Kan., April 4.—The northwestern corner of Kansas is buried under a heavy blanket of snow two feet deep on level and from 18 to 20 feet in drifts. The prairie roads are impassible. The St. Francis branch of the Burlington and Missouri railway from Atwood to St. Francis is blocked. For six days the railroad company has been working at the drifts but less than ten of the fifty miles west of West Atwood have been cleared. Many cattle have died on the ranges in this portion of the state.

In nearly all the towns there is a famine in fuel and provisions. Coal and wood ran out several days ago. The people are burning loose railroad ties, fence rails, etc.

It is believed it will be a week before the road is open. The ice is too hard for the railroad rotary plow and the workers are now trying to open the cuts by chopping through the ice with axes and picks. One drift near this city is nearly a mile long and is ten feet deep. It has snowed here every day for a week, and the blinding white flakes deter the workers.

The Burlington and Missouri River railway cuts down on the Orleans and St. Francis branch from Nebraska and traverses Rawlings and Cheyenne counties. The towns on this line west from Atwood are Blakeman, Beardsley, McDonald, Bird City, Wheeler and St. Francis. At St. Francis a Burlington train is snowed up. The roads have been blocked up since March 23.

STORMY APRIL

HICKS SAYS THIS MONTH WILL BE A BAD ONE.

According to Rev. Irl R. Hicks it will be wise to keep your weather eye open throughout the present month. While he doesn't announce any cataclysm in his predictions for April, he says there may be some very severe storms that it will be well to watch closely with the door of the cyclone cellar wide open and all ordinary obstructions out of the way. The first of the series is booked for this week. Storms of a dangerous character are not certain, but probable. For tomorrow high temperatures are predicted and low barometric readings with possible hail and thunder storms of unusual severity. Tornadoes for various localities are to be expected during the week. Hicks predicts warmer weather for the middle of the month. Between Sunday and Tuesday, the 14th and 16th, he says may occur sharp storms of rain, hail, wind and thunder. During the succeeding week very threatening storms may be looked for in the southern states. Another storm period is predicted for the days between the 24th and 28th. The influence of the storms of this period are expected to reach up into the northern states. A warm wave will precede the storms. The dates are not fixed exactly, by Mr. Hicks, but only indicated in a general way. The predictions are interestingly put and furnish matter for study.

BOUGHT A TICKET

AFTER RISKING HIS LIFE BY STEALING RIDES.

A stranger from the west backed from the N. P. bridge into the river at Jamestown, N. D., to avoid a collision with a switch engine. He went down into the icy water and was thoroughly soaked. He succeeded in climbing out without assistance and made his way to the Delmonico, where he ordered the best in the house. While waiting for his order he produced a roll of $90 in cash and two $100 drafts and dried the same by the stove. He had been beating his way from the west, catching freights whenever possible and when the accident occurred was about to board an east bound train. The ducking he received had a good effect on him and he bought a ticket for an Indiana town Monday.

MERCER REMAINS

THOUGH HIS WORK HAS BEEN CRITICISED.

It appears that the basis of recent intimations that Capt. Mercer, agent at Leech Lake, Minn., would retire and rejoin his regiment, was the criticism directed against his administration of the office, says the Washington correspondent of the Pioneer Press. Recently Capt. Mercer admitted that it was almost impossible to conduct the affairs of the agency without adverse criticism from all parties interested. It is well known, however, that Capt. Mercer's course has had the approval of Secretary Hitchcock and Commissioner Jones. The department officials say there is no truth in the report that Mercer will be removed, but on the contrary every effort will be made to retain his services

UP GOES LUMBER

Northern Minnesota Lumber Manufacturers Met Here Last Thursday.

SLAPS ON 50 CENTS PER M

This is Made Necessary by the Increase Paid to Laboring Men.

At a meeting held last Thursday at the Hotel Crookston, at which were present Tom Shevlin, of Minneapolis, and representatives of the lumber mills at Thief River Falls, Red Lake Falls, St. Hilaire, East Grand Forks and other mills in the Red River valley, it was unanimously decided to advance the price on lumber fifty cents per one thousand feet.

This advance may not be agreeable to builders and contractors who have already made estimates for new structures to be erected this summer, as it will make a material change in their figures, but eastern manufacturers have seen fit to make a raise of fifty cents per thousand feet, which enabled them to advance the pay for labor, and in order to meet the advance in wages, lumber manufacturers in this section were compelled to do likewise.

HAD $200 TEETH

HUMAN SKELETON EMBEDDED IN ROCK.

Newport, Tenn., April 4.—While a crew of laborers were working an excavation through the Forman cliff, two miles east of Newport, for the bed of the Tennessee & North Carolina railroad, they found a human female skeleton, 19 inches in height, in a perfect state of preservation. The strangest feature were the teeth, which were 200 in number, and had no sockets, but were developed from and grew upon the jaw bone, with no adjacent valvular adjunct. As soon as removed the bones were her sealed and sent to the Smithsonian institute.

The skeleton was found in solid rock, ten feet from the face and eight feet from the top of the cliff, in a cavity two feet by fifteen inches. About the cavity was no opening crevice or aperture for the skeleton to enter since the formation of the cliff, probably more than 2000 years ago.

SAD ACCIDENT

WOMAN AND TWO GIRLS FALL OVER A CLIFF.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., April 4.—Between 5 and 6 o'clock Sunday evening Mrs. Daniel Patterson, wife of a mechanic, her 12 year old daughter and Nellie Chase, aged 14, all living at Cold Spring, went for a walk.

They stopped at Table Rock, half way up Breakneck Mountain, to watch the forest fires burning on Crow Nest Mountain, across the river.

Suddenly the Patterson child slipped and fell over the cliff.

The mother sprang forward to save the child and also fell over the rock, both screaming in turn as they fell.

Nellie Chase became greatly excited as she saw her friends go over and she, too, fell after them.

BLIZZARD IN OHIO.

Pittsburg, O., April 4.—From early morning until noon yesterday the city was in the toils of one of the worst snow storms ever experienced in this region. The wires were badly crippled, both electric and teleghaphic. Miles of poles are down. Fallen wires make it very dangerous for pedestrians.

The railroads were not expecting the storm and are badly crippled. Trains in all directions are laid up. Many trains are stalled and others can't move on account of lack of wires to direct their progress.

FILIPINOS SURRENDER.

Washington, April 4.—A cablegram from Gen. McArthur reports the surrender at Banga, Northwest Panay, March 31, of 30 officers and 185 men with 103 rifles. On the same date 21 men surrendered in northern Mindanao. He states that commissary frauds are being investigated, but are not of sufficient gravity to cause concern. They are apparently due to irregularity of sales. The press are inexact and misleading.

LITERARY NOTES.

An inspection of the table of contents of the North American Review for April will convince our readers that it is a number of unusual interest for even that always profitably interesting magazine. Count Tolstoy, the great Russian novelist, contributes an article on "The Root of the Evil" and another one on "A Message to the American People." "Cuba and Congress," "A Curious Human Document," and other articles of deep interest by able writers of national reputation, together make it a very attractive number.

AGGY'S LECTURE TOUR

SYNDICATE TO GUARANTEE AGINUALDO $50,000 FOR TOUR.

No one has ever accused Michael Breslauer of being slow, says the Minneapolis Tribune. As a matter of fact his strenuous mode of life has given him a reputation for rapidity that an automobile might envy.

About five months ago when stories began circulating in the press that Aguinaldo's capture was imminent, Mr. Breslauer put his mental machinery to work to figure out how Aguinaldo could be reached.

After much cogitation Breslauer decided to consult Col. Phil Reade, U. S. A., who knows a great deal about all sorts of army matters. Col. Reade thought Aguinaldo would be caught red-handed within a month, and he assured Mr. Breslauer that the Filipino leader, when taken would be conveyed at once to Manilla, there to await action on his case by the United States government.

Acting on this information Mr. Breslauer approached half a dozen local capitalists looking so mysterious that everybody knew that Mike had a good thing up his sleeve. There were two or three conferences in which Mr. Breslauer elucidated his theories concerning the future usefulness of the troublesome Tagal.

What Breslauer proposed was the organization of a syndicate to be known as the Aguinaldo Lecture Tour syndicate, with $75,000 capital. The syndicate was to guarantee Aguinaldo $50,000 for a tour of the principal cities of the United States.

The idea appealed to the capitalists and a company was formed on the Breslauer plan. Mr. Breslauer promptly wrote a lengthy and very explicit letter to Emilio Aguinaldo, care Gen. MacArthur, department of the Philippines, Manila, to be held until claimed.

The capture was so long delayed that the company had almost decided to dissolve, when news came of Gen. Funston's exploit, and a meeting was called by Mr. Breslauer to ratify the capture, as well as to pass resolutions of sympathy with Aguinaldo to be engrossed and forwarded to him for business purposes.

Then doubt arose as to whether the United States government would not deport Aguinaldo to the south pole, or some other remote region and again the syndicate was in despair.

"Of course Aguinaldo has my letter by this time," said Mr. Breslauer this morning, and I expect to be reading a Tagalog screed in two weeks or thereabouts. It appears to me that since Aguinaldo has become a citizen of the United States this government will take him at his word and make no effort to restrict his liberty so long as he engages in no seditions practices. It seems likely that he will find a trip to the United States beneficial to his health, as the Filipinos do not appear to regard him with much affection. As a free citizen of this country he has a right to make a lecture tour if he wants to. I am in hopes that our offer will be accepted. I am ready to guarantee him $50,000."

BIG R. R. DEAL

NEW JERSEY COMPANY TO CONTROL FOUR BIG ROADS.

It was reported in Wall St. Thursday that papers had been prepared for a New Jersey corporation to hold a controlling interest in the stocks of the Erie, Burlington, Northern Pacific and Great Northern railways, the leading properties in which James J. Hill is interested. It is said that the same plan will be followed as in the steel combine, the shares of the larger corporation being exchanged for those of constituent companies. The purpose is to enable the financial interests who are putting through the big deals to do so with less capital than would otherwise be required, and also to give greater permanency to the big alliance. The total capital of the four companies mentioned is more than $55,000,000.

ALONZO GUILTY

FORMER STATE SENATOR CONVICTED OF GRAND LARCENY.

Alonzo Whiteman, formerly a prominent business man of Duluth and at one time state senator from St. Louis county, was convicted Thursday of grand larceny in the court of general sessions in New York city. The offense with which he was charged was passing a worthless check at the Hotel Navarre.

Whiteman's downward course began after his defeat for congressman in 1886, from the then Fifth congressional district of Minnesota. He was nominated for that place by the democrats of his district, and as he was a shrewd and clever politician, and financially well "hooked up," his party had great hopes of electing him. At that time the Farmers' Alliance was strong in the northern part of the state and they nominated Kittel Halvorson, of Stearns county, for congressman. Some time after the convention the latter wanted to withdraw, and Whiteman, fearing that with but the republican and democratic nominees in the field his chances for success would be greatly lessened, hastened to see the Farmers' Alliance man and promised to pay his election expenses if he would stick through the fight. Halvorson not only remained on the ticket, but won out, defeating both Whiteman and Hon. S. G. Comstock, of Moorhead, the republican nominee.

WILL TRY HYPNOTISM

TO ENABLE BICYCLIST TO WIN RACE NEXT WEEK.

Atlanta, Ga., April 8.—Charles Mallory will ride in a bicycle race here Wednesday for the state championship while hypnotized.

"And he'll win," said William H. Mallory, his father, who is to put him under the mysterious influence.

So confident of triumph is the father that his son has not even trained for the race, in which he will meet many of the best riders of the south.

"I can make him win the race easily," said Mallory, senior. "I could do it even if he did not know how to ride a wheel. In fact I shall win the race myself. My son will be merely an automaton. He will be placed in the saddle in a hypnotic state and I shall attend to the rest."

H. C. Camp recently purchased a full blooded Hambletonian trotter in the southern part of the state. Herman says he's a whirlwind and that he wouldn't take a thousand dollars for him.

The hotel property and farm adjoining have been purchased by J. Crane of Iowa. The consideration is thought to be in the neighborhood of $3,000. This place was bought a year ago last fall for $1,025; sold again last fall to John H. Boyd for $2,300 and now sold again for nearly three times the original purchase price.

We expect to have a new depot. A petition bearing over three hundred names has been forwarded to the general offices of the Great Northern at St. Paul praying for the same. An official high in authority with the road has promised to use his influence in our behalf.

WARREN.

Mr. G. F. Barnes and family expect to start for Sunnyside, Wash., about the 21 inst.

Mr. Woodward, owner of the Woodward farm north of town, came in on Tuesday morning's train. His home is in Eau Claire, Wis., and he is here to remain while his crop is being put in.

Mrs. Clara Tratt, of Warren, started Monday for Adel, Ia., where she goes to join her husband, who went to that place about a month ago and located, and they expect to make that place their future home.

Some of the farmers have commenced seeding. We understand Mr. Peacby, who lives four miles north of town, sowed sixy acres of wheat last week and Mr. Edwards, who has a large farm adjoining town, commenced Monday. Those who were lucky enough to get their plowing done last fall are quite likely to get a good crop.

Last Saturday Flanders & Wood, the real estate hustlers, closed a deal selling what is known as the Carhart farm, which belonged to Mr. McDonnell. We understand Mr. McDonnell made quite a nice profit on the sale, as he had only purchased the farm about one year ago from Flanders & Wood. If they are lucky enough to sell this farm a few more times they will just about own the farm, or its equivalent. Three gentlemen from Iowa purchased the farm this time as a speculation, and the same is listed with Flanders & Wood for sale again.

HALLOCK.

Prof. Godward, principal of the high school of Pembina, visited our town last week.

Among others who visited Hallock the past week were Mr. Kunge, state chemist, and Mr. Nelson, state librarian.

Now, as we have had dry, warm weather for several weeks, the bicycles are out and are being used in and about town.

Teachers and students of our school enjoyed a vacation last Friday. Prof. Uhl made a flying trip up the line, returning Saturday.

It was reported that a few farmers west of town commenced seeding last week. With this week spring work has commenced generally.

It is conceded that Hallock has the best photographer in the northwest. This is not saying too much, as Mr. Anderson's work compares well with the best produced in the Twin Cities.

Easter Sunday was a glorious day for the church people of this place. Special services were held in the various churches and large congregations were assembled. Confirmation exercises were held in the Swedish Lutheran church and 34 young members were received in the church as communicants. In the Presbyterian church special services were held in the evening. The sermon by Rev. Hall and the vocal solo of Mr. Palmetier and Mrs. Nelson were greatly appreciated. The Methodists and Episcopalians also held special services in their respective places of worship.

ELDRED.

Rev. Stickney, of Fargo, will preach here on Thursday afternoon.

H. P. Bonkind left last Tuesday for Bella Coola, B. C., where he expects to visit his relatives.

Albert Peterson left for the farm on Monday, we are sorry to lose him even for a short time.

Our depot is now transformed into a millinery shop. We expect Mrs. J. J. Hill here to run it.

A happy crowd of surprisers called on E. P. Bancroft last Saturday eve, presenting him with an elegant rocker.

Word has been lately received from Mr. Mitchell who left here in the early part of March. He is now in Washington and from all accounts is perfectly satisfied with his new location.

MAPLEBAY.

The Felsing cottage has been purchased by Wm. Tatro.

P. B. Hunter went to Crookston and Grand Forks last week.

H. Wik and W. Tatro went to Fertile Monday on business.

H. O. Wik's family moved into P. C. Moe's cottage last week.

T. Rustad and family will move to Crookston the latter part of this week.

P. B. Hunter is spending a few days at Fosston this week attending to business matters.

N. L. Nelson came from Crookston last week for a few days' visit with his family, returning Sunday.

Wm. Tatro has purchased of H. O. Wik the residenceftxTxsmk.osvhMpc Wik the restaurant and will in future cater to the wants of its customers.

Rev. Swinnerton took a trip to Bemidji last week.

A baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hutchins on April 2.

The three cornered fight put up at our village election resulted in the reelection of the old council.

Harvey Bradley of Warren passed through here this week for Brandon, Man., with two horses that he expects to race through the Manitoba circuit this season.

Mrs. Cowan died last Thursday after a lingering illness. Mrs. Cowan was one of the most respected and highly esteemed ladies in the community. She leaves an aged husband and large family of grown sons and daughters to mourn her departure. The sympathy of the entire community in their bereavement.

ADA.

Peter Sharpe attended court at Fergus Falls Wednesday.

Geo. Helland is down from Rugby, N. D., the guest of his brother Ed.

Mr. and Mrs. Moffatt visited their daughter Hannah at Twin Valley Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Jones spent Easter Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. John Phivel.

Peter Talge returned from the reservation Saturday, where he has taken a claim.

Miss Alta Patterson spent her vacation visiting Mrs. Julius Pleth at St. Hilaire.

Tom Rattery came down from Canada Saturday looking after his interests here.

P. S. Larson made a trip to the Twin Cities Saturday evening and returned Tuesday morning.

W. W. Campbell, who has been laid up with a sprained ankle, is now able to be out and around again.

B. O. Brochoff came down from Bemidji Saturday night and spent Sunday and Monday at this place.

An Independent Order of Good Templar lodge was organized here Monday evening with about 25 members.

Bennie Myran came up from Northfield Monday morning, where he is attending school. He returned Friday evening.

Chas. Weden returned from the lumber camps near Bagley Saturday night and will at once start to work in the planning mill here.

A few farmers started with the spring work Monday, but as the fields are soft yet, they will not start in general till the middle or last part of the week.

The Woodmen have five new members to initiate at their next meeting, in spite of the lecture given by Student Scarve against secret societies, and particularly the Woodman lodge.

Last Sunday morning the citizens of Ada were called upon to witness the most horrifying calamity that ever happened in the history of Ada or Norman county. Shortly before nine o'clock the fire alarm was sounded, calling the firemen to the rescue of Miss Maggie Riggers, whose millinery store was on fire. When the scene was reached it was found that she herself was within the burning building. The door was broken and there inside the door lay the body of Miss Riggers, burned beyond recognition. The sight presented to those who saw it is something they will never forget. The contents of the building were burned or spoiled by water and smoke before the fire was gotten under control. Miss Riggers had been a resident of this county for 20 years and for the last 12 or 13 years conducted a millinery store, which trade she pursued until this fatal Easter morning, when she was so suddenly called away to meet Him who broke the chains of the grave. The funeral was held Monday afternoon from the M. E. church under the auspices of the Rebekah lodge and Young Ladies' Reading circle, both of which she was a member, and the I. O. O. F. lodge. The funeral was the largest ever witnessed in Ada. All the stores and business were closed in the afternoon.

NEILSVILLE.

E. C. Onstad took in the sights at Crookston Tuesday.

L. S. Kolden and C. O. Melsness spent Saturday in the Queen City.

C. C. Melsness has purchased a young team of horses from Charley Rambol for drivers.

E. A. Columbus, representing the Stone Implement house of Crookston, made a call on Hayes Brothers Tuesday.

O. J. Bye and E. O. Braaten drove to Climax Tuesday, but they told us not to say anything about it, so we won't.

Chris Harte left Wednesday morning this week for Montana. He brought with him a carload of cattle for K. S. Aker, who is interested in a ranch out there.

E. J. Ellingson and his boys left on the freight Wednesday morning with three carloads of cattle, provisions, machinery and household goods for Alberta, Canada, to settle on their claims. Mrs. Ellingson and the smaller children will leave in about a week.

The greater part of the new Red River bridge was taken away by the ice Saturday afternoon. Most of the ice had gone while the water was a few feet above the bridge, but there was enough left to form a dam somewhere above the bridge, and when the water had raised to about a level with the bridge the dam broke, with the above result. The bridge was caught a little ways down the river and if the piles are not too badly used up, which cannot be ascertained yet, it will be repaired in a short ime.

ANGUS.

F. Bunell spent Friday in Euclid.

Will Wattem spent Sunday in Warren.

A. E. Brush was in Warren on Wednesday.

W. Lemen arrived from the east on Monday.

F. R. Stevens spent Friday night in Crookston.

Herman Osterloh drove to Warren Wednesday.

Mrs. Finlayson came up from Crookston Friday.

Miss Anna Palmer arrived from Moorhead Friday.

Z. Z. Wheeler, of Rock Rapids, Ia., was in town Thursday.

F. Stroble and son drove to Warren Wednesday on business.

J. L. Cowden and wife went to Crookston Monday night.

Mrs. R. Ring and son Leonard went to Warren Monday for Mr. King.

A. T. Campion and Robert Henry drove to Grand Forks Saturday.

The dance Monday evening was a success socially, if not financially.

C. E. Stevens was in town Saturday with land seekers.

Mr. Dodgers arrived from Britt, Ia., Monday, to see about breaking his land in sections 1 and 13.

J. M. Palmer, Wm. McLennen, A. T. Campion, Wm. Wattem and A. Even spent Thursday night in Crookston.

HALSTAD.

Died, last Monday, of consumption, Ole Stennes, aged 14 years. Funeral Wednesday.

Carl Vinge has bought Ole Sneedsrud's saloon at Fisher and left Wednesday morning with family and all household goods.

Andrew O. Nygaard of Rindall has bought the blacksmith shop of J. P. Nygaard on Third street. The deal was made by telephone.

BULLET IN ABDOMEN.

A Duluth Man Shoots His Young Wife With Intent to Kill.

THE TRAGEDY ENACTED IN THIS CITY

The Victim is Still Living But Chances for Recovery are Very Slim.

The citizens were thrown into a state of excitement about 6 o'clock last evening when the report gained circulation that a man from Duluth had shot his young wife, who was staying with relatives here, because her husband was unable to support her. The man's name is Jos. Beauchamp, and the shooting was done near the planing mill in the Fifth ward.

Beauchamp married his wife in this city only about six months ago. She is the daughter of Mrs. Potvane, who lives on South Ash street. After the marriage the couple moved to Duluth, where the husband was engaged in various occupations, at one time being employed as bartender in one of the Zenith city saloons. He was taken ill about two months go with rheumatism and since then he has been confined in a hospital most of the time, and rendered unable to earn the necessary support for his better half. The young woman in consequence returned to this city and has been living with relatives and friends ever since.

On Saturday evening Beauchamp arrived here from Duluth for the express purpose of having his young wife return with him to the head of the lakes. This she refused to do, because she feared he would fail to provide for her sufficiently to make life pleasant.

The pair had been out walking and were in the vicinity of the south side planing mill, when Beauchamp drew a revolver from his hip pocket and fired a bullet through his wife's abdomen.

After realizing his awful act Beauchamp prevailed upon his wife to return with him to the city and receive medical treatment. The pair had reached the bridge across the Red Lake river on Broadway, when the husband again turned upon his wife with his revolver to end her life. The wounded woman became frantic with fear, and grabbing the murderously inclined husband's hand which held the deadly weapon, she succeeded in wrenching the gun from his hand and threw it into the river. The pair then proceeded down to Ole Bjoin's livery barn, where Mrs. Beauchamp ordered a hack to take her to her home in Carman, and also stated that she had been wounded. She was accommodated and while on the way to her place of stopping Beauchamp took to his heels and up to this writing nothing has been seen of him.

Upon reaching the residence of Mr. Bailey, near the planing mill, where the woman has been temporarily staying, she told of what had happened and asked that a doctor be sent for. Some time elapsed between the time of shooting and the arrival of the physician, and it is a mystery how the woman stood the walk from the scene of the shooting to Bjoin's livery barn, without ever faltering. Only in attempting to get into the hack did she begin to weaken, and told the driver to hurry her home, as she was feeling ill.

The woman's chances for recovery are very slim, and although she bears up well under the trying circumstances, the least additional adverse change may cause her death. She is only about 18 years of age, rather good looking and well known in this city.

Her husband, who committed the desperate deed, is about 25 years old, of medium stature and has heretofore borne a good reputation as a peaceable man among those who know him here. The thought that his wife doubted his ability to support her preyed upon his mind, apparently, and prompted him to commit the awful deed which may terminate the life of his young wife.

BEAUCHAMP HERE.

Deputy Sheriff Gonyea, who left for Duluth Monday evening to bring back Joseph Beauchamp, who attempted to kill his young wife Sunday evening by firing a revolver bullet into her abdomen, returned with the prisoner over the Northern Pacific Tuesday, and immediately placed him behind the bars in the county jail.

An eager crowd had gathered at the depot to get a glimpse of the would-be murderer, but the officer with his man stepped off the train amid a crowd of other passengers and disappeared from the platform without being much noticed.

Beauchamp is a young and not altogether bad looking fellow, and his appearance would by no means indicate that he could murder a helpless woman in cold blood. He has little to say, and County Attorney Rowe does not wish to have him interviewed until he has secured an attorney to defend him at the trial. To the deputy sheriff he repeated the story of the tragedy practically as told when arrested at Duluth.

Beauchamp's hearing has been postponed until the 26th inst., by which time the result of the shooting will be more definitely known.

The wounded woman is reported slowly improving, and her chances for complete recovery are said to be steadily increasing.

IT WAS A HUMMER.

LAST TUESDAY'S G. N. PASSENGER THE BIGGEST EVER.

The Great Northern passenger from St. Paul, due here at 7 Tuesday morning, was an hour late in arriving, and when it did pull in at the depot the reason of the lateness was easily explained. The train was made up of ten passenger coaches and three baggage cars, the latter containing a large amount of the personal effects of the one thousand new settlers who filled the passenger, on their way searching for new homes. The scene presented at the depot when the long train came to a standstill was an unusual one, and a similar one has perhaps never before been witnessed in Crookston. The passengers that alighted from the coaches completely filled the platform space in front of the extensive depot, in less time than it takes to tell it, and the little groups which formed immediately after indicated the parties, who were either guided by some one of their former friends, or a local land agent, as coming from the same localities.

At least 250 of the passengers stopped over in the city long enough to take a morning train on some branch line north or east, while many others are spending the day in the Queen City in sizing up the best town in northern Minnesota. The balance of the party proceeded on to Montana, Washington and other western states, and some of them will remain in North Dakota, having found homes in the vicinity of Michigan City.

The train which carried the newcomers was made up at St. Paul and consisted of fourteen coaches, drawn by two heavy engines, and continued as far as Barnesville, where the first contingent began to desert the train. At that place four coaches and one engine were cut off and the remainder of the train proceeded on its journey. Nearly every town and hamlet between here and Barnesvilla received a quota of new settlers, and Ada was particularly favored with a large number of settlers.

Most of these people come from Iowa, Illinois, southern Minnesota and northern Wisconsin, and many more will follow from these states as soon as the advance settlers are permanently located.

Britain brews 36,500,000 barrels of beer in a year and she drinks them all but the odd half million.

Two new rural mail routes have been established in Iowa with an aggregate length of 114 miles, covering an area of 164 square miles and accommodating a total population of 2,832.

Uncle Jo's Column

I should think the street and bridge committee would pay a little more attention to lookin' after the dangerous places in the side walks here, in this city than they did last year. Naw I can tell 'em two places that ought to be looked after right away. There's that side walk on the east side of Broadway between that house of Dr. Just's and that Farmers' hotel barn. There ought to be a railing on the side of that walk, for there's a real steep bank there and if a person steps off they're likely to git hurt. There was a lady stepped off there a few nights ago, and rolled clear down the hill. She got out of it lucky and wasn't hurt much, but she might have been. You see when you are goin' down towards that light your eyes git kind of dazzled and you're likely to step off. Then there's them braces that hold up that fence on the side walk right across from the city hall, they will certainly cost the city a law-suit some time if they stay there. I saw in the paper that a woman in some city I forget where, got a verdict for $7,000 for gittin' hurt on a bad side walk a little while ago.

——(o)——

I wish the council would have Broadway cut down there between Robert street and Second street. I spose they'l have to before they do any pavin, there, but it ought to be cut down whether they do any pavin' or not. It looks real bad the way it is, so much higher than the side walks.

——(o)——

I was readin' about how a school teacher somewhere did the other day when a fire broke out in the school building. She had been practicin' the children by havin' a fire drill once in a while, and they had got so they could do it real well. So when this fire broke out she just called a fire drill and marched every one of them eight hundred children out of the rooms and down stairs all orderly and out on the ground, and there wa't a single one of 'em got frightened or hurt a bit. And I was wonderin' if Mr. Hitchcock had got the children in the schools here trained that way. If he haint I think he ought to.

——(o)——

I hear my old friend Donald Balu of Fisher is havin' first rate luck with his lambs this year. He's just gettin' a nice start in sheep raisin' and from ten old ewes he's got eighteen real nice little shrops already. Donald has had rather hard luck with his wheat crop for the last two years, but he's gettin' straightened round now so he won't feel as if everything was gone if a hail storm does strike him again. He's gettin' quite a nice start of stock now, and his hogs and sheep and cows will fix him up so he has something to sell every little while. And that's the right way for a farmer to have things comin'.

——(o)——

I see there is a whole lot of dirty eggs bein' sold in the stores here this spring again. I wonder why the farmers will bring 'em in so dirty. I had some sent to the house the other day and they was so dirty I had a good mind to send 'em back. Next time I'm goin' to look and see what kind of condition they are in before I buy 'em. If the store keepers would make the farmers take about two cents less for dirty eggs than for clean ones, they'd soon git their eyes open and wash the eggs at home.

——(o)——

I notice Dickey Bird down there to the Times office has got real lousy and is havin' a hard time about it. I wish somebody would send McKenzie a little bag of sulphur to hang up in his cage. That's awful good for birds that git covered with lice. Lice don't do a Dickey Bird any hurt after they are killed.

——(o)——

I was readin' in the papers the other day about the farmers namin' their farms. And I should think that would be a nice plan. We have names for our stock, and why not have names for our farms? It would be real handy to have names for the roads on the section lines too and have the names of 'em posted at every section corner. And then if the names of the farms was painted on a nice neat board and put up on the front fence how nice it would look.

——(o)——

And then if the farms were all named that way, when a farmer brought something nice to market he could identify the name of his farm with it and it would advertise his products for him. For instance he might have his products marked "butter from Cloverdale farm" or "eggs from Cloverdale farm," or whatever he had " mark it from "Cloverdsle farm" or whatever the name of his farm is. And the farmer who always fixes his products up neat and careful would git the benefit of it. He'd soon git his reputation up and could git better prices than the man could who didn't care how his stuff got in or how it looked.

——(o)——

I think it would be a fine thing to hava the Journal start a sort of farm register, so as to register farm names, and as fast as the names are reported have them put down on the register, so thera wouldn't be so many of 'em the same name as there might be if they didn't have a register. And then once a month or so the names might be printed so folks could see what names had been taken. I wish the farmers would think this plan ovar and report what they think about it so I can print it in the Journal.

——(o)——

I don't hear anything bein' said yet about Decoration day. I think it's about time to be thinkin' about it a little. We've got to have some exercises of course. Maybe the boys have begun to talk it up in the post. The fact is I aint been there for quit a while and so I've kind of lost the run of what is goin' on there. I don't spose we could do it, but I wish we could git Mose Clapp—oh, I guess I ought to say Senator Clapp—here to deliver the address this time. I like to hear him speak first rate.

I'd like to know how many of the dear old comrades all over the United States havs furnished new graves to be decorated since last year. There's a lot of 'em, I know. The ranks are growin' smaller every year and it aint like these ather orders either. These other orders fill up with young men. But the G. A. R. can't do that. And as one after another of us are bein' called away the roster grows shorter and shorter. It's been about thirty six years now since the war closed and we was all mustered out. When another thirty six years have passed there won't be scarcely any of us left to decorate the comrades graves and celebrate their memory. Other folks will have to do that then, and to our graves too if it is done at all.

——(o)——

And that makes me think how apt folks are to forget they ain't goin' to live here always. Some folks devote all the energies they can muster to make theirselves think they are havin' good time, and are perfectly happy accumulatin' things they can't carry with 'em beyond this life.

And they keep hordin' up money and gatherin' it in and hordin' it up more and more until all at once deth comes to 'em and he loosens their fingers and the money falls to the ground to be picked up by somebody else and scattered perhaps to the four winds of the earth. And I don't think that's what the good Lord gives us this life for, to use it that way.

I believe the good Lord gives us this life to gve us a chance to git ready for a better one. If He had put us right into that better life as soon as he made us, we couldn't have enjoyed it near as well as we can by goin' through this life and lettin' him lead us through all its experiences, and givin' us a chance to help each other here. And after all He's done for us to induce us to git ready for that other life, if we refuse to serve Him and spend our lives makin' preparation for the place of the wicked I don't see how he is goin' to take us after we are dead and can't resist him any more and put us right into Heaven with Himself and Jesus, and all the holy angels, as a good many folks say he will. I don't think it would be right after we've done the best we could all our lives to git ready for one place, for him to take advantage of us after we couldn't help ourselves and put us right into the other place. That's the way it looks to me anyhow.

UNCLE JO.

ARM SHOT OFF.

ACCIDENTAL SHOT COSTS A BOY HIS LEFT ARM.

A most distressing accident occurred Saturday on the farm of Hans C. Johnson, who resides about four miles west of this city. His son Chris, about 12 years old, in company with his cousin, Otto Johnson, started out to shoot a duck which was swimming in the lake near by, and in pulling the gun from the boat with the muzzle toward him, it was accidentally discharged, the full charge lodging in the boy's left arm.

The parents of the boy brought the wounded young lad to this city and placed him in the Bethesda hospital, where Dr. Holte subjected the boy to an operation of the injured member. Amputation was considered absolutely necessary, as the boy's arm was badly lacerated from the shot, and to save his life from blood poisoning, Dr. Holte, assisted by Dr. W. H. Smith, made a successful surgical operation. The unfortunate little fellow is resting as comfortably as could be expected under the circumstances, and will survive the serious ordeal.

As a matter of strange coincidence, it may be mentioned that about twenty years ago Chris Johnson's father lost four fingers of his left hand through an accidental discharge of a gun while hunting in Wisconsin.

BISAZZA IS GUILTY

The Jury Finds Against the Bankrupt Crookston Merchant.

BE SENTENCED SATURDAY.

The Verdict of the Jury Will Find General Approval Here.

Fergus Falls, Minn., April 16.—(Special.)—The jury in the Bisazza trial went out at ten o'clock this forenoon and was out only three hours, when they returned a verdict of guilty as charged in the indictment.

The prisoner will be sentenced tomorrow morning. The maximum penalty for his crime is two years in the penitentiary.

The verdict was not at all anexpected, and meets with tha approval of the people generally.

Early trains from the east Wednesday brought back the witnesses and attorneys who have been engaged in the notorious Bisazza trial, which closed at Fergus Falls Tuesday. Among the returning Crookstonites were Attorneys Steenerson and Morrison, F. O. Brown of the Ray Mercantile company, and the two lady witnesses, Misses Worm and Haass, both of whom were formerly employed as clerks by the bankrupt merchant, and all of them are glad that the tiresome ordeal is over.

Bisazza has not yet been sentenced, but it is generally conceded that he will get the full measure of punishment prescribed by law, which is two years in the state penitentiary.

The closing arguments in the case were made Monday afternoon, Halvor Steenerson for the defense and District Attorney Purdy for the government, giving able summaries of the points for and against the prisoner. Judge Amidon's charge to the jury was given Tuesday morning and is regarded by the attorneys present as the ablest exposition of the aims, purposes and intent of the bankruptcy law thus far given.

After the case was given to the jury and the latter had retired for their deliberations upon the case, which has attracted such wide attention, Attorney Hubscheck, on behalf of the creditors, argued a motion to have Bisazza punished for contempt of court on account of his failure to obey an order of the referee, who summoned him some time ago to turn over the missing $10,000. The argument goes to show that Bisazza received considerable cash before going into bankruptcy which has never been accounted for. Judge Amidon sustained the motion, and after serving his first sentence Bisazza will again be tried, the next time upon contempt proceedings.

The wife of the misguided merchant is anxiously awaiting the sentence, being in hopes that he may get off with a light sentence.

BETHESDA HOSPITAL.

WHAT IT HAS DONE AND WHAT IT AIMS TO DO.

Bethesda hospital has already gained a place of good will in hearts of many who have made a close acquaintance with its past history and work. But it ought to be more generally known to the people of the Red River Valley, and thus we offer these few lines, setting forth it's good work in the two years and nine months of it's existence, and also it's future object.

The first patient was received on the 8th of June, 1898, and since then until April 1st, this year, the by no means small number of 451 patients have been treated there for various ailments. Of these 186 have had operations performed; 295 have been discharged as cured; 61 as convalescent and 22 as not curable; 20 have died at the hospital, many of whom were received there as incurables. The physicians in attendance have been Drs. Holte, Loe, Dunlap, Farley, Morley, Smith, Kjelland and Dampier. It will be seen from this that the hospital has a comparatively good patronage with an increase every year as it has become more extensively known, the last year showing about 50 patients over the preceding year. The number of patients last year was 179, of whom 166 were discharged as cured or convalescent, 7 died, the remainder being yet in the hospital.

This then concerning it's work, the good results of which we think is due to the efficient and careful work of the physicians in attendance, and not less to good and self sacrificing work of the sister nurses, of whom every patient speaks in the most favorable terms.

Now, what is then the aim of Bethesda hospital? Some have held the idea that it is purely a money making institution belonging to certain parties as stock or share holders. This idea is, however, entirely erroneous. The hospital was bought from Dr. Holte by an association, organized March 31, 1898, under the name of Bethesda hospital association, of which association any one may become a life member upon paying the sum of $10.00 or one year membership for $1.00, and the aim of said association is to carry on a Christian, and so far as possible, a charitable work among the suffering poor. While they have not hitherto been able to do as much charity work as they would have liked, yet their book account shows not less than a thousand dollars, in about three years, of uncollected fees of patients being too poor for payment, and which is thus actually charity work. And while we are not even yet able to do such work as extensively as we desire, our debt and expenses being still too great for doing so, it was nevertheless decided at the last annual meeting of the association, held March 29, to admit upon due consideration such worthy patients as have a recommendation from some responsible party or parties, free of charge for medical treatment and at reduced hospital rates, so far as the financial condition of the hospital would permit. But if such charity work shall be performed according to our aim and intention, we are largely dependent upon the good will of the people of the Red River valley, and shall accept any help, however small, with sincere thanks.

SHE IS VICIOUS.

AND JUDGE M'LEAN SENDS HER TO TRAINING SCHOOL.

Late Saturday afternoon Peter Elseth, a farmer of the town of Neby, in Polk county, appeared before Judge McLean with a little girl 12 years of age, and asked the judge to advise him what to do with the young girl, whose name he stated was Annie Larson.

Annie, so Elseth claims, is of a vicious and incorrigible disposition, and she has succeeded on various occasions in making life a veritable hades for the balance of the folks about the house, and he had tired of her unruly ways. The girl's parents are dead and Elseth was appointed by the probate court as her guardian.

Judge McLean decided to have her taken to the state training school, where it is hoped she will mend her ways.

PETER LARSON KILLED

PARTICULARS OF THE SAD AFFAIR NOT KNOWN.

Word was received Tuesday afternoon that Peter Larson, the millwright who went to Washington a few weeks since in company with L. W. Clark, has been killed. No particulars are given beyond the bare announcement which was sent to Mrs. Clark with a request for her to convey the sad intelligence to the afflicted wife, who resides here. The information was sent to Mr. Larson's son Andy at St. Hilaire, and the message to Mrs. Clark came from him.

WHETSTONE WINS.

The case of J. J. Sutton vs. Dr. Whetstone, in which plaintiff was objecting creditor to the application to filing a schedule of liabilities and assets with Referee in Bankruptcy Ole J. Vanle, by the defendant, was argued before the supreme court in St. Paul Monday by County Attorney W. E. Rowe, who left for the state capital last evening, and was decided in favor of Dr. Whetstone.

Both parties live at Argyle and are well known in this city and Polk county, and the outcome of the action has caused considerable interest among the legal fraternity, as the decision will set a precedent for future cases of a similar nature.

NEW JAILOR.

Sheriff Sullivan last Saturday announced that he has appointed Odin Daniels, the son of a well known farmer who resides near this city, jailor of the Polk county prison to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Jailor Barness. The latter left this morning after turning over the keys to his successor, for his former home in Fosston, and will again engage in business in that town.

The new officer is a well known gentleman in this community and his appointment is looked upon as a very favorable selection.

STATE LANDSALES

Polk County Will Not Have Its Transfers Before Next Fall.

BUYERS WILL PAY 4 PER CENT

There Are More Agricultural Lands Than Will Be Bid In at Sale.

State Auditor Dunn has decided upon the dates and place for the next sales of state agricultural lands in many counties. There will be two general sales this year, one this spring and one during the fall. The exact dates and place of holding the latter are yet to be arranged.

The feature of the sales this year, and in the future, until the legislature makes another change, will be the decrease in the rate of interest to be charged, which will be 4 per cent, instead of 5 per cent as heretofore charged, the present legislature making a reduction of 1 per cent.

The counties in which the spring sales will be made, the place and the date are as follows:

Isanti county, Cambridge, May 16.
Anoka, Anoka county, May 17.
Elk River, Sherburne county, May 18.
Little Falls, Morrison county, May 20.
Brainerd, Crow Wing county, May 21.
Aitkin, Aitkin county, May 22.
Duluth, St. Louis county, May 23.
Carlton, Carlton county, May 24.
Mora, Kanabec county, May 29.
Walker, Cass county, June 4.
Oliver, Renville county, May 21.
Ortonville, Big Stone county, May 21.

With the exception of Isanti, Renville and Big Stone counties, there are more agricultural lands for sale than will be bid in at the forthcoming sales. The sales in those three counties on the dates named will probably clean up the counties. Sales will be held in the fall, probably about October, in the following counties:

Kittson, Marshall, Roseau, Red Lake Polk, Clay, Wilkin, Otter Tail, Becker and Norman counties.

PRISON TWINE

WARDEN WOLFER ISSUES LETTER TO CONSUMERS.

Warden Wolfer has issued the following in regard to prison twine:

"The board of managers at its last regular monthly meeting authorized and directed me to say for the information of the consumers of prison made binder twine, that the management will guarantee the quality of prison twine to be fully up to the standard grade for which it is sold, and to be equal to the best twine heretofore manufactured or sold by the Minnesota state prison, The management also guarantees the price of prison made binder twine up to and including July 1, 1901, and will give the purchaser the option of cancelling his order at any time before shipment is made in case of failure or partial failure of crops."

Orders for several carloads have gone in from this county.

AN ANGUS WEDDING.

A very pretty wedding was celebrated Friday afternoon at Angus, says the Warren Register. Miss Cora B. Evans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gomer Evans, was united in marriage to William Wattam. The connection of both contracting parties with families well known in society circles, as well as their own social popularity, made the wedding event of wide interest.

Rev. M. L. Hutton, of the M. E. church of Warren, was the officiating clergyman. As the bride and bridesmaid reached the alter they were met by the groom and his best man, L. E. Wattam, where they formed a half circle beneath the hanging vines during the betrothal service. The bridesmaid was Miss Iva Brill of Warren, who looked very handsome in her grey foulard dress, carrying the bridesmaid's roses. After the ceremony about seventy guests set down to a very elaborate wedding dinner. Quite a number of the society people from Warren were present. The young couple left in the evening for Fargo and the Twin Cities. They will take up their residence at Angus on their return.

FORMERLY OUR BEN

AND SEEMS TO BE POPULAR AMONG CASS LAKEITES.

Between twenty-five and thirty couples, married and single, got together Thursday evening and repaired to the hall on the upper floor of the bank block, says the Cass Lake Voice. The party took along with it Turuwall's mandolin orchestra. To the uninitiated there was something mysterious in the movements of the crowd—some kind of secrecy. It did not take long to develop. B. A. Strawbridge, who had been coaxed away from the scene of the gathering, was sent for and summoned to appear without further delay. Upon his arrival he was informed that the party assembled had come to celebrate his birthday. Of course, this announcement was a most agreeable surprise to him, for with his business cares he had hardly remembered that it was an anniversary of his natal day. The surprise on his part was genuine and sincere, and for a wonder this was a surprise party that did surprise the one intended to be surprised.

It did not take long for the assemblage to get down to dancing, which was kept up until after 2 a. m. During the evening refreshments were served, making the occasion most enjoyable.

As the guests departed it was with the sincerest congratulations and best wishes to B. A. Strawbridge that he might be spared to commemorate many, many happy returns of his natal day.

NARROW ESCAPE.

REAL ESTATE MEN HAVE VERY EXCITING EXPERIENCE.

F. G. Wells, of the Great Western Land company, of this city, and Geo. Howard, of Fertile, had a little experience Friday which neither of the gentlemen will forget for some time to come.

The pair engaged a livery team at Fertile to drive to Beltrami, and on their way they found it necessary to cross a number of sloughs.

They were successful in getting through all of the obstacles, excepting the last one. This one proved to be about twelve feet deep, and as the buggy, which was drawn by the swimming horses, sank out of sight in the depths of the water, the occupants were dumped into the cold waves and went to the bottom. In coming up Mr. Wells happened to get under the buggy and came within an ace of being drowned. Both men had a compulsory swim, and are quite thankful to be numbered among the living.

The horses got stuck and had to remain in the water for nearly two hours, and were then rescued by a party of Fertile citizens, who went to the scene of the mishap, after they were notified by the two soaked real estate hustlers, who walked a few miles to tell of their accident.

GUN CLUB SHOOT.

HARRY STAIR MAKES A CLEAN RECORD.

The following are scores made at the regular practice shoot of the Crookston Gun club, and show a splendid record for Messrs. Stair and Rowe:

Stair	25
Rowe	22
Finlayson	12
Dr. Kjelland	8

In the previous weekly practice Mr. Rowe secured 25 straight.

WAS A CROOKSTON GIRL.

The many friends of Miss Clara B. Tousley, who formerly resided in this city, will be pleased to learn of the development of her musical talent, of which she displayed no little amount prior to her removal from the city. The Red Lake Falls Gazette has the following:

"The many friends of Miss Clara B. Tousley and the admirers of her fine alto voice are pleased at the compliment accorded her by Prof. M. E. Robinson, musical director in "Queen Esther," which will be given at the Devils Lake Chautauqua July 20th and July 22nd, with one hundred voices picked from among those who have in the past assisted Mr. Robinson with the play, Miss Tousley having been requested to take the contralto solo part of Zeresh, which she assumed when the cantata was given here something over a year ago. When it is remembered that she has been chosen ahead of scores of trained soloists all over the northwest where the play has been given, the character of the testimonial can better be appreciated.

U. C. T. MEETING.

Saturday afternoon the general committee of the local council U. C. T. of Fargo held a meeting for the purpose of choosing a chairman of the general committee, which place was made vacant by the resignation of P. C. Crenshaw, who leaves for Kansas City next week. The committee unanimously elected T. A. Whitworth, and he will enter upon his duties at once. The members are all pleased with the selection, as Mr. Whitworth is one of the best hustlers in the council. He has the good of the council at heart, and it goes without saying that he will use every endeavor to make the meeting in May the biggest possible kind of a success.

HARROW AND SEEDER.

MANY OF THE TILLERS ARE OUT PLANTING.

Reports received from outside points indicate that seeding is general all over the valley, with the exception of a few localities which had too much rain last fall. In a few localities in Walsh and Pembina counties, in North Dakota, the soil is too moist, and there is a large area on this side of the river, in Marshall and Polk counties, where there will be no seeding done for a week or more. The ground has been drying slowly, and in most sections will be improved by a few days of drying weather. West of the valley proper there will be more delay, as the snow fall there was much heavier, and there were winds which piled it up in great drifts, which have not yet entirely disappeared. J. P. Rance, the principal of the Minto schools, who was in Grand Forks yesterday on his way home from a trip to his farm in Ramsey county, says in many places there the snow drifts were from ten to twelve feet high, and similar stories come from other counties in the northern part of the state. In these localities seeding will not begin for a week or more, though there is probably not a county in the state in which some work is not being done. The weather has been so cool and cloudy that the earth is dry only on the surface, and the slightest sprinkling of rain will retard operations. If the cool weather continues it will prove a godsend to the farmers on account of the saving in horse flesh and feed which will be effected. Hot weather early in the spring is always a severe tax on the strength of the working stock, which comes out of winter quarters with soft and flabby muscles, and requires some time for the hardening process to be completed. The saving in feed is also an important matter this year, as coarse grains of all kinds is very scarce. The feed crop last year fell far short of being sufficient for the needs of the farmers, and heavy purchases have been made from states farther south. Corn is the favorite feed grain shipped in, and the high price of that grain makes the problem of carrying stock over until the new crop is harvested one of considerable importance. Good working weather from now on will put money in the pockets of every farmer in the state.

IT WAS A JOKE.

THE FARGO POLICE SCARED BY A LUMBERJACK.

The Fargo police station had a visitor the other night who prover to be about as welcome as Banquo's ghost at the feast, only perhaps not so much so. He had recently arrived from the lumber camps of Northern Minnesota and had the appearance of one who had attended a bargain sale at one of the booze emporiums across the river as he wandered in ogle-eyed and spifilicated and enquider if he was in the police station. Being informed that he stood in the presence of the law's representatives, the stranger languidly dropped into a chair beside Judge Geary and remarked—"My gawd it's warm here."

Captain Dahlgren and Inspector Bingham became interested at once and asked the man to chase enough of his wandering ideas together to make his business known.

"Shay," he said, "you fellers go fer n-doctor; I've got the smallpox."

Col. Joe Lamont and Ed Dill who were standing near suddenly remembered that they had business out in the cool night air, and when they got to the door they found that officer Bart was about two jumps ahead of them. Judge Geary, whatever his intentions may have been, never moved a muscle, and the policemen aver that he refrained from breathing for the space of a few moments. Perhaps relied on the disinfectant qualities of the cigar he was smoking, as he puffed vigorously. It was one the captain had given him a few minutes before and smelled as though it had been internally injured. There was a dead silence for a time when the judge glanced toward the visitor and remarked, "That's nice."

The stranger started to move over a chair ort wo nearer to explain matters more fully but he was checked. He then remembered that he wanted a drink and started for the water cooler. Capt. Dahlgren arose to the occasion and in a voice that fairly peeled the plaster off the walls commanded him to sit down. The man hit the chair agan limply and awaited developments.

Some one called Dr. Carpenter by telephone and in a few minutes he arrived. He made an examination and stated that the man was not suffering from smallpox, but a bad case of scare. The fever which the stranger had, was the result of too much of the stuff that cheers.

He had also been listening to some joker who had evidently intended to load him up. The man was sent away and everybody breathed a sigh of relief.

About 900 homeseekers went west Wednesday through the Twin Cities by way of the Northern Pacific, Great Northern and Soo Lines. Among the immigrants were many Swedes and Norwegians bound for Washington.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

Somebody has said that "The early bird catches the worm," so the other morning I thought I'd try the experiment, and prove the maxim, if possible. But after meandering about the suburbs of Crookston for an hour or so in a vain search for something to write about, I discovered that I caught a bad cold, if I hadn't the worm, and that my sneezing and coughing had aroused the curiosity of a whole family whose several pairs of eyes were scanning me closely, no doubt thinking that some domestic wrangle had resulted in sending the poor abused wife out into the chilly April morning so early. I smiled to think how disappointed they would be should they ever find out that I was only a literary worm with an attack of influenza. Nevertheless, during my ramble I did manage to learn a lesson or two from the book of human nature which showed me plainly that if a women is denied the right to vote, she certainly is allowed to get there first in the morning; for I saw at least three of the gentler sex out in the back yard splitting kindling for the morning fire, and another one sitting on a three legged stool milking a cow. I thought of some of the poetry I had read with titles like these: "Woman's Clinging nature" and Man's protecting arm," but in these cases surely the "clinging vines" were battling with the morning chores, while the "Sturdy Oaks" remained sweetly sleeping in the arms of Morpheus. Perhaps though they may have had the grip some time during the winter, and I noticed that it takes a long time for the masculine constitution to recover from its effects. But do you know if I had that wood to split I'd take it where I wouldn't be seen if I had to take it down cellar and use a lantern to see by.

Notwithstanding the early Easter this spring I am quite sure that spring is really here, at least in name, for I saw enough delicate wraps and light airy bonnets on Sunday to verify my assertion. Some of us however didn't have them though, and didn't think it any too warm in our fir trimmed jackets either. Of course its always best if you have anything new to wear it if you do crowd the season a little for it is so comforting to "lead off" in the styles and feel that your costume was the first to be admired. Perhaps it doesn't conduce to piety, but its very gratifying to the female mind to have people looking over their hymn books at your new suit or hat. Speaking of millinery, I heard it asserted that Paris goods could be bought right here in Crookston for less than half their worth, and a twenty dollar hat has actually been sold for nine dollars. Just think of it

I attended the services of the Sir Knights Sunday afternoon and was much impressed by their grand and courtly bearing. I could not help thinking what a handsome body of men they were and wondered if their inner lives were as pure as their outward adorning would indicate. The music was good and the Rector's discourse so plain and to the point that I felt lasting impressions must be the outcome. How many times during the year before another Easter service will those same men bow their heads in reverent prayer to their God, or even attend his holy church service? Personally I know not, but what a power for good such a body might be if each member was a regular attendant at church and lived a just life before his God.

The Lady Minstrel show given under the auspices of St. Mary's church was a success. So said the daily papers and I suppose they ought to know. This was a "new thing under the sun" to me, for our eastern towns haven't tried this "feature of the case" yet. But I liked it, mainly because there was just enough of it to entertain and not weary. Home talent shows so often forget to stop when they get through you know. The stage setting was artistic and the voices in good order. With such an appreciative audience the marked applause which the entire performance received was surely timely and well earned. The "end men" did themselves proud, especially Miss Brown. Great praise is due to Miss Fontaine, who had the entertainment in charge, and I am of the same opinion of Mr. Liverman when he said, "I should like to hear it again."

There are a few house keepers in this world who have their own methods of solving the "servant problem." A decidedly good way was discussed in my hearing this week, until I wondered if it were possible for a girl like me to form an opinion on the subject pertinent for this column. I rather think I'd better give you readers the facts and let you draw your own conclusions, lest you might say, "there it is again, Old maids, etc., trying to tell people how to bring up children." Monday afternoon last when a few friends of Mrs. Charles Westerberg dropped in to drink coffee with her at four o'clock, they unexpectedly found her celebrating the event of her birthday in a very unique and pleasing manner. She had invited her "girls" to have lunch with her, and a jolly time was the result, and who can doubt that every one of her guests appreciated the compliment, and will give her better service because of her kind thoughtfulness? Is not the average mistress too far away from her maid, socially, in these days, I wonder? Do you wonder why one lady can keep her servant five years, when you can scarcely find one who does not want a change in as many weeks? Did you ever think that human nature is very like, whether it be found in the kitchen or in the parlor? Later, when Mrs. W.'s friends enjoyed a social hour with her, all of them were as cordially entertained and served as if it all had been planned for them.

ACCIDENTAL POISONING.

Roseau Region: Wednesday afternoon of last week Frank J. Teuber, the pharmacist in charge of Dr. Parker's drug store, drank a quantity of tincure of iron with which he mixed about two drahms of crude carbolic acid. He died shortly afterwards. Dr. Norin was called in, but after an investigation of the circumstances decided an inquest was unnecessary.

Evidently the drinking of the tincture with carbolic acid in was purely accidental. He was addicted to drink and on getting up in the morning went to the prescription case to take a stimulant. There being nothing in the line of liquor there, he took down the tincture or orange bottle and poured out a quantity in an uncleaned graduate in which was some crude carbolic acid. Without noticing it he drank the mixture, which caused his death about an hour later. When asked what he had taken he stated "nothing but some tincture of orange." Dr. Parker immediately went to the case and discovered that he had drank the tincture out of the graduate, there still being a piece of orange peel and some of the acid in the graduate. The discovery was made too late, however and all efforts to save him were of no avail.

Mr. Teuber was am arried man and leaves a widow and two children nearly grown. He was a Free Mason and carried a policy in the sum of two thousand dollars.

—The receipts of the land office last week amounted to $3,564.65, no sales of pine lands being included in this amount.

I WEIGH 175 lbs.
Former Weight 135 "
Gain 40 lbs.

There are people who say that the benefit derived from the use of put-up medicines is imaginary. It is not the case with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which makes weak women strong and sick women well. A woman may imagine she's weak, or may fancy she's sick, but her imagination can't add forty pounds to her weight. The positive proof of the curative power of "Favorite Prescription" is found in the restoration of health which is recorded in face and form, of strength which can be tested, and weight which can be registered in pounds and ounces.

The general health of women is so intimately connected with the local health of the womanly organs that when these are diseased the whole body suffers loss. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures womanly diseases. It establishes regularity, stops weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"I am very glad to let other poor sufferers know what Dr. Pierce's medicines have done for me," writes Mrs. Edwin H. Gardner, of Beechwood, Norfolk Co., Mass. (Box 70) "You know I wrote to you last summer. I read what your medicine had done for other people, so thought I would try it, and I found it was a blessing to me and my family. I began in June and took six bottles of your medicine, and three vials of 'Pellets.' I took your medicine a year when I had a ten-pound girl. I had the easiest time I ever had with any of my three children. I have been very well since I took your medicine. I took three bottles of 'Favorite Prescription,' three of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and three vials of 'Pellets.' I had no appetite and could not eat much without it distressing me before I took your 'Favorite Prescription,' and I only weighed 135 pounds. Now I weigh 175."

R & G CORSETS
NEVER STRETCH

The moderately straight R & G No. 397 was and is the corset of comfort with the essence of style. It is straight enough for the prevailing vogue and curved enough to conform to healthful anatomical lines. In 1900 we were unable to fully meet the demand for straight-front goods and unwilling to resort to any makeshift to meet the conditions. At present, however, considerable additions to our factory facilities enable us to keep the trade supplied with real straight-front corsets at retail prices from $1.00 to $2.50, and also our 397, 197, Empire and other popular numbers. There are over seventy styles and sizes of R & G Corsets—a corset to fit every figure. R & G Corsets are the corsets that do not stretch. Every hairbreadth of stretch is taken out of the goods by means of steam-heated iron forms. This gives a permanency to the right shape and form that will stay in it until the last day you wear it. Every R & G Corset is sold with the understanding that it must give satisfaction to the wearer, or the dealer will supply a new one free of cost. If your dealer hasn't it, send us his name and we will see that you are supplied with what you want.

N. P. IMPROVEMENT

Ten Millions and a Quarter to be Expended This Year.

ADDITIONAL EQUIPMENTS

Will Require About One-half of the Amount and Improvements the Rest.

President C. S. Mellen of the Northern Pacific has authorized the announcement that that road will expend ten million dollars during the coming season.

It sounds almost inconceivable, but the sum of $5,250,000 will alone be spent for rolling stock and similar equipment. It is the largest equipment order placed by a railroad company west of the Mississippi, and few eastern roads can duplicate it.

The other five millions will be spent in permanently improving the roadbed from St. Paul to Portland, in order that the line from end to end will be in perfect condition to bear the heavy strain of an ever increasing volume of business.

The first item in the new equipment budget is sixty new cars for the various branches of passenger service. These cars will be built by the Pullman company. Included in this order are two solid new vestibuled trains with observation cars for the Duluth short line. All of the new passenger cars will be lighted by electricity or acetylene gas, excepting the second class cars.

There will also be eight new sleepers, thirty-two modern day coaches of the best type, fourteen fine combination cars, two baggage cars, two extra fine dining cars, two parlor cars, and two observation cars, fitted up in the sumptuous form of those in use on the North-Coast Limited trains, and also between the Twin Cities and Duluth.

The additional freight equipment will consist of 5,000 cars. They will be built by the American Car & Foundry company, in St. Louis, and Detroit, Mich.

The new equipment is classified in the budget, as 800 extra long flat cars (41 feet) for use under the log hauling contracts now in force with big Minnesota lumber concerns; 3,000 standard box cars, 450 coal cars, 150 refrigerator cars and 550 stock cars, a total of nearly 5,000 cars.

Two large steam shovels of the modern design will also be purchased, also two rapid ballast unloaders. The purchase of these would indicate considerable construction and betterment work.

The heaviest single item in the long list, however, is that of new locomotives. Seventy-five locomotives will be built, a contract having just been closed with the Schenectady Locomotive works. It is the largest single locomotive order placed by a western road. All classes of engines are represented in the order, including fast passenger engines, heavy freight engines, switch engines and locomotives designed for special service.

The item of 450 coal cars will arouse especial interest as it denotes that the Northern Pacific has determined to develop its coal fields in Montana and Washington, not only for the purpose of supplying coal for its own consumption, but for commercial uses. The coal fields in these two states are quite extensive.

The increase in the stock car equipment of 550 cars shows that the Northern Pacific is now enjoying a steady increase in that class of traffic, and that more equipment is needed to care for the volume already offered.

RURAL DELIVERY

Washington, April 11.—Representative F. M. Eddy has returned to Washington and will remain for a time attending to the several department matters. Mr. Eddy was pleased to learn on his arrival that the rural free delivery division of the postoffice department has established a new system, which embodies many of the features which he proposed a few weeks ago. Hereafter there is to be an equal distribution of routes, all things being equal, and the counties in the Seventh district, where there more than twenty applications pending, will soon be under investigation by Special Olson, who is to be assigned to Minnesota, probably this week.

FARM REFRIGERATOR

Many farmers in this section, says the Fergus Falls Globe, are without suitable means of properly keeping milk and butter during the hot weather, and all such will be interested in the following description of an excellent farm refrigerator, which may be made with little experience. Before it freezes in the fall dig a hole in the ground about eight feet deep and four to five feet in diameter. Put in a curbing as in a well and when cold weather arives, pour water in the hole until a solid body of ice completely fills it. On the ice or on platform just above it, milk and butter may be kept cool during the hottest weather and the ice will last all summer. This plan of a cheap refrigerator is recommended by a high Canadian official and doubtless many farmers in this section would find such a refrigerator just what they needed.

BUTTE ON THE MOVE.

THE MONTANA CITY IS GRADUALLY SLIDING.

Butte, Mont., April 15.—A portion of Butte, believed to embrace the larger part of the big hill upon which the Anaconda mines are located, has made a very perceptible move southwestward during the past few days.

At the foot of the Anaconda hill the slide pushed the track of the street railway line about six inches for a distance of about three hundred feet along the road. As there are no large buildings in that part of the city, no damage was done except to the railroad tracks, and but for their displacement the slide would not have been noticed.

Geologists and scientific men claim that the entire range of mountains about Butte is constantly moving, and that the sliding process, which has been going on for ages and has crushed and mixed the copper veins and ore bodies in the Butte district and displaced many of them, is still going on.

About a year ago a similar slide occurred in the western portion of the city, and right in the heart of the residence portion. The county court house, a handsome residence of Senator W A. Clark, several churches and other buildings were seriously wrecked, the residence of Senator Clark having a fissure about two inches wide through the entire building from east to west, and the street car track in several places was humped up by the sliding movement.

The statement is made by a well known mining man that the collar of the shaft of the Green Mountain mine, one of the Anaconda properties, has moved in ten years about seven feet.

The strange phenomenon is regarded with interest by scientific men, but no danger is ever apprehended from it.

$90,000 EMBEZZLEMENT.

CASHIER OF VERMONT BANK IS SHORT THAT AMOUNT.

Washington, April 15.—The comptroller of the currency appointed J. T. Sullivan, of his office, as temporary receiver for the Farmers' National Bank of Vergennes, Vt., last Saturday. Bank Examiner Frank L. Fish, during an examination of the bank on April 3, discovered a shortage in the cash and a further investigation conducted by Special Inspector John B. Cunningham shows a total embezzlement by the cashier, D. H. Lewis, of $90,000. After the discovery of the defalcation the examiner secured the return of $25,000 to the bank. Until a more complete investigation upon the acts of the cashier is made, it is impossible to state what loss, if any, will accrue to the depositors. It is believed, however, that the loss to the depositors will be large.

Steps have been taken to place the cashier in custody and his arrest is expected at any time. Mr. Sullivan, who was detailed from here, will remain as temporary receiver for not over thirty days, when a permanent receiver will be appointed to take charge. The last published statement of the condition of the bank bears date of Feb. 5. According to this statement the deposits then amounted to an aggregate of about $486,000. The rediscounts and the bills payable aggregated $16,000. It is believed the statement was inaccurate in several items. The capital of the bank is $60,000, and its surplus $6,000.

A LIZARD STORY

LITTLE ANIMAL IN MAN'S STOMACH EIGHT YEARS.

Clinton, Ia., April 12.—Geo. C. McClusky of this place has been relieved of a live lizard 5½ inches in length that has inhabitated his stomach for eight years. For three years McClusky has been an invalid and has suffered greatly. When taken sick he weighed about 170 pounds, and a few weeks ago when he was taken to St. Louis to be operated upon, he weighed about 105 pounds and could not walk about without help. The doctors said he had a tumor in his stomach and he went to St. Louis to have it removed.

He was kept without food for three days, during which time the lizard became so restless that its movements could be observed on the outside of the body. On the third day a piece of poisoned bread was forced down McClusky's stomach. This the lizard ate and soon died. A strong cathartic relieved the patient and the lizard was cast out, but for three or four days McClusky's case was considered hopeless.

The lizard was carefully examined by naturalists and they say it is at least eight years old. Mr. McClusky says that about eight years ago, when fishing, he laid down on the bank of the river and drank from among a pile of stones. He swallowed something, but did not know what it was, but supposed it was some vegetable substance.

MARRIAGE BY CONTRACT.

Albany, N. Y., April 12.—After fighting for two years, Assemblyman Weeks of New York has obtained the concurrence of the senate in his "common law marriage" bill. This measure provides that marriage may be made by signing a written contract of marriage by both parties in the presence of two witnesses. This must be attested in the manner prescribed for conveying real estate and filed in the office of the county or town within six months.

It is understood that the governor will sign the bill.

KILLING OF DEER.

A BIG HAUL DURING THE LAST SHOOTING SEASON.

The Beltrami County News says that some little idea of the great number of deer killed in Beltrami county during the last hunting season may be gained from the fact that Searles & Son, taxidermists at Moose have prepared and mounted about fifty fine heads (and there are dozens, if not a score of other taxidermists in other places that have been mounting Beltrami county deer heads) and the number mounted would have been considerable larger had it not been that many of the handsomest heads were allowed to spoil through a lack of knowledge and carlessness of their owners. Mr. Searles says no head will keep, even if frozen solid, for more than six weeks, so that the hair will not loosen and slip when placed in the "pickel" preparatory to mounting and, even when it does not, it will not have the smooth, life like luster which it has if the work of preserving and mounting is commenced within a few days after being killed. He also says that beauty and natural pose of many of the finest heads is spoiled by having the neck cut too short—not having enough of the lower neck and breast left to enable the taxidermist, no matter how expert and skillful he may be, to give them a natural life like pose.

A DIRE PROPHECY.

ENGLAND'S END PREDICTED BY CHANCELLOR ANDREWS.

Lincoln, Neb., April 15.—In a lecture Friday night Chancellor E. Benjamin Andrews declared that the disintegration of England's colonial empire was at hand, and he warned the United States that she should enter no alliance with England, which he denounced as a pariah among nations.

Slavery was tolerated in her borders because she could not afford to strike it down. Ultimately this would cause an appalling rupture, and the crash would come when she disciplined a colony a little too hard. Racial hostility in Europe caused the mention of her name to be greeted with hatred and venom, a fact concealed by American papers.

England had developed no military or naval genius in late years. Roberts was her greatest commander, but was too old. The rest were lunkheads.

England was strong in wealth, intelligence and character but she would fall because those considerations figured little in her character as an empire.

MISERY IN PORTO RICO

MANY SUICIDE TO AVOID STARVATION SUFFERINGS.

New York, April 11.—Senor Santiago Iglesias, delegate of the Federation of Labor of Porto Rico, is the bearer of a petition from 6,000 workmen of Porto Rico to President McKinley which says:

Misery, with all its horrible consequences, is spreading in our homes with wonderful rapidity. It has already reached such an extreme that many workers are starving to death, while others that have not the courage to seek their mothers, wives, sisters and children perish by hunger, commit suicide by drowning themselves in the rivers or hanging themselves from branches of trees.

Mr. Iglesias said that the trouble in a large measure was due to the enforcement of the old Spanish laws by the present administration of the island.

A LOST BOY

Elias Steenerson, of this city, is in receipt of a letter from O. A. Christianson of Oakport, Clay county, in which the latter states that a boy named Jack Nepraich, who claims his home to be in the vicinity of Crookston, came to his place some time ago and is staying there at the present time.

The boy is about 15 years old and claims that his father is an habitual drinker and abused him until he could not stand it any longer. The boy further claims that his father had told him he would leave Polk county and go to the Chicago poorhouse.

Nepralsch is a Bohemian, and Mr. Christianson is anxious to know how to proceed in providing for the young lad.

PLANT A SUCCESS

Manager Leonard Peterson, of the Thief River Falls Electric Light company, accompanied by his family, came down to attend the marriage of his brother last evening. The Journal acknowledges a pleasant call from Mr. Peterson, who intends to return tomorrow morning. He stated that the lighting plant at Thief River Falls was an assured success. Work on the plant was not commenced until about the first of November, and the first light was furnished on January 15. Up to the present time there are 700 incandescent lights in use, a circumstance which proves beyond a doubt that Thief River Falls citizens appreciate the electric light service.

WILL RAISE THE MAINE.

Havana, April 13.—M. T. Chamberlain of Chicago has secured the contract to remove the wreck of the United States battleship Maine, agreeing to give the government 3 per cent of the sales of the material. The time for carrying out the contract will be extended to March 1, 1902, if sufficient reason is shown for the extension. The government insists upon a bond of $25,000 before the work of removal is begun. This question has not yet been settled.

M'INTOSH WEDDING.

The first Easter wedding was celebrated last Saturday evening at the residence of Peter King, Miss Sarah I. King, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter King, to Eddie S. Peterson. The connections of both bride and groom with families well known in society, as well as their own social popularity, made the wedding an event of wide interest. The ceremony was performed by Rev. S. H. Drew, in his usual happy style. The young couple starts out in life with the best wishes of a host of friends.—McIntosh Times.

ROBERT STREET
CROOKSTON, MINN.

N. S. GERVAIS,
"THE BOSTON"

Our Electric Service.

A "Continuous Service" of electric current throughout the entire twenty-four hours is better than a so-called "bobtailed" midnight or all night service.

A "Low Voltage Service" which is absolutely harmless is better than a high voltage service, which accidental contact with kills instantly.

A "Protected Service" which insures an uninterrupted service is better than an unprotected service which every accident discontinues, always without warning and generally at the most critical times.

With an unprotected service motor users keep a steam plant in reserve ready to start at a moment's notice—light consumers must keep oil lamps in readiness for every emergency. In one case the company supplying the service furnishes the protection—in the other case the consumers furnish their own protection.

A "Universal Service" which enables a consumer to draw a current supply for every known commercial electrical appliance from one system of interior wiring is better than a service which requires a separate system of interior wiring for each different class of work.

A "Direct Current Service" is better than an alternating service, not only on account of its absolute freedom from danger, but also because of some classes of service it requires less current to do a given amount of work

In Short, an Electric Service, Like Most Other Commodities, Has all Degrees of Quality.

A 24-hour, protected, low voltage, direct current service which is universal in its application, highly efficient and absolutely harmless, represents the highest quality—in fact a perfect service.

An abbreviated, or, as it is generally called, "bobtailed," unprotected, high voltage, alternating supply, represents the cheapest and poorest grade of service.

The city of Crookston is the only city on earth of its population which has a 24-hour, 110 volt, direct current, protected electric service, supplying light heat and power from one system of interior wiring.

Any citizen may claim, therefore, without hesitation, that it has the Best Electric Service of any city of equal size in the world.

He may also claim, without fear of intelligent contradiction, that no city on earth, no matter how large, has a better service.

In fact, there is no such thing as a better service at the present time—when there is ours will be better; until there is others cannot be.

These statements may seem rash, but we know, and knowing, still challenge all competitors.

I[illegible] are not using our electric service yet, [illegible] it you will be pleased with its quality.

The average [illegible] of lighting 105 residence houses last year was $22.68.

The average cost per lamp per month was 13½ cents.

Find out from the superintendent what it will cost to wire your residence. We will equip it ready to turn on the light and will not charge you [illegible] much as one penny's profit over and above the actual cost to us.

Entered at the postoffice at Crookston, Minnesota, as second-class matter.

The Moorhead city council at its last session designated the Daily News as the official paper of the city.

The state tax rate which was fixed for the ensuing year at 1.3 mills, is the lowest in the history of the state.

The United States navy now ranks fourth among the naval powers of the world, in size and tonnage. It has always ranked in first place whenever we had occasion to exert our naval supremacy.

The Deming parole bill, which was gotten up solely in the interests of the Younger brothers, has become a law by reason of the expiration of the time within which the veto prerogative must be exercised, if at all, without such action being taken by the governor.

Cass Lake Masons are beginning to agitate the question of establishing a local organization. Inasmuch as all propositions which come up there seem to succeed, we know of no reason why this should be an exception. And we predict that in the near future such a lodge will be among the Cass Lake institutions.

The Cass Lake Times announces that with its next issue, volume 2 will be completed, and it desires to commence volume 3 with a fully home-printed issue, which it will do if its local patronage is increased sufficiently to warrant it. If it gets its just deserts, the home print scheme will succeed.

The Bridgie News, Vol. 1, No. 1, made its appearance among our exchanges this morning. It is quite an ambitious youngster in its corporeal proportions, considering the youthfulness of its birthplace, but we doubt not will secure for itself a place in the history of the valley and a special niche in the temple of fame, toward the accomplishment of which the Journal extends its best wishes.

The editor's mistakes appear worse than other people's because they are published broadcast continually.—Rush City Post.

That is a paramount truth, Sister Lee. The prison walls hide the mistakes of the lawyers; four feet of earth covers up the blunders of our physicians; party wool screens the errors of our politicians; eternity's darkness shrouds the false doctrines of our ministers. But when the poor editor falls down, he falls in the face of the world, and none of the professions are eager to toss him the fig leaf of charity to cover his nakedness.—Bemidji Pioneer.

The Smith bill increasing the compensation of legislators to $750 for the biennial period, which passed the house by a vote of 62 to 40, becomes effective Jan. 5, 1903. Under the present system the senators and representatives receive $5 per day for the session which is limited by statute to 90 days. Extra, or special sessions may however, be called by the governor, during which the members may draw their per diem from the date of assemblage to date of adjournment. And it is claimed by the promoters of the bill that it will result in a substantial saving to the state, and shorten the period of open danger through indiscreet legislation.

The treasury officials have issued the following statement in regard to the redemption of stamps which may be in the hands of purchasers at the time the reduction act becomes operative, July 1, 1901:

"All documentary and proprietory revenue stamps in the hands of purchasers on and after July 1, 1901, will be redeemed by the government act of May 12, 1900. Such stamps should be presented for redemption by the owners thereof to the collector of internal revenue, from whom they were purchased, who will supply the applicants with necessary forms and instructions for the preparation of his claim. It is probable that regulations will be prepared and issued providing for the redemption of the imprinted documentary stamps without requiring the destruction of the checks or drafts on which they are imprinted."

ARBOR DAY.

Gov. Van Sant has issued a proclamation designating Friday, April 26, as Arbor Day, and he recommends that appropriate exercises be held in all the schools of the state, to the end that the children may learn to appreciate and understand the utility of trees and shrubs, and the importance of preserving the harmless birds. The purpose of setting apart a day to be observed in this way is commendable. The more fully the childrens' taste and love for the beautiful is developed, and the more fully they are taught the utility of trees and shrubs in beautifying the home, just to that extent will the homes of the future throughout he state be made attractive and pleasant. And the pioneer period of a large portion of the state having now been passed, wa need to turn our attention more fully in the direction of beautifying and adorning our homes and ennobling the farm life by higher ideals and more practical education along these and all other lines which tend to lift agricultural life above the plane of dradgery, and clothe it with an attractiveness that shall quiet the mania for deserting the farm and flocking to the cities, which is getting such a hold upon our boys and girls.

We are therefore in hearty accord with the spirit and purpose of Arbor Day and trust that its observance will be general.

A DEMOCRATIC POSSIBILITY.

—Warren Register: The election of Nat Campbell as mayor of Crookston gives that gentleman a lead for the democratic congressional nomination in this district that will be hard to check. If Nat should carry off the nomination, and we believe he will, the democratic rallying cry in the new Ninth would re-echo from one end of he district to the other with "The Campbells are coming."

The above from the Warren Register calls to mind the proposition which was made last year by some of the leading democrats of this city to secure Mr. Campbell's nomination for congress in the convention then to be held. Mr. Campbell then refused to be a candidate, giving as his reason that as the people's party was in the majority, and was supporting the candidate of the democratic party for president, the nomination should be given to that party.

When the democratic congressional convention was called at Fergus Falls, Mayor Campbell placed the name of Hon. M. J. Daly before the convention as candidate of the democratic party, and thus he obtained the united support of both the democratic and people's party for congress. It was on the motion and investigation of Mayor Campbell that the next congressional convention is to be held in Crookston, and if we are not mistaken the present mayor of this city will be the unanimous nominee of the people's, democratic and social democratic party for congress in this district at the next election.

We simply make this as a pre-convention prediction, and we believe the history of the past and the conditions of the present and future will bear us out in our prediction.

EXPERIMENT WORTH TRYING.

"Last spring as an experiment I planted my poultry yard, containing one-fourth of an acre, to potatoes, says F. M. Clark in Farm Poultry. "I have just dug fifty bushels of fine potatoes from this quarter acre. I did nothing but plant and dig the potatoes; the hens did the rest—kept off the bugs, kept the ground free from weeds, fertilized the crop and kept the ground in fine condition, so that I do not need to cultivate. The yield is double that on land adjoining, and the potatoes are entirely free from scab. Seventy-five hens occupied the quarter acre. When the potatoes were planted a few whole potatoes were thrown into the yard for the fowls, so that they had no need to dig out the seed potatoes. I think one hundred hens could care for an acre of potatoes to their mutual benefit."

The above described experiment is well worth a trial by the Journal readers. The question presents itself to our mind in regard to it whether a flock of hens of ordinary activity would not dig out, or at least uncover the new potatoes when they are of sufficient size to present themselves near the surface. We have an idea the potatoes should be planted somewhat deeper than usual.

MEDALS FOR FIRE LADDIES.

The Eagle Hose company has just awarded the gold and silver medals offered by them in 1900 to the members who attended the most fires and meetings during the year, says the Moorhead News. The designs of the medals are very handsome. They are each encircled by a string of hose, the nozzles extending at the top, upon which is a spread eagle. In the center are arranged a ladder, nozzle, trumpet, torch and hook. The name of the company is engraved upon the hose. On the back of each medal is engraved the name of the recipient and for what they are given.

The gold medal for attendance at most fires during the year was awarded to Alex Anderson, he having attended 31 fires, not having missed any. N. B. Remley received the silver medal for having attended all the company meetings during the year. The medals are beautiful souvenirs and are highly prized by Messrs. Anderson and Remley. Medals have been offered for the year 1901, and the boys are all doing their best to obtain them.

Why would it not be well for a similar plan to be adopted here in Crookston?

THIS IS ALL RIGHT.

The following clipping from an exchange will awaken a hearty amen in every editorial bosom:

How dear to my heart is the steady subscriber, who pays in advance at the birth of each year; who lays down his dollar and fifty cents gladly and casts 'round the office a halo of cheer; he never says, "Stop it, I can't afford it—I'm getting more papers now than I can read;" but always says, "Send it, the family all like it, in fact we all think it a household need." How welcome he is when he steps in the sanctum, how he makes my heart throb, how he makes my eyes dance; I outwardly thank him, I inwardly bless him—the steady subscriber who pays in advance.

$100 COMMISSION.

To anyone bringing me a buyer for the NW¼ of Section 34, 160 acres, town of Andover, and the NW¼ of Section 4, 165 12-100 acres, town of Hammond, in Polk county, Minn. Price, $20 per acre if taken before seeded. Every foot tillable land, and $1,000 worth of improvements; 160 acres plowed, balance in stubble field and pasture.

RECIPROCITY

The Fergus Falls Press in commenting on our last Saturday's editorial says, among other sensible things: "Some people seem to think that it costs nothing to run a newspaper, and even if it does the owner should be ever ready to donate his brains and his space to help along some one who never gives him a cent. If newspapers generally would insist upon reciprocity, it would be better for the profession, and at the same time teach these human sponges the errors of their way."

We refer to the matter again to stimulate a candid thoughtfulness on the subject by our readers.

The man who demands of a paper its ardent and unvarying support on the ground that it carries the same political color as himself, while he invariably claims the right and gives his support both moral and financial to such paper's competitors in business, is making a demand upon the editor which, if the conditions were reversed, he would resent with indignation. And the sooner such men learn to accord to others what they demand for themselves, and that the newspaper editor is not to be made an exception to this rule, the sooner the standard of their citizenship will be improved.

A PREDICTION

We wish to make our Republican friends a prediction. If Van Sant and the Republican railroad and warehouse commissioners are elected next Tuesday we wish to go on record as predicting that the Great Northern will before January 20th, 1901, run not more than three trains a week on the St. Hilaire line for the balance of the winter. Those who vote that way please paste this in your hat for further reference.—St. Hilaire Spectator, Oct. 31.

NOTES FROM EXCHANGES.

—Halstad Reporter: The ice broke and tore away two piles from the middle span in the Halstad bridge last Sunday. The water was low and the ice bore heavily against the piles, but after the middle span was widened by the loss of the two piles, the ice soon cleared away.

Beltrami Co. News: M. D. Stoner has received word from Washington that A. J. Post, the "hot air" stage man, has received the contract for carrying the mail between Bemidji, Turtle River, Tenstrike and Blackduck. Improved mail service for the upper country is something that has been a crying necessity for a long time and the people up north will no doubt be very much pleased regarding the change.

—Warren Register: What might have been a serious blaze occurred yesterday morning. During the process of house cleaning at the Lyons house a lot of mattresses were put out on a shed at the rear of the house, and in some way they caught fire. It is supposed that a spark from the kitchen chimney lit among them. Some pretty fast work was required in getting the burning mass off the building before the fire caught the shingles. As it was, the only damage was to the bedding, which was entirely destroyed.

VETOED TWO BILLS.

ALL THE REST WERE SIGNED ON SATURDAY.

By 1 o'clock Saturday, or 25 hours after the adjournment of the legislature, Gov. Van Sant had signed and deposited with the secretary of state every bill that received his approval. This is a record never before made according to Capt. Whitney, state printer, and to do it the governor and his entire office staff worked nearly all Friday night. Every bill was compared with the engrossed copy before receiving the governor's signature.

Incidentally, the governor raised his record of vetoes from one to three. Two measures were held up, and will not become laws. One was H. F. 711, by Scherf of Goodhue, to permit the practice of dentistry in the state without properly accredited certificates, and was opposed by the board of dental examiners on the ground that it would permit Minnesota territory to be invaded by unlicensed foreign practitioners.

The other bill was S. F. 129, by McKnsick, to permit foreign corporations to own more than 500 acres of land. The governor vetoed this on the ground that a corporation having such an interest in the state should incorporate here.

The law supplements will be published this week by every legal newspaper in the state, and will be in the hands of the public for inspection.

PATENTS JUST ISSUED.

TO STATE FOR 86,000 ACRES OF SWAMP LAND.

The officers of the St. Cloud United States land office have received notice that 86,000 acres of land in the St. Cloud district had just been patented to the state of Minnesota in the general land office at Washington. The lands were selected as swamp lands in 1874 and the selections had been approved by the general land office. The lands are widely scattered over the district, and 25 years have elapsed between the date of selection and date of patent.

WILL OPEN FOR SETTLEMENT.

Under instructions from the general land office, Register Peterson issued an order last Saturday proclaiming that township 160, range 42, in Roseau county, will be opened May 15. Inasmuch as the land in this township is already well covered with squatters, its opening will hardly furnish much of an attraction to parties who have not already made locations.

CLIMAX.

E. J. Eide sports a brand new gun.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Jahr of Shelly visited with Mrs. K. O. Ostby on Saturday.

Dr. Johnson reports five cases of typhoid fever in one neighborhood north of Climax.

I. Sather has purchased Andrew Evenson's dwelling house and will move into it as soon as Mr. Evenson leaves for his farm.

John Steenerson expects to move to Neilsville and take charge of the Neilsville hotel, which he has rented from Andrew Tronness.

Oscar Omet returned last week to remain a few days visiting his folks, Gunder Dale and family.

Miss Sanderson of Hendrum arrived on Saturday morning's train to remain with Mrs. C. Gilmore.

Mrs. B. Rarick left for Portland, N. D., where she has accepted a good position as cook in a large hotel.

Miss Dora Dybing and Miss Lizzie Erickson of Shelly spent Saturday in town visiting Mrs. S. H. Johnson.

T. J. Grosfield and E. Aarestad of Shelly came up after a new span of drivers which Mr. Grosfield purchased of E. B. Frye.

Andrew Evenson has returned to Climax for a short stay. He expects to move his family to his farm in Red Lake county soon.

Mrs. A. H. Kahlert went to Crookston on Monday to spend a day with her sister, Mrs. Olson, who leaves for the west shortly.

ST. VINCENT.

Theodore Brown has returned after a year's sojourn at Moorhead.

Mr. Wm. Robson has begun the erection of a neat dwelling in the west end.

Assistant General Supt. Gruber and Division Supt. Jenks were inspecting the company's property here last Thursday.

Messrs. N. Green and James Russell, who have been conducting the furniture store here, have purchased the large general stock of C. Full. The business will be carried on at the old stand under the firm name of Green & Russell.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Gamble left Wednesday last for Boulder, Col., called there by a telegram announcing the death of their son's wife, Mrs. A. Gamble, Jr.

The rain of Monday will stop seeding in this locality for a day or two. A great many of the small farmers were already through seeding wheat, and the Reid farm has finished about 1000 acres.

Mr. Gortzman of Boone county, Ia., came in last week with a car of machinery, stock and household effects. He has purchased a quarter section of land about six miles west of town and intends to remain with us.

ELDRED.

Tom Bjoin of Crookston was among us on Monday.

E. P. Bancroft and family visited in Crookston Sunday.

Miss Pauline Paulson took the train for Crookston Monday.

Melker Leikness will help the machine firm here for a while.

Mrs. Bahnsen returned from her Crookston visit Friday evening.

A. A. Dragseth was in town on Monday in the interests of Lord Roberts and his chum, "Sear Rohuck."

Peter Thompson and Iver Bjorge are at present completing the interior work in fitting up the creamery for the machinery.

Commencing with this week the readers of the Eldred items will have a new correspondent. With all due credit to the former scribe, we will say that in the future we shall try to have a more regular correspondence than formerly, give more items of interest, and in every way possible improve on the reports from Eldred.

NEILSVILLE.

Nils Muus transacted business in Crookston Monday.

Supt. Craig, of the Northwestern elevator, sized up things here Wednesday morning of last week.

John Johnson, the hustler for the Acme Harvester company, spent a while in town Thursday evening.

At a constable's sale here last Thursday a buggy was sold for $3.50. If some one had a pair of shafts it would be a good chance to get a buggy to go with them.

O. J. Bye and Andrew Monson, both feeling a little out of order, went up to see the doctor at Climax last Thursday. We suppose it is wisest to tell the people that they did not have the smallpox. They only had had colds.

Thor Harte left Monday morning for Alberta, Can., where he will make improvements on his claim. From there he goes to Montana to join his brother. He was accompanied as far as Crookston by his sister.

Six prisoners, who were confined in the county jail at St. Cloud, pending the action of the grand jury, escaped Sunday evening. The men assaulted the turnkey with a club and after securing the keys easily made their escape. The alarm was quickly given and two of the prisoners were recaptured.

2,700 POUNDS.

SOLID BLOCK OF LIGNITE SHIPPED TO BUFFALO.

Wilton, N. D., April 15.—Traffic Manager A. H. Walker, accompanied by R. J. Turner, manager of the North Dakota exhibit at the Pan-American exposition, and Assistant Manager W. F. Cushing, arrived from Bismarck this week and superintended the loading of a solid block of lignite coal containing 34 cubic feet and weighing 2,700 pounds, which will be shipped to Buffalo to represent he coal industry of North Dakota. Several flash light photographs were received of the chamber and bank from which the block of coal was taken. These will be reproduced on canvass and used as a background for the display.

BIG STEEL CONTRACT.

New York, April 12.—Private cable advices brings the news that the Glasgow, Scotland, municipal committee had recommended the awarding of a big contract to an American steel company for the supplying of 3,450 tons of rails and fish plates for the municipal street railway of Glasgow. This rail contract will be the largest ever placed in this city for use in Great Britain. The Lorain Steel company, of Ohio, gets the order.

RAISINS WILL BE CHEAP.

Fresno, Cal., April 12.—Owing to the fact that over 1,000 carloads of last year's raisins are still on hand, with a possible market for only one-third of that amount before the new crop comes in, the directors of the Raisin Growers' association have resolved to cut the price temporarily to three cents a pound for seeding purposes, allowing the retailer to sell one pound cartons for 10 cents.

HEROIC LITTLE GIRL

Little Emma Bradley of Streetsboro, seven miles north of Ravena, Ohio, has saved the life of her seven year old sister, Hazel, who was terribly burned early last winter. Little hopes for her recovery were entertained for some time and then the physicians decided that her life could be saved only by skin grafting. The little sister volunteered at once and since then nearly 500 pieces of skin have been taken from her body and grafted on her sister's. The latter's total recovery is now more than probable.

—Great bargains in spring millinery at Iverson sisters. Exclusive milliners. Largest stock. Lowest prices.

—If you wish to renew your loan, or take up balance on your contract for deed, see Ole Tiegen, Crookston. tf

—Geo. Parker came down from Minot Saturday and is looking over the city with a view to locating here.

—Fine photographs in all styles from $1 to $20 per dozen at Skrivseth's art studio, near Commercial hotel, Broadway.

—Chas. Lee has decided to go to Detroit, in this state, and arrange for the opening of a photograph gallery for a friend.

—Representative Oppegaard returned from St. Paul Saturday and went to his home at Fosston on the Duluth train.

—John Koehler was a Euclid man who came over Saturday evening to take the train for Grand Forks, where he spent Sunday.

—John Lester has rented the Norman house, corner of Third and Main streets, and will soon open it as a hotel and restaurant.

—W. J. Starr, who has been handling the baggage on the St. Vincent line for a couple of weeks, has returned to St. Paul to resume his run on the main line.

—The McKinnon brothers are just putting the finishing touches on an elegant delivery wagon for Burkhardt Bros., and it will make its appearance on the streets after they become settled.

P. H. Martin of this city left Thursday evening for an extended visit with friends and relatives at Green Bay, Wis. It has been some years since Mr. Martin has visited the scene of his former home.

—The first ball game of the season was played last Saturday between the two teams known as Willie Lewis' Bloomers and the Hill team, which resulted in a victory for the former by a score of 30 to 1.

—The Scandia State bank at Thief River Falls was awarded the $7,500 worth of bonds issued by the village by the city council Saturday evening, they offering to take them at four and one-half per cent and pay a premium of $175.

—Grant Van Sant, son of Gov. Van Sant, who purchased ten thousand acres of Red Lake and Polk county land a few months ago, on speculation, has already disposed of about one half of his holdings at a good round margin of profit.

—T. E. Adams, formerly master mechanic of the Great Northern on this division, but lately employed on the Eastern Minnesota, has resigned his position and left several days ago for the south, where he will receive a lucrative position on the Cotton Belt road.

Plaindealer: Among the officers of the 34th infantry, which arrived at San Francisco recently, were Lieut. S. M. Decker of Crookston and Lieut. Arthur G. Duncan of Fargo. The 34th took a prominent part in the rescue of Lieut. Gilmore, and was in Lawton's northern expedition.

—Sheriff Bailey of Bemidji has received notice that by order of the governor no more prize fights or sparring exhibitions will be allowed there. Five glove contests have been pulled off there during the past two months, and three more were scheduled to take place in the next ten days.

—It is said that fully 100,000 acres of virgin land will make the acquaintance of the plow in the Red River valley this spring. Much of this land was purchased years ago by speculators, and has but lately been placed upon the market. It has been purchased by small farmers and this year will be included in the ranks of the producing areas.

—The Sisters of St. Benedict, who are conducting the St. Vincent hospital in this city, have purchased another lot adjoining the Beaudry property, just north of the court house, and will use it for hospital purposes. Together with the former purchase, the sisters now own a full one-half block of ground upon which to build the new hospital.

—Fargo Call: Officer Dan Costello of the Fargo Northern Pacific force arrested seven boys for placing ties across the railroad tracks. The ages of the boys average about 15 years. It is said that these boys have been doing this kind of work for some time to annoy the switchmen, and Dan caught them in the net and took them to the police station.

—City Attorney Holston has notified the owners of the opera house block that they must change the swinging of the doors leading to the play house, to open on the outside. There is a law in the state which demands that all doors to public halls and play houses must swing outward, and the city attorney proposes to enforce the law in that direction.

—The Scotch concert to be given at the Grand opera house next Wednesday evening promises to be a rare treat and should receive liberal patronage by our music loving citizens. Mr. Garvin Spence and Miss Flora McDonald, each in their particular parts are given the highest commendations by the press wherever they appear. Those who fail to attend will find little consolation in the thought, "it might have been."

—Elias Steenerson wishes to furnish a dumping ground for parties having manure or other coarse rubbish to dispose of. Call on Wm. Welch for particulars.

—Hon. Ole Granrud, a leading druggist of Grand Forks, was an overnight visitor in the city on his way home from Stephen, where he attended to some private matters.

—James Dewar and H. A. Tofsly, of the town of Hammond, are two of the enterprising farmers who have announced their intention of competing for the Journal corn premiums.

—Peter Renne came up from Fertile Tuesday, where he is now doing a flourishing restaurant business. On his return he will be accompanied by his family, which has been staying here until he could find a suitable dwelling.

—Mrs. Louis Morin this morning received the sad intelligence of the death of her five year old niece, the daughter of Chris Strunk, of Janesville, this state. The little girl suffered with tonsilitis, which caused her death.

—During Attorney Holston's absence from the city the last few days, his "valuable" black dog absented himself from the family residence, and A. R. is at a loss to know whether the dog was kidnapped or sent to the pest house.

—Sheriff Austin, of Roseau county, returned this morning from Fergus Falls, where he delivered Stanley Pedrowski. The unfortunate man is about 50 years of age and is possessed of a hallucination that "Old Nick" is pursuing him.

—C. W. Everett of Watertown, S. D., is another wide awake business man who has been attracted to our city by the swift pace in which things are beginning to move here, and will soon be established in business, a further announcement of which will duly be made.

—Judge McLean is home again after lingering in St. Paul for a few days. The genial judge disappointed his many friends once more by returning without the bride that he was to bring with him, but Judge Holt now claims that the lady of McLean's choice is a resident of Crookston.

—O. E. Nelson, editor and publisher of the Pelican Press, formerly engaged in the print shops in this city, passed through here Monday on his way home from Warren. The "terrible," as Alfred was familiarly known among the prints, is meeting with success.

—The night shift in the Crookston Lumber company's mill started in Tuesday and during the balance of the entire cutting season a full force will be kept going night and day. The two crews now at work number 400 hands, and this force may possibly be increased with the advance of the season.

—A correspondent of the Cass Lake Times, who signs himself "One of the Victims," makes the assertion that the milk sold by dealers there with rarely an exception, yields less than one per cent of fat, and the cream rarely above five per cent, instead of three and ten per cent respectively, as required by law.

—Chief of Police Creamer has issued an order to prevent boys from gathering on the inside entrance to the opera house. Complaint has been filed with the chief that the lads are gathering there daily to indulge in cigarette smoking, tobacco chewing and other nasty habits, much to the disgust of opera house patrons.

—S. R. Sylvester, of the town of Hammond, is one of the kind of subscribers who make the editor's heart glad by keeping his subscription paid in advance. He has recently sold the northeast quarter of section 26, in the town of Hammond, at a good substantial advance of $6 per acre above the price he paid for it two years ago.

—The new grocery firm of Rossberg, Carlson & Nelson held their opening in the Westerberg building on the west side of South Main street today. In the future, if business seems to justify the venture, they expect to add a line of furnishing goods to their stock. The popularity of the members composing the firm makes their success assured from the outset.

Peter Huff has reopened the restaurant in the building adjoining McKinnon Bros.' factory on North Main street, and will make the place one of the best in the city. The interior of the house has been entirely renovated, new furniture has been added and the public is invited, when hungry and in search of a cosy eating house, give "Pete" a call. The management of the place will be taken care of by Mrs. Huff.

—Miss Mary J. Fairbairn and Miss Elizabeth O'Brien, of the city schools, returned from Grand Forks Saturday evening, having attended the state oratorical contest in the Methodist church in that city Friday evening. No decision has been made yet as to the distribution of honors, one of the judges not having turned in his report. Steenberg, of the state university, and Jenson, of the Agricultural college are winners, respectively, on delivery and on thought and composition.

—Chas. A. Sharkey, agent for the N. P. railway at this point, who was appointed traveling freight agent of the company a few days ago, returned from St. Paul Saturday and expects to leave in a short time to assume the duties of his new appointment. Mr. Sharkey will have headquarters at some point in Montana. Crookston friends will regret to see "Charley" leave the city, but at the same time congratulate him upon his promotion.

—Steve Witbey: The village of Hendrum recently built a pest house, about 4 by 0, and the neighbors in the vicinity of its location got so hot about it that the structure burned Friday. I's a fact, says Steve.

—Among the notable arrivals in the city Tuesday were Judge Jamieson, Gov. Van Sant's private secretary, and Grant Van Sant, son of the governor. The latter has real estate interest in these sections, which require his attention just at present.

Before Judge Watts Tuesday the motion for change of venue in the case of Haney vs. Red Lake Falls Lumber company, was heard and denied. Defendants wanted the trial to be held in Red Lake county. Attorney Finlayson of this city appeared for the plaintiff and Attorney Grady of Red Lake Falls for the lumber company.

—Among the very best things theatrically soon to be presented in this city is Lewis Morrison's big production of "Faust," which is said to be entirely new and surprisingly elaborate this season. As this production has always been considered one of the most popular and elaborate on the road, local theatre goers are looking forward to an unusual treat.

—Three handsomely mounted and large moose heads passed through here on the Great Northern express from Thief River Falls to St. Paul. The ornaments were addressed to T. R. Palmer. The largest one of them measured four feet between the outpoints of the headgear, and each antler contained 13 prongs.

—Attorneys Montague and Holston returned from St. Paul this morning over the Northern Pacific. They appeared Monday before the supreme court to argue the appeal case of Johnson vs. the city of Crookston, in which the plaintiff asks for damages for injuries sustained by falling into an unprotected sewer ditch. The case was taken under advisement after the argument was completed.

—From a reliable source the Journal learns today that John R. McKinnon has had plans prepared for an additional story on his elegant business block on the corner of Main and Robert streets, and intends to make the improvements during the coming building season. The upper story of the block is to be arranged into office rooms and dwelling apartments, the latter being a very much desired commodity at the present time.

—Black Duck Times: One of the enterprises needed in Blackduck more than anything else is a bank. There is a demand by the business men for one every day. The lumbermen's checks could be cashed here just as well as at Bemidji, which takes thousands of dollars away from the town. Here is a golden opportunity for a good reliable bank to start in. The kind of people we want is a progressive, go-ahead banker, or none at all.

—The early Great Northern train Tuesday had another big batch of new settlers, who came from Iowa and southern Minnesota, to make these parts their future home. The crowd that got off the train here numbered nearly one hundred, and most of these people will locate in Polk or adjoining counties. It is stated by eastern landmen that this week will witness the largest immigration into this section ever known in the same period of time since the opening of the country.

—J. H. Peterson, the owner of the Crookston pop factory, is happy these days because of the successful sinking of an artesian well in his establishment. The well was sunk by Chris Espe of this city and is nearly 200 feet deep. The water is of an excellent quality, clear and soft, and runs through a galvanized pipe. It is claimed that the flow of the well is nearly 750 barrels per day and that the quality of the water is far superior to any drinking water produced or known in this section.

—Fargo Forum: A notable and growing industry in Nebraska is the trade in jack rabbits, which are frozen for shipment to the east, where they are sold at fancy prices as Belgian hares. Farmers' boys in thes tate earn many dollars during the winter in pursuing this game, which they sell to the packers for about $1.50 a dozen. The price is small, but the supply is ample, and the farmers do themselves a double service by ridding their lands of what often becomes a pest. The extent of the industry is indicated by the shipments, which are in carload lots.

—The host of friends in this city of Louis Morin and wife, who for years have conducted the Grand Central hotel, will deeply regret to learn of their departure tomorrow morning for Seattle, where Mr. Morin expects to engage in business. While Crookston people lose a good citizen and successful business man, Seattle is to be congratulated upon having him added to their list of enterprising trade hustlers and social colony of pleasant gentlemen, and the good wishes of all who know the Morin family will follow them from here to their new home.

—Minneapolis Journal: There are some bright legislators in New Zealand. They found a way to prevent property from being undervalued for taxation. They do it by letting every man fix the valuation on his own property. This sounds easy, but there is a little "proviso" that does the business to the queen's taste. This proviso is that any tract of land may be bought by the government at an advance of 10 per cent on the valuation its owner has placed on it, hence nobody places a valuation on his land much less than he would be willing to sell for. The government now and then buys up the low priced tracts, and this keeps the valuations fair.

—Miss Susie Schouweiler, bookkeeper in O. D. Billings' laundry, has been called to her home at Wabasha, by the serious illness of her father, who is not expected to recover.

It's not necessary to suffer the martyrdom of Female weakness: Mull's Pioneer Cure for Female complaint is safe and sure. A dollar draft in each $1.00 box guarantees it. 25c. For sale by S. A. Wallace.

—Conductor Lockman: Thief River Falls has built a pest house so close to the Great Northern track that passengers on passing trains can converse with the three patients that are confined there now. I always drop all windows and lock the doors of the coaches when my train has to pass the place.

—County Treasurer Peterson received a telegram yesterday conveying the sad intelligence of the death of his father, which occurred in Nicollet county, in this state, Tuesday night. The deceased was an old resident of the state and enjoyed the respect of all who knew him. Mr. Peterson will leave for his old home tonight to attend the funeral.

—Rev. W. H. Prugh of Lake Park, Ia., was in the city today and will return home this evening. He was among the party of enterprising Iowans who came up yesterday in search of lands, and has completed the purchase of a quarter section in 28, town of Parnell. He made arrangements to have the Journal pay him regular weekly visits and keep him posted on the news of the valley.

—Dr. Whetstone, of Argyle, a member of the state board of health, returned from St. Paul yesterday, where he attended the monthly meeting of the board. During the month of March 1200 new cases of smallpox were registered, the largest number since the pest has become current, but the disease is now rapidly abating and may soon be entirely wiped out by the vigilant precautions taken by the state board.

In Judge McLean's court yesterday morning the case of W. E. Rowe vs. Albert Schraeder, both of this city, came up for trial. Plaintiff seeks to recover for attorney's fees for services rendered the defendant. At noon the hearing was adjourned for a week and defendant took a change of venue. G. A. E. Finlayson appeared for Mr. Rowe, who was otherwise engaged today, and J. H. Maybury is defending Schraeder.

—Attorney DeForest Bucklin returned Saturday from St. Paul, where he argued the appeal case of John G. Johnson against Walsh & Kennedy, ditch contractors of Fargo, and the city of Crookston. The case has been tried in the district court in this county twice, and was decided the last time in favor of the plaintiff. Johnson wants $5,000 from the defendants for injuries received in falling into a sewer ditch near the Robert street bridge, which was unprotected at the time of the accident.

Kill that pain with Mull's Lightning Pain Killer. It's free from opiates and poisons. Guaranteed. 25c. For sale by S. A. Wallace.

FARM LAND WANTED.

I can furnish a few desirable purchasers for land at rock bottom prices. Parties having "snaps" should call on or write Attorney R. M. Hayes, Crookston, Minn. Office over Merchants National Bank.

FOR SALE.—A good seven room house and lot for sale, No. 311 4th. street, near the N. P. depot. Also a small barn. Those wishing to purchase will do well to call on Mrs. H. E. Cooke at once and get price as she expects to return east soon. She can be found at the residence of F. W. Hall, 228 Houston avenue.

The purchase of 8,000 shares of Northern Pacific stock in New York Monday carried it from 99½ to par for the first time in its history.

A Dairying Proposition

does not go badly with that of raising No. 1 Hard Wheat. Both are satisfactory in the Great Agricultural districts of Manitoba, Assiniboia, Alberta and Saskatchewan. Most favored districts in Western Canada.

Mixed Farming is an assured success.

Every condition is favorable. Schools, Churches, Railways, Climate meet every requirement.

By letters from settlers we find after a few years' residence, one man who came to Western Canada with $75, is now worth $10,000; another who brought $1,000 is now worth $50,000, another who came with barely enough money to buy a team, is now worth $20,000, and so on.

These lands are the most valuable on the continent. Railroad and other lands at low figures adjoin Free Homestead Lands. For fuller information, maps, pamphlets, etc., address F. Pedley, Superintendent of Immigration, Ottawa, Canada, or to

HAS ADJOURNED

Thirty-Second Legislature is Now a Thing of the Past.

HAS MADE GOOD RECORD

Unexcelled by Any Previous Legislature in This State.

The record made by the Minnesota legislature which adjourned Friday is the best in the history of the state. A high mark has been set for succeeding legislatures to emulate.

The Minneapolis Journal says of it: Never were so many important measures presented to a Minnesota legislature, and never were measures given more thorough consideration. The record of the bills passed is a splendid one.

To one unfamiliar with the work of the session, it is only necessary to glance at the following statement of work accomplished. The legislature which adjourned Friday

Elected two United States senators.

Reapportioned the state into nine congressional districts.

Provided for a commission to revise and codify the tax laws of the state.

Provided for a commission to revise and codify the statutes.

Passed a primary election law, by which party nominees will be chosen directly by the people.

Created a state board of control to supplant separate boards in the mantie registration a start by applying it correctional institutions of the state.

Passed a bill raising the gross earnings tax on railway properties to 4 per cent, to be approved by the people at the next general election.

Placed the office of state oil inspector on a salary basis, commencing Jan. 1, 1903.

Raised the gross earnings tax on express companies from 3 to 6 per cent.

Gave the Torrens system of land title registration a start by applying it to the three largest counties.

Passed an inheritance tax act.

And did all this in a short session of 79 working days, which will permit an extra session without extra expense. This extra session will next year enact the work of the tax commission into law.

Had the legislature done these things, and no more, the members would have earned their hire. The state can well afford every cent the session cost.

Many other measures of more or less importance of necessity were ground through the legislative mill, but the solons of 1901 may well rest their claims to fame on the foregoing list.

In spite of the early adjournment, the work was cleaned up in better shape than at any session in recent history. A total of 739 bills were introduced in the house, and 553 in the senate. Yet so smoothly did the wheels move that night sessions were not necessary until the last night of the session.

The presiding officers, desk forces and leading members displayed business ability and industry. Nothing was allowed to drag. Only six legislative days were wasted in recesses.

The session lasted through 79 legislative days, which does not include Sundays and holidays. The two houses were actually in session 73 days. Compare this with the session of 1899, when the full 90 days were used. The legislature was then in actual session 79 days, having lost eleven by recesses.

This session lasted just 95 calendar days, and it is on that basis that the per diem of members and employes is computed.

Junketing was very little indulged in, except by committees in search of information.

The early days of the session did not promise much. The senatorial fight obscured everything else, and delayed attention to matters of legislation. When it was settled members were tired, and moved listlessly for a while. The early adjournment proposition stirred things up. Those who had bills to get through began to expediate business, and the latter part of the session both houses worked under a full head of steam, clearing the desks in magnificent shape. The measures of most importance were all out of the way before the last week, which was devoted to the dispatch of business more routine in character.

State campaigns in off years are necessarily fought on state issues. It is for the dominant party to make the issues, and to the legislature of 1901 was entrusted the task of creating campaign arguments for the party to put forward in 1902. Both branches were republican by an overwhelming vote. The democrats had only 19 out of 63 senators, and 23 out of 119 members of the lower house. The republican majority succeeded beyond all expectations. The list of measures cited above will be campaign thunder enough and to spare. The gross earnings bill and the primary election bill were passed in response to popular demand, and the people will be inclined to feel gratitude to the party which put their pet measures through. There was also considerable popular demand for the Hurd bill, and the action of the senate in deferring its action was not well liked, but the bill was put through, and the public office of oil inspector will cease to be a private "graft" after 1903. Seven democrats in the senate voted with the unpopular side, and the democracy can say little about this measure.

The bribery embroglio tarnished republicans and fusionists alike. It is not a blemish on either party, but on a certain coterie of individuals, for which neither party is responsible. The only matter for regret is that the men referred to could not have been "smoked out," so the public might know who the public servants were who were betraying their trusts.

Taken all in all, the legislature of 1901 did more and better work in less time than any of its predecessors. Some of the things it did will have deep and lasting influence on the people and institutions of the state.

CHARGES MURDER.

FATHER OF BURNED NEGRO HAS FILED INFORMATION.

Leavenworth, Kan., April 15.—Alfred Alexander, father of Frederick Alexander, the negro who was burned at the stake for the alleged assault and murder of Miss Carrie Forbes and for the assault on Miss Roth, has filed information with the county attorney against a number of those participating in the burning and asks for a warrant for their arrest upon the charge of murder.

Before issuing the warrant the county attorney decided to examine witnesses under the law passed by the last state legislature. Ten or twelve witnesses have been examined. About twenty more are to be examined before the county attorney decides whether he will issue the warrants or not.

Both the county attorney and Alexander refuse to give the names of the witnesses or the nature of the testimony, or indicate the result of the investigation, which was continued today.

The news of the investigation and prospective issuing of a warrant is causing great excitement in the city, especially among those who were clamorous for the punishment of Alexander. Alexander will ask for warrants for Wm. Forbes, whom he accuses of setting fire to his son; one of the city officials, and a policeman, who, he charges, assisted in piling the fuel around the stake, and aiding in the burning.

STOCKED WITH FISH.

WALL-EYED PIKE FOR CASS AND OTHER LAKES AND STREAMS.

Game Warden Fullerton expects to place 100,000,000 little wall-eyed pike in the streams and lakes of the state this fall and summer, says the Pioneer Press. He is not counting his eggs before they are hatched, and if the final outcome of the process of hatching is a few dozen shy, he says it will not make any material difference to the fishermen of the state in the future.

The anglers of Minnesota have taken a liking to wall-eyed pike, and requests have been made of Mr. Fullerton for millions of little fellows with which to stock streams and lakes all over the state. He will respond to the requests if the hatching process does not prove a failure, which condition has never yet fallen to his lot.

In the past he has been unusually successful. The year he was succeeded by Gov. Lind's appointee, John Beutner, he had 62,000,000 spawns for distribution. That was in 1898. The year following the warden under Gov. Lind succeeded in hatching a tray full of eggs, about 9,000 in number. In 1900 Mr. Beutner fared about equally as well, securing in the neighborhood of 10,000 or a "jar full," in the vernacular of the hatchery men. This year Mr. Fullerton expects to have 10,000 times that amount.

A large portion of the 100,000,000 pike will be placed in Cass Lake, where they have never been before. That will be upon request of the citizens in that part of the state.

KILLED MOUNTAIN LION

NEAR MANKATO, PERHAPS ONE OF TEDDY'S

Mankato, Minn., April 12.—Farmers killed a mountain lion five or six miles southeast of the city two or three days ago. It was the first one seen in this section almost within the memory of man, and had been killing the farmers' hogs, making the first attack about two weeks ago.

A farmer discovered it in his pig pen and shot it through the body with a Winchester. An exciting chase followed until another farmer put a charge of shot in its head. Even then it was necessary to kill it with clubs. It measured nearly five feet long and three high and weighed nearly a hundred pounds.

It is believed to have been the same animal that was seen in the same sec- [illegible]ar ago, when it killed some hogs and was seen by several people. The section is cut up by the LeSner river and contains good hiding places.

Gineral Newes.

The senior class of the high school at Dexter, Ia., is out on a strike. The faculty prepared a pledge to be signed by the pupils providing for an abstinence from passing or writing notes. The entire class revolted and left the school.

Samuel Roberts, of Council Bluffs, Ia., disappeared from his home several days ago. His body was found hanging from a rafter in a small vacant dwelling. No cause is known for the deed.

Thompson township, Fulton county, Pa., undoubtedly has the most valuable roads in the United States. The roads have been macadamized with mineral rock and some of this rock assays $4.60 a ton in gold and silver.

A human skull was found in an alley in Escanaba, Mich., Thursday, in possession of two dogs that were eating the flesh from it. The police are at work on the case.

A 12-year-old son of Mrs. Williams at Laurel, Del., died from the effects of vaccine poison Wednesday. Three others are seriously ill from the same cause. Nearly all the schools in the western section of the county are closed on account of smallpox.

ABUNDANCE OF OIL

TO BE TESTED FOR FUEL IN COMPETITION WITH COAL.

Austin, Texas, April 12.—It is the opinion of former Governor Hogg who has spent considerable time at Beaumont investigating the new oil field, that the discovery of oil in such bountiful quantities will revolutionize the fuel question of the world. The problem that confronts the oil producers of the new oil district is what to do with the oil. Over 100,000 barrels of oil have been shipped to New York, Philadelphia and Pittsburg and over 30,000 to Manchester and Liverpool, England, where the new fluid will be given a practical test.

The American Sugar Refining company sent a representative here to investigate, and he has ordered 2,500 barrels to be shipped to Cuba, where it will be burned in one of the largest refineries of that trust. If this test is successful, the oil will be used in all the refineries of the American Sugar Refining company. The assertion is made that oil from the Beaumont field can be delivered to the manufacturers of Pittsburg in the very heart of the coal region, at a less cost than they now pay for coal. Tests have shown that 2½ barrels of Beaumont oil, costing but $1, is equal to one ton of Pittsburg coal, and a big profit could be made by the oil producer should be be forced to sell his oil at 20 cents a barrel.

CHANGE IN BANK

IOWA BANKER NOW OWNS SCANDIA STATE BANK.

An important deal was consummated in this city last week whereby L. C. Simons and other Red Lake parties, who owned practically all of the stock of the Scandia State bank, disposed of their interests to W. W. Prichard, of Spirit Lake, Ia., says the Thief River Falls News. The new owner has been elected as cashier of the bank and will become permanently identified with the business interests of Thief River Falls, removing with his family to this city as soon as a suitable location can be found.

The bank will be incorporated as a national, the capital being increased from $10,000 to $25,000, and an improvement company, which will deal in farm lands, conduct an abstract business, etc., with a capital of $25,000, will also be organized. The stock of the two companies will be owned mostly by Iowa parties many of whom will become residents of this city, but at the present time we are unable to give a full list of the men, as Mr. Prichard has not definitely decided whom he will take in, and desires to get only men who will act in perfect harmony. While the stock of the two companies will be owned largely by the same parties, they will be separate and distinct institutions. A brick banking building will be erected during the summer.

STATE LUMBER BUSINESS.

There were 329 lumber camps in Minnesota last year, with 15,886 men and 8,285 horses employed, says the Pioneer Press. The cut of logs was over a billion feet and the wages paid nearly $3,000,000. After the logs get to the mills, the field for labor extends. But how long is this great industry to continue if nothing is done for forest reproduction? If the time spent by the legislature in considering such utterly useless bills as the cigarette bill had been spent in planning a comprehensive system of state forestry, that body would have accomplished something worthy of remembrance.

SINGULAR LAW.

Mandan Independent: State legislators in the light of their superior wisdom sometimes adopt queer laws. The last session of the law makers of our state got after the horse and cattle thieves and enacted the following:

"It shall be unlawful for any person or persons to cause to be shipped or driven any live stock from any county in the state to any other county therein or to a point without said state, without such person or persons first notifying the said stock inspector of the proposed shipment or driving and requesting that an inspection of the animals to be shipped or driven be made."

This provision is simply absurd. Technically it would prevent an Oliver County farmer from hitching up his team and driving to Mandan or New Salem—his nearest railroad point—without first obtaining a permit from the Oliver County sheriff; and when returning home he must obtain the necessary permit from the Morton County sheriff.

It is possible that the farmer got out of his wagon and led his team across the county line instead of driving them, the law would not reach him.

BIG DAMAGE VERDICT.

Huron, S. D., April 12.—Mrs. M. J. Dineen, who sued the city for $7,000 damages for injuries sustained by a fall on a defective sidewalk, was given a verdict for the amount asked. The case is likely to go to the supreme court.

CLAIMS ON CHINA.

Revised Statement Show Aggregate by the Powers $314,790,000.

U. S TO ATTEMPT REDUCTION

Lump Sum to be Agreed Upon and Divided Among the Claimants.

Washington, April 15.—Commissioner Rockhill, United States special commissioner to China, has sent the state department a revised statement of the claims thus far filed by the powers against the Chinese government. The aggregate of the claims is lower than at first reported, being under $400,000,000, but the authorities here regard this as exorbitant, and will endeavor to cut it in half. Mr. Rockhill's information shows the claims of the powers up to date are about the figures given below:

Russia	$ 90,000,000
Germany	70,000,000
France	40,000,000
Japan	30,000,000
United States	25,000,000
Great Britain	24,000,000
Belgium	5,790,000
Italy, Austria, Spain	30,000,000
Grand total	$314,790,000

Mr. Rockhill has cabled the department that the ministers will consider next week the question of reducing the indemnities. They expected to pass Saturday upon the plan of the United States, that the powers determine upon a lump sum as the indemnity to be demanded, which shall be distributed equitably among the powers by the foreign ministers in Peking, and in case of failure to agree, it should be decided by The Hague court. This plan was not definitely accepted or rejected but it is not believed, however, that it will be adopted in its entirety. Great Britain and Japan have indicated that they will support the American proposal for a reduction of the indemnity.

McKENZIE CASE

LETTERS AND TELEGRAMS FOR HIS PARDON POURING IN.

Washington, April 13.—The president continues to hear from Alex McKenzie's friends. Ever since the movement was started to have the North Dakotan pardoned, telegrams and letters have come from North Dakota, Minnesota nd other northwestern and Pacific coast states, urgently pressing favorable action on the petition. A large number of telegrams was received today. They are filed away for consideration when the San Francisco judges have submitted their views on the application.

The president hopes to be able to dispose of the case before he starts on his trip to the coast. Attorney General Knox has not yet had any official connection with either the McKenzie or the Noyes case. Before he left his office Attorney General Griggs prepared a statement o fall the charges against Noyes by newspaper extracts from all statements made to him and transmitted them to Nome by mail.

There the matter has rested so far as the department of justice is concerned, and Attorney General Knox will probably know nothing about the case until Judge Noyes' replies are received. It is said that he will receive the Griggs communication before any merchant vessels reach Nome, as mail is sent into the country on dog sleds and that his answer will be ready by the time the vessel is ready to leave that place.

CROP CONDITIONS

BETTER THAN FOR TEN YEARS PAST.

Washington, April 13.—The April report of the statistician of the department of agriculture shows the average condition of winter wheat on April 1 to have been 91.7 against 82.1 on April 1, 1900, 77.9 at the corresponding time in 1899, and 82.9, the mean of the April averages of the last ten years. The averages in the principle states are as follows: Pennsylvania, 89; Ohio, 83; Michigan, 72; Indiana, 89; Illinois, 92; Texas, 63; Tennessee, 81; Missouri, 98; Kansas, 100; Nebraska, 100; California, 100; Oklahoma, 97;

While the general average of condition, 91.7 is the highest since 1891, the presence of the Hessian fly is reported from an almost unprecedently large number of states, and serious misgivings prevail, even in states reporting a fairly high condition on April 1, as to the possible developments of the next thirty days.

NEW INVENTION.

Des Moines, Iowa, April 13.—An invention has been made by L. Kessler, a mechanic of this city, which, if the claims of its author are realized, is destined to revolutionize the manufacture of steam engines. The principle has not been applied to an engine of any large power as yet, but the inventor holds that it will be successful, no matter to what style of an engine it is applied. The new engine works on the vacuum principle, and uses the same water over and over again. It has no steam chest, or, rather, both the steam chest and boiler are combined in one. There being no exhaust, the same water is used as many times as desired, being converted into steam and condensed, then reconverted into steam and recondensed, and so on ad infinitum.

PROSECUTION RESTS.

TESTIMONY AGAINST RIPLEY IS NOW ALL IN.

Frankfort, Ky., April 13.—Testimony for the prosecution in the case of Captain Garnett D. Ripley, on trial for alleged complicity in the Goebel shooting, is practically all in and the prosecution will rest either this afternoon or early tomorrow.

Senator Newton Frazier of Shelby county testified that at the mountaineer mass meeting Jan. 25, he heard threats against all of the democratic members of the legislature.

Ed Steffee told of seeing Goebel fall, and seeing a gun, which was pointing from the office of the secretary of state, drawn back as the window was lowered.

Adjutant General Murray identified letters found in his office after Gen. Collier retired. One alleged to be from Caleb Powers, addressed to Gen. Collier, Jan. 22, asked for official orders, calling out the London and Barbourville troops. The letter closed with the expression: "We have undertaken a great matter and must have these men at Frankfort."

MAN vs BEAR

A WINNIPEG MAN HAS ENCOUNTER WITH BRUIN.

Quite a little excitement was caused Thursday at the O. P. R. depot in Winnipeg when it was known that a big black bear, brought in by Mr. Geo. E. Atkinson, of Portage la Prairie, with the car of taxidermist exhibits for the Pan-American exposition, had broken from his cage and was at large in the baggage car. The animal, which is a wild untamed beast, was prevented from making an exit from the car by Mr. Atkinson, who went in to grapple with Mr. Bruin.

The bear made a savage run at the intruder on his meditations over his dead and stuffed comrades of the woods, and grabbed Mr. Atkinson by the arm. For a few seconds the fight was a hard one and Bruin's teeth held firmly. By choking him, however, Mr. Atkinson got the animal quiet and back into his cage, performing what was looked upon as a Sampson like feat of strength.

SHOT OFF HIS LEG.

Minot Optic: Last Saturday Ernest Hard, who lives thirteen miles north of this place, took his family into a wagon and started out for a drive. A double barreled shot gun was also taken along. When the time came for returning home Mr. B. Hard picked up the gun for the purpose of extracting the shells. Just as he "broke" he un his 14 year old son stepped in front just in time to receive a full charge of shot in one of his legs just above the knee. The limb was horribly mangled and Dr. Crokat had to amputate it. The young man is now in the hospital doing as well as could be expected.

PROHIBIT FOOT BALL.

Marinette, Wis., April 13.—The school board Wednesday night decided to prohibit foot ball in the public schools. Resolutions were passed prohibiting the game on any of the school grounds in the city and denying the high school boys the right to use the name of the high school in designating their team.

The action was the result of popular prejudice against the game. The team has been one of the strongest in Wisconsin. Last year it divided honors with South Milwaukee for the state championship, and the year before was beaten by Oshkosh in the game for the championship.

MUST NOT PLAY HOOKEY.

The Bemidji authorities have taken steps to prevent children absenting themselves from school without proper authority, and the following notice is published over the signature of the chief of police:

"All children, between the ages of 7 and 16 years, must be kept off the streets during school hours, unless they have written permission from their parents or guardians to be absent from school."

CATS SPREAD SMALLPOX.

Anna, Ill., April 13.—Local physicians have made the discovery that the serious spread of smallpox in this district is due largely to cats. More than a score of cats have been found suffering with the disease and they have been going from house to house. Nearly every cat in this city has been killed. Schools are closed and church services are suspended.

DOES IT PAY TO BUY CHEAP?

A cheap remedy for coughs and colds is all right, but you want something that will relieve and cure the more severe and dangerous results of throat and lung troubles. What shall you do? Go to a warmer and more regular climate? Yes, if possible; if not possible for you, then in either case take the ONLY remedy that has been introduced in all civilized countries with success in severe throat and lung troubles, "Boschee's German Syrup." It not only heals and stimulates the tissues to destroy the germ disease, but allays inflammation, causes easy expectoration, gives a good night's rest, and cures the patient. Try ONE bottle. Recommended many years by all druggists in the world. Get Green's Prize Almanac. F. H. Hillard & Son.

TOWNSITE DISPUTE

AT CASS LAKE OVER STATUS OF SEC. 16 TO BE SETTLED.

Washington, April 15.—The status of the Cass Lake townsite will undoubtedly be determined before many weeks. Ever since Secretary Hitchcock revoked his famous order, giving the settlers on a portion of the original townsite a certain number of days to pull up stakes, there have been substantial improvements going forward on that portion of the site which is claimed as an Indian allotment by Mrs. Lydeker. The whole question of title will depend on the outcome of the situation now pending in the supreme court of the state of Minnesota against Secretary Hitchcock and Land Commissioner Hermann.

It is said that Hitchcock's famous backdown in revoking his drastic and arbitrary order against the settlers will be urged by the state in its contention for section 16, upon which a portion of the town is located. It is also understood that the very exhaustive and strong argument submitted by Senator Knute Nelson orally before Secretary Hitchcock, Commissioner Herman and Indian Commissioner Jones will be used in the case as showing that the federal government had no right to exercise its authority in evicting citizens. After Hitchcock had ignored the protests of the people, and also the letters of Senators Davis and Nelson, the latter made a special trip to Washington and made a personal fight, assisted by Judge Page Morris, against Hitchcock and his ruling.

WANT DANCING WIVES

RESTRICTIONS OF CHURCH RULES TERRIFY ANXIOUS MAMAS.

New York, April 13.—Restrictions in living in accordance with the laws of the church conflict so seriously with marriageable girls' opportunities to getting husbands that Methodist mothers, it is said, are keeping their daughters out of the church.

The Methodist Episcopal conference in session at the Hanson Place church Brooklyn, agreed in the explanation given by Rev. B. M. Adams, of Bethel, Conn., as a reason for the falling off in church membership. Rev. Mr. Adams declared that mothers were keeping their daughters out of church because the girls could not make good matrimonial alliances if they embraced Methodism.

"The special things which attract men," said Rev. Mr. Adams, are dancing and card playing. Methodist mothers fear that if their daughters don't play euchre and dance they will not get good husbands. Hence girls are kept out of the church until they are married and settled in life.

The conference applauded the speaker.

A BLOODY STORY

N. D. FARMER KILLS TWO OF HIS NEIGHBORS.

Steele, N. D., April 13.—Rev. Mr. Hilstren brings news of a tragedy at Braddock, 26 miles south, on Wednesday morning. A farmer named Revenger shot his neighbor, Nels Olson, in the neck, the bullet emerging at the mouth. The murderer escaped at the time, but was found dead on the prairie with his face shot away. He had fired his shot gun with is toe.

Later it was learned that the would-be murderer met Pete Levine while on his way to kill Nelson and fired at Levine's head. Levine was saved by his leather cuff, the shot striking his wrist.

That Revenger was a deliberate murderer and suicide is shown by a letter written the night before his crimes. He claimed the neighbors had neglected and slighted him for years and he had resolved to kill them. Dr Snyder and a constable brought Revenger's body to Braddock. The murder occurred about six miles from that town. Revenger is thought to be insane from long brooding over fancied grievances. Olson is seriously wounded, but has a fair chance of recovery.

LINCOLN'S REMAINS.

Springfield, Ill., April 13.—The remains of Abraham Lincoln, which have been resting in a temporary vault during the construction of the Lincoln monument, will be removed to the new monument within a few days. The removal will be private, only the trustees of the monument, state officers and representatives of the press being present. It is probable that the casket containing the body of the martyred president will be opened. The exact day fixed for the transfer of the remains has not been made public.

IMMIGRANTS COMING.

New York, April 12.—Four trans-Atlantic steamers that reached this port yesterday brought an aggregate of 4,178 immigrants.

PHILIPINOS PACIFIED.

AMERICANS ARE WELCOMED AT PANAY ISLAND.

Antique Province, Panay Island, P. I., April 15.—When the United States Philippines commission arrived here Saturday the members were welcomed by the inhabitants of this town, who had erected an immense festal arch. Every village of Antique province was represented by delegates. A statute of liberty, erected on the township square, named after Washington, had pictures of Abraham Lincoln, President McKinley and Judge Taft, president of the commission, on its pedestal.

The province has been wholly pacified since the recent surrender of the insurgent leader, Fullon, and the aspiration for a provincial form of government is unanimous.

The commission has mailed to Washington detailed recommendations for the form of general civil government to be established in the archipelago.

The legislative council is expected to consist of four of the present commissioners and three Filipinos, the latter to be appointed by President McKinley.

Lieut. Col. Wm. S. Scott, of the 44th volunteer infantry, commander of the Antique province, has been made its governor, while Lieut. Fred L. Wilson, of the same regiment, has been appointed provincial treasurer.

BABES ABANDONED

ELEVEN FOUND IN A ROOM IN CHICAGO.

Chicago, April 13.—Eleven wailing babies, covered with dirty blankets and surrounded by refuse, were found packed in a mean little room in the frame cottage at 7953 Union avenue by Detective Sergeant Charles Hefter. The infants ranged in age from four weeks to several months, and were in charge of Rosie Teagler, a Bohemian girl, and Mrs. Mary Croquelle. Mrs. Ida Tucker, manager of the "baby farm," it is said, disappeared from the house Monday, leaving he help unpaid and the babies unprovided for.

Every available bit of space in the dingy apartment was utilized for storing away a baby. According to Mrs. Croquelle, the supply of milk for the infants had been cut off several days previously, because the milk man could not collect what was due from Mrs. Tucker. The cellar was half full of stagnant water. There were no records of any kind to reveal the identity of the parents of the children.

STORY SPOILED.

The Minneapolis Times deales the report that the Northern Pacific road will expend over $10,000,000 the coming season, and says in regard to it:

"It seems a pity to spoil a good story, especially one which provides for the expenditure of over $10,000,000 in the northwest, but that which appeared last evening in the local papers purporting to set forth the plans of the Northern Pacific for the coming season was a fanciful creation. The story in question stated that $5,000,000 was to be expended in permanent improvements and over $5,000,000 in new equipment."

WARREN

Mr. and Mrs. Fritz were visiting in Crookston last Friday.

Maud and Nellie Keenen spent Saturday at Stephen.

Miss Cora Peck of Argyle is visiting friends in the city this week.

Miss Olga Bloomsmith returned from Crookston Thursday morning.

Land seekers are still on the war path and seem to be buying all the land that is for sale, and paying almost any price for it. Let the good work go on and may the boom continue for all time to come.

Wm. Cuthil of Argyle came down to Waren on Monday's train, returning Tuesday. He was here to see something about some carpenter work for Contractor Linder on the Swedish church which was commenced last fall.

C. L. Stevens arrived on Monday's train from St. Paul where he has been during the last session of the legislature. We understand that he held quite a responsible clerkship while there. We are all glad to see Charley back with us again.

Jim Williams left Tuesday for Taopi, Minn., where he expects to engage in the hotel and livery busines. He went there two weeks ago and bought property, came and sold his personal effects at public auction last Friday, remaining in town but two or three days to settle up his affairs.

A. P. McIntyre has had his hotel reshingled and other repair work done during the past week, and the building near by is being overhauled and otherwise repaired and being fitted up for saloon purposes, and we are informed that Mr. Nelson of Argyle will put in a stock of all kind of liquors as soon as the building is ready for occupancy.

Monday night put a quietus on seeding for a while by having quite a rain mixed with snow, and Tuesday the ground was frozen and there was quite a little snow in sight, making everything have a wintry appearance.

Daddy Crooker, one of Waren's old timers, has taken a contract to plow and seed Mr. Harris' farm, three miles east of town. .,

B. R. Peck, who has been teaching school about 35 miles east of town, came in last week and is now trying to develop his muscles carrying brick and mortar up a twenty foot ladder, while A. Mc Kisick does the work. Burr says that that is a pretty hard way to serve the Lord, but if he only holds out faithful, he thinks he will be O. K., especially as far as the development of muscle is concerned.

LENGBY

Gust Nelson is building a fine barn.

Seeding is now in full blast in this neighborhood.

Albert Lillo made a trip to Fosston Monday on business.

A J. Olson spent a few hours in Fosston Friday last.

Fishing has been the most interesting thing here this spring.

Theodore Moistad returned on the G. N. flyer from Fosston Sunday.

A very good improvement has been made at this place by building sidewalks.

A. and G. Lillo made a trip to Ebro Saturday to look after their interests at that place.

Peter Vlea, the Ebro land hustler, passed through Lengby Saturday on his way to Fosston.

E. Swift, our section foreman, has recently built a neat house and moved into it with his family.

R. M. Cartwright was the first one to commence seeding in this vicinity. He started Monday the 8th inst.

Mrs. P. A. Sederberg has moved into the section house at Lengby and will board the section crew for some time.

E. D. Aakhus returned from Crookston, where he has been attending school and opened up school in the Lengby school house Monday.

Ole Lindberg, our blacksmith, left a few days ago for Black Duck lake. We think he will get married while away and return with a life partner.

There has been all kinds of fish stories told and all kinds of fish caught. Lots of pickerel have been running in Poplar river, but it has been mostly suckers and bull heads running in Lengby stream. Some have caught fish and others have caught and dived in after bullheads, and one caught fish in his rubber boots.

VOL. XXVI CROOKSTON, MINNESOTA, THURSDAY, APRIL 25, 1901 No. 3

MORE THAN WIND.

The Queen City's New Enterprise Opened for Business Thursday.

WILL EMPLOY LARGE FORCE

A Full Description of the Size and Magnitude of Plant.

Crookston's new enterprise, the Maplebay Wind Stacker company's factory, set its machinery in the wood workers' shop going Thursday noon. Work on the company's extensive new factory was not commenced until some time after the first of February, and considering the amount of work involved in taking up the machinery at their former place of business at Maplebay and removing it to this city and replacing the same in the new building, besides removing a large quantity of lumber to this city, the work has progressed most favorably and was completed in much less time than was anticipated.

To give the thousands of Journal readers a fuller idea of the magnitude of the new enterprise, we will make an effort to give its dimensions. The building itself is a two story frame structure, supported by heavy timbers and beams, 250x50 in size, and is divided into several departments. At the left of the main entrance is located the business office, 20x20 feet, and the balance of the floor space contains the painting and store rooms, 100x50 feet. a lumber shed 20x40 feet, boiler room and dry kiln 20x30 feet, and the machine shop, 50x50 feet in size. The upper story is divided into two parts, both of which are occupied in the construction of the woodwork of the machines. The former space is 50x90 feet in size and the latter is 50x60 feet.

The machinery used in the manufacture of the company's product is all of heavy construction and requires three electric motors to run it. These are of 15, 10 and 3 horse power capacity.

The Maplebay Wind Stacker had an humble birth, but its lungs have been well filled with the breath of life. The last four years it has had a growing demand, and its orders last year were far beyond the company's expectations or capacity to fill, and now, where known, it is used by the best threshermen. The future will see it working its way wherever threshing is done, telling its own story—for it is its own salesman.

The company is officered as follows:

President—S. D. Feising.
Vice President—H. Steenerson.
Secretary—C. W. Russell.
Treasurer—Wm. Klinger.

Under its progressive management and the capacity of its new plant, the Maplebay Wind Stacker company cannot fail to flourish. The new enterprise which, when running at its full capacity, will employ from 50 to 60 hands. will add materially to the future growth and wealth of the Queen City and should receive the encouragement and support of every business man and citizen.

FROM LUZON.

J. C. HATHAWAY HAS RETURNED FROM THE PHILIPPINES.

After an absence of nearly two years and an interesting, if not always an agreeable xperience of army life, J. C. Hathaway is again at home, and seems to appreciate the privilege of being among his friends once more. He was a member of Company G, 34th U. S. volunteers, and left this city Aug. 2, 1899, with the company in charge of Lieut. Decker. They embarked at San Francisco Sept. 8, and reached Manila bay Nov. 13, after a voyage of 34 days. On disembarking at Manila they went to Paso, four miles south from that city, and after a few days' rest made a 500 mile march to Laoag, which is situated at the north end of the Isle of Luzon. Here and in this vicinity they remained until ordered back to the states. The company left San Francisco with 106 men, and returned with 64. Three of the company's men had been killed in battle, eight died from sickness, and others had been sent home sick, while a few preferred to remain in Manila for the present. Johnnie officiated as company cook during most of the time be was absent. He says be had an experience which he prizes very highly, but "would not go through it again for a cent." He is rather reticent about the rations with which they were supplied, but says whatever there was to complain of in that line was the fault of the avaricious contractors, and not the government. He speaks in the highest terms of Lieut. Decker, and says he was very popular with both men and officers. The lieutenant is expected home in a day or two. Mr. Hathaway is not certain yet what he will do, but will probably remain at home for a while, if not permanently.

TO REVISE STATUTES.

WORK TO BE COMPLETED BY DEC. 1, 1902.

The justices of the supreme court have appointed the following commission to codify and revise the statutes of the state:

Hiram F. Stevens of St. Paul, chairman.
Daniel Fish of Minneapolis.
T. J. Knox of Jackson.

All three are able attorneys and men in every way fitted for the work they have been selected to do. Mr. Stevens is in politics a republican. He is a state senator and as a member of the legislature was largely instrumental in securing the passage of the law creating the commission.

Judge Fish was for five years probate judge in Wright county. Since 1880 he has practiced law in Minneapolis. In politics he is a republican.

Mr. Knox is a democrat and until Jan. 1 was a member of the railroad commission. He studied law in the office of Chief Justice C. M. Start and, since 1872, has practiced at Jackson.

The cost of the revision is limited to $35,000 for salaries, clerical assistance and printing, under the control of the supreme court. Out of that sum must be printed 500 copies of the revised statutes.

The editorial matter must be completed by September 1, 1902, approved by the supreme court and in the hands of the secretary of state Dec. 1, 1902.

A SAD CASE.

THREE YEAR OLD CHILD PERISHES IN CHILLY RAIN.

Wadena, April 18.—The 3-year-old child of James Anderson, of Compton, strayed from its home at an early hour Monday morning. Diligent search was made all day and night by the family and neighbors, and yesterday morning word was brought to town and a large number of citizens went out to assist in the search. About noon the child was found by Frank Coon three miles from its home, toward Bluffton, life being extinct. A peddler on his way to New York Mills overtook the child and a telephone message from him described it and assisted somewhat in the location of its whereabouts, but the child had crawled through a fence and started toward the river and this put the searchers off the track. A drizzling rain fell all night, turning to snow. Being thinly clad the child died of exposure. The case is a very sad one, and had it been reported here in time, in all probability the child's life would have been saved.

HILL'S $4,000,000.

HE DISPOSES OF HIS B. & O. AND ERIE STOCK.

St. Paul, April 18.—It was reported in what are usually well informed railroad circles yesterday that James J. Hill, of the Great Northern, has disposed of his Baltimore & Ohio and Erie stocks, and that the operation has netted him four million dollars. The stocks, it is said, were bought by Mr. Hill simply as a speculation, and it was never contemplated to make either of the roads a factor in a transcontinental system, as has been repeatedly reported.

The fact that Mr. Hill had purchased stocks of these roads had the effect of greatly enhancing the value of the shares. Wall street at once jumped to the conclusion that gigantic combinations were being formed, of which one or the other of these roads was to be a component part. It is pointed out that Mr. Hill has always persistently denied these rumors, and has stated that his purchases of the stocks was simply for investments. The investment now having shown what he considered a sufficient margin of profit, be has disposed of the entire holdings.

FARGO ENTHUSING.

Fargo, N. D., April 22.—The work of the committee on the Fargo fire festival is progressing favorably. The consolidated band feature is meeting with great favor. The reunion of the Philippine veterans is a popular idea. That will draw all the soldier boys here and there will be a regular encampment. The committee on decorations is planning a court of honor. The carnival for the last night, with the Mardi gras features, will be enlarged and special attractions will be planned. All the participants will be en masque and will dance to music furnished by the consolidated band. A search light will be used to light the streets for the occasion. The committee reports more enthusiasm on the part of the citizens this year than ever before.

Uncle Jo's Column

Mr. Hoverstad tells me that we can have all the institutes here this summer that we want. I was delighted to hear him say so. Them institutes such as Professor Gregg and Mr. Hoverstad and the rest of them men hold, are worth lots of money to the farmers, and to the country. The better posted, the farmers are, and the better they understand how to manage their farms, the better it is for all of us. The better a man understands the business he's engaged in, whether its farmin' or keepin' store or whatever it is, the better he will like it.

o$o

The man that don't understand the business he's in very well, will think its all drudgery, whether its farmin' or doctorin' folks or sellin' goods or keepin' books. But the man that understands his business and is handlin' it in good shape will be just as happy farmin' as at anything else. And I don't know why he shouldn't be. Its the most independent life there is. And when a man gits things straightened out right, he can just live on the top shelf and have the best fodder there is goin'.

o$o

I see they are goin' to put up a new agricultural buildin' on the state fair grounds, and goin' to lay some water mains and have things fixed up in great shape there. Well, I'm glad of it. They needed these things there to provide ofr the fair respectably, and the legislature did a good thing when they gave them money for it. Of course it would have been better if they could have had more money and built a good brick building while they was at it. The state fair is an important thing for the state I believe. It is a great advertisement for us, and the better we can make it, the more it advertises us. I have found out there is nothing like advertisin'.

o$o

I hope these northern counties will look out and improve their opportunities to advertise what we can do up here at the fair this fall. Year before last old Polk did herself proud down there, but last year it seemed as though she kind of over-exerted herself the year before and had to lay over a year to rest up. But now she's taken a good rest, she ought to be right in it with the best of 'em this year again. Of course last year was an unusually hard one on account of the extremes we had here, but if we could only have managed to make an exhibit there which would have included the handicaps we had, as well as the results, we'd have astonished them fellows down there in the south part of the state and fairly took their breath away.

o$o

Our folks that was down ther last year (I didn't go down the last time, my rheumatiz or something else wouldn't let me) was tellin' me how much inquiry was raised by the display that man Crocker had there from Beltrami county. Folks that hadn't never been up here was askin' all about things up here, and it showed it was a good advertisement all right. I've just been thinkin', though, we're gettin' to be almost like the store keeper that advertised, and in a little while he had so many customers he couldn't wait on 'em, and hired all the clerks he could get, and then he had to send round to the newspaper office and tell 'em to take that ad. out. We're gettin' so many land customers here now it keeps these land agents hustlin' to take care of 'em, and I don't know what we'll do if they come much faster.

o$o

There's a good many ways of advertisin' too. Some of 'em wont amount to much of course. Printers ink is one good thing to advertise with, but that is just like everything else, you want to use a little horse sense along with the ink, and mix 'em up in about the right proportions. And that makes me think about something that happened the other day. When the Journal boy brought my paper round, I was readin' about a man that wanted to rent a house. And a few minutes after I heard a man tell one of the Journal men he saw the advertisement and he had got a house for the man. I aint heard whether he rented it to him or not, but anyway it brought the two men together pretty quick, and that's what advertisin' is for usually.

o$o

My! but aint meat gettin' awful high? Why the butchers tell me they're payin' seven cents a pound for front and hind quarters of beef right through, and the same price for mutton, and ten and a half cents for pork. And here our farmers are with almost nothin' in these lines to sell. I tell you, Mr. Journal editor, you want to preach diversified farmin' to these folks just as hard as you can. Here the farmers are payin' sixty cents a bushel for potatoes too. I'm pretty sure that these Iowa fellows that are comin' in here so thick won't be caught buyin' meat and potatoes and lard and butter very long.

o$o

It's a kind of funny, and yet it's a kind of a sad sight to see how bad Mc Kenzie takes it over loosin' his hypnotic grip on so many of the people round here. Since he took his "Dorsal" down there to East Grand Forks to scoop in a second slice of that county printin', and Burt Seymour headed him off on that game, he's been real lonesome like. You see when his "Dorsal" got beat out of that county printin', he thought he'd turn its valuable services over to his other paper, that one over there in Grand Forks. And now he aint got anybody to fight sham battles with the way he used to do with his "Dorsal." You see he'd have the fellow that was runnin' it make a poke at him once in a while just for appearances sake, and then be'd turn round and pretend to give him a good spankin'.

o$o

That arrangement served a double purpose you see. It gave Mac a cat's paw to pull republican chesnuts out of the fire with, and it gave the Mc Kenzie republicans (so called) a sort of a cover to work under and shove the ducats into Mac's pocket. And with all them strings to pull on he'd got a sort of hypnotic grip on this community and most of 'em are gittin' woke up now and they have scampered off to their seats like Bil Weaver did last year that time that hypnotist had him up there on the stage dancin', and all at once he got woke up.

o$o

I was readin' in the Journal about that Maplebay Wind Stacker them folks are building here in town, and I was lookin' over their nice catalogue they've got out, and it made me think how many days I've been tortured in the dirt in a straw pile when I was a boy, and how different this fixes things. It makes my eyes ache now when I think about how bad they used to get in that dirt. And now this stacker just stacks that straw right up nice without anybody on the pile. They'll sell lots of 'am this year, I know. I never saw one of 'em run, but I know they're all right anyway, cause everybody that has used 'em says they are the clear thing. And that Mr. Russell that manages the business, he's all right, and is a "russeller" for a fact. I'm awful glad that factory has started here in Crookston. When such a machine as that is in the hands of such men it's bound to succeed.

UNCLE JOE.

CROP PROSPECTS.

RAIN IN SOME PARTS HAS DELAYED SEEDING.

The VanDusen-Harrington company of Minneapolis has issued its first crop report of the season, which is compiled from reports received by elevator companies whose interests cover Minnesota, the Dakotas and northern Iowa. The report follows:

Northern Iowa and southern Minnesota—Seventy-five per cent of the wheat acreage bas been sown. The seed was well selected and the ground in good condition when seeded. Rains and snow flurries during the past week have interferred with seeding. There will be an increase in wheat acreage in this district, estimated from 5 to 10 per cent, and there is estimated for corn and flax an increase of about 10 per cent each. Without further storms the seeding through the district will be finished by the 27th inst.

Central Minnesota and northern half of South Dakota—About half of wheat acreage sown. The seed was well selected and the ground in good condition. Seeding has been at a standstill, however, for four or five days, due to the cold, wet weather, and the conditions now are quite favorable to resumption of work. Three or four days of warm weather without rain or snow is required.

Northern Minnesota and North Dakota—The wheat acreage seeded here is estimated from 10 to 25 per cent of the ground to be sown. The seed, while well selected and generally tested, will not be equal to that usually sown in this district. The ground is wet and cold and seeding will not go forward until we have several warm, dry days.

LIVE NEW TOWN.

BLACKDUCK NOW HAS FORTY BUSINESS HOUSES.

The Blackduck Times in its last issue enumerates forty business houses which have been erected on that new townsite within a space of five months time. And they are still coming, the next establishment to be added being a bank with a $25,900 paid up capital. The officers of the new institution are:

President—P. A. Albert of Melrose, Minn.
Vice President—A. J. Gilkinson of Osakis, Minn.
Cashier—Carl E. Oberg, formerly cashier of the Osakis State Bank.

There is certainly nothing very slow about the Blackduck town.

John Albert Skoog, alias Albert Jensen, the alleged counterfeiter who shot himself twice in the head April 9, died in New York Wednesday.

AN AWFUL TRAGEDY

A North Dakota Woman and Two Babes Burned to Death.

LOST LIFE FOR HER CHILDREN

While Endeavoring to Save Them From a Terrible Death.

Word of a terrible tragedy which occurred in Steele county, just across the river from Galesburg, Traill county, N. D., reached this city last Saturday evening by passengers from that part of the state, says the Plaindealer. The particulars which have been received are somewhat meagre, but the use of the Northwestern Telephone company's long distance was the means of bringing more of the facts to light.

It uppears that there resided about two miles from Galesburg a widow woman named Kjeron with two small children. Friday afternoon the children were seen by several of the neighbors and that evening everything appeared to be all right at the farm house. Saturday morning the nearest neighbor, who lived over a quarter of a mile distant, on going out in the morning saw that the building had burned to the ground during the night. He ran with all speed to the scene of the fire and just before he reached the place the last wall of the frame building fell in. On looking around he saw the body of one of the children lying dead near the cellar, and literally being roasted by the heat from the burning mass in the cellar.

He succeeded in rescuing the body before it had fallen into the flames, but not without being himself severely burned, so intense was the heat. The alarm was immediately given and a search instituted for the missing mother and other child. It was at first hoped that she had been visiting at some of the neighbors, but careful inquiry was made within a radius of several miles, but no trace of the missing woman and child were found. Everything went to prove that the mother and two children had perished in the fire which destroyed their home.

How or when the fire started is not known. It is surmised, however, that Kjeron arose at an early hour, as was her custom, and started a fire for the morning meal, when in some manner the building caught fire, and endeavoring to save her children, she herself perished.

One thing which lends color to this theory is the fact that a pet dog, which was the playmate of the children, and which always slept in the house, was found roaming around the burning building.

The coroner of Steele county was notified of the tragedy and was expected to reach the scene late Saturday afternoon.

TANK COLLAPSED.

HILLSBORO IS NOW WITHOUT WATER AND LIGHT.

Hillsboro, N. D., April 23.—A shock as of an earthquake startled the residents of our city at about midnight Sunday night. It was caused by the force of 2,500 barrels of water falling one hundred feet. The water works tower had collapsed. The force of the flood wrecked three barns near the base of the tower and tore out a large part of one corner of the brick power house. Large timbers were splintered and huge steel girders were twisted and broken. Not a valuable piece of steel or timber was left. The loss, which will reach several thousand dollars, falls on the contractor, as this tank was not accepted by the city authorities with the rest of the water works and electric light plant, as it leaked and was not wholly satisfactory at that time. The collapse was due to insecure foundation and weakness of material. The city will be without electric lights and water for some time to come.

HIS FAITH ENCOURAGED.

In the last issue of the Cass Lake Times Judge Ives makes the following suggestions, which remind us of the many able articles which have fallen from the Judge's pen, and appeared in our local papers during past years, along the same line:

"There's method in the mad scramble for land in the Red River valley; the intelligent farmer has come and the vacant acres that could hardly be given away a few years ago are now eagerly sought after at a price, which in 1893 we would have considered exorbitant. During all the years of shrinking values, all the disasters of flood and drought, we never lost faith in the black dirt which is spread thickly over the greatest and most fertile savanna of America, if not of the earth. Since 1878, when we first saw this unparalleled region, there have been but few attempts throughout the whole region in intelligent agriculture, and while the process of "skimming" went on, there still lay hidden under the moiety of cream taken, a richer and more enduring supply of wealth in plant food, which only needed to be demanded to be forthcoming. The skimming, or robbing processes which have characterized farming operations in the past are at an end. Those who have followed that disastrous policy will in the future be shamed and ridiculed into the proper method by the new elements which will pervade almost every town, and perhaps every neighborhood. We are pleased to see the change, but its coming has been slow and tiresome. Now for under drainage, and the Red River valley will furnish all the evidence needed to prove itself entitled to be called the 'Garden of the World.'"

MEMORIAL DAY

WILL BE OBSERVED IN CROOKSTON.

Pursuant to the suggestions of the Journal and interested citizens a meeting was held yesterday at the office of the mayor, at which time a committee was appointed to meet and confer with the other committee appointed by the G. A. R. and W. R. C., which committees are urgently requested to meet at the G. A. R. hall in this city on Monday, April 29th, at 7:30 p. m., for the purpose of perfecting arrangements and taking all steps necessary to insure the proper observance of Decoration day in our city.

The following named committee was appointed:

Press—N. S. Gordon, Fred Durand, C. C. Knappen.

Schools—Supt. Thos. Casey, Prof. Hitchcock and J. C. Sathre.

Representing the Business Men—J. E. O'Brien, Chas. Hitchcock, E. R. Ryan, L. Ellington, J. H. Ruettell.

Ladies, Mrs. Dr. Denniston, Mrs. M. B. Hayes, Mrs. S. W. Vance, Mrs. Bunnell, Mrs. Winney and Miss Ermine Fontaine.

Sons of Veterans—A. R. Holston and Frederick Mix.

Spanish-American War — Fredolph Westerberg, George Martin and Gale Dunlava.

The above named committee has been selected with the expectation that they will do everything in their power to make the observance of the day a success in every respect, and all members of the committee are requested to meet promptly at the appointed time and place, for the purpose of taking such action as they may find necessary and proper in carrying out the object for which they were appointed.

CASS LAKE SCHOOLS.

THE VILLAGE AT LAST IS AN INDEPENDENT DISTRICT.

Cass Lake, Minn., April 24.—The village of Cass Lake is at last an independent school district. During the past two years this community had a varied experience as regards school matters. Prior to the establishment of the present village, the "squatters," as they are sometimes called, on section 16, were given a school for a brief period by the school board. When the order came from the interior department for the settlers to remove from the land on which they had located, the school board discontinued the school and removed the books and furniture to Pine river. When the order was annulled an attempt was made again to secure schools for the embryo city. After considerable persuasion two departments were established here and school commenced in the fall of 1900. Owing to the rapid settlement of the village it was found necessary to secure an additional room and install another teacher. The school was maintained till December, when the school board attempted to remove one of the teachers and precipitated a school fight. Then it was learned that no part of Cass Lake was in the limits of the county school district, and the board refused to further maintain schools here. The residents of the village proper petitioned the board of county commissioners and the prayer was duly granted to create an independent school district. Subsequent action will at once be taken and work will be commenced on a new school house, which will be completed and ready for occupancy for the opening of the fall term.

Niles, Mich., April 23.—The appearance of counterfeit $5 gold pieces in great numbers in this part of the state has resulted in so much loss and annoyance to business men that most of them fear to accept any of the yellow metal. The coins are an excellent imitation.

BIG LAND DEALS.

C. E. Stevens Makes Good Record Handling Red River Valley Lands.

HE HAS SOLD 48,000 ACRES

Iowa Parties Liberal Purchasers. Many Are Actual Settlers.

It is now about fifteen months since Mr. C. E. Stevens of Britt, Ia., came to this city and commenced operating in Red River Valley lands.

During the fifteen months that Mr. Stevens and his partner, Mr. Way, have handled land in the valley, they have bought and sold land to the amount of 48,000 acres which has been sold largely to Iowa people. About 7,000 acres have been sold to Des Moines parties. Something over 10,000 acres to Spirit Lake people, several thousand acres to Newton and Renwick bankers. The remainder has been sold largely to actual settlers, many of whom, are moving on to the land and preparing to improve it. During the last wek, Mr. Stevens had his banner week. He closed up with St. Paul parties for 19 sections of land previously purchased and sold 6,500 acres besides, Hancock county, Iowa, people being his best customers last week. John Fillenworth, of that county, purchased 800 acres, Lewis and Ed Larson 600 acres, Ira Peck a half section and Anthony Baker 160 acres. Other Hancock county parties already interested in Polk county lands are: F. B. Rodgers & Son, who are intending to break up two sections of land which they wil put into flax, W. C. Rose of Kanawha, John Fenwick and many others. John Fillenworth and Larson & Son, also of Iowa, let a contract while here in the city to have 1400 acres broken up seeded to flax, harvested and delivered to the station. This contract involves the expenditure of about $11,000. The party that puts in the Fillenworth-Larson tract has another large contract of the same kind. The entire contract will make it necessary for him to use one hundred four-horse breaking teams at one time. All this to be followed by seeding, harvesting and threshing will make it decidedly lively in the vicinity.

Mr. Stevens has just now returned from a few day's visit to his former home, and the following mention of him in the Britt News is evidence that he was not napping all the time during his home visit.

"While mentioning the general prosperity of the Red River valley. Mr. Stevens does not forget to say a good word for his home town, Crookston, which he claims to be the best town west of Duluth and north of Minneapolis.

Ed has an easy sort of a way of handling figures in land and dollars that makes it plain that the old way of doing a real estate busines in Hancock county is not to be mentioned or thought of in connection with the way business is being done in the great northwest. His many friends in Hancock county will be glad indeed, to know that he has not only laid up many sheckles for a rainy day, but he is building up a reputation among the busines men of Iowa and Minnesota as a man of good ability, a hard worker, a good judge of property with capacity to handle a large business and do it successfully.

NOT DIMINISHING.

SMALLPOX STILL RAGES IN THE STATE.

Dr. Bracken, of Minneapolis, secretary of the state board of health, returned Thursday night from Warren, where he was called to investigate the smallpox situation which prevails in Marshall county.

In an interview with a Journal reporter, Dr. Bracken stated he, in company with Dr. Bratrud, drove out into the country about ten miles from Warren, where they found several well developed cases of a mild form, all of which are under proper quarantine, and the disease is practically under control. The physicians consulted with the chairmen of several towns, and directed them to use their influence and authority to enforce every available means to prevent the spreading of the pest.

In speaking of the smallpox situation in this city, Dr. Bracken said that the local board of health had exercised the best of care in preventing the advance of the evil, and that every case so far had received proper treatment and was properly quarantined. With the precaution exercised here, there is little danger of an epidemic, and the same condition of affairs exists in many other places in the state.

The health officer also had reports of cases from points along the Duluth line between here and Bemidji, as well as Stephen and Thief River Falls, and the plague is not yet diminishing, a circumstance which he attributed largely to the changeable weather. As soon as a warmer temperature sets in he thinks the disease will soon disappear entirely.

Although the cases reported are all of the mildest type, Dr. Bracken recommends that stringent quarantine be applied wherever the disease makes its appearance.

COMMENDS OUR BOYS.

THE STATE FIREMEN'S CONVENTION NEXT JUNE.

The wide-awake Fertile Journal hands the city of Crookston and its efficient fire department the following bunch of forget-me-nots in its last issue:

The city of Crookston has been widely noted for its hospitality and the generous manner in which she entertains the visitors when within her gates. Next June the State Firemen's association of Minnesota will hold its annual convention in this city. It is expected that a large number of firemen from all parts of the state will embrace the opportunity offered by the cheap rates to visit the Queen City. Chief Tom Morris and Secretary Thos. Johnstone have had many letters from firemen in the southern and central portions of the state and their prediction is that the capacity of the city will be tested to its utmost to entertain the visiting firemen and their friends. Large sums of money have been raised by various means and ample amusement will be provided. At the last meeting of the local department the report of the secretary showed that everything is in fine shape for the convention. There was a glowing enthusiasm manifest, and every energy will be exerted to give the fire laddies from abroad the best time they ever had. At this meeting it was decided to give $300 in prizes for races open to visiting departments. This is not a part of the program of the convention, but is given as an entertainment, to take place between the sessions and deliberations of the convention. This is a new departure, but it will meet with the approval of those who come here to be entertained and spend an enjoyable outing. The Crookston boys have organized a running team and will be out practicing as soon as the streets are dry. The new and up to date hook and ladder truck is the pride of the city and a credit to any department. Visitors are seen in the city hall every day examining it.

NEW BUSINESS HOUSE.

CROOKSTON SOON TO HAVE ANOTHER DRY GOODS STORE.

The rapid increase in population, coupled with the bright prospects for a prosperous year, has had a telling influence upon the city's growth in the commercial line. At this time there is hardly a building in Crookston that is fit for business purposes which is not occupied, and inquiries are received here daily from outside parties for store room. The demand for dwellings is equally good, and if present indications are not deceptive, the Queen City will make an enviable record for itself during the present year.

The latest addition to Crookston's business is a new up to date dry goods house, which is soon to be opened by A. Holmboe, until recently a member of the firm of Holmboe & Rood, who left Thursday for eastern markets to purchase the finest and best stock for his new establishment that money can buy. He expects to be away about two weeks, and during that time will make the selections needed to open a metropolitan dry goods house.

Mr. Holmboe will occupy the building in the McKinnon block formerly occupied by W. E. Slocum, 117 Robert street, and expects to have his opening about May 10.

BISAZZA IS LUCKY.

WILL NOT BE FORCED TO DELIVER GOODS.

Hon. Halvor Steenerson of this city, who was the principal attorney in the defense of Spiro Bisazza during his recent trial, Friday received the following pleasant piece of news from Judge Amidon of Fargo, who fixed the sentence for the bankrupt merchant and was expected to further subject him to imprisonment for contempt of court. The letter is self explaining and reads:

Fargo, April 18, 1901.

Hon. H. Steenerson, Crookston, Minn.

Dear Sir:—Upon further consideration I have decided not to make an order affirming the decision of the referee, directing Spiro Bisazza to turn over $10,000 to his assignees in bankruptcy, and have directed the clerk of the United States district court accordingly.

Yours truly,
—Amidon.
Judge U. S. District Court.

HE KEPT HIS LEG.

Twelve years ago J. W. Sullivan, of Hartford, Conn., scratched his leg with a rusty wire. Inflammation and blood poisoning set in. For two years he suffered intensely. Then the best doctors urged amputation, "but," he writes, "I used one botle of Electric Bitters and 1½ boxes of Bucklen's Arnica Salve and my leg was sound and well as ever." For Eruptions, Eczema, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Sores and all blood disorders Electric Bitters has no rival on earth. Try them. A. G. Anderson will guarantee satisfaction or refund money. Only 50 cents.

RAPP DID IT.

KILLS POUND NET BILL WHILE SICK IN BED.

When the house bill to allow fishing with pound nets in Red Lake came up quite a protest went up from the surrounding country and many telegrams were sent in to have the bill killed, says the St. Hilaire Spectator. Although Representative Rapp was confined to his bed he succeeded in securing enough members to kill the bill, to the satisfaction of his constituents in this district, as shown by the following letter:

"St. Paul, April 15, 1901.—H. E. Ives, St. Hilaire, Minn.: Dear Sir—Yours of the 9th to hand and contents noted. I presume your letter really does not require an answer since the bill has been killed, but it took some pretty hard work to do it.

"Mr. Rapp, your representative, had the misfortune to be laid up, but to his credit be it said, he sent for the members to call and see him and requested them to kill the bill, allowing netting in Red Lake, which, as you already know, was done. Very truly,

"—S. F. Fullerton,
"Executive Agent."

WANTS TO INCORPORATE.

Ada Index: Hendrum people are figuring on incorporating their town and Attorney Sharpe is busy drawing up the necessary papers. Hendrum tried to incorporate a short time ago but slipped up on the question when it came to a vote. It is now claimed that sentiment has changed a good deal and a vote on the question at this time would be favorable. Through incorporation Gary has made arrangements for fire protection and at the same time reduced the fire insurance rates in their town between $200 and $300 per year. Hendrum can beat this by incorporating and is too good a town to lose the advantages to be gained by having a good set of officers and the chance to make and supervise its own improvemnts.

AMUSEMENTS.

A cardinal point in the coming farewell production of Lewis Morrison's "Faust" s its magnificent scenic completeness. Never in the history of this famous play has it been presented here in as perfectly uniform a manner as now. From the time the curtain rises upon the dark sepulchral cell of Dr. Faustus until it falls upon the beautiful tableaux of the Apotheosis, it is a series of elaborate spectacular transformations, ranging from ecclesiastical solemnity to diabolical weirdness. Special attention has been given to the electrical and mechanical features. In the garden scene an electrical display of dazzling splendor is introduced, pronounced to be the most novel ever presented on the stage. Again in the Brocken scene all the skill and ingenuity of the stage mechanic's art is brought into requisition in addition to many new and startling electrical effects. As a positive guarantee that these effects will be presented as advertised, two complete sets of batteries are carried by the company, so that in the event of an accident occurring, no disappointment will be experienced in witnessing this, the greatest spectacular production of "Faust" ever presented. The company is of exceptional merit and the musical features are especially meritorious.

MODJESKA.

The selection of "Mary Stuart" for the appearance of Madame Modjeska on Friday evening, April 26, seems to be very heartily endorsed by local theatre goers. There are several reasons why Modjeska has succeeded, not only in receiving great distinction in the title part of this play, but also in preserving its popularity with the public. The character is one that appeals to the womanly, sympathetic nature of the actress, and it affords her large opportunities for display of her personal grace and innate dignity. Historically, there are few characters that are so appealing as that of Mary Queen of Scots. Students love to linger over the devotion of the throneless queen to her people and her religion, and to sorrow over the martyrdom she suffers at the hands of Elizabeth. The great German dramatist has been faithful to history and true to dramatic proportions at the same time, in writing this play. The whole theme and all its incidents are cast in the spirit of courtly grace and formal restraint, and yet within these bounds there remains room for swelling emotions and strong passions. It is a powerful combination of pictorial beauty and moving incident. The tableaux are exceedingly effective. It is said that Modjeska plays "Mary Stuart" this season with greater fervor and art than ever. She has invariably attracted large audiences wherever she has given this play. Those who have seen her in the part are even more desirous for another opportunity to witness this matchless performance than are those to whom her "Mary Stuart" is unfamiliar, to see her for the first time in the role.

ABOUT PAVING

For the past fifteen years, Crookston has been on the verge of putting down pavements. At a recent meeting of the council, they rubbed out all previous propositions and have concluded to begin anew. It may be that they have become so accustomed to throwing mud that they want it where they can put their hands on it instantly—and they have it in vast quantities and of the most approved texture.

The above from the Bemidji Pioneer. Don't you think for a moment that our worthy city dads would soil their hands with the mud of our streets. H'm—you bet, they won't. But, don't you ever show your head on our streets before they are paved!

The Law

Of health has no uniformed guardians of its peace. If it had there would be arrests innumerable in every restaurant every day of the year. Both in the quantity and quality of the food they eat and in the manner of its consumption men and women sin each day against the laws of health. Those who will not heed Nature's warnings cannot escape her punishments, and dyspepsia or stomach "trouble" is the invariable penalty of careless eating.

There is no other medicine for diseases of the stomach and allied organs of digestion and nutrition which can compare with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures these diseases perfectly and permanently, and enables the building up of the whole body into vigorous health.

"I took two bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for stomach trouble," writes Clarence Carnes, Esq., of Taylorstown, Loudoun Co. Va. "It did me so much good that I didn't take any more. I can eat most anything now. I am so well pleased with it I hardly know how to thank you for your kind information. I tried a whole lot of things before I wrote to you. There was a gentleman told me about your medicine, how it had cured his wife. I thought I would try a bottle of it. I am glad I did, for I don't know what I would have done if it had not been for Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery."

R & G CORSETS
NEVER STRETCH

The moderately straight R & G No. 397 was and is the corset of comfort with the essence of style. It is straight enough for the prevailing vogue and curved enough to conform to healthful anatomical lines. In 1900 we were unable to fully meet the demand for straight-front goods and unwilling to resort to any makeshift to meet the conditions. At present, however, considerable additions to our factory facilities enable us to keep the trade supplied with real straight-front corsets at retail prices from $1.00 to $2.50, and also our 397, 197, Empire and other popular numbers. There are over seventy styles and sizes of R & G Corsets—a corset to fit every figure. R & G Corsets are the corsets that do not stretch. Every hairbreadth of stretch is taken out of the goods by means of steam-heated iron forms. This gives a permanency to the right shape and form that will stay in it until the last day you wear it. Every R & G Corset is sold with the understanding that it must give satisfaction to the wearer, or the dealer will supply a new one free of cost. If your dealer hasn't it, send us his name and we will see that you are supplied with what you want.

A PECULIAR CASE.

Homesteader in Polk County is Commissioner in Red Lake.

AN UNUSUAL CIRCUMSTANCE

The Appointment of Commissioner Was Made by the Governor.

A rather unusual case of land contest came up in the U. S. land office here Saturday. The story of the matter in question runs about as follows:

It appears that in 1897 Mr. W. C. L. Deman made entry for certain lands in the extreme eastern portion of Polk county as it now exists. When Red Lake county was established and set off from Polk, the governor appointed as one of the commissioners for the newly organized county, W. C. L. Deman. It was not known that Mr. Deman was an entryman in Polk, nor a resident of this county, but such was the fact. Mr. Deman qualified and served as county commissioner and at the last election over his protests he was again nominated and elected as commissioner of Red Lake county. Mr. Deman did not even attend the polls to vote. He again qualified and has since acted as one of the commissioners. Mr. Deman and his family have resided upon the lands covered by their homestead entry in this county and in all respects fulfilled the requirements of the law, hence when it was learned that a contest for abandonment would not lie against the entryman, and the case was abandoned by the plaintiff and the contest was dismissed. Mr. Deman has one of the best improved farms in the reservation in eastern Polk county, and will make proof of his claim in the near future. The question is, what have the people of Red Lake county to say about its Polk county commissioner?

We always knew that Red Lake county could not get along without the backing of Polk, and this incident bears us out in the belief.

We know of no like circumstance in the history of the country.

Nat Campbell represented Mr. Deman in the premises.

BEATS THE RECORD.

MR. HILL'S SPECIAL MAKES 1,823 MILES IN 46 HOURS.

President Hill and party arrived in St. Paul Saturday at 12:40 o'clock p. m., after a record breaking run from Seattle.

The distance of 1,823 miles was made, in the fastest time ever made, in 45 hours and 50 minutes, which is the best record in the world for that distance.

This run, including stops and necessary delays, makes a speed of 37 7-9 miles per hour for the whole distance.

By bursts of speed the train also made a record, covering a large run in Montana at the rate of 84 miles per hour. The round trip from St. Paul to Seattle was made in five days. The party consisted of A. N. French, New York; James Tuck, of Paris; James J. Hill and Gairus Mailler.

President Hill refused to be interviewed by reporters, but it is understood that he will speed at once to New York, where there are some important matters to be taken up which was the cause of the great speed with which the train was sent over the rails.

BIG PRIZES.

BEMIDJI FIRE DEPARTMENT OFFERS SOME

The Beltrami County News says that the firemen's tournament there in June promises to be one of the greatest entertaining events ever held in northern Minesota. The financial committee took up its work promptly after its appointment, and they have had splendid success in the matter of raising adequate funds. The program so far detailed provides for the awarding of prizes in excess of $2,200, and it is expected to add other features that will bring th eaggregate up to $2,500. For firemen's events alone cash prizes to the amount of $1,500 will be given, which will undoubtedly attract departments from all parts of the state. In addition to the strictly firemen's program, there will be a trap-shooting tournament, band contest, aquatic sports, free-for-all foot races, and athletic sports of varied character. There will be at least three special excursions from different directions, at greatly reduced rates, and the tickets will be good to return on regolar trains for a week.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

We've been having such a spell of weather lately that there hasn't seemed to be any news in circulation. Some of us have ben busy sifting cinders trying to get enough coal to keep the firė going. Others have put in their time with needle and thread attempting to keep the winter flannels in a hold-together condition until the weather clerk decides that Crookston might reasonably expect a thaw. I confess I've been a little homesick and inclined to think Northern Minnesota a poor section for climate. But then when I read of heavy snowe in the East and heavy wind storms in other sections, I feel more contented to remain where I am and make the best of cold winds, frost, house cleaning, and even cold victuals. Don't it seem strange that some women have an idea that house cleaning must be done just on calendar time, regardless of atmospheric conditions, family comfort or personal ease. They are not even considerate of "star boarders." The other day after I returned after a hard search for ideas for this column, I found my sanctum invaded by a much paste bestuck man, who coolly informed me that he was going to paper the room, and I would please vacate at once.

I gathered up my scattered papers and tried to look meek and amiable repairing to the dining rom, expecting a good diner awaiting my coming. But alas,my blasted hopes, for this is what I found: A cloth was spread over one corner of the table and a few remnants of yesterday's dinner met my gaze. They had been warmed over once, but that was some few minutes ago. I tried to eat, but gave it up shortly, and repaired to the sitting room. But alas, the curtains were gone, the stove removed, and the bare floor resounded to the tread of my weary feet, while a general air of discomfort pervaded the whole house,and all of this upheaval had occurred in the brief time of one forenoon. Oh,if women wouldn't tear up the whole house in a day. If they would leave but a single room where the family brood might gather unmolested during this awful process of revolution. Is it the love of display that turns the front yard into a department store so easily? It is quite astonishing to note the array of carpets, curtains, furniture, and bric-a-brac turned out for public inspection and comment. Some people would be deprived of seeing the at all if not now and perhaps its not right to reserve all this beauty and elegance for the people who frequent our homes, and that is why some of these housekeepers arrange these displays with so much care, just to please the crowd of passers by. I am sure that I never would have known that Mrs. A. had a batenberg border clear around her table cover if she hadn't been so particular to display it over a very much worn upholstered chair. I might not even have dreamed that Mrs. B. had more than one silk dress hod I not seen them all on the line, on her porch this morning. Nice handsome clothing seemed to need more airing I noticed than that which had seen the wear and tear of the whole season. If I were a housekeeper perhaps I might understand these things better, but I do get puzzled trying to reason the whys of some women's ways.

* * *

The Ab Hac Ab Hoc Club entertained at the home of Mis Lillian Kelley on Houston avenue last Saturday. The occasion was a farewell party arranged for her as a sort of preparation for the new phase of life which she wil soon enter as Mrs. Albert Fontaine. The invitations asked each of her guests to prepare and bring a set of rules pertaining to the management of a husband, and it is asserted as a fact that a more complete digest of this important subject has never been listened to at one time in the annals of history. Each young lady was presented with a bow and found her place at table by matching it with another which decorated her plate. But not until she unfolded her napkin did the real gist of the fun commence, for in each was concealed a souvenir so appropriately selected by fact, not fancy, that jollity knew no bounds. When Miss Lapham found a false tooth, and another young lady a miniature grip with a verse or two of explanation attached, the point was not at all far-fetched. Imagine, if you can, the Ohs! and Ohs! of fourteen young ladies as each drew forth her gift. An elegant supper was served, and the best possible time was enjoyed.

* * *

I am just old fashioned enough to fully enjoy the down east fashion in the matter of social intercourse. These stand up affaire called receptions are to me decidedly too formal. Now when an invitation reads: "Mrs. J. at Home from 2 to 4 o'clock." I read between the lines, "Just to pay my social obligations in the shortest possible time." But when Mrs. Millgan, and Mrs. Haris and Mrs. Freeman's W. R. C. afternoon visit, 2:30, I really believe it means, "Come over with your work and visit us. Stay a long time and do each other some good." That is the way the affair turned out this time anyway. Don't any of you men say there was a deal of gossip, for it wasn't so. By the way, a scheme for Crookston's public library was the all absorbing topic they tell me. So, gentlemen, don't any of you be surprised if you get a call from the ladies soon, for co-operation in the matter. Are you ready for the question? The women are in earnest this time, for they have waited for you long enough. But the visit was not all of yesterday afternoon, for a fine tea was served to twenty-two guests who unite in caling these ladiee admirable entertainers.

The K. P. dance Thursday evening was a very pleasant affair, and a gayor company rarely meets than that which kept time to Hall's Orchestra's very latest music. Castle Hall has one of the finest floors anywhere, and the room was just comfortably filled. The supper was all that could be asked for, and much credit is due to the promoters of the "Second Annual Pythian Ball." What Lawyer Bucklin and Mr. O'Brien don't know about arranging a dance isn't worth knowing. So said a gentleman in my hearing today.

TERRIBLE ACCIDENT.

TWO ENGINEERS HURLED INTO A CHASM.

Boulder, Col., April 20.—A terrible accident occurred Thursday on the Colorado & Northwestern road near this city. Two big engines attached to a passenger train coming from Ward to Boulder, were struck by a huge snowslide and hurled into the chasm below. Four trainmen were killed. They were:

Engineers Hannon and Fitzgerald, Fireman Miller and Conductor Bair.

The second fireman has not been uccounted for and it is believed he is also dead.

The bodies have not yet been recovered.

The passenger train left Ward for Boulder drawn by two engines. When the train reached Boomerville the engines were uncoupled and started up the hill to buck the snow, which was deep upon the tracks. A sharp curve occurred near the apex of the mountain and just as the engines started to round the curve a vast avalanche of snow and earth was loosened from above. It came down with terrific force and gained momentum every second. It is said that the train, which was heavily loaded with passengers, was not touched by the slide.

SMALLPOX GUARD.

ON STATE LINE BETWEEN MINNESOTA AND S. D.

Browns Valley, Minn., April 20.—An interstate warfare growing out of smallpox conditions at Sisseton, S. D., is on at this point. More than one hundred cases of the disease exist at Sisseton, and Browns Valley forbids persons from there, who have been exposed, from entering this village. This enraged Sisseton authorities, and under pretense of having quarantined Roberts county, they placed armed guards on the state line one half mile from Browns Valley, who forbid farmers from any section to come across. Many of the farmers have broken the guard line by running their horses while some have been arrested and handcuffed and taken into Sisseton, 14 miles distant.

There is great excitement over the affair and unless the state authorities of the two states take a hand and bring about an adjustment of the matter there will undoubtedly be serious trouble. There is no smallpox in Browns Valley and none in the farming territory on the Dakota side, and farmers protest in bitter terms from being held up and maltreated on the public highways. The roads leading in to Browns Valley is the portion of Roberts county that has been quarantined.

NEW LODGE AT CASS LAKE.

Cass Lake, April 22.—Woodland lodge of Rebekahs, No. 174, was instituted here on Wednesday night by Mrs. Eunice Melvllie, Minneapolis, grand secretary of the state assembly; assisted by Past Grand G. O. Ellsworth, Minneapolis. A class of sixteen candidates was in waiting and Mrs. Melville and Mr. Ellsworth were assisted by the members of the degree team for the Grand Rapids Rebekah lodge, consisting of Mmes. Lent, Stevens, Hennessey, Ressler, DeShaw and Lothrop. At the conclusion of the ceremonies the following officers were elected:

N. G., Miss Sarah Shepherd; V. G., Miss Rachel Johnson; secretary, Miss Hattie Allen. Mrs. C. D. Hart was appointed district deputy grand master. A banquet was served in the dining hall. Mrs. Melville, Mr. Ellsworth and the members of Grand Rapids degree team went from here to Hibbing and instituted a lodge at that place Thursday evening.

DEATH TO RATS.

Chicago, April 20.—The recent visit to Chicago of Dr. W. Nagusba of Japan, who is visiting this country and Europe to interest the governments in a combined movement for the extermination of rats, has already borne fruit here.

Harold Lorby, Chicago representative of the Pasteur Institute, of Paris, announced yesterday that a large Chicago firm, supposed to be the Stock Yards company, had placed an order with him for rat virus, with which to begin the war against the rodents. This virus has been successfully tested in France during the past two years. It is said to be fatal to rats only.

MIDLAND CANAL CO.

Directors of the Company Held Meeting at Fargo Last Saturday.

FIX DATES FOR CONVENTION

Many Notable Speakers of the Three States will be Present.

The directors of the Midland Canal company held its adjourned meeting at Fargo Saturday afternoon. The principal work done was to fix the dates for the next meeting of the Tri-State Drainage association. The dates agreed on were July 16, 17 and 18. It was decided to invite the United States governors and lieutenant governors, the senators, the members of congress, the speakers of the houses of representatives of the states of Minnesota and North and South Dakota. Also some of the professors of the colleges and universities of the states named. The governors, United States senators and members of congress and college and university professors will be invited to prepare papers on the drainage of the lande and the control of the waters in such a way as to avoid the disastrous floods that have been experienced in the past.

It will be recalled that at the meeting in Crookston last January resolutions were adopted asking congress to take steps to protect the people from the overflow of the rivers, and each one of the legislaturee of Minnesota, North and South Dakota adopted the Crookston resolutions asking the congressional delegations from each of the states to support such a measure as might be presented looking toward the control of the waters. The resolutions were adopted by each legislature without a dissenting vote.

There is no question but that the water can be controlled and save millions of dollars to the inhabitants of these states and for less money than the loss was in the states in 1897. It is a subject worthy of the support of every citizen in the states named.

NEW FIRM AT BRAINERD.

Brainerd is to have another wholesale grocery house. J. F. McGinnis and Dr. Hempstead have secured a lease of ground from the N. P. Railroad company on the north side of Front street and will erect a solid brick building 75x100 feet, three stories high as soon as the plans can be prepared. Mr. W. H. Cleary, who is now connected with the wholesale grocery house of McCormick, Benecke & Co., and who is a wide awake and experienced business man, is to be associated with them, and the firm is to be known as Cleary, McGinnis & Hempstead. They will carry from $40,000 to $50,000 worth of stock, and the enterprise will be a very desirable addition to the Brainerd business houses.

Polk County Journal,

BY N. S. GORDON.

☞ Subscription $1.50 per year in advance

Entered at the postoffice at Crookston, Minnesota, as second-class matter.

The state treasurer received $9,933.99 from the federal government Monday, representing the net proceeds of the sales of public lands lying within the state during the fiscal year from June 1, 1899, to June 30, 1900. The remittance was from the interior department.

The influence of the Department of Agriculture of the United States is getting to be world wide. Last year under its direction two tons of choice tea was grown in South Carolina and put upon the New York market. The demand for it was prompt, and exceeded the supply ten times. The result is that 6,000 acres in the state are now being planted to tea. The department is getting the very finest kinds of tea plants for trial and has secured the services of an expert from the Orient.

The village council of Felton has got itself into a metropolitan scrap and all its members are at loggerheards. It is all over the filling of a vacancy by appointment, and each member has a favorite of his own. The other evening the honorable body met to fill the vacancy, and each member displayed his staying qualities by voting regularly for his favorite at every ballot, for seven consecutive hours. Then they adjourned, with a lot of "unfinished" business on their hands.

The publication of the laws enacted by the recently adjourned legislature has settled the uncertainty as to the amount provided for the Crookston Experiment Station. Some of the published reports gave the amount as $16,000 and others gave it as $22,000. We are glad to note that the latter is the correct amount, and constitutes all that was asked for by Manager Hoverstad, as he thought best to be very conservative in his requests, and only asked for such amount as was imperatively needed. And the committee, after looking over the situation carefully, recognized the fact that he had been as modest as possible in naming his figures, and did not change them.

A bulletin just issued by the census bureau shows the gross area of Minnesota to be 83,365 square miles. The state has a water surface of 4,160 square miles, which is exceeded only by that of Florida. The total area of the United States is 3,622,933 square miles, including Alaska and Hawaii. Itasca county is the largest in Minnesota, with an area of 5,575 square miles, over four times as large as the state of Rhode Island, which has only 1,250 square miles. the area of other northwestern states is: North Dakota, 70,795; South Dakota, 77,650; Iowa, 56,025, and Wisconsin, 56,040. It will be noticed that there is only 15 square miles difference in the areas of Iowa and Wisconsin.

The state will receive no greater benefit from any act passed than will come from the law appropriating $50,000 for the purpose of draining and reclaiming the wet lands in the Red River Valley. It is within the memory of middle aged men when this vast territory was looked upon as mere waste land, fit for nothing but bull frogs and wire grass. Today it feeds millions of people with its wheat crop and is becoming more and more valuable every year. As it is made accessible to the markets by railroad building it is becoming the richest part of the state and every dollar that goes into it for drainage purposes will in the end bring back two for the additional taxable property it puts on the assessment rolls.

MEMORIAL SERVICES.

In regard to the matter of memorial services, about which Uncle Joe made some suggestions a short time since, it presents itself to us in about this way: It does not seem just the thing for the Grand Army to be expected to bear the burden of the arrangements for honoring the memory of their deceased comrades, and the rest of the citizens be their guests. Why would it not be more appropriate for the citizens to take the initiative in this matter and invite the G. A. R. boys to co-operate with them in the matter? It would certainly be more fitting, and be more significant as an expression of appreciation of the loyal service rendered by the departed soldiers. And it seems to the Journal as if it is high time for us to recognize the fitness of things in this memorial service. And we wish, therefore, to suggest with emphasis, that inasmuch as it is now getting so late there is little time for elaborate arrangements, the mayor designate a committee of citizens to meet with the executive committee of the G. A. R. post and of the W. R. C. in a joint meeting to discuss the situation and inaugurate the necessary arrangements at once, with the understanding that the citizens invite the G. A. R. to assist as guests in whatever ceremonies may be arranged for. It is understood that the post and the W. R. C. have each appointed a committee meeting to confer upon the subject Wednesday evening. And we would suggest that the citizens meet with them at that time.

INSURANCE DECISION.

The state supreme court of South Dakota has decided the case of Mrs. Anna Barnard vs. the A. O. U. W. lodge of Sioux Falls. The suit was for the recovery of $2,000 due on an insurance policy held by the plaintiff's deceased husband, and involves points of such importance that the case may be appealed to the United States supreme court. When Barnard joined the lodge and secured the policy, himself and wife were on good terms. They afterwards separated, and Barnard made his home with a sister, Mrs. Emma Roberts. Shortly before his death he had the beneficiary in his insurance policy changed from his wife to his sister. This the lodge members claim was done in strict compliance with the rules and regulations of the order. Before the amount could be paid to Mrs. Roberts, Mrs. Barnard began an action to recover the money. The local lodge, not wishing to become entangled in a suit, placed the $2,000 draft with the circuit court to dispose of as the court should direct. While the lodge has been a party to the suit, it has had no part in it whatever. At the trial in the circuit court Mrs. Barnard testified that the policy had been procured by her husband at her request, and that she had paid part of the assessments. On the other hand, it was shown that the laws of the order permitted holders of policies to change the beneficiary at any time, so long as it was kept within the circles of blood relations. The circuit decided in favor of Mrs. Roberts. This decision has now been reversed by the state supreme court and Mrs. Barnard is declared to be entitled to the $2,000. The ruling of the supreme court will overturn one of the strongest features of fraternal organizations, which permits the insured to change the benefit at any time. Under this ruling, if a person goes into court and shows the expenditure of a few dollars, changes of beneficiaries would prove invalid.

ERRORS IN THE LAWS.

State Printer C. C. Whitney says that "the work of enrolling done at the recent session of the legislature was the poorest on record. Many mistakes were made in both engrossing and enrolling, and some laws may be invalidated entirely by the omission of quotation marks or punctuation, or by changes in wording. As a rule, the court reads into the statute the obvious meaning when a mistake has been made, but this causes trouble, and cannot always be done.

"It has been suggested that a new office be created during the session of the legislature. A good, careful lawyer should be selected, with an expert proofreader to assist him, and made responsible for the correctness of all engrossed and enrolled bills. He should read over every word, comparing it with the original bill, and be put under bonds to ensure the absolute correctness of the work. The bills are now hurriedly compared, but most of the comparing is done between engrossed and enrolled copies, and both are likely to be at fault. Such an official would save trouble and in some cases prevent serious errors. The mistake in the Miller bill taxing express companies 2 years ago would have been corrected by such an official, and several thousand dollars in taxes would have been saved to the state. Each house has a committee whose duty it is to examine and approve engrossed and enrolled bills, but their work is a mere formality."

WOMAN DEPUTY SHERIFF.

Hennepin county has a feminine deputy sheriff. Sheriff Megaarden today issued a commission as deputy sheriff to Abbie L. Townsend. She is the first woman in the county to acquire this distinction, and, so far as known, she is the first in the state.

The appointment is no honorary one either. She is to be an actual deputy sheriff, and whenever the big men are kicked out and prevented from serving papers, Mrs. Townsend will be expected to effect an entrance to the premises and obtain service of whatever papers may be entrusted to her.

It is a unique and responsible position for a woman, but Mrs. Townsend is not overawed. She simply and modestly opines that she can perform whatever tasks are assigned to her in a manner satisfactory to the boss.

It is not intended that Mrs. Townsend shall be steadily employed in serving papers. She is the stenographer of the office and will only take such work as the other deputies fail to do. —Minneapolis Journal.

HANDY HANDY.

PROMOTED TO TICKET AGENT OF NORTHERN PACIFIC.

As was recently announced in the columns of the Journal, C. A. Sharkey for a number of years the obliging and courteous ticket agent for the N. P. railway in this city, has been promoted to the position of travelling freight agent of the road, with headquarters at some point out west, and will leave for his new field of duty in a few days. Mr. Sharkey's resignation as agent was followed by considerable speculation as to who would succeed him, and this mystery was solved yesterday when W. E. Handy, present cashier of the company at this point, was informed from headquarters that he was appointed to fill the vacancy as agent at Crookston. The company's auditor will arrive in the morning and formally install the new agent in his future position. Mr. Handy will be succeeded as cashier by a gentleman named Davis, who comes here from Grafton, N. D.

The patrons of the N. P. and business men of the city generally are pleased to learn of Handy's promotion and fully appreciate the wisdom exercised by the company in the selection of such a capable and genial representative as successor to C. A. Sharkey.

NOTES FROM EXCHANGES.

Jamestown Alert: A farmer living east of Spiritwood has devised a scheme by which he may ride while harrowing. He attaches to the harrow a two wheeled rig and perched on the same drives his horses all day long without any great exertion.

—Hendrum Review: The quarantine on the Hendrum house is now raised and the inmates, including the Review editor, are again at liberty. Jas. McCann, the smallpox patient, is improving. He is a homesteader from up in the Red Lake region and appears to be a respectable person.

—The Minneapolis Tribune asks: "When does lettuce blush?" and answers: "When it sees the salad dressing." This is not rue, for lettuce never changes color under such circumstances, embarrassing as this may be to the salad, but it always does when it is stripped and washed by the cook.

—Thief River Falls News: Nat Campbell, mayor of the city of Crookston, wants the democratic nomination for congressman from this district. Of course, it is none of our business, but he is the only democrat in the Red River valley that can hold an elective office, and for that reason is entitled to the honor of a nomination.

Thief River Falls Press: James Meehan, Jr., concluded a real estate deal this week by which he became the owner of Labree avenue and Second street, now occupied by the Cyr barber shop, the Scandia State Bank and John Morgan's place. Mr. Meehan intends to erect a building in the near future. We should think he could find a location in one of those streets.

Grand Forks Herald: Word was received yesterday of a terrible accident at Milton by which John McIver lost an arm. No details of the affair could be obtained further than that he was a single man in the employ of the cement mills there, and that his arm was torn off close to the body by being caught in some machinery. His chances of recovery are about even.

Fergus Falls Journal: There seems to be an impression at Crookston that the contempt proceedings against Bisazza have been finally and forever dismissed. The court records here would indicate that the judge's refusal to sign the referee's order is not necessarily final, the matter being left open, pending developments, and may be taken up again at any time.

Fergus Falls Journal: Capt. C. C. Whitney, the state expert printer, has broken all records in the publication of the state laws. The session adjourned last Friday and on Monday night the laws were printed in supplement form. Originally it's four weeks after the session adjourns before the laws are in the hands of the people. Capt. Whitney has certainly made a great record.

Norman County Index: Tom Rattray is back from Canada, and you all know Tom never joshes. When he left Canada, and that but a few days ago, there was nearly four feet of snow on the level and the weather was so cold that all wells not over forty feet deep were frozen to the bottom, so that farmers had to thaw snow and ice to water their stock with. Tom will tell you all about the "blawsted" country.

Shelly Signal: Jacob Wilson has accepted a position with a hardware firm in Crookston and has already entered upon his duties. He will probably move his family to that city in the near future. Mr. Wilson has always been one of our most public spirited citizens and it is to be regretted that he and his estimable family intend to leave town. Mr. Wilson still retains his property here and we hope that before many moons he will again be one of us.

—McIntosh Tribune: We don't like to write sensational articles, but must give our readers the facts as sent us by our correspondent. Sam Lambert was out late last week and when crossing the bridge near the old Lambert place, was met by an apparation with a club. The ghost motioned for Mr. Lambert to keep away. Mr. Lambert was not afraid of ghosts, but was afraid of the big club. If you don't believe this story cross the bridge at midnight.

Akeley Independent: Minnesota has ever been in the vanguard in measures and institutions for the public welfare. Mention was made several weeks ago of a bill introduced in the legislature for the intent of providing a home for consumptives in the heart of the balmy pine woods. This bill has passed the senate and provides for an appropriation of $1,000 and the selection of a commission of three members to select a site for the sanitarium. Let us locate it at Akeley, a most desirable place.

Plaindealer: John Kirsch, of the railway mail service, who lays over at this point every few days, is a great believer in the power of the press. He might be said to be a double believer, in fact, for instead of being contented with owning one paper, as most mortals are, he is the publisher of the Solway Press and the Turtle River Pine Tree. The latter paper made its initial bow to the public but a short time ago and is already looked upon as a weight in the community. The Solway Press is considered one of the brightest weeklies in northern Minnesota.

The Casselton Eye, in a report of the Cass County Teachers' association held in Casselton recently, makes the following commendatory mention of a paper that was read before the convention by Mr. Jesse O. Childs of this city: "Mr. Wells read a paper upon a high school course of study, which was followed by an interesting paper upon "The Value of English Composition in the Grades," by Prof. Childs of the Fargo high school. This was a very helpful paper and showed the importance of English work and the best means of producing interest in the work and manner of presentation."

Fergus Falls Free Press: The legislature has adjourned and Otter Tail's representatives have returned home with first class records. Hon. Sam Rider demonstrated his ability by voting against the primary election bill. He quickly caught on to the fact that the law was in the interest of scheming politicians and monied men. Under that law two campaigns will have to be conducted, and only those with money will have any show of getting elected. While the law is supposed to be in the interests of the common people, it is far from it, and this the people will discover at the next election.

—Cass Lake Times: The Warren Register, the most promising and enterprising journal of Marshall county, republican in politics to the core, has recently come out for Mayor Nat Campbell for congress to succeed F. M. Eddy. We have been aware for some tife that Bro. Stevens "had a knife up his sleeve" for Congressman Eddy, but was not prepared to see his take such an erratic course to get even. Nat is a progressive with all the versatility and ambition that is required in congress, and if he goes for it the very stones will turn in their beds when the band plays "The Campbells are Coming."

Cass Lake Times.—Cass Lake needs a paper pulp mill. It is true such mills are usually erected where large water power is available, but with cheap fuel and contiguous to the great spruce swamps of the north, there is no better place to manufacture paper pulp than on the shore of Cass Lake. We believe it within the bounds of truth to state, there is enough pulp timber tributary to Cass Lake to supply one of the largest mills that can be constructed for the next fifty years. Such an industry gives employment to many men, the force in the mill being but a fraction of the hands required to cut and run the pulp timber to the mill.

Fergus Falls Journal: On the joint recommendation of Senator Clapp and Congressman Eddy, the treasury department has decided to acquire the land between the federal building site and the alley, and condemnation proceedings will be instituted at once. When Senator Clapp was here he shared in the general opinion that the site should be enlarged. He wrote to Secretary Taylor to this effect and Congressman Eddy called personally at the department last Thursday and received assurance that the land would be secured by the government. The building will not touch this additional strip, so that the work will not be delayed pending its acquirement.

As regular as the spring time comes, says the Thirteen Towns of Fosston, year after year, the newspapers, city council and citizens of our county seat talk "street paving." Not only does this talk last during the early croaking of the frogs, but habitually continues for weeks and even months. But season after season the people of that city, together with their thousands of frequent visitors, continue to plod through the terribly adhesive mud, and relief is finally had when Jack Frost gets in his work at the closing in of winter. If Fosston people had just one week with streets like those of Crookston every spring and fall, the whole town would soon be paved.

Thief River Falls Press: Frank Kratka left yesterday for Grand Rapids, in company with F. O. Werner of Duluth, a practical lumberman connected with the Backus-Brooks company, to look over the property of his brother in law, the late J. Caldwell. The recently discovered holdings of this gentleman in Itasca county are estimated to be worth $100,000, and much more valuable land is supposed to be in his name. Mr. Caldwell died suddenly some years ago, leaving a large amount of real estate, of which no record had been kept. Through the efforts of Mr. Werner a portion of this has been located, and it is possible that more may develop from future investigations. Mrs. Caldwell and four children are residents of this city.

Grand Forks Herald: On Sunday evening while Tom Iverson, a stranger in the city, was returning to his hotel he was held up by two men who are well known in the city, and while they secured nothing, they got themselves into all kinds of trouble. The two met Iverson and asked him for a match. They were accommodated and afterwards asked him what time of night it was. When he pulled out his watch they attempted to take it from him, but he showed fight and managed to protect himself. The two fellows made off, but afterwards were apprehended and yesterday Judge Brown fined them $10 and $20 respectively for their smart work. They were both under the influence of liquor at the time they committed the robbery, but the judge did not consider this an excuse for their acts.

Minneapolis Tribune: An indignant reader up in Moorhead, who evidently got hold of a law supplement when he was looking for the first installment of a thrilling novel, "to be continued in the Sunday Tribune," writes to ask by whose authority those aforesaid supplements are enclosed in the newspapers without having the name of the paper itself printed upon them. If our indignant friend will promise not to let it go any further, we will tell him as a state secret, of which only a select few are possessed, that the legislature of Minnesota, in collusion with State Printer Whitney, and through the medium of the several postmasters throughout the state, has been guilty of this highhanded outrage upon the rights of the people.

Plaindealer: Dr. Erwin has returned from a trip over in Minnesota, where he went to investigate several cases of smallpox. In three or four townships along the Snake river he encountered several well developed cases, but nothing of a really serious nature. They are all supposed to have resulted from the single case at Granville a short time ago. The greatest precaution will be taken to prevent the spread of the disease and its entrance into this city.

Norman County Herald: Bagley people wondered what A. L. Morris was going to do with the several head of Angora goats that he brought to that place some time ago, but the animals have accomplished well the object for which he brought them into the country clearing up his large farm near that place of all brush and weeds and now he will only keep a few of them on hand for breeding purposes. They have proven to be a profitable investment.

Griggs County Courier: An exchange in figuring up which is the greatest bore that hangs around a printing office, has arrived at the conclusion that the man who comes in and expectorates a great big mouthful of tobacco juice on the stove or floor is the one entitled to the belt. He is certainly bad enough, but we have one even worse than he is if it can be possible, and we allude to the party who comes into our office and makes a bee line for the job presses to read the job you are printing. It does not matter if it is a private affair or not, he will read it. He will then turn his attention to the typesetter and read the copy on the cases. This is a cheap way of finding out the news and other people's business, and if this item meets his eye, we hope he will have sense enough to take a tumble to himself.

WHO KNOWS HIM?

The city auditor received a letter yesterday from Toll Amundson, dated Glencoe, Minn., inquiring as to the whereabouts of his son, Andrew T. Amundson, whom he has not seen for 20 years. The letter states that the son is said to have resided in or near Fargo at some period. Who knows?

—Miss Nora Harrison, who has been visiting with Miss Phrona Kirsch for a week or more, returned to her home at Hallock Friday.

—Eleven cars of immigrants effects have been unloaded at Russia station this spring. The parties all came from Iowa and are on deck for business.

—Geo. O'Reilly, a former business man of this city, but recently of Fisher, accompanied by his wife, are visiting friends in the city for a few days.

—John McIver, the young man who lost his arm at the cement works at Milton, N. D., died last Sunday afternoon. He was a member of the M. W. A. The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon.

The people in the vicinity of Russia station rightly think they are entitled to a depot at that place, and are getting up a large petition addressed to the Great Northern railroad management asking therefor.

—George Purvis, of the Great Northern land department in this city, received the new schedule of prices of the company's lands. It is an advance of one dollar per acre on all real estate and farm lands, and will go into effect after April 27.

—Louis Gooler, formerly assistant superintendent of schools of Polk county, who recently embarked in the insurance business at Devils Lake, spent the night in this city, returning home Friday. He reports business at Satan's Lake good.

—Deputy Revenue Collector Johnson left on the Great Northern passenger Thursday for Fergus Falls and Alexandria, and will be gone several days. The latter city is one of those which have recently been added to Mr. Johnson's district.

—Fred Hall, one of the most popular traveling salesmen on the road, representing W. S. Peck & C. of Syracuse, N. Y., left last evening for Chicago and New York, and before returning expects to visit on the Pacific coast. He will not return to Crookston before July 1.

—S. L. Heasly, a prominent Thief River Falls citizen was in the city Saturday. To a Journal reporter Mr. Heasly stated that seeding up his way had progressed nicely until the recent frost set in, and most of the farmers would be through now only for that interruption.

—Julius Pleth, the St. Hilaire land man, offers $75 in gold for the best ten ears of corn gathered in one field, $50 for the second best ten ears, and $20 for the third best. The corn is to be raised in Red Lake county. This generous offer is supposedly done to encourage corn raising in the northern part of the state.

—The town of Russia, on the line of the Great Northern between here and Ada, wants a depot, and Peter Wermager, one of the enterprising citizens of that burg was here Saturday to consult with company officers to have Russia's desire carried out. There is considerable passenger and freight traffic from that town, and the demand of the patrons of the Great Northern may be granted.

—Thos. Walters, who was taken ill a few days ago with a disease that resembled smallpox, and afterwards mysteriously disappeared, Saturday noon walked into the city's pest house and demanded that he be accommodated with board and care until such time as the board of health would request his discharge. He was accommodated.

—As an evidence of the dire need of more dwelling houses in Crookston, the following remark made by an eastern gentleman last evening, and overheard by a Journal reporter, is a fair sample: "I am willing to pay $25 or $30 rent a month for a suitable dwelling, and I would move to Crookston at once if I could secure one at that price."

—A gentleman named Amonson, of Menominee, Mich., was in the city Friday looking up a location for a fine jewelry establishment. The gentleman is figuring on renting the building now occupied by C. C. Hoch, near the post-office, as soon as the latter vacates the same. Amonson intends to put in a large and select stock of jewelry if he succeeds in finding a suitable location.

—A carload of dried fruit direct from the farm of T. A. Mains, Bakersfield, Southern California, has arrived here and will be sold in any quantity at wholesale prices. T. E. McManus, Agent, 117 Opera House block.

—The Wabasha Cafe, on Second street was closed Monday. C. C. Hoch the owner having decided to discontinue that resort. The fixtures and furniture of the place will be moved into the Town Pump, which will give that place a more metropolitan appearance.

—The case of Frank Delude against the city of Crookston came up in Judge McLean's court Tuesday by a stipulation of the attorneys on both sides. Delude sues to recover back pay for catching canines that were not protected with the proper tag last summer, and has his bill fixed at $18.

—A law was passed by the late legislature prohibiting all persons under 21 years of age from entering any billiard or pool room where drinks, hard or soft, or tobacco, are sold. The proprietor will be subjected to a fine if he allows minors to be found in such billiard or pool hall. This may close up several places in this county.

—The young folks of the Presbyterian church gathered at the residence of Rev. Fraset Monday evening and held a farewell reception for Derward Collins, who left Tuesday night for Walla Walla. As a token of the esteem in which he was held by his friends, Mr. Collins was presented with a watch chain and charm, and a fountain pen.

—Architect Strassburger has just completed a set of plans for an elegant new residence which Ernest Rolsch is going to have erected this summer on Ash street. The new building will be a frame structure with brick basement, two stories high, and have hot water heating. Bids for the contract of building will be opened next Friday afternoon.

—The old St. Ann's French Catholic church building has been removed out to the street in front of its old site, and the work of excavation for the foundation of the new edifice was begun Friday. Frank Page will superintend the work of the new structure, which will cost in the neighborhood of $10,000. Services will be conducted in the old church building for the present.

—Dr. Francis, of Thief River Falls, who was in attendance at a contest case before the land office in this city Thursday, states that owing to a prevalence of a few cases of smallpox in the village, the board of education has ordered the schools closed for the time being. There is no danger apprehended, as all the cases so far developed have been properly quarantined and confined in the pest house.

—W. Schroeder, of Bemidji, a prominent merchant of that town, accompanied by his wife, passed through here Monday on his way back from Osakis, Minn., where they were called to attend the last wishes of a 14 year old sister of Mr. Schroeder. The young girl was sent to Osakis some time ago for treatment of cancer of the stomach. The malady had so far advanced as to render all medical skill futile, and the patient died Saturday evening. Her remains were taken to Bemidji for burial.

—An exchange is agitating the scheme to name all country roads as streets are named, and to number the houses along the roads. The plan is a good one and should be adopted by county boards. At present the roads have no designation except as incidentally fall to them, and it is difficult for strangers to find their way without frequent inquiries. Name your roads; let the name appear on each corner. It will then be easy to find any house in the country as it is now in the city where the streets and numbers are given.

—Edward Miller and family, who have been conducting a hotel business at Wadena, arrived in the city Saturday evening with a view of locating here. Mr. Miller is an experienced hotel man and would prove an acceptable acquisition to Crookston's business men.

—W. H. McCann and wife, of the town of Parnell, are in the city on a business mission Monday. They report the roads in good condition and that they commenced seeding last Monday. Mr. and Mrs. McCann are among the new comers here, having arrived in the valley last fall and built a new house and are arranging to take some comfort and handle their farm in proper shape at the same time.

—Chas. Burns, day operator in the Great Northern dispatcher's office, had a rather queer mix-up Monday afternoon. A patron of the road rung him up over the 'phone to ask him "how about No. 13?" Charley replied: "10 lbs." He was absent minded at the time and his remarks had reference to a young lady that had arrived at his home during the day.

—Ida Gervais and Ethel Rudolph, two women of easy virtue, were brought down from Red Lake Falls Monday by the sheriff of that county and confined in the Polk county jail to await the action of the grand jury. The women are charged with running houses of ill repute, and the authorities of Red Lake propose to root out that evil in their domain.

—Herman Lewin, a merchant of Thief River Falls, filed a petition in bankruptcy at Fergus Falls Monday, placing his assets at $9,114.46, of which $1,495 is exempt, and his liabilities at $6,639.05.

—David H. Williams, who was for many years with the St. Paul & Duluth railroad at Duluth, and after the consolidation with the Northern Pacific went to Brainerd as general yardmaster of the Northern Pacific, has resigned and goes with the Great Northern road as general agent at Willmar, Minn.

—R. G. Woodham, manager of the Crookston Furniture company's business, has decided to inaugurate a more active business campaign, and has entered upon it in the right way—by systematic advertising in the Journal. We commend his advertisement to the attention and consideration of our readers.

—Sheriff Anderson, of Kittson county, returned Tuesday from Fergus Falls, where he went to take a woman named Eliza Johnson, who became insane and was sentenced to the asylum. The unfortunate woman is about 45 years of age and has a large family of grown children. Her failing of mind is said to be due to a paralytic stroke, and her recovery is uncertain.

—In speaking of the prospects for a successful base ball season this summer, the Fargo Call this morning says: "Devils Lake has $1,200 or $1,500 in sight to get a team together, so we will probably hear from that place anon. Cooperstown, Hope, Wheatland, Cavalier, Hillsboro and Crookston will all be in the game, though we have not heard anything as yet regarding the personnel of the latter teams, owing no doubt to the fact that the season has been so very backward."

—Word comes from Cass Lake that Mark Nelson, the "Terrible Swede," has been successful in two fist battles with the upholstered mitts at that place. Frank Kitter lasted one round, and was counted out. Saturday night, April 20, Billy Dugan and Nelson gave a very pretty exhibition which lasted five rounds. At the end of that time Dugan received a jolt on the submaxillary bone that took all interest in the game out of Dugan. Nelson now claims the lightweight championship of the northwest, and is willing to fistically argue the question with all comers. Billy Rhodes, the elongated sport who boxed in Fargo a year ago, is training and managing the Terrible Swede.

A LANDMARK GONE

One of the City's Oldest Hostelrys Destroyed by Fire Tuesday Morning.

CAUSE OF FLAMES UNKNOWN

Loss Will Foot Up Several Thousand Dollars With a Light Insurance.

At 4:30 Tuesday morning a fire alarm was turned in to the department, and the latter responded very promptly to the call. Flames were discovered issuing from the third story of the frame building on the corner of Woodland avenue and St. Paul street, in Sampson's addition, and the total destruction of the building was threatened for a while, as considerable time elapsed after the fire was first discovered before the arrival of the department.

Just how the fire started is not positively know, but it is supposed that it had its origin in the basement, as the ground floor is almost entirely consumed. Upon the arrival of the fire department four streams were soon playing on the burning structure and the flames were confined to the interior of the house, which has for some years served as a tenement house, and at the time was occupied by several families, none of whom saved anything of their personal effects, except a few articles of wearing apparel.

The entire interior and contents are a total loss, and foot up something like $2,000, while the owner of the place, Peter Thesar, carried $1,000 insurance on the building, and $75 on household effects.

The charred building was formerly known as the Woodland hotel, and numbered among the landmarks of the city. It was constructed in Wabasha, this state, and afterwards removed in sections to its present location.

The fire department again displayed its ability in checking the flames where they did, as the fire had ample time to gain headway before it could be reached. Nearly everybody in the burning building was sound asleep at the time the flames were first discovered, and as there is no alarm system in use, it required nearly twenty minutes before anything could be done to check the devouring elements.

THE COMING EVENT

Crookston's Firemen are Preparing for the Great Meeting.

IT WILL EXCEL IN GRANDEUR

Many Notables of the State Will Address the Fire Fighters.

The Crookston fire department is making great preparations for the entertainment of the delegates to the coming state firemen's convention, which will be held in this city June 11, 12 and 13. Without any doubt, this will be the grandest occasion in the history of the firemen of Minnesota, as the citizens and members of the local department are going to have a three days' holiday. Among the sports that are to be enacted during the three days' session are tournament races, hand contests, foot races, horse races and numerous other legitimate athletics and outdoor entertainments, including prize drills, dancing and feasting galore. All in all, the event as projected by the committee of managers will prove one of unexcelled proportions and grandeur in the history of Crookston, and the firemen, or friends of the fire fighters who fail to attend the next annual state convention will miss a rare treat.

The department has secured a one fare rate for the round trip on all lines entering the Queen City, with the assurance of the same rate on other railroad lines south of St. Paul. Arrangements have already been made by the committee who has charge of hotel accommodations, to take care of at least two thousand delegates and their friends and visitors, and no one from abroad will be overlooked for proper treatment when in Crookston in attendance at the state firemen's convention.

The railroad facilities with which this city is favored are second to none in the northwest. There are two main lines entering here, with seven branch lines that reach the most progressive spots in the Red River valley and northern Minnesota. The main lines send out two trains daily each way that connect the head of the lakes at Duluth with the Pacific coast.

The Crookston fire department has been particularly fortunate in gaining a reputation as royal entertainers, and in addition to their spirit in that direction the fire laddies are backed by every loyal citizen of the convention city.

Among the prominent characters of the state who have signified their intention of being present when President Morris drops the gavel that will call the great meeting to order, are Gov. S. R. Van Sant, State Auditor Dunn and other state officials and prominent speakers and entertainers.

The Crookston fire department is determined to make the annual state convention an event which will never be forgotten by the defenders of life and property in the great state of Minnesota.

SCHUMAN DEAD.

HE REACHES HIS GOAL AT THE INSANE ASYLUM.

The readers of the Journal will recall the finding of the probate court against Nic Schuman, who was committed to the Fergus Falls insane asylum by that tribunal about two months ago. Schuman has been a resident of Crookston for a great many years and occupied a small hut near the Crookston brewery as his home. During the winter he became deranged from exposure and he was sent to the asylum, where he died yesterday morning of pneumonia.

Deceased was about 60 years of age, and little or nothing is known of his relatives, who are supposed to live in Europe.

It is asserted by parties who claim to know that Schuman left a wife in Luxemberg when he came to America. His remains were buried at Fergus Falls today.

FARM LAND WANTED.

I can furnish a few desirable purchasers for land at rock bottom prices. Parties having "snaps" should call on or write Attorney R. M. Hayes, Crookston, Minn. Office over Merchants National Bank.

STOLEN PAPERS FOUND.

Milbank, S. D., April 20.—Last June the general store of Postmaster Peek, at Corona, a small town 11 miles northwest of here, was entered and the postoffice safe blown open. No clue as to the burglars was ever discovered.

One day recently Anton Van Hout, a farmer living six miles north of Milbank and on the direct road from Corona to Big Stone city, while dragging turned over a clod of earth and underneath found about $50 worth of two-cent stamps and a miscellaneous lot of notes, mortgages and other valuable papers that were taken at the time of the robbery.

Van Hout's wife reported the find to Postmaster John Martens of the St. Joseph postoffice, who, in turn, reported the matter to the Corona officials. Mr. Van Hout naturally thinks that he should have some reward for his discovery, but Mr. Peek claims there is no law authorizing him to pay a reward for the return of property stolen from the government.

ON LONG TIME.

140,000 ACRES OF STATE LAND TO BE SOLD.

One hundred and forty thousand acres of state land will be put up for sale at public auction this spring, says the Minneapolis Journal. State Auditor Dunn has arranged a series of public auctions at the county seats of counties where land is to be sold, beginning May 16 at Cambridge, Isanti county, and closing June 4, at Walker, Cass county.

Unusually good prices will be received for state lands this spring. Another inducement is that the interest on the contracts resulting from future sales will be only 4 per cent, unless the principal is paid up within ten years, when 5 per cent is charged. The low interest rate will attract many.

Much of the land will raise good crops, but a large share of the cutover timber land is better adapted for grazing. It is being rapidly taken up by farmers from Illinois and Iowa, who are starting stock farms on the land cleared for them by the lumbermen.

None of the land may be sold for less than the appraised value, which ranges from $5 to $20. Fifteen per cent of the purchase price has to be paid at the time of the sale, with interest for one year on the unpaid balance. Interest payments are to be made in advance on June 1 of each year. The principal may be paid any time within forty years. The interest on these contracts forms a considerable part of the state's revenue, and the state is in no hurry to have them paid up, as 4 per cent is better interest than other investments will bring.

USED A KNIFE.

EAST GRAND FORKS HAS A CUTTING AFFRAY.

Early Sunday morning a cutting scrape in Ole Gustad's saloon in East Grand Forks resulted in the serious injury of the bartender, Andrew Erie. Hot words followed a dispute as to the pay for a round of drinks, and a fight followed during which one of the arteries under Erie's arm was cut. He bled profusely, and had the wound been inflicted an inch higher it would have been fatal. A man named Shaughnessy did the cutting and escaped to the Dakota side of the river. He was located in the Ingalls house, arrested and lodged in jail, as he refused to go back to the other side of the river.

LAND GRANT SOLD.

THE G. N. DISPOSES OF RAILROAD LANDS.

Since the beginning of the present year the land department of the G. N. has been kept unusually busy, and at the rate at which sales are being made, the complete exhaustion of the old Manitoba land grant is in easy view, says the St. Paul Globe. Already since January the sales aggregate $100,000. All of the land possessed by the company is in Minnesota and most of that yet unsold is located between Crookston and St. Vincent, on the east side of the river.

The company has about 600,000 acres left, and this will be disposed of within the next year.

$100 COMMISSION.

To anyone bringing me a buyer for the NW¼ of Section 34, 160 acres, town of Andover, and the NW¼ of Section 4, 165 12-100 acres, town of Hammond, in Polk county, Minn. Price, $20 per acre if taken before seeded. Every foot tillable land, and $1,000 worth of improvements: 160 acres plowed, balance in stubble field and pasture.

BUYS AMERICAN STEEL.

New York, April 20.—The World says that the United States Steel corporation is about to enter the foreign field with all possible dispatch, as shown by a contract just made. The Carnegie Steel company has been awarded a contract for 20,000 tons of steel plates by the Harland & Wilson Shipbuilding company of Belfast, Ireland. This is the largest contract ever placed in this country for steel plates. It is worth $780,000.

A majority of Clyde shipbuilding concerns have recently made contracts with American mills for their steel plate requirements for many months ahead. The contracts are being placed now, for fear the United States Steel corporation will shortly advance on their prices.

GAMBLING HOUSE CLOSED

All the gambling houses in Minneapolis were closed Saturday night by Mayor Ames.

The order applied to every place where any gambling was in progress, and the Saturday night crowds found the den of the tiger deserted.

At the mayor's office it was stated that the order was for an indefinite period. No reason was given for this action.

Five gambling houses closed their doors Friday evening, and the others followed suit Saturday evening.

NEW GAME LAWS

Is Now a Misdemeanor to be Caught in Closed Season With Gun.

MANY IMPORTANT CHANGES

State Game Warden Fullerton Talks on Recent Legislation.

In the estimation of S. F. Fullerton, executive agent of the state game commission, the most important piece of game legislation enacted by the last legislature looking to the protection of the game of the state was the bill which makes it a misdemeanor for a man to be caught in a field during the closed season with a gun and a dog. Heretofore men have gone hunting during the closed season and secured a bag of game, but eluded the game wardens and those who seek to protect the game out of season because the latter could not prove that the hunter actually did any shooting. Under the new law it is taken for granted that a man is a hunter who is seen in a field between seasons with a gun and a dog, and can be prosecuted, whether he actually shoots anything or not.

While the legislators did not enact any radical anti-game laws, they did amend the statutes in a way which has a decided tendency to protect not only the big animals of the forest, the fowls that inhabit the low places and marshes of the state, but the fish in the streams and rivers as well.

Through the passage of the Mellcke bill the duck law is changed, and it stops the sale of ducks, geese and other water fowl at any time, preventing also their being shipped out of the state by hunters or dealers. The season remains the same, from Sept. 1 to Jan. 1.

The bill of F. F. Ferris stops the sale of venison, moose and other kinds of red game in Minnesota, besides preventing their meats being shipped out of the state. It pushes the season ahead ten days—now opening Nov. 10 instead of Nov. 1, and closes Nov. 30.

The trout season now opens on April 15, instead of May 1, and closes as before, Sept. 1. The season for fishing black bass now begins June 1, instead of May 15, and remains open except during the months of March, April and May.

CURE FOR SMALLPOX

The following is going the rounds of the press, but we can not vouch for its efficacy. It is claimed for it, however, that it has been used in hundreds of cases, and always with success, and that it will prevent or cure the smallpox though the pittings are filling. When Jennner discovered cowpox in England the world of science hurled an avalanche of fame upon his head, but when the most scientific school of medicine in the world, that of Paris, published this receipt as a panacea for smallpox it passed unheeded. It is unfailing as fate and conquors in every instance. It is harmless when taken by a well person. It will cure scarlet fever. Here is the receipt as I have used it to cure smallpox, when learned physicians said the patient must die, it cured: Sulphate of zinc, one grain; fox glove digitalis, one grain; a teaspoonful of water. When thoroughly mixed add four ounces of water; a teaspoonful is a dose. Either disease will disappear in twelve hours. For a child, smaller doses according to age. If counties will compel their physicians to use this there would be no need of pest houses. If you value advice and experience use this for that terrible disease. This should be taken one teaspoonful every hour when sick with the disease and three times a day as a preventive.

FOR SALE—Good dray team and dray. Also several good work horses fully acclimated, and a good pair of driving mares. Call on Thos. Young, Crookston, Minn.

S. Harstein has brought suit against the Bradstreet agency and Charles Ostinger, the manager of the agency, for $5,000 damages. The plaintiff says that the agency sent out a report that that store of the plaintiff was closed and by so doing it injured the credit of the plaintiff. The statement, it is alleged, was false and unwarranted.

HUSTLING BEMIDJI.

According to the Bemidji Pioneer, our hustling neighbors out on the east line are laying plans for the effort of their lives to make May 17 a day to be remembered in future years by those who witness it, to be handed down in history to their posterity. A sham naval battle with a fleet of a hundred battleships is among the propositions for the program. Senator Nelson and the possibly future Senator Halvor Steenerson are expected to be present, and the former to deliver the oration of the day. It's a big scheme they have on foot, and comports well with the record they have already made in the line of ambitious achievements. Success to our neighbors.

TERRIBLE STORM.

Entire Ohio River Valley Covered by Disastrous Flood.

MANY HOMES WASHED AWAY.

Property Damage will be Immense.---Sitxy Hours Incessant Rain.

Pittsburgh, April 22.—This city was the center of a widespread and disastrous storm Saturday. For a radius of 150 miles in western Pennsylvania, eastern Ohio and West Virginia rain or snow fell almost without intermission for three days. Mountain streams have become torrents, creeks are swelling out of their banks and the big rivers are oceans of turbid water. Flood records, it is expected, will be broken before the water subsides.

The financial loss cannot be estimated. In addition to thousands of dollars, perhaps millions, it will cost to put large manufacturing plants in commission again, thousands of workmen are thrown out of employment and lose their wages just at a time when all the iron and steel mills are rushed with orders.

While few authenticated reports have been made, disease and death will follow in the wake of the flood. Thousands of people are lying in the upper rooms of their water-soaked houses without heat or food.

Rain fell incessantly in and for miles around Pittsburg for 60 hours and precipitation records are broken. Up the Alegheny valley reports come of two feet of snow on the level.

This had the effect of breaking down telegraph wires and crippling railroad service. Mails are either delayed for hours or are not arriving at all. Railroad officials can not estimate the cost of repairs but say it will be the heaviest in the history of railroads running into Pittsburg. Tracks are torn up, bridges weakened and telegraph wires and poles down in all directions.

Six land slides have occurred on the Panhandle between this city and Steubenville, two of them very serious. The Charters branch is completely submerged and no trains can reach Washington, Pa., over this line. At Jones' Ferry on the south side a huge boulder fell on the Panhandle tracks and trains had to come into the city over the Ohio bridge, a detour of several miles. Beyond Steubenville the Panhandle tracks are almost buried in snow. The Pittsburg, Fort Wayne & Chicago railway is crippled by snow of an almost unprecedented depth, west of Orville, where in the cuts are drifts five and six feet deep.

The wreck trains of all the roads are at work, but after the water subsides it will take two or three days to get the roads into their normal condition. A special from Beaver, Pa., says Rochester, West Bridgewater, Industry and Smith's Ferry are flooded and the residents are moving their household effects and supplies to higher ground. The water is expected to be as high as in 1884, which will result in great destruction of property. All the glass houses and manufacturing plants will be flooded.

Wheeling, W. Va., fears the most disastrous flood in its history. The weather prophets say the river will make a new high record at that point. From 45 to 50 feet of water is feared which means an immense loss of property, followed by destitution and sickness for those least able to bear it. AT Sisterville, Va., the river is rising rapidly and much damage will be done.

Cincinnati, April 22.—Peculiar weather conditions during the week culminated in a rain and snow storm of almost unprecedented dimensions. So disastrous is it that a tremendous flood in the Ohio river is impending. It is too early yet to predict with accuracy the extent of the flood, but all signs point to a stage of water that must bring devastation of most serious nature all along the Ohio river and its tributaries in Ohio, West Virginia and Kentucky.

Reports from the upper Ohio valley indicate great alarm among the inhabitants of towns along the Ohio river and tributaries. The flood has already reached many places. Although the rise was more sudden than ever before, yet all points received more timely notices than in former years on account of extra vigilance of the weather bureau. As a rule those living in lower districts are moving on to higher ground. This precaution was taken in this city though the rise did not reach here until today. Very many towns in Ohio can not be reached and it is predicted that there has been loss of life in some of them as well as much damage to property. It is known that at Zanesville and for miles east of that city the telegraph poles are down so that it will require some time to open communication. At Portsmouth a heavy snow was reported and it extends a great distance both east and north of that place. There are many places in West Virginia from which no word can be had and the loss of life and property both is feared in that state.

The storm of wind and snow which prevailed in this city and vicinity Saturday was one of the most disastrous to telephone and telegraph service ever experienced. The wind which came from the north reached at times a velocity of more than 60 miles an hour. Hundreds of poles were torn down and wire communication with all points east of Cleveland was entirely cut off. The condition south was but little better although telegraph companies succeeded in maintaining communication with Chicago and Cincinnati. Many streets of the city were strewn with broken poles and tangled wires. Several persons were severely shocked by coming in contact with live wires, but so far as reported no one was seriously injured. Five or six horses were instantly killed by stepping on wires concealed under deep slush and snow. Traffic on steam and electric lines was badly delayed. In some cases suburban electric roads were completely tied up, owing to immense snow drifts on the tracks.

MINNESOTA AN THE EXPO.

THE BUILDING IS GIVEN A VERY CHOICE SITE.

H. P. Hall and John Morton of the Pan-American exposition returned this morning from a flying trip to Buffalo, where they, with Mr. McDougall, let the contract for Minnesota's state building, says the Minneapolis Journal. Alex McDougall went directly to Duluth, where he will be busy for some weeks preparing a mining exhibit. Mr. Morton and Superintendent McMullen will spend considerable time traveling over the state looking up exhibits. An effort will be made to get the most successful exhibitors at recent state fairs to co-operate in making Minnesota's showing at Buffalo a most creditable one.

The commissioners rented space for a Minnesota display in the manufacturers' building and the space will probably be taken entirely by the flour exhibit. The manufacturers' building is the only one in which rent is charged for space.

Messrs. Hall and Morton are enthusiastic over the exposition. They say that when the buildings are completed they will present a beautiful sight. Instead of the dazzling white of the world's fair buildings, those of Buffalo will be of various colors and the effect will be quite oriental.

Minnesota's building will occupy a choice site among the state buildings on a square by itself, and fronting south. The building will be 60 feet front by 50 deep, two stories high with an attic, which will be finished also. The style is pure colonial, with peristyle front, two stories in height. It will be finished inside and out with plaster and stuff, and the exterior will be ornamented with bas-relief scroll work. On the ground floor will be a reception hall, two stories high, with a fireplace in the rear wall. On either side will be space for exhibits, and waiting rooms for men and women. In the rear will be the commissioners' room and toilet rooms. On the second floor will be two bedrooms and a large room to be used for exhibits and meetings and to be known as the "state room." There will be four bedrooms for employes in the attic.

The state capitol commission will be asked to contribute a model of the new capitol, to be set in the reception room.

This model could also be used at St. Louis in 1903, and would be an effective advertisement of the state.

LAND FRAUDS.

PRACTICED UNDER SOLDIERS' HOMESTEAD ACT.

St. Cloud, Minn., April 19.—S. J. Coulter, special agent of the United States general land office, with headquarters at Duluth, has been spending several days in St. Cloud, and it has leaked out that his mission is one which may prove interesting to persons alleged to have been defrauding the government by fraudulent soldiers' additional land entries at St. Cloud and other land offices. It is claimed the abuse has grown to great proportions within the past few years.

Soldiers who fought in the war of the rebellion are entitled to a quarter section practically free. In many cases the soldiers never exercised their rights, or if exercising them, did not file on a full 160 acres. Under the law they are allowed to file on a full quarter section, and many filings made in recent years have been soldiers' additional entries.

A great many soldiers entitled to filings are dead and it is claimed that speculators and land agents have in some instances obtained the forged signatures of these dead men by often finding men of the same name as the dead soldier and using him to make the filing.

The right is transferable, and it is said energetic attorneys and others in possession of the rules and regulations pertaining to land office practices have buried their scruples and have not hesitated to put themselves in a position amenable to law.

Large numbers of these filings have been made at the St. Cloud land office and the presence of a special agent is understood to be in connection with an effort to ferret out any that may not be genuine. It is not known if any St. Cloud people are involved in the shady transaction.

AGGIE'S ADDRESS.

Full Text of the Document He Issued to His Filipino Followers.

HE NOW LOVES THE FLAG

Urges His Countrymen to Embrace Offered Peace Under Its Folds.

Manila, April 20.—The following is Aguinaldo's address to the Filipino people.

I believe I am not in error in presuming that the unhappy fate to which my adverse fortune has led me, is not a surprise to those who have been familiar with the war. The lessons taught with a full meaning, and which have recently come to knowledge with irresistible force that a complete termination of hostilities and lasting peace are not only desirable, but absolutely essential to the welfare of the Philippine islands.

The Filipinos have never been dismayed at their weakness, nor have they faltered in following the path pointed out by their fortitude and courage. The time has come, however, in which they find their advance along this path to be impeded by an irresistible force, which, while it restrains them, yet enlightens their minds and opens up to them another course, presenting them the cause of peace.

This cause has been joyfully embraced by the majority of my fellow countrymen, who have already united around the glorious sovereign banner of the United States. In this banner they repose their trust and belief that under its protection the Filipino people will attain those liberties which they are beginning to enjoy. The country has declared unmistakably in favor of peace. So be it! There has been enough blood, enough tears and enough desolation. This wish can not be ignored by the men still in arms if they are animated by a desire to serve our noble people which has thus clearly manifested its will. So do I respect this will, now that it is known to me.

After mature deliberation, I resolutely proclaim to the world that I can not refuse to heed the voice of a people longing for peace, nor the lamentations of thousands of families in yearning to see their dear ones enjoying the liberty and the prosperity of the great American nation.

By acknowledging and accepting the sovereignty of the United States throughout the Philippine archipelago, as I now do, and without any reservation whatsoever, I believe that I am serving thee, my beloved countrymen. May the Philippines be thine.

—Emilio Aguinaldo.

WOULD WRECK THE DAM.

TWO ATTEMPTS MADE WITH DYNAMITE AT GULL LAKE.

Two different attempts have been made recently to blow out the Gull Lake dam by means of dynamite, says the Brainerd Tribune. The destruction of this dam would greatly interfere with the work of getting logs out of the lake, and the guilty parties could only have been influenced by a malicious desire to annoy the four or five Brainerd lumber firms who drive their logs through the lake. There are now about ten thousand feet of logs in the lake belonging to Brainerd lumbermen, the value of which is estimated at $100,000, which it is desired to bring out this spring.

Parties who are known to have a grudge against some of these lumbermen are suspected of being guilty, and are being closely watched. The dam is also being guarded by a man with a double barreled shot gun, who will not hesitate to use his gun should he catch anyone attempting to dynamite the dam.

The whole of the lower part of the dam was torn out and destroyed by the dynamite explosion. It is to be hoped that the perpetrators of this devilish work may be apprehended and severely dealt with.

TWO STRIKES.

Inter-Lake Tribune: The Minneapolis carpenters are on a strike. The Browns Valley carpenters are also on a strike—striking nails and constructing houses and other buildings as rapidly as possible, and haven't time to even consider the kind of a strike being indulged in by their Minneapolis brethren.

A RAGING, ROARING FLOOD

Washed down a telegraph line which Chas. C. Ellis of Lisbon, Ia., had to repair. "Standing waist deep in icy water," he writes, "gave me a terrible cold and cough. It grew worse daily. Finally the best doctors in Oakland, Neb., Sioux City and Omaha said I had consumption and could not live. Then I began using Dr. King's New Discovery and was wholly cured by six bottles." Positively guaranteed for Coughs, Colds and all Throat and Lung troubles by A. G. Anderson. Price 50c and $1.00.

KITTSON.

Mrs. Albert Heimich and children are visiting at Maple Lake.

Wm. Simpson's new house begins to show up in fine shape.

Mrs. Bob Smith and son Raymond spent Saturday afternoon with Mrs. A. J. Price.

L. D. Marshall passed through Kittson Monday on his way to Crookston from Beltrami.

Mr. Main's family, from Crookston, are visiting James and Robert Rose for a few days.

Mr. Frank Smith expects to commence work on his new barn the middle of the week.

Miss Grace Duntly accompanied Miss Louise Smith home Saturday afternoon, to spend Sunday.

Mr. Ed. Main returned to Crookston Sunday night. Mr. Main and children returned Tuesday morning.

Three section crews, Carman, Beltrami and Kittson, were all busy fixing the track in the Kittson yard on Monday.

Mr. G. P. Whitesed, of Crookston, was in Kittson Saturday and purchased 80 bushels of seed flax of the St. Anthony & Duluth Elevator Co.

Mrs. James Rose surprised her husband Monday night by inviting in a few of the neighbors, it being Mr. Rose's birthday. Hot maple sugar was served and a delightful time was reported.

ELDRED.

Morten Leikness has some good millet seed for sale.

A car of seed corn was distributed here last Saturday.

C. Monson & Son will have their car of machinery this week.

Mr. Dodsley, of the Standard Oil company, poured oil on us last Monday.

Seeding has partly begun, and if this weather keeps up for two or three days they will go at it in earnest.

Mrs. Thos Moran of Fisher boarded the Monday evening's train for Perley to visit her son in law, Dr. Leslie, who is reported very sick with pleurisy.

M. P. Boyer returned to Audibon, Minn., last week. His brother Carl will take his place here this summer.

S. Dolgaard, the Neby merchant, will ship ten head of cattle from this place this week.

The expense in the digging of ditches is nominal compared to the advancement of the price of land, but it seems some are opposed to land rising in value, because the taxes will then become higher. Such a view of this important matter in this locality seems to be quite general. Why not unite in the effort to make this needed improvement? If it benefits your neighbor a little more in the direct effect than it does you, even though it costs you both the same, will you not be benefited by it indirectly much more than the cost will be? If our seeding is still undone, it is because we have not done our part. Let us unite in the effort this year.

BIRKHOLZ.

S. S. Trickey of Warren was visiting relatives on the Red River last Sunday.

Miss Marie Hedlund of Granville visited her sister Annie at the postoffice on Sunday.

Willie Ebletoft was calling on his friends in town Sunday. Will is popular with all the young people.

Gilbert Thorpe is suffering from inflammation of the eyes. He is being treated by a Grand Forks physician.

The attendance at our school is not as large as it would be if the patrons were not so frightened of the smallpox.

Simon Mortenson is working on the steamer Grand Forks and Pembina, or "Jim Hill's boat," as it is usually called.

All the ladies in the country are ordering hats and bonnets of all shapes, sizes and colors, and all the latest styles at the postoffice.

Our postmistress vaccinated five children and herself the first of the week. There is said to be a case of smallpox at Carl Nelson's, five cases at Eric Nelson's and several at Granville.

DONALDSON.

Seeding is in full blast here now.

Peter Lund has a carload of potatoes for sale.

Peter Lind and Erik Hoglund drove to Stephen Saturday.

Girls are to be admired and ladies to be honored, says Cone.

O. J. Tvete reports having seeded about 200 acres of wheat.

J. G. Whitmore visited Stephen on Wednesday and Thursday.

Wm. Rideout, of Kennedy was seen last Monday on our streets.

Jack Murray, our local horseman, was seen in town Saturday.

Miss Annie Forde went to Crookston Monday to join her sisters.

Andrew Nichols and Mrs. Tomhes visited Mr. and Mrs. Nichols over Sunday.

J. N. Sjoholm was in town Friday accompanied by our jolly Mr. Fogelberg.

Miss Nettie Sheppard took in the sights of Kennedy Friday, returning the same day.

Our dressmakers and our local shoemaker, Erick Hogland, are being kept busy now days.

Herman Miller, who joined the army as a volunteer two years ago, will be home this week. A dance will be given in honor of his return at the local dance hall on Friday night.

Ernest Miller, our comedian, is thinking of leaving us, as he thinks it don't pay well here.

A. N. Rowe looks quite old now days since the removal of his fine mustache and whiskers.

S. O. Myre was in Hallock the other day and had his artificial tooth replaced by Dr. Smith Stoddard.

C. A. Anffedt had the misfortune to step on a rusty nail the other day, and is now walking on crutches.

By the looks of things, the Hallock Weekly News copied the Donaldson news from the Crookston Journal last week.

The election held here for the purpose of voting for a new Era grader resulted so that Davis' town will have one soon.

Anyone wanting their lives insured can just call on K. J. Lind and get a policy in the Northwestern Life Insurance company, as he is their agent here.

Swan O. Myre is patiently waiting for an autoharp which he sent for. When it gets here we will have some swell music, as he is a good all around player.

ANGUS.

L. D. Marshall spent Wednesday in town.

F. Stroble and G. W. drove to Warren on business Friday.

Mr. F. W. Garlock boarded the train Monday evening for Crookston.

Mr. Winchester spent a few days with Mr. Montgomery this week.

Mr. Evans and daughter, Mrs. Wm. Wattam, spent Saturday in Warren.

F. Stroble & Sons, G. W. and A. F., drove to Warren Thursday for seed oats.

Miss H. Palmer commenced a term of school in district No. 185 on Monday morning.

Mr. Rogers has been busy hauling lumber for a house and barn on his land in section 13.

Angus was represented in Grand Forks Saturday by Mr. and Mrs. Palmer and Mrs. Stevens and Mr. Miller.

Miss Garvin returned to Mr. Palmer's Sunday after spending a few days with her parents west of Euclid.

Miss Mattie Thomas returned to her home at Warren Tuesday morning after a few days spent with the Kings.

School commenced in district No. 71 and No. 59, with Mr. Burral teacher in the former and Miss Garvin in the latter.

F. Stroble and son drove to Warren Monday, and while there purchased a fanning mill to separate flax from mustard.

Rev. Wilson of Moorhead will fill the pulpit in the Presbyterian church next Sunday, in the absence of Rev. C. B. Latimere. All are invited.

A number of the young people invaded the home of Mrs. William Wattam Monday evening and had a delightful time playing games and dancing.

Mr. Rose of Britt, Ia., unloaded two carloads of stock, machinery and household goods and is busy hauling them to the building recently vacated by C. Johnson, east of town, near which place his farm is located.

HALLOCK.

There is spring time in the air, and all kinds of birds are happy.

The cold spell of last week hindered seeding somewhat, but it is now in full blast again.

Four prominent citizens from St. Peter, among whom was Senator Johnson, visited this part of the country last week.

The work on the water works is now being carried forward. The tower is completed and the tank will soon be placed on the same.

Three cases of small pox were reported from Northcote last week. The patients are getting on nicely under Dr. Muir, and it is hoped that no new cases will be developed.

Selmer Ryder was committed to the county jail last Thursday on account of insane threats of violence while under the influence of strong drink. An object lesson to young men.

The board of education met last Saturday for the purpose of hiring teachers for the ensuing year. As all the members were not present, a special meeting will be held this week and the selection of teachers for the coming year wil be made. Supt. Uhl has accepted the position at Detroit for the next year.

KNUTE.

B. Benson intends to buy a stump puller this summer.

The funeral of Olaf Aker, son of Nels Aker, was held last Thursday.

Tom Moran has rented Mr. Satre's and Mr. Adson's farm for this summer.

Mr. Abrahamson is talking about going to Lake of the Woods to take a pine claim.

John Aker, son of Nels Aker, returned home last week to attend the funeral of his brother.

WARREN.

Mr. Clark of Stephen spent Monday night in this city.

Mrs. Clark of Angus was a visitor in the city Saturday.

Welcome spring. The beautiful May flowers are now in bloom.

Mr. Ballard, of Lake of the Woods, spent Monday night in the city.

Mr. Cline, Cherokee, Iowa, arrived in Warren last Thursday with a party of land seekers.

Miss Dollie Lucas came over from Dakota last Thursday and is visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. Chester Slee.

Mr. Angus, Miss Adams, Miss Haven Miss Liedle, Miss Holton and Miss Campbell have been re-elected teachers of our school for the coming year.

The entertainment given at the opera house Friday night was well attended, and quite a neat sum was netted from the proceeds. Ice cream and cake was served after the entertainment.

The litle daughter of Elick Palmer came very near losing her life Monday afternoon. In some way the little one got hold of a bottle containing carbolic acid and swallowed a little of the deadly poison. The child was taken immediately to the doctor, and its life was saved, as but little of the poison had been swallowed.

L. Longbridge returned last Thursday from Iowa, where he has been for the last month working on immigration for the Red River Valley. He had in company with him several gentlemen from Iowa who we are informed he located the next day, and on Saturday he went back to the Iowa field to work up more immigration.

G. F. Barnes started his household goods and stock for Sunnyside, Wash. last Saturday, with A. M. Brown in charge of the same. Mr. Barnes and family started Tuesday. He has bought out a meat market in Sunnyside and expects to run that business there and as Mr. Barnes has been engaged in the butchering business here for several years, we predict and wish for him success in his new territory. Mr. Barnes leaves this city with the best wishes of an unlimited number of friends.

Pat Crow the second was captured in Warren last Saturday after he had kidnapped and kept in confinement one day and night one of Mr. Kopang's favorites. And it seems as if J. W. Blawd must have been a partner with Pat Crow the second, as he concealed the little one on his premises. The cries of the victim attracted the attention of Bony and he advised Pat the second to return the little one to its own home. Consequently Pat got nervous and took the little one home but not before he had got possession of the booty, (a pint of fire water) he was to receive for his job. The one kidnapped was a fine little young pointer bird dog. Jack says he does not want to be mixed up with any more kidnapping scrapes.

LENGBY.

Julius Frederickson made a flying trip to Shevlin Sunday.

George Lillo went to Fosston Monday and returned Tuesday.

The new, large flag will be unfurled and hoisted on Arbor day.

Severt Jompe, of Brandsvold, has been visiting and doing some carpenter work for Andrew Olson the past few days.

Miss Dorthia Lillo, who has been staying Crookston for some time, is home for about one week to visit with her folks.

A. J. Olson manager of the Lengby brick yard, is at present at work with a crew of men grading and getting things in shape for brick burning.

A. J. Saterstrom is enlarging the yards at his poultry plant. Many of next season's prize winners, he expects, will be raised in those yards this summer.

Paul Peterson, of Wisconsin, who has spent a few days with John Stave looking over some land in Columbia, departed for home Monday, but intends to buy some of the land here and will return next fall.

J. M. Oman of McIntosh has purchased several lots on Main street and will in the near future erect a fine building, which will be used as a restaurant. Mr. Oman has been engaged in the restaurant business for a number of years and has proven a successful business man.

ST. VINCENT.

Everybody is busy seeding.

Joe Bourette, of the Enterprise, was a transient in town Monday.

Dr. Muir was in the village last Tuesday on professional business.

Farmers report the ground in excellent condition to receive the seed.

County Supt. Cowan was home for a short visit the first of the week.

A baby boy came to gladden the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. S. McLeod last week.

John Gillespie, Nelson Green and Arthur Hutchins transacted business in the county capital Monday last.

Minnesota News.

D. W. Carter has been appointed postmaster at Quiring, Beltrami county, vice F. A. Carter resigned.

J. B. Sullivan of Lake Benton and A. L. Sloss of Appleton, Minn., are organizing a state bank at Stephen.

AROUND THE VALLEY.

Argyle—Louis Sourdiff, an aged farmer, died very suddenly while on his way home from Iowa.

A telegram from New York states the Union Oil & Lead company will erect a 400 barrel linseed oil mill in Minneapolis.

There is every probability that there will be a general strike among the buildings trades in St. Paul next week to start Monday, upon an order for all union men to go out at that time where they are working on jobs with non-union painters.

St. Paul has a mad dog scare, and every means are being employed to prevent the spread of rabies. Within the past six weeks no less than ten dogs have been found suffering from rabies. Hereafter all suspicious cases will be held in quarantine.

John Roller, ringleader of the gang which broke jail at St. Cloud the first of last week, was captured at Bartrum, Todd county, Saturday by Sher- Tyler of Morrison county. All of the six men who made the outbreak are now behind the bars.

Red Wing, Minn—Mabel Christensen, aged two years, while playing near a bonfire, had her clothing catch on fire and was burned to death. Her father, Christ Christensen, in trying to save the life of the child, had both hands badly burned. The unfortunate affair occurred in Burnside, three miles from Red Wing.

In a saloon row at Cass Lake Thursday evening, Rhodes, the North Dakota prize fighter, who has been practicing his science on some "easy ones" at Bemidji and other lumber towns, got a little bit the worst of the deal. Without any particular reason Rhodes jumped onto a Great Northern brakeman, who wasn't slow with his "mits" himself, and in a second the two were engaged in a rough and tumble fight. When the broken chairs and tables had been cleared away it was found that besides having come out with a badly bruised face and head, the Flickertail bully had also sustained a badly broken arm.

The new United States battleship Maine is to be launched on Memorial day. Survivors of the original Maine and the widows and orphans of the sailors killed in Havana harbor will probably be invited to attend the launching.

COMMITS SUICIDE.

Seattle, April 18.—In a fit of despondency over business reverses, aggravated by the depressing effects of an attack of la grippe, Melvin R. Baldwin, an ex-congressman from Minnesota, and former state commissioner of Indian affairs under President Cleveland, yesterday afternoon took his life.

The ex-congressman's body was found lying in his bed in his apartments at 2018 Fourth avenue, with a bullet bolet through his brain, at 7:30 o'clock last night, and, from the condition of the body, it is estimated that death had occurred fully two hours before. Tightly gripped in his hand was a 38-calibre revolver. Duncan McKinley, formerly of Duluth, a friend of the deceased and a former bussiness associate, discovered the body when he went to visit the ex-congressman at his apartments. Entering the room, McKinley spoke to his friend, the outline of whose body could be seen in the darkness of the chamber, and, receiving no response, summoned assistance, only to find that Baldwin had sent a bullet crashing through his brain, and lay in a pool of blood which had accumulated upon the bed clothing, and which was yet flowing freely from the wound in his right temple.

CARD OF THANKS.

I wish to extend through the Journal my sincere thanks to all and especially the ladies of this neighborhood who have so untiringly assisted us through my wife's illness and in the preparation of the funeral.

BEMIDJI NEWS.

The Ambitious Little Village Figuring on a Grand Celebration.

MAY 17th A GALA DAY.

Magnificent Naval Battle to be Fought on the Lake in the Evening.

It has been some time since the news monger of this city has had the time, and you might add the disposition, to inform you of the many interesting bits of news that might be gathered here that would interest your multitude of readers, but the best of us sometimes become dilatory, even neglecting to write a line or two to one's sweetheart or good old mother.

About the most serious thing that has happened here this spring was the maiden spring-time thunder shower that occurred last Friday night at 10:30 sharp, and although it was of very short duration, it caused our usually composed people to scamper into the cellars with a velocity akin to that of a ground squirrel, and they didn't get there any too soon, either, for the lightning, thunder, rain, hail and wind were close after them, accompanied by falling jack pines and Norway pines and white pines, which were felled to earth in less time than any two lumberjacks on the surface of the earth could have downed a sapling. No particular damage was sustained, although there were some narrow escapes, one monster Norway pine just grazing the roof of Mr. Chapman's residence and crushing a corner of the porch. Another large pine fell across a dray belonging to Wes. Wright, also taking down a large number of telephone wires. Possibly forty trees were blown over within the limits of the city.

The all-absorbing question at the present time is: "How many people will be here on May 17 to attend the great celebration and witness the magnificent naval battle on the lake during the evenin?"

As this is to be the first excursion of the season, everybody is very much interested in its success, and it will be a success in every particular. The people of this rushing little city in the back woods propose that the world shall know that they are on earth, and are not so exclusive in the enjoyment of their many good things that they will not cut them in two with their friends.

The committee on arrangements has sent out a large number of enticing advertisements giving a partial synopsis of the events that are to transpire, but the most elaborate preparations are being made to insure the success of the naval battle, and rockets, candles, torpedoes, bombs and mines, that will reach into the thousands, have been ordered directly from the manufacturers.

The ice is out of the lake, and yesterday, although the Sabbath, the lake was covered with all manner of water craft. Fish are begining to turn their attention to the luscious viands that are impaled on the fish hook for their entertainment, and large numbers are so greedy that they hang on to the toothsome morsels until they finally land in the frying pans of the good housewives all about town.

We hope that a host of people from Crookston and other points along the line will meet with us on the 17th of May, if they can not make it convenient to call sooner. Drop the goose quill and come up and have a good time with us.

ACQUITTED HIM.

CALLAHAN FREE, TO THE DISGUST OF JUDGE BAKER.

Omaha, Neb., April 30.—James Callahan was declared not guilty yesterday of any complicity in the kidnapping of Edward Cudahy, Jr. Shortly after 9 o'clock yesterday morning the jury signified to Judge Baker through a bailiff that it was ready to report, having been out since 8:30 o'clock Saturday night. A small audience of fifty attorneys and interested parties had heard the news and were waiting when the twelve men filed in. The foreman announced that the verdict was not guilty.

The judge had evidently been expecting another verdict and was openly disappointed.

"It is impossible for me to understand," he said, "how twelve intelligent men could have agreed upon such a verdict after listening to the testimony. The defendant could not have chosen more wisely if he had been selecting his own representatives and the community could not have made a more unfortunate selection. This jury is discharged without the compliments of the court."

Callahan's attorneys were not present and the defendant expressed a desire to thank the jurors in his own behalf. This the court refused to permit. He said the jury did not deserve any thanks. Two other counts still exist against Callahan and he was at once re-arrested under these. There is doubt, however, whether the state will bring the cases to trial.

Chief of Police Donahue announces that the $5,000 offered for the apprehension of Patrick Crowe will be withdrawn. He says it is one thing to arrest the culprit and another to convict him.

The reward of $50,000 offered jointly by the city and Edward Cudahy, however, will still remain in force.

As far as could be ascertained from the jurymen, there was at no time any serious difference as to their opinion of Callahan's innocence. Three were inclined to favor a verdict of guilty, but were soon convinced by their colleagues that a reasonable doubt existed.

FATAL EXPLOSION.

ONE MAN KILLED, THREE SEVERELY INJURED.

Deadwood, S. D., May 1.—The explosion which occurred at the Chicago & Two Bit mine, in which Charles Woods lost his life, was the most horrible that has occurred in the Hills for many years. Three other men were severely hurt, and one will probably lose the sight of one eye. When the night shift of men left duty early in the morning, they had left one shot that had failed to go off, but the day shift was warned of it. They were unable to locate it, but when Woods, who was a helper in the mine, was drilling a hole with a machine drill, the drill got stuck, and, endeavoring to loosen it, a tremendous explosion took place. A piece of steel drill was blown directly through Woods' body and he lived but two days afterwards.

James D. Hardin, general manager of the mine, most narrowly escaped a frightful death. He was about to enter the shaft when a telephone message called him away. Just then the explosion occurred.

Woods was taken to his parents on the Belle Fourche river, where he will be buried. He leaves a young wife and an infant child.

ANOTHER COMBINE.

PENNSYLVANIA COAL CO. JUST INCORPORATED

Trenton, N. J., May 1.—The Pennsylvania Coal company, with an authorized capital of $50,000,000, was incorporated here Monday to mine, manufacture and deal in iron, steel, manganese and other minerals, also lumber. The incorporators are L. B. Morris, E. G. Feltham and H. G. Coss. The headquarters of the company is given as Camden, N. J. which is the registered New Jersey office of the company.

The articles of incorporation permit the company to have anywhere from nine to fifteen directors and advantage is taken of the recent legislative act, which permits the changing of the bylaws at any properly called meeting, by a majority vote of all the stock represented at the meeting.

The capital is divided into $25,000,000 preferred and $25,000,000 common and the preferred stock is to pay seven per cent non-cumulative dividends.

GOPHER TAILS AT PAR.

TAKEN IN TRADE BY SOUTH DAKOTA MERCHANTS.

Bath, S. D., May 1.—The bounty on gophers, which has been paid by the county commissioners for several years, is popular with the juvenile portion of the population, and also with some of the older people. There are two varieties of gophers, the large or "flicker-tail," which does a great deal of damage to grain by pulling down the stem and eating the heads, a single specimen often destroying several square rods in a patch, and the small, or striped, which do very little damage. This year the bounty is 2 cents per tail for both kinds, the time in which it is paid being limited to the first of May.

Merchants, in order to accommodate their customers, take gopher tails in trade for anything they carry in stock, accepting them at par. When the merchant has accumulated a supply he takes them to the county auditor, who issues a warrant for the amount called for, the merchant steps into the treasurer's office to cash the warrant and the incident is closed so far as he is concerned. The auditor destroys the tails with fire after placing them in an iron tank and soaking them with kerosene.

The men whom the critics never criticise feel neglected, while the criticised always feel abused.

Uncle Jo's Column

I wonder what's the matter with our Commercial Union? Some how we don't seem to be doin' anything about capturing any of those enterprises that are lookin' for homes. If that Commercial Union would only wake themselves up and git to work they might do a great deal to help git things here. We want all the factories we can git. And we ought to have some agency here that would make a systematic effort to show folks the advantages we can give 'em here. Now these land agents have been doin' a whole lot of good advertisin' for Crookston, and there's more people thinkin' about Crookston and wonderin' what we've got here now than ever before. And it wouldn't take much additional work to git a whole lot more of business here.

—o$o—

And here we are just sittin' still and lettin' the chance slip through our fingers. It seems to me this is just one of the times the poet writ about, when he said something about a time in the affairs of men which taken at its ebb—well there, I can't tell just how it goes. Poetry and singin' are a good deal like each other to me. I'm awful fond of both of 'em, but I can't remember poetry worth a cent, and I can't sing worth half a cent. But anyway, I think this is one of the times in the affairs of Crookston when she ought to be wide awake and catch on to all the possibilities that are headin' this way. And if we don't do it we'll be sorry.

—o$o—

Well, I've found out about Decoration Day since I writ about it before, and I guess the boys ain't goin' to do anything to make much of an expense this year. Everybody seems to be so busy that they ain't got time to chip in and meet the expense of a regular Memorial celebration, and they have kind of got the boys out of the notion for this year. But I guess we'll have a kind of reunion, and have a dinner perhaps and then go out to the cemetery and do the best we can to decorate the graves of our comrades. I think that will be the very least we ought to do anyway.

—o$o—

After the above was writ Mayor Campbell saw what the Journal said about the citizens leadin' off in mangin' the Decoration Day exercises and he called a committee meetin' of the citizens and the G. A. R. boys and the W. R. C., and they made up their minds the Journal's idea was all right and that the citizens ought to do the celebratin' and invite the old soldiers to help 'em. So they fixed up some committees and are goin' ahead with the program, and I guess they'll fix it up all right, and will have a grand celebration. And that'll be a better way than for the G. A. R. boys to manage it, and it'll give us more of a celebration, too.

—o$o—

Poor old Times, how discouraged it must be gittin'. It's almost sure death for a cause for it to be championed by the Times. I guess it has failed to get about everything it has tried for the last two years. That is if the people had anything to say about the matter. It tried to get McKenzie onto the school board two years ago, and the people said no mighty plain. Then it took up Mr. Wheeler and tried to elect him mayor, and I heard a whole lot of men say that they knew if the Times had kept its hands off he'd have been elected. Then last fall it pitched in and tried to elect some of them fellows that were runnin' for office and every one of 'em got beat. Then it took up the cudgel for Capt. Brown, and he got beat. Now it undertook to git Mr. Hitchcock re-elected and he got beat. And from what I see of things I guess about all the nerve it has got left is what Andy furnishes to it.

—o$o—

So Prof. Casey is tryin' to learn to ride a bicycle, that is I guess he's learnin', he's tryin' anyway. And he's gettin' so he's on top part of the time. He can keep on top as long as it don't topple over or wabble 'round too much. He hangs his Prince Albert coat on the fence up there on the hill by the court house, and he gits into the saddle and starts down hill, and sails along grippin' them handle bars and grittin' his teeth with a kind of exultant I'm-gettin'-there air, same as he showed last fall before election when he was runnin' for office. And by the same token I'll bet he'll win out on the bicycle too. He's got lots of get-there about him, and he almost always succeeds in gettin' clear down to the foot of the hill before the bicycle gets on top, already, and it won't be more than a week or two before he'll be ridin' all 'round town.

—o$o—

Some how or other them bicycles always seemed to me like kind of ticklesome things. I should think more folks would git hurt on 'em than there does. They must be awful handy things when a fellow can ride 'em all right. Sometimes I have most a notion to try and break one in. But I'm a little afraid it wouldn't agree with my rumatiz. And perhaps I couldn't fall off as graceful as Casey does. That is, I mean to strike on the ground quite as graceful as he does. I am real sure I could tumble off as easy and graceful as anybody, but its the way a man lights on the ground that counts. The way you ride, makes a good deal of difference about how much liniment you have to use.

—o$o—

I was readin' in the Journal about Julius Pleth up there to St. Hilaire offerin' $50 in prizes for corn. I wonder why the Journal and Mr. Pleth don't git their heads together and kind of have a little corn exhibit here. I think that would be a nice scheme. That prize corn project is first rate anyway. I've heard several of the farmers talkin' about it and if the season looks all right when it comes corn plantin' time there's a whole lot of 'em goin' to try corn this year. But the ones that try it in a kind of slipshod way and don't take pains to do it right are goin' to get left.

UNCLE JO.

40,000 NEW SETTLERS.

THAT MANY HAVE PASSED VIA THE TWIN CITIES.

The Minneapolis Times is authority for the statement that between 40,000 and 45,000 settlers have been taken through the Twin Cities since the inauguration of cheap rates in February. This estimate is based upon inquiries made yesterday by the Times of representatives of the three coast lines. The Great Northern claims to have taken fully 20,000 out of Minneapolis and St. Paul, and asserts that its showing is slightly in excess of the Northern Pacific, but as some of the business for points on the latter system were sent through over the Burlington via the Billings gateway, the Northern Pacific is conceded to have considerably the better of the argument.

The agent of the Manitoba government in the Twin Cities claims that 4,000 settlers were taken into Canada since the homeseekers' excursion commenced. He claims that fully as many more will go before the season is over. Practically all of this business was taken care of by the Soo line. The latter, however, did not carry its full portion across the international border. Many hundred were dropped at Minot and neighboring towns along the Soo route, swelling the already strong settlements in that part of North Dakota.

Hundreds of Dakota settlers went into that state by way of Oakes, coming from Iowa, Nebraska and more southern points. These are not included in the movement through the Twin Cities. Neither are many hundred others who went west from Duluth and who left northern Wisconsin and northern Michigan. At least 50,000 homeseekers have gone west this season, counting those passing through other gateways than the Twin Cities.

The coming week, however, is expected to bring 5,000 or 6,000 more. It will be the closing excursion of the season, and hundreds who held off are expected to move. There has been pressure to have cheap weekly rates continued, but this will not be done.

IN A WATERY GRAVE.

MAN DROWNED FOUR CHILDREN AND HIMSELF

St. Paul, April 30.—The police authorities believe that Wm. Rosenfield has thrown his four children, ranging in age from two and a half to seven years, into the Mississippi river from the Marshall avenue bridge and then leaped in after them. All are supposed to be drowned. None of the bodies have yet been recovered, but according to the police report satisfactory evidence is at hand that the crime was committed. osenfield has been separated from his wife, who had taken three of the children and gone to Minneapolis to live with her sister. On committed. Rosenfield has been separhorse and buggy and taking with him the seven year old child who still resided with him, drove to Minneapolis. He drove to the house where his wife was staying and while she was at the sick bed of her sister the husband secured the younger children and drove off with them. Before leaving the house he is said to have told one of the inmates that "the next time they saw him or the children they would be wearing crape."

Thursday morning an officer of the Prior avenue station found the horse still hitched to the buggy with a dog which had been a pet of the children, wandering about in the vicinity of the Marshall avenue bridge. No other trace of the occupants had been found. The theory of the officers which they claim is substantiated by evidence they have, is that Rosenfield drove to the center of the bridge, which is about 200 feet above the river, threw the children in and then leaped in himself.

I venture to say that if some one discovered a medicine that would give us perpetual youth, even the saints would take a big dose and throw away their preparation for death.

SHEEP VS. DOGS.

New Law Provides That Dog Owners Must Pay for Damages They Do.

DOG TAXES FORM A FUND

To Be Drawn Upon to Indemnify Sheep Owners for Damages Sustained.

Under the provisions of chapter 187 of the laws passed by the late legislature, all owners of dogs are required to pay a tax of one dollar on each male and three dollars on each female dog. This tax is to be levied and collected the same as other personal property taxes, and when so collected is to be kept in a fund by itself and held for the purpose of payment of damages committed by dogs killing or injuring sheep in any part of the county. The law directs that whenever any damage is sustained by reason thereof the owner of such sheep shall, as soon as possible thereafter, and within two (2) days, notify one of the supervisors, or any member of the village or city council within whose jurisdiction the damage has been sustained. When complaint of such loss is made to a supervisor, or to any member of the village or city council, the official to whom such complaint has been made will at once proceed to view the damage incurred, with a view to fix upon the amount of the same. If the loss exceeds ten (10) dollars, he shall call in the assistance of any tax payer within the district who is not of kin to the party who has suffered the loss, to aid him in determining the same.

But when the loss exceeds fifty (50) dollars, the board of supervisors, in the one case, and not less than three (3) members of the village, town or city council in the other, shall be called upon to fix the amount of the loss sustained.

The amount fixed upon shall immediately be reported to the town clerk or the village or city clerk or recorder, who shall forthwith issue to the person sustaining such damage or loss a certificate containing the name of the person who has suffered such damage or loss, on what account, and the amount thereof as fixed by said viewers, payable after April first after said loss has occurred; and if there is not sufficient funds on hand to pay losses in full, then pay pro rata.

The county treasurer shall pay the amount of said certificate out of any funds in his hands applicable to the same, on order of the county auditor. Provided, however, that all damages assessed as herein provided shall not exceed the sum of ten (10) dollars for each and every registered sheep and three (3) for each and every unregistered sheep and two (2) dollars for each and every lamb under six (6) months of age killed or rendered worthless by a dog or dogs.

Sec. 4. The officer or officers, or person chosen as viewer, shall receive compensation at the rate of two (2) dollars per day for services rendered while viewing the loss or damage sustained under this act, to be paid by the county on warrant of the county auditor out of the fund raised under its provisions, after April first, as provided above.

Sec. 5. Any person who owns, keeps or harbors a dog or dogs on the first of May, in each year, or afterwards before assessment is made, and who neglects or refuses to report the same for taxation, shall upon conviction thereof be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and be fined a sum not less than ten (10) dollars nor more than twenty-five (25) dollars, and in default thereof be committed to the common jail of the county for not more than thirty (30) days. And all fines so collected shall be paid into the county treasury of the county and be credited to said special fund.

Sec. 6. Whenever said fund in the hands of the county treasurer equals two thousand (2,000) dollars, then all sums in excess of two thousand (2,000) dollars, on the first of July each year, shall be transferred, after the payment of all losses provided for in this act, to the road and bridge fund of the county.

Sec. 7. Any person or persons who keep or harbor, or any owner who permits to run at large a dog or dogs that have bitten, worried, chased, killed or damaged any sheep or lamb, after having been notified that such dog or dogs have bitten, worried, chased, killed or damaged any sheep or lamb, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than five (5) dollars and not more than fifty (50) dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail not more than sixty (60) days, or by both fine and imprisonment.

All moneys received from such fines shall be paid to the treasurer of the county and by him credited to the fund hereinbefore provided for.

Sec. 8. This action shall not apply to counties having a population of seventy-five thousand (75,000) or over.

This law is of so much interest to dog owners and sheep owners that we publish it at length, fearing that some of our readers may overlook it in the law supplement.

A FORTY DAYS FAST.

NEBRASKA MAN COMPLYING WITH DIVINE COMMAND.

Omaha, Neb., May 1.—In response to what he believes to be a divine admonition Henry Cordes, of Beatrice, Neb., has refused to touch food since April 5.

He says he has besought the Lord for permission to eat, but has been directed in reply to continue the fast for forty days.

"I have no fear that the Lord will let me die, and except for a slight weakness I really feel better than when I was permitted to eat three times a day.

"I do not feel that this command came as a punishment for any wrong doing, but simply that God has chosen me to exemplify His works."

Mr. Cordes is of powerful build, over six feet in height and so far shows little emaciation as the result of his fast. He was formerly troubled with weakness of the heart, but says that this trouble has disappeared since he showed a willingness to follow the Lord's will.

He is able to walk about the streets of the town and converse with his friends in his ordinary manner.

Personally Mr. Cordes says he is much averse to having the details of his ordeal made public, but inasmuch as it is a divine command, he believes that mankind should receive the story of the renunciation as one intended for its good.

Mr. Cordes was born in Seymour, Ind., where his mother, brother and three sisters still live.

In 1893 he found that he was drifting away from the vows taken as a member of the Methodist church, and since then has undergone a number of fasts lest the flesh should again gain sway. None of the previous ordeals have been as extended, however, as the present one.

U. S. A DUMPING GROUND.

FOR ITALIAN PAUPERS AND CRIMINALS.

New York, April 30.—The Herald says: "Italy is making of the United States a dumping ground for her criminals and paupers. This factor has been forcibly brought to the attention of the local authorities by the arrival in this port of three Italian brigands, whose depredations made them a scourge to the province in which they were reared.

"Despairing of being relieved in any other manner, the merchants upon whom they had preyed made up a liberal purse with which the three were sent to this country, landing with money enough in their pockets to pass unquestioned.

"The three desperadoes, finding themselves unchecked, are now in Kansas City. Warning has been sent by Police Commissioner Murphy to the Kansas City police, who now have the Italians under strict surveillance.

"After they arrived in this city the brigands lived quietly for a while, making their plans for future operations."

Commissioner Murphy is convinced that this is no isolated case.

"Italian criminals," said the commissioner, "are pouring into New York on every ship that brings immigrants. The popular belief that our laws bar out criminals and paupers is a mistaken belief.

"It may be that the Italian government has had no part in the scheme, but it is still true that the United States is being made a dumping ground, receiving the cast-offs from the Italian prisons and pauper house."

TO CONSIDER TAX MATTERS.

County Auditor Petterson received word Monday from H. W. Childs, secretary of the newly appointed tax commission, stating that a meeting will be held in the court house here at 9 o'clock a. m., May 8, for the purpose of exchange of opinions in regard to tax matters in a general way, between all persons interested. This, it is believed, will be a very practical way of getting at the objectionable features in the tax law, and enabling intelligent action on the part of the commission looking to a remedy. All persons who are interested are invited to attend.

You fool nobody but fools by going to the prayer meeting with your Bible under your arm and plunder in your pocket. God's eye is the original X-rays.

BY THE ROPE ROUTE

Martin Martinson, a Stranger, is Found Dangling to a Rope.

NOTHING KNOWN OF DEAD MAN

Unless Despondency Prompted Rash Act no Reason is Known.

Tired with the miseries connected with earthly life, Martin Martinson, a Norwegian of probably 35 years, some time last evening became his own judge and ended his career by hanging himself on the top floor of the building on Second street known as the White Front saloon. The direct cause of the dead man's rash act will always remain a deep mystery, as no one, who during the few days he lived here, had any inkling that the man ached for self destruction.

Martinson came to Crookston about three or four days ago, ostensibly hailing from Rainy Lake county. He was in possession of some money, which he spent freely among his new associates in the city, and until yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock, when he was last seen alive in the White Front saloon, apparently cheerful and in the best of spirits, he was counted as "one of the boys." At the stated time he disappeared and no one saw anything more of him until his lifeless body was found, at the end of a rope, in the large room above the saloon.

The horrifying discovery was made by Nels N. Finnie, janitor of the building, who had his bed in the room in question, and wanted to retire for the night at that time. Finnie carried a light in his hand, and upon turning around after reaching the top of the stairs he became horrified to see the form of a human being dangling at the end of a rope, which had been fastened above the joint of a sewer pipe running through the floor, and around the man's neck.

Finnie immediately returned to the saloon part of the building and gave notice of his terrible find. A number of men who were present at the time rushed upstairs and found Finnie's statements verified. The man was cold in death, and had probably been so for several hours.

Coroner Chesterman was at once notified of the tragedy and upon his arrival the body was cut down and an examination made as to his identification. In his pockets were found citizenship papers which were taken out at Spokane, Wash., and several addressed envelopes, as well as a photograph of a young appearing lady. Before committing the awful deed, Martinson frequently asked of his new acquaintances if they knew his brother, whom he supposed was a resident of Polk county, but failed to elicit the desired answer.

When found the feet of the suicide touched the floor and he was hanging in a semi-kneeling position. Self destruction was evident, and Coroner Chesterman did not deem it necessary to hold an inquest upon the remains.

The body was ordered removed to Chesterman's undertaking rooms, where they will remain until Monday, where they remained until Monday.

Despondency is the only cause that can be assigned for the dead man's rash act, as he appeared otherwise healthy and of sound mind. He was fairly well dressed and did not show any signs of being the worst for liquor.

A SIX MILE DITCH.

WILL DRAIN MANY ACRES IN RED LAKE COUNTY.

Monday was a lively day at the court house and Auditor Zeh has his hands full waiting on the would be ditch contractors, says the Red Lake Falls Gazette. The result of the bidding was that eight contractors got the work, and the amounts paid and the average cost per cubic yard came very close to the original estimates made by Engineer Ralph. There are 7,775 cubic yards of dirt to be removed, and the average cost will be from 5 to 10 cents per cubic yard. Some bidders went as low as 7 cents, others got the maximum, 11½ cents. Those who received contracts were Joe Pateaude, A. Perusse, X. Sauve, E. A. Moran, Louis Ducharme, Dan Linnihan, W. W. Barnard of Moorhead, and Thos. Smith of Crookston. The jobs are let by stations of one hundred feet each. The ditch will be six miles long and an average of 3½ feet deep. The mouth will have to be completed first, before the first of July, while the contractors on the upper portion will have till Nov 1.

UNWORTHY CHUM.

REWARDS HIS BENEFACTOR BY ROBBING HIM

The county bastile received a new lodger Saturday night in the person of one who calls himself Albert Olson, although he has been known by other names, says the Warren Register. Olson was in Argyle last Thursday evening and struck August Wahlmark for 50 cents with which to pay for a night's lodging, claiming that he was entirely broke. Wahlmark assumed the role of Good Samaritan and offered to share with Olson his room at the Farmer's Home. Olson accepted the offer and then, so it is alleged, rewarded his benefactor by going through his clothes and extracting therefrom the sum of $100. After securing his booty Olson decamped and footed it to Warren, where he forthwith invested a portion of his illgotten wealth in a goodsized jag. Wahlmark discovered his loss Friday morning and that afternoon Marshal Boyce, accompanied by John Sinclair, came down from Argyle and arrested Olson and took him back with them. The accused was taken before Squire Barker for examination and was by him bound over to await the action of the next grand jury on the charge of grand larceny. Sheriff Forsberg went to Argyle on Saturday and took Olson into his keeping.

WAIVED HEARING

Joseph Beauchamp, Attempted Murderer of His Child Wife Held.

MRS. BEAUCHAMP IN COURT

She Has Sufficiently Recovered to Appear Against Her Murderous Husband.

Joseph Beauchamp, the attempted wife murderer, was taken before Judge McLean Friday for preliminary hearing, and waived examination. His wife, whose life he attempted to extinguish a few weeks ago, had so far recovered as to appear in court against her murderous husband. The woman was accompanied by her brother in law, R. D. Bailey, and was taken from her place of residence to the city hall in a hack. Her appearance is almost child-like, and two black eyes shine out of her pallid face in a way that attracts more than a passing notice. She trembled slightly as she entered the little court room and espied her assailant, who was seated in an opposite corner, next to the sheriff. Outside of this nothing emotional was shown in her demeanor, and she never cast her eyes upon Beauchamp again during her stay in the room.

Beauchamp appeared without an attorney, and when the charge of "assault with a dangerous weapon and with intent to do great bodily harm," was read to him, the prisoner waived examination.

The prosecution then examined Deputy Sheriff Gonyea, one of the state's witnesses, who brought the prisoner from Duluth to the Polk county jail. The witness stated that he had a conversation with Beauchamp in which he had admitted that he shot his wife. This statement was all that County Attorney Rowe desired at this time, and he closed the examination of the witness. The prosecuting attorney then asked the prisoner if he had any questions to ask, to which he replied "no," and he was held to the grand jury without bail, to await the action of that body.

Mrs. Beauchamp was not put on the stand, and returned home soon after the proceedings were over.

PLAY BALL.

"Crookston to bat!"

This will be a popular cry during the coming base ball season in the Red River valley. The initiative steps for the organization of a base ball club were taken Thursday, when a number of enthusiasts and business men met to perfect an organization.

The unanimous conclusion of the gathering was that the Queen City should have a team this year, which will make other teams in the valley look like a chain of ciphers when the season closes and the smoke of the ball battles have cleared away.

The management has already secured sufficient patronage through advertisements on score cards to warrant all necessary expenses of the club, and the Ruettell Clothing company generously volunteered the donation of new uniforms for all the players.

The newly elected officers, Manager W. P. Murphy and President J. H. Ruettell are in correspondence with a number of outside ballists who are anxious to become members of the Crookston organization, and although there is plenty of material in the city to make up a crack nine, it may be decided to secure outside players for the season to strengthen the local team. It is therefore not exaggerating to say that the Queen City lovers of the national game will have ample opportunity the coming season to witness better playing than ever before exhibited in the northwest.

At last evening's meeting only the manager and president were elected, and the balance of the officers, directors and committees will be chosen at a future meeting, when it is expected to have the nine completed and ready for business.

The first game to be played here will be agreed upon in a few days.

DOES IT PAY TO BUY CHEAP?

A cheap remedy for coughs and colds is all right, but you want something that will relieve and cure the more severe and dangerous results of throat and lung troubles. What shall you do? Go to a warmer and more regular climate? Yes, if possible; if not possible for you, then in either case take the ONLY remedy that has been introduced in all civilized countries with success in severe throat and lung troubles, "Boschee's German Syrup." It not only heals and stimulates the tissues to destroy the germ disease, but allays inflammation, causes easy expectoration, gives a good night's rest, and cures the patient. Try ONE bottle. Recommended many years by all druggists in the world. Get Green's Prize Almanac. F. H. Hillard & Son.

$100 COMMISSION.

To anyone bringing me a buyer for the NW¼ of Section 34, 160 acres, town of Andover, and the NW¼ of Section 4, 165 12-100 acres, town of Hammond, in Polk county, Minn. Price, $20 per acre if taken before seeded. Every foot tillable land, and $1,000 worth of improvements; 160 acres plowed, balance in stubble field and pasture.

BULLET IN BREAST

Clarke Bratton, the Erskine Miller Killed by Accidental Shot.

BODY FOUND BY EMPLOYES.

Man Wanted to Shoot Geese and Meets with Tragic Death.

Saturday morning Coroner Chesterman received a telephone message from Erskine, summoning him to that place at once to hold an inquest, and the county officer left on the 9 o'clock train in response to the call.

Mr. Chesterman found his mission to be to hold an inquest upon the body of Clarke Bratton, who met death early in the morning by the accidental discharge of his gun while hunting geese.

Bratton left his home at about 6 o'clock in the morning to kill geese in the near by lake, and nothing more was thought about it until he was missed at his post of duty an hour later. He was employed as miller in Narveson & Dargin's flouring mill at Erskine, and when he failed to show up on time his employers set out to enquire into the cause of his absence. They were informed of his movements, and surmising that an accident might have befallen him, they started out in search, and within a quarter of a mile from his residence they found Bratton lying face down over his gun, with a bullet hole in breast, dead and cold in a pool of blood. It was apparent that he accidentally inflicted the wound which ended his life.

Deceased was about 40 years old and leaves a wife and four young children. He was a member of the Red Lake Odd Fellows' lodge, and also belonged to the Modern Woodmen lodge of Erskine.

The unfortunate occurence has cast a gloom and sorrow over the town, as the dead man was generally respected by everybody who knew him.

A BAD LOT OF BOYS

AT EAST GRAND FORKS SUSPECTED OF STEALING.

Quite a sensation has been caused in East Grand Forks as a result of the theft of valuable fittings from a gasoline boat owned by A. O. Lystad that plys the water of Red Lake river.

The boat was beached some time ago for the purpose of making some needed repairs. Thursday it was discovered that she had been stripped of all brass fittings, and that in securing these the thieves had done considerable damage to other parts of the boat. The police started an investigation and it was but a short time till it developed that the fittings had been stolen by 8 or 10 boys, some of them connected with the best families of East Grand Forks.

The boys have been at work for several days past securing their spoils and it has been discovered that some parties on this side of the river have been the purchasers of the fittings, paying the youngsters 8 cents a pound for the stolen property. The boys have not been arrested as yet, but they are all under surveillance and will be all under surveillance and were arrested Friday.

It is also understood that the parties who purchased the fittings will be prosecuted as soon as all the property is located. The officers have found the greater part of it.

The case will attract a great deal of attention, as there has been great complaint for some time past of petty thieving, but nothing has yet occurred on such a large scale. The fittings stolen are valued at about $300 and the total damage done will amount to about $500. Mr. Lystad announces that he will certainly prosecute the offenders as vigorously as possible, regardless of who they are.

BIG FOREST FIRE.

1,000,000 FEET OF LOGS BURNED IN WISCONSIN.

Duluth, April 29.—Advices from Ashland, Wis., reported the first serious forest fire of the season Friday afternoon when 1,000,000 feet of Hemlock logs were burned near Mellen, and the Wisconsin Central passenger train got by the fire with difficulty. Fires are scattered all along the south shore of Lake Superior, and near Iron River and Muskeg are said to be particularly active.

Wise and Otherwise.

That there are two sides to a question I know, and really I have been wise enough this time to see both of them, though it took me a week to do so. When I bewailed my discomforts on account of house cleaning in the home where I am a member of the household, last week, I only saw one side, and that my own selfish one, and so I am determined to make reparation as far as possible by giving a little wholesome advice to others who may occupy a position somewhat like my own. Now, my friends, who do not have the actual labor of cleaning house, did you ever stop to think you had a part to play? You are not the most abused person in the house, anyway, nor the most tired either. House keepers don't plan to do this just for fun. It is a pure necessity and should be helped by a pleasant smile, and better yet, a little actual service once in a while. Help, when every physical power well night exhausted is when it is sure to be appreciated. When I went out to the kitchen and helped to wash the dishes one day this week I felt sure that it was really more assistance than a whole half day of work would have been, when only the ordinary duties had been performed. The man of the house is generally the hardest one to manage during this process, I notice. Wouldn't it be more manly, to say nothing of the justice of the matter, for you to make life a little more bearable for your wife? Why do you expect more pie during that week than any other during the year? Why do you make her ask you a dozen times when you will move the stove or take down the mattresses, or even whip the carpets? Are you afraid she would faint if you should ask her what she expects to do today, and if she wants a little help before you go to the store or office? I advise you to try it. She is sure to come out all right. Don't be afraid. Now, if you do your part and get as much comfort out of it as I have, we will be through quicker, and all the happier too.

—o$o—

The premises where I live have not been cleaned up yet, but I overheard the man of the house tell his wife this morning that if she'd have the children rake up all the old tin cans and broken bits of crockery, he'd dump them into the river. I wonder if he will do it tonight or wait a week? If I were a wife I do believe I would lose all patience with everything if I continually had to wait, wait. No, I rather think I'd do as most wives do, overwork, but do it myself rather than wait. From the odors that greet us from burning rubbers, bones, rags and refuse of all descriptions these days, one would almost wish for a wind that never blew, for of course your neighbor is always ready to do that work when the breeze will carry it just your way. Never mind, it won't last always. Shut up your window, and think how much better his back yard will look all summer.

—o$o—

I see by the papers that notice has been given all property owners to clean up their premises forthwith. I wondered if that didn't include the alleys, and came to the conclusion Thursday and Friday, those windy days you remember, that if it did there was something wrong, for papers came flying out in every direction and odors of all conceivable kinds were rife. This alley cleaning in most towns, your own not excepted, is generally once and for all summer, and let me ask you why this spasmodic clenaliness? It strikes me that a clean thing is kept clean by cleaning every so often. As I am on the subject, I will say that the slack way in which entrances and public halls and buildings are kept in Crookston cause more comments from strangers than anything I have noticed since I came here. I wonder at it, for you seem to be so proud of your city and are so desirous that your name and fame shall be without a blemish. Haven't you thought about it? The people who dwell in the blocks have, I am sure.

—o$o—

Social gatherings have been somewhat at a standstill the past week. A few tea parties and the church Ladies' Aid meetings have been about the only society events, I think. Mrs. Glenn, of Hunter street, entertained her lady friends at tea both Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons in an extremely informal and pleasant manner. "It was all so nice and we had such a good time." So said one of her guests. Undoubtedly the great question this week has been pertaining to school matters. Interest has run high as to the outcome of the election of city superintendent of schools. Even the strictly society ladies have taken a hand and worked it to a finish. But Crookston's school board evidently knew what they wanted, and after thorough investigation made the decision regardless of the pressure. I for one congratulate our city that it has a school board of that kind. But I wonder if the people who were so free to circulate adverse rumors of the incoming superintendent, of whom so few of you could possible know anything good or bad feel justified in the part they have played? Aren't judgments formed without knowledge or even investigation a little hasty and rather indiscreet? I wonder, too, how many of those people who seemed most anxious for the retention of Mr. Hitchcock have actually visited the schools often enough to form a judgment of the quality of his work. Be that as it may, the "die is cast," and your friend's superintendent is destined to be your superintendent, and wouldn't it be wise to be of the mind of a prominent business man of the city who said to a friend yesterday: "Prof. Selleck will be my boy's superintendent too, and I shall give him my support in his work."

PRAIRIE FIRE.

THREE SECTIONS IN SPRING CREEK FLAME-SWEPT.

On Tuesday afternoon a prairie fire was started on the northwest quarter of section 20, town of Spring Creek, Norman county, says the Fertile Journal, and as there was a strong south wind blowing at the time, the fire swept northward across sections 17, 8 and 5, at an alarmingly rapid rate. The progress of the flames was checked at the north line of section 5, as there was nothing further for them to feed upon, the land beyond that line being under the plow.

The only sufferer from the fire is Soren Sorenson, who with his wife and two children resides on the southeast quarter of section 8. Mr. Sorenson had but recently moved into this neighborhood, coming here from Iowa, and had just completed a new barn, which, together with the contents, was destroyed by the flames. Two colts, one 2 years old and the other a yearling, were burned to death in the barn.

The house was saved by the timely assistance of a number of the neighbors. Mr. Sorenson was in Fertile at the time the fire occurred. His loss will aggregate about $400.

THE CITY WINS.

SUPREME COURT DECIDES AGAINST J. G. JOHNSON.

From Mayor Campbell, a Journal reporter today received the following statement pertaining to the damage suit of J. G. Johnson vs. the city of Crookston, which has been dragging in the courts for several years:

It will be certainly a source of congratulation for all our people to learn of the decision rendered in favor of the city by the supreme court on the 26th inst.

This suit was brought by John G. Johnson against Thos. F. Walsh and James Kennedy, co-partners as Walsh & Kennedy, and the city of Crookston to recover the sum of $5,000 damages alleged to have been sustained by the plaintiff from falling into a sewer excavation at the corner of Broadway and Houston avenue, because the excavation was negligently left unguarded and without proper danger signals. This suit was tried twice in the district court, the last trial resulting in a verdict for the defendants. From an order denying a new trial, the plaintiff appealed to the supreme court, with the result above referred to.

DeForest Bucklen, who was retained by the city and who has since defended the city so ably in this important case, not only deserves all the boquets which have been thrown at him by members of the bar, but the city as a whole for the victory won in behalf of the city.

A. R. Holston, present city attorney, was present and joined in the argument of this case before the supreme court.

Margret Vannet, $47.50.

After allowing bills the board adjourned sine die.

BRYAN FOR GOVERNOR.

HIS AMBITION IS STILL UNQUENCHED.

Edward Rosewater, editor of the Omaha Bee, is quoted as saying:

"Wm. J. Bryan, in my opinion, will be a candidate for governor of Nebraska next year. Bryan still exerts a wide influence in the state, and if he received the gubernatorial nomination he will be a very hard man to beat.

"If elected governor he will hope to secure a democratic legislature, in which event he will seek an election to the United States senate to succeed Gov. Dietrich, whose term will expire in 1905."

FOR SALE—A good seven room house and lot for sale, No. 311 Fourth street, near the N. P. depot. Also a small barn. Those wishing to purchase will do well to call on Mrs. H. E. Cooke at once and get price, as she expects to return east soon. She can be found at the residence of F. W. Hall, 228 Houston ave. Di W1

ROHOLT'S $10 BILL

Gets a Gypsy Woman Into Serious Trouble at Climax.

SHE WANTED MORE MONEY

After Getting it She and Her Band Attempted to Leave Town.

A band of dirty, greasy and thieving gypsies have infested the town of Climax, in the southwestern part of Polk county, for several weeks, and Friday one of the women in the band, who poses as a fortune teller and clairvoyant, attempted to swipe a ten dollar bill from John Roholt, a citizen of Climax, and in consequence now languishes in the village lock-up of the town.

It appears that there were about 25 of the tribe, including men, women and children, gathered under the wagon bridge, half a mile from town, and Roholt went here to have his fortune told. He gave the medium 50 cents, but she asked for more money, and as the man had nothing smaller than a ten dollar bill, he handed that to her, expecting at least nine dollars of the amount returned. But the medium didn't figure that way with Roholt. She promptly placed the bill in her pocket and told him that "it was just right." John thought different and returned to town to swear out a warrant for the arrest of the woman who swiped his money.

Realizing unpleasantness, the gypsy band immediately broke camp and started toward Crookston. They were followed by the town constable and several deputies and a posse of citizens, and when the gypsy procession were nearing Eldred they were overtaken by the Climax pursuers. The latter, however, were hardly equal to face the fleeing crowd of greasy faces and the Climax contingent was reinforced by a number of Eldred citizens and together they went into the enemys' camp to arrest the woman with the ten dollar bill. Her protectors remonstrated at this proceeding, and it required several shots in the air from the revolver of the Climax constable and his assistants to frighten the gang into submission.

The medium was finally placed under arrest in the latest approved method and taken back to Climax, where she will be given a chance before the village justice to explain her right to Roholt's ten dollar bill.

MINN.'S DAIRY EXHIBIT.

OUR STATE WILL BE WELL REPRESENTED AT BUFFALO.

The St. Paul Globe says: In view of the delay in the formal opening of the Pan-American exposition, H. P. Hall, secretary of the Minnesota commission, Saturday wired to Buffalo to find out whether there would be a corresponding delay in the display of the dairy products in which Minnesota is so deeply interested. He was informed that there would not be.

The exposition opens really May 20, and the authorities at Buffalo informed Mr. Hall that the first scoring of Minnesota dairy products would be made May 10 and 15. The commissioners have been steadily gathering up the dairy products from all parts of the state, and will have the first shipment ready by May 2. They will come into St. Paul from their respective localities the day before. This will be the first actual shipment of exhibits in a large quantity from this state. Word from Buffalo is to the effect that Minnesota will have as good a display in this line particularly as there will be on the grounds, and that the state will be fully as early with its exhibits as any other state.

RECEIVED A PETITION.

A petition confronted the common council of Minneapolis at a recent meeting, which read as follows:

"Ex-Shoemaker for A. G.'s Camp, April 12, 1901.—A Brief Petition to the Very Hon. Aldermanic Council of Minneapolis:

"Very Hon. Members of the Council—Whatever have you done to the smallest of my brethren—that have you done for me (said Jesus.)

"Now, herewith, upon the presence of the 20th century, I'm in need of employment (other than shoe making and shoe repairing.)

"I have been hurt and crippled somewhat on the 11th of last May at 5 a. m. while asleep—but no matter.

"I can be made useful in many things under your direction. (I'm here since 1873, age 47, weight 125.)

"In hope to be noticed and somewhat assisted by your general Aldermanic intelligence soon, I am yours smallest citizen. —Ginba.

"915 5th st. N."

The petition was placed on file.

NO BADGE, NO DRINK.

The state senate of Arkansas, by a vote of 14 to 1, has passed a bill making it unlawful for any person to drink any intoxicating liquor as a beverage unless he has obtained a license as a dram drinker. The license fee is fixed at $5 per annum and the penalty of $15 fine or imprisonment for thirty days.

One of the strongest arguments advanced in favor of the measure is that it would compel almost every man in Arkansas to contribute to the public revenue.

While providing for a regulation tin tag of the size of an ordinary butter dish to be furnished at public cost, the bill permits licensed dram drinkers to wear, as substitutes, badges designed to meet the situation, means and tastes of the wearers, on conditions, however that every badge bears the letters "L. D. D." (licensed dram drinker.)

WIND CAVE CLOSED.

TO THE PUBLIC BY U. S. LAND OFFICE OFFICIALS.

Hot Springs, S. D., April 29.—C. W. Greene, special agent for the United States land office, and his assistant, Mr. Preece, have arrived in this city to take charge of the famous wind cave and close it to the public. For a number of years there has been a controversy over this property between the McDonald brothers and John Stabler, as to whether it was mineral or agricultural property. The case went into the land office at Rapid City, to the commissioner of the general land office, and from there to the department of the interior.

THE NEW BABY

Opens up a new world to the loving mother. If it is a strong, healthy baby that new world is a world of happiness. If it is a weak, fretful child the new world is full of anxiety. It has been proven in thousands of cases, that the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes all the difference between strength and weakness in children. Healthy, happy mothers have healthy, happy children. "Favorite Prescription" gives the mother strength to give her child. It makes the baby's advent practically painless and promotes the secretion of the nourishment necessary to the healthful feeding of the nursing child.

"I have been using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and can say it is just what you advertise it to be," writes Mrs. Victor J. Hadin, of Leonardsville, Riley Co., Kansas. "I began taking it just two months before baby came and was greatly benefited by its use. The doctor who attended me said I did about as well as any one he had seen (as I was sick only about three hours), and also that your 'Favorite Prescription' was 'one patent medicine' which he did have faith in. We now have a darling baby boy, strong and healthy, who weighed nine pounds when born. During this month he has gained three and one-half pounds. Have never given him one dose of medicine."

Entered at the postoffice at Crookston, Minnesota, as second-class matter.

We notice that potatoes are being shipped from the southern part of the state and from other localities to various points in the Red River Valley and are being sold at 65 cents per bushel. There are probably no better patatoes grown anywhere in the country than can be raised right here in the Red River Valley. An average crop here is about 100 bushels per acre, although the yield sometimes reaches 200 bushels. In a wet season the best results are obtained with this crop on ground that is slightly rolling, and this fact should be considered as far as possible in appropriating ground for this use. The excessive amount of rain here last fall was the cause of the scarcity of this useful tuber here now, as the standing water on many fields made it impossible to save the crop which had been raised. This condition is not likely to occur again for many years, however, and every farmer should arrange to have a moderate quantity of potatoes to sell every year. Again we say to our farmer friends, diversify your crops.

The board of education is to be commended for the cautious, painstaking effort it has made to become informed as to the needs of the city schools, and the qualifications of the respective teachers. Also for its deliberate caution in obtaining reliable information in regard to the scholarly qualifications, executive ability, character and experience as an educator, of the newly elected superintendent, W. F. F. Selleck. Though we have not conferred with him upon the subject at all, we have learned that Mr. McKinnon took special pains to obtain direct and reliable information from a friend who has had the fullest opportunity to observe the results of Mr. Selleck's work for a series of years, and did not decide to support him until he had given such information his most careful consideration. Other members of the board have been equally conscientious and painstaking, and it now remains for the people to encourage them by endorsing their action, and co-operating with them in their efforts to elevate the standard of our schools.

The Stevens-McKenzie aggregation have for so many years been accustomed to manipulating Crookston's affairs according to their own sweet wills, and seeing the entire community commence to dance as soon as they began to fiddle, it makes them desperate to realize that the situation is slipping out of their grasp. They have so long succeeded in driving everyone who dared to raise his voice in protest, back into his hole by a blow over the head, that they get rattled when one appears who does not fear their club. But of this one thing they may rest assured, we are here to stay, and to stand up for what we believe to be the interests of this community, which they may further rest assured does not in our opinion point in the direction of Stevens-McKenzieism.

We wish to explain that the very starting point of the Journal's activity on the school question dates from a visit made to our sanctum by Mr. Stevens last Monday night with the avowed purpose of securing our signature to his petition. Mr. Stevens need not flatter himself that every one who does not shake his fist in his face is in sympathy with his schemes, and many who listen to his denunciations of the Journal are with us in our fight against Stevens-McKenzieism, and keep us posted on the progress of events. But in the interview in question, Mr. Stevens expressed great admiration for our "persistency," for which we thanked him heartily and reciprocated by admiring his "gall," and assuring him he could depend on our staying qualities.

The attention of our readers is called to the law requiring the payment by dog owners of the tax of one and three dollars respectively on male and female dogs, which appears in another column of the Journal. Special attention is invited to section 5 of the law, from which it will be understood that the penalty for neglecting or refusing to report such dogs for taxation is very severe, ranging from ten to twenty-five dollars or thirty days' imprisonment. So that the cheapest course to pursue in the matter is to be sure and report all canine property to the assessor, instead of keeping the dog tied up until he has passed. We believe this law is in line with the best interests of the state and that its provisions should be rigidly enforced.

The late lamented Cushman Kellogg Davis once said: Each year every local newspaper gives from $500 to $5,000 in free lines for the benefit of the community in which it is printed. No other agency can or will do this. The editor in proportion to his means does more for his town than any other man, and in all fairness he ought to be supported, not because you like or admire his writing, but because a local newspaper is the best advertisement a community can have. It may not be crowded with great thoughts, but financially it is more of a benefit than a teacher or minister."

About $300,000 will be expended upon the capitol at Washington during the congressional recess. Many desirable improvements will be made, and the architect of the capitol has been authorized to prepare and submit plans for the reconstruction and fireproofing of the central portion of the building and the renovation and redecoration of the rotunda. Plans are also to be prepared for a new fireproof building adjacent to the capitol grounds to be used for additional committee rooms, storage and power plant.

We congratulate our Second street contemporary on the successful termination of its latest battle. It is becoming rapidly enveloped in a gaudily colored blanket of its own achievements which would incite the envy and arouse the ambition of the proudest Indian warrior in the forest, we don't think. But the Times syndicate must be getting so accustomed to defeat and disappointment, that if it should happen to succeed in any of its battles it would probably be thrown into a spasm.

The new garbage crematory has just been put in operation in Minneapolis, and 15 tons of garbage were consumed the first afternoon. The city engineer and health officer superintended the first trial of the crematory, and expresed themselves as being well satisfied with its operation. The garbage was completely consumed without any disagreeable odor. The only question in regard to its success is in connection with securing a sufficiently large supply of garbage to keep it busy.

Not many years ago the government of London appeared to be hopelessly corrupt as that of any boss-ridden city of America today. It is now regarded as a pattern of ability, integrity and enterprise. In the May Forum Mr. John Martin, who has first hand knowledge of the subject, describes how this remarkable change has been brought about. His account of the municipal revolution wrought by the London county council is full of encouragement, as well as suggestion, for civic reformers of this country.

The recent demand that the Democratic party shall return to the principles of Jefferson is the subject of a notable article in the May Forum from the pen of Mr. Albert Watkins, who has no difficulty in showing that many who make this demand have an inadequate conception of all that it involves. His critical exposition of Jeffersonian principles will be read with as much interest as his estimate of the political character of Mr. Bryan.

The experience of the German army in China tends to prove that both American and Australian horses are unsatisfactory in that country. They are of good blood and breed, but suffer sadly from the long sea voyage and the unaccustomed food, as, unfortunately, only green forage is usually obtainable. Mongol ponies are proving the most useful.

The ambitious little village of Gully is the latest contributor to our exchange table, being represented by the "The Sunbeam," Volume 1, Number 1. It bears at the head of its editorial column, the name of W. G. Hunt, as editor and W.G. Van Hooser, proprietor. The Journal wishes the management success.

The Times has made the discovery that "the standing of our schools is of far more importance to the people of our city than the personal ambitions of any man or set of men." Now that is real nice for the Times, and we trust that after it has read the Journal a while longer, it may adopt others of its suggestions.

The charming little village of Warren was the objective point of a business trip recently made by ye editor. In business enterprise and energetic push, our Warren neighbors are up with the best of the country villages, and Banker Lamberson is in the front rank of Warren's business hustlers.

We begin today the publication of a series of interesting letters on Philippine matters from the pen of Sergt. C. M. Berg, whose parents reside at Mentor. We expect to favor our readers with these articles at periodical intervals, and believe they will prove interesting reading.

In many of the progressive cities of Minnesota boards of trade, chambers of commerce and other bodies are being organized this spring to advance the interests of their several communities. Crookston ought not to be distanced by any city in the state along this line.

The Times editorial column furnishes indisputable evidence of one thing that is certainly commendable. McKenzie is reading the Journal very carefully, even to the minutest details of the advertisements.

LUZON LETTER.

Sergeant Chas. M. Berg Describes His Ocean Voyage to the Philippines.

HIS PHILIPPINE EXPERIENCES

Will be Given in Later Letters for Informarion of Journal Readers.

Vignu, Ilocos Sur, Luzon, P. I., March 12th, 1901.

I will endeavor to write during my spare moments a series of letters, for the purpose of giving my friends and acquaintances the benefit of what I have learned in the Philippine Islands, the inhabitants, the different classes, their mode of living, etc. As a great many people do not know exactly where these islands are, and as they do not have the time to look them up, I will say that they are somewhere in the Pacific ocean, not a great distance from the scene of our late difficulties, China.

It is well known that Manila is the largest city there is at Pasig river, and that bolo men, or insurgents, are keeping Uncle Sam's big army on the "hike." So to commence with, we will start from San Francisco on a transport; after the whistle has shrieked its last shriek and the long line of waving handkerchiefs has grown dim in the distance and you feel the big ship that will be your future home for many long weary days, gain headway, and if you are a sailor and do not have to go below, as the sea that comes in the Golden Gate gently gives you a hint of what you may expect to do after a few days, you begin to feel that "the home of the free and the land of the brave" is a pretty fine place after all.

As the gateway of the west gradually fades out of sight, with its frowning guns that guard the nation's western metropolis, the compass will show that you are sailing nearly southwest, to make the Sandwich group, and to touch at Honolulu to coal up. After eight days of gazing at the sky line, watching a few tireless sea gulls and any amount of flying fish, you finally arrive at Uncle Sam's half way house—Honolulu. It is not really half way, but less than one third. And after a stay of two days employed in taking numerous baths and dips in Yekiki surf, watching small dark skinned boys dive for small change in the deep bay water, and taking snap shots of everything from "Queen Lil" to the statue of her savage old grandfather, who holds a spear in his hand and a frown on his face, that the bright sun and soft tropical breeze has not the slightest effect upon, you once more hoist anchor and the compass reads a few points south of west. More sky line, more sea gulls, more flying fish, an occasional stiff breeze that gives the waves a right to break over the rails and drives the "land lubber" below, to think over the past and to make promises constitutes the daily experience now. You are now below the twentieth parallel, and the elements have an occasional falling out, which means a typhoon. And as the angry green waves leap and roll and the air is full of salt spray, you have vivid recollections of when you were a boy and paddled around in some quiet lake and thought that you were the real thing as a sailor.

After ten or twelve long days the outline of Wake Island will break the monotony, and a new specie of water fowl will appear. You will feel as thankful for the mere sight of these rocks as you would to have an extension on your furlough. As the transport's route is by the south passage, the next group passed is the Ladrone Islands, which lie to the northward. After these are passed no more land is seen until you near the San Bernardino passage, and then if the night is dark, a fine sight will reward you for sitting up to see the volcanic island near there.

The first land sighted of the Philippine group is the island of Samar, just south of Luzon, and a long, low coast with heavy mists hanging over the swampy looking islands. Luzon has more of a high rocky coast, and its high, cloud capped mountains give it the appearance of the western coast of the United States. Numerous small islands, and cascoes loaded with rice, fish, etc., are passed, small nipa huts are seen on the hill sides, and as you pass Corregidor, a small fortified island in the mouth of the bay, Cavite on the right, and the tall masts of many ships from all shipping points in the western and eastern hemisphere, announce that you have at last reached your goal, Manila, after a sail of nearly 8,000 miles.

Your first impression will be to wonder how hot it can get without starting the quiet and dirty bay water to boil, for you have experienced a great change from the cool ocean breezes to the lying at anchor in a harbor with the water as smooth as glass, and reflecting the fierce sun's rays until your eyes smart, and you feel your nerve energy going down the scale at a gallop. As you gaze longingly toward the shore, which is about two miles away, a fleet of cascoes will be seen in tow of some old tug that has seen better days. The cascoes are inhabited by the captain and his family, and his assistants and their families, which are numerous.

They are born, raised and die on the water. In other words, they are a floating population. The stern of the boat is covered with bamboo matting to keep off sun and rain, and is the kitchen, dining room and sleeping apartments of its inhabitants.

The clothing worn by the whole crew would not make a bathing suit for a Far Rockaway or a Coney Island sport. As they gather 'round their mid-day meal, you will notice the absence of both knife, fork and other utensils, which are conspicuous articles at a similar event in other parts of the world.

The meal consists of rice, and if they are lucky you will see a stray fish, which left its home in the briny deep at the suggestion of a net or hook, to look for other fields to conquer. The way they gather the rice in the thumb and fore fingers and stuff it into their mouths, is alarming. They do not use even the chop sticks, peculiar to China, but are content to get along with that which nature afforded them.

First Class Sergeant, U. S. A.

NOTES FROM EXCHANGES.

Northfield News: It is rumored that Charley Towne is at the head of a million dollar mining trust. Charley could always talk as glibly about millions as a country editor could about his circulation.

Hallock News: Mr. Wheeler, of Crookston, secretary of the Crookston Building & Loan association, came up Thursday and met with the auditing committee of the Hallock B. & L. Mr. Wheeler's mission was to start a new set of books for the association.

—The postoffice department is considering the advisability of refusing to grant pound rates to newspapers that give premiums in order to get subscribers. This is a move in the right direction, says the Northfield News. A newspaper that has no merit in itself does not deserve to succeed.

Gully Sunbeam: The Gully correspondent for the McIntosh Times of last week gave our paper a name before it was printed, which originated in the fertile brain of the writer. The name "Cyclone" is a little too suggestive of looking for trouble to suit the peaceful inclinations of the editor of the Sunbeam, but the sun's rays sometimes scorch to a blister.

—A Rollis correspondent of the Thief River Falls Press says: "There is quite a novelty in our town. We have a man who can trace his parentage and ancestors back to the year 1004. We venture to say there is not a man in this state, and very few in the United States, that can show the records so far back. These records can be seen at any time.

The St. Paul Dispatch Job Printing company has brought suit against the Pelican Rapids Press for $172.72, for services and material furnished between Jan. 1 and March 15. The Press was awarded the county printing by the county commissioners in January, and as it was not able to do the work, sent it to St. Paul and had the printing done there.

Roseau Times: The warm weather of the past week has developed the base ball germs lying dormant in the blood of our boys since last season, and real symptoms have shown themselves in numerous places the past few evenings. By the time the ground is in shape the Roseau club will be in line to uphold the dignity of the national game against the world, Roseau county included.

—The Pioneer Press says: "A Connecticut woman was searching her husband's clothes for money, when a dynamite cartridge exploded, tearing off two of her fingers. It would seem advisable for women who are compelled to get money out of their husbands in that manner to take a club and beat the clothes while the articles of wearing apparel are adorning the forms of the aforesaid husbands. Then if a dynamite cartridge explodes, the right person will get hurt."

The Shelly Signal says: "An important business change took place in Shelly Monday, the Messrs. Sarles disposing of their interest in the Bank of Shelly to John S. Tucker and J. W. G. Anderson. The bank was established in 1898, and with the strong financial backing of the Messrs. Sarles, together with Cashier Anderson's managerial ability, the institution was a success from its inception. The bank being very desirable property, Messrs. Anderson and Tucker made a liberal bid for it, and as the other interests of the Sarles demanded their undivided attention, the deal was made which resulted in the transfer last Monday.

Shelly Signal: The republicans of Polk county are booming Hon. Halvor Steenerson for the republican nomination for congress in the new Ninth district. Steenerson is a man whose republicanism is unquestioned and whose ability is unchallenged. The new district might do a great deal worse than to send Mr. Steenerson to Washington. It seems, however, that there will be no dearth of candidates. With Steenerson of Polk, Grindeland of Marshall, Calkins of Norman and Comstock of Clay, the district has enough good timber to insure a good representative."

—Thief River Falls Press: A gentleman who made the count, states that there are at present 41 houses being built in this city. Who says Thief River Falls is not growing?

—St. Hilaire Spectator: St. Hilaire is a little slow—in this case—we will admit—but like our neighboring towns in the northwestern part of the state, we finally got there and have one patient in the pest house with a mild case of smallpox.

Grand Forks Herald: The Crookston Times pokes fun at the Journal for saying that Faust is a Shakespearean production. Of course, that's wrong. Everybody knows that Lewis Morrison wrote Faust.

On advertising matter the Journal "follows copy," even if it goes out the fifth story window, see?

Brainerd Tribune: The republicans of Crow Wing county are unanimous in indorsing Dr. J. L. Camp for appointment on the commission to locate a state sanitarium for consumptives. Dr. Camp is thoroughly familiar with all sections of northern Minnesota, and is in every way pre-eminently well qualified to serve on the commission. Strong pressure will be brought to bear upon the governor to secure the appointment of the genial doctor.

Thief River Falls News: O. Retallick is building a small steam boat that will be used to run on the Thief river to haul supplies from this city to small stores and settlers up the river. The engines will be three horse power and together with the boilers will weigh only about 600 pounds. The capacity of the boat will be about five tons, and if it can successfully make the trips it will prove a money maker for the owners as all the settlers will be glad of an opportunity to patronize this convenience.

—The Roseau Times says: "The Hallock News asserts that Representative Berg in voting against the gross earnings bill made his own political coffin and the Enterprise of the same city pours hot shot into the big man from Roseau county. Mr. Berg is not only a large built man, but has a good reputation throughout the state and enjoys social and political prestige second to no other man in this commonwealth. Albert Berg is a really good fellow, true to his friends, and is entitled to fair treatment. The Hallock papers will not advance the interests of the district by abuse of Mr. Berg."

Fergus Falls Journal: The state supreme court has just decided a peculiar case which was appealed from the district court of Polk county. David Lemery, a Crookston man, was travelling on a limited ticket on a G. N. train. The train stopped for repairs between stations, Lemery got out and the train went on and left him. Lemery claims that his ticket should hold good, but the court holds that he had no business leaving the train between stations, and lost all rights as a passenger in doing so. It holds that if he got off at a station the case would have been different.

The Minneapolis Tribune says: "The newly elected democratic mayor of Crookston is being touted as a candidate for congress in the new Ninth district with a strong chance of winning. But weren't we given to understand that when that very fair apportionment bill was railroaded through the legislature that every district was to be safely republican? How, then, can a democrat stand any show of winning out in the Ninth without upsetting some of the well laid plans of the little coterie which was responsible for the new grouping of counties?"

That's all right, it's only the democratic nomination that he has a show of winning.

—Free Press, Fergus Falls: Crookston has struck its mission. It has gone into the wind stacking business. It has an unlimited supply of the raw material. Every merchant in town has taken stock in the new company. The necessary machinery has been put in position and the plant is now on the move. Modesty has always been the great drawback of Fergus Falls, and we believe it would be a good idea to get a few stacks of this Crookston wind to help us let the world know about the unsurpassed advantages of this city as a manufacturing center, and Otter Tail county as the paradise for farmers. Let us have some wind.

If wind was the only thing our neighbor lacked to put her in Crookston's class, we might undertake to supply the deficiency. As it is however, there are too any chasms of difference to bridge, for us to undertake the contract, but a few of our windstackers might help some.

SHUDDERS AT HIS PAST.

"I recall now with horror," says Mail Carrier Burnett Mann, of Levanna, O., "my three years of suffering from Kidney trouble. I was hardly ever free from dull aches or acute pains in my back. To stoop or lift mail sacks made me groan. I felt tired and worn out, about ready to give up, when I began the use of Electric Bitters, but six bottles completely cured me and made me feel like a new man." They're unrivalled to regulate Stomach, Liver, Kidney and Bowels. Perfect satisfaction guaranteed by A. G. Anderson. Only 50 cents.

—Geo. Dowling, of Warren, and Wm. Gretize, of the same place are Crookston visitors for a few days.

—The Lockhart farm has been sold by Smith & Taylor, its former owners, to Mr. Leuthold of Kassen, Minn.

—G. H. Hastings, a leading citizen and merchant of Owatonna, Minn., was calling on friends in the city Monday.

—Robert Corry, of Argyle, and Mildred Corry, of Grand Forks were married yesterday afternoon. Judge Holt tied the knot.

—Clerk of Court Lommen has issued marriages licenses to Mr. Albert Fontaine to Miss Lillian Kelly and Arthur Henry Smithers to Miss Minnie Moeckel.

—Last Saturday was the anniversary of the birth of Gen. U. S. Grant and the occasion was fittingly observed in many places throughout the United States.

—The pest house at Fergus Falls being filled to its capacity, the city council have decided to purchase tents for housing future subjects, and so authorized the city physician at their last meeting.

—Mrs. Rose is enjoying a visit from her brother, Chas. Fretz, who arrived here from Corey, Pa. Mr. Fretz intends to make an extended stay if the climate and other conditions are agreeable to his health.

—Several large freight trains have been passing through Crookston the past few days over the Great Northern. Sunday afternoon a train passed here carrying 126 cars, and Monday morning another one had 98 cars.

—Numerous residence structures are being pushed rapidly toward completion in various parts of the city, and repairs are the order of the day everywhere. Carpenters, painters, paperhangers and brick layers are all crowded with work, and it is believed there is no compulsorily idle men in the city.

—The Journal regrets to learn that Hon. Chas. Rapp, of St. Hilaire, is not recovering as rapidly as his friends had desired, and that he has suffered a partial relapse. Dr. Dunlop of this city was called to St. Hilaire Thursday to consult with the attending physicians as to the seriousness of the patient's illness.

—The state firemen's convention, to be held in Crookston June 11. 12 and 13, will no doubt be a grand affair. The local fire department is making extensive preparations for the coming event, and the affair will undoubtedly be a success. The railway companies will give reduced rates for the occasion and a large delegation is expected to be present.

—We are called upon today to chronicle the death of one of our old and respected citizens, Mrs. Eck, which occurred Sunday afternoon at her home on Georgas street, after a long illness. The deceased was 65 years of age and has been suffering with cancer for a long time, which was the cause of her death. She leaves three sons to mourn her departure.

—The entire police force, from the chief down, has been presented with costly new badges by Mayor Campbell. These ornamental decorations are of the latest design, heavy gold plated and each one bears its respective inscription. Chief Creamer was the first one to be remembered by the mayor, and his badge bears the following legend: "Chief of Police, Crookston, Minn. Presented by N. Campbell, Mayor, 1901."

—Billy Stewart, a Great Northern brakeman, who formerly worked with Percy Baker, who is serving five years at Stillwater for shooting the Larson woman at Halstad, is in receipt of a letter from Percy, in which the writer tells of his good health, and that he is making the best of his time and the conditions at Stillwater. He is assisting in the manufacture of prison twine, and says that the quality will, of course owing to his connection with the business, be better than ever before.

—Torger Kleve, of Park township, was taken to the Fergus Falls hospital for the insane by Sheriff Bayer on Sunday, says the Moorhead Independent. The unfortunate man was violently insane and his trouble is supposed to have resulted from an attack of the grip. He was brought to Moorhead by a neighbor Friday night and on Saturday was ordered committed to the hospital by the insanity board. He is a large, powerful man, and Mr. Bayer had a hard job to handle him. It was necessary to have a heavy belt made in order to strap his hands behind him.

A. Holmboe returned from his eastern stock purchasing trip, and reports that he has secured a very satisfactory lot of goods which will be ready for the inspection of the public in about ten days. He was accompanied on his return by John A. Cowley of Minneapolis, who has had nine years' experience in a department store, and will be associated with Mr. Holmboe in the management of his new business enterprise. The new store is to be located in the McKinnon block in the room formerly occupied by W. E. Slocum as a grocery store, and will be known as the Golden Rule Bazaar.

—L. Ellington of the Scandia American bank was in St. Hilaire yesterday. While there he called on Representative Rapp, who has been sick for some time post. He reports that Mr. Rapp is so far improved that he was able to be out of doors yesterday. His many friends will be pleased to hear of his convalescence and wish him a rapid recovery.

—The remains of Miss Christiana Tisvold, who died at the home of John Alderman Tuesday afternoon of consumption, while en route to her home at Argyle, were shipped to that place the next morning.

Arne P. Hill, a Beltrami, Polk county, salesman, filed a petition in bankruptcy in the United States court in Fergus Falls yesterday, placing his assets at $159, of which $114 is exempt, and his liabilities at $4,356 33. The first hearing of the case will be had at the office of Referee Vaule in this city May 10.

PAVING QUESTION.

FOR CROOKSTON WILL BE AFFECTED BY DECISION.

Washington, May 1.—The supreme court yesterday, in an opinion of Justice Shiras, upheld the constitutionality of the North Dakota law relating to assessments for improvements by municipalities.

The case decided was that of Mortimer Webster against the city of Fargo. Under the law the city of Fargo improved streets on which abutted certain property belonging to him. He was charged a pro rata share of the cost of the improvement on the basis of his frontage. He refused to pay the assessment and his property was sold as provided in the law. He contested the sale on the ground that the law was unconstitutional in that it operated to deprive him of his property without due process of law, and denied him equal protection of law.

The supreme court of North Dakota decided in favor of the city, the only question at issue being the constitutionality of the law. This decision was sustained yesterday, the United States supreme court holding that the law is valid and that the municipality proceeded entirely within its powers in enforcing it. Justices Harlan, White and McKenna dissented.

City Attorney H. F. Miller, Attorneys Greene and Pinney looked after the interests of the city and Newman, Spalding & Stambaugh appeared for Webster.

According to this decision the present charter of the city of Crookston gives ample authority for the levy of the tax for paving or sewer improvements, by basing such levy on the lineal frontage of the abutting property.

ACCEPTS POSITION.

PROF. SELLECK ARRIVED HERE THIS MORNING.

Prof. W. F. F. Selleck of Austin, Minn., who was recently elected by the board of education as superintendent of schools for the ensuing year, arrived in the city this morning on a visit of investigation, and after looking over the situation decided to accept the position, and so notified the board. Mr. Selleck will remain until tomorrow night, when he will return home to make arrangements for removing his family to this city, which he will do at a later day, and as soon as he can secure proper accommodations for a residence here. We take pleasure in assuring our readers that Mr. Selleck and his family will constitute an acquisition to Crookston society which will be helpful along all lines of real improvement, outside as well as in connection with the school work.

ADA METHODISTS.

WILL BUILD A NEW CHURCH IN THE NEAR FUTURE.

At a special meeting of the Methodist congregation held last evening it was decided to build a new church on the site of the present building. Committees were appointed and if the necessary amount can be raised Ada will soon have a new and handsome house of worship. Plans and specifications have been drawn and the estimated cost of the building is $2,200, equipped with all modern improvements. Rev. and Mrs. Park have been very earnest and ardent workers while here and on several occasions the present building has been too small to accommodate the congregations assembled to listen to the services. There is no doubt but that the necessary aid will be freely given.—Norman County Herald.

FOUGHT FOR HIS LIFE.

"My father and sister both died of consumption," writes J. T. Weatherwax, of Wyandotte, Mich., "and I was saved from the same frightful fate only by Dr. King's New Discovery. An attack of pneumonia left an obstinate cough and very severe lung trouble, which an excellent doctor could not help, but a few months' use of this wonderful medicine made me as well as ever and I gained much in weight." Infallible for Coughs, Colds and all Throat and Lung troubles. Trial bottles free. Guaranteed bottles 50c and $1.00 at A. G. Anderson's.

STORM DAMAGES.

The high wind storm which visited this locality last Friday seems to have been much more severe in the vicinity of St. Hilaire, and some instances of serious damage are reported from there. Among these damages the most serious of which we have heard is the destruction of the new $1,000 barn belonging to Mr. McAndrews.

A FLAX PARASITE

Cause of Unhealthy Condition of the Flax Crop for Past Two Years.

DISCOVERED BY PROF. BOLLEY

Of Fargo.---Experiments are Being Made to Discover a Remedy.

Fargo, N. D., April 30.—Prof. H. L. Bolley of the North Dakota Agricultural college has made a discovery in connection with flax that will make him more famous as a scientific investigator and also result beneficially to the farmers of North and South Dakota, Minnesota and other flax growing states.

For the last few years the increase in the flax acreage in this section of the northwest has been so large that it was the cause of surprise. For the last two or three years there has been a great deal of flax wilt, of flax sickness, the cause of which has been a mystery to grain men and crop experts. The flax would come up in nice shape and for the first week or two it would grow as luxuriantly as the most optimistical farmer could wish. Then the stalks would wilt and die, and in some fields the ground would eventually become entirely barren. So much alarm was occasioned that the men in charge of the experiment stations were appealed to, and Prof. Bolley has carried his investigations far enough to convince him that he has found the true solutian of the mystery. The cause of the trouble is a parasitic disease, or fungus, which grows inside the young plants, similar to the manner in which smut attacks the wheat plants, only it soon kills the flax, where the smut continues in the wheat stalk till after maturity.

These conclusions have been reached by the professor after experiments reaching over six years. At the college it was found that plats of flax ground which had been seeded for six years, would not grow flax though repeatedly seeded. The plat would be fertile and grow other vegetation luxuriantly.

Plats which had been seeded four years showed large plats where no flax would grow. This was also true of plats of two and three years, though to a less degree.

Flax wilt was rarely found on fresh breaking, but there were some instances in which it was evenly scattered in the drill, showing conclusively that the fungus had been planted with the seed. The diseased fields were not in any particular section of the state more than another, but general in both Dakotas and Minnesota. Some fields were found on which flax had been grown six years without the appearance of the fungus growth, where the farmers had continuously seeded pure, clean grain, while others brought it on by exchanging seed with neighbors.

The worst feature of the growth is that the parasite will lay in the ground several years, living on the old flax straw, and even remaining after the land has been cropped in wheat two or more years. Experiments are now being conducted by Prof. Bolley in an effort to discover some method of getting the disease out of the soil, but so far there has been no success. Further efforts will be made to disinfect that flax seed as wheat is now given the formaldehyde treatment for smut.

The professor issues the following warning to the farmers:

"Do not put flax on all land, keep one field clear. Cease sowing flax year after year on the same land. Put at least one cultivated crop between flax crops. Burn as much of the old flax straw and stubble as possible. Raise your own flax seed, grade it up for the best, thresh your own seed in your own machine, if possible, to prevent infection from other fields. Store the flax in clean, disinfected bins."

FLOUR TOO GOOD.

MINNIE'S PRODUCT SHUT OUT OF BUFFALO HOUSES.

Through the efforts of competing millers, and because they are making too good flour, the Minneapolis flour milling companies will hereafter be deprived of the privilege of warehousing flour at Buffalo, N. Y.

The local milling companies have been informed that these privileges have been withdrawn on the ground that unfair advantage has been taken by them in using that point as a favorable market. The new ruling will go into effect May 1, when all flour shipped from the Twin Cities will be transferred directly from the boats at the Buffalo docks to rail thence to Atlantic coast points.

The fact of the matter is that the Buffalo millers have an idea that the Minneapolis and other northwestern millers have been having too good a thing in being allowed to store their flour in Buffalo free of charge. The latter, it appears, have the better grade of goods on the market, and have without solicitation discouraged the local competition.

A series of objections composed from what is called a legal standpoint, were developed by the Buffalo millers and presented before a meeting of the interstate commerce commission at that place. The result is that after an alleged investigation the Minneapolis millers have been found guilty of monopolizing all the local and tributary trade, and, in consequence, were notified that it has become the painful duty of the interstate commission to impose an additional revenue of 5 cents per 100 on flour shipments to Atlantic seaports if held over in Buffalo, and also additional storage fees.

The Minneapolis millers, however, refuse to stand for any such mode of procedure and will hereafter store their flour at the seaports. They will maintain their agencies in Buffalo, though, much to the annoyance of the brothers in the business, and feel confident that they will lose no trade by the change.

John Washburn, president of the Washburn-Crosby company, said that shipments for coast points will be transferred immediately at Buffalo without being held over, and that all the local millers will have to do is to establish other warehouse points. The transportation charges at the present time are so high that feasibility of paying an extra 5 cents a 100 for keeping their flour in Buffalo will not be considered by the northwestern millers.

BOQUET FOR GRINDELAND.

Fergus Falls Journal: Senator Andrew Grindeland of Warren arrived in Fergus Falls Saturday to attend to some land transactions. Marshall county is having a great boom, and just at present everybody is dealing in land. Speculators are rushing in from all quarters and are buying indiscriminately. They have an inclination for the cheaper lands, regardless of quality, consequently the best land has not increased as much in price as the cheaper ones. He thinks the boom will continue until the crop is harvested, and if the crop is large prices and demand will still increase. Senator Grindeland has been identified with some of the best legislation which has been enacted during the past eight years, and his work on drainage legislation has been a very important matter.

A CROOK CAUGHT

Shannon, alias McAllister, Now Sojourns in the County Jail.

WAS ARRESTED AT CLIMAX

Sentenced for Thirty Days for Jumping a Board Bill.

Constable J. A. Ralston of Climax arrived in the city Tuesday, having in charge one Shannon, alias McAllister, who had been sentenced to serve thirty days in the Polk county jail for jumping a board bill.

McAllister, as he called himself when in Crookston a few days ago, left here very suddenly, leaving Landlord Gifford of the Commercial hotel without paying his board, and went to Climax. While there he made the acquaintance of J. B. Messner a butcher of that place, and induced him to go with him through the surrounding country for the purpose of buying up stock to send to his ranch in Williston, Mont. Chief Creamer of this city located Shannon at Climax and at once informed the authorities at that place that Shannon was a crook.

While at Climax Shannon went to the bank and made a draft on the Williston, Mont., bank, for $3,200, claiming that he was a rich ranch owner and needed the money to pay for three carloads of stock he had bought. The bank officials at once wired the Montana bank about the draft and received an answer that they knew no such person, and no one by that name had any money on deposit in their bank. The hotel keeper at Climax became alarmed about his strange boarder and at once issued a warrant for his arrest for trying to beat his board bill. He was taken before the justice and found guilty and sentenced to serve 30 days in Sheriff Sullivan's hotel.

While in Crookston a few weeks ago Shannon registered at the Commercial hotel as W. McAllister, and claimed he was a horse buyer.

After serving his 30 days' sentence for his offense at Climax he will in all probability be arrested for beating his board bill in Crookston.

REVENUE CHANGES.

WHICH WILL MAKE GOOD READING FOR ALL CONCERNED.

The following list, which is a complete synopsis of changes made in the war revenue law, will be of interest to the readers of the Journal. The following taxes were repealed by the act of congress March 2, 1901, to take effect July 1, 1901:

Special tax of commercial brokers.

Stamp taxes on bank checks.

Drafts and orders for payment of money on sight or on demand.

(Drafts and orders otherwise than on sight or demand remain taxable.)

Certificates of deposit.

Postoffice money orders.

Promissory notes.

Mortgages.

Leases.

Export bills of lading.

Manifest for custom house entry or clearance of cargo.

Powers of attorneys.

Charter parties.

Protests

Certificates of all kinds, except certificates of profits or certificates showing interests in property or accumulations of companies.

Warehouse receipts.

Telegraphic dispatches.

Express receipts.

(Domestic freight bills of lading remain taxable.)

Policies of insurance and premiums charged for marine, inland, fire, casualty, fidelity and guarantee insurance.

Taxes on telephone messages.

Stamp taxes on medicinal proprietary articles, perfumery and cosmetics, and all articles in schedule B, except wines.

The taxes on legacies for religious, charitable, literary or educational purposes was repealed to take effect on and after March 1, 1901.

Taxes will be reduced on and after July 1, 1901 on Conveyance of real estate.

Passage tickets.

Cigars, snuff and tobacco.

Fermented liquors.

Foreign bills of exchange and foreign money orders.

Additional taxes are imposed on and after April 1, 1901, viz:

Special tax on dealers in grain, securities, etc, doing a bucket-shop business under paragraph 3, schedule A, of March 2, 1901.

Stamp tax on contracts, agreements, etc., of such dealers.

CORN CULTURE.

Preparation of Soil, Planting, Cultivation, Harvesting and Care Generally.

DISCUSSED BY T. A. HOVERSTAD

Varieties and Diversity of Uses, Yield and Effect on the Soil Also Considered.

In the Red River Valley, we think that wheat is the great and most important crop the farmers can raise. To us this may be true, but comparing the amount of wheat raised in the United States with corn, we find that wheat is far in the rear. There is probably no plant raised in America that is more highly valued than corn. The area devoted to its culture is ample evidence of its popularity. The force of this is strengthened by the fact that corn is far from a new plant. It has been known and cultivated for hundreds of years. There is no novelty connected with it. Its popularity is due wholly to the merit of the plant.

The variety of uses corn is put to is very numerous. Doubtless the Crookston Journal will some day be printed on paper made from cornstalks. It has proved invaluable in the construction of warships. Its highest value, however, is in the food it furnishes for both man and beasts. Not only is the grain valuable but the fodder as well. We shall in the Northwest appreciate this plant more in the future than we do now.

IN THE RED RIVER VALLEY.

Many persons take it for granted that corn can not be grown in the Red River Valley. If the production of ears was the only thing sought, the idea would have some foundation. The maturing of ears is somewhat uncertain. Some years corn will mature nicely, while in other years it is in danger of being destroyed by frost in the immature stage. Fortunately the fodder of the corn is the most important. In the stalk can be found the food material that later goes to form the ear, and while it is in the stalk the food is better balanced than it is after the ears are formed. Corn fodder can be produced here with great certainty. Had more corn been raised in the northwest last year, it would have been of great value to the farmers. At no time has corn grown better on the experiment farm than it did last year. Corn planted during the dry season germinated and grew just as well as if rain had been abundant. If farmers had raised more corn they could have had ample roughage to feed their horses and cattle during the winter. Many of those who had built up a herd of cattle were forced to sell the animals in an unfinished condition for the lack of food with which to winter them.

Corn sown as late as July 15 produced a good crop. At the North Dakota Experiment Station at Fargo, corn sown July 10th produced a yield of 22 tons of green forage per acre. This shows how rapidly corn can produce a large crop in the Red River Valley. I am glad to be asked to write this article on corn culture. I know corn will soon be a very important crop here, and anything that would give this enterprise a stimulus ought to do some good.

FOR GRAIN AND FOR FODDER.

Corn is raised both for grain and fodder. At the present time it would be unwise to sow any large field with the hope of harvesting a crop of mature ears. It may be wise to sow a small field in hills, 42 inches apart each way, in order to raise seed corn and thereby helping to develop a variety of corn suitable for this country. At the present time seed corn will have to be shipped in. Most of the corn fields should be sown in drills and be cut and cured for fodder.

PREPARATION OF THE LAND.

It will be necessary to outline in this article one method of culture. It must not be understood that this is the only successful method. There are fortunately many variations from the common method that may be practiced which will lead to success. Owing to the variations in the season it is impossible to follow any rule very closely. Conditions are often such that variations are unavoidable. Our present plan is to plow the land in the fall, if possible. The soil will then settle back to a dense condition before seeding time. Another advantage in fall plowing is that a part of the work is off our hands in the spring. The spring season is short and all the work that can be equally well done in the fall should not be postponed until spring. As soon as the soil is in suitable condition commence cultivating the soil. Disking or harvesting the soil every week or ten days will be found wise. Disking is preferable to harrowing. This culture will make a nice mellow seed bed, will germinate and destroy the weeds and weed seeds near the surface. The greatest advantage resulting from this tillage is in the conservation of the soil moisture. The destruction of the capillary spaces by the formation of the dust blanket prevents the evaporation of the moisture from the soil. By this simple method moisture is saved and is left to remain in the root zone where the plants can most easily get access to it. To produce one ton of dry matter in Dent corn, it requires more than 300 tons of water. If less than a sufficient amount of water is in the soil the crop suffers in consequence.

THE SEED CORN

What varieties to recommend for seed we have not definitely decided in our own minds. The earliest corn to mature is probably the squaw or the flint varieties. While some of the squaw corn may mature, the ears are usually small, the stalk short and the ears so low down that the crop is hard to handle. Of the flint varieties, the Mercer is probably as satisfactory as any we have tried. The stalk is of good size, the ears are well up, and on the whole it is a very desirable variety. For fodder, our favorite has been "Minnesota No. 13." This has proved very satisfactory. Any of the leafy dent varieties, growing to a height of six or seven feet with ears well upon the stalk, will be found very satisfactory. Any variety that grows well in one's neighborhood may be the most desirable. The long Southern corn is not very popular at the present time.

METHODS OF SEEDING

If ears are wanted, hills 3½ feet apart each way will be the most desirable distance, planting three or four kernels in each hill, which will be sufficient. Detasseling all the weak stalks will be found wise so the corn will be pollenized only from the strong, vigorous plants. When the planting is done in the hills the hand planter will be found sufficient machinery for what little there may be sown.

For fodder corn it is wiser to plant in drills. A common grain drilll with feed that will not grind the corn will be as good a machine for sowing as one will need. We sow in double drills 42 inches apart. By double drills is meant that we sow corn in two drill shoes six or seven inches apart. We allow 42 inches between the double rows to permit cultivation. Drop a kernel every two or three inches in the rows. This may look like thick seeding but it will be none too much. Ears may not form on the stalk but the nutriment will be found in the stalk anyhow. The seeding is usually done from the 10th to 25th of May, depending on the season, if ears are wanted, and from the 1st to 20th of June if sown for fodder. Corn was sown last year as late as the 15th of July and good fodder was produced. By sowing the corn rather late a more balanced ration is obtained. Prof. Snyder says: "Early cut corn is richer in protein nutriment than later cut corn. The plant in its growth rounds out first on the protein side; that is, the protein or more valuable nutriments are produced first, while the fiber and carbohydrates are formed largely in the later stages of its growth.

SUMMER CULTIVATION

As soon as the corn is planted and until it appears above the surface a common peg tooth harrow can be used. From the time the corn is four or five inches high until it is a foot or even more, a weeder with rather long teeth will be found a very servicable instrument. These weeders will do good work only if the soil is in right tilth, containing the right amount of moisture, and the weeds not having too much of a start. From this time on the two horse cultivator should be used very frequently. Once a week is none too much. Any cultivator with four to six small shovels on each side will be found good. These will stir the soil to a depth of three inches which is as deep as the corn should be cultivated. Avoid deep culture for fear the roots may be destroyed. After the corn is too large for the two horse cultivator, a single horse hoe should be used. This will destroy the weeds starting later in the summer, and will prevent any weeds from going to seed The corn field should now be so clean that it will be unnecessary to plow in the fall. If the cultivation prior to planting and the harrowing while the corn is young is thoroughly done, there will be no weeds in the small space between the drills in the double row. The shade caused by the thick planting will also have the tendency to keep the weeds back.

HARVESTING THE CORN CROP.

Cut the corn before or immediately after frost We usually start the cutting not later than Sept 1. Cutting by hand is impracticable here. Labor is very expensive and very few laborers are found who are skilled in corn cutting. The corn harvester is so perfected now that it seems to solve the question of corn cutting. The common standard harvesters are capable of cutting the double rows easily.

CURING AND STORING CORN.

Corn can be put into large shocks and left in the fields until dry. They can be left in the fields and hauled home when needed for use, or if dry, it can be stacked. Care must be taken to see that it is thoroughly dried or it will heat and spoil. Stacking corn and alternating a layer of corn with a layer of straw has been tried and reports are favorable to that practice. Corn and oats have also been threshed together. This experiment will probably be more extensively tried, and will probably be a successful practice. Probably no method is superior, if equal, to siloing the corn. Fodder can be cut and put into the silo immediately. It can be allowed to stand in the field if the season is too busy, and put into the silo later. In the Red River valley silos are few, but they will probably be more numerous in the future. Ready made silos can now be bought, and their expense is not beyond the reach of any stockman with a good sized herd.

CORN VS. SUMMER FALLOW.

The method often practiced is to crop the land until it refuses to grow a good crop, then the land is fallowed for one season. Many farmers doubt the wisdom of this practice. Many authorities recommend the growing of a corn crop instead of summer fallow. Prof. Snyder, in Minnesota Bulletin No. 65, says as follows:

"In many cases the loss of nitrogen has been hastened by the extensive practice of summer fallowing, which temporarily increases the yield of succeeding crops, but in the end results in unnecessary loss of nitrogen. Summer fallowing causes the humus to decay rapidly, and in doing so four or five times more nitrogen is liberated than is used by the next crop. Summer fallowing causes an increase in the available nitrogen, but a material decrease in the total nitrogen, hence, if this practice is continued, the original store of nitrogen will soon be reduced below the point necessary for crop production. If instead of summer fallowing some green crop were grown upon the land and plowed under, as green manure, there would be a new stock of humus added to the soil. Bare summer fallowing should be superseded by green manuring.

"In case the land is out of condition and fails to give good yields of grain, it is preferable to grow a crop of corn upon land rather than practice summer fallow. When corn is grown, an increased yield of wheat may be obtained the next year, due to the fact that there is more available nitrogen for the crop; in fact, nearly as large a yield of wheat can be had after a corn crop as after a year of fallow. For the destruction of weeds and insects, an occasional year of fallow is not objectionable, but alternate wheat and fallow, as practiced on some farms, results in only a temporary increase in yield, at the expense of a future decrease and a permanent injury to the soil."

Corn is unquestionably our most valuable forage plant and we hope its further growth will be much extended. It's value as food, and the improved condition of the soil after its use are strong factors in its favor. Corn as yet is not a well balanced ration. The proportion of carbonaceous nutrients are very much in excess of the nitrogenous. By selection and breeding doubtless a variety will be developed which will have a more narrow nutritive ration. When this is accomplished it will prove still more valuable. Corn is more susceptible to variation than most plants. It will be adjusted to environments more easily than most plants. This is a point in its favor when it is being introduced into a new country, or certain characteristics developed in it.

A RACING CIRCUIT.

INTERESTING MEETS TO BE HELD IN JULY AND AUGUST.

Northern Minnesota is to have a racing curcuit this season and the initiative steps for this purpose were taken last evening. A meeting had been called by local horsemen and other parties interested in this sport, and representatives were present from Hallock, Fosston, Warren, Ada and this city. Among some of the most prominent persons in attendance, the meeting, were T. M. George and P. H. Konzan, of Hallock, Dr. Warringer and Albert Berg, of Fargo. Bert Krapp, of Warren, and C. A. Hitchcock and W. S. Lycan, of Crookston.

It was decided to establish a circuit, including the towns above mentioned, and the new association is to be known as the Northern Minnesota Racing Circuit. The officers elected for the present season are as follows:

President, T. M. George, Hallock.

Secretary and treasurer, C. A. Hitchcock, Crookston.

Directors, P. H. Konzan, Hallock, Jas. E. Campbell, Fosston, Bert Knapp, Warren, C. J. Lofgren, Ada, and N. S. Gordon, Crookston.

The race meetings scheduled for this season will take place at Fosston, July 3 and 4; Ada, July 11 and 12; Crookston, July 18 and 19; Warren, July 25 and 26, and Hallock, August 1 and 2.

The board of directors and officers of the association have agreed to raise $10,000 in the towns and cities belonging to the circuit, for purses to be hung up for competitors, and as the field for entry in these races is open to the world, there is every reason to expect a number of exciting races during the coming season.

The rules and regulations of the American Trotting Association have been adopted by the new circuit and will govern all matters pertaining to the races.

FEARS GIPSY QUEEN.

A well known young man of Janesville, Wis., has applied to the police for protection, as he fears he will be kidnapped.

For some days past a gypsy named Zyra has been telling fortunes, and many people have been consulting her, among them the young man in question. After the gypsy had told his fortune, according to his story, she declared that he was hers and that she could not live without him. She cried that she loved him and begged him to run away with her.

He had a wild time leaving her, as she tried by force to keep him, and vowed that members of her band would bring him back to her. She is queen of a band of gypsies encamped on the outskirts of the city.

R & G CORSETS
NEVER STRETCH

The moderately straight R & G No. 397 was and is the corset of comfort with the essence of style. It is straight enough for the prevailing vogue and curved enough to conform to healthful anatomical lines. In 1900 we were unable to fully meet the demand for straight-front goods and unwilling to resort to any makeshift to meet the conditions. At present, however, considerable additions to our factory facilities enable us to keep the trade supplied with real straight-front corsets at retail prices from $1.00 to $2.50, and also our 397, 197, Empire and other popular numbers. There are over seventy styles and sizes of R & G Corsets—a corset to fit every figure. R & G Corsets are the corsets that do not stretch. Every hairbreadth of stretch is taken out of the goods by means of steam-heated iron forms. This gives a permanency to the right shape and form that will stay in it until the last day you wear it. Every R & G Corset is sold with the understanding that it must give satisfaction to the wearer, or the dealer will supply a new one free of cost. If your dealer hasn't it, send us his name and we will see that you are supplied with what you want.

MERCERS REPORT

Which the Department at Washington Has Not Yet Received.

CUTTING IS TO BE STOPPED

Until the Law on Dead and Down Matters is Changed.

Secretary Hitchcock was recently interviewed by a correspondent of the Minneapolis Journal and dictated the following for publication:

I have very carefully read the Journal's account of the season's cut of dead and down timber on the reservations, and fully appreciate its instructions to its representative to make all his inquiries in a spirit of fairness, with the sole purpose of arriving at the truth as near as may be, and which instructions its representative seems to have carried out.

The department has not yet received Captain Mercer's report, which will, however, be forwarded upon the completion of the season's work but from the Journal's account, it is most discouraging to the department and the Indian office, and must be most humiliating to the good people of Minnesota, that such flagrant violations of the law and disregard of ordinary honesty should have been perpetrated or encouraged by individuals and organizations or companies, whose disgraceful conduct will be duly reported to the department of justice, if the charges made are found to be substantially correct.

More than this I do not care to say at present, except to add that the department's experience in the sale of the four townships last November and the results of these last dead-and-down contracts, will prevent any further action by the department until the existing laws are so amended as to prevent a repetition of the scandalous violations of the law that were developed in each of these transactions. Fortunately the prompt and vigorous action of Captain Mercer, who continues to have the entire confidence of the department, has apparently fully protected the financial interests of the Indians, at whose urgent request it was that these dead-and-down contracts were entered into, but will not be repeated.

NEPOTISM MUST GO.

NO RELATIVES OF BOARD MEMBERS ELIGIBLE.

St. Paul, April 26.—The state board of control has declared war on nepotism. In an official statement it says:

"The nature and character of the serious problems before this board is such that public interest in its doing is proper and will always be considered. The best interests of the great institutions under our care demand, however, that our policy and actions affecting them be first communicated to the heads of these institutions who are charged with the greater responsibility of immediate management and direction. Good policy as well as good faith with these men dictate this course, and it will be adhered to in all such matters.

"Pursuant thereto, the following circular was, on the 20th inst., sent to the superintendents and wardens of all institutions under full control of the board:

"Dear Sir—It seems to be necessary at the outset to establish certain rules and regulations governing this board and the superintendents and wardens of state institutions under its control, for our mutual guidance, and you are therefore advised of the following this day adopted:

"First—It is hereby declared as the policy of the board, to which it will rigidly adhere, that no relation of any of its members, either by blood or by marriage, shall be appointed to any position under said board, and that no member of this board shall exert any influence, by solicitation or otherwise, upon the managing officer of any institution in the selection of any employe.

"Second—That on and after Aug. 1, 1901, no superintendent or warden of any institution under the full control of this board shall employ, or retain in his employ, any relation, either by blood or by marriage, for any position or duty in his institution, nor shall he employ, or retain in his employ, after said date, any person who is related by blood or marriage to the head of the department, or to the officer to whom such employe would be directly responsible in such institution."

This circular was purposely sent before the board had advised any of the institutions, and before the receipt of any information which might prejudice the situation, or such action, but it is the result of mature deliberation after careful study of the purpose and intent of the law.

$25,000,000 CLEAN UP.

Victoria, B.C., April 29.—The steamer Aimer just in brings news of the Klondike clean up now in progress. Sluicing is in full oeration, the thaw having given plenty of water. The output is estimated at not less than $25,000,000. Many experts say it will reach $30,000,000. Stampeders are still rushing to Montana creek, which is now more staked than any creek in the Klondike. There is also a stampede to Gold river. Ore going as high as $50,000 to the ton has been found on Twelve Mile Inlet creek near Ketchikan. The Dominion gambling house, one of Klondike's largest resorts, has closed, owing to the loss of $40,000 on April 13, following a bad week.

JUDGES REFUSE.

TO RECOMMEND CLEMENCY FOR ALEX M'KENZIE.

Washington, April 29.—The long looked for statement from judges of the federal court of appeals at San Francisco has arrived. It came addressed to Attorney General Knox. Regarding the pardon of Alexander McKenzie, each of the three judges take a strong stand against the president's granting the pardon.

Attorney General Knox was in Pittsburg and the letter was opened by an assistant and turned over to the solicitor general, who telephoned Attorney General Knox asking him what was to be done. It is impossible to anticipate Attorney Knox's reply, although the matter will be handed up to President Mc Kinley at once in some form.

Whether Mr. Knox will recommend the pardon in the face of the action of the judges can not be said, but Mc Kenzie's friends think be will.

The judges base their adverse recommendation on their belief that Mc Kenzie's offense was wilful and was not committed on the advice of an attorney. They say it was a plain case of intent to disregard the order of the court and that the punishment was not severe in view of all the facts. They paint Mc Kenzie in dark colors and say there is absolutely nothing in the case warranting executive interference. The fact that the judges oppose the pardon does not seem to surprise Mc Kenzie's friends here. They say they looked for nothing else.

SAD ACCIDENT.

FOUR CHILDREN INVESTIGATED A RAILROAD TORPEDO.

On Saturday afternoon four little girls, ranging in age from 4 to 11 years, were looking for flowers in the fields near Heath Creek, says the Northfield News, when their attention was attracted to a signal flag on the railroad. Child-like, they proceeded to where the flag was and pulled it from the ground to play with. In so doing, a round, shining object fastened to a rail aroused the curiosity of the children and they loosened it and tried to find out he contents of the "tin box," which they supposed a railroad torpedo to be. The eldest child, Maud Wagner, attempted to force an opening of the torpedo with her teeth. This effort proved ineffectual and the torpedo was placed upon the ground and stones thrown upon it. Fnally the contents exploded, injuring each child as follows: Hazel Zaunmiller, aged six years, her left eye put out and powder blown in her face; Lizzie Zaunmiller, slight flesh wound in leg; Maud Wagner, little finger, palm and outer side of right hand badly torn, left hand and both wrists hurt and powder blown into the fact and left eye; Lulu Wagner, severe flesh wound above left eye. The children were found in this condition some time afterwards, and were brought home by section hands who were working in the vicinity. The torpedo is an instrument used to signal trains when work is in progress ahead on the track. The children were daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Jordan Zaunmiller, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wagner, of Northfield.

DIRECTORS COMPROMISE.

EXPO GATES TO BE OPEN—MIDWAY MUST CLOSE SUNDAYS.

Buffalo, April 29.—The question of whether the gates of the Pan-American grounds are to be open on Sunday was finally settled yesterday by the board of directors. Their decision is a compromise. The gates are to be open from 1 p. m. until 11 p. m., but the Midway and all amusement features will be closed during the 24 hours from Saturday night until Monday morning.

WOLF ATTACKED CHILDREN.

Lake City, Minn., April 19.—Two young children of Nicholss Thill, who lives at the spring just below Camp Lakeview, were attacked by a large timber wolf while on their way to school. They had left the house but a short time when Mr. Thill was alarmed by the cries of the children and rushed to the spot.

He arrived in time to drive off a large and ferocious wolf, which had set upon them, and but for his timely appearance the animal would, without doubt, have appeased his hunger with fearful results. The wolf escaped into the woods upon the approach of help, and Mr. Thill was unable to get sight of it again, though a diligent search was made.

Later in the day, with the assistance of a large dog, a nest was located containing five young wolves. Mr. Thill dispatched these, and will have a neat sum in the way of bounty coming to him.

300,000,000 FOLKS

Predicted as the Population of the United States this Century.

MUST REACH THAT NUMBER

To Keep Her Population Abreast of Her Other Improvements.

Will the United States have a population of 300,000,000 by the end of the twentieth century? Let us hope so. The nineteenth century has brought the nation from a handful of scattered and struggling people to the front rank among the great countries of the world. If it is to maintain that proud position and take its place at the head of the world's great nations it must ncrease in population and productivity and maintain its power of participation in all the affairs of the busy world, whose population by that time will be more than 3,000,000,000 of people. To that end our waste places must be peopled, our great natural resources developed, our power of self-support intensified and our facilites of interchange among ourselves and with the whole world multiplied. For this we need people—people with sturdy muscles and active minds, with earnest hearts and purposes. The people now distributed over this splendid area of ours being of that character, why should we not have, even before the end of the century, the 300,000,000 active, intelligent, successful people which the United States will require to maintain its position at the head of the world's great nations?

With a great railway system stretching from Patagonia to Alaska and connecting across Behring strait with an Asiatic railway system, with wireless telegraphy enabling instantaneous communication from city to cty and telephones so developed that man may speak from continent to continent, with the art of ocean navigation much more highly developed and perhaps the navigation of the air as completely mastered as that of the ocean today, the United States, with their power to interchange their products, will be in touch with those of other lands, and their power to sustain a population of 800,000,000—yes, even 1,000,000,000—will be greater than that by which the prosperous nations of Europe sustain their present population.—Forum.

UNEARNED SALARIES.

MUST NOT BE PLEDGED FOR MONEY BORROWED.

Chicago, April 29.—The assignment of unearned wages as security for money loans was declared unlawful Saturday by Judge Dunn. To uphold such assignments, he said, would be to declare for slavery and involuntary servitude. In this decision he extends his original holding to all persons working on salary.

"The decision is emphatic in its terms against pledging of unearned salaries as a guarantee of payment for money borrowed," said Judge Dunn. "It practically makes it impossible for a broker who loans his money in this way to secure its collection in the courts."

HAD NARROW ESCAPE.

Thief River Falls Press: Last Thursday evening at 7:30 the main steam connection between the big battery of saw mill boilers and the engine room let go with a terrific roar and a great crowd flocked to the mill yard to ascertain the cause. The accident will result in shutting down the mill for a day, but the loss is small otherwise. Engineer Charles Olson, who was in the engine room at the time, dropped to the floor and crawled out uninjured. His escape from suffocation was almost miraculous.

FRIEND BROS. CLOTHING

A Friend Bros. Outing Flannel Suit is an economy as well as a luxury. It saves your other clothes and keeps you cool and comfortable. The Friend Bros. Outing Suit is made in white, blue or gray flannel, unlined.

The cut is the very latest style and workmanship of the Friend Bros. master-grade. The seam stitches have the proper tension to avoid rupture. The flannel is not only shrunken before being cut, but during the process of tailoring the form of the garment is "ironed in" so as to retain its shape. Try on the suit. You will be surprised at the price and delighted with your bargain if you make one. Ask for Friend Bros. Clothing and see that you get it. Sold by leading dealers. Look for our name in right hand breast pocket.

Around the Country.

Weekly Reports From the Journal's Corps of News Gatherers.

ADA

Joe Duffy left Sunday morning for Montana.

Emil Farley and Fred Lanetot visited friends at Crookston Sunday.

A number of young folks spent Sunday out at Johnson's mill dam, fishing.

The Ada social club closed their season with a very enjoyable dance Friday evening.

Elmer Gullickson left last Monday night for St. Paul, where he joined the U. S. cavalry.

Charley Larson left Wednesday morning for Park River, N. D., where he will work at the carpenter trade.

Misses Moffatt and Wilson came over from Twin Valley Saturday night and spent Sunday and Monday here.

Three new buildings have been erected in Hampson's addition by the lake this spring and are ready for occupancy.

The schools here observed arbor day Friday with appropriate exercises. Two trees were planted and named Jerry Bogs and Funston.

The boys of the fire department presented P. S. Larson, the retiring member, with an elegant watch charm at their meeting last Monday night.

The seeding around here is well on its way and a few are already through with the wheat. Quite a number of the fields are already up and with this last rain will go ahead fast.

Jerry Bogs returned from the Philippines islands last week, where he has served in Co. I of the 34th U. S. regulars. He has been visiting old friends here and left Tuesday night for Iowa

Peter Olson, the head clerk at C. R. Andrews & Co., has severed his connection with that firm, and has bought a twenty acre tract of land, where he intends to put up a store and do a little farming besides.

P. S. Larson sold his household goods here at auction Saturday and Sunday night left with his family for the southern part of the state. Mr Larson has had charge of the Northwestern Co.'s elevator at this place but resigned and is now with a St. Paul real estate firm.

CLIMAX.

A. Staberg has been busy moving his house the last few days.

E. J. Eide went to Fargo Tuesday morning, returning Wednesday morning.

Edwin Semling of Halstad spent a few days visiting his friend, Norman Rosholt.

Miss Emma Satermo left for Donaldson last Tuesday morning for a prolonged stay with her sister, Mrs. F. C. Taft.

Miss Thoreson, who has spent the winter at the Minneapolis conservatory of music, returned last week to resume her work teaching music.

George Schrump left last Monday morning by team for Larimore, N. O. He went there to spend a few days with his father, who has been ill for some time past.

Messrs. C. Hawkins of Shelly, L. Larson of Hillsboro and E. Gilberts of Halstad, all prominent druggists, spent a few hours in town last Saturday with the boys.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Rambie of Neilsville came in on Monday morning's train with their little daughter, who underwent a surgical operation for a tumor of the neck.

The Climax brass band has secured the services of Prof. Riggs of Crookston as their instructor and there is no reason why the band should not be able to play well before long. Some of the boys have already had experience.

This week another case has been tried in the Climax court of justice. A certain young man registered at the Commercial hotel as D. E. Shannon a couple of weeks ago, being dressed in good clothes and having the air of a fine gentleman. The landlord did not push his claims for accommodations very vigorously. Mr. Shannon said he owned a large ranch near Williston, N. D., and was in search of more cattle. He soon made a deal with Iverson & Messner of this place for one carload. Mr. Shannon drew a draft for $3,000 through the Bank of Climax on the First National Bank of Williston in order to pay for same, and because the First National Bank of Williston don't know him, Mr. Shannon now makes the village lock-up his headquarters with a sentence of thirty days in the county jail or $25 fine hanging over him for obtaining board and lodging under false pretences. Further developments prove that his right name is Tom McAllister, and comes from Crookston, Minn.

KEY WEST

D. Geddes was a caller in town Sunday.

Frank Sutter was a Key West caller Sunday.

J. Brown is fencing and otherwise improving his property.

We hear that A. Armstrong's family are suffering from bronchitis.

Miss Annie Stein, who has been very ill at her home, is reported to be slowly recovering.

Joseph Rogers and wife of Grand Forks were callers in Key West a few days ago.

C. Brown, W. Bain, E. Henry, J. Coulter and W. Mc Veety passed through Key West with their young stock, enroute for Anit's summer pasturing ground, Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morrison and son Hugh were callers at Key West Monday.

A. Dieffenbaugh, our genial gardener, has branched off into gardening a little of late.

Elmer Rhab, while working on the railroad, tried some acrobatic performances, as a result of which he took a tumble in the ditch, when almost three miles from his boarding house. Not an altogether pleasant experience.

Last Friday night's storm changed the location of Ed Melville's house, and overturned some small buildings in this locality. The storm was still more severe at Buffington, and blew down part of the elevator, and it is reported to have given a decided lean to the main building.

HALLOCK

Hallock vicinity begins to wear the garb of green. Flowery May is here.

Arbor day exercises were observed at the school house Friday afternoon. Five trees were planted, one by the students of each room. Rev. Franklin delivered an address.

Next Sunday regular preaching services will be held in the Presbyterian church in the morning. For some time in the past the Sunday school has taken up the morning hour.

The thunder storm Friday evening appeared very threatening at first and the distant clouds were watched with some apprehension. The storm proved to be only ordinary, however.

The Kittson county agricultural society has decided to celebrate May 30th with a grand matinee. Memorial services will be held in the forenoon at the cemetery. In the afternoon sports, races, etc., will be indulged in. A great day, this Memorial day.

The entertainment given by the Loyal Temperance Legion last Saturday was enjoyed by a large and enthusiastic audience. The little folks did well and great credit is due the teachers who labor so zealously for the good cause. The address by Mrs. Bayrell of Argyle was masterly. She closed by mentioning that this district of the W. C. T. U. will convene at this place in June, when 40 or 50 delegates are expected to be present.

SOUTH CROOKSTON

Business is quiet in the Fifth ward.

David Bates lost a good cow last week.

James Philips is spending a few days along the Duluth line on business.

Mrs. Harry Nicholson is not gaining very fast. She has had a long siege of fever.

Get C. A. Meyers to clean and put down your carpets for you if you wish to save money.

Our barber is not doing much business now. I guess he is beginning to see that it does not pay to have too many irons in the fire at once.

W. W. Brown is doing a rushing business at the Hotel Berlin. Brown is bound to have a crowd around him as he is a man whom the people respect and a good business man.

ARGYLE

H. L. Melgaard tarried over night at Warren Monday.

Mr. Ballou, the G. N. agent at Euclid, spent Monday with friends here.

W.J. Larson spent last Sunday with home folks at Glenwood, Minn.

Mynne Keye is teaching "Brushwood College," four miles from town.

Mrs. E. W. Zamzow returned home Tuesday from a visit with relatives at Fertile.

Mr. and Mrs. Morck and children of Warren spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Forest.

Mrs. Rutherford and Miss Fairweather of Euclid spent a few days with friends in Argyle.

George Johnson left Saturday evening for Red Wing to be present at his sister's wedding.

Miss Lulu Tiedt left Saturday evening for a few weeks visit with relatives at Crookston.

D. L. Stanton and Mrs. Beulah Robertson were quietly married at Warren Saturday, April 27.

Mrs. L. C. Bayrell returned home from her lecture tour, Monday evening, having lectured at different stations north of Argyle.

Died—at Stephen, Minn., April 25—Mr Alex Mc Kay of Argyle. Mr. Mc Kay was visiting at the home of his daughter, Mrs. T. Evans, and was taken ill, the week previous to his death, with pneumonia. All that loving hands could do was done for him but death overtook him.

Mr. Mc Kay was in his 61st year. The funeral was held from the Methodist church at Argyle Sunday forenoon, the Odd Fellows having charge of it. Mr. Mc Kay leaves a sorrowing wife and three grown daughters to mourn his loss.

ST. VINCENT

Rev. Swinnerton leaves this week for Bemidji.

Contractor Cameron has started work on the Forester's hall.

Hanson and Thedorf did a job of shingling for Mrs. Edkins.

Mr. and Mrs. Le Masurier were visiting at Hallock last week.

Dr. Dodds of Crookston preached in the M. E. church here last Sunday morning.

Mr. Lien sold his farm to Prof. Cowan, and has purchased a quarter section of the hill lands south of town.

A gun club has been organized here with J. A. Noyes president, R. H. Lapp, secretary and E. J. Lien, treasurer. The boys propose to meet twice a week and perforate the atmosphere for "blue rocks."

The cable to the ferry parted on one of those windy days of last week and the boat took a short run down stream. Nobody hurt, and the boat is back again doing business at the old stand.

ELDRED.

Mrs. Babnsen spent Sunday in Crookston.

Miss Clara Bonkind visited in the town last Monday.

The farmers around here all expect a good crop—next year.

Perhaps some of you all-wheat farmers will appreciate having a creamery in your community, this year at least.

Monson & Son have received three car loads of machinery, which includes several of the famous LaCrosse plows, and some fine Lull & Skinner buggies.

If every wild goose should have stopped to take a sip of water as they passed over here on Monday, it may be that some could have commenced seeding at once. They were here by the thousands.

WARREN.

Miss Adams spent Friday night in Crookston.

Mr. Hoag came down from Argyle Friday night.

Jane Edgar visited friends in Crookston Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lamberson were visitors in Crookston Friday.

Bert Knapp returned from Crookston Thursday morning.

James Mack of Wanger was a visitor in the city last week.

Wm. Newman returned from a visit to the Twin Cities Thursday.

Dr. Stanton, of Cass Lake, was in the city on business Saturday.

Rev. Hutton went south on Saturday evening's train for a visit with friends.

Wm. Box left last Thursday for a two weeks' visit with relatives in Chicago.

Mrs. Winchester and Mrs. Spaulding took in the sights of Crookston Friday night.

Mr. Green came down from Stephen Saturday night and spent Sunday at home.

Mrs. Clark and children left Friday evening for Bemidji, where they will reside in the future.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoag are rejoicing over the arrival of a son, that made its appearance at their home Thursday morning.

Burt Peck says if the weather gets much warmer he is afraid he will be compelled to part with his beard. That would be too bad, Burt, and I assure you, you have our sympathy.

Frank Runnells of Argyle made our city a flying visit last Saturday. Rumor has it that Frank had urgent business with Clerk of Court T. Morck, and we look for a wedding from the direction of Argyle soon. That is all right, Frank, you are old enough to know right from wrong by this time.

Monday and Tuesday there was a party of surveyors rounding up our city, and it is said they are railroad surveyors. A few of our so considered wide awake, intelligent citizens have gotten the idea into their craniums that Warren will soon be blessed with a cross railroad and that the surveyors were looking for the best and most convenient place for a depot. It is strange what ideas some people will get into their heads.

Mr. Cline of Cherokee, Ia., the senior partner of the firm of Apgar & Cline, arrived Monday with five gentlemen from Iowa who are here looking for land, and Frank Cline and A. S. Apgar, who are both hustlers from away back, are locating the gentlemen on some of the farms for which they are agents. We understand one of the gentlemen has purchased Mr. Rosenberg's farm north of town. We did not learn the consideration.

Quite a lively runaway happened on our streets last Saturday. A team belonging to Mr. Iverson got frightened near the People's store, pulled the hitch post out of the ground and started down Main street at break neck speed. They ran about half a mile before they were captured, but fortunately no damage was done either to the horses or vehicle. Those who saw them running thought it certain that serious damage would be done.

Jelmer Oleson, who lives five miles south of town, killed a pelican on his farm last Saturday night and he brought the bird to town and sold it at auction, receiving $4.50 for it. J. E. Astrum was the purchaser. The bird was a very large one and with its wings stretched measured about ten feet from tip to tip. Taxidermist Brown is mounting the bird for Mr. Astrum and it will be a fine specimen of the web footed family.

NEILSVILLE.

Nils Muus transacted business at Crookston Tuesday.

Miss Mary Horte of Portland is visiting her cousin, Miss Annie Horte at the Merchants hotel.

O. A. Paulsrud and John Steenerson spent Monday at Grand Forks inspecting a Reeves threshing outfit.

Eugene Howland has just received a consignment of trees from the Jewel nursery of Lake City, which he is distributing for them.

Our popular blacksmith, J. P. Skalet, is kept busy nowadays repairing farm implements. If there is any fixing to be done, John can do it.

Mrs. John Ellingson died at her home Sunday, April 21, at 11:3 p. m. Deceased had been suffering from consumption for several months and it has only been a question of time when the end would come. It came like a calm sleep. Mrs. Ellingson was born in Freeborn county, this state, 39 years ago and came to this county with her husband in 1880. She leaves a husband and eight children. The funeral occurred the following Wednesday from St. Peter's church, Rev. Brodland officiating. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion and was filled to overflowing.

A party consisting of Miss Annie Horte, Miss Clara Hanson, Halvor Benson and Ole Melsness drove over to Portland, N. D., for a visit last Sunday with relatives of Miss Horte. They returned the same day.

The spring work is progressing nicely around Neilsville—that is in the immediate vicinity. But a few miles east of here there are many who have not even commenced.

Edward Tronnes will have his business building completed in about a week. It will then be occupied by his daughter, Miss Reatte Tronnes, for a millinery store. She has already received a fine lot of goods and is occupying a part of Munn's store till the completion of the new building.

NEW BUSINESS FIRM.

LAND AGENCY OF JONES, EVERETT, SIMPSON & CO.

The latest accession to the land agency fraternity of our city is the firm of Jones, Everett, Simpson & Co., who have established themselves in the Vine block on South Broadway. The resident members of the firm are C. W. Everett, formerly of Redwood Falls, and H. B. Wolff, formerly of Morris, Minn. These gentlemen are not novices in the land business, but have had an extensive experience in that line. They have for sale a very extensive list of both wild and improved lands, and place great stress on the assertion, "We handle nothing but good lands." They are here to stay and to associate with their customers, and they make it a special point to deal with them in such a way as not to hazzard future friendship. The Journal extends to them a hearty welcome to the list of business men of our city, and expects to see them prosper and build up a substantial business.

THE HIGHWAYMAN.

The fun in DeKoven & Smith's comic opera, "The Highwayman," which is to be presented by the Broadway (New York) Opera company at the Grand opera house on Tuesday, May 7th, is not contained solely in the humor of its performance, but depends upon the charm of its music and the consistency of its plot, which should be commended in these days of horse play. The company which will present the opera here is an exceptionally clever one, and contains the names of well known artists in its roster. The organization is headed by Miss Katherine Geormaine, a prima donna soprano, well known throughout the country, and who possesses a charming voice and every other essential requisite for a proper interpretation of the characters she assumes. There is no doubt but that she will lend to her characterization of Lady Constance in "The Highwayman" a personality that will appeal directly to her audience. Miss Geromaine will be ably seconded by Mr. Edmund Stanley as Captain Scarlet, Mr. H. W. TreDenick as Foxy Quiller and Miss Addie Sharp as Doll Primrose. The balance of the characters of the opera are placed in competent hands. The chorus work of the members of the organization is admirable. The original paraphernalia used during the opera's run in New York will be used here.

A FOUL MURDER.

Was Committed at East Grand Forks Sunday Morning.

MAN'S SKULL WAS CRACKED

Affair Shrouded in Mystery.--No Clew to the Murderer Has Been Found.

Early on Sabbath morning the citizens of East Grand Forks were shocked to learn that another murder had been committed during the night, and that another dark blotch had been added to the unenviable reputation that city has previously gained with the outside world as a tough place. The rumor, which was at first discredited, proved only too true, and the circumstances connected with the tragedy showed that Charles M. Heck had fallen a victim to a cold hearted assassin.

The details of the bloody affair, as near as can be learned at this time, are that at an early hour during Sunday morning and while denizens in the vicinity where the murdered man was found were still slumbering, a quarrel was heard near the residence of one Chas. Beaver. Those who were awakened by the noisy row paid no attention to the racket, thinking that it came from a few stragglers who were returning home late from the saloons. The first passers of the scene where the row was heard found the dead body of a man and at once notified the police. When found the body was still warm, and blood was oozing freely from one of the dead man's ears. The police after viewing the body concluded that a cold blooded murder had been committed, and shortly after placed Beaver under arrest as a suspect of being connected with the affair.

Coroner Chesterman was notified of the tragedy and went over Sunday night to examine into the cause of death, returning on the 9 o'clock train. The coroner, after viewing the body and identifying it as that of Charles M. Heck, ordered it removed to the morgue where he ordered a post mortem examination to be held next morning. Heck had a small memorandum in his pocket in which he had written his name and the request, "In case of accident, telegraph my brother, John M. Heck, Ripley, Ohio."

This request was complied with and response was received that the brother could not come to East Grand Forks to care for the remains, and that he did not want the body sent to him. The remains will probably have to be cared for at the county's expense.

An investigation of the case was commenced Monday by Coroner Chesterman.

A jury was empaneled, consisting of George H. Barlow, E. Arneson, G. F. Peterson, A. C. Brown, Hugh Thompson and John Martin. A large number of witnesses were examined during the day, but at 6 o'clock the jury adjourned until today without coming to any conclusion in the case. The testimony of the different witnesses was very conflicting in regard to some of the important details.

The man's death was caused by a severe blow on the head with some blunt instrument, which cracked the skull.

The place where the deed was committed is several blocks north from the main street of the city, and the location is surrounded by heavy timber. Beaver's wife is said to bear a somewhat questionable reputation and it is thought that her husband caught Heck coming from the former's house and that the two got into a quarrel, during which Heck was killed

At the time of going to press the jury had not arrived at a decision. but at the post mortem examination which occupied the entire forenoon, it developed that the dead man had been struck over the head with some blunt instrument and that his skull was cracked.

It has also been stated by neighbors of the Beaver family that Beaver had often made the remark that if he ever caught anyone at his house or with his wife, he would shoot him on the spot.

This, together with the fact that his face showed fresh marks and bruises, led to his arrest as the probable murderer.

Beaver was arrested Sunday evening and held until Monday, when he was discharged, and at the present time there is no one even under surveillance. There are a great many theories afloat, some of them groundless and others that seem to have some foundation, but the entire affair is shrouded in a peculiar mystery, those who do know anything of the affair refusing to talk, leaving the matter entirely to those who have fertile imaginations.

The dead man was apparently about 35 years of age, smooth shaven with the exception of a moustache; of medium height and build and was not a tough looking character by any means. He arrived in the city a few days ago from the Pacific coast, and as one of his arms is tatooed, it is thought that he had been a sailor. Since his arrival he has stopped at the hotel of A. C. Peterson on De-Mers avenue. He drank some, but had not been seen very drunk. When found he had but a few cents in his pockets, and nothing else of any value.

The affair has caused the greatest excitement on both sides of the river but this is especially true in East Grand Forks. The better class of people deeply deplore the murder, which it is realized is a very bad thing for the city, following as it does a series of murders in years past and the case may result in stirring up a decided muss before the end is reached. It has resulted already in proof that women were still frequenting wine rooms against the specific orders of the mayor issued some time ago to the police.

RECREANT SPOUSE.

INDUCES HIS WIFE TO PART WITH HER FARM.

Perfidy of man is never all told. About twelve years ago Mrs. Anna Widnes, who at that time owned a homestead in the town of Brandsvold, married her present husband, John Widnes, who until recently conducted a hardware business at Shevlin.

For nine years the couple lived happily together, but about three years ago John appeared to be tiring of his wife and family, and a little more than 14 months ago he induced his wife to return to Fosston with her two little girls, aged 4 and 7 years respectively, and since that time Widnes has failed to provide for his wife and family in any way, and the poor woman was compelled to earn her livelihood by working in a restaurant.

Widnes became involved in debt about a year ago and informed his wife that his creditors were crowding him and that he would soon have to dispose of everything he had. The woman still owned her quarter section of land, which is now probably worth $3,000, and making her believe that his creditors would fall back on her and take the land to pay his indebtedness, he succeeded in persuading her to sign over the property to his father.

As soon as the deed was made and the transfer completed, John abandoned everything and left his wife and little children in destitute circumstances, and they have since been dependent upon the charitable people of Fosston.

But the matter is now to take a new turn. Citizens of Fosston and vicinity have raised sufficient funds to bring action against Widnes' father and gain possession of the land, which rightfully belongs to the poor woman and her children.

Papers in this action were filed in the district court Tuesday, and the case will come up for trial at the next term of the district court.

Great indignation is manifested against Widnes at Fosston and the surrounding country for his heartless conduct.

ONLY ONE FARE.

RAILROADS MAKE THAT RATE FOR S. F. CONVENTION.

Ticket Agent Bell, of the Great Northern, has received instructions from headquarters that tickets will be sold for the state firemen's convention over all main and branch lines of the company, at one fare for the round trip. This is probably the lowest rate ever made in Minnesota for similar occasions, and is largely due to the efforts of General Ticket and Passenger Agent Whitney of the Great Northern company. In conferring with other passenger agents as to rates for the Crookston convention, Mr. Whitney made the proposition of a one fare rate for the round trip, and when this seemed too low to the representatives of other companies, Mr. Whitney is quoted as having emphatically remarked:

"The Great Northern Railway company proposes to do this for the people of Crookston, and that settles it."

WAR VETERAN DEAD.

Anoka, Minn., May 4.—C. L. Noggle, a veteran of the civil war, and prominent here for many years, died Thursday night. He came to Minnesota in the fifties and enlisted in the Second Minnesota for the war of the rebellion. He was wounded seven times and three bullets were never extracted. He is survived by a wife. The funeral services will be held on Sunday.

Uncle Jo's Column

It beats all how frantic some folks git when they see things they dote on havin' come their way slippin' through their fingers and goin' to the other feller. I was just beat the other day when I heard about the efforts certain men had been makin' to git certain other men to help 'em carry a point they was after. Of course I had heard something like that about these men before. But then the other times I thought a part of what they said was guess work. But this comes so straight I have got to believe its true this time. I aint goin' to tell what it was this time; 'taint ripe yet so far as publishin' it is concerned. I think likely it'll git ripe later on, and maybe I'll jest have to tell about it byme bye. When it does come out these fellows will be callin' for fig leaves or something else to cover theirselves up with.

—o—

I wonder how we're goin' to fix it about these water mains leakin' so. That'll be awful bad on the pavin' when we git some pavin' done. I should think it would be better to put in some new mains and pipes before the pavin' is done. It'll make bad work to have to keep diggin' it up all the time the way we have to do now to git at the pipes. I see down there by Braley's is another break that's got to be fixed. And so it goes every few days, one place or another there's a leak most all the time.

—o—

President McKinley is a pretty sharp man I think. He's fixed it so he's goin' to be away out of reach of it while the hired girls are cleanin' house. There he is away down south, and I spose the girls have got things there in the white house all helter skelter and topsy turvey. Well, house cleanin' aint the worst thing in the world a man has to put up with when he can git away from it. But when he has to go home for dinner and find two or three of the gentle sex with their heads all tied up in sheets and their sleeves way up above their elbows, and they wrastlin' with the carpets, and poundin' 'em, and the furniture all stacked up on the kitchen table, and the air full of dust, and not a thing in sight to eat, and he has to sneak round and pick up whatever he can find for a snack, and then can't find any place to set down or any place to put his plate. I tell you he might well be willin' to be president and git rid of all this experience, even if he didn't git more than $50,000 a year. There's some things that's better than money they say, and I guess one of 'em must be to git away from house cleanin'. That's one thing I never could understand, how women can enjoy cleanin' house the way they seem to.

—o—

I've heard a good deal about them Stevens-McKenzie petitions lately, and I was readin' some awful high sentiments in the Times about the sacred right of the people to petition and etcetery, and it made me think about that petition the folks that paid into that street fair fund, got up and presented to Stevens and McKenzie to have 'em use that $300 they had left for fixin' up a room for the Y. M. C. A. It don't hardly seem as if they had such a sublime notion about the sacredness of petitions then as they have now. I guess that must have growed onto 'em since that time.

—o—

I saw Halvor Steenerson out runnin' his lawn mower right in the hottest part of the day a few days ago, and he'd got all his clothes off he dared to git along without, and he was workin' away as if he had to git that job done in about ten minutes. I didn't know then what he was in such a hurry for, but I've heard he's taken to studyin' medicine a little lately, and he was readin' in a book the other day that the healthiest kind of a sweat for a man to take is one of the natural kind And he'd been feelin' a little quarmish lately and thought he'd better get a hustle on him and start that natural sweat so be wouldn't git sick and lose what little flesh he's got.

I was strollin' around before breakfast the other mornin' and I went down by Cashier Ellington's place, (he's got a real nice place too) and he was out there fixin' things up as slick as a handbox. I see he's got a crop started in his garden too. And somebody was tellin' me about the callouses on his hands, and that an ambition to be called a "horny handed tiller of the soil" had got hold of him. But if he and Halvor git too reckless they will have to go into the liniment business along with John McKinnon.

—o—

Speakin' about strollin' around makes me think I was noticin' Col. Wilkinson's place there on the Avenue too. He's fixin' his home up real tasty He's got as cozy a porch in front (that is in front of the house) as there is in the city. And when be gits some electric lights on it, it'll be an elegant place to have an evening porch party. I understand some of the young folks around town don't really like these electric porch lights though, because they turn on from inside of the house, and they sometimes git turned on at the wrong time.

UNCLE JO.

"DEAD AND DOWN."

GEN. ANDREWS MAKES STATEMENT AND OFFERS REMEDY.

Gen. C. C. Andrews, chief forest fire warden of Minnesota, has given to the press the following statement relative to cutting "dead and down" pine on the Chippewa Indian reservation:

"A recent visit to two of the Chippewa Indian reservations satisfies me that there are strong grounds for the common impression that the Indians are being wronged by the cutting of pine timber under the "dead and down timber law, and that the way this law is administered offers a premium for causing forest fires. There are 7,000 Chippewa Indians, in a dozen different bands, scattered for two hundred miles from east to west in northern Minnesota, with many settlers in their vicinity, and it is very important that they have no good cause for dissatisfaction. Their pine forests are worth $8,000,000. Under the existing treaty the pine on the ceded reservations must be sold in 40 acre tracts, but from various causes such sale is held in abeyance. Ordinarily, once in six or eight years, from an unusual blow down of pine or from fire there would be occasion for cutting some million feet of pine under the "dead and down" law. But through eagerness of people to get the pine the interior department, which has good intentions toward the Indians, has been so misinformed as to permit extensive lumbering operations under the law for successive years.

It is also the common opinion that fires are set in order to make a cause for cutting timber in this way. I am confident that at least 50,000,000 feet of sound timber has been cut the past winter, and judging from hearsay about 100,000,000 feet have been cut. Of course, I have not the means of knowing whether the Indians will receive the full value of the pine, but my impression is that they will not receive its full value within from $50,000 to $100,000. However that may be, this is certain, that under the guise of cutting "dead and down" timber a great deal of sound timber is being cut, and the whole business has a character of fraud, and tends to excite in the Indians discontent, disrespect for the government and for white people generally.

"There is a remedy for this abuse, and it ought to be applied speedily. The administration of the Indian pine forests in Minnesota is not a local, but a national matter. It concerns the people in the older states as much as it does the people in Minnesota, for it involves the honor of the United States government. The lands should be administered on forestry principles, by which is meant that the mature trees should be cut and marketed as rapidly as practicable, and the young trees left to grow. The tops and branches should not be left, as now, a menace in dry weather to the safety of the remaining forest. There are plenty of young Americans already trained in theoretical and practical forestry, and who would be glad to take charge of these forests and who would take professional pride in managing them in an economical manner. The government could do nothing better than to inspire the respect and good will of the Indians and place these pine lands under scientific forestry management."

BUSINESS INCREASE.

EIGHTY PER CENT LARGER THAN LAST YEAR.

As one evidence of the wonderful improvement in business conditions over last year, we publish herewith the statement of business at the register of deed's office for the month of April just closed, and that of the corresponding month last year:

APRIL—1901.
166 mortgages	$223.50
117 satisfactions	01.25
284 deeds	278.75
29 patents	25.50
48 assignments	51.25
160 miscellaneous	71.65
Total	$691.90

APRIL—1900.
98 mortgages	$129.50
89 satisfactions	48.25
125 deeds	121.25
19 patents	14.75
38 assignments	25.25
80 miscellaneous	41.25
Total	$380.25

From this it will be seen that the business excelled that of last year more than 80 per cent.

Blackduck Times: Last Friday, by some unknown means, the neat farm residence of Peter Hermanson, near Langor, burned, including fences, brush and everything else around the house. The loss will be over $500. The house was two stories high and the logs were hewed both in and outside, and the loss will be quite a setback for Mr. Hermanson.

TAX COMMISSION.

The State Board Today Hears Complaints as to Present System.

NEW OFFICE TO BE CREATED

Which is to Equalize all Tax Matters Under Dispute.

Representative Cummings from Polk county, last winter introduced a bill in the state legislature for the passage of an act providing for the disposition of penalty and and interest on delinquent taxes in cities of the state which are affected in the same manner as Crookston is, under the present tax system. The bill failed to pass, although everything possible on the part of the city council and Representative Cummings was done to secure its passage.

The board of tax commissioners of Minnesota, consisting of Ex-Attorney Generals H. W. Hahn and Childs, and Ex-Lieutenant Governor Ives, arrived in the city Wednesday to discuss the situation with the representative citizens and taxpayers of Crookston, East Grand Forks and Polk county, and to listen to suggestions which would tend to alleviate the present unsatisfactory conditions of taxation.

Among those who met the commission Wednesday were Judge Watts, A. A. Miller, County Commissioner Eastman, J. P. Foote, Harry Falk, John Gleason and others of this city, and Tim Sullivan and Geo. Barlow of East Grand Forks, and the board of commissioners lost no opportunity in getting the fullest details and information as to what was wanted.

Judge Watts explained the present unsatisfactory system of the disposition of penalty and interest on delinquent taxes which affects this city, and Attorney Miller followed by suggesting a remedy. He was of the opinion that it should be made possible for the taxpayers to appeal from decisions rendered by town or city boards of equalization, and for that purpose favored an equalization commission, either county or state, with long terms of office.

Commissioner Eastman also favored a similar measure, and if a state commission, to have the terms of members continue at least six years. He was also in favor of having ward assessors in cities like Crookston, instead of one assessor for the entire city, as it was impossible for one man to do justice to the work of assessing in the time specified and obtain an accurate and equitable assessment. The $100 exemption should be continued, he thought.

If a state board should be appointed, it should be made the duty of the board to visit each county in the state at least twice a year, and in that manner familiarize itself with the true condition of things in the different localities. This suggestion was very favorably received.

It was also suggested that city and town assessors should begin their work not later than May 1, in order that they might obtain an equal assessed valuation of property in their respective territories, and cause less work for the board of equalization.

The question of assessing real estate once in four years hereafter instead of every year as under the present system, was also discussed and seemed to strike a favoring sentiment.

Another important question of assessing real estate was referred to by County Commissioner Eastman. He stated that at present the valuation upon land is assessed in lump, and afterwards 50 cents per acre is added for improved land. This he thought was unjust. He also advocated the assessment of mortgaged property to be made against the holders of the mortgage.

The board adjourned at 12 o'clock to meet again at 2 o'clock this afternoon, and they are still in session as the Journal goes to press.

From the sentiment expressed it is apparent that the establishment of a board of tax commissioners is possible, as that seems the most plausible way out of the present dilemma.

CLAIMED BY DEATH.

GRIM REAPER ENTERS A HAPPY CROOKSTON HOME.

At 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon death entered the home of Otto Burkhardt and wife, and claimed as a victim their eight year old daughter, Clendori, who had been ill for a week, but whose recovery was persistently hoped for. The little girl was first taken down with measles, and after partly recovering from this disease, pneumonia set in and she fell a victim to this dangerous destroyer.

The funeral services were conducted from the German Lutheran church at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

A large circle of friends and relatives extend sympathy to the grief stricken parents in this hour of sorrow, caused by the loss of their darling child, and the Journal joins the sympathizers.

A FIENDISH BRUTE.

AFTER GIVEN MEAL HE THEN ASSAULTS A WOMAN.

The little town of Lenghy, in the east end of the county, is all wrought up over a fiendish assault made upon a married lady of that place Monday forenoon. A hobo entered the house of the lady, whose husband is a section hand, and who at the time was absent from home, and demanded something to eat. He was given a light lunch and when he had finished this, and realizing that the lady was alone in the house, the brute grabbed the woman and made an indecent assault upon her. She screamed for help and fought him off, and finally succeeded in freeing herself from the ruffian's clutches, but not until he had succeeded in almost choking her into submission to his lustful desire.

Upon reaching home for dinner the woman told her husband of what had happened, and in less than five minutes a posse had been organized and started after the villain, whom the sections hands passed as they were coming home to their dinner.

The fiend, however, had too much the start of his pursuers, and had reached the woods before they could overtake him.

It was decidedly lucky for him, too, for had he been captured the excited and indignant men would certainly have strung him up on the first telegraph pole they came to. The authorities in towns east of Lenghy have been given a close description of the dastardly coward, and it is probable that he will soon be apprehended.

LOGS BY RAIL.

FIRST LOT FROM BEMIDJI ARRIVES AT STILLWATER.

The Stillwater correspondent of the Minneapolis Tribune says: The first train load of pine logs to arrive in Stillwater reached here Saturday evening over the Northern Pacific road from Bemidji. It is the beginning of the big contract with Wm. Kaiser. At 4 o'clock Sunday morning a force of men began unloading the cars, dumping the logs into the St. Croix at a point just above where the old Staples flour mill and elevator wos located before burning down. At noon the empty cars started back for another load. Sunday evening another big train of logs arrived, and one or more trains will arrive daily during the summer. In the fall the shipments will be much heavier, as logs from the Duluth region will also be hauled here for Mr. Kaiser under a second contract. Then seven trains daily will arrive. Some of the logs will be sawed at the Atwood mill, but its capacity, although larger than other mills here is not great enough to saw all of them coming by train now. Other mills here will be given a chance at the logs, but as there is a big supply of other logs on the St. Croix, some of the Kaiser logs, like a great majority of the others, will be rafted here and towed down the Mississippi.

SUES FOR $5,000.

WIDOW OF LATE LOUIS HALE BRINGS ACTION.

Papers are being drawn up in an action for damages against the Great Northern Railway company, in which Mrs. Louis A. Hale, widow of the brakeman who was killed at Thief River Falls three months ago, appears as plaintiff. The details of the accident are still fresh in the memory of Journal readers.

Mr. Hale and another brakeman, J. W. Barden, were riding on top of a box car which was being backed down over a spur track to the mill. In some manner the car jumped the track and fell over on its side, catching Hale underneath its enormous weight and killing him instantly.

The widow now brings action to recover $5,000 for the life of her husband.

POSTOFFICES RECLASSED.

Washington, May 8.—The postoffice department has commenced to give out reclassification of postmasters' salaries for the next year. St. Paul and Minneapolis have not been reached yet, but there will be a big showing made. Aitkin jumps from $1,500 to $1,600; Ada, $1,400 to $1,500; Benson, $1,500 to $1,600; Ashland, Wis., $2,500 to $2,600; Bayfield, Cumberland and Durant, $1,200 to $1,300.

FIRE LADS COMING.

Moorhead and Fargo Will Turn Out en Masse Next Month

TO STATE FIREMEN'S MEET

All Towns Along the Line Will Have Large Representations.

Secretary Thos. R. Johnstone, of the Crookston fire department, returned from Fargo and Moorhead this morning, where he went Saturday to enthuse the different fire departments from the twin cities of the Red River valley and others along the line to send delegations to the state firemen's convention, which will be held in this city next month.

Secretary Johnstone is jubilant over the prospects for the event, and has received all sorts of assurances from Fargo and Moorhead for a large attendance. Mayor Johnson and a good sized delegation of the fire department will come from the former city, and Moorhead will send its entire department, one half of them each day alternately and the mayor and city council, as well as many citizens, have assured the Crookston representative that they will be present during the convention.

The fire departments of Halstad and Hendrum have also decided to be represented here during the big event, and one or the other of these may enter a running team.

It is possible that the Moorhead contingent will bring a band along and help to entertain the crowds which will visit Crookston June 11, 12 and 13.

The prospects for the biggest state firemen's convention ever held in Minnesota are growing brighter every day as the time draws near, and the local department is making every effort to take care of everybody that will honor the Queen City of the Red River valley during the three days of their stay here.

CROOKS CAPTURED.

MOORHEAD POLICE SUCCEED IN LANDING TWO BAD ONES.

Chief Murphy of the Moorhead police made a clever capture Friday afternoon, in the arrest of two men who have been identified as members of the gang who attempted to hold up and rob F. G. Bartlett of Buffalo Wednesday night. The men are old time offenders and gave their names as Tom Joyce and Frank Mitchell. The fellows have been operating in these parts for several years past and have had records. They were taken before the police court and were sentenced to serve a term of forty days in the county jail. Chief Murphy states that the principal object of giving these men such long terms on the minor charge of vagrancy is to have them in custody during the meeting of the U. C. T.'s which is to be held in Fargo on May 24 and 25, and also for the fire festival to be held in June. It might be well for the local police to keep an eye open for the old timers for the same purpose.

STARTED THE LOGS.

ABOUT 1,500,000 FEET ARE LET OUT OF THE BOOM

Sunday morning River Foreman Sullivan, of the Grand Forks Lumber company with a crew of men let out of the boom above the dam in this city, about 1,500,000 feet of logs, and nearly all day the river was covered with the rapidly floating product of the forests. The water in the river is very high, and the current swift, and Mr. Sullivan expects to encounter no obstructions with the drive on the way to their destination.

In the afternoon the entire crew followed the logs in two supply boats, and unless something unforseen should occur they expect to reach East Grand Forks about Saturday morning.

THIRTEEN BARGES SUNK.

Evansville, Ind., May 3.—The tow boat Raymond Horner sunk thirteen barges of Pittsburg coal in the Ohio River in collision with a pier of the Henderson, Kentucky bridge yesterday. The loss in coal and barges will reach $45,000. The coal was destined to the southern market.

FOUGHT FOR HIS LIFE.

"My father and sister both died of consumption," writes J. T. Weatherwax, of Wyandotte, Mich., "and I was saved from the same frightful fate only by Dr. King's New Discovery. An attack of pneumonia left an obstinate cough and very severe lung trouble, which an excellent doctor could not help, but a few months' use of this wonderful medicine made me as well as ever and I gained much in weight." Infallible for Coughs, Colds and all Throat and Lung troubles. Trial bottles free. Guaranteed bottles 50c and $1.00 at A. G. Anderson's.

Wise and Otherwise.

Last Saturday after my copy was sent to the Journal, I decided to see a little of the social side of Crookston, and return my calls. It was a nice cool afternoon, too, and gave me an opportunity to show my new spring suit. It's gray, so don't say I'm not correct as far as that goes anyway. But my hat isn't quite flat enough, and doesn't come six inches down beyond my face. Do you know I can't think of anything else but an inverted scoop shovel when I see those hats. The only thing where copy has not been followed is that the hat ends in a point and the shovel blade is square across. But then they are stylish and whether becoming or not must be worn. It would take too much time to give even a synopsis of my experiences during the hour and a half. Suffice it to say that I made nine calls, covering the space from half way up "on the hill" to clear "down in the woods." I had a few to make in Jerome's addition, but one of my hill friends said the ladies over there received calls only on Wednesdays, so of course I couldn't go any other day for fear of appearing countrified. I didn't get very well acquainted with any body, but I think I left the impression that I understood formality and calling etiquette sufficiently well to receive their commendation and a return call.

—o—

I found Mrs. N. in a sunny window with a shawl over her shoulders, which she apologized for by saying she was all through house cleaning so the stoves were all down for the summer and she felt a little chilly. I felt the same way and was glad to get outdoors into the warmth of the sunshine. No. 2 was a voluble little woman who gave me more information about the neighborhood and people in general in five minutes than I had learned in six weeks. I could hardly find an opportunity to make a proper exit. My next call was a blank, for the lady was not at home and I left my card, feeling a little relieved. Not that I dislike to meet people and gain friends, but I am not in sympathy with this modus operandi. It seems like putting on something which doesn't fit and taking it off disappointed. It is all for fashion and there is no real friendship in it. Mrs. A. received me with a look-you-all-over stare, and seated me in a capacious and very elegant rocker in which I felt almost as much at home as a wren in an oriole's nest. We spoke of the weather—that ever present topic. She talked a little of her recent trials with the "new girl," to which I replied as sympathetically as I could. We knew each other no better than when we met.

—o—

Several of the young ladies upon whom I called had been out the night before to hear Modjeska, and were in rather negligee attire. It is just possible they were of the theater party which I have heard so much about since. If that be so electric lights and full dress verily bringeth out charms. And the young men who so admired them the night before might have been as disappointed as I was could they have called with me. But this is foreign to my subject, so I will leave it as abruptly as I did those tired girls.

—o—

Wedding bells have rung merrily twice this week and May Day marked both of the events. Queer it is that "all the world loves a lover" and a wedding also. Though both these were without ostentatious details, they have long been looked forward to with great interest, probably because the parties most interested were Crookston's own young people. Even an old maid's heart may beat responsive to the happiness of others, so here I am offering my congratulations with the host of friends throughout the city and country. "Good wishes are the heart's golden coin."

—o—

Floris will have to make amends to others if she isn't more careful about airing private matters quite so prematurely. I have always felt that engagements were only announced when the parties intersted were willing, and rumor has it that this was not the case. Isn't it customary to announce such events only when the wedding is near or at any rate a date decided on? I may be wrong, but from criticisms recently made by the friends of the contracting parties, I rather think they didn't like it.

—o—

A delightfully pleasant party occurred at the home of G. H. Wall on Houston avenue Thursday night. The occasion had long been anticipated by the Whist club, who planned to keep scores for the season, and the half of the members unfortunate enough to be the losers in the most games were to entertain the others. It is indeed hard to tell which, "the entertained or the entertainers," got the most pleasure out of the occasion. Suffice it to say the arrangements were fine, the refreshments faultless, and the Whist club disbanded for the season with many pleasant remembrances of jolly times, and hearty anticipations for next winter's fun.

OLD SOLDIER'S EXPERIENCE.

M. M. Austin, a civil war veteran, of Winchester, Ind, writes: "My wife was sick a long time in spite of good doctor's treatment, but was wholly cured by Dr. King's New Life Pills, which worked wonders for her health." They always do. Try them. Only 25 cents at A. G. Anderson's drug store.

THEY WILL SHOOT

The Crookston Gun Club Making Preparations for a Meeting.

$300 RAISED FOR PURSES.

Professionals and Manufacturers' Agents Will Be Barred.

The Crookston Gun club is actively engaged in perfecting preparations for a two days' shooting tournament to be held in this city June 27 and 28. Ten 15-bird events each day are scheduled and the price of entrance for each event has been placed at $1.50.

It has been decided that only amateur shooters should be entitled to shoot, and these can enter in every event. Professionals and manufacturers' agents are invited by the club to be present, but they are barred from taking part in any of the events to be competed for.

The club will add $15 to the purse in each event of the two days' shoot, amounting in all to $300, and the moneys will be divided alternately on the Rose 4, 3, 2, 1, and percentage system, viz: 50, 30, 20 and 10.

The local club will make greater efforts than ever before for a successful tournament, and invitations will be sent out to all gun clubs and shooters throughout the Red River valley and the northwest, and there is no doubt but that representatives will be here from a great many places, as the purses offered are unusually large and tempting, and sportsmen all over the territory know the hospitality of the members of our gun club, which alone will be an inducement for a large attendance.

SERIOUS RUNAWAY.

THE BALL FAMILY NARROWLY ESCAPE DEATH.

A bad runaway accident occurred here shortly before 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon, just before the arrival of the Duluth train, which might have resulted much more seriously than it really did. At the time stated M. J. Ball, an employe of the Stevens Land company, accompanied by his wife, and also by his father and mother, who live about four miles northeast of this city was driving west on Robert street, and just after crossing the Great Northern track, one of the tongue bolts came off and let the tongue onto the hind leg of one of the horses. The animals became frightened, and [illegible] naturally of a runaway disposition, they started on a mad run down toward the bridge, and for a time it looked as though the whole party would meet with a horrible death.

Although the infuriated animals had gotten beyond control of the driver, he succeeded in turning them to the left side of the street, and just in front of J. F. Peterson's residence, the rig, which was a new two seated top carriage, was overturned and the occupants, horses and all, piled up in a heap.

In some unknown manner, and almost miraculously, the horses became detached and continued running while eye witnesses rushed to the scene to extricate the unfortunate family, from under the badly broken carriage.

Both ladies were found to be badly bruised, and for a time it was thought that the younger one had received fatal injuries. The two men, however, escaped almost without a scratch. The injured ladies were at once taken to the residence of Gus Johnson, 218 North Ash street, where they received medical attendance. The elderly lady soon reovered from the shock, and her injuries, while very painful, are not at all dangerous.

The younger Mrs. Ball, however, was unconscious for a time and the attending physician was unable to determine the seriousness of her condition. While still suffering severely from nervousness, the young lady is much better today, but complains greatly of pains from bruises received about her head and body.

No broken bones were discovered and that any of the entire party escaped from instant death seems almost miraculous.

SHUDDERS AT HIS PAST.

"I recall now with horror," says Mail Carrier Burnett Mann, of Levanna, O., "my three years of suffering from Kidney trouble. I was hardly ever free from dull aches or acute pains in my back. To stoop or lift mail sacks made me groan. I felt tired and worn out, about ready to give up, when I began the use of Electric Bitters, but six bottles completely cured me and made me feel like a new man." They're unrivaled to regulate Stomach, Liver, Kidney and Bowels. Perfect satisfaction guaranteed by A. G. Anderson. Only 50 cents.

Henry Bader, superintendent of the county poor farm, one mile south of Wahpeton, N. D., accidentally shot and killed himself at 1 o'clock Wednesday.

"Crying for the Moon"

Has become a proverbial phrase to express the futility of mere desire. There are a great many people who think it is as useless to hope for health as to cry for the moon. They have tried many medicines and many doctors, but all in vain.

A great many hopeless men and women have been cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery; people with obstinate coughs, bleeding lungs, night-sweats and other symptoms of disease which if neglected or unskillfully treated find a fatal termination in consumption.

"Golden Medical Discovery" has a wonderful healing power. It increases the nutrition of the body, and so gives strength to throw off disease. It cleanses the blood from poisonous impurities and enriches it with the red corpuscles of health. It is not a stimulant, but a strength giving medicine. It contains no alcohol, neither opium, cocaine, nor any other narcotic.

Sometimes the extra profit paid by inferior medicines tempts the dealer to offer a substitute as "just as good" as "Discovery." If you are convinced that "Discovery" will cure you accept nothing else.

"I was in poor health when I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's medicine," writes Mr. Elmer Lawler, of Volga, Jefferson Co., Indiana. "I had stomach, kidney, heart, and lung trouble. Was not able to do any work. I had a severe cough and hemorrhage of the lungs, but after using your medicine a while I commenced to gain in strength and flesh, and stopped coughing right away. Took about six bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' then, and last spring I had Grippe, and it settled on my lungs, leaving me with a severe cough. I had the doctor, but he didn't seem to help me any; so I commenced your medicine again and took three or four bottles of the 'Discovery' and two vials of Dr. Pierce's Pellets, and that straightened me up. I feel like a different person. I gladly recommend your medicine to all sufferers, for I know it cured me."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation by curing its cause.

MACARONI WHEAT.

A Subject That is Worthy of Experiment in the Red River Valley.

EXPERIMENTS TO BE MADE

On Fifteen Varieties at the Experiment Station at Crookston This Season.

T. N. Oium of Lisbon, N. D., has been experimenting in the culture of macaroni wheat for several seasons, with results that have inspired a confidence in its success, and has interested other farmers of the state in also taking the matter up. The success of the agriculturist depends upon his judicious progressiveness as fully as does the success of the man in any other business. And the Journal believes that the possibilities of the successful culture of this wheat is a matter well worth the attention and investigation of its readers, and with this belief and in pursuance of our determination to give our readers the best we can secure for them, we propose following closely the progress and results of experiments which are to be tried on the Experiment Farm here by Manager Hoverstad during this and future seasons.

He has secured from M. A. Carleton of Washington, D. C., who is a professional cerealist in the employ of the department of agriculture, samples of fifteen different varieties of wheat which have been imported from Europe, for the purpose of testing them in this soil and climate. He has a peck of each variety and will make very careful comparative tests of every one of these varieties, keeping careful and exact record of every separate characteristic he discovers in each of them, and the results secured.

In this connection we publish below a letter which Mr. Carleton wrote on the subject of macaroni wheat raising to Mr. Oium, whose name we mention above:

"United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., April 7, 1901.—Mr. T. M. Oium, Lisbon, N. D. Dear Sir: I have learned through Prof. J. H. Shepperd, of the North Dakota Experiment Station, that you are much interested in the cultivation of the Arnautka wheats and that you are now expecting to raise about 50,000 bushels the coming year. The department has been much interested in the matter of the establishment of the macaroni wheat industry for the last two years or more and just now we are making a special effort to get the macaroni factories interested in using the true macaroni wheats in their work. I am therefore much interested in hearing that you already have a demand from an eastern manufacturer for so much of this wheat. I should like to refer you to three or four other factories also, who would be very glad to obtain farina from these wheats. In most cases, however, the factories do not grind their own wheat but obtain the flour from mills that are fitted for grinding these wheats. How is this matter in the case of the company with which you are in correspondence? Do they grind their own wheat or do they obtain their farina from some miller who is able to grind it? The following named prominent companies are now quite anxious to obtain the true macaroni wheats: Foulds Milling Co., Cincinnati, O., (who grind their own wheats); Cleveland and Macaroni Co., Cleveland, O., and Hotaling-Warner Co., Syracuse, N. Y. If it is at all likely that the farmers you have gotten interested in the matter would be able to furnish more of the wheat than the company you are now dealing with will be able to take, I would suggest that you correspond with the firms mentioned above, which are good responsible companies. I shall be pleased to hear from you in detail concerning the success you have had so far in this matter. The successful establishment of the macaroni wheat industry in this country is perhaps just now the most important thing in connection with wheat cultivation. I have no doubt within the next two years by means of much more effort on the part of all concerned, the wheat producing area of the semi-arid plains may be increased very much and thousands of acres added to the wheat producing area which have never heretofore produced wheat at all. Besides, it seems probable that in the large portion of the present wheat area the yield will become very much greater by the use of these wheats. I find that not only in North Dakota, but in Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, and especially in South Dakota, the stations, grain men and farmers generally are willing to do their part in pushing this industry. Hoping to hear from you in regard to such matters, I am, Yours very truly,

—M. A. Carleton,
Cerealist."

If any of our farmer readers have any information upon this subject, we invite them to contribute it for the benefit of other readers, and the subject will be followed up in the future as we obtain information in regard to it.

SOME GOOD TOWNS.

THIS COUNTY CONTAINS A NUMBER OF THEM.

Mayor Campbell last Friday evening returned from Fosston and McIntosh, where he spent the last two days in trying several land contest cases. Mr. Campbell is well pleased with the enterprise and hustle in these two thriving Polk county towns and in conversation with a Journal reporter he said:

"The two days spent at Fosston and McIntosh convinces me that Crookston is not the only city in the Red River valley which is making rapid strides in manufacturing and commercial development.

"At Fosston they have located the Fosston Woolen mills, giving employment to a large force. The rapid increase in the demand for their output necessitates an enlargement of the plant, upon which the company will soon begin work. I was surprised to see orders aggregating thousands of dollars daily coming in, until I had made a close inspection of the style and quality of the output, which I found to be first class in every respect. All home capital finances this valuable enterprise.

"What Fosston, however, prides itself over most is the fact that the city owns its own water and light service, which not only curtails the taxes, but allows all the people to obtain the benefit of these utilities at actual cost.

"McIntosh, too, has made rapid stride forward during the past two years, and all lines of business appear to be in a thriving condition there.

"I was informed that large delegations from these, and all other cities along the line, will visit Crookston during the state firemen's convention to be held here on June 11, 12 and 13.

WANTS DAMAGES.

EX-COM. LINDEM SUES NORTHERN PACIFIC.

Through his attorney, Halvor Steenerson, former County Commissioner Anton Lindem, a resident of the town of Bygland, this county, has instituted proceedings against the Northern Pacific railway company, in which he asks for $10,700 damages for injuries received through carelessness of an employe of the company.

The plaintiff alleges that in company with his wife and a child he was attempting to cross the company's tracks with a horse and buggy at East Grand Forks some time last summer, and that by an unexpected noise from the engine his horse became badly frightened and threw the occupants of the buggy so forcibly to the ground that he sustained injuries from which he can never recover. Among the injuries mentioned in the complaint is a compound fracture of the right shoulder, which has practically paralyzed that side of his body.

Since the accident Mr. Lindem has expended a great deal of money in trying to get cured, St. Paul doctors alone having done $700 worth of work for the injured man. The lameness is considered permanent, and his attorney will make a strong effort to secure for his client a just remuneration for the injuries caused by the accident.

$100 COMMISSION.

To anyone bringing me a buyer for the NW¼ of Section 34, 160 acres, town of Andover, and the NW¼ of Section 4, 165 12-100 acres, town of Hammond, in Polk county, Minn. Price, $20 per acre if taken before seeded. Every foot tillable land, and $1,000 worth of improvements; 160 acres plowed, balance in stubble field and pasture.

PIONEER LADY DEAD.

AFTER LONG SUFFERING MRS. B. SOPER PASSES AWAY.

News reached the city Thursday morning of the death of Mrs. B. Soper, an aged lady whose home was in the town of Andover. Deceased had been a sufferer from a complication of diseases for some time, and death came to her as a great relief.

Mrs. Soper was preceded in death by her husband several years ago, and leaves two grown sons, Napoleon and Walter, and one daughter, who mourn the loss of a loving and kind mother. She was 65 years of age and her friends were numbered only by her acquaintances.

Funeral services were conducted at the residence of deceased by Rev. H. P. Fisher Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

CONCERT BY LOCAL TALENT

A musical concert to be held sometime during week after next for the benefit of the Baptist church is being arranged for. The rehearsals will commence next Monday night and will be continued each evening during the week. All singers in the city are urgently requested to attend the Monday evening rehearsal and assist at that time and at subsequent rehearsals. M. H. Bromley, who conducted the Pinafore last winter, will conduct the rehearsals and the concert. A Baptist convention is to be held here sometime in June, and the society has adopted the concert plan for raising funds with which to suitably refit the church for the convention occasion.

HAPPILY WED.

PROMINENT BUSINESS MAN IS JOINED IN MARRIAGE.

The marriage ceremony Wednesday which made Albert Fontaine and Miss Lilian Kelly mand and wife formed one of the most pleasant society events in the history of the city. After the ceremony the newly married couple and the nearest members and friends of the family repaired to the home of the bride's parents, where a wedding supper was served; after which the young couple, accompanied by a score of friends, took the Northern Pacific passenger for a short trip east. At the depot rice, slippers, decoration of trunks and other acts of well wishes were perpetrated, and the "here is to you," as the train bearing the bridal pair pulled out, only ceased when the coaches disappeared in the distance. Among the many presents received was a handsome and costly cut glass dish, which was the gift of the clerk's force employed in Fontaine & Anglim's store.

The groom is one of the city's young and progressive business men and has a host of friends who will join the Journal in wishing him and his fair bride a long reign of happiness and bliss.

WOOD PAID FINE.

FOR ASSAULTING A M'INTOSH LANDLORD.

It will be remembered by the readers of the Journal that about four weeks ago a row occurred at McIntosh between a man named Charles Woods and K. O. Bolstad, the landlord of the hotel in that town, the details of which were printed in these columns at the time of the occurrence. Arrests followed and the county attorney went out to prosecute in the matter, but did not consider there was sufficient grounds for conviction.

Bolstad came to Crookston and caused the arrest of Woods on the same charge as before, and the case was tried this morning in Judge Holt's court. Woods was found guilty and fined five dollars and costs, which in all amounted to $15.20. Wood paid the fine.

A CROOKSTON DAY.

MEMBERS OF THE U. C. T. WILL TRY TO HAVE ONE.

Crookston members of the U. C. T. who will have their annual convention at Fargo May 24 and 25, are just now engaged in making an effort to have the last day set apart as "Crookston Day." Those interested in the matter propose to engage the city band for the occasion and have a special train leave here early in the morning of the 25th, returning some time during the night. Many of the traveling fraternity favor the proposition, in order to give their wives and lady friends an opportunity to attend the festivities without remaining away from home over night.

AN OLD SETTLER DEAD.

ONE OF POLK COUNTY'S PIONEERS PASSES AWAY.

Andres Ness, one of our old time settlers, passed away very quietly on Monday morning at 6 o'clock, says the Erskine Echo. Mr. Ness has been afflicted with heart disease for a number of years and was 87 years old at the time of his death. He was one of our first settlers, coming here to locate 18 years ago. The funeral took place from the homestead, three miles south of this village, and the remains were buried in the Rodnes cemetery at Woodside. Deceased leaves a sorrowing wife and family of grown children to mourn his departure. We extend our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family.

DAME RUMOR SAYS

That the unsettled problem with the Stevens-Mc Kenzie syndicate now is, what next.

That some men make their way through life as they do through a crowd—by hanging to the coat tails of some bigger man.

That human nature is exceedingly freakish. Many an American who would die for his country, systematically sneaks out of contributing his just share of its expenses by dodging his taxes.

That Simon's commands, "thumbs up" and "thumbs down" don't thrill this entire community as they used to. Certain persuasive arguments have to be resorted to now, and even these are not very potent.

ANENT THE PAVING QUESTION.

The Duluthians have finally settled the question as to what material shall be used for repairing Superior street, which has been made use of as a foundation for a long, protracted controversy, and the Herald breaks forth in a song of joy thusly:

"Earth whirls once more round its axis and trundles tripplugly along its accustomed orbit. Sun, moon and stars have assumed their original roles. Little hills sing together, and the universe rejoices over its marginal escape from primordial chaos.

"Superior street will be paved.

"If globe girdling wires, vibrant with great gladness, would flash the joyous tidings to the uttermost parts of the world, Uitlanders would stop to give praise as they outspan along the great trek; the holomen would chortle cheery chants as they con their first lessons in American citizenship; the ochre ogres of yellowest China would burble blatantly, and the halls of fame would convene in convention extraordinary to accept Whitney Hall's application for membership.

"Superior street will be paved with the best quality of vitrified brick, at an estimated cost of $59,155, or about $300 for every 50-foot lot."

Our own city has made some passes at a proposition of this nature, but we have not yet reached the condition of cranial enlargement where we have imagined the universe had suspended action pending the settlement of the question.

Colonel P. H. Ray, who was in command of the department of Alaska, is reported as making the assertion that the agricultural resources of Alaska, if developed, would be of greater importance than all its gold mines. In all parts of the Yukon valley, oats, wheat and all kinds of grain can be grown. Blue joint grass grows two tons to the acre and 1,400 bushels of potatoes have been grown on four acres. Timothy has grown to a height of four feet. There is great need of good roads, so the interior may be ranched and settled. The climate of Alaska, he says, is even better than on the plains of Wyoming, Montana and some parts of Nevada. In all parts of Alaska there is more hospitable winters. There are no severe snow storms in the interior and in the dead of winter horses and cattle can be worked without danger of being frozen. Many persons seldom wear overcoats. The great essential is the development of the resources, and when this is done the people can find in their home market the necessary articles of daily consumption at a reasonable cost. They will be content to live permanently in the country, which will mean the greater development of the gold properties and an increase in the output of the yellow metal.

Russell Sage, who has lost somewhere in the neighborhood of $1,000,000 on calls since November 1 last year, has come to take a very sombre view of the future financial conditions, and predicts that a "black Friday" panic will be the result of the wild speculation that is going on in Wall street. This view is not necessarily caused, however, by impoverishment through speculation, as Mr. Sage is on the whole $4,000,000 richer as the net result of financial conditions, having cleared $5,000,000 by an advance of that amount in the values of his various stock holdings during the time named. But it is believed by many of the able financiers of the country that the mania for speculation which has taken possession of eastern capitalists to such an almost universal extent that surely will be followed by a more or less serious speculative panic. And the possibility is fast assuming the tangibility of an expectation in the minds of many thoughtful prominent men of financial experience.

The department of agriculture has published the consolidated reports of its corps of observers made May 1, and from them it appears that the condition of wheat on that date was 91.5 against 95.5 last month and compared with an average of 84 at this date for the past five years. It indicates that no crop in twenty years has stood better than the present one in all important features of roots and stools. The spring wheat crop has been sown under highly favorable conditions, says the report, and while seeding in the extreme north is not quite completed, enough is known to make it apparent that the acreage is fully equal to that sown last year. There has been an abundance of early moisture over the whole belt except in a limited portion of South Dakota. The condition May 1 of wheat by states, included: Ohio 88, Kentucky 85, Michigan 83, New York, Pennsylvania and Indiana 95, Illinois 96, Kansas 100, Nebraska 99, California 90.

New rules of inspection have recently been adopted at the New York customs house which are reported as being greatly beneficial in their operation. The amount of duty collected on passengers' baggage is now from $15,000 to $18,000 a week, whereas formerly it seldom exceeded $2,590 or $3,000. During March the total was $74,000. Professional smugglers will undoubtedly disappear from the steam ships as soon as they are convinced that the business they have found so profitable cannot be safely conducted any longer. The only complaints that are made in regard to its conditions, it is noticed, usually comes from people detected in attempts to bring in more foreign merchandise than returning travelers are entitled to under the law.

The Journal admires the journalistic enterprise and good taste of the Cass Lake Times, published by Judge Ives, a former prominent resident of this city. In its issue of this week the Times says:

"We venture this week upon an enterprise which we hope may be successful and one which will not only give us more space to devote to the interests of our patrons, but will relieve us and them of the objectionable and disgusting "medicine ads" which have made the second and third pages of the Times an eye sore to us and an imposition upon our readers. The venture is a doubtful one from a financial point of view, and if maintained the Times office must have the liberal support of every citizen of Cass Lake who desires to see its publication perpetuated."

In its new form the paper is greatly improved, and its readers should not fail to show their appreciation of the fact in a substantial way.

Ramsey county is about to test the non-support law passed by the recent legislature. Heretofore the maximum penalty for non-support of a wife was 90 days in the workhouse, but the new law makes it a felony, punishable by imprisonment in the penitentiary for not more than three years, in the county jail for not less than one year or in the workhouse for not more than one year or less than 90 days. Upon conviction, a prisoner may give a bond fixed by the court, to support his wife and sentence may be suspended, but on failure to fulfill the conditions of the bond, sentence may be imposed without the formality of a new trial. This law appears to be one which was much needed and promises to be of great benefit in its operation.

FOUND A PATRON SAINT.

The poor little Trib., that during its last year's precarious existence in Crookston frantically plead for some good republican to vouch for its legitimacy as a republican paper, while drawing upon McKenzie's plethoric purse for the payment of its expenses, went to East Grand Forks to capture for McKenzie a second portion of the county printing fund with which to recoup him. In this attempt it failed, through Burt Seymour's diplomacy, and it has now surrendered itself as a separate perosnality to the Valley View, under whose wing it now nestles with only its head prodruding, like a chicken's head through the hole in a darkey's hat.

There are rumors that in case the president pardons Alexander Mc Kenzie the United States judges of California will resign, says the Fergus Falls Journal. They would be foolish to resign. They ought tocontinue on the bench, where they can make a roor which will be heard. Mc Kenzie is a popular man but he has made and unmade judges and senators in North Dakota so long that he has lost the proper respect for law and the rights of others. He has brought a wonderful pressure to bear on the president, but the president can not afford to interfere with the upholding of the authorities of the courts, no matter how many Hannas, Hills and Lamonts may appeal to him.

Judging by the figures compiled by the insurance commissioner, last year was a very unprofitable one for joint stock fire insurance companies in Minnesota. Not that the bulk of their business decreased, but the losses last year were nearly a million dollars greater than those of the preceding year. In 1899 the total amounted to $318,701,431, and last year to $324,319,814, an increase over the former year of $5,618,383. In 1899 the total premiums received by the companies was $3,976,421.28, as against $4,233,409.20 for 1900. There are 172 fire insurance companies doing business in the state this year, as against 176 in 1900, and 173 the two previous years.

John D. Rockefeller is still looking for opportunities to dispose of some of his wealth, and has subscribed $5,000 toward the erection of the new building which St. Luke's hospital is to occupy, and which is to be located at the corner of Ninth avenue East and First street, Duluth. The foundation of the building is practically completed and the board hopes to go ahead with the balance of the building as fast as possible. The sum of $5,000 is what is still needed to push the work to completion, and it is expected that this can be raised before long. Bids for the superstructure will soon be asked for.

The experiment of raising sugar beets is to be tried in Isanti county. Thirteen hundred pounds of seeds have been received at Cambridge, while Isanti has received 200 pounds and 100 pounds has been delivered at Braham. This is sufficient to sow about 90 acres, and as 15 tons per acre is an average crop, there will be 1,350 tons of sugar beets raised by farmers tributary to the three towns. Much of the soil in Isanti county is said to be well adapted to the raising of the sugar beet, and the cultivation of this crop will be watched with interest.

The board of health of the city of Chicago finds an alarming increase in the death rate in that city and attributes it to a craze for speculating in stocks. The excitement occasioned either by losses or quickly gained riches, the report says, has proved dangerous to persons over sixty years of age. Of 556 deaths in Chicago last week 124 were persons sixty years old or older. This is an increase of 26 per cent over the previous week and of 24 per cent over the corresponding week of 1900.

Fisher Bulletin: The Crookston Journal says Prof. Casey is trying to learn how to ride a bicycle. When the roads get good no doubt the professor will make a trip to Fisher, but we will bet our last year's straw hat that he will buy a ticket on Jim Hill's railroad home.

That's all bosh, Mr. Bulletin. The professor has so far unravelled the mysteries of those two wheeled darned things that he now figures on setting a pace for Crookston experts.

Weather bureau supervisors and meteorlogical experts generally are prophesying an unusually cool summer. Observer Outram, however, declares positively that as yet there has been no indication of frost, and further believes that the talk of "frosty" summer is more or less exaggerated. He says there is no possible way of fore-telling what kind of weather is forthcoming a week ahead, and discourages all reports that the coming summer is to be a cool one.

Inventive genius is ever on the alert and ready to follow up any suggestive thought that flashes before it. Its latest reported triumph is a scheme to fatten fowls rapidly. They are kept in a perfectly dark cellar and at frequent intervals the electric light is turned on, when the fowls conclude it is morning and at once become voraciously hungry. In this way they are kept eating almost continuously, and of course take on fat rapidly, theoretically at least.

Evanston's new chief of police, Newell C. Knight, has adopted a commendable scheme, however much or little permanent good he may succeed in accomplishing by it. His plan is to influence as many as possible of the victims of the drink habit who are brought to the station on account of being intoxicated, to sign a life pledge of total abstinence. And so far as signatures are concerned, his efforts are to quite an extent successful.

The total number of deaths on the British side in the South African war, as given out by the war office at London last Monday is 74 officers and 24,264 men; 314 men were sent home as invalids and subsequently died, and 2,493 non-commissioned officers and men have left the service unfit for duty. Among the war prisoners captured there, it is said there are 23 Americans.

The April treasury statement shows that at the close of business April 30, the public debt less cash in the treasury amounted to $1,070,745,256, a decrease for the month of $4,397,653. The total cash in the treasury is $1,160,085,789, against which there are demand liabilities outstanding amounting to $853,591,580, leaving a cash balance in the treasury of $306,494,208.

Dairy Commissioner McConnell reported Tuesday the sale of 17,000 pounds of filled cheese which had been siezed in Minneapolis, and at other places in the state. It sold for $300, the buyers signing an agreement promising that the cheese would not be used for food purposes. It was bid in for the Chicago firm which put the stuff on the market. It will probably be turned into soap.

Ex-Governor Drake of Iowa has offered the town of Centerville, his home town, a donation of $25,000 for a library, providing the town will maintain the same. He has also donated the sum of $12,500 for a new Christian church which is to be erected there this summer. Carnegie seems not to be the only philanthropist who is making liberal contributions toward worthy objects.

The census bulletin just issued by Census Director Merriam locates the center of the population of the United States in southern Indiana, at a point about six miles southeast of Columbus, the county seat of Bartholomew county. In the past ten years this center has moved westward about 14 miles, and southeast about two and one-half miles.

After July 1, Colorado juries will fix the penalty in murder cases. The bill providing for such action, and restoring capital punishment, which was passed by the legislature became a law without the governor's signature by reason of the expiration of the time in which he could veto it having expired April 30.

It is estimated that not less than 65,000 people have passed through St. Paul on the different railroads en route for western points, about 15,000 of whom it is claimed are actual homeseekers.

During the month of April the death list of Duluth footed up to 55 only, while the population of the Zenith City was increased by 80 births.

The number of insane patients at the Fergus Falls hospital is steadily increasing and the inmates now number 1,840.

The republican Iowa state convention will meet at Cedar Rapids Aug. 7. It will be composed of more than 1,600 delegates.

TEACHER'S SCHOOL

To Be Conducted Here This Summer.--Teachers Announced.

HON. J. H. LEWIS CONDUCTOR

Letter Received By Superintendent Casey From Superintendent Olsen.

Thos. Casey, county superintendent of schools, has received a communication from State Superintendent Olsen, informing him that Hon. J. H. Lewis of Hastings, ex-state superintendent, has been appointed conductor of the summer school to be held in Crookston. The instructors are as follows:

Julia Olsen Stanford, Moorhead—Subjects to be assigned.

Julia B. Mouette, Moorhead—Subjects to be assigned.

J. C. Miller, Lanesboro—Civics, history, mathematics, science.

One or two more instructors may be added if necessary.

SUBJECTS.

1. Arithmetic, Algebra and Geometry.
2. Grammar.
3. Reading and Language.
4. Geography and Physiography.
5. History and Civics.
6. Nature Studies and Natural Sciences.
7. Music.
8. Model Primary Class.
9. Pedagogy, Methods and Psychology.
10. Penmanship.
11. Physical Culture.

Each appointment has been made with a view of securing specialists in the several lines of work, and the department has endeavored in the assignment to have the work of each specialist articulate with that of the other instructors in the same school. Unquestionably there are other instructors in the state better than some of those that have been appointed, but the department cannot, in the nature of the case know all the teachers. We have simply done the best we could to learn who the best teachers are, and have appointed as many of them as we can use. We hope that the above list meets your approval, but if you can name a teacher that is a better teacher than anyone on your list, and will promptly forward evidence of the fact, the one so named by you will be substituted; provided, first, that the teacher chosen by you has not been assigned work elsewhere; provided, second, the one named by you does not teach the same subjects as those taught by some one or more of the other instructors in the same school.

Last year some instructors were given work that they were not appointed to do, and failed in consequence. The department would recommend that, in the organization, each be assigned the work he is best prepared to do, as the faculties have been made up with a view of having work of instructors articulate.

The model school in charge of the right kind of a teacher was one of the best features of the summer schools in years past, and the department recommends the organization of one such in every training school in which there is an instructor capable of handling it so as to make it a Model First Primary school. There was an insufficient number of this class of applicants that could also do good work in other lines "to go around," so not every training school can have a Model School.

The date of the commencement of the school will be announced later.

NOTES FROM EXCHANGES.

Mc Intosh Times: Miss Dora Eikhoff came up from Crookston Monday to accept a position on the Times force and will, it is hoped, decide to remain here permanently.

Thief River Falls News: Postmaster Richardson was down to St. Hilaire the first of the week to visit C. G. Rapp. He reports that Mr. Rapp was very low and that he cannot long survive.

Fargo Forum: Vice President Roosevelt has sounded a note of warning—so to speak—as to beware of over speculation—and another crazy man—predicts a black Friday—looming up. Thus do extremes meet—as it were—and somebody must be right. In the meantime let the farmer seed—the reaper gather the ripening grain—and trust providence—that all is for the best.

Argyle Banner: Election is yet far distant, but it is eminently proper to suggest the names of the candidates, especially for federal offices. For the office of congressman from this district, the Democrats are choosing Nat Campbell, mayor of Crookston. He is a winner and would make a strong race. The Republicans are bringing forth three well known, public men, viz: A. Grindeland, of Warren; A. G. Comstock, of Moorhead, and Ezra G. Valentine, of Breckenridge. We prefer to see a democrat elected, but from close observation of the three Republican candidates, we must admit that A. Grindeland is the ablest one of the trio, and if he consents to run will easily win out in the primary election.

Cass Lake Times: The four year old son of R. F. Lussier, the jeweler in a childish altercation with his brother, two years old, struck the little one on the forehead with a hammer, inflicting a horrible, though not fatal wound. When found, the little fellow was covered with blood and looked as if he had been done for, but we are pleased to say that he is not greatly injured.

Warren Sheaf: Surveyor Ralph, of Crookston, has been employed by the council to make a survey of the city for the purpose of establishing a standard grade which it is necessary to have when erecting buildings, laying sidewalks and for drainage purposes. If in the future the city should decide to put in a system of sewerage and water works, the survey will come in handy.

Red Lake Falls Gazette: Mrs. E. F. Marshall has received advice from the postoffice department that owing to the increased receipts of the Red Lake Falls office her salary will on July 1 be increased from $1,000 a year to $1,400, and the allowance for clerk hire will be raised from $50 to $367. This is a remarkable showing and is an indication of the way our city is forging to the front.

Fargo Forum: Mr Bryan seems to be a gentleman of infinite resources and disposition of adaptability—to the condition under which he labors. He published a book—for money—edits a newspaper—for contrast—ran for president—for illustration—and is now spoken of as—heading a delegation to visit Oom Paul in Europe and ask the latter to visit America. There is evidently no harm in it—but just why Mr. Kruger should come over here—does not seem—worth all the trouble.

Cass Lake Times: Bro. Mc Kenzie of the Crookston Times, complains of Bro. Gordon of the Journal, because Gordon wants, so Mack says, to dictate the policy of the public schools. How nonsensical:—better let him do it Mack for a year or so; perhaps you'll then have him on the hip and can give it to him "good and plenty" when he aspires to any position govermental in character. You can't do it, why not let some one try who thinks he can? We don't wrangle over school affairs in Cass Lake—only public printing, a mere trifle disturbs us.

BANKRUPT'S PETITION FOR DISCHARGE.

In the matter of Lees M. Thompson, bankrupt—In Bankruptcy.

To the Honorable William Lochren, Judge of the District Court of the United States for the District of Minnesota.

Lees M. Thompson, of the City of East Grand Forks, in the County of Polk and State of Minnesota, in said district, respectfully represents that on the 13th day of August last past she was duly adjudicated bankrupt under the Acts of Congress relating to bankruptcy; that she has duly surrendered all her property and rights of property, and has fully complied with all the requirements of said acts and of the orders of the court touching her bankruptcy.

Wherefore, she prays that she may be decreed by the court to have a full discharge from all debts provable against her estate under said bankrupt acts, except such debts as are excepted by law from such discharge.

Dated this 25th day of February, 1901.

—Lees M. Thompson,
Bankrupt.

United States District Court, District of Minnesota, Sixth Division—ss.

On this 19th day of March, A. D. 1901, on reading the foregoing petition it is ordered by the court, that a hearing be had upon the same on the 17th day of June, A. D. 1901, before said court, at St. Paul, in said district, at ten o'clock in the forenoon; and that notice thereof be published in the Polk County Journal, a newspaper printed in said district, and that all known creditors and other persons in interest may appear at the said time and place and show cause, if any they have, why the prayer of the said petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered by the court, that the clerk shall send by mail to all known creditors copies of said petition and this order, addressed to them at their places of residence as stated.

Witness the Honorable William Lochren, judge of the said court, and the seal thereof, at Fergus Falls, in said district, on the 6th day of May, A. D. 1901.

(Seal of the Court.)

—The family of John Jorgenson, who reside in Sampson's addition, mourn the loss of their six weeks' old infant, which died early this morning The funeral will be held Friday morning.

—Don't suffer from Dyspepsia and Stomach trouble; when you're tired of "cure all" remedies try Mull's Pioneer Stomach and Dyspepsia Cure A dollar draft in each $1.00 box guarantees a cure.

—Seven carloads of live stock and farm implements went up on the St. Hilaire line Saturay and will be unloaded in the vicinity of that town, where new settlers from Iowa are locating.

—On May 10 and each evening thereafter the KIEWEL SHOE STORE will sell shoes at auction to the highest bidder. Gentlemen's, Boy's Ladies', Misses' and Children's. Come and get your shoes at auction. C. A. Hitchcock, Auctioneer.

—L. O'Brien has returned from a week's visit with his daughter, who is attending the state normal school at Moorhead. He had a most pleasant visit and speaks well of the state educational institution at Moorhead, and its teachers.

—Roseau county, says Deputy Sheriff Holm, of that place, is enjoying an immense immigration boom just at present, and hundreds of new settlers are arriving there every week. Thousands of acres of land have been sold there this spring.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Haven of Baraboo, Wisconsin, have entered the employ of the Crookston Furniture company. Mr. Haven is a thorough furniture man, and is a professional undertaker of ten years experience, and comes well recommnded.

—Architect Strassburger has just completed plans for an elegant business office for the Water Works, Power & Light company, which the company intends to put in their power house. The new office outfit is up to date in every detail and highly ornamental.

—Henry Schmitt and wife, who reside near St. Vincent's hospital in the Second ward, mourn the loss of their two and a half year old son, who died Saturday morning from bronchitis. Thef uneral was held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock from St. Mary's Catholic church.

—A light frost Tuesday did no damage in this section, but reports from up north state that tender plants and shrubs, which were not protected, were nipped a little. A great many took the precaution to cover anything in that line that can stand but little frost, and are congratulating themselves that they did so.

—G. H. Olmstead is making extensive improvements on his residence on Ash street, which he recently purchased of J. W. Wheeler, and has moved the house back its own length. This will give an opportunity for beautifying the front yard in a way that is likely to be emulated by his neighbors.

—J. F. Hawkins came down from the Blackduck country Friday on his way to Devils Lake, where he intends to make some purchases for the saw mill out east. Mr. Hawkins has great faith in the future of the new towns of Blackduck, Tenstrike and Bridgie, and reports everything on the boom, especially building and immigration.

—A special to the Minneapolis Journal from Washington speaks as follows of J. J. Ryder of East Grand Forks: With the announcement that Consul McCook at Dawson, is alive, will come a fall of the hopes of J. J. Ryder, state senator from Polk county, Minnesota. When the word was passed around that McCook might possibly be dead, Ryder made haste with an application for the place, and he was a very warm candidate.

—Wednesday's early Great Northern train brought another big bunch of Iowa and Illinois land buyers, and an hour after the arrival of the train, livery rigs and private vehicles were brought into service to take the strangers into the country and show them tracts of the fertile soil in the garden wheat spot of the earth. The weather being fine and the roads dry, together with the excellent condition of ground on cultivated land, will undoubtedly make a favorable impression upon those who are looking for new homes.

—The town board of Ulen township, Clay county, have passed a resolution to the effect that no bunting will be allowed within said township.

—Norman Lennoie was brought down from St. Hilaire by Pat McAndress and placed in St. Vincent's hospital where he will receive treatment for inflammatory rheumatism.

—Tom Harris with a force of men Monday began to move the old courthouse from its present location to its new site on the corner of Robert and Ash streets.

—Among the visitors in the city Sunday were Attorney W. E. Black and Liveryman Cameron, two prominent Fosstonites. The latter went to Fisher to look after his farming interests at that place.

—Engineer Matt B. Milligan, who recently left here to take a passenger run from Larimore west, arrived in the city last evening to visit briefly with his family, who still reside here. Matt is well satisfied with his promotion and may shortly remove to Larimore.

—Smallpox is still spreading, and has now developed in the towns of Andover and Fairfax. The school in the Lytle district has been closed in consequence of it, and the families of Mr. Samson and Robert Smith are both under quarantine. The cases are reported as mild ones.

—H. B. Wolff, of the Jones, Everett & Simpson company, land agents in this cit arrived Tuesday from his former home at Morris with his family and household goods, and has moved into the Vine block on Broadway. Crookston society bids welcome to their new neighbors.

—The numerous friends of Mrs. William Himmelsbach, who resides near Marin station, will be pained to learn that she is fast sinking with consumption, and probably has only a short time to live. The sick lady has hosts of friends and relatives in this city who most seriously regret her serious condition.

—The wagon bridge across the state ditch two miles west of the powder house northwest of the city, mention of the unsafe condition of which was made in the Journal last Thursday, was completely undermined and has gone into the ditch, necessitating the use of the bridge one mile farther north by the traveling public.

—Papers have been drawn and served in a ten thousand dollar damage suit against the Great Northern rail way company. The plaintiff is Irvin Nicholson of this city, who was injured while switching in the Carman yards. The young man lost a part of his right thumb and the first and a part of the second finger of the same hand by being caught between the bumpers of two freight cars.

—Architect Strassburger is at present engaged in preparing plans and specifications for a large double store and a bank building, to be erected this summer by H. L. Gaylord at Fertile. Both structures are to be built of solid brick and modern architecture. Fertile is bound to grow, as the building boom now in progress surely indicates.

—Saturday's Minneapolis Journal reproduced a life like portrait of Angus D. McKinnon, nephew of McKinnon Bros. of this city, who is attending the state university. Angus is editor in chief of the "Gopher," the annual publication of the "U," which will make its appearance on Tuesday of this week. His many friends in the city rejoice at the distinguished honor the promising and talented young Crookstonite has won.

—A Frohn correspondent in the Beltrami County News, referring to Farris, a former prosperous town east of here, says: "Poor old Farris is slowly giving up the ghost, but it is dying hard, as such mushrooms always do. In its palmy days when it was the residence of the forty thieves, it vied with Cass Lake in wickedness, but now they, too, have taken their departure, and Mike Nygaard is left alone to mourn over its departed greatness."

—It is possible, so say his friends, that John Moorhead, for a long time head clerk at the Palace hotel, will open an extensive confectionery establishment in that part of the Rickett block recently vacated by C. C. Hoch. John has many friends in this city, and no doubt would enjoy his proportion of the patronage should he decide to open a place of business.

—B. F. Ratrick of Climax, who has spent the greater part of the winter at Wilmot, Pa., has returned and made the Journal a pleasant call Monday morning.

—Dr. M. G. Legnee's condition undergoes very slight change from day to day, though he seems to be very gradually becoming a trifle weaker all the time. Acting on the advice of the attendant phyisician, his friends decided to remove him to St. Vincent hospital in the hope that the change of location and surroundings may operate beneficially, and he was so removed Saturday afternoon. He has been sick thirteen weeks and having been unable to take scarcely any nourishment during that time, even his present amount of vitality is marvelous.

—The Hillsboro correspondent of the Grand Forks Herald says: One of County Superintendent Hettler's deservedly popular teacher's associations was held here Saturday. Over 40 teachers were present from the eastern side of the county. Model recitations were conducted by Miss Wiliamson in Third grade language, Miss Lommen in 4th grade spelling and phonics, Miss Burnham in Fifth grade reading and Mrs. Kelly in Seventh grade geography. The recitations were truly model and were heartily commended. Next Saturday the western side of the county will meet at Mayville.

—Eric Torgrimson, a wealthy merchant of Grand Meadow, arrived in the city Friday on his way to Fertile, where he has a brother living whom he has not seen for several years.

—The First National bank has secured a Burrough's Registering Accountant. The expert was in the city Tuesday initiating the bank employes into the mysteries of its operation. It is operated by keys in a similar way to a typewriter, and will set down an interminable long column of figures and give the footing of them accurately in almost no time.

—Lena Thompson, of Key West, and Eddie Gilmore, of Mallory, were married Tuesday by Judge McLean, who is always at his best on such occasions. The judge did a real nice job, with more than usual dignity and pomp, but he failed to kiss the bride. That matter he always leaves to the witness. In this instance George E. A. Finlayson was the lucky one, but our report is not very definite about this part of the service.

—Ex-Sheriff Arne Grundysen came down from his princely farm home out in Bygland township and told his city friends a thing or two about legal matters. Grundysen is almost through seeding, despite the heavy rain of last Friday, while many of his neighbors are far behind with their spring work, some of them having not even begun. The ex-sheriff is very hopeful of a good crop this year, and considers the season so far very favorable for a harvest like that of 1895.

Fergus Falls Free Press: S. F. Beardsley was out to J. T. Kidder's farm last Sunday and was greatly surprised to see Mr. Kidder's wheat three inches above ground. It takes a newspaper correspondent to grow wheat. He makes such a noise the wheat comes up to see what it is all about. Brains on the farm are valuable, and while no one would accuse Mr. Kidder of having any of that scarce commodity, he must have a brainy wife to tell him what to do, judging from the general prosperous appearance of his farm.

—A Journal reporter last Friday dropped into Elias Steenerson's office and learned that that gentleman had just returned from his farm down at Climax. He stated that seeding was all done on his land, and that some grain was already two or three inches high. He also confided to the newspaper man that he brought with him a fast stepping thoroughbred horse, which he expects will make some of this city's fast ones "follow in the dust." It's a fine animal, and goes a good pace.

Agent F. D. Bell, of the Great Northern, is in receipt of information from headquarters informing him that the U. C. T. delegation from Duluth and West Superior would reach here May 24 on a special train at 5:45 in the morning, and leave for Fargo 15 minutes later. At this point the Crookston and Grand Forks councils will join the Duluth delegation and the train will reach Fargo at 9:15 in the morning. Returning, the special train will leave Fargo Sunday morning, May 26, and reach Crookston in the forenoon, some time between ten and twelve o'clock.

—Dr. G. A. Morley, who returned Thursday morning from New York, has spent the past two months in a post graduate course at the New York Eye and Ear Infirmary. Dr. Morley is a specialist and confines his practice entirely to diseases of the eye, ear and throat. The success he has already had in his practice here in Crookston indicates that he has not mistaken the profession for which his natural talents fit him. And with the additional skill which his post graduate course gives him, the Journal predicts that he will take his place in the front rank of specialists in his line.

—The spirit of home improvement recently took possession of J. R. McKinnon so irresistibly that something had to be done to work it off gently. He looked the situation over carefully and decided that about the only thing that was susceptible of improvement about the house was the floors, which he decided to replace with first class maple and in order to have the job done just right, must do it himself. The result has been reached. The floors are elegant and Mrs. McKinnon is delighted. The only drawback to her joy is caused by the tax upon her time and energies, in securing and applying Wizzard Oil and other preparations of a like nature to her husband's anatomy in order to restore him to a condition in which he can enjoy life again.

GOOD ADVICE.

The most miserable beings in the world are those suffering from Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint. More than 75 per cent of the people in the United States are afflicted with these two diseases and their effects, such as Sour Stomach, Sick Headache, Habitual Costiveness, Palpitation of the Heart, Heart-burn, Water-brash, Gnawing and Burning Pains at the Pit of the Stomach, Yellow Skin, Coated Tongue and Disagreeable Taste in the Mouth, Coming up of Food After Eating, Low Spirits, Etc. A BIG LAND DEAL

St. Paul Real Estate Firm Buys 5,000 Acres of Northern Minnesota Land.

PURCHASE PRICE IS $60,000

Same Firm Secures Option on Another Tract of 5,000 Acres.

George Purvis, agent of the Great Northern Land company, returned Tuesday morning from St. Paul where he closed a deal for the transfer of 5,000 acres of the company's lands to the Central Minnesota Land company of St. Paul. This company has previously purchased several large tracts of land from the Great Northern company, mostly in the northern part of the state, and this purchase is all situated in the counties of Polk, Marshall and Kittson. The price paid for the lands which changed hands in the last deal aggregates $60,000, or $12 an, acre and is a very fair indication of the present average value of wild lands in northern Minnesota.

The purchasers, or at least the officers of the company, H. S. Judson, president, and Hugh Spurr, secretary, selected the newly acquired tracts personally and intend to resell to actual settlers from Iowa and southern Minnesota. Mr. Purvis states that the St. Paul real estate firm is composed of live and active hustlers and that it will be but a short time before they have disposed of the entire chunk of their last purchase.

In addition to the lands in this sale the same parties have the refusal of 5,000 acres more on an optional deposit, subject to the selection of the land

This is one of the biggest lump land sales made in this section this season, and the price paid for it most decidedly shows the increase in value of Red River lands during the past few months, and there is no indication of a drop in value at the present time.

HOME FROM WAR.

TWO DAKOTANS ARRIVE FROM THE PHILIPPINES.

Harry Wieland and Clarence Brown were arrivals in Grand Forks Sunday morning from San Francisco, says the the Grand Forks Herald, where they were discharged from two years' service in the army in the Philippines.

Mr. Wieland previous to his enlistment conducted a barber shop at Langdon, where he was well and favorably known. He gives an interesting account of his experiences and observations while in the Philippines, and believes that after the trouble there is over and the country is more fully developed that it wil be a perfect place to live, although at present everything is in an unsettled state. The land is very prolific and almost every plant can be grown there profitably, with the exception probably of grapes and apples, and the reason assigned for their failure is the excessive heat.

While in the army, Mr. Wieland's company was under the command of Gen. Funston, the hero of Kansas. Both gentlemen will leave this morning for Langdon.

VICIOUSLY INSANE.

THIEF RIVER FALLS WOMAN A RAVING MANIAC.

A most distressing case of violent insanity developed near Thief River Falls about ten days ago, and last evening Sheriff Forsberg, of Red Lake county, accompanied by the unfortunate woman's husband, Sigrid Jorstad, took the latter's wife to the insane asylum at Fergus Falls.

Mrs. Jorstad first showed signs of derangement about ten days ago, and during the last few days she became worse. She was bent on destroying everything she could lay her hands on and when she alighted from the train last evening and was taken into the ladies' waiting room at the Great Northern depot, she attempted to tear off her wearing apparel.

The unfortunate woman is only about 25 years old and has two children. She received a thorough education and training in Norway before coming to this country, and by her neighbors and acquaintances, who deeply deplore her condition, she is regarded as a refined and model lady.

GAVE HIM MUD BATH.

A Grand Forks correspondent of the Minneapolis Journal writes as follows under date of May 1:

Word was received yesterday of an affair in the town of Angus, about 20 miles northeast, on the Minnesota side of the river, in which a blacksmith played a star part against his will. The blacksmith is John Staska, and he has been at Angus for the past 12 or 15 years, and has acquired some property.

For some time past Staska, it is claimed, has been interfering with the farmers in some trouble that arose between them and Joe Cowden, who buys wheat for the Minneapolis & Northern Elevator company, and whom the farmers have been endeavoring to have removed. The farmers gathered at Angus the other evening and seizing Staska, who was walking from his shop to the postoffice, dragged him to a mud hole and threw him in. He was given a thorough soaking in the muddy water, after which he was pelted with mud till he sought refuge in his house.

Staska is a powerful man, weighing about 275 pounds. The affair has created a great deal of excitement and it is probable there will be developments of a serious nature. Those implicated are among the most prominent farmers of Angus.

THE MILL OF JUSTICE.

STARTED UP IN GRAND FORKS COUNTY TUESDAY.

The regular May term of the district court was opened Tuesday in the court house at Grand Forks and considerable business was transacted. James Gunn, who was arrested some time ago for the theft of a buffalo overcoat from James Green was arraigned and entered a plea of guilty. He desired no attorney, but instead had prepared an epistle which he requested the judge to read before sentence was pronounced. After perusing the message Judge Fisk sentenced him to one year in the state penitentiary, and he was taken to Bismarck last evening by Sheriff Collins and Deputy Walsh. After sentencing Gunn, Joseph and Jacob Bassanella were arraigned for the murder of Axel Anderson in a Great Northern box car a few weeks ago, the particulars of which are still fresh in the minds of all. Tracy R. Bangs appeared for the prisoners and asked that the defendants be given until next Monday to plead. Both the brothers show the result of their confinement, and this is especially true of Joseph, the younger one, who some time ago attempted suicide.

Gunn, who was sentenced to one year at Bismarck, is the man whom the Grand Forks authorities received at the Polk county jail after he had served a short sentence for a minor offense.

MUST BE DIVIDED.

BELTRAMI AND ITASCA COUNTIES DEMAND IT.

Beltrami and Itasca counties, the great forest empires of Minnesota, will have to be divided within the next five or six years, according to W. F. Street of Bemidji. The rapid influx of population which will follow the new railroad lines in the extreme north will make this step necessary The McKenzie & Mann line from Winnipeg to Port Arthur will open up northern Beltrami, and the Minnesota & International line from Bemidji to Koochiching will cause the settlement of eastern Beltrami and northern Itasca. The problem of coutuy division and new county seats will be the great issue in the two counties for years to come.

GOOD BUSINESS.

DONE BY A CROOK NOW JAILED AT EAST GRAND FORKS.

Officer Quigley of East Grand Forks arrested a character the other evening who is still detained in jail. He was arrested for drunkenness, but after being taken to the lock-up he was searched and every pocket was full of something or other. He had 20 handkerchiefs, about a dozen bicycle bells and a lot of other truck. He had a watch in his possession and a pawn ticket for another. The watch that he had pawned at Rappoport's is an Elgin movement in a gold filled case, and any person who has lost such a watch or a bicycle bell should call on the East Grand Forks police.

M'KINNON WILL IMPROVE.

As was previously announced in the Journal, John R. McKinnon for some time had planned to build another story on top of his elegant brick block, corner of Robert and Main streets, and today he authorizes the Journal to state that his plans will be consummated. Architect McKay. recently of Duluth has prepared a full set of plans and specifications for the additional story, and work on the same will be commenced about June 1, or as soon as building material can be gotten on the ground.

The new structure will be of solid brick, 63x90 and 44x90, and when completed will be one of the most pretentious blocks in the city. It will be arranged for dwelling purposes only, and the present demand for such accommodations warrant the undertaking of Mr. McKinnon.

It is also possible that Alex McKinnon may decide to build another story on top of his part of the block, which fronts on Robert street, which would add considerably to the magnificent appearance of the entire building.

BAGLEY IS IN ASHES

Flames Wipe Out a Large Part of the Business Establishments.

LOSS SUSTAINED IS HEAVY.

Several Store Buildings, and the Machine Shop Are Total Loss.

A destructive fire visited the little town of Bagley, out in Beltrami county, this forenoon, and as a result the greater part of the business portion of the village lies smouldering in ruins and ashes.

The fire, fanned by a heavy wind, spread rapidly and despite the heroic work by the citizens and the fire department. Corey's general merchandise store, the large Brown building, Dr. Forest's office and the Bagley Machine shop and Mrs. Pence's place of business fell prey to the devouring elements.

The loss is heavy, as but little insurance was carried by those who suffered by the fire demon.

THE WAGES OF SIN.

A SAD CASE AT CANDO RESULTS IN DEATH.

Cando, N. D., May 7.—An unusually sad and sensational case has just developed in this city. It is that of a young girl, the daughter of a dunkard family, who has fallen a victim to the lust of man, as a result of which she lies dead and her parents are heart broken. Recently it became noised about that she was keeping fast company in Cando and that she was about to become a mother. This fact was corroborated by later developments, when it became known that two of her friends had given her a hundred dollars each with which to go to a hospital in Grand Forks with the avowed purpose of having an operation performed. The heart broken parents of the girl plead with her, but all to no purpose, her old father clinging to her as she sat in the buggy an abject picture of despair that his darling whom he had watched over for 19 years should be the victim of such a fate. It is said the father took the matter at heart to such an extent that he went to Cando and procured poison with which to end his sorrow, but his wife discovered the deadly drug and destroyed it.

The girl went to the Grand Forks hospital, and just what occurred there may never be known. But she died shortly after the birth of the child. It is stated that she has signed a statement that she went to the hospital for treatment, but that no medicine was taken or operation performed. Be that as it may, the feeling is intense that there has been unusual methods, otherwise the girl would be alive today. It is by no means improbable that criminal prosecution may follow.

PLOWING BY STEAM.

CLERGYMAN EXPERIMENTING AT NORTHCOTE.

Plowing by other than animal power has been tried before in Minnesota. The writer well remembers when about ten years ago the inventive Henry Keller, of Sauk Centre, made a trial at turning up the soil by electricity, but failed to make the invention a success.

Now comes an Illinois clergyman, Rev. H. S. Crause, of Rochelle, who owns a large farm at Northcote, in Kittson county, with an invention to plow by steam. The farmer clergyman arrived from his home Tuesday morning and left on the St. Vincent train to see how the four "gangs" now in operation on his farm are turning over furrows.

It is claimed that this latest device is fairly successful, and may soon take the place of horses before the plow. It seems quite novel to think that in the near future the farmers of this county can have a steam attachment forcing a set of plow shears through the earth, and blow his whistle at noon time.

FIREMEN'S CONVENTION.

Owatonna Chronicle: Thomas R. Johnstone of Crookston and H. J. Dutch, district passenger agent of the Great Northern railway, accompanied by Chief Twiford of the Owatonna fire department, called at the Chronicle office Saturday. Mr. Johnstone was here as a representative of the State Firemen's association and extended to the local fire department and the city council an invitation to be present at the annual meeting of the association which takes place at Crookston June 11 to 13 inclusive. Mr. Dutch fur the Great Northern states that a special train will be run on that road from St. Paul at 8:30 p. m. June 10. The fare will be only one fare for the round trip. This excursion will also prove an opportunity for those interested in the farm lands in the vicinity of Crookston and en route to see the country.

HAVE FOUND HOMES

The Work of the Children's Home Society a Noble One.

1661 HOMELESS CHILDREN

Provided for Since the Beginning of Its Existence---125 in 11 Months.

The Children's Home Society of the state of Minnesota has changed the time of its annual meeting from May to April 1, and for that reason the last annual report covers only eleven months instead of twelve. This society is doing a work which should receive the hearty sympathy and support of every citizen of the state. Its work is in finding homes for the homeless waifs throughout the state, whether made so by sins or the misfortunes of their parents, the society never stops to enquire.

The superintendent of the society, Rev. E. P. Savage, gives his energies exclusively to the work, and has an intense love and enthusiasm for the cause. He sees in every one of the homeless little ones that is brought to his attention the image of Him who died to redeem every individual of the human race, and place within their reach the possibility of a pure and noble life.

His work is a work of love, and he gives himself to its accomplishment with the most intense earnestness. And the record of the society's work is one of wonderful success, and means much for the future moral conditions of the state.

We publish herewith the summary of the work done, from which it will be seen that during the past eleven months 125 of these little ones have been provided with good Christian homes, and that in all, the society has thus cared for 1,661 homeless children. Let our readers imagine the difference in the effect upon the citizenship of our state during future years, which may be exerted by these 1,661 persons starting out from Christian homes to exercise their rights as citizens in society, from what it would have been if they had been left in the slums of our cities, as most of them would have been, if not rescued by some organized effort. The report is as follows:

Children cared for during the eleven months were:

In charge May 1, 1900	27
Received first time	143
Returned to the Society	42
Total	212
Placed in homes	125
Returned to parents, placed with other institutions and otherwise provided for	57
In charge of the society April 1, 1901	30
The whole number from beginning, Sept. 11, 1889, to April 1, 1901	1661

The number received in the eleven months is larger than in any year preceding.

The fathers of 14 were Swede, of 17 were Norwegian, of 4 were Dane, of 20 were German, of 25 were American, of 14 were Finlander, of 9 were English, of 6 were Irish, of 1 was Scotch, of 2 were French, of 3 were Canadian, of 26 were unknown.

The mothers of 17 were Swede, of 17 were Norwegian, of 4 were Dane, of 21 were German, of 35 were American, of 14 were Fins, of 4 were English, of 3 were Welch, of 1 was Irish, of 2 were Scotch, of 2 were French, of 2 were Bohemian, of 1 was Polish, of 4 were Canadian, of 15 were unknown.

Sixty of the children were under a year, 83 were older.

Forty were received in Minneapolis, 39 in St. Paul, 20 in Duluth and St. Louis county, and the remainder from nineteen other counties in the state, and have found homes in 48 counties.

FARM LAND WANTED.

I can furnish a few desirable purchasers for land at rock bottom prices. Parties having "snaps" should call on or write Attorney R. M. Hayes, Crookston, Minn. Office over Merchants National Bank.

KEEP OPEN SUNDAYS.

NO FURTHER ACTION ON CLOSING PAN AM. EXPO. LIKELY

Buffalo, May 4.—So far as the Buffalo churches that were represented by the committee appointed some time ago, with the Rev. O. P. Gifford, of the Delaware Avenue Baptist church, it is said, are concerned, no further action will be taken looking toward the closing of the Pan-American exposition on Sunday. The Rev. Mr. Gifford made the folowing statement: "So far as our committee is concerned, no further efforts will be made to fight the Sunday opening of the exposition gates, nor will we attempt any legal proceedings in the matter."

Dr. Hathaway, of the Sabbath school union, said: "We think the directors made a great mistake in passing their resolution to open the gates of the exposition on Sunday, and that they have very little to gain, and much to lose. However, the action has been taken, and what steps are to be followed up by any organization are at present uncertain."

The passage of the resolution opening the gates on Sunday seems to indicate that the anti-Sunday opening movement is at an end.

EXTEND THE LINE.

GARY 'PHONE COMPANY WILL RUN TO FERTILE.

Lewis Garden, secretary of the Gary Telephone company, was in the village selling shares in that corporation, says the Fertile Journal. It is the intention of the company to extend its line from its present terminus at Rindal into Fertile, and the secretary's trip was too feel the public pulse in regard to the idea. Mr. Garden disposed of several shares in Fertile, and informed us that he had received enough encouragement on his trip to warrant saying that he proposed extension will be made.

The Gary Telephone company was organized in the spring of 1900, and began operations July 1. During the first eight months of its existence the income from its three lines, to Waukon, Rindal and Helberg, paid a trifle over 18 per cent on the capital stock, which would seem to make the Gary Telephone company stock a gilt edged investment.

Fertile would derive considerable benefit from the proposed extension, and it is certainly to be hoped that it will be made.

HOOK IN THE EYE.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT BEFALLS A SON OF ARTHUR CORY.

A most distressing case in the nature of an accident to a child was brought to Grand Forks Thursday morning Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cory, who live about four miles from that city on this side of the river, took their little four year old son Arthur to Dr. Crane, Thursday to have a button hook extracted from his eye. It appears that the little fellow was running around with the hook in his hand when he fell. The hook penetrated the orbit of the eye just below the eye ball and passed through the skull and became imbedded at a depth of nearly three inches. The case was one of the most difficult that a physician has to contend with. The little sufferer was placed under anaesthetic and the hook was successfully removed. It cannot be told yet whether or not the sight of the eye will be destroyed.

HAPPILY MARRIED.

A CASS LAKE DENTIST FINDS A BRIDE AT ARGYLE.

Rev. B. A. Fahl officiated at a very quiet wedding at the Windsor last Saturday at 4 p. m., says the Warren Register, when the reverend gentleman pronounced the words that united in marriage Dr. D. Linn Stanton, of Cass Lake, to Mrs. Beulah Robertson, of Argyle. The ceremony was followed by a wedding supper supplied by mine host McIntyre. Dr. Stanton is a dentist with a growing practice at Cass Lake, to which place he recently moved from Argyle, where he is well and very favorably known. The bride has resided for many years at Argyle, where she has a host of friends. Dr. and Mrs. Stanton will be at home to their friends at Cass Lake after a couple of weeks. They have the best wishes of the community for a long and happy married life.

CATTLE SCAB.

RANGE CATTLE AFFLICTED BY STRANGE DISEASE.

Dave Brockman, of the firm of Brockman & Wells, cattle dealers, was in Fargo and reports grass on their ranges in the vicinity of Medin as being good and the cattle doing well. He says their cattle wintered well and are healthy. The cattle men in the western part of the state are worried over the appearance of a disease among the cattle which resembles sheep scab, and it is said that some of the herds west of Sterling are affected with it to a great extent. The cattlemen will ask for the establishment of a quarantine and some method whereby the cattle can be treated. Mr. Brockman states that his firm secured the government contract for furnishing the Fort Totten reservation with meat, and that he is in the city to have his bonds prepared.

General Wilson Says They Are the Best Killers on Earth.

EASILY IN THE FRONT RANK

Story of How the Boys Scaled Walls of Pekin.---Funston Praised.

New York, May 3.—At the annual dinner of the Loyal Legion held at Delmonico's, General James Wilson made an address, devoting his time to anecdotes and recollections of the Pekin campaign. He paid a high tribute to the United States troops.

"We were not a very large contingent," he said, "but we were easily in the front rank among the allies. The Russian commander of artillery told General Chaffee that he took off his hat to our artillery. As for our infantry—well, let me recall the story of the storming of the walls of Pekin, when the Fourteenth infantry, commanded by old Daggett, found itself under the shadow of the wall. A private went to the colonel, and said, as he looked critically at the battlements above him: 'I can scale that wall colonel.' 'All right,' said Daggett, 'go ahead.'

"He went ahead and scaled the wall. Then he hauled the colonel up, and soon had the two companies on the wall. They found there a number of Russians, who had got to the top during the night but were afraid to go out to a sally port in the immediate vicinity and clear it. Daggett and his men went to the sally port and let in Daly and his guns. Then it was all over.

"We must not be vain, glorious about the American soldier. He is not a great disciplinarian. His collar does not always fit just right and his leggings may lack a few loops of being fastened, but when it comes to fighting he gets there. It is my opinion that the American soldier is the best killer on the top of the earth.

General Wilson paid a high tribute to the Japanese, saying they were not a "healthy lot to scrap with."

Some one asked about Funston and General Wilson said he was a good soldier in spite of the fact that he was inexperienced.

"After his career in the Philippines and the capture of Aguinaldo," he said, "I rejoice that the president made him a brigadier general."

This allusion to Funston was the signal for an ovation on the part of the veterans, who rose from their chairs and cheered for five minutes.

Referring to the British soldiers in China, General Wilson said they were chiefly "niggers" as their officers called them. He said:

"Great Britain has more world business on her hands than she can attend to with white men. You need not lie awake nights worying about England so long as she has to rely to so great an extent on the troops from India and other native forces. They are very poor material."

The speaker paid a tribute to General Chaffee, saying he was a brusque, clear headed soldier, who looked one straight in the face and smiled in spite of anything.

TROUBLES OF THEIR OWN.

THIEF RIVER FALLS IN A RIDICULOUS POSITION.

The city of Thief River Falls is placed in a ridiculous position by the action of a few of the ultra conservative residents of the East Side, says the Press, on the school question. When the villages of Red Lake Rapids and Thief River Falls were united the separate school districts remained as they were, and so today, in a city of but 2,000 inhabitants. We have two separate school organizations, which refuse to unite for the common good. Under the law, the initiative must come from a majority of the resident freeholders in each district, and, as there are but 63 or less resident freeholders on the East Side, a few stubborn ones can easily block the progress of the city. The matter would carry in a "holy minute." If some one had not suggested that such a unification would increase the taxation across the river. The lumber company pays the majority of the taxes over there, and it is anxious to unite the districts. Does anyone suppose that the lumber company is hunting for more taxes to pay? Of course not! Then, why not brace up and sign the petition? Let us take our place among the progressive towns of the northwest and have a good school system.

$75 REWARD FOR CAPTURE OF KING CORN.

As a modest inducement to diversified farming in Polk county, the undersigned has purchased a few bushels of Minnesota grown corn, a variety peculiarly adapted to northern soil and climate, for free distribution to farmers who will plant and properly cultivate at least an acre of the same.

This corn matures within 60 to 75 days from the time seed germinates. I will give $50 for the best bushel in the ear, and $25 for the second best bushel, grown from this seed in Polk county, in separate fields. Samples are to be selected by owner from field in my presence. Contest judges are to be selected from residents of Polk county, by disinterested parties.

I prescribe manner of preparation of soil and cultivation of corn, based on many years' experience in corn raising, observance of which will prove valuable, but contestants are permitted to practice their own methods if preferred.

Farmers desiring to enter this contest must apply for seed on or before May 15, and receive full particulars, at my office over First National bank, Crookston. —R. M. Hayes,

A HORRIBLE DEATH

Little Daughter of B. O. Lindberg Meets With Tragic and Painful End.

MOTHER FINDS HER IN FLAMES

After Five Hours of Agony Unfortunate Sufferer Passes Away.

Meagre accounts of a terrible accident in which a little four and a half year old girl, daughter of a family named B. O. Lindberg, near Beltrami was burned to death, reached this city late Friday afternoon.

It appears that the little one was playing alone upstairs in the farm house about 2 o'clock in the afternoon yesterday, when shrieks and cries attracted the attention of the girl's mother. She hastened upstairs and found the girl enveloped in flames, with apparently every stitch of clothing on fire, and whatever of the wearing apparel could not be pulled off by the unfortunate girl's mother, burned off, and, literally speaking, roasted the child alive.

The frantic mother called for assistance as quickly as possible, and everything was done to save the child's life but it was all in vain. After four hours of untold agony and suffering the little one died from her burns. How the child's clothes caught fire is not known, but it is supposed that she was playing with matches.

Mrs. Lindberg was also severely burned about her hands and face in trying to extinguish the burning clothing of her baby daughter.

The family lives about four miles ne [illegible]east of Beltrami, and are well known here and in other parts of the county.

MODEL MAYOR.

CARDLE TELLS THE BOYS HOW HE RUNS CASS LAKE

Mayor Cardle, of Cass Lake, the well known conductor on the Northern division of the Eastern Minnesota road, and who recently shut up the variety theater in his home town, says the Duluth News Tribune, says that he does not propose to allow such places to operate in the main business center of the place. Mayor Cardle is a very frank executive, and, strange to say, knows that gambling exsts in his town. This is where Mayor Cardle is strikingly original. He says that there are twenty odd saloons in Cass Lake, and that until recently gambling has existed in all of them. "I shut down the gambling in all the saloons," said Mayor Cardle last evening. "The man who ran the theater also ran a saloon and a gambling outfit in connection. The theater was a very immoral proposition, and I just took advantage of the opportunity to not only shut down tha place but to close up the gambling all along the line. I believe in good order and good morals, and am going to try and run Cass Lake to suit the conditions under which it exists. It is a new town, and would become very tough if given an opportunity. We do not expect to make the town too good, nor allow it to become too bad. We are all interested in seeing the town floursh, and it seems to be doing pretty well. I shall try and give the town an intelligently liberal policy."

BOARD OF OPTOMETRY.

NOW ORGANIZED FOR ACTIVE BUSINESS.

St. Paul, May 3.—After November 1 "Wild cat" and "Fly by night" opticians will do a precarious business in Minnesota. All persons who claim to understand and practice the art of fitting glasses will be required to secure certificates of registrat

The new board, created by the Sweningson bill, organized yesterday. It is called the "Minnesota state board of examiners of optometry." Alex Sweningson, of Moorhead, was elected president of the board, and C. A. Sacil, of Minneapolis, secretary.

All persons who are now engaged in practice are entitled to a certificate of registration, on the payment of $3, and will hereafter pay annual dues of $2. All persons entering on the practice of optometry hereafter will have to be examined by the board, and if they pass will pay a $15 fee before being allowed to do business.

Licensed physicians are exempted from the operations of the law, which also does not try to reach "peddlers" who sell spectacles or eyeglasses "without attempt to traffic upon assumed skill in adapting them to the eye."

LITERARY NOTES

The great charm of Mary Johnston's new story "Audrey," which begins in in the May Atlantic, lies in the fact that it is romance pure and simple. Though its scene is laid in the Virginia of 1727, in the secure and flourishing society of the colonial capital, Williamsburg, and though several historical characters appear, including Col. William Byrd and his charming daughter Evelyn; yet no single historical incident is made a pivot for the plot. The pen that wrote "To Have and To Hold" shows here even more power, notably in the keen and subtle character drawing. Indeed the latest story reveals everywhere maturity of observation joined with a rare poetic interpretation of nature and of human passion.

Audrey, the orphan girl who gives the story its name, is a character wonderfully charged with poetry and pathos—a dryad with her woods hewn down, a dream child who awakes to die. We feel no hesitation in proclaiming her the most vital and fascinating personage created by Miss Johnston's imagination.

Other features of general literary interest are Bradford Torrey's delightful out-door paper on the mountain "Moosilauke" and Edmund Gosse's study of Mandell Creighton, the late bishop of London, a ripe scholar who had many friends upon this side of the water. A notable Memorial Day Poem, "The Phantom Army," is contributed by William Prescott Foster, and Sarah Orne Jewett's "Tory Lover" continues.

BELONGS TO MINNESOTA

BUTTER BANNER WENT TO KANSAS BY MISTAKE.

Steps are being taken to perfect a compromise relative to the prize butter banner which was awarded Kansas during the national buttermakers' convention held in this city a few weeks ago. Through a mistake in the footings of the scores made by the different states in the contest the banner was given to that state. A later recount showed that the banner was really won by Minnesota. The Kansas people are inclined to the belief that in adding up the footings after the award had been made, Minnesota was favored to an extent sufficient to change the total and deprive Kansas of her claimed honors.

When the delegation carrying the banner arrived at Lincoln, Kan., there was a general jollification among the legislators, and money sufficient was appropriated properly to encase the banner and place it in the capitol. Those who are seeking a compromise feel that it is hardly fair to deprive Kansas of all her glory and the glass case. For that reason a compromise may be effected along the lines of eliminating certain words from the banner reading to the effect that Kansas made the highest scoring and let the state still retain the silk flag. It is also possible that Minnesota may be given a banner showing that it really won the contest.—Minneapolis Journal.

MARSHALL'S CHANCES.

GOOD FOR APPOINTMENT AS CHIEF GRAIN INSPECTOR

St. Paul, May 4.—L. D. Marshall is the leading candidate for chief grain inspector, and his appointment is likely to be announced by the commission in a day or two. Mr. Marshall is an old grain man and is now in the employ of the St. Anthony and Dakota Elevator company as a traveling inspector. His headquarters are in Minneapolis, but his residence is at Crookston. He has never been prominent in politics. Should he be appointed, he will not displace E. S. Reisbns until the close of the crop year about August 1.

Marshall's chief competitor is G. F. Moulton of Minneapolis, another old grain man, a former inspector and a Republican worker.

The above dispatch credits Crookston with being Mr. Marshall's home, but we fear his name and the names of the members of his family were skippd by our census takers last year.

AT CASS LAKE.

THINGS APPEAR TO BE BOOMING DOWN THAT WAY.

Cass Lake, Minn., May 2.—The ice has disappeared from Cass Lake and its tributaries, and the loggers in this vicinity are preparing to start their drives. George Dewey of Grand Rapids was here yesterday hiring men and securing supplies for Sam Hunter's big drive at Bear river, which will be taken through Lake Winnibigosbish to Brainerd and turned over to the boom company. The Shamrock, a steamboat belonging to the Scanlon-Gipson Lumber company, is being fitted out for the season and will tow logs belonging to that company from the entrance to Cass Lake to the company's mill on Pike bay. The Zelah May, the largest steamer on the northern lakes, is in Wolf lake, and will tow a large quantity of logs to the J. Neils Lumber company saw mill on Cass Lake.

SEARCH FOR IRON.

TO BE MADE SYSTEMATICALLY ON THE WALKER LANDS.

Hibbing, Minn., May 4.—Capt. Harry Roberts has acquired the T. B. Walker lands on the western end of this range, and is arranging to commence the search for iron. He has secured 17,500 acres of land following closely the trend of the ore formation of the range, and scattered along all the way from the Stevenson mine, six miles west of this city, to the Diamond mine, four miles east of Grand Rapids. It is almost a certainty that systematic work will show up several valuable ore properties, and complete the connection of iron-mines between the Stevenson and the Diamond.

SWEPT BY FLAMES

Destructive Fire Wipes Out Business Center of Jacksonville, Florida.

SIX LIVES REPORTED LOST

Property Swept Clean for a Distance of Three Miles. Loss $14,000,000.

Jacksonville, Fla., May 4.—At 12:45 yesterday Jacksonville had a most disastrous fire. Along the entire length of Beaver street from Davis street to the creek on Liberty street all buildings have been totally destroyed.

This is fourteen solid blocks of residences.

For the same distance Ashley and Church streets have both been completely wiped out. When the fire reached Bridge street in its eastward course, it enveloped in flames three blocks, Duval, Monroe and the north side of Adams, burning up that entire section of the city and running 14 blocks to the Daval street bridge. How much further in that direction the city is burned it is impossible to learn, the streets being impassable, but it is feared that St. Luke's hospital was burned and a report says the Presbyterian church in East Jacksonville is ablaze. If this is the case the fire must have extended five blocks further east.

The conflagration extended so far as is definitely known a distance of two and a half miles by a half a mile wide.

All this destruction was wrought in less than four hours.

At 8:30 the fire was checked at the intersection of Laura and Bay streets, where the Commercial bank is located, which went up in flames, the Western Union telegraph office being just across the street and not damaged.

Among the prominent hotels were the St. James, the United States, the Placide and the Windsor. It is impossible at this hour to ascertain the losses, but it is estimated by insurance agents that it will be between $8,000,000 and $9,000,000.

Six lives are reported lost. The mayor has called a meeting of the city council to consider ways and means of relieving the sufferers.

At 1 a. m. the situation was one approaching desolation in a large section of the city.

The burned district reaches from Burbridge street on the north to St. John's river on the south, a distance of not quite two miles. The width of the desolated area is 13 blocks, about 130 blocks in all. Within this space practically everything is in ruin. On Ray street the principal mart of trade—the Western Union Telegraph company's building is the first building standing going west. Everything west of Laura nd Ray streets is gone. At 10:15 o'clock the fire was under control, having practically burned itself out.

Mayor Bowden estimates the loss at over $14,000,000.

BIG CEREAL TRUST.

NOW COMMENCES BUSINESS IN CHICAGO.

Chicago, May 4.—The Great Western Cereal company, the combine of ten trading concerns in the northwest is now in active existence, having opened headquarters in this city. Lucius C. Miles, the treasurer, says that a mill is to be erected in this city with a capacity of 3,000 daily, and the company is to increase the output of the Fort Dodge, Ia., plant from 750 to 2,000 barrels daily. The increase in the total output of the ten concerns will be more than 5,000 barrels daily.

Although the corporation says it is not organized to oppose the American Cereal trust, it is, nevertheless, it is said, planning to establish branches in European cities where the old trust has branches.

WANT CHEAP LANDS.

A Stephen correspondent of the Minneapolis Journal says: "Marshall county is having a great boom, and just at present everybody is dealing in land. Speculators are rushing in from all quarters and are buying indiscriminately. They have an inclination for the cheaper lands regardless of quality consequently the best lands have not increased as much in price as the cheaper ones. The boom will continue until the crop is harvested, and if yields are large prices will still increase."

R & G CORSETS
NEVER STRETCH

The moderately straight R & G No. 397 was and is the corset of comfort with the essence of style. It is straight enough for the prevailing vogue and curved enough to conform to healthful anatomical lines. In 1900 we were unable to fully meet the demand for straight-front goods and unwilling to resort to any makeshift to meet the conditions. At present, however, considerable additions to our factory facilities enable us to keep the trade supplied with real straight-front corsets at retail prices from $1.00 to $2.50, and also our 397, 197, Empire and other popular numbers. There are over seventy styles and sizes of R & G Corsets—a corset to fit every figure. R & G Corsets are the corsets that do not stretch. Every hairbreadth of stretch is taken out of the goods by means of steam-heated iron forms. This gives a permanency to the right shape and form that will stay in it until the last day you wear it. Every R & G Corset is sold with the understanding that it must give satisfaction to the wearer, or the dealer will supply a new one free of cost. If your dealer hasn't it, send us his name and we will see that you are supplied with what you want.

CAUSED A PANIC

Senator J. J. Ryder Evidently Lost his Mental Balance and Used a Pistol.

IN STREETS OF ST. PAUL

Put up Hot Fight but Was Overcome and Hustled Into a Cell.

John J. Ryder, state senator from Polk county, is laying up troubles for himself, which, when the legislature meets in extra session next winter, may result in his impeachment.

The latest escapade of the senator occurred Tuesday evening, and resulted in his being landed at the central station on a charge of disorderly conduct. Since the adjournment of the legislature Senator Ryder has put in his time about St. Paul having a good time if "tanking up" with liquor comes under that head.

Beginning on Monday he has been on a "bender," but his acquaintance with police officers and his position as a state official exempted him from being gathered in.

Tuesday afternoon he had a fuss with an acquaintance in Twombley's saloon in St. Paul and in his maudlin condition imagined he had been insulted. He proceeded to purchase a small revolver and a box of cartridges and started out to revenge the insult. He became mixed in his bearings, and shortly before 6 o'clock seated himself on the curb stone at Third and Cedar streets, and, using the commission house of Cobb & Co. as a target, fired three shots which fortunately did no damage. Proceeding to Twombley's saloon he discharged one shot in the rear hallway of the saloon, and then started across Fourth street. The vases in the court house ground caught his eye, and he fired a shot at one of the ornaments of which Custodian Battley is so proud.

The discharge of the weapon attracted a small crowd, but the senator was in blissful ignorance of what he was doing, and imagined he was back in East Grand Forks, where such things are sometimes allowed.

As he crossed Wabasha street the senator discharged his revolver again and pedestrians on the street scattered and ran into the nearest store for safety.

Patrolman Licha attempted to wrest the weapon from him, but it was not until two other officers and a citizen came to his assistance that the senator was subdued and placed in the patrol wagon.

He was booked for disorderly conduct, but this morning was released on $50 bail, the money being put up by one of the police officials.

On the court tab he was called "John S. Elliott," and when the case was called City Prosecutor Finehout informed Judge Orr "Mr. Elliott is very sick," and suggested a continuance for a week, which was agreed to. The additional charge of drunk was placed after the name of Elliott, it being explained that this charge would allow the disorderly one to be disposed of, as the prisoner was very drunk, and not really responsible for his disorderly actions.

Senator Ryder left the station shortly before 9 o'clock yesterday morning with his brother in law and will take a rest cure at a hospital.

His relatives claim that he has been drinking heavily for the past four months, and has not been responsible for his actions by reason of liquor.

During the session of the legislature the senator was once arrested for fighting with a street car conductor, but instead of appearing in court he forfeited $10 bail, which a friend put up for him.

EIGHT MILES OF STEEL

HAS BEEN LAID ON THE M. & I. RAILROAD

The Beltrami County News says that work on the construction of the Minnesota & International railway, north, is progressing very favorably now. The grade is completed to Turtle River, a distance of 12 miles, and steel has been laid 8 miles, 2 miles above Mississippi, a siding at the head of Lake Bemidji.

From Messrs. Croswell and Walsh of the engineering department, we learn that 30 per cent of the grade is completed from Turtle River to Black Duck, and it is hoped to have the first 25 miles completed about July 4th. The steel gang has been laying off this week on account of the work in connection with the building of a hoisting works on the east shore of Lake Bemidji, near Manger's saw mill, where several million feet of logs will be loaded for the Burlington Lumber Co. However, after this week the work of laying steel as far as the grade is completed will be pushed with renewed vigor, and at an early day a new epoch in the matter of transportation will be marked in the history of the northern tributary country.

A surveying party is now at work running preliminary lines from Black Duck to Koochiching, via of Bridgie and Great Falls, and it is expected that with the completion of the work now under way, contracts will be let for the construction of the line to the international border.

TELEPHONE WAR

ONE POSSIBLE IN THE CITY OF BRAINERD.

Brainerd, Minn., May 13.—The Northwestern Telephone Co., through C. W. Baumbach of Wadena, has left with City Clerk F. E. Low a proposition to the city council in which they ask for permission to put up poles and wires for a new telephone system in the city. They offer to furnish the city four 'phones free of charge and also to charge citizens not to exceed $2 per month for office 'phones and $1 per month for residences.

As the present price paid the local telephone company is $3 and $1.50, respectively, for offices and residences, a telephone war seems to be imminent. The proposition of the Northwestern company will come up at the next regular meeting of the city council, May 20.

Baumbach is also one of the stockholders in the Crookston exchange, which recently changed ownership.

ECONOMIZES LIGHT

THE FARGO EDISON COMPANY WINS SUIT.

A Fargo correspondent of the St. Paul Dispatch says:

"The Fargo Edison company has won out in its long fight against the Fargo Gas & Electric company for the city street lighting. The latter had a contract that ran for ten years. Suit was brought to have it declared void and the supreme court decided the city had no right to make a longer contract than one year in advance. Bids were called for and the Fargo Edison company secured the lighting at $7.45 per arc light. The latest system will be employed, and the streets lighted from the sides instead of over the center, as at present. The new contract will save the city about $2,000 annually. The city council authorized a committee to close the contract for the buildings.

THE LOCAL SHOOT

MANY SPORTSMEN TO ATTEND THE TOURNAMENT.

Grand Forks Herald: W. E. Rowe, the state's attorney of Polk county, who spent Thursday in the city, stated that the annual tournament of the Crookston Gun club would be held at that place on the 27th and 28th of June, and that there would be 10 15-bird events each day with $15 added money for each event put up by the Crookston Gun club, making a total of $300 added money for the two days' sport. The purses therefore will be well worth going after, and many of the sports from this city, East Grand Forks and other places in the state will attend, as all are eligible. There will be additional cash prizes for the high averages. The money will be divided according to the Rose system, 4, 3, 2 and 1.

SHE SHOWS FIGHT.

A contest case of more than ordinary importance and interest is scheduled to come up before the local land office next month, involving the title of a small island opposite the proposed new town of Grand Falls, in Itasca county. The island is claimed by Dan Campbell, a hermit, who has lived up on his homestead near the river bank of the Big Fork river, for the past 21 years, but whether he can establish his claim to the property is a proposition which Miss Edna Deering, of Bemidji, will see about. What makes the little island so particularly valuable at this time is the fact that if Grand Falls amounts to anything, and there are those who believe it will, the property claimed by Miss Deering will be within a stone's throw of the town proper.

A TWENTY-ONE MILE GUN.

New York, May 11.—Captain Wheeler, of the ordnance bureau, has been ordered to Watervliet, N. Y., says a World special from Washington, to make a final inspection of the 16 inch gun now nearing completion at that place. It is expected that this gun will be capable of throwing a ball weighing 2,370 pound a distance of 21 miles. The gun weighs 13 tons and total length is 49 feet 2 9-10 inches. The length of the bore is 37 feet 4 inches, with a rear diameter of sixty inches.

Uncle Jo's Column

I see Mr. Hayes, the land man, has shied his caster into the ring and he's goin' to give some corn premiums too. I should think it would be a good plan for Mr. Pleth and Mr. Hayes and the Journal to have their corn shows all together. They ought to have a pretty good corn show.

—o—

I see Tom Casey has got so he can ride a bicycle real well. He don't tumble off very often now. I thought he'd soon git so he could ride all 'round town. He generally succeeds in doin' what he sets out to do.

—o—

The farmers are all busy now puttin' in their crops, and some of 'em are beginnin' to worry for fear we're goin' to have too much dry weather. It's real easy for some folks to find trouble. I don't see any use in worryin' about something that may happen. The best way is to go along and take all the enjoyment we can get out of what we have. We haven't any business worryin' over the weather anyway. The good Lord controls the weather and that will be all right whether its just what we would like to have it or not. Some folks can't take real solid comfort on a pleasant day, for fear we'll have to pay for it by endurin' some bad weather the next day. But I think that's all foolishness.

—o—

I see Mr. Casmay writ a letter to the Journal sayin' he don't believe in diversified farmin'. But I think he is a little off. Now, there's my old friend H. C. Berg, of the town of Chester. He's been assessor there for ten years. And he was tellin' about how the folks out there are gettin' along so nice. There's one man out there for instance, that he assessed ten years ago, and he had just one poor old cow and four poor old horses, and he was badly in debt. And when he assessed him last year, he was all out of debt, had ten nice horses, was milkin' twenty nice cows, had eighteen two years old heifers comin' in, and had a lot of nice chickens and turkeys. And he'd been diversifyin his farmin' and got all that property that way. I don't know what better a man could expect to do than that.

GOT SIX MONTHS.

AND PAYS A FINE OF $500 BESIDES.

At the opening of the district court at Fargo Monday morning E. W. Davis of Davenport and Mrs. Carver plead guilty to the charge of adultery. Some testimony was taken for the purpose of guiding the court in pronouncing sentence, the doors of the court house being closed to everybody except the attorneys and court officers. After taking the testimony a consultation of the attorneys representing the parties and Judge Pollock was held, after which sentence was passed upon Mr. Davis, he receiving a sentence of six months in the county jail and to pay a fine of $500. The passing of sentence upon Mrs. Carver for the present was suspended at the request of her husband. It is understood that as Mrs. Carver was leaving the court room, papers in a divorce suit against her were served by her husband's attorneys. The grounds upon which the divorce is asked are the same as she was held to the court upon.

ST. PAUL DISINTEGRATING.

The Minneapolis Tribune says seven tons of disintegrated sandstone tumbled down from the bluff at the foot of South Wabasha street, St. Paul, during Monday night and partially demolished a retaining wall that was being built by the city to protect the steps, 100 feet high, that ascend to Hall avenue. It is feared that further crumbling of the bluff may undermine the foundation of another wall, half way up the bluff, and completely destroy the steps.

TEARS IN HIS EYES

JAMES J. HILL SYMPATHIZES WITH FRIENDS.

New York, May 13.—The Commercial Advertiser prints the following interview with J. J. Hill:

"Mr. Hill, are the troubles between the Northern Pacific and the Union Pacific settled?" asked a reporter.

"There is no question of any trouble I never myself had any doubt that in the end we should come out all right. And the trouble was not foisted upon the public by us. I did not speculate myself in a single share, and the shares of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific, which I have today, I shall keep, if I can, until doomsday.

"The troubles which have been caused by this 'dispute,' as the papers call it, have been fomented by the papers themselves. When we who are concerned can get together and talk matters over, the differences will not be so great as they appear. They will not be impossible of settlement. But, look at the ruin that has been done."

Mr. Hill paused and turned half around. When he turned back there were tears in his eyes.

"I have received lots of letters," he said, "from friends of mine—men and women, who are not rich, who are comparatively poor. They know that I was interested personally and largely in my properties, and they had faith in them and in me. Now they are completely ruined, and simply because they have been caught in the vortex of a gamble. Yet they bought their shares in good faith."

"Mr. Hill," asked the reporter, "do you not think that 'the community of interests' principle or idea is having a pretty severe trial just now?"

"Well, that I cannot talk about now. I feel too much grieved over the situation. This morning I got a letter from the wife of a friend of mine, telling me of the losses to her family. I repeat that this trouble has not been of my making and no one regrets it more than I do."

"Will the trouble end soon?"

"Yes, if common sense prevails; yes."

ANNUAL REUNION

HIGH SCHOOL ALUMNI MEETING JUNE 1.

The fifth annual reunion of the Crookston High School association will be held at the Hotel Crookston in this city on the evening of June 1, at 8:30 o'clock.

The invitations sent out by the committee in charge of the arrangements for the occasion read as follows:

"The cycle of revolving years will soon have brought us to the fifth anniversary of our Crookston High School Alumni association. It is with a mingled feeling of regret and pleasure that we call your attention to this fact Of regret that it carries us one year farther from the scenes of our happy days at school, of pleasure that it once more renews the association of that past, fills the mind with happy thought of those fast receding days and the heart with tender recollections of hours long past and gone."

We will fill our glasses with H2O,
And drink to the health of the old front row.

GETS PROMOTION

ASSISTANT ROAD MASTER NOLAN LEAVES CROOKSTON.

The numerous friends of C. U. Nolan, assistant roadmaster between this city and Cass Lake on the Great Northern, will regret to learn that he has decided to leave Crookston in a very few days. At the same time those same friends will congratulate Chris, as he is familiarly known, that he has been offered a more lucrative position on the Cotton Belt road, with headquarters at Pine Bluff, Ark., and the advanced rank of division roadmaster on that line. Mr. Nolan will leave here and reports for duty.

The increase in salary which is at- as soon as his successor is appointed tached to Mr. Nolan's new position is about $500 a year, and is certainly an inducement to accept the offer.

Former Roadmaster Conlan, of the Dakota division, who is now with the Cotton Belt road, was instrumental in securing for Mr. Nolan his new position.

SUNDAY EXCURSIONS.

Sioux City, Ia., May 15.—The Sioux City ministers will wage unrelenting war against the Sunday excursion movement, which has been gaining impetus in this section for several years. The railroads, newspapers and preachers in other towns will be asked to aid in this crusade. The Commercial club will be appealed to for help in dissuading the railroads from running Sunday excursions.

SNAKE AND WOLF BOUNTIES.

Prairie du Chien, Wis., May 15.—So far this season County Clerk Charles Mitchell has issued bounties for 114 rattle snakes, 48 wolves, 69 foxes and 3 wild cats. This reduces the number of these pests considerably in this county. Credit for having captured the largest number of rattle snakes belongs to A. B. Shulke, of the town of Prairie du Chien, who brought in 35 Monday morning.

DANGEROUS COOK STOVE.

Le Sueur, Minn., May 15.—A peculiar accident occurred at the residence of Alderman Arnold Smith Monday afternoon. The cook stove exploded with a report that was heard over a mile, wrecking the back part of his house and doing about $250 damage. No cause can be assigned for the explosion.

$35,000 SCHOOL AT AITKIN.

At a special meeting recently held by the Aitkin school board the contract for the building of a new $35,000 school house was awarded to William King, of Wadena, Minn. The Archambo Heating and Plumbing company, of Minneapolis, gets the contract for heating the same, and Garrard A. Kelly the contract for plumbing. Work will be begun at once as the building must be ready by Nov. 15 next.

WAS ACCIDENTAL

At Least Mrs. Olberg says She Didn't Shoot at Husband Intentionally.

FINANCIAL TROUBLES CAUSE IT

The Sensational Shooting Causes No Excitement at Solway.

A rather sensational shooting occurred at Solway Tuesday, but fortunately no one connected with the affair is obliged to wear a wounded part of his body in the sling today.

Some time ago Andrew Olberg, who is conducting a boarding house and saloon at Solway, got into financial troubles with a former partner named H. R. McDonald. The business relations between the two men were dissolved and Olberg associated himself with James Rhosdy, and for a while everything appeared to move along smoothly. Recently, however, Olberg suspicioned his wife of being too sweet with his business associate and last evening he went home and began to abuse her in the most approved style, charging her with infidelity and making other strong remarks about her character.

Mrs. Olberg didn't take very kindly to the abuse heaped upon her by her liege lord, and grabbing a loaded revolver which lay handy, she deliberately took aim and fired a shot at her abusive spouse, without inflicting any damage.

Marshal Sinker was called to the scene of the shooting and to him Mrs. Olberg claimed the shooting was purely accidental, and that she had no intention of injuring her hubby. The marshal found that both man and wife were in possession of firearms, and that the desperate temper of the two members of the family co-partnership, which has so far raised eight children, was a tie as near as could be ascertained. No arrests have been made.

The Olberg family removed from Erskine to Solway several months ago, and the narrowly averted tragedy has excited no comment in the community whatever.

DESIRE REVISION

OF CREED IN REGARD TO MATRIMONIAL QUESTION.

Des Moines, Ia., May 13.—Whether a man may marry his dead wife's sister and whether a woman may wed the brother of her departed husband, are questions that will be disposed of at the 43rd general assembly of the United Presbyterian church of North America, to be held in Des Moines May 22 to 29. It is proposed to repeal that passage of the Westminster Confession of Faith relating to the marriage law, that says:

"A man may not marry any of his wifes kindred nearer in blood than he may his own, nor the woman of her husband's kindred nearer in blood than her own."

Many of the presbyteries have wanted the repeal of this law for years. At the general assembly, held last year in Des Moines, a memorial was presented by the presbytery of Chicago requesting the submission of the question of the confession quoted to the presbyteries. The presbyteries voted on the matter the past year, two-thirds of them favoring repeal.

PANIC INCIDENTS

TWO CASES OF NARROW ESCAPES FROM RUIN.

New York, May 15.—E. S. Marks was short 300 shares of Northern Pacific during the Wall street panic last week. Failure to deliver meant ruin. He was speculating on the future without his steam yacht or automobile while gazing at the rush of brokers around the door of the exchange.

"What's the excitement?" was asked by a farmer who approached him.

"Stock exchange ruining good people," he replied curtly.

"That's the place I'm looking for," said the farmer.

"Well, you'd better stay outside; they'll have your farm if you go in there," said Marks.

"Oh, I ain't going to speculate," assured the farmer. "I've got 400 shares of that Northern Pacific railroad stock and I want to sell. My fool son bought it eight years ago for $4 a share. They tell me it is worth more now."

"Got it with you," asked Marks hurriedly.

"Yep, in my pocket," said the farmer, placing his hand over his breast pocket.

Marks had him out of the crowd and 100 feet away before the old fellow knew what had happened. Fifteen minutes later the farmer started for the Grand Central depot with a draft for $40,000 in his pocket and Marks had the stock.

An army officer stationed in the Philippines has been sending home his salary for his wife to save. She sought to add to it by taking a flyer in Wall street. She had invested every dollar of her husband's savings and in the panic of Thursday all was swept away. She appealed to Henry Clews, with whose firm she had dealt.

"If I show you the way to get your money back will you promise me that you will not speculate again?" asked the broker.

"Indeed I will," tearfully assented the woman.

"Well, here's your money. Now keep out of the market."

Clews said afterward that he had not invested the money.

A broker in the Waldorf-Astoria, who listened to the story, laughed. "Well, that's one on Clews. That woman brought the money right over to my office and asked me to buy Delaware & Hudson for it. I did so and she made $4,500."

WILL RUN BY STEAM

THE DWIGHT FLOURING MILL MAKES IMPROVEMENTS.

For a week or more the Dwight flouring mill of this city has been undergoing a number of improvements under the supervision of F. R. Knox, an experienced engineer and millwright of Fargo, and Tuesday the mill was started to run by steam.

The engine which will hereafter furnish power for that manufacturing concern is an early date cat-off machine, of the Cammer Mfg. Co.'s make, with 4-valve automatic apparatus, and has not been in use for more than nine years. Mr. Knox has overhauled the entire steam plant of the mill and has put it into excellent running shape. This enables the Dwight mill in this city to run either by steam or water power, and there is no more danger of lack of motive power for operation.

The engine is a 16x42, 150 revolution power, and supplies sufficient power to run the mill to its fullest capacity.

SECURED A FORTUNE.

It is reported that Richard Cullen, a well known character around the head of the lakes, has come into a fortune of $50,000 as a result of the late flurry in stocks. Cullen has been up and down in the scales several times. He once owned considerable real estate in Duluth and Superior, and was well off. Then the collapse of the boom pinched his wealth out, and for several years he was in poor circumstances. Recently he made a little stake in commissions on mining deals, and with it he went east and is said to have won out $50,000.

EVERYBODY WORKING

AND PROSPECTS IN POLK COUNTY FAVORABLE FOR CROPS.

Grand Forks Herald: E. M. Snell returned last evening from a trip to Fosston, Minn., and says the wheat seeding between that place and Mentor is all finished and the greater part of the grain is up and looking well. Nearer Crookston the farmers are still seeding wheat, but if the present weather continues will finish this week, which will be in good time. It is also reported that the farmers north of Crookston are all at work now and will be through with their wheat seeding by the 20th of this month if there is no farther rainfall. That section of the country has been the wettest in the Red River valley, both last fall and this spring, and if heavy spring rains had continued there would have been a very small acreage of wheat sown. Mr. Snell says the prospects are very good at the present time and that the seeding story in all parts of the valley will have been told and that it will be a pleasant one to listen to if the weather continues favorable.

HAS SOME FINE TAMWORTHS.

Monday the E. D. Childs company shipped a pure bred Tamworth boar to W. J. Virtue, president of the Medford creamery at Medford, Minn. The animal was a very fine specimen of the celebrated so-called "bacon breed" of hogs, and was from "Sunflower," registered as 672, and sired by "Nimrod," 2d 664. It is a fact not generally known in this locality that the Riverside farm has the finest and best herd of the justly celebrated and pure bred Tamworth hogs this side of St. Paul. And it is a significant compliment that people from the south part of the state should come to the Red River valley for their breeding stock of hogs.

HIS FACE IS GONE.

Angus McDonald Applies an Axe to "Bulldog" Reagan's Head.

HAS NO CHANCE TO LIVE.

After Felling Him McDonald Wanted to Chop off Reagan's Head.

Cass Lake, May 10—(Special.)—"Bulldog" Reagan is dead as the result of the wounds inflicted upon him with an axe by Angus McDonald. The latter is under arrest, although the entire community is in sympathy with the prisoner.

The village of Cass Lake was the scene of a bloody conflict yesterday afternoon, which will cost the assailant his life. A lumber jack known as "Bulldog" Reagan, who has spent most of the spring at that place, was passing down street while somewhat under the influence of liquor, and meeting a man named Angus McDonald declared his intention to "put the boots" to him, which he attempted to do. McDonald had an axe in his hand with which he struck Reagan over the head, but not with sufficient force to fell him. Following this action up he turned the bit of the axe and dealt Reagan a terrible blow, cutting the side of his face off and felling him to the ground. Apparently completely frenzied, McDonald laid his axe down, straightened Reagan out and was apparently about to chop his head off when bystanders interfered and took him away. Reagan was taken to a hotel and medical attendance summoned, but it is not thought likely he will survive but a few hours. Sentiment is strongly in favor of McDonald as Reagan has at all times been "looking for trouble" and has created a great many disturbances.

People in this city who know Reagan are of the opinion that he only got what he has long deserved, even though the result may prove fatal.

WILL NOT STRIKE

ST.PAUL BUILDERS' EXCHANGE MODIFIES ULTIMATUM

St. Paul, May 11.—The lock-out of union carpenters threatened in an ultimatum from the builders' exchange will not take place. Committees of the builders' exchange and of the carpenters union, vested with power to act agreed at a meeting upon rules that are expected to promote amicable relations. Each side made concessions.

The builders' exchange modified its ultimatum, demanding the withdrawal of the carpenters' union from the building trades council to the extent that the council shall have no power to order out the carpenters on sympathetic strikes.

A possible hitch in teh proceedings is that the building trades council may refuse at its meeting Monday night to ratify an agreement that contemplates curtailment of its powers.

An important provision in the agreement signed contemplates a permanent arbitration board coposed of five members from each side.

KNEW THEIR CHIEF.

AND THOUGH A LITTLE ROILY, INDIANS OBEY ORDERS.

A dozen or more Indians, all more or less under the influence of fire water, arrived over the Great Northern this morning from the White Earth reservation, and for a time it looked as though Crookston would be treated to an old time war dance. The redskins swayed about on the depot platform like so many willows in a gale of wind. Conductor Hank Murray became slightly alarmed lest something might happen and forthwith sent for Steve Withey. As soon as he appeared the drunken devils encircled him and in a short consultation, which they held with their chief in Indian language, they promised to be good and molest none of the pale faces of Crookston. The great chief then bade them take the next train and hie themselves to Fosston, where they are to work on the log drive, and everyone of them obeyed the orders from headquarters.

CONDUCTOR KILLED.

STRUCK BY PASSENGER TRAIN THIS MORNING.

Freight Conductor Mitchell of the Great Northern was struck this morning at Larimore by a passenger train and died two hours later. He came here from Terre Haute, Ind., two weeks ago, where he has a family.

Wise and Otherwise.

I heard a sermon not long ago on Sabbath observance, and yesterday I picked up a paper and read a lengthy article on the same subject. Now I'm a New Englander, and was brought up to strictly observe the Sabbath, and so I never flinch or get disturbed over what the preacher or any body else says about keeping one day in the week holy. But I do wonder why all the attacks are made upon places of business and business men, and nothing ever said about the women who manage the domestic machinery and have it all their own way at home. I think if the majority of kitchens could be exposed to view on Sunday we would find women as hard at work there on that day as any other. Savory odors pervade the whole house and the evidences of a big dinner abound on every side. Maybap an air of sanctity prevails in the family rooms and the Bibles are all in sight awaiting the hour when the family will start for church. But in the kitchen the roasting and cooking goes on until one o'clock or later when a sumptuous dinner is ready and the pious family returns to partake of it Meanwhile talking over the minister, the choir, the new costumes and perhaps the sermon,; that is if they found anything in it to criticise. When dinner and after dinner naps are over the carriage or bicycles are brought round and out they go to breathe the fresh air, count the new houses, and make comparative estimates of their cost. Afterward they change off to a running comment on the people they met, and some they didn't meet, and another Holy Sabbath day is added to history.

—o—

What is lacking in our twentieth century methods of Sabbath keeping? Who cleared away that table, washed all those dishes, picked up all the scattered books and papers and put the rooms in order again? Why "the girl" of course. She expects to work Sunday. We give her all the time there is after she has finished her duties to go walking with her beau or visit her friends. I supose I am out of date—old maids usually are—but my mother used to keep help and she usually managed to have them go to church every Sunday morning if they wished to. I well remember her saying after breakfast, "now Mary, if you want to go to church I'll help you a little this morning and the dinner is so nearly prepared that need'nt keep you home."

—o—

Mary seldom refused to accept this invitation and afterward planned Saturday's work accordingly. I feel sure she had more faith in my mother's piety than under the new way of Sunday keeping. If she never "enters in at the straight gate" it will not be because her mistress kept her out of it, by leaving her home to hurry and worry in a hot kitchen, tempted in her resentment to break the dishes as well as the Sabbath. I fancy I hear my ladies say "but my husband expects a big dinner on Sunday and consequently he must and will have it." I spoke in the beginning how prone we were to lay this thing to the men, and here it is cropping out again. Not only what they do themselves along this line (and that is certainly enough) but your Sabbath breaking laid at their door as well.

—o—

Well, like all bad habits and customs the correcting is not done in a day. Now mothers, you who have boys, may make the way easier for your son's wives by starting the reform in this generation. Have simpler dinners but good ones too. Do more of Sunday's work on Saturday and a start in the right direction is made. Can you do it? Will you do it?

—o—

Verily the artistic vies with the natural these days for an innate desire of the people follows closely in the wake all the trees and plant life about us, and ere the leaves and flowers are unfolded, the hands that wield the paint brushes and hang the paper will have beautified and ornamented many a Crookston home and business place. Improvement is rife throughout the length and breadth of our city. Experts and amatures are all striving toward the same end, and probably will reach it with about the same degree of satisfaction. What woman is there among you who can endure life without something new or a little changed after house cleaning has been accomplished? The little paint that was left; isn't it wonderful how many things it will cover? One lady goes so far as to decorate her water barrel, her wash tub, and even her dust pan with that little. I think it was far betterthanlettingit go to waste, even if her husband did make fun of her. I like the woman who can do things anyway. She escapes a whole lot of worry and waiting for "a man." It doesn't hurt her one bit either and in average circumstances she gets it so much sooner too.

NO MORE FUSION.

Minnesota Populists Decide They Want No More Democratic Support.

POPS TAKE OFFICIAL ACTION

But Lively Fight in Prospect Between the Various Factions.

No more national fusion!

This is the substance of a brief resolution unanimously adopted at a recent meeting of the Minnesota Populist central committee, and the promoters of the action declare that it the forerunner of similar action in every state in the union where the people's party is still enough of a figure to exert any influence.

However, there is a lively fight in prospect between the factions. At the head of those desirous of a continuation of the policy of the past are such men as Charles A. Towne, of Minnesota, and Senator Allen of Nebraska. On the other side are National Chairman Marion Butler and Senator Pettigrew of South Dakota, as the leaders.

Mr. Bryan is in sympathy with those who are endeavoring to promote a complete cementing of the democratic and populist parties.

Some one has called a conference upon this question at Omaha the latter part of this month. Plans will be discussed for the final absorption of the populist party by the democracy.

The move for complete disunion in a national sense originated with a Minnesota man, Z. H. Austin, at that time secretary of the Minnesota state committee, and now the Minnesota member of the populist committee. Last fall Mr. Austin penned a letter to National Chairman Butler in which he set forth his opinion that a continuation of the practice of fusing upon the democratic ticket could only result ultimately in the obliteration of the populist party.

Mr. Austin argued that the democrats of the east would never consent to vote for a democrat tainted with populism, while on the other hand, the populists of the west and south would never consent to follow the leadership of a candidate forced upon them by the democracy. In ths nature of things the candidate was bound to lose votes at both ends, and that meant certain defeat. Fusion locally, argued Mr. Austin, was a good thing. It brought out the party vote and thus kept up the party organization. It permitted the southern populists to fuse with the republicans, while those of the north fused with the democrats. In every way it operated to the benefit of the populists.

Chairman Butler in the main, approved the suggestions, but the matter had been taken up too late for action in time for the last campaign.

The resolution adopted at the recent meeting of the populist state central committee is the beginning of the campaign which Mr. Austin and his friends intend making. Forty members of the committee, including Chairman Lawson, were present and the sentiment was unanimous.

Since the adoption of the resolution by the Minnesota committee there has been another exchange of letters between Messrs. Butler and Austin. The latter wrote to inform the national chairman of the action taken and called attention to the fact that it was along the path outlined in letters exchanged a year ago. Chairman Butler replied fully endorsing the action of the Minnesota state committee and expressing the hope that other states will follow the example.

"An independent people's party presidential ticket in the next campaign is absolutely necessary," says Chairman Butler.

Mr. Austin also communicated the news to Senator Pettigrew and received from him an emphatic endorsement, and inasmuch as both Butler and Pettigrew are to be at Omaha it is evident that the Bryan and Towne element is not to have its will without a struggle.

"Crying for the Moon"

Has become a proverbial phrase to express the futility of mere desire. There are a great many people who think it is as useless to hope for health as to cry for the moon. They have tried many medicines and many doctors, but all in vain.

A great many hopeless men and women have been cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery; people with obstinate coughs, bleeding lungs, night-sweats and other symptoms of disease which if neglected or unskillfully treated find a fatal termination in consumption.

"Golden Medical Discovery" has a wonderful healing power. It increases the nutrition of the body, and so gives strength to throw off disease. It cleanses the blood from poisonous impurities and enriches it with the red corpuscles of health. It is not a stimulant, but a strength giving medicine. It contains no alcohol, neither opium, cocaine, nor any other narcotic.

Sometimes the extra profit paid by inferior medicines tempts the dealer to offer a substitute as "just as good" as "Discovery." If you are convinced that "Discovery" will cure you accept nothing else.

"I was in poor health when I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's medicine," writes Mr. Elmer Lawler, of Volga, Jefferson Co., Indiana. "I had stomach, kidney, heart, and lung trouble. Was not able to do any work. I had a severe cough and hemorrhage of the lungs, but after using your medicine a while I commenced to gain in strength and flesh, and stopped coughing right away. Took about six bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' then, and last spring I had Grippe, and it settled on my lungs, leaving me with a severe cough. I had the doctor, but he didn't seem to help me any; so I commenced your medicine again and took three or four bottles of the 'Discovery' and two vials of Dr. Pierce's Pellets, and that straightened me up. I feel like a different person. I gladly recommend your medicine to all sufferers, for I know it cured me."

THE HECK MURDER

Coroner's Jury Meets Again To-day to Complete Its Work In the Case.

THE BODY BURED TODAY.

East Grand Forks Police Make Little Effort to Apprehend Murderer.

County Attorney Rowe and Coroner Chesterman left this morning for East Grand Forks, to conclude the hearing of testimony in the Heck murder case, which was postponed last Monday until today, in order to obtain, if possible, additional testimony leading to the identification of the slayer of the dead man.

According to instructions received from John Heck, of Ripley, Ohio, a brother of them urdered stranger, the authorities of East Grand Forks yesterday afternoon buried the remains in the cemetery at Grand Forks.

The investigation continued all the forenoon and up to the time of going to press the end is not in sight. Some new testimony has been secured connecting several parties who were last seen in Heck's company, with the crime, but those parties have since left the city and no effort was made to apprehend them. In fact there seems to be little interest taken in the matter on the part of the East Grand Forks police.

Asked as to this one member of the force expressed himself about as follows: "Since the law passed at the recent session of the Minnesota legislature went into effect the policemen are allowed no mileage fees in any case whatsoever. We have investigated the case and traced the man Heck on the night of the murder till five o'clock in the morning, when he left a certain saloon in company with two men, strangers in the city, and who cannot be located without considerable expense, if at all. We cannot be expected to spend our own money in running down the guilty parties when we could never expect to get it back. In a case of this kind an officer is liable to strike several wrong scents before he strikes the right one, and unless his expenses are to be paid by the county. it is not likely that he will be disposed to spend his salary on a wild goose chase. If a reward was to be offered, a man might take his own chances in trying to capture it, but unless something of that kind is done the police of East Grand Forks will not spend much time driving through the country running down clues. The law referred to is one of the best for criminals that was ever passed, as the police will not work hard and spend their own money and let the sheriffs reap the reward." As long as these conditions prevail there is a small chance of Heck's murderer coming to justice, unless the county authorities take up the matter and make a desperate and systematic effort to locate the guilty party or parties.

TAKES EXCEPTION.

TO JOURNAL'S DIVERSIFIED FARMING DOCTRINE.

Editor Journal:—I see in the last issue of your paper the high price butchers have to pay for beef and pork, and the farmers have almost nothing to sell in that line.

I have brought good beef stock to Crookston and Grand Forks in the month of May and could not get $2.25 per hundred live weight.

The farmers are buying their potatoes now and are paying 60 cents per bushel. Last year I planted seven acres and I got 163 bushels at a cost of 54 cents per bushel. I know some good farmers that could not save any of their potatoes last year. In the spring of 1900 I hauled potatoes to Crookston and sold them at 15 cents per bushel.

I have farmed here for 21 years, and had some experience in farming before I came to this country. Now, diversified farming looks very well on paper, but the farmer that has to hire his help and lives ten miles from town will have to find a better market than Crookston or Grand Forks in order to make diversified farming pay.

—Robert Casmey.

ST. CLOUD AT THE EXPO.

SCHOOLS AND QUARRIES WILL BOTH BE REPRESENTED.

The St. Cloud public and Normal schools will be represented at Buffalo by striking exhibits. Dr. Shoemaker, superintendent of the St. Cloud city schools, has secured from the commission the third largest space alloted to any school in Minnesota, getting an increase from 50 to 120 feet. The Normal school is already busy preparing its exhibit, as is also the high school, and both will prove an excellent advertisement for St. Cloud's educational institutions.

In this connection it may be stated that James MacMillan, superintendent of the exhibits from Minnesota, spent Tuesday in St. Cloud interviewing the people relative to a handsome exhibit of St. Cloud granite at the exposition. All the city is asked to do is to prepare the exhibits and place them on the cars, Mr. MacMillan giving the assurance in advance that they will be given prominent positions in the mines and mining building. A meeting was held by the business men in the evening and the importance of representation was explained by the visiting commissioner. As a result, numerous samples of the various colored granite will be sent to Buffalo at an early date.

CASS LAKE SYMPATHY

SAID TO FAVOR BULLDOG REAGAN'S MURDERER.

A traveling man who arrived in the city Friday evening from Cass Lake states that while there he viewed the remains of the dead man, and describes the gash inflicted with an ax in the hands of Angus McDonald, as an ugly cut. The entire half of one side of the face was severed from the head, and extended from the top of Reagan's head to the jugular vein, on the neck. Hundreds of people who knew the dead ruffian during life time viewed the remains of the dead man, which were laid to rest in an empty store building, but none without a shudder of horror. No inquest will be held and the remains will be buried at the expense of the county.

McDonald was taken to the county jail at Walker to await the action of the grand jury. When the sheriff left with him a dozen or so representative business men of Cass Lake bid him farewell, and assured him that he would have their unanimous support for acquittal at the trial, as everyone was of the opinion that McDonald acted in self defense. The prisoner, it is stated, is at times not entirely compos mentis, and was at one time in an inmate of an insane asylum.

This fact, coupled with the well known unsavory reputation of McDonald's victim, will be made use of by the defense. The night before the tragedy Reagan was ordered by the city marshal to leave the town, and upon his refusal to comply, he was arrested and jailed. While in his cell he threatened to kill the marshal and the entire police force, if he ever got a chance at them, and the marshal found it necessary to club him almost into insensibility before he could quiet him for the night.

Reagan was well known as a desperate character in this city, having lived here a few months a year ago last fall.

NEW NATIONAL BANK.

IS SOON TO BE OPENED BY WARREN CAPITALISTS.

The following interesting bit of news was found in a Washington dispatch in Friday's Minneapolis Journal, says the Warren Sheaf.

"The comptroller of the currency has approved the application of F. W. Flanders, W. F. Powell, G. C. Winchester, E. F. Whitney, William J. Brown and H. L. Wood for authority to organize the First National Bank of Warren, Minn., with a capital of $25,000."

The Sheaf has interviewed some of the promoters mentioned above and learns that the new bank is a sure go, and that the stock is nearly all subscribed right here at home. Men of means are behind the undertaking, and some of those interested are not lacking in experience in the banking business. It is expected that the new bank will be ready for business by July 1, or sooner.

ANOTHER PRISONER.

BEMIDJI SENDS ANOTHER MAN TO OUR COUNTY JAIL.

Sheriff Thomas Bailey, of Beltrami county, arrived from Bemidji last evening, having in custody Edward Golden, one of the men who burglarized Halverson & Richardson's warehouse several nights ago, whom he turned over to Sheriff Sullivan for safe keeping until the grand jury meets at the next term of the district court at the pine city.

Sheriff Bailey is hard on the criminals in his county, and has been very successful in running down a large number of this class since he assumed his official duties in January. In the words of one of the Bemidji prisoners here, "Tom is a terror" on the shady fellows.

WAS DISSOLVED

INJUNCTION AGAINST VILLAGE TREASURER OF BEMIDJI

The temporary restraining order, issued by the district court, pending hearing on application for a permanent injunction against the village treasurer was dissolved Tuesday, says the Beltrami County News, of Bemidji.

The action was brought last March in the name of Wellington Schroeder, alleging that some $26,000 worth of village orders had been illegally issued. Judge Mc Clenahan issued a temporary order restraining the village treasurer from paying any of these orders pending hearing on the application for an injunction. The hearing came up May 2, with the result as above stated.

Much credit is due City Attorney Russel for the able manner in which he handled the case for the city, and the decision reflects much credit upon his ability as a lawyer.

FOR A CREAMERY

Crookston Likely to be Favored With Such an Enterprise.

WITH SKIMMING STATIONS

At Various Outside Points. Business Men and Farmers Should Encourage It.

The extensive advertising that has been given our city during the past few months is attracting wide attention to the advantages which are offered here to a large variety of new enterprises. Our excellent shipping facilities, the unexcelled fertility of the soil of our Red River valley, so large a portion of which is tributary to our city, the rapidly developing conditions of the immediately surrounding country, and many other favorable conditions, all combine to suggest to men seeking locations for new business enterprises, the great importance of Crookston therefor.

Among the prospective enterprises of our city is a large creamery of 20,000 pounds daily capacity. Mr. J. A. Cream Separator company, of Minne- Cream Separtor company, of Minneapolis, and W. A. Marlatt, of Algona, Ia., are in the city in the interest of the proposed creamery, and are making thorough investigation of the situation. They report that so far as they have proceeded their impressions are very favorable to its success. This is a matter that should at once enlist the interest of every business man in the city, as well as of the farmers in the surrounding country. The plan is the same as is operated in other places—to have numerous skimming stations established, and the cream only shipped here to the factory. This enables the farmers to retain the skimmed milk, which is of great value in raising calves and hogs, and relieves the farmers' wives of much of the drudgery of the ordinary dairy work. The plan has been very successful wherever it has been properly tried, and there is no reason why such a factory established here and judiciously handled should not prove mutually profitable to its promoters and its patrons. We trust the gentlemen who have the matter in hand will receive proper encouragement.

FAVOR CREAMERY

WILL BE BENEFICIAL TO FARMERS NEAR HALSTAD

Halstad, by reason of the general prosperity, the industriousness and superior intelligence of its farming community is destined to become a model farm town, says the Halstad Reporter. It is wasteful husbandry for farmers to sell their wheat at 60 cents per bushel and buy flour at $2.40 per 98 pounds and lose all the bran, shorts and middlings. The Halstad people saw this; the village gave a bonus of $1,000 and the result is a $12,000 mill, the best one in the country, and when the farmers take their wheat there, they have the assurance of the best service that is to be had anywhere. A change from the established method is more often the result of necesity than otherwise. For instance, farmers (this is more especially true of farmers in the Red River Valley) will go into dairying and mixed farming only when they find that they can not bear up with wheat farming alone. Not so with the Halstad farmers. They are making money at wheat farming, but they have allowed themselves to be convinced that they can make more at dairying. Hence, they don't wait for some one to take the lead, but go to work with a firm will and strong hand and build and equip a first class creamery. Hendrum, Lee and Shelly have more cows and more grazing land. The land in this county in ranges 46 and 47 is nearly all specially adapted for pasturage. Yet in none of these is there a separator creamery. The Halstad farmers didn't care if there was no creamery nearer than Gary on the east, Moorhead south, Crookston north and Cooperstown west. They build a creamery because they are convinced it would be a good thing.

A VOTING CONTEST

IN WHICH A CROOKSTONITE MAY WIN OUT.

The proprietor of the Hotel Markham at Bemidji, Jos. H. Markham, who recently returned from the West Baden springs, has inaugurated a voting contest among the traveling men's fraternity, by which the fortunate winner is entitled to a trip to the springs, including all expenses, hotel and treatment, for a period of at least two weeks.

The contest is open for six months, and all patrons of the hotel, when paying their hotel bills, are entitled to ballots. Up to the present time four contestants are in the field for the prize, and Cliff (Prunes) Finch of this city has been entered by the traveling men east of Bemidji, and stands an excellent chance to win out. O. E. Ericson, Bert Anderson, Alex Thompson and other knights of the grip from this city are actively interested in Finch's behalf, and if hard licks count for anything, their candidate is certain of his free trip to the springs.

NEED WATCHING.

KEEP YOUR EYE ON LIGHTNING ROD AGENTS.

It is reported that steel range peddlers and lightning rod agents are working the surrounding country selling a cheap quality of stoves and lightning rods at exorbitant prices. When a farmer is unable to pay cash they are always willing to accept his note for the amount and it is usually in this way that these smooth-tongued fakirs do the most of their crooked work, as this note generally turns up later at a near by collection agency for a considerably larger sum than its giver thought he signed for. It would be best for all to have no dealings with any of these wily schemers, as they are usually the worst sinners on this side of hades. A farmer struck by a steel range peddler or lightning-rod agent is often worse off than if struck by lightning.

CONDUCTOR MITCHELL KILLED.

A fatal accident occurred in the yards of the Great Northern at Larimore at about 9:30 Thursday morning, the victim of which was Freight Conductor H. H. Mitchell, who had arrived but three weeks ago from Terre Haute, Ind. Mitchell was coming from his caboose towards the town for his breakfast. It was time for No. 133 to leave and a switch engine was backing on a sidetrack to get out of the way. The hostler in charge of the switch engine talked with Mitchell for a moment and then told his assistant to start up. At the same time he told Mitchell to get out of the way, but the latter did not understand him and a second later he was struck by the engine, carried about ten feet and thrown in the ditch. He was at once picked up and carried to town. An examination showed that he was terribly mutilated. His nose, upper and lower jaws, both shoulder bones and left leg and arm were all broken, and in addition his forehead was crushed in. After suffering terribly he died at 11 o'clock.

SNAKE IN HER STOMACH.

Columbus, O., May 10.—Mrs. Mary Swain of Wooster has been complaining of pains in her stomach for the past six years. A few weeks she commenced treatment with a country physician, who gave her medicine for stomach worms. The remedy brought to light the startling discovery that her stomach contained a snake two feet long. She is suffering from poisonous effects, but will recover.

We are in receipt of the commencement week announcement of the Winona normal school, which will begin May 24.

Twenty thousand cycle path tags had been sold at the city clerk's office in Minneapolis up to last Monday. The cycle path officials expect to sell a total of 35,000 tags during the season.

The trouble they are having in the Twin Cities over the slot machines reminds us of the fact that for some time past our city has been free from these demoralizing and law breaking machines.

An experience of damage suits on account of defective sidewalks has resulted in the adoption of a resolution by the city council of Faribault, prohibiting the building of wooden sidewalks inside the city limits. All sidewalks hereafter built in Faribault must be of cement, brick or stone.

The Fargo Call published a very detailed and specific description of various points of the female anatomy, which, having been taken up and editorially endorsed by our Second street contemporary, must now stand as authentic. No one will dispute the authority of the endorsement.

As will be seen by an article in another column of this paper, the supreme court of North Dakota has decided that the city of Fargo had no right to make a contract with the electric light company for a longer period than 1 year. This enables the city to secure its service at $7.45 per arc light and save $2,000 a year by so doing.

The new "blue book," or legislative manual was issued from the press on Thursday, and the first edition copies sent out to the members of the legislature. The second edition will soon follow, and some corrections will be made before it is issued. The new manual contains a map showing the new districting of the state for congressional purposes, and the usual features, historical and descriptive.

The village council of Felton held a special meeting last Friday evening and to the great surprise of many of the citizens adopted a resolution to grant no licenses to sell intoxicating liquor during the year, by a unanimous vote. The question of license or no license had not been made an issue at the election, and the anti-license situation developed unexpectedly.

A tuberculosis congress is to be held in New York city May 15 and 16, and Gov. Van Sant has appointed the following named medical men to represent Minnesota: Dr. H. Longstreet Taylor, Dr. John F. Baker, Dr. E. W. Buckley, Dr. Burnside Foster and Dr. J. C. Markoe, St. Paul; Dr. K. C. Bartlett, Dr. J. E. Bell, Dr. J. H. Dunn and Prof. W. A. Hall, Minneapolis; Dr. J. L. Camp, Brainerd; Dr. G. S. Waltam, Warren; Dr. J. B. McGaughey, Winona; Dr. J. C. Boehm, St. Cloud, and Dr. E. C. Caine, Morris.

Whatever may have been the character of the man who was murdered at Cass Lake recently, that in itself furnishes no justification for the crime which has been committed. It can be justified only on the ground of self defense. Whether such justification existed or not we do not know. But we do not consider the condition of sentiment in regard to the crime and toward the criminal, which is said to exist at the scene of the tragedy as at all creditable to that village.

It is more than hinted, that the only reason the Times was so strenuously opposed to Nat Campbell's election as mayor and opposes his political preferment in every way, is the fact that McKenzie wants to run for congress himself. And as Campbell's democratic popularity increases, his own (McKenzie's) hope has great difficulty in maintaining its vitality. Comparative prestige between democratic candidates, however, will cut very little figure in the future campaign. The voters of the Ninth district are now too widely awake to justify democratic hopes.

Commenting on the country's financial situation, the Omaha Bee says: "Today our surplus capital is believed by experts to be increasing more rapidly than that of any other nation in the world, and as to this there can be no reasonable doubt. The standard rate of interest has fallen so low that 3½ per cent is looked upon as an excellent investment, and government bonds command a premium that represents considerably less interest return than that. We are upon a gold basis and are receiving from our mines new supplies aggregating almost $100,000,000 a year. Our industries and commerce are steadily growing. We have in the last twenty years greatly broadened our agricultural resources and with this have come an increase of population and a diversification of industry which is transforming the interior and incidentally reducing the question of harvest accidents to a very different position from what it used to occupy."

Late official reports show that there are now 22,000 pupils enrolled in the various Indian schools of the United States, which is an increase of 1,766 over last year. The average attendance for the past year has been 20,181 which is an increase of of 1,865 over last year. Besides the Indian children attending reservation schools, about as many more are attending non-reservation schools. This is the first year in which the government has not paid money to religious organizations for tuition of Indian pupils at contract schools. This year the showing is that 2,402 pupils who formerly attended contract schools are now in attendance upon mission schools that are conducted by religious organizations at their own expense. The department estimates that of 34,000 Indian children of school age about 25,000 are attending school.

The latest reported invention is the product of a South Dakota genius whose morning slumbers were seriously interfered with by the early vocal exercises of an ambitious rooster. He noted that the rooster was obliged to stand on his perch to get a good grip to offset the recoil of the crow. The inventor has made a moveable ceiling to the hen house and after the hens have retired he drops this ceiling nearly to the top of their heads. When the rooster awakens at 2:10 a. m. to uncoil his first crow, he finds the ceiling too low for him and is unable to give it voice without hopping to the floor. This he is too sleepy to do. When he discovers his predicament he postpones his vocal exercises until the reasonable hour, when he arises for the day. People who are troubled in this way would do well to look into this simple but effective preventive.

A convention of grain growers is to be held in St. Paul June 11 to 15, for the purpose of effecting an organization which shall be empowered to regulate the flow of grains, especially wheat, to market, and in that way overcome the difficulty that exists every year of a crowded market and low prices just at the time when most of the farmers are forced to sell, and whatever of better prices exist at any time during the crop year is reserved for a time when practically all the grain has been marketed. The object is a worthy one and we are not inclined to assert that it is impossible to accomplish it. But it is an extremely difficult one to accomplish, and will require all the wisdom which is available among the persons interested to formulate a successful plan of control. The Journal is in close sympathy with the project and its outcome will be watched with interest.

The Fargo Forum says: "Why is it not a good time for Fargo's business men to come together and organize a Business Men's Union, or Chamber of Commerce? Letters of inquiry are coming every day, and it's too much for individuals to be taxed the time to make proper inquiry and response. It has been suggested that the mayor interview some of Fargo's pushers, and see if an organization cannot be formed. Last week a letter came asking what could Fargo offer for a manufacturing plant? How is fuel? Has the city suitable sites, and other prerequisites? Another party writes the Forum, "Have capital, experiences and only need customers and a live community to induce myself and partners to open a jobbing dry goods house, where prospects warrant it." There is one thing Fargo ought to have: a wholesale dry goods establishment. All these and other beneficial institutions can be had, if Fargo will act as her people should."

Similar conditions exist here in Crookston, and furnish a substantial reason why a Chamber of Commerce or a Commercial Union should be organized and get to work here.

We publish in another column a communication from a correspondent, who takes exception to the doctrine of diversified farming, in which the Journal is an earnest believer. We grant that there is liable at any time to occur some combination of circumstances which will cause the existence of abnormal conditions in the market in any line of products. Such conditions occur sometimes in one line and sometimes in another, and at such time the market demand and the price may be so depressed that they cannot be disposed of at first cost. Not only is this true of the products of the soil, but it is occasionally true of different products of the factory. Last year's conditions were exceptionally severe for the potato crop. And where the attempt was made to raise them on low land the crop did not prove remunerative. But where planted on surface drained land and properly taken care of, we believe they were profitable in every case. We do not contend that a system of diversified farming will yield as large returns every year as may be realized from an exclusive wheat crop in a year when everything is favorable for its culture, big yields are realized and large prices received. But we contend and believe we can maintain that all things considered, the safest and most profitable course for our farmers to follow, is a conservative system of diversifying their products, and that in a long term of years the steadiest, and most healthful advancement, and the most satisfactory results will be realized in that way. We shall say more of this hereafter, and also invite our readers to express their opinions pro and con on the subject.

CONGRESSIONALLY.

The Rosean Times says: "This congressional district is not without aspirants who feel a few central hairs are pointing in that direction from the top of their craniums. This applies to the republican candidates, for it must be known that a fusion candidate is only chosen at breakwater time. The republicans have Halvor Steenerson of Polk, Grindeland of Marshall, Berg of Roseau, Comstock of Clay and Valentine of Wilkin to choose from, with several more counties to hear from. It will be a warm convention fight next year."

But the Journal would call the attention of the Times to the fact that under the primary election law passed by the last legislature, the nominations are not made in convention, but at the primary polls.

A SCHOOL EXPERIMENT.

Slow, backward and discouraged children in school often constitute a hindrance to the progress of the brighter pupils in the grade to which they belong, and impose a severe strain upon the teacher. To remedy this difficulty an experiment is being tried in the schools at Batavia, N. Y., which seems well worth a trial elsewhere. Superintendent Tomlinson of that place describes the experiment in the Independent. He says:

"The grades are still as they were, and there has been no change in the course of studies. Nor did they find it necessary to make any addition to the expense; on the contrary, some saving has been made in reducing the number of rooms. The experiment consisted in trying the use of larger grade rooms, into which twice the usual number of children could be assembled under two teachers, one teacher to conduct all the classes and the other to give all her time to ministration among the slower and more backward pupils. The effect was instantaneous in removing all discouragement, in putting work and confidence into the laggards, in giving an onward movement to the grades, in relieving the teachers of all strain, in ending the after school drudgery, in ending home work, in promoting health and happiness in all connected in any way with the school, and in the most astonishing changes in statistics. Greater numbers moved forward, higher scholarship was attained and a most remarkable congestion began to take place in the high school.

MUSIC HATH CHARMS.

The Iowa state board of control has been investigating the power of music as a promoter of discipline in the reformatory institutions of the state, and have become convinced that it is a very effective agency in this direction.

Superintendent Fitzgerald, of the reformatory for girls at Mitchelville was the first one to experiment in the matter and organized an orchestra of twenty-five pieces among the girls. And this orchestra has developed so much ability it is proposed to have it appear at the state fair in August. The influence of music has proved so salutory in that institution that already orchestras have been organized in all the Iowa state reformatory institutions except the penitentiaries, and the state board are anxious to inaugurate the experiment there also.

The improvement at Mitchelville is the more noteworthy as the present superintendent went into the institution shortly after the riots there two years ago. At that time it was thought that it would be necessary to transfer the most unruly girls to Anamosa, where provision was made by the last legislature for an industrial reformatory for women. It is said now that transfers are not necessary and under present conditions none will be made. The institution at Mitchelville has 182 inmates, its full capacity.

The legislature will be asked to appropriate $15,000 for an additional cottage there. "Until recently," says Judge Robinson, "I have had serious doubts whether girls were not harmed rather than helped by being sent to Mitchelville. I am convinced conditions now are such as to insure their improvement."

FISHING FOR SUCKERS.

It is very strange that anybody should be so gullible as to respond to the "confidential" circulars which are frequently received by individuals through the mail. But the fact that the business has been kept up so long, is evidence that there are many people not only sufficiently credulous to believe they can purchase such skillfully executed counterfeit money as to be safe in using it, but are sufficiently unscrupulous to avail themselves of the opportunity. The circulars sent out vary slightly from time to time in the way they are worded, but the same supposedly alluring bait—"something for nothing," is always made use of to secrete the hook with which the villainous self claimed counterfeiter hopes to land his victim. An offer to send "sample of goods" is always made, and replies by letter are forbidden. In some of these circulars recently received at the Crookston office the recipients are instructed to wire Clayton B. Foster, Plainfield, New Jersey, "send word to No. 530 Broadway" in case of acceptance of the offer, and the promise is made that samples and full instructions will then be sent. A few years ago a certain young man who got his mail at Euclid succeeded in getting one of the so-called samples, which proved to be a genuine one dollar bill. He was wise enough to understand that he was one dollar ahead of the game and quit at that. But ordinarily no samples are ever sent. The victim if he begins to nibble in good faith is lured along until he is persuaded to meet the sharper, and after losing his money cannot expose the game without exposing his own intended criminality. The fact is, these sharpers are not counterfeiters and have no counterfeit money in their possession. But they rely upon arousing the cupidity of the persons they address, sufficiently to enable them to get hold of their money.

PAROLE OF THE YOUNGERS.

The parole of Jim and Cole Younger is by no means an assured fact. The law, which without doubt was framed for their especial benefit, requires that not only must the prison board favor the parole, but it must be unanimously sanctioned by the board of pardons, consisting of the governor, the chief justice and the attorney general. The prison board having acted favorably in the matter it now remains for the board of pardons to consider, and it seems likely that one or more of these gentlemen will refuse to concur in the parole. The Journal took the position a year ago, in reference to the pardon of these convicts, that such pardon ought not to be granted. We are of the same opinion still. And while perhaps a parole may be a little less objectionable than a pardon, we take the same position in regard to it as to a pardon. In our consideration of the matter we do not concede that the question of the sufficiency of the punishment they have endured, their present characters, or the direct peril of the public by their liberation have anything to do with the case. Nor in opposing their liberation are we animated by a spirit of vengeance or desire to retaliate upon the unfortunate men for the crimes they committed. It is with us simply a question of how can crime be most effectually discouraged, and safety to the people be most effectually secured. This object so far as it relates to the question in hand can best be subserved by carrying out the penalty originally pronounced. We deprecate most heartily all tendency to sentimentalism over criminals. We would not withhold from them any influence or encouragement to repent of their crimes, and adopt lives of righteousness. And having so repented, we would throw around them all possible help to live righteous lives. But to do this they need not be liberated and restored to the citizenship from which their crimes have ostracised them. And viciously inclined men, and men who allow themselves to be controlled by passion, should be taught that when they voluntarily commit crimes of a desperate character, they can never be restored to the same condition of citizenship as they held before the crime.

The commission of a desperate crime should be understood as a voluntary renunciation on the part of its perpetrator to his rights of a citizen, and that its consequences are irrevocable. And all hope of escaping such consequences should be blotted out.

BLUE THURSDAY.

Last Thursday has been designated as "Blue Thursday," and reference to it by such designation in future years will call to mind the wild upward flight of Northern Pacific stock and the downward plunge of other stocks in Wall street, by which hundreds of small capitalists who had been drawn into speculations by the fascination of a suggested possibility of becoming suddenly rich, and had invested the accumulation of years of economy, industry and frugal living only to see them swept away forever. The "Black Friday" of thirty-two years ago became historic through the large number of heavy failures that then occurred. "Blue Thursday" differed from that, inasmuch as no important failure is recorded in connection with it, but hundreds of smaller ones are reported.

And it contains an object lesson which should attract the notice and be remembered by people who are becoming possessed with the speculative mania. The wealth which is acquired as a result of faithful plodding industry and judicious but not parsimonious frugality, is likely to be of substantial benefit to its possessor.

The mania for speculation has seized upon all classes of people. One case which is representative of hundreds of other cases is mentioned of an elderly woman who appeared at the stock exchange and enquired the price of "U. S. steel preferred stocks," and on receiving the information asked for buried her face in her handkerchief, and weeping bitterly, declared she was utterly ruined, having lost every dollar she had in the world. The secretary of the president of one of the largest banks in New York, left the bank shortly after 3 o'clock in the afternoon to catch a train for his home in the suburbs. A friend met him as he was leaving the bank and noticed that he seemed to be broken up about something. Asked if anything was the matter, the bank president secretary all but broke down and said:

"Billy, this damned market has done me up. I went in with every cent I had saved, and every dollar has been wiped out. I'm going home now to make a clean breast of it to my wife, and we'll try to start over again. It took me five years to save up what I've lost in the last three hours. I ought to have known better, but I didn't, and the only thing for me to do now is to take my medicine."

The havoc that was wrought in the fortunes of bank clerks and brokers' bookkeepers and accountants and office boys, and in fact nearly all of the employed in Wall street, is something prodigious. It was the real thing in the way of hard luck stories that one heard that day, and it was easy to see that the wounds which had been inflicted were deep and painful. There was a pandemonium in the stock exchange, and the scenes there were not to be compared with those enacted in the offices where the women trade. As the tickers showed that prices were going down and down until it seemed as if there was no bottom to the market, the women who were gathered around the tickers, ten and fifteen and a score deep, went clean out of their heads and it was pitiful to hear some of the stories they told. Some of them had borrowed money to speculate with and so long as the prices kept advancing they believed that there was practically no end to the money they might make.

THE DATES SET

FOR THE N. D. SPORTSMEN'S TOURNAMENT.

The Grand Forks Herald says that during the past week important action has been taken by the executive committee of the North Dakota State Sportsmen's association, the date of the annual tournament having been set for the 17th of June. At the same time the local club decided that the annual tournament of the local club should be held here on the following dates—the 18th and 19th of June. The tournaments that were held last year were the most successful ever held in the northwest and the attendance was the largest ever noted at similar events.

The program for the tournament has been decided upon, and President W. B. Wood says that it will be one of the best ever shot off in the northwest. The last two days named are open to the world and many from outside the state will attend.

IS AGAIN ARRESTED.

Friday Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Beaver of East Grand Forks were arrested and brought before Judge Sullivan, who gave them thirty days each and they were taken to the county jail last evening by Sheriff Hurst. The husband was charged with drunkenness and his wife was charged with frequenting the basements of saloons. There are those who think that the illustrious couple know more of the murder of Heck than they have volunteered to tell, but there is no positive evidence against them."

The Beavers have been delivered to Sheriff Sullivan and for thirty days at least they will be county boarders. In the meantime it is very likely the authorities will be able to unearth more particulars, which are as yet shrouded in mystery, and which may give them the right clue to the murderer of Chas. Heck.

LUCKY POSTMASTERS.

—The smallpox patient who has been a guest of the township for a month or so, says the Hendrum Review, will be dressed up in a new suit of clothes today and turned loose. It was a case of the genuine kind of smallpox, of that there is no doubt, and the people here have been lucky in being able to keep it confined to the original case.

—Jim Murphy was arrested yesterday by the police on a charge preferred by Ole Narveson accusing him of purloining a time deposit check on one of the local banks. Both parties were in such condition it was found necessary to give them a night to sober up in, and this morning Narveson had a clearer recollection of the occurrences yesterday, and withdrew the charge against Murphy, acknowledging that he had given Murphy the check to get it cashed. Both parties were released with the admonition of Judge McLean that they leave the city, to which they agreed.

—John Ricketson, of Plattsburg, Clinton county, N. Y., father of Mrs. N. S. Gordon arrived in the city Saturday and intends to spend the greater part of the summer in Crookston. Mr. Ricketson state that the people in his part of the Empire state experienced the severest winter for years last winter, and storms played great havoc in the rural districts of New York. When he left home everything was in blossom, a condition which was noticeable all along the line until he reached the southern part of this state. The gentleman is well impressed with Minnesota and its climatic conditions, and almost regrets not having spent the winter in the Gopher state.

—A. J. Lammers, a member of the logging firm of Lammers Bros., was in Cass Lake Monday en route from Duluth to his home at Solway. Mr. Lammers states that his various drives are progressing nicely and that the logging last winter was very good for his firm.

—Inter-Lake Tribune: Brown's Valley) While we are not a very great admirer of Representative Jacobson's style of politics, yet he is popular with the masses, and as a candidate for governor or some other state office would be a better vote getter than John Lind in his palmiest days.

—Review, Adams: There is a dignity about a newspaper advertisement that there is about no other kind. The circular begs at the door for admission to the family. The dodger belongs to the streets or highway. But the newspaper advertisemnt enters the family by right, and it shares the welcome given to the pages which are freighted with the news of the community.

—L. I. Benoit has added to his butcher shop a two horse power electric motor for meat chopping purposes, and as a result of the new improvement he is enabled to cut into mince meat or saussge filling, five hundred pounds of pork or beef per hour. The machine is a great labor saving contrivance and facilitates the making of sausage to an enormous extent. The Crookston Water Works, Power & Light company put in the motor.

$20,000 DAMAGES

Action Brought Against Northern Pacific Railway Co., By Fargo Man.

FOR LOSS OF LEG LAST FALL

Attorney Steenerson, of this City, is Retained by the Plaintiff.

Attorney M. A. Hildreth filed papers in the clerk of courts office Monday in a case which he is bringing against the Northern Pacific Railway company in behalf of Michael Corrigan of Fargo, says the Call, to recover damages amounting to $20,000 for injuries received by Corrigan last fall, which resulted in the amputation of one of his legs above the knee.

It is claimed that Mr. Corrigan, who was employed as car oiler in the Fargo yards by the company, was directed on the morning of November 16, at about 3 o'clock in the morning, to assist in the repairing of a "bad order" car which was standing on a siding. While employed in repairing the car, Mr. Corrigan was forced to get underneath it, in order to do his work properly, and that while so engaged other cars were switched upon the track the "bad order" was standing upon, bumping against it in such a manner that Mr. Corrigan's leg was crushed and mutilated. He was sent to the N. P. hospital in Brainerd, where the limb was amputated.

Mr. Corrigan had been employed for a great many years by the company. He has always borne an excellent reputation and has many staunch friends in Fargo.

Attorney H. Steenerson of Crookston is associated with Mr. Hildreth in the bringing of the case.

HAVING TROUBLE

CLEARWATER LOGGING COMPANY LACKS WATER.

Trouble is staring in the face of the Clearwater Logging company at Solway as a result of the action taken by T. B. Walker. The Minneapolis lumberman (Walker) asked the logging company for the sum of $7,000 for the use of the reservoir dam at that place in getting a "head" in the river for floating purposes, but the company considered this price exorbitant and positively refused to pay the sum asked for.

Walker got even by opening the sluices of the dam and letting out the water, and now the company's logs are in the same position as a barge on a sand bar.

Damage suits may result as a consequence of Mr. Walker's action.

—Duluth News Tribune: A democratic paper says: "If William J. Bryan had been elected last November there would have been no panic in Wall street last Thursday." Certainly not. The panic would have been November 7 and not have been confined to Wall street.

MURDER SUSPECTED

BUT CIRCUMSTANCES FAILED JUSTIFY ARREST.

A rather sensational story comes from Bagley, a small town in Beltrami county, on the Duluth line of the Great Northern. A woman named Lowell died there Tuesday under what was at the time supposed very strange circumstances. John Townsend, who had been seen with her prior to her death, being absent, lent color to the theory that Mrs. Lowell had been foully dealt with, and had fallen a victim to a murderous hand.

County Commissioner Gallagher of Beltrami county caused a warrant to be sworn out against Townsend, charging him with manslaughter, and sheriff Bailey of Bemidji was handed the document for execution. The sheriff went to Bagley and upon investigation became convinced that the dead woman, who had passed away the previous night, had simply died from want of proper care, and that there was absolutely no trace of foul play.

The woman lived about three miles north of Bagley on a farm, and had been keeping company with Townsend, who disappeared about the time she was dying, and has not been seen since.

No effort will be made to apprehend him, as there is no apparent reason for his arrest in connection with the death of Mrs. Lowell.

SMALLPOX PREVAILS

TO AN ALARMING EXTENT ON INDIAN RESERVATION.

Washington, May 15. — Reports reaching the interior department show that smallpox is widespread among the Indians of the Western reservation.

A report Monday from the Cheyenne River Sioux agency, in South Dakota, says smallpox is prevalent throughout that reservation and that many deaths have occurred.

Out of 22 persons quarantined near Pierre, S. D., there has been one death and 16 persons are affected.

Smallpox is raging in the vicinity of Yankton agency, S. D., among the white population.

Reports also reach the agent there that it is prevalent among the Indians at some of the up river agencies, and that numerous deaths have occurred.

At Yankton ten extra policemen have been sworn in as an emergency measure.

Seattle, Wash., May 15.—The steamer Dirigo from Skaguay and way ports arrived here Monday morning bringing news that the people of southeastern Alaska are much exercised over the smallpox scare and are making strong efforts to counteract the effect of it on travel to Lynn canal and way ports.

A public meeting under the auspices of the chamber of commerce at Juneau has been held with a view to taking action to have the quarantine removed by the government.

Vancouver, B. C., May 15.—Dr. McKeichnie, dominion government quarantine officer at this port, has been instructed to reinforce the inspection of steamers arriving from Alaskan ports, countermanding the order recently issued raising the quarantine inspection.

—John Niemeyer, the paint man, is again in the land and is talking crimson and other fashionable colors to his customers on the St. Vincent line today. He intends to return to Crookston tomorrow evening.

IN HONOR OF DEAD.

Arrangements Progressing Nicely for Observance of Memorial Day.

FLORAL TRIBUTE TO SOLDIERS

Who Have Passed into the Great Beyond Before Their Comrades.

Memorial day, by law and universal consent, has become a national holiday and is observed in every city town and hamlet with a religious fervor and patriotism which makes it the most sublime ceremony in recognition of the services and sacrifices of the country's defenders.

In order to give an object lesson on patriotism to the youths of our city, the citizens of Crookston have decided to observe the day in common with members of the G. A. R. post and the W. R. C., in spreading flowers over the graves of the patriotic dead, who offered their lives to their country, upon the altar of freedom and right; and of whom there now remains only the memory of their self-sacrificing devotion and heroic deeds upon the field of battle. For the purpose of preparing a complete program for the occasion, the following committees have been appointed:

On General Arrangement—A. R. Holston, E. R. Ryan, Charles A Hitchcock, L. Ellington and J. H. Ruettell.

On Schools—Profs. Hitchcock, Casey and Sather.

On Vocal Music—Fred Mix, Fred Durand and J. W. Wheeler.

On Platform and Grounds—Frank Jerome.

On Finance—J. E. O'Brien, Chas. A. Hitchcock and G. S. Chesterman.

The Crookston band has kindly consented to donate its services for that day, and together with the fire department they will head the parade, which will be made up of members of the G. A. R. post, the W. R. C., the mayor and city council, citizens, school children, secret societies of the city and visitors.

Comrade Charles Jefferson has been chosen as marshal of the day, but the orator has not yet been decided upon.

The committee on decoration desires to have it known that floral contributions from citizens would be greatly appreciated, and any offerings should be left with the members of the W. R. C. in time for use, the ladies having charge of decoration supplies.

Another meeting is to be held soon in order to arrange the march route and perfect all other unfinished preparations for the proper observance of Memorial day.

MARSHALL WINS.

WAS APPOINTED CHIEF GRAIN INSPECTOR FRIDAY.

L. D. Marshall was appointed chief inspector by the railroad and warehouse commission yesterday. E. S. Reishus will continue in office until Aug. 1, when Marshall's appointment takes effect.

Mr. Marshall is a veteran grain man and is now traveling for the St. Anthony and Dakota Elevator company. While he is a republican of long standing, he has never been active in politics.

The chief deputy inspectors at Minneapolis and Duluth were also named yesterday. Both are Duluth men.

T. W. Eva will fill the bill at the head of the lakes. He is now a member of the board of grain appeals. J. W. Barncard of Duluth succeeds E. W. Knatvold at Minneapolis. These appointments take effect Aug. 1.

The commission was in executive session yesterday on the ore rate case, considering the concessions asked by the roads.

L. D. Marshall, the new chief grain inspector, is a man about 52 years old and has been in the grain business ever since 1880. He is said to be particularly well qualified by reason of his long experience.

Mr. Marshall went to Minneapolis nine years ago and became connected with the St. Anthony & Dakota Elevator company, with which he was associated up to the time of his appointment. Before that he was located in Crookston, being for nine years with the Red River Valley Elevator, and he has a host of friends in the Red River valley.

NOTES FROM EXCHANGES.

Grafton Record: The tail of the coat did it. A Grafton man who was in St. Paul last week with his young son tells the following story on himself, and as he couldn't keep it, we try. He had on one of Jerry Murphy's long tailed black suits and looked pretty smooth. When he got ready to start for home, he stepped up to the ticket window at the union depot and asked for a half fare ticket. The ticket agent hastily reached for a clove to take the sting out of his breath, the general passenger agent of the Soo having lately made him a present, and with a Thursday evening prayer smile on his face, said: "Reverend, please let me see your half-fare permit?" "I'm no preacher," said the Grafton man in an impious tone of voice, "I want the half fare ticket for my boy." "Oh," said the agent as he spit his clove half way across the waiting room, "I thought you were a preacher; I've seen a lot worse looking preachers than you," and he hastily hammered a half-fare ticket and raked in the change.

Mankato Free Press: All does not seem to be happy in the ranks of democracy. George S. Canfield, secretary of the democratic state committee, who has just returned from the east, where he has had a chance to observe some political movements, is reported as saying that in event of the capture of the democratic party by the sound money element, or as he terms it, the reactionary element, the Bryan wing will doubtless form a new organization and enter the field under the radical principles set forth at Chicago and Kansas City, and which has sent it to defeat in the past two presidential elections.

Beltrami News: Mayor Campbell, of Crookston, is being boomed by his friends as the next democratic congressional candidate from the Ninth district, and politicians admit that a democrat would stand a fighting chance. The counties in the new district are Otter Tail, Clay, Wilkin, Norman, Becker, Roseau, Polk, Marshall and Beltrami.

Cass Lake Times: T. R. Johnstone, secretary of the Crookston fire department, was in Cass Lake between trains yesterday consulting Fred Shampine, chief of the local fire department, in regards to sending a representative from here to attend the State Firemen's Convention on June 11, 12 and 13. Mr Shampine stated to the Times last evening that they had not as yet decided upon whom they would send.

—Warren Register: A steamboat line has been established on Thief river and will soon begin to operate between Thief River Falls and Nels Olson's. It will be a great convenience to the people of Thief lake, Rollis and the neighboring towns.

—Ada Index: The other day a Crookston man permitted a strange woman to fall in his arms apparently in a faint. After she had recovered and gone away he discovered he had lost his diamond shirt stud in the operation. The next woman who faints in that vicinity will doubtless drop the entire distance.

—Warren Register: There has been a change of postmasters at Argyle. P S. Nelson, who has held the office for about four years, has resigned and B. S. Buckingham has been appointed his successor. "Buck" is not a giant in physique, but he is nevertheless especially qualified to perform the duties that he will have to discharge as Uncle Sam's official stamp canceller.

—The Minneapolis Journal says: One of the sorest men in Minneapolis is Thos. H. Shevlin, Minnesota's national committeeman. He had been holding 250 shares of Northern Pacific common for an investment, and when the bulge began last week he did not wait for the market to drop off, but closed out the entire line at 115. He made a good profit, but when it went kiting yesterday, somehow Shevlin did not feel satisfied.

CREATE NEW OFFICE

RAILWAY TRAINMEN TO HAVE FOURTH GRAND MASTER

Milwaukee, May 11.—The feature of the convention of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen yesterday was the adoption of an amendment to the constitution creating the office of fourth vice grand master. Grand Master Morrisey gave out a synopsis of his biennial report. During the year 1899 there were 21 new lodges organized and in 1900 there were 32 organized.

In the reports of the grand secretary and treasurer the financial statement shows the organization to be in an exceedingly flourishing condition.

In two years there were 905 death claims adjusted and 411 disability claims paid. The total membership is 45,500, showing a net gain in two years of 12,100 members. Owing to the liberal policy of the brotherhood on the matter of claims, there has been very little litigation.

FASTER SERVICE.

TIME SAVED BETWEEN ST. PAUL AND THE COAST.

St. Paul, May 11.—Both the Northern Pacific and Great Northern this week put into effect faster passenger service between this city and the coast.

The Northern Pacific first North Coast limited covered the 1,912 miles in 21 hours, making 27 miles an hour average time, including all stops.

Track conditions on the Great Northern were similar to those on the Northern Pacific, and 27 8-10 was the average running time.

G. N. INCREASES CAPITAL.

The Great Northern railway Thursday filed with the secretary of state an amendment to the company's articles of incorporation, increasing the capital stock $25,000,000. This was in accordance with the action of the board of directors some time ago.

SWISS ARE COMING

Minnonite Emigration Begins to Alarm Swiss Government.

MAJORTY LOCATING IN MINN.

Prophesy of European War Hastening Movements to Leave Homes.

St. Gall, Switzerland, May 9.—The emigration of Swiss farmers to Minnesota and Wisconsin is assuming such gigantic proportions that the Swiss government has become thoroughly alarmed, and with the aid of the clergy is doing all in its power to discourage and stay the ardor of the emigrants.

An act has been prepared which the federal government will push through to stop this emigration.

The boundless resources and fertility of Minnesota has been painted in such glowing colors to the farmers of this country that they are bent on going to the land of plenty, as they style their destination.

Many of these contemplating leaving their native heath are Minnonite, from the Emmen valley.

These people, whose creed forbids their taking up arms, have been prophesied by one of their leaders that a great European war was imminent.

This prognostication has had for effect that thousands of Minnonites have sold their land and belongings and will flee to the United States.

The majority of these contemplating an exodus have signified their intention of settling in Minnesota.

The federal government's acts has alarmed emigration agents and they are working hard to get the people on their way to Minnesota before it passes the federal legislature.

PECULIAR DISEASE

SLOWLY CONSUMING A THREE YEAR OLD CHILD.

Dublin, Ind., May 11.—Raynaud's disease, of which only two cases have ever been reported to the American physicians, is slowly consuming 3-year old Garnet Jones of Winchester. The malady is described by Dr. Milligan of Winchester. The spinal cord becomes first affected and causes a contraction of the body. The parts diseased finally shrivel and die, dropping from the body. Little Garnet Jones' case is one which attracts much attention.

The boy patient had seemingly excellent health from the time he was born until recently, when the disease suddenly came upon him. It appeared in the form of common hives, the eruptions breaking out on the fingers and toes. Then the eruptions ceased and the fingers became colored, first white, then red, and finally ended by assuming a dark blue and later becoming dead, until they dropped from the child's hands.

HAS ENGAGED ROOMS.

FOR MAYORS AND PRESS REPRESENTATIVES.

Anticipating in advance the great crowds which will be here during the state firemen's tournament, and the resulting scarcity of rooms, Mayor Campbell has already engaged rooms for the press and for some of the mayors who have notified him of their intention of visiting the city.

FIGHTING FRED FUNSTON.

William Allen White will contribute to an early number of the Saturday Evening Post, of Philadelphia, a striking anecdotal article on "Fighting Fred" Funston, the man who captured Aguinaldo. This is the second of a series of remarkable character studies by this brilliant journalist now appearing in the Saturday Evening Post. Mr. White will also contribute to early numbers of the magazine an interesting short serial story dealing with Kansas life.

CURE FOR CANCER.

Centralville, Conn., May 10.—A new cancer cure of undoubted benefit is given to the world by Stephen Griggs of Brooklyn. A traveling man from Hartford was cured by Griggs some months ago. Miss Anda Surrett, a Brooklyn lady, ascribes her cure to Dr. Griggs' method. Dr. Kingsley of Plainsfield has lately been under treatment for an aggravated cancer and is said to be nearly cured. The treatment consists of eating boiled yellow corn and drinking the water in which it is boiled. No other food is allowed during the treatment. At least thirty days is necessary to complete a cure.

R & G CORSETS
NEVER STRETCH

The moderately straight R & G No. 397 was and is the corset of comfort with the essence of style. It is straight enough for the prevailing vogue and curved enough to conform to healthful anatomical lines. In 1900 we were unable to fully meet the demand for straight-front goods and unwilling to resort to any makeshift to meet the conditions. At present, however, considerable additions to our factory facilities enable us to keep the trade supplied with real straight-front corsets at retail prices from $1.00 to $2.50, and also our 397, 197, Empire and other popular numbers. There are over seventy styles and sizes of R & G Corsets—a corset to fit every figure. R & G Corsets are the corsets that do not stretch. Every hairbreadth of stretch is taken out of the goods by means of steam-heated iron forms. This gives a permanency to the right shape and form that will stay in it until the last day you wear it. Every R & G Corset is sold with the understanding that it must give satisfaction to the wearer, or the dealer will supply a new one free of cost. If your dealer hasn't it, send us his name and we will see that you are supplied with what you want.

FOR STATE LIBRARY

Minnesota Historical Society Accumulating Works of History.

DONATIONS ARE SOLICITED

Of Documents of Every Sort Containing Matters of History About the U. S.

The Minnesota Historical society was organized in 1849, the same year with the beginning of Minnesota as a territory, and has accumulated a library of 66,752 titles, which stands in the front rank, as to its extent and value, among the historical libraries of the United States. It is in the state capitol building, and is a free reference library, open daily to the public from 8:30 a. m. to 5 p. m.

The society has taken special care to obtain all published township histories and family genealogies of the United States and Canada. Of township and strictly local histories (but not including county and state histories, biographies and publications of societies,) the number of bound volumes in the library for Maine is 100; New Hampshire, 122; Vermont, 37; Massachusetts, 362; Rhode Island, 48; Connecticut, 128, with considerable numbers of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and all other states, so far as these special histories have been published.

Of American genealogies, this library has 1,214 bound volumes and 531 pamphlets, besides many books of this class published by societies, others giving genealogies of many families collectively, and the genealogical portions of township histories. These collections, free for the use of readers and students, are much consulted for tracing lines of ancestry.

The Minnesota department of the library is contained in five large cases. It includes 1,134 bound books, and about 1,600 pamphlets.

Another department which is much consulted is the complete series of reports of the United States patent office, which fills six cases. All the publications of our national government are received gratuitously, this being designated depository library.

Files of all newspapers published in Minnesota as a territory and state, since 1849, are gathered and preserved by this society. Its number of bound newspaper volumes at this date is 4,516, and its number of Minnesota newspapers, daily, weekly and monthly, regularly received, is 431, these being donated by the editors and publishers, who appreciate the importance of having them placed on file where they will be preserved for all coming time. This department of the library is a priceless treasury of materials for future historians, showing the development of Minnesota, of its counties, and of its separate townships, from their beginning to the present date. The newspaper collection is kept in an extensive fire proof vault, which is a part of the society's rooms in the capitol. It is accessible to all who wish to consult it, and is so arranged that any paper of any date can be readily found.

DONATIONS SOLICITED.

The society desires and is grateful for gifts of books, pamphlets, newspaper files, maps, manuscript narratives, diaries, and original documents of every sort which may throw light on the history of any portion of the United States, and particularly of Minnesota and the northwest.

Especially it is desired to obtain all new publications of township or other local histories and of family genealogies. Many volumes in these departments have been received through donation. If they should not be so available, the secretary wishes to be informed when books and pamphlets of these classes are published, with note of their number of pages and scope and the price for purchase.

Mayor Campbell has received from Secretary Upham the following letter which will explain itself. Anyone having any volumes or documents to contribute can leave them with Mayor Campbell to be forwarded:

St. Paul, Minn, April 29, 1901.

To the Mayor, Crookston, Minn.

Dear Sir:—The library committee of this society desire to secure for permanent preservation in its library, in the state capitol, the published business directories of your city, pamphlets relating to manufactories, or other business of your city and county, also the city and county maps or atlas, and the reports of your city officers during recent years.

Please forward any of these, so far as you may be able to supply them, by express at our expense. If any other expense is incurred to supply these publications, whatever you may be able to gather os issued within the past ten years or longer ago, please inform me and the expense will be gladly remitted, with our thanks for your trouble in this way to add to the records in the State Historical Library.

The enclosed circular will show what our society is doing. Whenever you come to St. Paul, call in and see the library, especially its large collection of books, relating to our state history.

Yours respectfully,

—Worren Upham,
Secretary.

CATTLE SCAB

SHIPMENTS WILL BE PROHIBITED FROM OTHER STATES

State Veterinarian Dunbam of the agricultural college, says the Fargo Call, has written a proclamation which Governor White will cause to be published at once, warning all owners of cattle in the western part of the state to obey the rules and orders of the district veterinarians as regards the ranging and shipments of cattle. This proclamation will call for the close inspection of all stock brought into the state from Canada and other states and will perhaps prohibit the shipment of any cattle into the state from any point for a short time, until the quarantine which will be enforced is raised.

It is said that the disease with which the cattle are affected resembles sheep scab and that the ranches will be forced to dip their stock as the sheep men were forced to dip their sheep for scab a few years ago. It is estimated that it will cost in the neighborhood of $400 to build a vat suitable to dip cattle in and it will cost about thirty-five cents to dip an animal twice. The vats are very large ones and the cattle are dipped by being driven down an incline into the water and out again on the other side. Several ranchmen will build a vat at their joint expense and all the herds within ten miles can be dipped in it.

CLEVER CATCH.

CLAY COUNTY DEPUTY GETS A HOSRE THIEF.

Deputy Sheriff E. J. Murphy of Clay county arrived at Moorhead from Akely, Hubbard county, with James W. Davies in custody. The prisoner is the man who took Chas. Peterson's horse last Sunday and left an old skate in its place. Murphy left for Akely Wednesday morning and about 10 o'clock the same night arrested Davies nearly three miles out in the woods. Murphy traced Davies to Hawley, where he traded his wagon for a buggy and said he was going to Fargo. Instead of going west he drove to Detroit, and from there across country home.

The horse was found in Davies' barn and was left in charge of reliable parties by Murphy. It was a clever piece of work and no time was wasted in capturing Davies, who only reached home the morning of the day he was arrested.

INFORMATION BUREAU.

Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, the founder of the World's Dispensary, has established a free bureau of information and assistance, free to visitors and householders.

The purpose of this bureau is to provide a headquarters for visitors to the exposition; mail may be addressed and delivered. To furnish conveniences for correspondence, such as writing desks, stationery, etc. To provide a list of desirable accommodations for guests which will obviate the tiresome search for lodgings in a strange city. To give information concerning Buffalo and the adjacent points of interest, in order that the visitors may do their sight seeing with economy of time and money. To help visiting friends in any way consistent with the proposed scope of the bureau.

This bureau is located in a beautiful old mansion of Buffalo, at 652 Main street, just opposite the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of which Dr. R. V. Pierce is chief medical director. The free bureau is fitted up with reception rooms, wash rooms, dressing rooms, parlors, and all conveniences for out of town visitors.

WILL CUT RATES

GREAT WESTERN R. R. WILL ADOPT LAST YEAR'S RATES

Chicago, May 11.—Flour rates from St. Paul have again become a subject of contention among the railroads. The pledges made two weeks ago to withdraw all cut rates have not been kept, it is asserted, and more or less demoralization has resulted.

The trouble arises from the unwillingness of the all-rail lines to make a higher rate than the lake and rail lines. Recently traffic in grain has been greatly reduced and there has been a scramble for what business there is in sight.

The Great Western has anounced that it will re-adopt its last year's lake and rail of sixty-five cents to the seaboard in spite of the fact that other lines had agreed on a rate of seventy cents.

NOW PLAY BALL.

CROOKSTON AND THIEF RIVER FALLS OPEN SEASON.

The first game of base ball in this city for this season has been arranged between the Crookston and Thief River Falls nines, and will be played on the local grounds next Monday afternoon, May 13. The first game of the season will undoubtedly draw out a large crowd to watch the work of the local fans particularly, although their nine is not yet fully completed. Thief River Falls is said to have a good nine this season, and a lively game is scheduled for Monday.

AMERICAN Round Washer FIG. 1641.

Actual test has proved beyond a doubt that it will wash cleaner, quicker, with more ease and less injury to the clothes than any machine now in use. We claim that the American Round Washing Machine is the best washer made, and the price is within the reach of all who use a washing machine. Our machine is novel in its construction, being a truncated cone form with the larger dimensions down. This is to prevent the clothes from packing, giving the water free access through the fabric and washes in less time and with less work than the other washers. We use only thoroughly seasoned timber in our machines. There are many washing machines now manufactured and so constructed that wringers cannot be used on them, if so, only a certain kind. On the American Round Washer you can use any kind. Each, without wringer............ $2.47
